CHURCH PEACE LOBBY FINANCED BY RED MONEY

Bishops Help Spend Garland Fund.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE came into possession today of documentary evidence that opposition sponsored by leaders in the federal council of churches and other pacifists to national defense measures has been financed by one of the most subversive aggregations of socialists, communists, and other radicals in the United States.

The evidence discloses that the Committee on Militarism in Education, an organization fighting military training of youth, the World Tomorrow, a radical and pacifist magazine, with both of which the highest officers and other members of the federal council of churches are prominently identified, and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, a radical pacifist body, have been subsidized by the American Fund for Public Service, 2 West 13th street, New York City, better known as the Garland fund.

Gift of Wealthy Radical.

In 1921 Charles Garland, a millionaire radical who later served a prison term for connection with a free love colony, established this fund with a gift of $901,855. His instructions were to distribute it as rapidly as possible.

It has taken more than six years, however, to approximate compliance with the instructions, because the decline in value of the stock of the First National bank of New York city, which chiefly constituted the Garland fortune, swelled the fund to about $2,000,000. All but about $65,000 has now been disbursed in the furtherance of communistic, socialistic and other radical enterprises.

The fund has been disbursed by a board of directors composed of Roger N. Baldwin, Robert W. Dunn, Morris L. Ernst, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Lewis S. Gannett, Benjamin Gitlow, Clinton S. Golden, James Weldon Johnson, Freda Kirchwey, Clarina Michelson, Scott Nearing and Norman M. Thomas. All are radicals of various hues.

Gitlow Now in Russia.

Gitlow is a communist and is now in Moscow in response to a summons to confer with the central governing body of the international organization of communists. He served part of a prison term for subversive utterances during the war but was pardoned by Gov. Al Smith.

Nearing is a communist and Clarina Michelson aligns with Gitlow and Nearing in votes on administration of the Garland fund. Nearing and the Rand School of Social Science, a socialist institution, were indicted in 1918 under the espionage act for publication of his book, "The Great Madness," but Nearing was acquitted, while the school was convicted and paid a fine of $3,000.

The communist party is committed to the overthrow of the present form of government of the United States by force and violence, if necessary and hence is interested in fostering all movements to weaken our national defense.

Thomas a Leading Socialist.

Thomas is the leader of the Socialist party in the United States and was its candidate for President last year. He is opposed to military training, whether in the public schools and colleges or in the citizens' military training camps. He opposed the draft during the war and says he would have been a conscientious objector had he been drafted. He founded the World Tomorrow, which, under his editorship, was repeatedly barred from the mails during the war for seditious utterances.

"In support of capitalism," said the Socialist party with reference to war measures, "we will not willingly give a single life or a single dollar; in support of the struggle of the workers for freedom, we pledge all."

Gitlow is socialistic in viewpoint, though not a member of the Socialist party. Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, an avowed radical and an I. W. W., has resigned from the Garland fund board because of ill health.

Baldwin a Draft Dodger.

Baldwin is director of the American Civil Liberties union, an organization specializing in the legal defense of radicals, which is subsidized by the Garland fund. He is opposed to national preparedness for international peacekeeping resort to force only in repelling invasion or suppressing insurrection or revolution. He served a prison term for resisting the draft.

NORRIS OUSTER REPORT BEATEN IN COMMITTEE

Vote Is 4 to 11; Row Goes to Floor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The row over Andrew W. Mellon, which deadlocked the senate judiciary committee for more than a week on the treasury secretary's right to hold office because of his stock interests in various enterprises, was started toward the senate floor today.

Following the committee's refusal, by a vote of 4 to 11, to adopt the Norris report disqualifying Mr. Mellon under the 130 year old statute and calling on the President to set an example in law enforcement by ousting him, Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], declared he would force the issue on the floor by moving there for adoption of the rejected report.

Vote Against Calling Mellon.

On succeeding roll calls the committee defeated, by a vote of 7 to 9, a motion to reopen hearings with Secretary Mellon as the principal witness and finally divided, 8 to 7, one less than the majority required for its adoption, in favor of the report prepared by Senator Frederick Steiwer [Rep., Ore.].

The Steiwer report holds that Mr. Mellon's stock ownership is not sufficient to bring him within the prohibition of the ancient law barring a secretary of the treasury from any interest in trade or commerce.

Senators J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], and T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], voted with Senator G. W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], the committee chairman, in favor of the latter's report holding Mr. Mellon ineligible.

Eleven Opposing Members.

The eleven senators who voted to reject it were: Senators W. E. Borah [Rep., Ida.], C. S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.], F. H. Gillett [Rep., Mass.], A. R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.], Frederick Steiwer [Rep., Ore.], C. W. Waterman [Rep., Colo.], D. O. Hastings [Rep., Del.], T. E. Burton [Rep., O.], L. S. Overman [Dem., N. C.], W. H. King [Dem., Utah], and C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.].

The eight members who voted for the Steiwer report were Senators Steiwer, Gillett, Deneen, Robinson, Waterman, Burton, Hastings, and Overman.

Senators Borah, King and Dill declined to vote for the Steiwer report and after the meeting it was announced that Senators Borah and King would join in the presentation of a separate report to the senate.

Borah Outlines Contention.

Their report, the Idaho senator declared, will contend that while mere stock ownership can not render a person ineligible for the treasury post, under the statute, the secretary "is compelled to divorce himself completely from advising, counselling, or directing" any business in which he may have stock interest.

"My view," declared Senator Borah, "is that the ownership of stock does not in itself render a person ineligible for this office.

"But, while the ownership of stock does not itself render the person ineligible, any activity or concern in carrying on the business in which he is a stockholder would be a violation of the law.

"The secretary of the treasury under the statute is compelled to divorce himself completely from advising, counseling, or directing the business.

Wants Statute Amended.

"I take the view," continued the Idaho senator, "that the statute ought to be amended and made more specific and more adapted to modern business. The statute was adopted 140 years ago and it is indefinite in the light of present business methods."

Senators Norris, Blaine and Walsh insisted that statements attributed to Mr. Mellon in depositions taken in connection with the Aluminum Company of America litigation disclosed that he has participated actively in the affairs of the Aluminum company.

In his report, which the committee rejected, Senator Norris contended that Mr. Mellon's holdings in several companies including the Aluminum company, the Gulf Oil company and

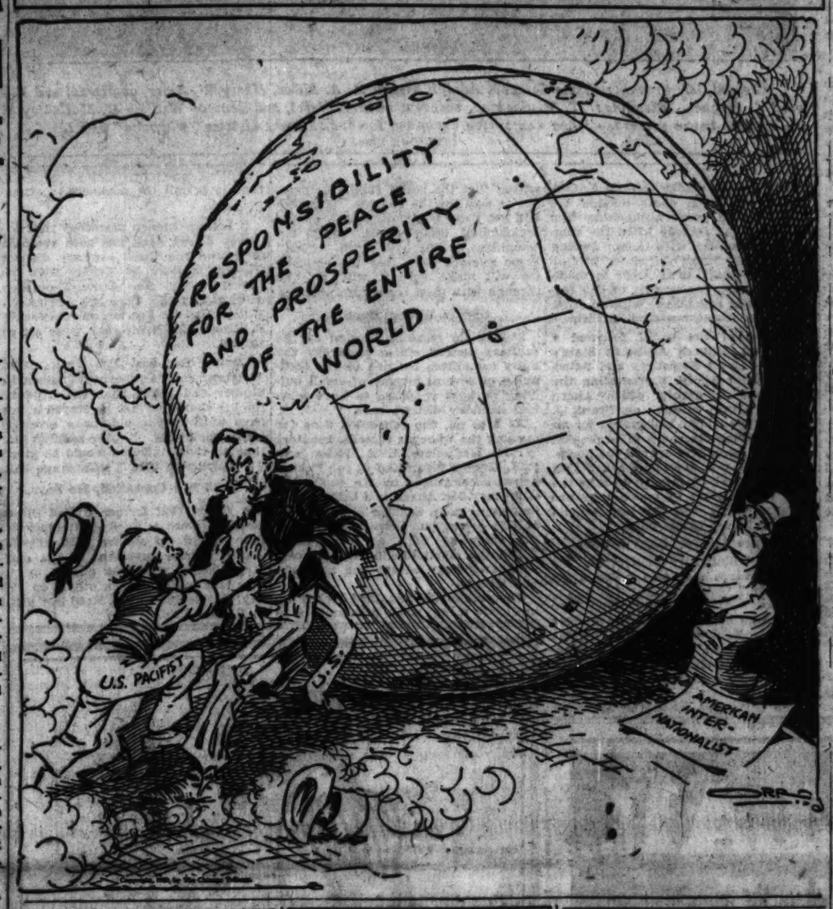
TRYING TO MAKE HIM SHOULDER IT



Berlin Accepts U.S. Solution on War Claims

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, May 4.—Germany today accepted under certain conditions the American compromise plan for the solution of the reparations problem. If the allies agree the finance experts' conference is expected to wind up next week with a complete plan for indemnity.

The American scheme, formulated by Owen D. Young, J. Pierpont Morgan, and Thomas W. Lamont, provides annuities starting in the neighborhood of $390,385,000 as Germany offered, and rising slowly during the first fifteen years, reaching an average around $473,800,000 per annum.

Young Relays Schacht's Offer.

The main life of the annuities is 37 years, although an additional 21 years provides for taking care of allied war debt payments to the United States. A session of creditor powers was suddenly called this afternoon after Dr. Schacht telephoned Mr. Young he would accept the plan with reservations.

"We prepared certain figures of annuities which we showed Dr. Schacht and he made the statement that under certain conditions he was prepared to accept them if the creditor powers accept them," he told the experts.

Kengo Mori of Japan, as a disinterested member, made a strong plea for favorable consideration, and the French, British, Italian, and Belgian delegates then promised to give their immediate consideration.

British, Italians Back U. S.

It is learned that the British and Italians solidly support the American plan, and it is generally believed that both France and Belgium will swing into line rather than face rupturing the conference. Two of Dr. Schacht's reservations are considered important but not insuperable and purely economic and not political.

The American figures are between the allied demands and German offers, requiring the creditors to amend their figures.

Morgan Going to Berlin?

BERLIN, May 4.—[U.P.]—A report that J. P. Morgan had decided to leave Paris May 8 persisted on the Berlin bourse today and was taken to mean that the reparations experts will have finished their work by next Wednesday.

Morgan, the report said, planned to come to Berlin and negotiate a loan to the Reichsbank similar to the revolving credit granted to the Bank of England.

150 SCHOOL CLERKS DISMISSED TO END "TAINT OF POLITICS"

H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, yesterday announced that he had mailed letters to nearly 150 temporarily appointed school clerks notifying them of their removal from the service in favor of a corresponding number of normal school graduates. The substitution will be effective with the reopening of the schools tomorrow after the spring vacation.

Mr. Caldwell's action, which, he says, will remove the last taint of political influence from the school system is a belated enactment of two officially adopted resolutions of the trustees of the board ordering the change. Last December a resolution was passed providing that a normal school education be made a requirement for the position of school clerk. Despite this, numerous clerical positions in the schools continued to be occupied by temporary appointees sponsored by politicians. In the latter part of March Trustee Helen Hefferan presented a resolution relieving all these political appointees to make way for a few of the 1,800 normal school graduates at present unassigned. Although this measure was also passed, to date it had not affected the status of the 150 clerks.

Auto Plunges Into Crowd; Child Killed

Racing to join a political parade, a Negro with a pint of liquor on his hip drove his car through an arterial stop at 149th street and Forsythe avenue, East Chicago, Ind., last night and crashed into a parked automobile which plunged into a crowd along the curb. One child was killed, another's skull was fractured, and a young woman was less seriously hurt.

On Why to Parade.

The Negro, Fred Williams, 38 years old, was locked up at the East Chicago police station, charged with manslaughter and violating the Indiana prohibition law. Williams, an employe of the East Chicago department of streets, was speeding to get into a torch light parade staged in the municipal election campaign.

His victims were Stanley Bober, 9 years old, 4943 Forsythe avenue, East Chicago, who died instantly; Teddy Wieklinski, 10 years old, 4933 Forsythe avenue, who is in St. Catherine's hospital, East Chicago, and expected to die; and Miss Ethel Wehechon, 20 years old, 4857 Magoun avenue, East Chicago, who was severely lacerated and bruised.

One Death in County.

One death in Cook county yesterday raised the county's 1929 motor toll to 245. The victim:

Joseph D'Andrea, 4 years old, 3117 Polk street, fatally injured when he was flung beneath the wheels of an ice truck on which he had hitched a ride near his home. The driver, Caesar Boria, 315 South Central Park avenue, was held.

Pilot Falls 5,000 Feet in Plane; Only Slightly Hurt

Cheyenne, Wyo., May 4.—[U. P.]—Frank H. Hyager, Boeing mail pilot, fell 5,000 feet in an airplane here today, and suffered only minor injuries. The plane was demolished. Yager was testing a plane with a special tail section designed to bring the ship out of a spin more quickly than the regular type. He threw the plane into a spin at 5,000 feet, and battled unavailingly to bring it out of the spin all the way to the earth.

Two Quakes in 4 Minutes Give Los Angeles a Jolt

Los Angeles, Cal., May 4.—[Special.]—Two earthquake shocks were felt in Los Angeles and vicinity at 5:06 and 5:10 this afternoon. No damage was reported.

Customs Men Raid Cruiser; Find No Rum

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—The navy now has had its turn in the grand little game of prohibition.

Seven customs men, it was revealed today, swooped down on the U. S. S. Richmond as she lay at anchor late yesterday and searched her from stem to stern for liquor.

The hunt lasted two hours, and it was pushed forward with the aid of the cruiser's officers. Not one drop was found aboard.

It was a curious greeting for the vessel which came in with the fleet for recreation after long maneuvers off Guantanamo bay. New York had promised a warm reception.

Richmond Gets It!

The Richmond got one. She was playing host to visitors from shore when the customs men paid their own call. The gang plank was down and sightseers were passing back and forth.

Suddenly a coast guard cutter was seen splashing up the Hudson. The boat drew to a halt.

John H. McGill, deputy surveyor, and six men came aboard. McGill called for Capt. H. W. Osterhaus and told him they had received information there was liquor aboard.

"Go ahead and search," said Capt. Osterhaus. "I will give you my cooperation, but I'm pretty sure you won't find anything. We search the men as they return from shore leave."

Dig into the Task.

The customs men spat on their hands and went to work. They went through the officers' cabins, through the quarters of the crew of 900 through the holds. And when they finished, the visit had been a complete failure. There was—and this was certain—no liquor aboard.

The information which caused the search came in a letter to the local prohibition headquarters. It was written, presumably, by some disgruntled sailor.

The letter said that not only the men aboard the Richmond, but on other vessels of the fleet, had loaded aboard liquor in Cuba and still had it.

STORMS INCREASE CHLORINE DOSAGE IN WATER 25 PCT.

The chlorine content of Chicago's drinking water has been increased by approximately 25 per cent as a result of the disturbance of the lake in the last week's storms, according to Joel I. Connolly, chief of the bureau of sanitary engineering of the department of health.

"The turbidity of the drinking water supply has necessitated this increase as a health measure," Mr. Connolly said yesterday. "With the weather remaining as calm as it is now, it is probable that the chlorine content will return to normal within the coming week."

In some sections of the city an increase of one pound of chlorine to one million gallons of water was necessary, graduating down to one-half pound to one million gallons in other sections, Mr. Connolly said. The sections requiring the highest increase in dosage were those served by the pumping stations at Chicago avenue, 22d street, and 63d street.

GIRL, SCOLDED BY MOTHER, DRINKS POISON IN TAXI

Anna Mallek, 17 years old, 716 North Harding avenue, is in a serious condition at the Ravenswood hospital after taking poison last night while riding in a taxicab which she boarded at Chicago and Harding avenues. After riding four hours she stopped and made a purchase in a drug store at Broadway and Lawrence avenue. After riding a short time she swallowed the poison. Charles Williams, 5606 Sheridan road, driver of the taxicab, took her to the hospital. The girl's mother said that on Friday she admonished her for not keeping a steady job.

BAIL SKIPPERS WITH MEXICAN GOLD CAPTURED

Rebels' Paymaster Held in New York.

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—Four men and a little black bag containing about $750,000 in bank notes, gold coin and securities, alleged to be part of the loot taken by rebels from the Mexican government and banks in that republic, fell into the hands of the federal authorities here today.

The arrests and seizure, which included 14 trunks not yet opened, were the result of a tip from the department of justice to United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle that two of the men, under indictment for violation of the President's neutrality proclamation, had skipped their bail in Kansas City and were headed this way.

Two Ex-U. S. Officials.

The arrested men are Salvador Ateca, a Spaniard, who was formerly a business partner of the Mexican rebel general, Marcelo Caraveo, and is reported to have been a rebel paymaster; Antonio Gomez Maquero, a Mexican, secretary to Ateca; Russell B. Matthews, assistant United States director of immigration for the district of El Paso, Tex., and W. H. Fryer, a former assistant United States attorney at El Paso.

The four are charged with obstructing justice in aiding Ateca's attempt to leave the country for Spain, and Ateca and Maquero are charged by the Mexican government with having looted Mexican banks and the public treasury in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico.

Arraigned by Mr. Tuttle and Assistant United States Attorney George J. Minster before United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill, Ateca and Maquero were held without bail and Fryer and Matthews were released in $2,500 bail each for a hearing on May 14. Meanwhile Mr. Tuttle will take the case before the federal grand jury.

In their little black bag authorities say they found United States bills totaling $76,497, certificates of deposit in the First National Bank of El Paso totaling $104,698.27, a bag of Mexican gold pieces, drafts and other certificates of deposit.

Accused of Smuggling Arms.

Ateca and Maquero are under charges in Mexico as well as in the United States. Ateca is said to have smuggled arms into Mexico by airplane, and to have been in the "gambling business" with Gen. Caraveo.

Ateca and his secretary were indicted by the United States government for violation of the neutrality proclamation against the shipment of arms or munitions to the rebels in Mexico. They were released in $5,000 bail each in Kansas City. There agents of the department of justice learned that they had jumped their bail and were headed for New York.

Today the four men, accompanied by the wife and three children of Ateca, arrived.

Offer No Resistance.

Mrs. Ateca and her children were not arrested. The others yielded without resistance. The black bag, a cheap looking affair about a foot and a half long by one foot wide, was in plain view. It was, in fact, believed to be merely a part of their ordinary baggage.

The arresting officers learned also of the presence of the 14 trunks at the Pennsylvania station and were told that they contained, among other things, several hundred suits of clothes and 2,000 neckties.

United States Attorney Tuttle's statement that he had found in Ateca's possession a notebook containing a reference to Gen. Escobar, leader of the Mexican revolution, led to the belief that Ateca and his secretary might have been attempting to pave the way for the departure and future financial security of one or more "higher ups" in the revolution.

CALLES ASSAILANT HURT

Nogales, Ariz., May 4.—(AP)—Reports were received by the Nogales Herald from Hermosillo, Sonora, that an attempt was made there last night to assassinate Gen. Calles, former president of Mexico.

The reported attempt was made during a reception given in honor of Gen. Calles. A man said to be mentally unbalanced, the son of the late Rafael Izabel, governor of Sonora during the Diaz regime, embraced Gen. Calles during the reception, holding in his hand an open knife.

Gen. Elias, who took an important part in the Manchan siege, seized the young man, quickly disarmed him and the reception proceeded.

NOGALES, Sonora, May 4.—(AP)—Gen. Calles, accompanied by Gen. Abelardo Rodrigues, governor of Baja California, arrived in this border city today by airplane from Hermosillo, Sonora.

YAQUIS IN NEW ROLE

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, May 4.—In three years the Yaqui Indian question, with its kaleidoscopic colors, has changed completely. For four centuries the Yaqui Indians have fought the white man and the Mexicans in general, and inspired their children with undying hatred of the "yori" or foreigner.

The last Indian war was nearly two years in duration, during which time Gen. Francisco R. Manzo completely broke the strength of the Yaquis.

Were Starved Into Submission.

The war ended when the Indians were starved into subjection and lacked ammunition. The Yaquis were the terror of the two hundred miles of Southern Pacific railroad passing through or skirting the Yaqui traditional territory, and they harassed the home settlers in the Yaqui valley and the great stretch of plain and valley land west of the Bacatete mountains.

But now the remaining Yaquis in the state of Sonora are to appear in a new rôle. They will become the guardians of the land they have harassed and plundered and destroyed for years, and they are to watch over the safety of the two hundred miles of Southern Pacific railroad which they destroyed three years ago as effectively as Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar and his fellow rebels did during the present revolution.

Enlist in Body.

The Yaqui Indians have agreed to enlist in a body in Indian regiments in the Mexican army and to watch the whole of the Southern Pacific railroad in Sonora, protecting it from trouble from bandits, guerrillas, and cristeros. As they will be organized into a military body they will take an oath to perform this work and it is a Yaqui's boast that he never breaks his word.

STATE SENATORS CAN'T FIND ANY CANAL WHOOPEE

Begin Delayed Examination of Auto Records.

BY CARL WARREN.

If they were looking for anything scandalous, the members of the Starr senate committee investigating the old regime in the sanitary district met with meager success yesterday as they began their examination of the records of the Central Auto Service, 1452 North Clark street.

For two hours behind guarded doors in a Palmer house room the senators shuffled through a basketful of the famous "women and whisky" documents which they have kept locked up since March 17. When they emerged they declared they had found nothing about anything to incriminate anybody.

20 Auto Slips Only Evidence.

"The only evidence pertaining to the sanitary district we saw was 20 automobile slips," explained Chairman Harry W. Starr. He added that the slips showed merely that district employés had used the company's cars for 20 trips, indicating neither the cost nor purposes of the trips.

"Did you see anything about women, whisky, or vanity cases?" the senators were asked.

"Not a thing, not a thing," spoke up Senator Adolph Marks.

Apparently the only new information resulting from the examination of the records was evidence that the office of former State's Attorney Crowe, the board of election commissioners, the finance committee of the city council and the board of local improvements as well as the sanitary district did business with the Central Auto Service.

No Details on Tickets.

The senators said they noted a number of trip tickets made out for these agencies, indicating that each one had rented cars from the concern. The tickets, they said, did not give any of the details of the trips, who made them, or why.

The basketful of records looked over by the committeemen was only about one-third of those in their possession. Tomorrow afternoon, Senator Starr announced, a second basketful will be brought up from the hotel vault and gone into. If any questionable items are found, he said, witnesses may be subpoenaed to explain them.

U. S. Court Awaits Records.

Throughout the committee's star chamber session Thomas C. Ryan, bailiff for Federal Judge George A. Carpenter, sat on a chair outside the door with an order authorizing him to receive the records when the committee is through with them. During the morning Judge Carpenter had directed the bailiff to be there in readiness to bring the records to the federal court in compliance with an order previously issued impounding them.

Sending of the bailiff followed a heated tilt between Assistant State's Attorney David Stansbury and Attorney Michael Ahern, representing the auto concern, during which Ahern made a bitter attack on Frank J. Loesch. Stansbury had moved for an order allowing attorneys to be present when the committee opened the books. When that was denied he asked that the court clerk be present to take the keys to the vault in which they are stored. Ahern said the keys should be turned over to his client.

Defense Lawyer Raps Loesch.

"Well," Stansbury interjected, "no burglar wants his tools taken away from him."

"Sure," Ahern replied, "no burglar wants his tools taken by another burglar. Your client is the biggest burglar in town." Stansbury is working directly under the orders of Mr. Loesch, who is plaintiff in the federal court case.

The tiff ended when the attorneys agreed that the bailiff should be present to wait for the records. When he will get them is problematical, as the impounding order reads: "when the committee is through with them." Some guesses were that the committee will make sure it will not be through with them for several months.

Garage Owners Testify.

During its morning session at the sanitary district offices yesterday the Starr committee listened to the testimony of several owners of small outlying garages supposed to have serviced sanitary district cars.

At 2 p. m., the scheduled time for opening the whoopee records, Senators W. R. McCauley, A. A. Miles, and E. J. Hughes assembled at the Palmer house, accompanied by Mr. Ryan, Mr. Stansbury, Mr. Ahern, and half a dozen newspaper men. Senator Starr arrived at 2:30 p. m., but Senator Marks did not show up until an hour later. When the committee finally did convene everybody except the members was ejected.

The committee remained locked up until 5:30 p. m., when it adjourned in time to permit the members to attend theaters.

It became known yesterday that Attorney Albert Fink has been retained to defend the three sanitary district trustees indicted on Friday who are aligned with the Crowe-Thompson political faction. They are August W. Miller, John K. Lawler, and Lawrence F. King. Bonds for each were set at $30,000.

During the day Mr. Fink called Assistant State's Attorney Thomas H. Slusser and asked that the capiases for his clients' arrest be stayed a few days until they could make arrangements for bonds. Slusser assured him that all those indicted would be given "a reasonable time" to arrange bail.

Reed Not Consulted, He Says.

A report that former United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri had been asked to defend Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district, who was named in the true bills with fourteen others on Friday, was denied by Mr. Reed last night in Kansas City.

C. A. A. PROPOSES SKYSCRAPER ON BOUL MICH SITE

The Chicago Athletic association will be housed in a twenty-five story building to be erected within the coming year on the ground which it now occupies at 12 South Michigan avenue if plans now under consideration are approved by the members next fall, it was announced yesterday by Oliver R. Hogue, president of the association. The site was recently acquired from Lady David Beatty, wife of the British admiral and daughter of the late Marshall Field, for a reported consideration of $1,000,000.

The present club building has occupied the ground for the last thirty-five years at an annual rental of $16,600, Mr. Hogue said. Two buildings, one of eighteen stories fronting on Madison street, and one of eight stories on Michigan avenue, now occupied by the club, will be torn down to make way for the erection of the skyscraper. Cost of the project was placed tentatively at $8,000,000 by Mr. Hogue.

SILVER FOX FARM OWNER INDICTED FOR MAIL FRAUD

Kazimir T. Dryz, who owns two silver fox farms in Wisconsin, and maintains a Chicago office at 20 East Randolph street, was indicted by the April federal grand jury, it was learned yesterday, for using the mails to defraud. According to Assistant United States District Attorney Lyman Sherwood, Dryz is charged with swindling more than 100 persons of about $200,000 by sending misleading advertisements through the mails setting forth the enormous profits to be made from silver fox raising.

Dryz, Sherwood said, owns two fox farms at Eagle River and Pleasant Valley, Wis., although he advertised that he controlled six. In his advertising literature, it is charged, he stated that an initial investment of $1,500 in a pair of foxes would become $995,860 in six years, since the investor would by that time have sponsored the raising of 1,000 animals.

Berlin Reds Renew Riots; Death Toll Mounts to BULLETIN.

BERLIN, May 5 (Sunday).—(AP)—Desultory firing broke out again early this morning in the communist stronghold in the Neukoelln suburb. It was the fifth day of shootings growing out of the demonstrations of May day.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 4.—After three days and three nights of shooting in Berlin's working quarters, the chief of police of the German capital announced tonight that he believes the back of the uprising is broken.

"For safety sake we are keeping up a state of seige all night in Neukoelln and Wedding, but today has been quiet and we hope the rioting elements have given up their efforts to revolutionize the masses," he added.

Neukoelln is still seething with feverish excitement and anger. The toll of dead since May 1 is now 27. They include a British newspaper man from New Zealand, Charles Mackay, who was found dead in a Neukoelln street. British and international correspondents are protesting to the German police, saying that Mr. Mackay came up a street which was not protected by a cordon of police and on which was no "keep out" sign.

Police Deny Responsibility.

The police chief said: "The newspaper man was warned by the police officer in charge of the district not to advance when he asked for permission to do so. We do not know which side fired the deadly bullet. In view of this deeply regrettable event, I reiterate my warning that nobody is to enter the endangered district."

The police remain in full charge of the district, with the Reichswehr in barracks near Berlin ready to be called in for an emergency.

Both the Nationalists and communists claim the battles of the last three days showed that the Berlin police are unable to cope with a ... uprising.

Speaking for the Na... nold Rechberg declared: "... was only a general rehearsal ... Reds, who lied out their ... shock troops, keeping their ... in reserve. It took the police ... days, and maybe more, to bring ... back to order. That is failure. ... the communists make a full ... tack they will know where to ... police after the recent ... This is confirmed by the ... the newspaper Rote Fahne, ... in the name of the communists. ... He claims the party had ... do with the riots in Wedding, ... Neukoelln, but admitted they ... looking out for the right ... uprisings.

SPRING.

Spring has always been the most welcome season. Its returns have been greeted by youth and age, by devotion, by friendship and love. It has lent wings to the imagination of the poet and given life to the colorings of the painter. Even the most stolid feel its animating power.

It is the season when our liveliest feelings are enkindled—when we catch the life and joy of nature. Our affections, like the opening rivers freed from their icy chains, are flowing in immeasurable channels.

Each one should endeavor to analyze and ENJOY ALL THE VALUES OF SPRING.

SUPREME COURT ORDERS SINCLAIR TO START TERM

Oil Man Is Ready to Receive Sentence.

Washington, May 4.—(AP)—The Supreme court today formally directed the District of Columbia Supreme court to enforce the three months' jail sentence upon Harry F. Sinclair for his refusal to answer questions asked by the senate oil investigating committee.

The order of the Supreme court, which was placed in the mail late today, and on Monday will reach Frank E. Cunningham, clerk of the District of Columbia Supreme court, is the last judicial step in the commitment of the oil man to prison except the actual imposition of the sentence by Justice William Hitz, who was the trial judge.

Several Formalities.

Whether the District Supreme court on Monday will order the enforcement of the sentence and set the time for Sinclair to begin his jail term was not determined today by that court's officials. Several formalities will be necessary before the commitment order can be promulgated.

Upon receipt of the mandate, Mr. Cunningham will notify Leo A. Rover, district attorney, of its arrival. The district attorney then will advise the oil man's counsel and will present a motion to Justice Hitz asking for the issuance of the commitment order.

With these steps George P. Hoover, counsel for Sinclair, will be called upon to surrender the oil man to the jurisdiction of the court, and if he should fail to comply the federal marshal would be ordered to arrest Sinclair.

No Definite Time.

Mr. Hoover today did not designate any definite time when Sinclair would surrender to the court, but said the oil man would "appear when the court calls for his presence."

He added that Sinclair was now in New York and was ready to come to Washington when notified. District Attorney Rover, however, asserted that Sinclair may appear before the court on Monday.

Meanwhile there was speculation as to what arrangements would be made for the incarceration of Sinclair in the District of Columbia jail. Maj. William L. Peake, superintendent of the jail, said he had made no plans to receive the oil man and "did not even know what cell I shall put him in when he comes."

Lake Is Formed

C. A. Rehm of Oak Park had a spring and a creek on his 70 acre farm, Merlo, three and one-half miles northwest of Bartlett. He wanted a place to fish. For years he has pondered the problem of bringing the creek and the spring together to form a lake. The creek described a curve around the spring which, if intersected by a canal, would achieve the desired result. A few days ago he began cutting a canal by means of dynamite. He blasted until he had cut away a strip of land 10 feet wide, 10 feet deep and 500 feet long. Yesterday the creek was diverted from its old course into the canal and thence to the spring. Rehm now has his fish pond as payment for his labor. He will stock it with fish and invite his friends out to help catch them.

PROHIBITION IN CAPITAL COSTS INNOCENT LIVES

Harmless Citizens the Main Victims.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Prohibition enforcement in Washington, marked by frequent pistol duels between policemen and bootleggers, has cost the lives of at least five persons in the last three years, according to an official police department report made public today.

The report was prepared by Maj. R. G. Pratt, superintendent of police, at the request of Representative R. G. Simmons [Rep., Neb.] and other house drys, who planned to use it in defense of the "shoot to kill" enforcement policy. It shows that three of the victims were innocent citizens, one was a policeman, and only one is listed as an alleged rum runner.

The three killed were:

Sister Cephus Becker, 63 year old nun attached to the Providence hospital, who was killed when a bootlegger's car struck the automobile in which she was a passenger.

John F. Lubitch, 57, who was struck and killed by a liquor car driven by a Negro fleeing from motorcycle police.

Fire Lieutenant Samuel L. Gallahan, killed when an automobile driven by J. S. O'Donnell, alleged bootlegger seeking to escape from the police, struck a fire engine.

In his report Maj. Pratt officially confirms the assertion that the Jones "five and ten" law, instead of discouraging liquor law violators has driven them to the adoption of smoke screens and other devices to elude capture.

HE-MAN TACTICS OF MR. HEMAN TOLD TO JUDGE

Wife Cites 2-Gun Scenes; Seeks Divorce.

A bold, bad man is Theodore Richard Heman, wealthy real estate broker, in the language of a bill for divorce filed yesterday in the Circuit court by his wife, Mrs. Louise Helen Heman, 5553 North Spaulding avenue. He's a two gun desperado with a way with women and another way with men, she charges.

T. R. HEMAN.

Heman frequently made his entrances to his home with a flourish of revolvers and the announcement, "I'm mean, wild, and desperate," she alleges. This statement was followed with, "I'm a bad man, and if you don't believe me watch this."

At this point he was accustomed to display his marksmanship, the bill charges. One shot, and a light fixture was shattered over his wife and his daughter, Helen Louise, 20 years old; another shot and a wall mirror splintered; a third, and a picture crashed to the floor, the wife said in recounting one of the wild west scenes in their home.

On other occasions he was prevented from turning a revolver on her by the daughter, who seized the weapon, Mrs. Heman avers. He refused to support her and forced the daughter to earn money for clothes by posing for advertisements.

The bill adds that Heman boasted of his toughness and proclaimed, "I'm a rough business man and prefer brunettes." His wife is auburn haired, the bill remarks parenthetically.

Attorney Link appeared before Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski and asked that Heman be enjoined from disposing of real estate valued at $500,000 and an annual income of $45,000. A temporary injunction was granted.

LEVIATHAN DEPARTS OUTWARDLY BONE DRY —PASSENGERS HOPEFUL

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—If any of the 1,500 passengers on the outbound Leviathan of the United States lines get a chance to sample any of the wines and liquors in the liner's medical supplies they will have to convince the surgeons that they are sick enough to require it.

That was the gist of the liner's official announcement as the Leviathan sailed this afternoon.

Joseph E. Sheedy, executive head of the line, insisted that no drinks would be sold on the east bound voyage, although the supply would be adequate to quench all thirst on the return trip.

A few of the passengers, however, professed to have "inside information" that the ship's wine rooms would not be closed as tightly as Mr. Sheedy said.

Most of the passengers "took their own" aboard. There was an atmosphere of revelry throughout the first class section of the big ship.

Peggy Joyce Bids U. S. Adieu; She's Going to Turn Mam'selle

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—Peggy Hopkins Joyce came home last night to become an expatriate, and today she told all about it.

Shrinking from publicity from the time the Aquitania reached quarantine until the last reporter had interviewed her in her hotel suite, she admitted with great sighs from her cosmopolite heart that she was only a visitor on these arid shores.

Peggy is going to visit her mother for six weeks before she casts off the bonds of American citizenship and swears allegiance to the tricolor, and incidentally she is going to get rid of her New York properties. Yes, Miss Joyce has New York properties, and they are not all ex-husbands.

Signs for That Dear France.

"Yes, you may say I'm going back to France to live. Paris is home to me now, and I'm going to live there for good—at least it's going to be my residence. Now don't get the idea that I don't like America. I was born here and I love it, but the Riviera is so wonderful."

There was pathos in Miss Joyce's voice, pathos in her eyes, and even her goose-egg diamonds reflected a kind of modified pathos. Peggy was renouncing the land of her nativity and she was doing it in the grand manner.

In Love with an Island.

"I bought a perfectly gorgeous place in the Riviera—it's on an island, or maybe it's a peninsula. You know, one of those places that sticks out into the water—and I'm going to live there and be very happy."

Miss Joyce was looking well—just a bit too well, for she has taken on weight. She is too happy to think of getting married again and explained it thusly:

"Three years has convinced me that the placid life is the best. Of course I have nothing against getting married, but I may wait another three years before I am married again. One doesn't like to talk about those matters, you know."

Shipstead Is Sworn In as Senator at Hospital

Baltimore, Md., May 4.—(AP)—United States Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota took the oath of office as senator this afternoon at the Church Home and Infirmary, where he has been a patient for more than a week. The oath was administered by John C. Crockett, chief clerk of the senate.

It's Wonderful, Dear And so Is Bob!

"AREN'T you thrilled, Ruthy? Isn't it marvelous!" Ruth is thrilled, all right. That Bob should have chosen her makes her world an altogether delightful place! There are a lot of charming girls in Ruth's set. And this is where a certain policy of her father and mother counts for everything. They've always seen to it that she was the best dressed girl in the neighborhood, adding a final touch to her natural attraction.

Being one of thousands of families with just an ordinary amount of money, they couldn't afford smart clothes for Ruth if it were not for Wheeler's Cheerful Credit. The dress which Bob liked so much cost $15. They paid $1.00 down and will take many months to pay the balance. Cheerful Credit is available to YOU, at Wheeler's, Fourth Floor, 135 South State Street, or 6242 South Halsted Street.

SHERATON MODEL
sends a message of beauty

FROM every side, from every point of view, the Sheraton Baby Grand seems slender and graceful and charming. In all the time since Jonas Chickering revolutionized the pianoforte, over 100 years ago, we believe there has never been so handsome a piano. Of course this dainty grand was not made by Sheraton. But neither were the exquisite chairs and tables which bear his name, and which today command fabulous prices. Author, bookseller, scholar, Sheraton created furniture designs; he left it to others to make the furniture itself. And so this new model Chickering made in the same way—from designs based upon sketches by Sheraton—marks a decided step ahead in piano beauty. That its tone is rich and mellow and sonorous will be readily understood by anyone who has ever heard or played a Chickering. If you are interested in making your living room a more pleasant place in which to linger, come and see the Sheraton Model Chickering $1275. Other models from $650 up.

only $127.50 down

Three years to pay the balance. Your old piano, no matter what its make, taken in exchange and a generous allowance made.

With the Ampico, the only instrument that exactly reproduces upon the piano itself the playing of foremost pianists, the Sheraton Model Chickering is $2175. Other new models include the Conventional and Florentine.

CHICAGO! AND THE TRAIN WINDOWS REVEAL SLUMS

City Shows Its Worst to Visitors on "Century."

NEWS ITEM.—Chicago's social and civic leaders are mapping a campaign to rid the city of its unsafe, unhealthy, unsightly, and uneconomical slum districts by razing the dilapidated buildings and replacing them with modern tenement houses affording flats at low rental.

ABOARD TWENTIETH CENTURY LIMITED, May 4.—[Special.]—This crack New York Central train is roaring into the Chicago metropolitan area with its daily load of passengers from the east. From the window of a Pullman may be seen great, queer shaped steel structures, with rows of tall black smoke stacks. Looking more like the mechanical toys of a Titan, they are the mills of one of the world's greatest industrial centers.

A dignified gentleman glances from his book, sees that he is nearing his destination and continues his reading. It is a familiar sight to him. He, apparently, is one of a distinct type on this train, regular business commuters between America's two largest cities.

First Impressions of Chicago.

Other passengers, however, are gazing out of the windows, neglecting their magazines. Some of them are getting their first personal impressions of Chicago. The picture is one reflecting vigorous commerce and industry.

The train flies on, passing small business districts and mediocre apartment house areas. This for a few minutes and then the engineer, a dozen car lengths ahead, applies the air brakes. We stop at Englewood, 63d street.

The Twentieth Century pulls away from the little brick station for its run through the south side to the La Salle street terminal. Those passengers getting their first glimpse of Chicago keep their eyes out of the windows.

City's Worst on Display.

The train is picking up speed at 45th street, but nevertheless the visitors are getting a closeup of Chicago's worst—abandoned shacks, backyards full of rubbish, chimneys that lean at crazy angles, broken windows stuffed with rags, trash heaps in unkempt alleys, and homes that have little to distinguish them from the trash heaps.

There is a two story frame building, with half of the second floor back porch fallen away. The back yard is full of ash piles and rusty tin cans. A wooden fence has rotted and fallen to the ground. The building appears to be on the eve of such a fate. A trickle of smoke from a chimney shows it has not been abandoned, as have some of its neighbors.

Same 20 Years Ago.

It is such buildings that the city's civic leaders are campaigning to destroy. One passenger—a Chicago man—says he hopes something of the sort may happen, but he remembers an exactly similar ride he took into the city just 20 years ago, in 1909, and he recalls to a neighbor that the same desolate shanties in that year occupied the same weary miles of street adjacent on the east to the railway line. So far as he can recall, he says, not a vestige of improvement has been made in the two decades.

Thus before the eyes of Chicago's visitors are presented the long lines of tumbledown hovels. The Rock Island and the Nickel Plate railroads share this right of way, with its unlovely vista, with the New York Central. If there is a world's fair here in 1933, this is the route that will be used by thousands who will be brought to Chicago then for the first time.

The Twentieth Century whirls into the warehouse and factory area just south of the loop, sweeps past a bank of the Chicago river, eases its pace through a labyrinth of trackage and comes to a stop in the busy old terminal.

STEAL TAXI; ROB DRIVER.

Two men who hired Howard Karl's taxicab at Kimball and Lawrence avenues yesterday morning ordered him to drive to Cicero and Elston avenues, where they robbed him of $17, his car and cap.

NORRIS REPORT TO OUST MELLON BEATEN, 4 TO 11

Fight Is Expected to Reach Senate Floor.

the American Steel Car company, together with the interests of other members of the Mellon family were sufficient to control these industries.

"With full knowledge that the facts may not all have been ascertained, we have answered literally in the language of the statute that Mr. Mellon may legally hold office of secretary of the treasury," the Stiewer report declared, adding that if Mr. Mellon has violated any law it is the duty of a grand jury to indict him or of the house of representatives to institute impeachment proceedings. There is no law authorizing the senate to "investigate or try" Mr. Mellon according to the report.

Condemns Only Interest.

"It is clear to the signers of this report," the report continued, "that the statute condemns only an interest of concern direct or indirect, in carrying on the business of trade or commerce. With respect to a corporation this means that the secretary of the treasury shall not hold office as a director or as an officer and that he shall not by any means, either direct or indirect, participate in any activity in carrying on the business of a corporation if the corporation is engaged in trade or commerce.

"The interpretation by the undersigned members is supported by the fact that numerous secretaries of the treasury have owned stocks in corporations engaged in trade. It is inconceivable that all these secretaries wilfully violated the law and equally inconceivable that the Presidents under whom they served would have appointed men of known ineligibility, or that the senate would have confirmed ineligible appointees.

"Obviously it has been thought in many official sections that the section referred to did not apply to mere ownership of corporate stock."

The report concludes with the assertion: "It is our opinion that he does legally hold the office and that he will continue to do so unless and until convicted in a lawful proceeding, should he have violated the statute."

Mrs. Harrison B. Riley's Play Wins Texas Tourney

Mrs. Harrison B. Riley of Evanston, wife of the president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, yesterday was advised by telegram from Austin, Tex., that her one-act play, "The Sponge," had won first place in the annual inter-high school Little Theater tournament of the state, in which 300 high schools participated.

N. U. STUDENTS HOLD ANNUAL CIRCUS PARADE

Northwestern university students yesterday held a "Circus Parade" in which the fraternities and sororities vied with each other in displaying weird floats. The parade was a part of the two day circus held in Patten gymnasium.

Among the exhibits included in the seventy floats were comic strip characters, ancient flivvers, and burlesque scenes of students and professors. The parade was held up for almost an hour when the baby elephant borrowed for the occasion refused to march.

The parade was led by the students' military band. Alpha Chi Omega won the best float prize for the sororities, and Sigma Chi took the same honors for the fraternities. The prizes were awarded at the circus dance last night, which concluded the show.

BILL TO TIGHTEN MICHIGAN'S DRY LAW IS SIGNED

Bootleg Profession Hit by Measure.

Lansing, Mich., May 4.—[Special.]—Michigan was provided with its own "Jones law" today when Gov. Fred W. Green signed the Cuthbertson-Miner bill, tightening the provisions of the state prohibition law, mainly as they apply to professional bootleggers.

The measure was only enacted after it had been rewritten and altered half a dozen times and it was used alternately by the ultra dry element and the liberals as a weapon in the legislative fight over expunging from the statute books the notorious "life for a pint" law.

In the form in which it was signed today, the act subjects convicted bootleggers to a mandatory prison term of not less than one year nor more than four years, and attaches in addition a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $20,000. Minor prohibition offenders are made liable under the measure's terms to a maximum penalty of two years' imprisonment or $2,000 fine, but no minimum sentence is made mandatory.

Under the old law either the bootlegger or the hip flask toter was subject to imprisonment of not more than one year for a first offense, with a fine in addition at the discretion of the judge. Before the revision of the criminal code a few weeks ago, however, any prohibition violation was ranked as felony and four such offenses brought a mandatory life sentence. The new law makes no change in classification, but the Watson bill, enacted earlier in the session at the behest of Gov. Green, makes a life sentence possible only when the final felony is sufficiently serious to carry an original penalty of five years' imprisonment.

Apparently far from pleased by the senate's action of Friday in putting up to him the final decision as to whether Michigan shall adopt the death penalty, the governor returned to his office today from a northern trout stream and administration forces were immediately set in motion to secure a reconsideration of the vote in the upper chamber.

NEGRO CATHOLIC CONVERTS BUILD UP OLD PARISH

Confirm Class of 500 on South Side Today.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Today marks an epoch in the work of the Catholic church among the colored people of the south side. A class of more than 500 colored converts to the Catholic religion will be presented for confirmation this morning to the Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Shiel, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, by the Rev. Father Joseph Eckert, pastor of St. Elizabeth's church, Wabash avenue and 41st street. Father Eckert says he believes this is the largest class of converts ever presented to a Catholic bishop in America.

An interesting feature of the class is the wide range of ages. The oldest member is 75 years old and the youngest is 10. Twelve members of the class are crippled children, who will be brought to the church on stretchers. More than half of the group is composed of adults. In the seven years of his pastorate nearly 1,000 colored people have been prepared and presented for confirmation by Father Eckert.

Good Citizenship Promoted.

"Colored Catholics make excellent citizens," declared Father Eckert, "and it is rarely that any of our people are found in trouble." Capt. E. P. Gill, second division police headquarters, Wabash avenue and 47th street, confirmed Father Eckert's statement. "We cannot help but notice the influence of St. Elizabeth's center in this area," he said, "and we seldom see any of Father Eckert's people here."

Speaking of his methods in bringing about the development of good citizenship, Father Eckert told of the long training given to every one who comes to him for admission to the church. "Almost all of our converts come from groups which have no church," he said, "and night after night for several months they come to the church for instruction. Vice and crime certainly are the results of the lack of religion.

Dawn of Hope Seen.

"While we recognize the emotional side of religion, we do not depend entirely upon it. For myself and our four associated priests, the watchword is teach, teach, teach; day after day, and night after night. From our experience we are catching a real glimmer of hope in what seems to most people to be an almost hopeless problem. The only final answer will be found in religion.

"Every Sunday 1,800 to 2,000 colored people will be found in the services of St. Elizabeth's church, and they are hard working people. Many of them make real sacrifices to come, traveling from Morgan Park or even Englewood. This is even more true of our day school children, 40 per cent of whom come from non-Catholic homes.

"Seven years ago when Cardinal Mundelein put me in charge of St. Elizabeth's we had a great big beautiful church which was almost deserted because the white residents had been replaced by colored people. The little group of colored parishioners fairly rattled around it. Today the parish has about 3,000 colored members. We have 1,000 children in our grade school and nearly 100 in the high school.

Work Barely Beginning.

"The work has just begun, both for the Catholic and Protestant churches, and I believe," said Father Eckert gravely, "that out of 200,000 or more colored people on the south side less than 30,000 are under the active influence of any religious faith.

"St. Elizabeth's school is in charge of the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament, an order founded by Catherine Drexel of the well known Philadelphia family. The sisters teach almost entirely among colored people. We receive a teaching force of twenty-two sisters."

The Society of the Divine Word, of which Father Eckert and his associated priests are members, was founded in Steyl, Holland, fifty years ago by the Rev. Arnold Jansen to spread Christianity among the non-white races of the world. In America its work is entirely among the Negro people.

The new million dollar Pentecost church, which will soon be built and operated on a policy which admits persons without regard to color or creed, was projected very largely under the influence of Father Eckert.

BALLOONS RACE TOWARD COAST; WEATHER GOOD

12 Leave Pittsburgh in Elimination Contest.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 4.—(AP)—Floating toward the Atlantic seaboard through a drizzle of rain, before a fairly stiff breeze, 12 balloons carrying 24 men were in the air tonight after their takeoffs in the national elimination balloon race from Pitt stadium here late today.

Race officials believed that if the wind drift continued from the west the bags would approach the Atlantic seaboard.

Airmen termed it "good balloon weather, guaranteeing speed."

Wind Causes Hour's Delay.

Hihg winds, reported over the possible course of flight; caused a one hour postponement of the takeoff. When the wind died down, the pilots decided to start on the flight that will determine the American entry in the international balloon race. Promptly at 6 p. m., eastern daylight time, the first bag was sent aloft, and at intervals of from two to six minutes the others went up.

The first bag up, the Aircraft Development corporation entry, carried W. A. Klikoff, Detroit, as pilot, and Thorvald Larsen, Dearborn, Mich., aid. It did not get much altitude, but the second bag off, Army No. 3, with Lieut. L. A. Lawson, Wright field, Dayton, as pilot and Lieut. Edgar Fogelsonger, Scott field, Ill., aid, shot high into the air a minute after being released by the ground crew.

Army Planes Off Early.

The other entries took off in the following order:

Army No. 1—Capt. E. W. Hill, Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., pilot; Lieut. Robert Herald, Chanute field, aid.

Army No. 2—Capt. W. J. Flood, Langley field, Va., pilot; Lieut. U. G. Ent, Langley field, aid.

MALONEY GUILTY OF CAFE KILLING; GIVEN 14 YEARS

George Maloney, south side gangster and beer runner was found guilty by a jury yesterday after an all night deliberation of the murder of Hugh (Stubby) McGovern, another well known south side hoodlum character. The jury inflicted the minimum punishment of 14 years in the penitentiary, which was described as satisfactory to the prosecution, in view of the slender chain of circumstantial evidence.

The shooting occurred on the evening before New Year's eve of last year in the crowded Granada café, 63th street and Cottage Grove avenue. When the exchange of shots had ceased, the patrons, who had ducked under tables for refuge, found McGovern and William [Gunner] McPadden, another gangster, lying dead on the floor.

A motion for a new trial will be decided on May 10.

HOOVER FORCES HARD PRESSED IN FARM FIGHT

Curtis May Cast Deciding Vote on Debenture.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Administration forces were today fighting with their backs to the wall to prevent approval of the export debenture scheme in the senate.

Defection of one or two additional Republicans from the administration ranks would place victory within the grasp of the advocates of the debenture plan, according to unofficial polls. Twelve Republicans are reported to be prepared to vote to retain the debenture provision in the McNary farm relief bill in opposition to the wishes of President Hoover. Not more than four Democrats are certain to vote for the elimination of the debenture provision. Of the 46 said to favor the debenture plan 34 are Democrats and twelve Republicans. Of the 47 said to be against the debenture plan, 43 are Republicans and four Democrats.

These totals do not include Senator Henrik Shipstead [Farmer-Labor, Minn.], who is for the debenture scheme, but is ill in a hospital, or Senator E. S. Brousard [Dem., La.], who is noncommittal.

Tie Is Considered Possible.

So close is the situation that a tie is a possibility with Vice President Curtis casting the deciding vote. The twelve Republicans who are expected to vote to retain the debenture provision in the bill are Senators Robert M. La Follette and John J. Blaine [Wis.]; S. W. Brookhart [Ia.]; George W. Norris and R. B. Howell [Neb.]; L. J. Frazier and G. P. Nye [N. D.]; Peter Norbeck and W. H. McMaster [S. D.]; Hiram Johnson [Cal.]; W. B. Pine [Okla.], and W. E. Borah [Idaho].

The Democrats who are counted on to oppose the debenture plan are Senators R. F. Wagner [N. Y.]; David Walsh [Mass.]; Joseph E. Ransdell [La.], and W. H. King [Utah].

Senator J. B. Kendrick [Dem., Wyo.], who voted against the debenture plan in the committee on agriculture, is now understood to have indicated a willingness to swing over to the other side in order that the Democrats may present almost a united front. Senator Kendrick is ill and in order to make his vote count must be paired. So far no pairs have been arranged for either Senator Kendrick or Senator Shipstead.

A vote on the debenture provision is expected about Tuesday with passage of the bill later in the week.

Capper Attacks Debenture.

Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.], the principal speaker in today's senate session, supported the administration farm relief program and opposed the debenture provision. As head of the senate farm bloc his influence is expected to be effective in preventing further defections from the administration ranks.

"The only part of the pending bill in which I do not concur is the section on export debentures," said Senator Capper. "It seems to me it contemplates a direct subsidy which could not help but waste public funds, since the cost of the debentures to the treasury could not be translated in full into increased price to the farmer. Moreover, an increase in price, as a result of an export bounty, would stimulate production, aggravate the surplus problem, result in trade complications with countries that have antidumping laws, and undo much of the progress made in the last several years in adjusting production to market requirements. It would also cause higher taxes to make up for the money which the debentures intercepted before it got to the treasury.

Might Destroy Products.

"These and other factors quite likely would set in motion political forces to repeal the whole plan. In the event of a repeal, and I believe that no such plan could last long, the farmer would be left with a stimulated output, a greatly aggravated surplus problem, and a more seriously depressed price."

Senator Capper commented on the effect of the Norris amendment already added to the debenture provision with a view to preventing over production by a gradual reduction in debenture rates when production is increased.

"A brief examination of the amendment will suggest that it would be utterly ineffective," said Senator Capper. "The producers would be free to increase the output of a debenturable crop, in the first year of the operation of the debenture plan, by 20 per cent above the average of the preceding five years, before the export debenture would be reduced 20 per cent. The wheat growers produced an annual average of 829,000,000 bushels in the past five years. Under the Norris amendment they could increase the output 165,800,000 bushels; that is, from 829,000,000 to nearly 994,000,000 before the export debenture would be reduced from 21 to 16.8 cents."

Curtailment Is Unlikely.

"It is hardly reasonable to suppose that the farmers who produced an annual average of 829,000,000 bushels of wheat in the past five years for an average price of about $1.20 per bushel could be frightened into curtailing production by being threatened with an export bounty of only 16.8 cents over this price instead of a bounty of 21 cents. After the first year, the increased output would become a part of the new five year average, and this would make it possible in the second year to increase production still more without a reduction in the debenture rate.

"In short, under this amendment, it would be possible to increase the production of wheat to nearly 1,000,000,000 bushels and to double our exportable surplus before there would be any reduction in the debenture rate. This plan, therefore, looks like anything but a check on overproduction."

There was considerable discussion of amendments to exempt fruit and vegetables from the operation of the bill. Senators David Reed [Rep., Pa.], C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.], and others, indicated that fruit and vegetable interests in their states had asked to be eliminated from the scope of the measure.

VESTRIS OFFICER MAY FACE TRIAL IN U. S. COURT

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—If any persons testified falsely during the inquiry here into the Vestris disaster they will be brought to justice in the federal court in this district, which retains jurisdiction, said U. S. Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, today, in commenting on the testimony of Frank William Johnson, senior officer of the Vestris, before the board of trade in London.

According to Mr. Johnson, he and his associates concealed here the fact that the Vestris was overloaded when it foundered last November with a loss of 112 lives.

Mr. Tuttle said there was no doubt that the courts here had jurisdiction over the matter.

National Hookup to Describe Battles.

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—An exhibition of radio control of aircraft on a scale never before attempted by the army will be one of the features of the spectacular aerial "war" to be fought over Ohio terrain during a ten day period beginning May 15.

Ground troops and airplanes will participate in exercises carried on in the vicinity of Dayton and Columbus.

Equipped with radio transmitters and receivers, more than 200 planes, ranging from the high speed single seater pursuit plane to the slower but more powerful army bombers, will participate.

These planes, according to army announcements, will be in touch with the ground by radio at all times. During part of the exercises the entire fleet of airplanes will be maneuvered from the ground by Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, aerial chief of operations for the air corps.

In order to give the radio public a comprehensive picture of modern aerial warfare army experts riding in the bombers and pursuit planes will broadcast the progress of the various maneuvers as they are run off during the ten days of the "mimic war."

Three demonstrations of the practical use of radio in aerial warfare are scheduled, according to an announcement today made public by Secretary of War James W. Good.

"The first demonstration will consist of an actual aerial combat between two contending forces, the Reds and the Blues, the former at Dayton and the latter at Columbus," the announcement said.

"The two forces consist of units of pursuit, bombardment and attack planes from all points in the United States.

"For the first time in history, an aerial 'dog fight,' an actual aerial battle, minus only the chatter of machine guns, will be broadcast from the air through a national hookup."

Reserve Officers Meet.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 4.—[Special.]—Plans for enlargement of the Officers' Reserve association and the army corps area headquarters in Chicago, new combat methods, and the latest weapons of warfare were among the subjects discussed at the annual convocation of regular army, National Guard, and reserve officers held here today. A big banquet at the Masonic temple followed by a military ball tonight, closed the meeting.

Two High Speeds in Traffic

[Four Speeds Forward—Standard Gear Shift]

GRAHAM PAIGE

FIVE CHASSIS—SIXES AND EIGHTS
$895 to $2495

Car illustrated is Model 615, six cylinder, five passenger, four door Sedan with Four Speeds Forward, $1195. All prices at factory—special equipment extra on all models.

Owners say they particularly enjoy the Graham-Paige four speed transmission (standard gear shift) when driving in traffic. They speak of the rapid acceleration of third, a quiet internal gear—the silent, smooth swiftness of fourth—the few times they find it necessary to shift gears—and the ease with which the car handles. You are invited to experience this new thrill in motoring.

RAILROADS CUT 5 HOURS FROM TRIP TO WEST COAST

But Crack Trains to N. Y. Keep Old Schedules.

While the Century and the Broadway Limited trains between Chicago and New York ramble along on schedules to which they have clung for many years, five western trunk lines beginning next month will clip five hours from the Pacific coast trip.

On June 9, three crack trains from Chicago to Seattle—the Olympian of the Milwaukee road, the new Empire Builder of the Great Northern, and the North Coast Limited of the Northern Pacific—will start their west bound runs on a 63 hour schedule and the east bound run on a schedule of 61 hours and 15 minutes. The Great Northern and Northern Pacific operate from here to St. Paul over the tracks of the Burlington which, incidentally, announces a reduction of one hour and thirty minutes on the run of the Denver Limited.

Santa Fe Reduces Time.

Also on June 9, the Chief of the Santa Fe lines and the Union Pacific's Overland Limited will start their Los Angeles and San Francisco runs on a 51 hour schedule, slashing five hours on the 2,300 mile trip.

At the same time the Union Pacific, which operates from here to Omaha over the Chicago and North Western, announced the inauguration of two additional trains, the Denver Special, to compete with the Burlington's Denver Limited, and the San Francisco Limited, making the westward trip in 61 hours and the return trip to Chicago in 61 hours and 15 minutes.

For the western roads, June 9 will be a red letter day, since it marks the second five hour reduction in four years. While the Broadway Limited and the Twentieth Century remain at 20 hours, it is true that other trains on both the Pennsylvania and the New York Central have been recently speeded up.

Cut 14 Hours in Decade.

Passenger agents of the western roads pointed last night to the fact that they have slashed the coast schedules fourteen hours in the last decade.

L. W. Landman, western traffic manager of the New York Central, insisted that there is no public demand for faster service on his road, therein echoing a recent statement of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania.

BROSS LECTURES START TODAY.

The Bross lectures of Lake Forest university for 1929 will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. James G. K. McClure, former president of the university, beginning this afternoon.

Timbers for Rebuilding Old Ironsides Here

Sailors from the Great Lakes Naval Training station on two flat cars of timbers which arrived at the North Western yards yesterday from Oregon. The timbers are being shipped to the Boston navy yard to be used in rebuilding the historic frigate, Old Ironsides.

Viewed by Crowds

While the Great Lakes Naval band played patriotic airs and an honor color guard stood watch, four carloads of massive Douglar fir timbers which will rebuild the famous Old Ironsides, were viewed yesterday by hundreds of Chicagoans. Children who aided in raising Chicago's $65,000 for the repair of the ship, which saw duty in the war of 1812, were continually coming and going while the timbers were on display at the Chicago and North Western railway terminal.

Delegations from the G. A. R., the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, and other patriotic bodies were there as well as sailors from the Great Lakes.

GOMEZ REJECTS VENEZUELA OFFER OF PRESIDENCY

CARACAS, Venezuela, May 4.—(AP)—Gen. Juan Vicente Gomez, who was unanimously elected to the presidency by congress yesterday has declined to accept the post.

The 72 year old chief executive, who first came into power in 1909 and has been in power since then with intervals of administration of provisional presidents, informed the congress that he felt his mission in keeping Venezuela free from danger, prosperous and happy had been fulfilled and that he now wished to return to agriculules fourteen hours in the last decade. came as a complete surprise.

Crew in Panic on Lake Liner in Storm, Passengers Claim

Cleveland, O., May 4.—(AP)—That the desperate fight of the steamer City of Buffalo to avoid disaster on Lake Erie during the terrific storm of Thursday, Friday, and Friday night was handicapped at one time by sailors who fought for life preservers was the story told by William Gibney of Buffalo, N. Y., one of the 33 passengers who were landed here safely today.

Gibney said:

"A narrow escape from death by drowning was made worse by an unruly crew. At one time three of the crew fought among themselves for possession of a life preserver when passengers were still waiting for theirs."

Gibney said, however, that the officers "showed remarkable calm and forcefulness in dealing with the crowd of inexperienced youngsters who made up the crew."

Other passengers were almost unanimous in praise of the splendid control of the situation by the ship's officers under command of Capt. Allan Strachan.

Two Days of Terror.

The steamer's battle against the storm began shortly after it left Buffalo for Cleveland Thursday night. Almost at the height of the storm Friday morning it burst a cylinder-head on one of its engines, and then, drifting without power, lost its rudder.

Distress signals were sent out and the freighter Franz, two tugs and a coast guard vessel answered. The Franz got a cable aboard the passenger boat, but after towing it a short distance the cable broke.

Finally, Capt. Strachan put his last hopes of saving the vessel into the chance that an anchor would hold. He won.

There were only three women passengers aboard. Two of them became hysterical for a while when it seemed that disaster was certain.

Some of the passengers tried dancing Friday morning to keep up their spirits, but it wasn't successful. Mrs. Martha Prince of Buffalo said.

Two other ships that suffered in the storm were the D. N. Philbin and the J. E. Upson, ore freighters. The Upson went aground in Conneaut harbor but was pulled off by tugs today. The Philbin went aground several nights ago, when the pilot mistook an airplane beacon for a lighthouse.

Leaking badly, it settled on the bottom, and was awash nearly to the top of its decks. Its crew of 33 men were still aboard tonight, but were to be taken off if necessary.

Freighter's Crew Saved.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 4.—[U. P.]—The crew of nine men were rescued from the stricken freighter O. E. Parks, which foundered in a heavy gale four miles off Thunder Bay island in Lake Huron, according to advices received here from the Thunder Bay coast guard station.

KILLS BOY WHO SECRETLY WED HIS DAUGHTER

Amarillo, Tex., May 4.—(AP)—R. H. Hamilton, a former judge on the commission of appeals of the Texas state Supreme court, today shot and killed his son-in-law, Thomas Walton Jr., 21, and explained the slaying only by saying: "I had rather be dead than kill a man, but I had to protect my family."

The shooting occurred in Hamilton's law office, where the boy was reported to have gone to disclose that he had married Hamilton's daughter, Theresa, 19. Both Walton and his wife had attended Texas university.

Although Mr. Hamilton, after the shooting, denied his daughter was married, records in the county clerk's office at Georgetown, Tex., near Austin, site of the university, revealed that Theresa Hamilton and Thomas Walton Jr. were married last Feb. 10.

Friends said Walton had been sent to the Hamilton office to "explain everything." He was shot a few minutes after he entered.

CHURCH PACIFIST LOBBY FINANCED BY RED MONEY

Garland Fund Links Pinks and Bishops.

In 1926 and 1927, the Garland fund financed the Committe on Militarism in Education to the extent of $12,400 in fighting for the abolition of compulsory military training in colleges and of all military training in high schools.

Among the directors of the committee are Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president, and the Rev. Samuel M. Cavert, general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches. Other leaders in the Federal Council of Churches who are directors of the organization are the Rev. Reinhold Niebuhr, the Rev. Ernest F. Tittle, the Rev. W. Russell Bowie, the Rev. John Herring, Prof. Luther A. Weigle, Prof. Jerome Davis, and Kirby Page.

The Garland fund financed the publication of a pamphlet entitled "Military Training in Schools and Colleges of the United States," by Winthrop D. Lane, a Socialist. Prominent among the sponsors of this tract were officers and other leaders of the Federal Council of Churches, including Bishop McConnell, Dr. Cavert, Harold A. Hatch, Frederick Lynch, the Rev. C. C. Morrison, Kirby Page, and Stanley High.

Mr. Lane's Socialistic views of national defense were outraged by discovery of the real purpose of military training in the schools.

"The purpose," says the Lane pamphlet, "is to make soldiers. It is not training in citizenship, or any vague and ill-defined training of a general military nature. The official object is to 'provide systematic military training at civil educational institutions for the purpose of qualifying selected students of such institutions for appointment as reserve officers in the military forces of the United States.'"

Urges United Protest.

The tract concludes with an appeal to citizens to protest to their representatives in congress against further appropriations for military training in schools, adding:

"When taxpayers throughout the country demand that no more taxes shall be used to subsidize military training in civil educational institutions, congress can stop it; and America will then go back in this matter to the position she has safely and honorably held through all her history down to the tragic days of the great European war."

Several hundred thousand copies of this pamphlet were circulated not only by the committee on militarism, but by the Fellowship for Reconciliation and the Fellowship for a Christian Social Order, two other organizations of church pacifists, and to some extent by the Federal Council of Churches. Other organizations which circulated this anti-national defense propaganda are the American Civil Liberty union, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, and the League for Industrial Democracy, a Socialist organization which "bores from within" in the colleges, all these bodies being financed by the Garland fund. Lane himself is a director of the League for Industrial Democracy.

Radical Magazine Financed.

From 1923 to 1926, inclusive, the Garland fund subsized "The World Tomorrow" to the extent of $9,000. The editor of this magazine is Kirby Page, a radical pacifist who is a member of the Federal Council of Churches and is chairman of the executive committee of the Fellowship for a Christian Social Order. Dr. Niebuhr of the federal council is also one of the editors. Bishop McConnell, president of the federal council, is listed as a contributing editor, and Dr. Cavert and F. Ernest Johnson, also officers of the church body, as members of the editorial council. Bishop McConnell organized and directed the church lobby against the cruiser bill in the last congress.

Page, through his publication subsidized by radical funds, and through numerous tracts circulated by church and radical organizations, renders valuable aid to the object of the Socialists and communists to deprive our country of the power to defend itself by force.

Author of Pacifist Pledge.

His book entitled "War — Its Causes, Consequences and Cure," which was circulated widely in churches, peace societies and women's clubs, contained the following proposed church pledge:

"Let the churches of America say to their own government and to the peoples of the earth: We feel so certain that war is so un-Christian, futile, and suicidal that we renounce completely the whole war system. We will never again sanction or participate in any war. We will not allow our pulpits and classrooms to be used as recruiting stations. We will not again give our financial or moral support to any war. We will seek security and justice in other ways."

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom received from the Garland fund gifts aggregating $5,345, and a loan of $1,000. Jane Addams is the international president of this organization. Its director is Emily Green Balch, who was a member of the executive committee of the Intercollegiate Socialist society, predecessor of the League for Industrial Democracy.

Active as a Pacifist.

During the war she was active in various pacifist movements, particularly as a member of the Civil Liberties Bureau, an organization which championed conscientious objectors, and from which the present American Civil Liberties union evolved. The international secretary of the league is Madeline Z. Doty, wife of Roger Baldwin.

The Women's International league advocates abolition of armies and navies by international agreement only, but at the same time fosters protests against current expenditures for maintenance of the American army and navy. It issues stickers to be affixed to income tax returns, stating that such part of the tax as goes to upkeep of the army and navy is paid under protest.

Among other items of expenditure by the Garland fund on the promotion of pacifism is one of $497.41 "for the anti-militaristic movement" among students of Northwestern university and Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, Ill.

Oppose U. S. in Mexico.

One of the organizations subsidized by the Garland fund is the All-American Anti-Imperialist league, an institution with headquarters at Mexico City, which was founded by communists for the purpose of destroying American influence in the Caribbean region. The Daily Worker, leading communist organ, has been largely financed by the Garland fund, as has been the Federated Press, a radical news agency, which received $26,441 in the last three years alone. Other institutions and the amounts by which they were subsidized in the last three years are the Vanguard Press, $119,433; Brookwood Labor college, $74,527; National Association for Advancement of Colored People, $21,865; New Masses, radical magazine, $38,000; Rand school, socialist institution, $16,116; Il Nuovo Mondo, anti-fascist daily, $13,000; Workers' school, communist institution, $11,123; League for Industrial Democracy, $10,800.

British Air Team Trains in 319 Mile an Hour Plane

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, May 4. — The British Schneider trophy team started training today at Calshot, Southampton airport, where they are undergoing a rigorous regime to keep physically fit. Each pilot has flown a Napier, one of the world's fastest machines, in which a speed of 319.5 miles per hour was reached. The practice will continue in this plane until the new craft, which is being constructed in secret, is ready, probably early in June.

ELECT CHICAGO GOVERNOR, PLAN TO PROTECT CITY

Party Chiefs Would Curb Downstate Power.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Local Democrats disclosed a method yesterday whereby Chicago and Cook county may be protected against downstate representatives imposing state will upon the metropolis in matters of taxation and legislation. It is to organize metropolitan Chicago so it will exercise a political veto power through the election of a Chicagoan as governor. It is pointed out that New York City uses such a veto power.

This would be accomplished by Democrats joining with Republicans to nominate a Chicagoan as the Republican candidate for governor, and at the same time nominating a Democrat who would withdraw and leave the Chicago Republican nominee without opposition. Aside from the protection they would be giving the Cook county taxpayers, the Democrats foresee an advantage to themselves in the plan, believing it would aid in electing Democrats to county offices.

Need of Action Stressed.

The need for such a movement was stressed because of the refusal of the legislature to give Cook county its just and equitable representation in the state legislature and in the national congress, while legislation such as the gasoline tax and the proposed income tax is aimed to collect a major portion of the state's income from Cook county and giving it a minor portion of the benefits.

"Springfield has a strangle hold on Chicago and intends to keep it," the proponents of the plan say. "Taxation without representation will continue unless we break that hold by keeping a Chicagoan in the executive mansion at Springfield until such time as the state is reapportioned along honest lines, as the constitution decrees that it shall be."

State Representative Michael L. Igoe, minority leader of the assembly and one of the Chicago Democratic aspirants, said yesterday the plan had been broached to responsible Republicans by George Brennan before his death. Recent legislation has revived the discussion, Igoe said, and he mentioned along with the gas and income taxes the desire of downstaters to retain their mastery over Chicago stock transactions through their opposition to allowing the Board of Trade to deal in securities.

Others Consider Project.

Representative Henry Sonnenschein is another who is urging consideration for the program that would put Chicago and its allied territory against the rest of the state in a political battle. He is associated politically with Anton J. Cermak, president of the Cook county board and one of the party's outstanding leaders here.

Republicans of this territory are eager to land one of their membership in control at Springfield, but because of impending alliances for the senatorial and mayoral contests that will come before the next gubernatorial primary they were hesitant yesterday to be quoted on the subject. John B. Fergus, who for years has led the way in the various efforts to get for Chicago its rightful share of memberships in the house and senate in Springfield, was told, however, that the movement would gain momentum as it went along and that 1932 might be the time to strike and win.

Charles V. Barret, member of the board of review and a power in Republican circles, was mentioned as the possible candidate, although he is also a potential candidate for mayor. It was said also that former Vice President Charles G. Dawes might be drafted to make the race for metropolitan Chicago.

At political headquarters figures were being scanned to determine the possibilities. Success was predicted as the result of this showing:

In the primary of April 10, 1928, the Republican vote for Emmerson and Small was divided as follows:

Cook county	733,662
Rest of the state	876,326

This gave downstate a majority of 77,193 in the Republican primary, over Cook county, but in the Democratic contest the vote for Thompson, who had no opposition, was as follows:

Cook county	128,677
Rest of the state	105,419

That was a Cook county majority of 23,258, which, subtracted from the downstate Republican majority, placed Cook county just 48,935 votes behind the 101 other counties in the matter of nominating two candidates for governor. It was thought the growth of metropolitan Chicago in four years might wipe out that downstate handicap.

In the election of Nov. 6, 1928, Cook county cast 1,528,346 votes in the contest between Smith and Hoover while the 101 other counties cast 1,554,612, or only 26,266 fewer votes in the Cook county than in the 101 counties.

In the same election Cook county cast 49.5 per cent of the votes for governor. Despite this close division of the vote, Cook county has only 37.35 per cent of the representation in the legislature, 19 senators of 51, and 57 representatives of 153, a hopeless minority.

Representation, by law, however, is supposed to be governed by population instead of voting strength and the federal census of 1930 is expected to show that Cook county has slightly more than 50 per cent of the state's population and therefore should have 26 senators and 78 representatives in the lower house—the controlling membership in both houses.

Cook County's Salvation.

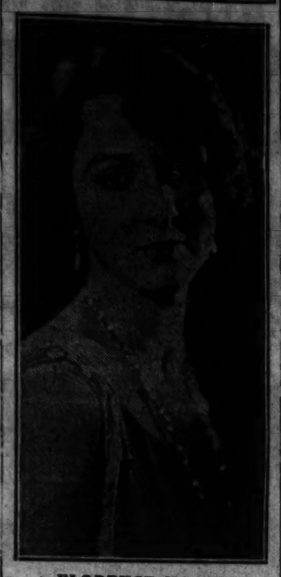
The only way Cook county can get that number of representatives, it was stated yesterday, is for the downstate politicians to yield to the constitution they are sworn to uphold, and yield seven senatorships and 21 places in the assembly—something they have refused for years to do.

But as the governor has the veto power, and as Cook county has an assembly membership of slightly more than one-third of the total, the county delegation, united, would be able to block the passage of any legislation over the governor's veto. Therefore the advocates of the Chicago plan say Chicago's salvation lies in the election of a Chicago governor.

There might and probably would be downstate Democratic opposition, it was conceded, but the proponents of the plan think it could be overcome. In the event of a downstate Democrat being nominated against a Chicago Republican, the local Democrats could desert him and thereby insure the election of the Chicagoan, it is pointed out.

But if the Republican had no opposition for governor they believe the Republican vote would not come out in the usual strength, thereby making it easy for Democrats seeking county offices.

Breaks Betrothal



FLORENCE NOYES.
[Du Bois Photo.]

The betrothal of Miss Florence Keats Noyes and Paul McCauley Boston has been broken, it was learned authoritatively yesterday. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest High Noyes, 1222 North State street, whose names are high in the social register. He is a young broker, the son of Mrs. William T. Boston of Yorkville, Ill. He has a bachelor apartment at 1234 North State street and has been described by society editors as a "play boy," being a gay parlor entertainer with a special stunt on a "guit-fiddle." Miss Noyes made her debut at a party at the Saddle and Cycle club in 1925 after studying art abroad. The engagement was announced last February at a small party given by Mrs. Robert M. Curtis at the Casino club.

Mayflower, Presidential Yacht, to Be Sold by Navy

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—Sale of the Mayflower, for 27 years the presidential yacht and now being placed out of commission at the Philadelphia navy yard by order of President Hoover, has been decided upon by the navy department. A request for bids, however, is not expected to be made for some time.

OPERA MUSIC TO SOUND ON HIGHER SCALE OF WAGES

Union Puts Crescendo Into Orchestra Contract

When the curtain rises in the new home of Chicago opera next fall, the musicians in the orchestra pit will sound their instruments at a higher wage scale. James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, yesterday announced that a three year contract has just been signed by himself and Herbert M. Johnson, business manager of the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Members of the orchestra for the last two years received $14 a performance. For the next two years, they will get $17, and the scale for the third year is $18 a performance.

Rehearsal Scale Higher.

For preseason rehearsals, the scale is raised from $100 to $110 a week for the first two years and $120 a week for the third year. For rehearsals during the season, the scale will remain at $6 per two hours for the first two years and then will be boosted to $6.50.

The musicians regularly employed in the orchestra will average about $175 a week, Mr. Petrillo said, as compared with about $164 a week during the last two years.

For single performances, in operas requiring a larger than usual orchestra, the scale for the extras is raised from $17 to $18 a performance for the next two years and to $19 for the third year.

Stage Hands Get Boost.

The stage hands, such as employed in La Traviata and Rigoletto, will enjoy a wage increase from $14 to $15 for the first two years and $16 for the third year, with a guarantee of four performances a week.

Negotiations over the new contract covered two weeks. Mr. Petrillo said that the opera company met all of the union demands except that the musicians' federation originally requested a two year rather than a three year agreement, with the second increase coming in the second rather than the third year.

Joe Raffaelli is manager of the pit orchestra and Tarquino Mansuet contractor for the stage band. The directors, Giorgio Polacco, Joe W. Weber, and Roberto Moranzoni, make their contracts with the opera company independent of the union.

Bank Bandits Take $2,000; Return $20 to Boy Victim

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—Six armed men held up the bank at Del Ray, Va., across the Potomac river from Washington, and escaped in an automobile with $2,000 in currency after forcing the cashier and stenographer into the vault. Roy Thomas, 13, who was in the bank at the time, was tied to a chair, but the bandits returned to him a $20 bill he had intended to deposit.

AIRCRAFT BRINGS MILWAUKEE INTO CHICAGO SUBURBS

'Untin' Bowler Finds It's Just a Hop Away.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

The 'Untin' Bowler made a short hop yesterday. Hop best describes it. At 12:05 p. m. the flying yacht rolled off the Oak street beach into the lake. Fifty-five minutes later she cut a frothy wake across the yacht club harbor in Milwaukee. There she rested for about two hours, took off again and flew the 90 miles back to Chicago. Aircraft, the Bowler found, makes Milwaukee a suburb of Chicago—a handy place to fly for lunch or a brief business engagement. By flying boat the two cities are less than an hour apart, for the water craft can take off from the downtown water front here and land on the water in Milwaukee. Up the bluff and a few blocks away from the harbor is the heart of the Cream City.

How to Know Them from Air.

The wind was from the west yesterday, so Pilot Bob Gast taxied THE TRIBUNE Sikorsky amphibion out to the last breakwater, turned about and sped shoreward into the wind with the twin wasp motors roaring at full blast and the water washing over the wings. She rose slowly, smacked the tops of a half dozen waves and turned north along the shore line.

By the time the passengers were settled Evanston was passing below. Only large objects and orderly or unusual patterns are distinguishable from the air. Evanston is identified from 2,000 feet in the air by the great bowl of Dyche stadium to the west and the campus of Northwestern university. Winnetka is distinguished by the red brick water tower at the foot of Tower road, Glencoe by its lake shore country club, Ravinia by the stadium north of the opera house, Fort Sheridan by the sharp tower pointing skyward in the midst of the barracks, and Lake Forest by its great wooded estates, its profusion of formal gardens, and its winding roads.

Buoys and Ducks.

Bowling along past Kenosha and Racine the ship came upon Milwaukee hidden in a film of smoke. A moment later and Pilot Gast circled about the harbor to land. The wings tip at a sharp angle and the world goes cock-eyed. Out of one window you look out at a mackerel sky; out of the other you peer straight down upon chimneys and housetops.

Sliding in across the breakwater Gast discovered that the harbor waters were dotted with what appeared to be buoys. Some of them were, but others proved to be ducks when they rose from the water and scurried away in fright as the great roaring bird pursued them. Picking an opening, Gast brought the ship down and a shore attendant rowed out to take the passengers ashore.

"A buoy is not a very soft article," Pilot Gast observed. "One of them might do some mean tricks to a ship by striking its hull at 60 miles an hour. Flying boats need clear harbors with clear runways and ranges or a row of points on shore so that the pilot may sight for landing."

The Bowler rode at anchor for two hours while her passengers lunched. Then she roared out of the harbor, circled over Milwaukee and pointed homeward.

At 4 o'clock the amphibion hopped up on the Oak street beach, discharged her passengers and flew away to the Municipal field.

CHANGE ROUTES OF CARS USING CLARK ST. SPAN

Due to the wrecking of the Clark street bridge by the sandboat Sandmaster, last week, a number of changes in street car routes were announced yesterday by the Chicago Surface lines. The changes will affect not only the lines using the bridge but those operating in Lake, Randolph and Washington streets.

Northbound Clark street cars will turn off in Randolph and go through the La Salle street tunnel to Illinois street and thence back to Clark street. Southbound cars will pursue the same course reversed. Division street cars instead of using Randolph street as at present will enter the business section at Lake and Dearborn streets, then south to Washington street and west over their regular route.

Ogden avenue cars will follow their regular route in Randolph street to Franklin, turning north to Lake, in Lake to Dearborn, and in Dearborn to Washington and west in Washington. Elston cars westbound will use Washington street to Franklin, thence north to Randolph and west in Randolph. Riverview-Larrabee cars will run south in Dearborn to Washington, west in Washington to Wells, and north in Wells over regular route.

MRS. WIDENER, WIFE OF NOTED FINANCIER, DIES

Philadelphia, Pa., May 4.—Mrs. Joseph E. Widener, wife of the financier, art collector, and horseman, died suddenly today at her estate, Lynnewood Hall, in Elkins Park, a suburb of this city. She was found lying unconscious on the floor of her bedroom, and died before a doctor could be summoned.

Before the household was astir a butler was passing through the hallway off her bedroom when he heard Mrs. Widener moving. A moment later she fumbled at the door knob and seemed to have trouble opening it. Pausing a few seconds, the butler heard a thud and opened the door to find her unconscious on the floor.

The household immediately was aroused and efforts were made to revive her. All the efforts were futile, however, and she was dead before the doctor arrived.

Before her marriage Mrs. Widener was Ella H. Pancoast of Philadelphia. She shared the interest of her husband in horses, he being the principal owner of Belmont Park race track.

During the two Belmont seasons and at Saratoga, Mrs. Widener always was present to second her husband. She attended all the leading turf events.

Noted for her entertainments, particularly those at Lynnewood Hall, she was easily one of the outstanding hostesses of America. She equally was well known in Philadelphia, New York and Newport society.

Besides her husband she leaves two children, Peter A. B. Widener II., and Mrs. Milton Helden.

Diamonds Worth $125,000 Vanish; Pebbles in Packet

LONDON, May 4.—(AP)—Continental police have begun an investigation of a mysterious diamond robbery involving stones valued at £25,000 (about $125,000). An international gang is believed to be involved. The diamonds were posted in registered mail from Lorenço Marques, Portuguese East Africa, to an Antwerp firm. When the parcels reached Antwerp they were found to contain only worthless pebbles.

POWERS APPROVE GIBSON SCHEME TO LIMIT ARMS

Vote for Full Publicity on Expenditures.

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

GENEVA, May 4.—With the delegates to the preparatory disarmament conference adjourning this morning an hour and a half earlier than usual in order to finish up private conversations and profit by the balmy week-end weather, interest is now centered on the long awaited naval disarmament deliberations, which are slated to come up Monday.

Few concrete results are expected at this time, however, since the speeches will be limited to a general statement by Lord Cushendun and a more detailed account of the American proposal by Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson and perhaps one or two other general declarations. All discussion will be taboo.

French Withdraw Proposal.

Meanwhile a seemingly inevitable crash at the present session was avoided this morning at the last minute by an about face of the French delegation, which withdrew its proposal for budgetary limitation of war materials. It was this proposal, stubbornly adhered to by France and supported by the big army powers, which yesterday gave all signs that a deadlock had been reached, due to America's inability to accept such a scheme.

At the beginning of today's meeting Count de Massigli, French delegate, arose and said that following yesterday's meeting he had talked with Ambassador Gibson and now was ready to withdraw the French proposal of indirect limitation in favor of Ambassador Gibson's scheme for limitation by publication of expenditures on war materials.

Litvinoff Registers Protest.

The proposal was adopted by an overwhelming vote. Twenty-two nations voted in favor of the resolution. Russia and China voted against it. Germany abstained from voting.

Although it is frankly recognized that the publicity scheme is a compromise, it is at least a step forward, to which all delegates will be able to agree with the exception of Commissar Litvinoff of Russia. He roundly bawled out his colleagues for accepting what he termed a mere mask covering the fact that no solution of the problem had been found.

JAILED MAYOR OF GARY SEEKS OFFICE TUESDAY

The citizens of Gary will go to the polls Tuesday in the Republican primary to decide whether they want to give former Mayor R. O. Johnson, who left office in 1925 to serve time in the federal penitentiary, another chance as mayor; or whether the service of the present mayor, Floyd E. Williams, justifies his return to office.

For six weeks both candidates have been conducting active campaigns. Johnson has met his enemies by denying his guilt in conspiring to violate the prohibition law, the charge on which he and 55 city officials, including the city judge and bootleggers and racketeers were convicted in 1923.

Williams has been called upon to meet the charges of the Johnson factionalists that he is a "tool of the bosses." Johnson occupied office for one and three years of another term. This is his third candidacy. Williams has served only one term.

Mrs. Mariann K. Sevald, a practicing attorney of Hammond, is seeking the city judgeship in that town at the primary election Tuesday. If elected Mrs. Sevald, who is 25 years old, will be the only woman occupant of a city bench in Indiana.

STEALS $2 HOSE; GETS 6 MONTHS.

Springfield, Ill., May 4.—[U.P.]—Because he stole a pair of hose valued at $2, William Ethridge today was sentenced to six months at the state farm at Vandalia by Judge O. B. Irwin.

WALSH PUTS SENATE INTO PAPER INQUIRY

Would Scan Combine's Press Holdings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Copies of the ownership statements filed with the postmaster general by the various newspapers in which, it has been revealed, the International Paper and Power company holds stock interests, were demanded today in a resolution introduced in the senate by Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.].

Immediate consideration of the resolution was balked by the objection of Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], the Republican leader, and the resolution went over until Monday. Senator Walsh declined to discuss the resolution or admit that information secured, both from the postoffice department and from the hearings of the federal trade commission, is to be used as the basis for legislation to prohibit power and other outside corporations from acquiring interests in newspaper properties.

Holdings in Many Papers.

The Walsh resolution points out that Archibald Graustein, president of the International Paper and Power company, admitted to the federal trade commission that his company, in return for newsprint paper contracts, had assisted in financing the purchase or operation of a number of newspapers including the Boston Herald and Traveler, the Chicago Daily News, the Chicago Daily Journal, the Tampa Tribune, the Greensboro, N. C., Record, the Albany, N. Y., Knickerbocker Press, the Auburn, N. Y., Evening News, the Brooklyn Eagle, the Augusta, Ga., Chronicle, the Columbia, S. C., Record, and the Spartansburg, S. C., Herald.

Under the resolution the postmaster general would be directed to furnish "for the information of the senate" a copy of the statement filed by the editor, publisher, business manager, or owner of each of the newspapers above enumerated, setting forth the names and post office addresses of the editor and managing editor, publisher, business manager, and owners, and the stockholders if the publication be owned by a corporation, and also the names of the known bondholders, mortgage, or other security holders.

Gannett Returns Money.

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—The Brooklyn Eagle announced today that the International Paper and Power company no longer had any financial interest in the Brooklyn Eagle or in any of the Frank E. Gannett newspapers.

Frank E. Gannett today delivered to the International Paper and Power company his check for more than $2,700,000, retiring all of the International investments in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, the Albany Knickerbocker Press, the Albany News, and the Ithaca Journal-News, which are among the seventeen papers controlled by Gannett.

According to the testimony of A. R. Graustein, president of the International, before the Federal Trade commission this week, the power company obtained its holdings when it helped Gannett finance the purchase of the Eagle. Mr. Graustein said, told him he was planning the purchase of other newspapers when they were discussing the newsprint contracts for 1929, "and asked the International to help in the financing.

Advances $1,954,500.

The International advanced a total of $1,954,500, for which it obtained 400,000 shares, or 40 per cent of the common stock of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle corporation, which, in turn, owns all outstanding stock of the Brooklyn Publishing company, which owns 68 per cent of the capital stock of the Eagle.

Graustein said the International also assisted Gannett to the extent of $300,000 in the purchase of the Ithaca Journal-News and $450,000 for the Albany Knickerbocker Press and Evening News.

ROB FIVE; GET $125.

Two young bandits held up a night clerk and four other persons in the lobby and coffee shop of the Casling hotel, 1512 North La Salle street, yesterday morning and obtained more than $125.

COURT GUARDS PUBLIC'S SLEEP BY INJUNCTION

Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan yesterday issued a temporary injunction restraining the trustees of the estate of James Otis from wrecking a building at 59 East Van Buren street between the hours of 10 p. m. and 7 a. m.

The injunction was sought jointly by the Chicago Musical college in behalf of students housed in its dormitories, and by the Lorraine hotel in behalf of its guests. They charged that work continued 24 hours of the day, disturbing the slumbers of the students and guests.

Judge Sullivan ruled that an owner of property has the right to its peaceful and quiet enjoyment. He held that the wreckers could continue their work, provided all operations are carried on noiselessly. But if there is noise in the night hours the workers may face contempt charges, the judge said.

Foot Troubles
Cause Bad Health
They affect the body in many different ways. The feet swell, burn, ache, have pains under heels; ball of foot tender; sore and feels as if you are walking on marbles; corns, callouses, bunions, ingrowing and bunions; excessive perspiration; offensive odor; overdeveloped ankles; swollen legs; varicose veins; legs cramp; feet stiffen; pains in limbs, small of back, shoulders and neck; poor circulation; with nervous exhaustion and general weakness. Do not be discouraged regardless of what your condition may be or what you have tried, as thousands have consulted Dr. Pinkston in order to relieve all foot troubles and nine-tenths of them regardless of the nature or condition of the ailment.

AVIATION NEWS.

Friends of aviation are disturbed that newspapers should feature accounts of airplane tragedies. They want these accidents ignored or obscured in the back pages. The public, they fear, will be slow to overcome its timidity so long as it reads of the frequent disasters of pilots and passengers. We recall that in the early days of motoring the newspapers were likewise asked to keep the news of automobile crashes from their columns.

We think that there is no newspaper in the country inspired with a malicious motive to interfere with the development of air transportation. On the contrary there are but few papers in the country which are not promoting the welfare of the industry by helping to get terminal facilities and by devoting valuable space to the advancement of commercial aviation ventures. But a newspaper is obligated to print the news and the unfortunate events must be presented. The same rules govern the presentation of aviation news as govern news of other character. Not nearly all of the accidents appear on the front page; the circumstances and features of the tragedy, its scene and its magnitude determine whether it is a page one story or a page twenty-five item. Similarly some automobile accidents are placed on the front page while many are not. Railroad wrecks are subject to the same rules.

We differ with those aviation enthusiasts who believe that the printing of these accidents injures their business with potential customers. The reverse is probably true. In all of the disasters, the cause, if it can be ascertained, is produced. We find that causes can be generalized and we find that if certain practices are avoided practical safety is assured. The person who is not enough interested to study the causes, but who is alarmed merely by the caption, is not a prospective passenger.

From an analysis of recent news of airplane accidents we can enumerate a few of the principal causes of accidents. There is, for instance, the careless pilot, who does not adequately study weather conditions or who risks the lives of himself and his passenger because he does not inspect his plane frequently. There is the reckless pilot, the sort who by his bravado was apparently responsible for the disaster in the west a few days ago. And there have been instances of drunken pilots, as well as pilots who were incompetent either through lack of training or intelligence.

Another important contributing cause of accidents is the nature of the air fields in most cities. Often they are too crowded and they are so poorly regulated that sightseeing planes, mail planes, scheduled passenger ships, and student planes are subject to the hazard of collision. In army fields, of course, there is better discipline, and the danger of airport accidents is reduced. To escape this condition, smaller fields and more of them will probably be laid out. In this way the system of traffic separation, which is of growing importance in motor transportation, will be introduced.

If the reader will examine the circumstances surrounding each airplane accident he will find that few of them occur on ships under responsible management, which are regularly and competently inspected and piloted by competent, disciplined men. The publication of airplane accidents does not have to be justified on any other ground than that of news. But the printing of this news is helping the public to choose how to fly and how not to fly. The wrong kind of operators will suffer, but the public is entitled to protection. Those who are developing aviation by correct methods will benefit.

REACHING FOR IT.

THE TRIBUNE printed a letter Wednesday morning from A. M. Kelly, chairman of the National Food Products Protective committee. Mr. Kelly noted the fact that W-G-N was an outlet for the American Tobacco company's hour broadcast by the National Broadcasting company. The food protective committee has protested to the broadcasting company against the character of the advertising carried in this program. It also has protested to the federal radio commission, asking for censorship and suppression.

THE TRIBUNE is asked to say whether it will continue its responsibility for the release of "this vicious attack upon public health and upon honest business interests" or will take the program off the air if it contains such cigaret copy. THE TRIBUNE'S reply, Mr. Kelly says, will be sent to 250,000 concerns interested in sweet food products and to religious, social service and other agencies.

THE TRIBUNE is disposed to leave people's reachings to themselves. Whether they reach for a sweet or a plug of tobacco does not seem to this newspaper to constitute a question properly in the field of government censorship, social service dictation or religious boycott. Both the cigaret and the cake makers can do without the appeal to the odium theologicum, the federal policeman or the village constable. The National Food Products Protective association has a fight with the American Tobacco company. The sweet food producers are reaching for government clubs.

Mr. Kelly and his associates on the protective committee may inform themselves as to W-G-N by listening in.

THE PROBLEM OF THE SUPERIOR MAN.

Employers will find material for thought in the recent announcement of labor policy by one of the largest private employers in the world, the General Electric company. General Electric has more than 40,000 names on its pay roll and its net profits in the first quarter of this year have been estimated at $15,000,000. Two experiments in industrial relations which Genera' Electric is about to undertake are given added significance by the size of the corporation and its indisputable success.

At present employés who have been in service five years or longer but are not in the highest earning classes are being paid a bonus of 5 per cent of their wages. This bonus, it is announced, may be modified somewhat. The amount paid may be made dependent upon the profits of the company as well as upon wages received. As the profits increase, supplementary compensation will increase. The 5 per cent bonus served to reduce labor turnover by placing a premium upon continued service. The new bonus is intended to do that and in addition to stimulate production.

Many employers have anticipated that part of General Electric's program but fewer have undertaken the second experiment. General Electric announces that it is going to seek out the superior men and women among its army of employés and, having found them, to advance their wages and responsibilities. As industries increase in size and complexity the likelihood of failure to recognize the superior individual is increased. The oversight is costly. Industrial engineers have frequently noted that the largest unit in an industry is seldom as efficient as some of the smaller units although the larger unit often enjoys advantages of large scale production, buying and selling which the smaller company cannot match.

Certainly one reason for the disparity, and perhaps the most important reason, is the difficulty which confronts the management of the largest industrial units in making an appraisal of personnel and acting upon it for the advancement of the individual and the corporation. In consequence many large corporations lose the services of their ablest employés. Some of the best men and women, finding themselves submerged, seek work elsewhere. In a real sense, those who remain also are lost to the corporation, for their talents and potential powers of leadership are not exploited to the full.

The effort to single out the superior man in industry will be watched with great interest. Superior is a large term. The technique for finding the superior salesman must be different from that for finding the superior draftsman or office executive. Indeed, it remains to be determined whether it is possible to improve upon the present haphazard methods of selection for advancement. But the effort is worth making, for the problem is certain to become of increasing importance as the size of our industrial units increases.

MR. SHAW AND MR. TUNNEY.

Reports from Italy reveal Bernard Shaw and Gene Tunney in a companionship of retirement on the Isle of Brioni in the Adriatic, which should stimulate active and ambitious youth to the career of the American prize ring. The old age of these two notable men is golden and glorious. Mr. Shaw is seventy-five, but Mr. Tunney is so well preserved that he can keep the swimming pace set by Mr. Shaw in the water, and the reports say that the two float for hours in the sunlight. They also are inseparable dinner companions, but no one is permitted close enough to their table to Boswell them.

What might thus be a loss probably will be saved in their collected works. Mr. Shaw in a preface will preserve what he said to Mr. Tunney and Mr. Tunney in his autobiography will give what he said to Mr. Shaw. The scene, the characters, the opportunity, all are rare in human experience; an enchanted isle, the wines of Italy, the sunlit waves; Horace would smile on it from the Sabine hills and Pindar from Olympus. The unenvious fellow humans of these two happy ancients wish them a long count in the final round.

Editorial of the Day

A UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT AT 30.

[Detroit News.]

Another young man old in experience has been made president of a great university. Robert Maynard Hutchins, the unanimous choice of the trustees of the University of Chicago, is only 30, but he has already shown remarkable ability as dean of the law school at Yale; and even as a student he marked himself as a leader. He stood high in scholarship and was captain of the Yale debating team although he had to work his way through college, and one of his first feats of organization was the formation of a coöperative tutoring bureau, composed of students earning their education by acting as tutors.

However, Dean Hutchins only slightly lowers the presidential age record. William Rainey Harper became president of the University of Chicago at the age of 35, and proved that he combined deep scholarship with great organizing ability. Clarence Cook Little was president of the University of Maine at 34 and of the University of Michigan at 37. Glenn Frank was 35 when he became president of the University of Wisconsin.

The automobile industry was one of the first to prove that young men who combined sound training with vast energy and optimism could make first rate executives. Other businesses followed this lead. The universities have not been behind. A man like Dean Hutchins has not lived long enough to forget the vivid impressions of his own student days, while at the same time he has won his place as a scholar and an administrator. His election will spur the ambition of many a young man now in college who looks forward to a career as an educator.

DO YOU BELIEVE IN ANGELS?

BY DR. BENJAMIN DASKAL

[Rabbi, Congregation Rodfai Zedek, Chicago.]

The handshake is the symbol of human friendship. Friendship is the symbol of human insufficiency. The spoken word is the symbol of thought. Thought is the symbol of the spiritual element in man. The ceremony is the symbol of religion. Religion is the symbol of the unity between God and man. Angels are symbolic beings whose existence should not be terminated until one has at least learned to appreciate the purpose for which they were created. Their names are usually associated with the mission that has been assigned to them. They carry but one message at a time, thus believing in specialization. In the Bible, they mostly speak in monosyllables, and their brevity of expression may be emulated by many who pretend eloquence.

In the lives of the patriarchs, Abraham practices hospitality to three angels, and in return is informed of the approaching birth of Isaac. At the intended sacrifice of Isaac on Mount Moriah, Abraham is again told by an angel that the test of his self-sacrificing devotion is now complete, and that Isaac be permitted to live as a Hebrew instead of dying as one. It is noteworthy that Isaac reached the end of his days without even once being inspired by the sight or voice of an angel.

However, Jacob seems to have compensated for this deficiency in his father's career. Jacob sees angels in his dreams whenever he is beset by dangers, and both are found in abundance in his biography. His vision of the ladder with ascending and descending angels has been an inspiration to many. The ladder is a symbol of construction and promotion; the sense of security that comes to them who find God even in a deserted place; the possibility of rising above one's environment, and building a ladder reaching to heaven, even when its lowest rung stands on unholy ground; these are essential values that man cannot discard without losing an element of precious inspiration. An angel announces to him the time for his return; an angel wrestles with him in the darkness of the night, and ultimately blesses him with the name of "Israel." It should here be emphasized that no angels are included in the revelation at Sinai. The Bible is unusually insistent upon the exclusion of any reference at Sinai that might be interpreted as mere allegory. While the Torah is everywhere replete in metaphors, the giving of the decalogue is couched in terms devoid of all exaggeration.

The Midrash say [Rabbah-Bamidbar-16] that the prophets were called angels. Moses, it appears from the text [Nos. 20-16], refers to himself as an angel [messenger] who redeemed Israel from Egypt. The prophet Haggai [1-13] explicitly speaks of himself as an angel. The key to the whole problem is to be found in Psalms [104-4] where the wind is called God's angel. An angel is a messenger, for good or otherwise, and the elements of nature become angelic beings in the poetry of the Bible when they fulfill the command of God in a specific manner. In Isaiah [37-36] one of the destructive forces of nature is called "an angel of God" in bringing death to the army of Sennacherib who had besieged Jerusalem. An angel may also represent the personification of an ideal, so that we read of angels whose names are Zedek, Chesed, Shalom, Emes. There is even to be found in the Talmud an angel by the name of Dumah [phantasy], the angel who controls the winds, i. e., the aspiration of man toward a certain profession or occupation. Two angels accompany every Jew on his way from the synagogue to his home [Sabbath 119]. One is a good angel, the other, evil.

If the atmosphere of the home radiates love and contentment, the good angel says "May the next Sabbath be a repetition of this one," and the evil angel unwillingly answers "Amen." If conflict and unhappiness prevail in the home, the angel of evil portrays the following Sabbath in the same light, and the good angel must respond accordingly. What a beautiful thought! Every Sabbath is not a detached unit, but a continuation of the past, and an anticipation of the future. The two forces that struggle within man for supremacy during the week look to the home on the Sabbath to identify itself either with the one or the other, and its decision is instrumental in subjugating the weaker of the two forces.

Another enlightening saying is to be found in the Midrash [Rabba Vayera and Jerusalem Talmud Rosh Hashanah] where it is said that the Jews brought the names of the angels to Palestine when they returned from the Babylonian exile. This simplifies for us the abundance of angelic references in the books of Ezekiel and Daniel, both of Babylonian origin.

Permit me to make clear my definition of an angel. When an aeroplane flies through space and drops bombs on innocent occupants of homes, its value is that of a spear in war. When it writes a cigaret advertisement across the sky, its value is that of a wooden Indian. When it brings antitoxin to an isolated community, it becomes an angel, bringing healing on its wings. When it engenders good will between peoples it is an ambassador of friendly intercourse. Every mitzvah creates an angel, said the rabbis. Every mitzvah is an angel. Every good deed in which are found the ingredients of morality and spirituality is a winged creature, because it raises man from the pursuit of earthly things, to the quest for higher values.

Ours is a reducing age. In the reduction of physical weight we have come to understand that the physician should be consulted and his advice heeded. In the reduction of religious beliefs every man considers himself competent to distinguish between the essentials and nonessentials of religion. Consequently, much is being discarded as irrelevant by the masses who know not where to begin, and what is more important, where to end. Angels represent a figure of speech, a poetic expression that should not be eliminated from the vocabulary of man. It is a verbal picture, the beauty of which cannot be dispensed with. Do not kill the angel! His body may be a fiction, but his soul is truth. Spare him for your own sake! Spare him for your child's sake!

In your attempt to harmonize the hereditary religion of your fathers with the educational environment of your children, you may think that the naked truth should prevail in all religious instruction and that legend should be declared obsolete. But wait. Don't permit the ax to decend. Don't rob your child of his imaginary world, with its dreams and illusions. He, too, will learn to reappraise his religious values as you have done. He, too, will reset his diamonds in newer and more valuable settings. But do not rush the process. He will refurnish his spiritual home, as he comes to afford it. But do not encourage him to discard the old before he can provide the new. The angel, who granted life to Isaac, must himself be permitted to live, if we are to speak of the God of our fathers as the God of our children.

FAVORITE HYMNS

BY BISHOP REGINALD HEBER.

Holy, holy, holy, Lord God almighty!
Early in the morning my song shall rise to Thee;
Holy, holy, holy! Merciful and mighty!
God in three persons, blessed Trinity!

Holy, holy, holy! All the saints adore Thee,
Casting down their golden crowns around the glassy sea;
Cherubim and seraphim falling down before Thee,
Who wert, and art, and evermore shalt be.

Holy, holy, holy! Though the darkness hide Thee,
Though the eye of sinful man Thy glory may not see,
Only Thou are holy; there is none beside Thee,
Perfect in power, in love, and purity.

Holy, holy, holy! Lord God almighty!
All Thy works shall praise Thy name, in earth and sky and sea;
Holy, holy, holy! Merciful and mighty!
God in three persons, blessed Trinity!

STUDY OF COMMON COLD.

PHYSICIANS and research workers are putting in so much time and energy studying the common cold that some important discoveries must come before long. Meanwhile, here are a group of minor importance, yet each of which may serve as a brick in the foundations for a superstructure of great importance. This group of studies was made at Cornell by Drs. Maughan and Smiley.

There is no particular relation between body build or physique and susceptibility to colds. The physically weak and the physically strong are about on a par.

People who are very subject to colds are also found to be especially prone to catch contagious diseases and to have asthma and hay fever. Most people have an average of two to three colds a year. That may be taken as about the average as things now are. About one-fourth of the people have four colds a year or more. This quarter of the population are the sources, in a sense, of the epidemic outbursts. If a way could be found of bringing them down to the average the problem of the epidemic outbreaks would be solved.

The solution of this problem Drs. Maughan and Smiley think may lie in periodic treatment with ultraviolet light. They treated a group of students with ultraviolet. The treatments were given once a week. The entire skin of the body was exposed. The length of exposure was 10 to 16 minutes. These radiated students had only one-half as many colds as did a control group. An effort was made to have the two groups alike in all other particulars.

If the problem is to take the one-quarter of the population who are now on a four cold a year basis, to change them to a two cold a year basis, Drs. Maughan and Smiley show us what they think is a solution. If other observers support them overwhelmingly then the question becomes one of finding out who are the four cold a year people.

After that has been met the next problem is getting the four cold people to put themselves on a two cold basis. When that has been accomplished it will be in order to plan some way to mop up.

NO EFFECT ON REDUCTION.

Too Fat writes: 1. Is Epsom salts taken for reducing injurious to the system?

2. What quantities should be used?

3. Is a lemon a day taken in water injurious to heart or blood?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Why waste salts and time?
3. No.

SPECIFIC GRAVITY.

Mrs. C. A. H. writes: 1. Just what is meant by specific gravity?

2. I am 48 years old, 5 feet 4½ inches tall, weigh 185 pounds, and blood pressure is 110. Is there any danger to health in that low blood pressure?

3. Would iron pills help?

REPLY.

1. It means weight as compared with distilled water. For instance, if a given volume of distilled water weighed 1,000 grains and the same volume of salt solution weighed 1,020 grains, we would say the specific gravity of the salt solution is 1020.

2. No. The party might not be getting much joy out of life but he would not be sick or in danger of passing away.

3. Nothing in your letter indicates any need for iron pills.

HIGH ALKALI RESERVE.

J. T. writes: Am I correct in assuming that the fundamental principle about diet is that most of the food we eat should be on the side of alkali-ash balance so as to keep up a high alkali reserve?

REPLY.

Yes.

DEMENTIA PRÆCOX.

Reader writes: What is dementia præcox?

REPLY.

It is a form of insanity so named because it develops in young people rather frequently. It now is regarded as the most prevalent form of insanity. The cause is not known. Inheritance is a factor of some importance. Some persons with dementia præcox fit fairly well in society. Many of them do not.

BAD REASON FOR ASHES.

Chicago, April 25.—[Friend of the People.]—I own a building located in the 6100 block south on Kildare avenue. I am unable to take my car out of the garage on account of the state of the alley. The ruts are a foot deep. Could not the city dump some ashes here? There is room for ashes along this alley from 60th to 63d street. There is also a vacant lot next door to me which is used as a dumping ground for garbage. We are infested with flies. I kill on an average of fifty a day. A visit out here would open your eyes. Cannot something be done to remedy this condition? C. W.

Report is made that garbage complained of has been removed. Request for ash filling has been placed on file and will be taken care of at the first opportunity. Ash output at the present time is not suitable for alley filling purposes. JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Deputy superintendent of streets.

DEBTS IN MINNESOTA.

Chicago, April 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly inform me what the statute of limitations is in Minnesota for debts. T. F. A.

The limitation period on open accounts is six years.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORTGAGE OVERDUE.

Chicago, April 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Nearly two years ago I sold some vacant property. The deal arranged that I should get a cash sum as a down payment; the balance was to be paid in the form of a second mortgage, to run for eighteen months. The mortgage is long overdue and I understand that the property has been sold three times with this mortgage past due. 1. Is the party who purchased the property liable for the mortgage? 2. If I were to get a judgment against him, could I make him pay the mortgage? 3. The party who signed the mortgage has plenty of money. He took title and paid me with his own certified check, telling me at the time that he was the real purchaser of the property. Later I found out that he sold the property for a profit. W. G. S.

1. Yes, in the sense that you will be entitled to have the property sold to satisfy your mortgage. 2. You would not be entitled to get a judgment against him merely because he has bought the property. 3. He is personally liable.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 5, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—The whole federal army in Virginia has for several days been under marching orders, with eight days' rations. A sharp, strong, comprehensive blow is to be struck, which will include the operation of an army of nearly half a million men and extend along one whole great line from Virginia to Tennessee. Gens. Butler and Sigel also have important parts to play in the movement on Richmond.

WASHINGTON.—A general order, issued by command of Lieut. Gen. Grant, declares that until further orders only shelter tents shall be issued to armies in the field. If the men refuse shelter tents, no tents will be issued. Officers are prohibited from making requisitions for any except shelter tents.

NEW YORK.—The Post's special says the rebels are concentrating an immense number of troops in Virginia. All mail communication with the Army of the Potomac is prohibited for the present. Rebel deserters all say that Lee is making extensive preparations to meet Grant.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas.—Col. William A. Phillips has telegraphed Gen. Curtis that Quantrell and his gang of cutthroats are again on their way north but it is not believed the guerrillas will be able to invade Kansas for any great distance because Gen. Brown's forces are on the alert.

DENVER CITY, Colo.—About sixty men of the First Colorado cavalry had a fight with a band of Cheyennes, numbering about 200, at Cedar canyon. The Indians were routed with a loss of twenty-five killed and thirty-five or forty wounded. One soldier was killed and one wounded.

CHICAGO.—James W. Scoville and J. D. Harvey have formed a partnership for the buying and selling of real estate and the negotiation of mortgage loans.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 5, 1899.

PARIS.—It is practically admitted in official circles that the Court of Cassation will make public its decree in the Dreyfus case on May 20. The rumor that Premier Dupuy desires the annulment of the process under which Dreyfus is confined on Devil's island, thus giving him freedom, without the publicity of revelations, sure to be made at a new trial, is denied by M. Lebret, minister of justice, who declares the government will not interfere.

ALBANY, N. Y.—Gov. Roosevelt denied the application for a pardon for Henry Hendricks of Allegany county, serving a life sentence for killing his wife, and incidentally declared himself in favor of the whipping post.

MANILA.—In spite of peaceful overtures by their commissioners, the Filipinos vigorously resisted the advance of Gen. MacArthur's division from Apilit toward San Fernando, fighting desperately at long range after running from trench to trench after being driven out by American artillery. The country proved the worst yet encountered by the Americans, miles of marshes and unfordable streams materially delaying the advance.

PARIS.—Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago gave a reception at the Hotel Ritz in honor of the mother of Prince Cantacuzene of the Russian imperial guard, at which formal announcement of the betrothal of the prince to Miss Julia Dent Grant was made. Among those present were Gen. Horace Porter, United States ambassador, and Mrs. Porter, and Ferdinand W. Peck and Mrs. Peck of Chicago.

MARION, Mass.—Richard Harding Davis and Miss Cecil Clark of Chicago were married by the Rev. Percy Brown of Roxbury at St. Gabriel's chapel.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 5, 1919.

PARIS.—President Wilson, Premier Clemenceau, and Premier Lloyd George, composing the council of three, sent a communication to the Italian government inviting it to resume its place at the peace conference. The council's invitation is of such a nature that it is believed Italy will accept it.

VIENNA.—The Budapest soviet government has appealed to President Wilson to prevent the onward march of the Roumanian troops encircling Hungary.

BEILEBEI, Southeast Russia.—Siberian troops are pushing close to Samara and Orenburg. It is reported that the latter town is being evacuated by the bolsheviki. It is expected the Siberians will undertake a new drive soon with the river Volga as their object. This front is held by an army of 200,000, organized since Admiral Kolchak took control five months ago.

CHICAGO.—There was no "red" parade in Gary yesterday. Instead, 16 men, plucked from an unruly mob of 16,000, nursed sore heads and injured ribs in the Gary police station after three hours of intermittent rioting. Many more received minor hurts. Fifty policemen, wearing revolvers on their belts and reinforced by a special shotgun squad of 16, a company of state militia, 30 deputy sheriffs, a group of secret service men from Chicago, and hundreds of citizen volunteers, prevented the parade after the Russian Socialists flouted an order of Mayor W. H. Hodges prohibiting the march and declared they would proceed despite the authorities.

COBLENZ.—Lieut. Gen. Hunter L. Liggettt, formerly commander of the 1st American army corps, arrived here and assumed command of the United States 3d army in the occupied zone.

HIGH COST OF DOG TESTS.

Chicago, April 19.—Recently I had occasion to ship a dog to some children in Wisconsin. I was told by the express company to secure a health certificate for him. They gave me the address of a veterinarian who took one glance at the dog and wrote just fifteen words on a blank form, including the name of the shipper and receiver.

The charge was three dollars for not three minutes' work. I inquired why the outrageous charge for so little work and was politely informed that the veterinarian, in fact, receives only one-fifty and the other dollar and a half goes to the assistant state veterinarian, who issues the blanks. Also if a dog arrives at the express office without a health certificate, the expressman calls a veterinarian who issues a certificate and charges four dollars to the receiver. One dollar goes to the expressman, one and a half to the veterinarian, and the other one and a half to the assistant state veterinarian. If there is a crate of two dogs, three dollars is charged for each.

Now, as I understand it, this is just for rabies and as rabies is a slow lingering disease it cannot be detected until the animal becomes violently ill. No one can tell a thing about him by just looking at the animal.

ROBERT P. BROOKS.

LADY BARBERS.

Chicago, April 25.—Why so much fuss about barbers cutting ladies' hair? Why should not a woman be required to spend just as much time learning to cut hair as a man before she gets a state license?

I have worked thirty years at this business. Barbers would not object to women haircutters if they were required to learn the business the same as men.

Barbers should have protection, the same as doctors, dentists, or other professions. No profession should tolerate quacks. We are all under the board of registration and education at Springfield.

WILLIS H. SPARGUS.

VETERAN ELEVATOR MEN.

Chicago, April 25.—In Wednesday's edition of THE TRIBUNE there appeared an article stating that John Doepp holds the record as being the oldest elevator operator in the city of Chicago, his record being 40 years. In the building now called the Guardian National bank, 105 South Dearborn street, one will find two elderly men, quiet, kind and congenial, who have been going up and down for years, and are still going strong. Their names are James Coleman and Dave Steel. Mr. Coleman has been operating his elevator for 41 years and eight months, since Aug. 15, 1887. Very little, if at any time, have they been absent from their posts. They are proud of their record.

ARNETT E. V. E.

THE FIRST PETTICOAT TOWN.

Cotter, Ia., April 23.—I wish to take exception to a statement in the rotogravure section of last Sunday's TRIBUNE to the effect that the town of Jackson, Wyo., was the first American town to adopt petticoat government and Grover, Colo., the second.

About six years ago the town of Columbus City in Louisa county, Ga., elected a mayor and town council, all of the so-called opposite sex.

WILLIAM OWEN.

PROHIBITION FOR REFORMERS.

Peotone, Ill., April 25.—Speakers at public officials who piously declare that "as long as a law is on the statute books it should be enforced and observed until it is repealed" certainly know very little of the history of government.

If an attempt were made to enforce all the laws on our statute books it would be a mess. Unwise and unpopular laws are hardly ever repealed by legislative enactment; they are quietly nullified by popular opinion. Sometimes they are knocked out by legal decision, but for the most part they remain on the books.

The last historical case where the people revolted against a law they did not want was Russia. They were so harassed by the czar's prohibition law that they were in a mood to favor anything for a change.

There is no question that in this country prohibition is not wanted. There was a demand for the closing of saloons in many states, but not drastic prohibition as defined by the Volstead act. The total vote of all referendums held on prohibition shows a decided majority against it.

Everybody knows that Hoover's election was not a referendum on the liquor issue. The real issue was another question.

In the last election in Wisconsin the drys made the greatest effort they ever attempted to defeat the referendum. The big shots of the Anti-Saloon, Women's Temperance union, flying squadron, and every available preacher were pressed into service.

Prohibition would already be a dead letter law but for the professional reformers and stipendary moralists who make their living by the agitation.

W. F. BRASHEARS.

ORIENTAL LORE.

Chicago, April 23.—Am I being kidded? I was asked by a friend to save concealed stamps, to be used for buying Chinese baby girls. I was informed that the Chinese threw their new born baby girls in the river, because they had no use for them; they preferred boys, so they could train them for their army.

Several other people I know are saving stamps for the same purpose, also tinfoil.

If you could enlighten me on this in the way of a few lines in the stamped envelope enclosed, I will appreciate it very much. I would like to have some written information to prove my statement, if this is correct.

VIRGINIA GREEN.

VOICE FROM MELROSE PARK.

Melrose Park, Ill., April 26.—Gambling in Melrose Park is wide open, and a bunch of boys from Cicero now make this town their headquarters. The local officials don't seem to care, and it seems the county officials also are not concerned, either. We decent citizens of the town wish something could be done, but it seems hopeless. A CITIZEN.

HELPING THE CLEANUP WORK.

Chicago, April 25.—On behalf of the faculty of the Mason public school accept my sincere thanks for your splendid coöperation in making our cleanup program and parade such a success. I assure you that it is very much appreciated. CECELIA B. SCHMIDT,
Principal Mason school.

HOLD LAST RITES TOMORROW FOR JUDGE ARNOLD

Plan Two Services; All Courts to Close.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Circuit Judge Victor P. Arnold, who died on Friday. Arrangements were completed yesterday, anticipating a large gathering of the community's officials, its bench and bar, and its leaders in juvenile welfare work, to pay honors to the man who spent the best years of his life in humanizing society's treatment of delinquent boys.

A service will be held at 9 a. m. at the residence, 5820 Nicolet avenue, Norwood Park. Six probation officers, who served under the judge, will then bear the body to the Juvenile court, Ogden avenue and Roosevelt road. The body will lie in state until 2:30 p. m. in the courtroom where the judge served for eleven years, becoming a national figure in juvenile jurisprudence.

All Courts Will Close.

In the room of the Juvenile court will be held a second service, at 1:30 p. m., to be attended by officials, social workers, judges, lawyers, and others. All courts will be closed in the afternoon.

Chief Justice Frederic R. DeYoung of the Illinois Supreme court will deliver an eulogy. The Rev. Bertram G. Jackson of the Norwood Park Presbyterian church will officiate.

President Sidney S. Gorham of the Chicago Bar association appointed the following committee to represent the organization at the funeral:

Marie Andresen.	John E. MacLeish.
Alfred S. Austrian.	Frederick E. Marx.
John G. Campbell.	Amos C. Miller.
Edmund S. Cummings.	LeRoy Milliner.
Sigmund W. David.	George F. Mulligan.
Richard J. Finn.	Robert E. Pendarvis.
Mitchell D. Follansbee.	Samuel Petersen.
George B. Holmes.	Philip Rosenthal.
Robert N. Holt.	Joseph D. Ryan.
John W. Houston.	Frank Schofield.
Harry Keats.	C. B. Stenning.
John E. Kehoe.	Silas H. Strawn.
Herbert M. Lautmann.	Horace Kent Tenney.
Frank J. Loesch.	Clarence A. Toolen.
Charles O. Loucks.	George A. Weichelt.
	Edward H. White.

Union League Committee.

The Union League Club Foundation for Boys' clubs, which Judge Arnold promoted, will be represented by the following committee:

Burrage D. Butler	A. J. Townley
Charles M. Moderwell	J. F. Comee
Benjamin W. Lord	Spencer Otis
George W. Dixon	Daniel G. Throne
Edward L. Dawes	Harry J. Powers
Fletcher M. Durbin	Lynden H. Leach
A. J. Whipple	Gardner B. Van Ness
Walker E. Miller	Robert D. Kless
Louis A. Bowman

All the judges of the Circuit, Superior, County, Probate, and Criminal courts will assemble in the County building at 1 p. m. and go to the services in a body. Burial will be in the Union Ridge cemetery, Higgins road near Harlem avenue.

Probation Officers to Serve.

The probation officers who will serve as active pallbearers are: Harrison Dobbs, Harry Hill, John McShane, Max Ostrowski, Stanley O'Carroll, and Max West. The body will be attended from the Juvenile court to the cemetery by another set of pallbearers: John W. Houston, William H. Miller, Leroy Milliner, George W. Rodormer, Charles M. Thomson, and Judge Harry W. McEwen.

HOOVERS OUT MOTORING; EAT PICNIC LUNCH

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—President and Mrs. Hoover, following a custom of years of spending in the country as many Saturday afternoons as possible, motored to Annapolis this afternoon, lunched beside the roadway and returned to the White House at 8:30 tonight.

Accompanied by Mark Sullivan, newspaper writer, and Mrs. Sullivan, the President and Mrs. Hoover left the White House shortly before 2 o'clock. Plans for the trip had been carefully guarded and the White House correspondents were requested to stay behind as the President was anxious to avoid crowds.

The party returned to Washington by the Defense highway. En route to Annapolis they stopped for a few minutes at an old stone house at Brookeville, where President James Madison and other government officials were sheltered after the British burned the government buildings in Washington.

The party stopped about two miles from Annapolis, where a picnic lunch was eaten beside the road, after which they continued through Annapolis.

SOCIALIST PARTY EXECUTIVES HOLD CONFERENCE HERE

Ten members of the national executive committee of the Socialist party assembled at the Morrison hotel yesterday for a two day meeting to discuss the organization of the party. The members are Victor L. Berger, Milwaukee, national chairman; William H. Henry, secretary; Morris Hillquit and James Oneal, New York City; Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee; James H. Maurer and Lilith M. Wilson, Reading, Pa.; Joseph W. Sharts, Ohio; Jasper McLevy, Connecticut, and Alfred Baker Lewis, Boston, Mass.

Tonight the committee will be entertained by the Socialists of Chicago at a banquet in the Douglas Park Labor lyceum, Keeler and Ogden avenues. Five hundred members are expected to attend. All national council members will speak.

BLOSSOM WEEK TO OPEN WITH CHURCH SERVICE

St. Joseph, Mich., May 4.—[Special.]—This Sunday is Blossom Sunday in southwestern Michigan and besides being the signal for the influx of hundreds of visitors into Berrien county to see the beauties of blossomland in Maytime, the day has a religious significance, as is pointed out by a number of twin city pastors in announcing special sermons for this date.

The blossom queen, Miss Lillian Shepherd of Battle Creek, will attend the First Congregational church in St. Joseph accompanied by her two maids of honor, Miss Rosalie Lauder of Niles, and Miss Dorothy Erickson of Coloma, and the 16 other Blossom week princesses. The party will sit in a special section reserved for the royal entourage and quantities of blossoms will fill the church. Other special guests will be Kiwanians of Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Paw Paw, Kalamazoo, South Haven and Battle Creek.

The Rev. George Horst, the pastor of the church, will speak on "Nature Friend or Foe." Following church services the lovely blossom queen will be taken on a royal tour of the domain of blossomland which she will rule for a week.

STUDENTS TO PRESENT COMEDY.

The Sock and Buskin club of Loyola university will present a three act comedy, "Frank You," at the Goodman theater tonight. The proceeds will go to the Maria Della Strada chapel fund.

12 INJURED AS BUILDING FALLS ON WRECKERS

Twelve men were severely injured yesterday afternoon when the building which they were wrecking at Madison and Paulina streets collapsed and they were buried in the ruins. Quick work by Robert Kendall, coal dealer at 11 South Paulina street, and his three assistants was said by firemen to have saved the lives of several of the men.

The building has housed the old Twenty-seventh Ward Democratic club on the southwest corner for many years. The workmen, eighteen in all, were tearing down the brick walls on the second floor when the entire building suddenly caved in.

Kendall, in his office across the street, and his three workers, James Thompson, John Congdon, and Lester Dillon, rushed to the ruins and began pulling victims out. They had rescued nearly all when the firemen and police came. Kendall was slightly injured in this work.

HEARST DENIES HE MISQUOTED KANSAS CITY STAR

New York, May 4.—(AP)—William Randolph Hearst today, replied by telegraph to a protest of the Kansas City Star against publication, as an advertisement, of a Hearst editorial purporting to have been printed in the Star and attacking President Hoover's recent speech in New York City on law enforcement.

The editorial appeared in the Hearst newspapers and the advertisement, crediting the Star with its publication, appeared later in other newspapers. The Star printed Hearst's views in an interview.

Hearst's wire to George B. Longan, president and general manager of the Star, said in part:

"The facts concerning my article are that your reporter persistently requested expressions of opinion from me on the very subjects concerning which I was preparing an article for my papers and I gave him my article with the understanding that my papers would withhold publication until the article had appeared in the Star.

"This agreement was scrupulously executed on our part and due credit was given to your paper."

Why Paper Protested.

Kansas City, May 4.—(AP)—George B. Longan, president and general manager of the Kansas City Star, said today his object in protesting against mention of the Star in newspaper advertisements carrying an edntorial by William Randolph Hearst criticising the law enforcement address of President Hoover, was to make it clear that the Star did not print the editorial by Mr. Hearst.

"The Star," he said, "contended that Mr. Hearst was using an interview by Mr. Hearst in other form than printed in the Star, and that it appeared as if it were an editorial from the Star written by Mr. Hearst."

OTTO KUBIN, HEAD OF BREWING CO., DIES IN COLORADO

Otto Kubin, president of the Atlas Brewing company, died on Friday in Colorado Springs at the age of 71, according to reports reaching Chicago yesterday. The body will probably be brought to Chicago for funeral services.

Mr. Kubin was in the real estate business in Chicago 50 years ago. In 1891 he founded the Atlas Brewing company, in partnership with Charles J. Vopicka, who later became United States minister to the Balkan states. He directed the business actively until four months ago, when illness forced him to Colorado for his health.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Vlasta Jones Kubin, two daughters, Mrs. Carrie Southard and Miss Adelaide Kubin, and three sons, Otto Jr., Charles, and Robert J. Kubin.

SENATE CONFIRMS COL. FUQUA TO BE CHIEF OF INFANTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The senate late today confirmed the appointment of Col. Stephen O. Fuqua to be chief of infantry, and temporarily withheld approval of the appointment of Col. H. L. Gilchrist to be chief of the chemical warfare service.

Both nominations were unanimously indorsed by the senate military affairs committee yesterday after Gen. Charles P. Summerall denied that favoritism was shown toward Col. Fuqua. He was raised above 165 other colonels who, it has been contended in army circles, were his seniors in point of service. As chief of infantry, Col. Fuqua will hold the rank of major general for a four year term.

Opposition to the confirmation of Col. Fuqua was led chiefly, it is understood, by Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.], who contended that seniority wherever and whenever possible should govern selections of the chiefs of the various army branches.

Senator L. D. Tyson [Dem., Tenn], who was a brigadier general during the world war, defended Col. Fuqua's appointment.

No explanation was given of the failure to confirm Col. Gilchrist's appointment.

Frederick Peacock Rites Will Be Held Tomorrow

Frederick Peacock, 74 years old, 215 North Western avenue, who died on Friday night at his residence following a brief illness, will be buried tomorrow. Mr. Peacock was the founder of the lumber carting company bearing his name. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie Peacock, and two sons. Funeral services will be held in the home.

MRS. ALICE D'ARCY GORDON, 76 years old, 3505 Pine Grove avenue, a pioneer Chicagoan, died at the John B. Murphy hospital yesterday. She and her husband, James Gordon, who survives her, celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary on March 3. Two sons and a daughter also survive.

CHEVROLET

Another Record!

New Six Cylinder CHEVROLETS

since Jan. 1st

Sweeping constantly ahead to greater and greater heights of popularity . . . making and breaking new records of success with impressive regularity . . . the new Chevrolet Six has established one of the most remarkable records in automotive history—more than 500,000 on the road since January 1st!

Not only does this brilliant accomplishment surpass the greatest record that Chevrolet has ever achieved in the past—but it brings to Chevrolet the significant honor of having built in only four months a greater number of six-cylinder cars than any other manufacturer has ever produced in an entire year!

Even with such a record to focus attention upon the outstanding value of the Chevrolet Six—many people still do not appreciate what "a Six in the price range of the four" actually means!

To such persons, consideration of the features responsible for this tremendous popularity will prove a revelation. So read the adjoining column carefully—and then come in and ask for a ride in this sensational six-cylinder car.

The ROADSTER	$525
The PHAETON	$525
The COUPE	$595
The SEDAN	$675
The Sport CABRIOLET	$695
The COACH	$595
The Convertible LANDAU	$725
The Sedan Delivery	$595
Light Delivery Chassis	$400
1½ Ton Chassis	$545
1½ Ton Chassis With Cab	$650

COMPARE the delivered price as well as the list price in considering automobile values. Chevrolet's delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

Outstanding Features of the New Chevrolet Six that have created this Tremendous Popularity—

6-Cylinder Smoothness

Due to the finer inherent balance of its six-cylinder motor—the new Chevrolet Six provides that smooth, quiet, flexible performance which is characteristic of the truly fine automobile. At every speed, the power is delivered easily, freely and without annoying vibration.

6-Cylinder Getaway

In sheer brilliance of performance, as well as in smoothness and quietness of operation, the new Chevrolet Six is a revelation. Acceleration is remarkably fast. And a new non-detonating cylinder head eliminates every trace of "lugging."

6-Cylinder Speed

The new Chevrolet Six has speed in abundance—but even more important than its speed is the smooth, quiet, restful comfort you experience at every point on the speedometer. You can open the throttle wide with a feeling of complete security.

Better Than 20 Miles Per Gallon

The marvelous performance of the Chevrolet Six would be exceptional in any car. But in the new Chevrolet Six it is actually sensational—for here it is combined with an economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

Exceptional Riding Comfort

Another vital factor that has influenced over a half-million people in their selection of the new Chevrolet Six is its marvelous riding comfort. It travels smoothly over rough roads—and its balance on turns and corners is exceptional.

Beautiful Fisher Bodies

Longer, lower and roomier—finished in attractive, long-lasting colors—and upholstered in rich, deep-tufted fabrics—the new Fisher bodies on the Chevrolet Six introduce into the low-price field an entirely new measure of style and distinction.

Proved Dependability

Tested for more than a million miles on the roads of the General Motors Proving Ground—the new Chevrolet Six went into the hands of its owners thoroughly proved in every detail. And now reports of its performance on the highways of the nation pay glowing tribute to its endurance and dependability.

Amazing Low Prices

An achievement that surpasses even the brilliant performance qualities of this sensational six-cylinder car are the prices at which it is offered. Study these prices, and compare them with any other car and you will recognize the remarkable value represented in this Six in the price range of the four!

DOWNSTATE BLOC RAPS LATEST TAX REFORM SCHEME

Sutherland's Compromise Plan Is Feared.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—According to signs today the downstate farmer-labor block in the Illinois assembly will fight the latest suggestion of a solution for the constitutional revenue amendment problem as uncompromisingly as it has fought the demand that the two-thirds vote requirement of the 1926 amendment proposal be included in any proposal approved at this session.

This suggestion came from Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the Chicago Civic federation, who has been working for revision of the revenue article for years, and for several weeks has been attempting to find a way out of the impasse created when Cook county and downstate came to loggerheads over the two-thirds rule.

He submitted his idea to subcommittees assigned to the amendment job. It was said to be a compromise, but now it is learned that downstate pencilers have been busy trying to interpret it in dollars and cents, with the result that they are convinced the Sutherland plan would give Cook county the long end of the stick far too much to satisfy them. If they take this position when discussion of the subject is renewed by the subcommittees next week, there is hardly a spark of hope left for the submission of a proposed amendment by action of this assembly.

Need of Reform Stressed.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson has said repeatedly that failure to propose a means for the modernization of the Illinois taxing machinery would be a great mistake.

Leaders of both houses also argue the necessity for the revenue amendment, but apparently neither Cook county nor downstate will yield ground in the deadlock that has blocked them so far. Both houses have before them resolutions identical with the 1926 proposal. They contain the old provision that if the amendment is attached to the constitution no new tax laws shall be passed by virtue of it except upon a two-thirds vote of each house. This was put in there by the 1925 assembly as a safeguard against radical, discriminatory legislation such as a state income tax by mere majority vote, the protection extending particularly to Cook county, which, although denied its full representation, now has more than one-third of each house. But the downstaters have reached an agreement this year, largely upon the insistence of the Illinois Agricultural association, that no such provision can go into the pending resolution, and the deadlock occurs because the resolution itself requires a two-thirds vote of each house. So there the matter stands.

Percentage Scheme Offered.

The basis of Douglas Sutherland's proposal is that if an amendment is passed and by its authority a new state tax is created, the state shall not be allowed to take from any county a greater percentage of the proceeds of that tax than the percentage it now receives from all the existing property taxes collected in that county.

To this the Civic federation added a proviso that if the legislature wants to take from the counties a greater share than this of the proceeds of a new tax, it can do so only by a two-thirds vote of each house.

So far as is known, Secretary Sutherland, who has the standing of a tax expert, has not computed exactly the results of his reserving to each county as much of its payments under a new tax, like an income tax, as it now retains from its total tax collection. When he does so his figures may differ materially from those available here. But the downstaters are convinced that his idea won't give them what they want—it permits Chicago and its suburbs to hang on to too much of their money, without the relief for the farmer, the small town home owner, and others of that class whom it is alleged they seek to benefit to the injury of the city flat dweller and salaried man.

The senate subcommittee on constitutional amendments, headed by Senator Edward J. Hughes, intends to remain here after the adjournment of the session next week and devote two or three days to its task, but it is known that its members are pessimistic about the prospects.

HEAR RADIO TALK FIFTY FEET UNDER LOOP

Rail Chief Speaks

While they worked 50 feet underneath the corner of Madison and State streets last night, the night gang of the Chicago Freight tunnel railway listened over the radio to a talk on railroad safety by P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central railroad, at New York.

The radio for the use of the men was installed yesterday. The talk was available to 30,000,000 people, as it was given over WEAF and 30 associated stations. The program was sponsored by the National Safety council in cooperation with the National Broadcasting company.

Mr. Crowley in his speech pointed out that the railroads of the country are engaged in the greatest campaign for safety in their history. He was the third speaker of 13 who will be heard on the subject. The programs are given every Saturday night.

MEETS DETECTIVES AFTER THEFT.

After robbing a manager of $50 in the lobby of the Guyon hotel, 4000 West Washington boulevard, yesterday morning, Russell Hooker, 21 years old, ran into the arms of two detectives who were passing the hotel and was captured.

INSURANCE PLOT CHARGES MADE IN CLEANERS' SUIT

Further charges concerning "forced insurance" in the cleaners and dyers' business are contained in an amended answer to a breach of contract suit filed yesterday in the United States District court by Attorney William C. Greatman, representing Theodore Becker, head of a cleaning system. Becker was originally sued by the Baxter Laundries, Inc., who bought out his business in 1927 and claimed he contracted not to reopen a cleaning establishment. He has since started seven new shops, it is charged.

Attorney Greatman directed his charges against the Chicago Master Cleaners and Dyers association, the Retail Dyers and Cleaners union, and the Hartford Fire Insurance company. The three organizations entered a conspiracy to force independent cleaning establishments to join various associations and to buy insurance, the answer contends.

FOUND DEAD IN RAIL YARDS.

RUSSIA PUTS BAN ON BRAINS IN NEW RED ARISTOCRACY

Treats All Educated as Enemies of Soviets.

BY MARK RASUMNY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, May 4.—The Russian Communist party is a great believer in advertising. For eleven years the principles of Marxism and Leninism have been advertised to the population of Russia.

The Communist party is still trying to establish equality—equality of brains, of living conditions, and of opportunity. Today it has achieved a membership of slightly more than 1,500,000 members in Russia's population of 140,000,000. All communists have jobs and they constitute the new aristocracy of Russia.

Wherever one goes in Russia one sees on the walls of houses, fences, in street cars, dining rooms, placards calling upon the population to "fight the kulaks [rich peasants], priests, and nepmen [merchants]." These three groups the communists are determined to exterminate, but other classes also suffer in this conflict. Chiefly the intelligent class, the "intelligentsia."

Educated Russian Impractical.

The educated Russian has always been a little different from the educated foreigner. He is not very capable and faces life handicapped with a desire to idealize realities. He is impractical and artistic. Americans would call him both "soft" and "mushy." In the universal struggle for existence the Russia intelligentsia has produced few heroes.

The reason for this must be traced back to the Russian schools, which have never really trained children to get out and fight for themselves. Initiative and capability are unknown qualities.

Formerly the educated classes were persecuted for their "left" tendencies. The czarist régime kept them in subjection and banished many to Siberia. Today this same class is being oppressed by the communist régime for their "right" tendencies. The communists call this class the spiritual children of the former government and does not trust them. The present government, which is composed of former laborers and peasants, is attempting to form a new educated class.

Classed as Enemies.

"We are not left in peace after all these terrible years," the intelligentsia complained to me. "The cheka controls every step we take. Everything we do is thought to hide some action against the government. We are classed as enemies."

The majority of the educated people who have survived the communist massacres are really loyal Russians, who do their work honestly. They are not bolsheviks, but they are also not actively fighting against the government. They shun politics and for this reason they are continually under suspicion. If there are two candidates for a position, one of them an educated person and the other of proletarian origin, the latter gets the post. It is for this reason the soviet government functions so inefficiently.

The government and the population vie with each other in hate for the intelligentsia. The ignorant population has the usual instinctive hatred for any one with a slight equipment of brains and the government exploits this hatred at every opportunity.

Education Now a Handicap.

Another interesting development is that under the czar's régime the working classes had no possibility of receiving an education and therefore they envied the intelligentsia. Many of these sympathized with the workers and did everything they could to help them, even to becoming revolutionists themselves. Today the situation is reversed. The educated man who wants to give his children an education must apply to former workers for this permission and he is always refused.

"To have an education is now a handicap," explained an engineer. "The word 'intelligent' is a term of derision and we seek to hide our schooling. If we are fortunate enough to have obtained a position we can never be sure at what moment some boy who has just graduated from a technical high school will come and take our position away from us because his father was a worker or a peasant. In this way some of the most capable engineers and other trained specialists are losing their jobs. The government seems determined to make us their enemies."

Try to imagine what would happen in an American factory if the present staff of engineers were made subordinate to youths flaunting a high school diploma, or what would happen in a hospital if new interns were placed in charge. This is what is happening all over Russia.

"There are so few doctors that this is the only free profession which we are allowed to follow and in which we are allowed to remain," a surgeon informed me. "They need us badly, for those students the schools are turning out are poorly equipped to practice. Besides, the communist youths do not care to study medicine.

"But this does not mean that we are not persecuted. We are not permitted to remain very long in one post. If we are discovered treating patients privately we are sent to jail. This often happens because it is hard for us to resist the pleas of a suffering peasant who comes with a ham, a couple of fat geese, or a huge package of precious butter as payment for treatment. Our salaries are low; some institutions pay us 70 roubles [$35], others as much as 80 roubles [$40] monthly, and this is barely enough to keep us alive.

"The attitude of the worker patients is another trial. They are and roughly demand treatment all know exactly what is the with them and what must be for their cure. If our diagnosis not agree with theirs and our of treatment is something else what they expected, they write a next meeting of the factory and demand our discharge, and are again transferred. Sometimes they even attack us. I have badly beaten several times in my dispensary."

The treatment accorded engineers, the so-called "technical cialists," is even worse. The have no respect for engineers technicians. In mines, factories, shops there are frequent fights end with the murder of the in charge.

Sales Opportunity

One of our clients, who will shortly begin one of the most extensive subdivision developments in the history of the middle west, offers a unique opportunity to a number of aggressive, high calibre men and women.

This is a job that not only requires the highest type of sales ability, but a thorough appreciation of the fundamentals of real estate development. It is a job for men and women to whom permanency of connection is a major consideration. It is not a job for the "drifter" or the "job-hunter."

Our client will discuss your qualifications with you at once, preparatory to beginning the most extensive real estate advertising program we believe that this part of the country has ever seen.

It is an opportunity for salesmen and saleswomen whose past annual earnings have been $5,000 or more. Write us, giving us full qualifications, past experience, salary earned, etc. Do not telephone. Consideration will be given only to written replies.

More Charming than ever
—because of the PIANO!

NO matter how attractive a daughter may be, she becomes even more charming after she has learned to play the Piano. And remember that today music is exerting a far greater influence on the cultural life of America than ever before. This is especially true of the Piano, the basic and best loved musical instrument.

New, simple methods now make learning to play easy, too; and the nation-wide spread of group instruction in the schools is being hailed everywhere as one of the greatest steps forward in modern education.

Special to Homes without PIANO

Trial-Rental Plan

TO those without a Piano, Cable's offers a Trial-Rental Plan. We will place in your home a brand new instrument—either Upright or Grand—for only a nominal rental each month. Should you wish later to own the Piano, every dollar you have paid in rental will be applied on the purchase price.

LONDON TAXIS BASE RATES ON TIME, DISTANCE

Service Improves with Latest Types.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 4.—The minimum charge of a London taxicab is twelve cents up to two-thirds of a mile, and eighteen cents per mile. Over a mile, the charge is six cents additional for every third of a mile or time not exceeding three and three-quarters minutes.

This rate carries one or two persons. The rate is twelve cents for each additional person for the whole journey. One child or two children under the age of 10 years count as one person.

In addition, drivers are entitled to charge extra for baggage; for each bicycle, child's mail cart, or perambulator, eighteen cents; for each package carried outside, six cents.

Charge by Time and Distance.

Taxicab fares are based on the combination of time and distance. When the cab is kept waiting or delayed by traffic or caused to travel at a rate of less than six miles per hour, then the charge is by time at the rate of one dollar per hour. When traveling at a speed of six or more miles per hour, the charge is by distance.

London's taxicab service is improving gradually, with new types, modern designs and facilities being introduced, but there are still a large number of representatives of old motoring history on the roads—musty, aged, rattling affairs which are promised soon to be eliminated.

The latest super-taxi, the first to pass Scotland Yard's requirements, with four wheel brakes and two extra rear brakes, appeared in London this week. It is known as the Hyper Beardmore and is claimed not to sway, to be capable of greater speed and more rapid acceleration than the previous types. It is fitted with special safety glass windows and wind screens and is declared to be the "safest and most rapid crowded street negotiater."

Height of Cabs Lowered.

The adoption by Scotland Yard of the 1928 revised recommendations of the traffic committee appointed by the home secretary made it possible to reduce the overall height by six inches. Lowering the center of gravity is claimed to have eliminated entirely objectionable swaying and the danger of skidding.

Other recent new types of improved taxicabs in London have been introduced by Daimlers, Napiers, and Wolseleys, while large numbers of vehicles of the Yellow Cab company have been running several years.

SEEKS TO MATCH GANG MASSACRE BULLETS TO GUNS

Maj. Calvin Goddard, army firearms expert, who has been here for several weeks applying science to the investigation of the Moran gang massacre and other murders, left for New York yesterday, taking with him a number of bullets fired into a tree stump by Russell Thompson in testing machine guns.

He has the bullets taken from the bodies of the seven men slain on St. Valentine's day at 2122 North Clark street and he will compare them with the bullets taken from the tree stump.

If he finds they were fired from the same machine gun he will have established definitely that the killing was done with one or two of the ten guns purchased by Thompson from Peter Von Frantzius and resold by him to James Shupe, William Jackson, and Thomas McElligott.

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen pointed out yesterday that Maj. Goddard's contribution to crime detection in Chicago is already having its effect. The body of Charley Pollet, 45 years old, 921 South Leavitt street, was found on Friday in a ditch at 134th street and Torrence avenue. He had been slugged and then stabbed, his slayers apparently being afraid to shoot him.

4 STORY ELECTRIC PLANT WRECKED BY $250,000 FIRE

Fire of undetermined origin wrecked the four story plant of the Runsel-Lens Manufacturing company, electrical equipment manufacturers, at 1761 North Western avenue, yesterday. The damage was estimated at $250,000.

A short time after the arrival of the first fire company the roof of the building collapsed, carrying down the third and second floors. The falling mass caused a section of the wall on the fourth floor to topple and the front wall threatened to fall, sending a large crowd of spectators, police and firemen to cover.

The company employs 300 persons, all of whom left the factory at noon. The third and fourth stories were recent additions.

AUTOIST GETS CAR PUT AWAY BY PARK POLICE

Paul Weissman, 6498 Hyde Park boulevard, yesterday recovered his automobile from the Hoskins garage, 56 West Illinois street. Ohntrary to his wishes the car had been sent to the garage by two Lincoln park policemen following a collision last Sunday night at Sheridan road and Broadway.

The release of the automobile followed by twenty-four hours an announcement from Gov. Louis L. Emmerson that he will investigate the Lincoln park force. The Chicago Motor club yesterday started an investigation of its own.

The Lincoln park police received further attention yesterday when it was discovered that Motorcycle Policeman George Carlson had been transferred to foot patrol duty. On Monday he arrested Mrs. Viola O'Banion Turner, widow of the slain gangster, Dean O'Banion, for speeding. Capt. Charles E. Shaw, head of the park police, denied that the transfer of Carlson was disciplinary for the arrest.

150,000 TO GET FIVE DAY WEEK AND HIGHER PAY

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—A 5 day week and a 10 per cent increase in pay today were won by 150,000 building trades workers here, who had been making preparations for a gigantic strike affecting operations valued at 300 million dollars if their demands were not granted.

The victory represents the biggest gain yet made by the 5 day week movement. Up to the time that the announcement was made it has been estimated that there were 500,000 workers in the United States enjoying the 5 day week.

C. G. Norman, chairman of the board of governors of the Building Trades Employers' association, and John Halkett, president of the Building Trades council, jointly announced that the concessions granted to the workers would become effective Saturday, Aug. 24.

The announcement followed an all day conference.

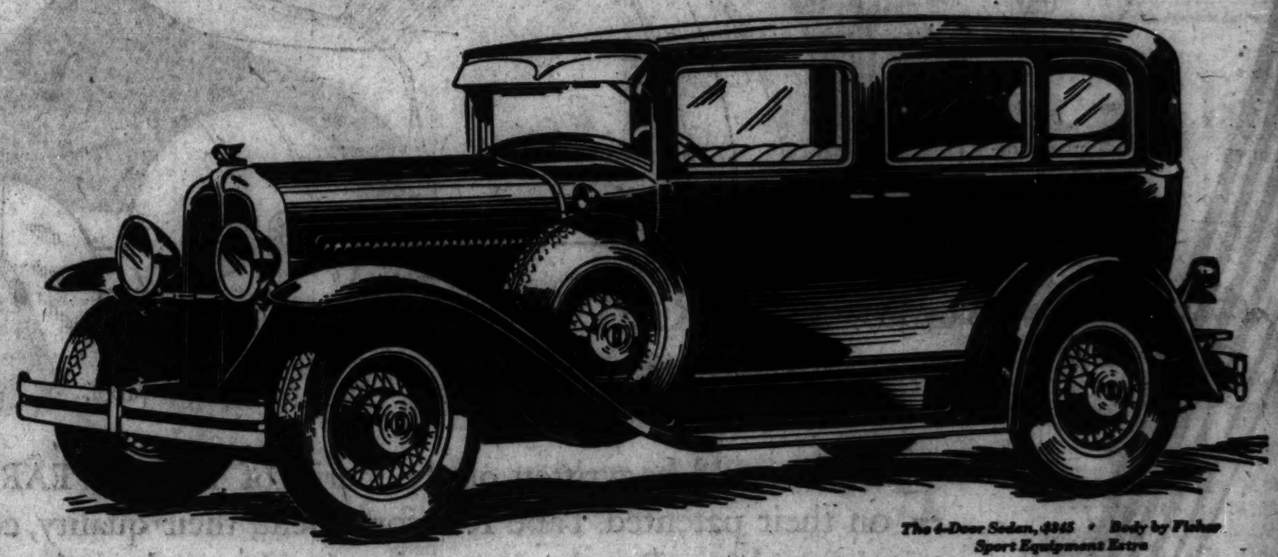
Before you buy a car it's wise to compare with

THE NEW PONTIAC BIG 6

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS



The 4-Door Sedan, $745 • Body by Fisher Sport Equipment Extra

$745 AND UP

Some people make a fundamental mistake when they go to buy a car. They receive a demonstration. They compare the performance, the style and the luxury of the new car with the two or three-year-old car they are about to trade in. And, naturally, the new car seems just about perfect. So they sign the order without looking further. Maybe they make a good purchase, maybe not. The point is that they don't know what they might have found if they had only looked around.

To help you avoid this mistake we have arranged a special demonstration of the New Pontiac Big Six. Be sure to come in for this demonstration before you buy any low-priced car. See the others, by all means. But see the New Pontiac Big Six, if only for the sake of comparison.

Then, when you look at the others, see if they offer the style, the roominess and the sturdy construction which you found in Pontiac's Fisher bodies. See if they offer the swift, smooth, silent performance which the Pontiac reveals.

See if they offer brakes comparable to Pontiac's noiseless, dirt-and-weather-proof internal four-wheel brakes. See if they have anything like the Harmonic Balancer to counteract crankshaft vibration . . . anything like the thermostatically-controlled cross-flow radiator to assure efficient cooling and keep the engine at correct operating temperature at all times.

Progressive people are using the New Pontiac Big Six as the basis for their comparison and most of them come back to buy it. For it is the one car that enables them to step up in motor car quality without leaving the low-priced field.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values. Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

Prices $745 to $895, f. o. b. Pontiac, Mich., plus delivery charges. Bumpers, spring covers and Lovejoy shock absorbers regular equipment at slight extra cost. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

BALDWIN TELLS BRITAIN WHAT HIS REGIME HAS DONE

Kept All Promises, He Tells the Nation.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, May 4.—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin issued "a message to Great Britain" today, in which he enumerated the achievements of the Conservative government, saying that it had "cut the cackle and not the 'cosse,'" meaning that it had kept all the promises made in 1924.

Lists Improvements.

The Baldwin Conservatives brought about the following improvements, he said: "Seventy-eight coal mines reopened this year; a revival in the prosperity of the ship building industry [not strictly true, since orders have fallen off, although the tonnage built in the first quarter of 1929 was greater than for the same period last year because the figures include nearly all the finished tonnage from the previous period]; an increase in the national trading profit from £420,000,000 in 1924 to £720,000,000 in 1928; 600,000 more people employed; construction of 800,000 houses in four years [a world record]; substantial reductions in the cost of living; better schools; better provisions for mothers and children; pensions granted to widows and orphans; old age pensions granted insured workers at the age of 65 instead of 70, without irritating investigations; reduced taxation; cheap electricity; and finally, the great scheme of taxation, a local government reform, which will be of great benefit to agriculture and industry."

Raps Lloyd George Plan.

In closing, Prime Minister Baldwin insists that the reforms brought about by the Conservatives make the present moment "no time to gamble with rash Socialist schemes of state control or trust in the Liberal party, which is seeking to support the electorate by a scheme which many Liberals have declared impractical." By this he meant David Lloyd George's plan for reduction in unemployment and extensive road building.

Lady Astor, speaking at Rochdale, also claimed a few achievements for the Conservative party, but was less modest. She attributed the development of the moving picture and radio to the English Tory government.

Another great improvement Lady Astor found was that women formerly were howled down in parliament, while now parliament wants to know their views.

CATHOLIC HOSPITAL ASSOCIATION TO OPEN MEETING TOMORROW

The fourteenth annual convention of the Catholic Hospital association will meet tomorrow at Stevens hotel for a five day session. The delegates are Catholic sisters who control 765 hospitals in the United States and Canada. The institutions have a valuation of nearly half a billion dollars. In addition to the 600 sisters, it is expected that 400 nurses and 300 staff physicians will attend the meeting.

REV. A. M. SCHWITALLA. (Trans Photo.)

The executive head of the association is the Rev. C. B. Moulinet, the founder. The president is the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, dean of St. Louis university school of medicine.

Tomorrow's program will begin with a pontifical high mass at Holy Name cathedral, the Rt. Rev. Edward F. Hoban, bishop of Rockford, celebrant.

Son Kills Father and Stepmother with Club

Mexia, Tex., May 4.—(AP)—Lloyd Davidson, 34, son of W. H. Davidson, signed a confession here today that he killed his father and stepmother, Mrs. Ella D. Davidson, with a stick of wood Friday at their country home and then set fire to the house.

FURNITURE STYLE REVUE TO SOUND MODERNIST NOTE

Show Opens Tomorrow on 17 Floors of Mart.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Mannequins of the furniture mode can't trip down a runway to reveal their charms, or revolve in the amber rays of a spotlight to exhibit all angles of their attractiveness. So the dealers must go to the Furniture Mart for the furniture style show opening tomorrow, to find out what's going to be good in business this season. Hundreds are expected for the exhibition, lasting until May 18.

All prices, periods and tastes appear to be represented in the 1,100 carloads of furniture recently grouped in their most attractive positions throughout the seventeen floors of the mart. The total value runs into millions.

For the position of prima donna in this style revue, William H. Wilson, vice president of the mart, yesterday nominated the bafflingly different style of home accoutrements, variously named modernistic, moderne, and modern. Now, the three can be distinguished at a distance of ten feet or less, even by the amateur.

How to Know Them.

If it's extreme and grotesque, it's modernistic; if it's a bit less radical but still somewhat startling to live with, it's moderne, but if it exploits the most recent and restrained evolution of the style, displayed most often in solarium and garden furniture, it deserves the term modern.

To demonstrate the best of the latest of the solarium furniture, is a divan of reed construction, built close to the ground and upholstered in royal blue leather, that is restfull to the eyes and to the body.

Another innovation is a set of garden furniture constructed with a base of metal tubing, spiraling up to support the seats of woven reed. These chairs are guaranteed not to tip over, no matter how much they are bounced. Even the small table has standards of the metal tubing instead of legs.

Then there's the trick Coxwell chair, also of reed, that evolves into a low chaise longue when the bottom is pulled out and half the thick cushion turned turtle to fit inside it.

The Hit of the Show.

But the hit of the show will probably be the "hospitality wagons" that masquerade as teacarts. When the top opens there is disclosed a minature and completely equipped bar. There are carafes and cocktail shakers and corkscrews, tools for opening the beverages and jiggers for mixing "the makin's" of a drink. There is a container for ice and a pick to split it, and goblets to serve and tings, to mention only a part of the equipment. The cheapest are $150. They come all the way up to $900.

Skyscraper patterns in modernistic beds, Rodier fabric rugs, resembling plush, in bold colors, Jacobean living and bedroom furniture bringing back the oak woods, and Crewel embroidery on living room sets are among the new features of the style show. Prices in living room furniture ascend proportionately with the riot of color, it is noted, the lower priced sets confining themselves to somber tones. "Occasional" pieces are also popular.

CONFESS FORGING MONEY ORDERS.

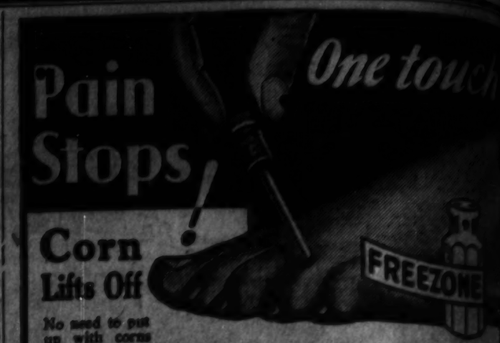
Matthew Kwasnik, 18 years old, and Joseph Budeas, 20 years old, were arrested yesterday and confessed they had forged more than $2500 worth of drafts and money orders. They obtained blank forms at a telegraph office at 20 South La Salle street where they were employed.

NEW ST. VIATOR'S CHURCH WILL BE DEDICATED TODAY

St. Viator's Catholic church on Addison street between Kedvale and Keeler avenues will be dedicated by Cardinal Mundelein at 11 o'clock this morning. Immediately following the dedication the Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Shell, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, will pontificate at a solemn high mass.

The new church and rectory will represent an expenditure of more than $500,000, and will add an attractive Tudor Gothic structure to Chicago's church buildings. The interior is treated without the use of columns, and the ceiling is paneled and adorned with 120 different religious symbols. The floor and wainscoting are of marble and terrazzo.

St. Viator's parish was founded in 1888. The Rev. Father J. F. Ryan has been the pastor since 1912.



No need to put up with corns —to be "treating" and pampering them! Corns can be gotten rid of for good! Simply apply a little Freezone. Freezone puts any corn to sleep at once and soon so loosens it that it can be removed with the fingers—lift it right off—without hurting. Hard corns or soft corns yield to Freezone. Foot calluses, too! Get bottle at any drug store.

CRIMINAL COURT IS SLOWING UP, REPORT WARNS

Letdown in Energy of Judges Charged.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Oliver Larson, burglary, sentenced to 1 year in Pontiac reformatory by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Jesse Barras, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; John Hines, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Fred Jones, extortion, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary, by Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

Harry Kelly, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Thomas Taylor.

A warning was sounded yesterday by Henry Barrett Chamberlain, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, in a report to Frank J. Loesch, president, that the Criminal court judges are again slackening their pace. The commission points out that although the work for March of this year as compared with that of the same period one year ago shows considerable improvement, a comparison with the months of January and February of this year shows a letdown in energy on the part of the judges.

Chief Justice John J. Sullivan of the Criminal court announced yesterday, however, that he hopes the forthcoming month will show a large advance in the work of the judges due to the addition of two more judges to the court. Judges Stanley Klarkowski and Otto Kerner will mount the criminal court bench tomorrow. Judge Victor Arnold, who died on Friday, was to have been a third addition. Whether some one else will be assigned in Judge Arnold's place has not been decided.

Several Judges Absent.

"The reduction in energy during March may be partly explained by the two and one-half days that were spent moving records and prisoners from the old buildings to the new," says the Chamberlin report. "Figures show, however, that in addition to the moving period two judges were absent on half month vacations, two were not present in court a number of days each, and one was ill more than a week."

The report says that the judges during January, February, and March have made a slight gain on the crowded calendar.

"It is highly encouraging," Mr. Chamberlin goes on, "to see pending cases being reduced, but the progress is so slight and so dependent on grand jury activity that I cannot conscientiously herald it as a victory or even a harbinger of ultimate relief from congestion."

More Judges Called Remedy.

The only remedy for the situation, it is pointed out, is for more judges. The difference in the energy displayed by the judges a year ago and at the present time is shown by a comparison of figures for the months of March. During March, 1928, 319 cases were disposed of by seven judges who spent a total of 486 hours on the bench or an average of 3 hours per day. During 1929 the judges disposed of 449 cases and spent 977 hours on the bench, an average of 6½ hours per day.

The report complains of the leniency shown to four defendants who were charged in 16 indictments with robbery, although they confessed to 131 cases. In the case the gun counts were waived and all sentences were made to run concurrently, even though each defendant was a parole violator, Mr. Chamberlin points out.

MARION TALLEY SINGS HER SWAN SONG TO 8,000 IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., May 4.—(AP)—Marion Talley, American girl who rose from comparative obscurity to the heights of grand opera stardom at the age of 19, sang her swan song here tonight after four seasons as a prima donna of the Metropolitan Grand Opera company.

Her final appearance was in the name rôle of the opera "Lucia di Lammermoor."

The opera was presented by the New York company before an audience of more than 8,000 persons.

Miss Talley in an exclusive statement to the Associated Press told of her plans for the future.

In her statement, Miss Talley said there are no reservations to her retirement.

"I do not intend to study for a 'come back' as was reported in some New York newspapers recently, and I have no plans for marriage," Miss Talley said.

"I am not tired of grand opera, but I want to retire and I choose farm life because it seems the only sane way to live—the nearest way back to a simple, natural life."

The star said she and her parents were going to buy a farm either in Missouri, Ohio, or Connecticut, and going to live a real farm life.

W. V. Daly, City Lawyer, Weds School Teacher

William V. Daly, assistant corporation counsel who has aided the police department in its cases to dissolve temporary injunctions against raiding obtained by gambling resorts, was married secretly Tuesday it was learned yesterday. His prolonged absence from the City hall instigated queries resulting in information that he was wed to Miss Madelyn Butler, Chicago school teacher living at the Wedgewood hotel.

FIND SO. PARK BOARD LAX IN MAKING REPORT

None Given County in 3 Year Period.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A two hour search yesterday failed to find that the south park commissioners have filed an annual report with the county board in the last three years.

State's Attorney Swanson is attempting to oust seven members of the sanitary board because they have not made their annual report, which he contends was due Nov. 30 last. The quo warranto hearing in this case is set for next Thursday.

What will be done, if anything, about the lapse of the south park commissioners remains to be seen. The board has heretofore recognized its statutory duty to make a report to the county board for approximately fifty years.

Find One Old Report.

THE TRIBUNE dug up a printed report yesterday of the park commissioners for the period between Dec. 1, 1877, and Dec. 1, 1878. It was addressed to "the honorable board of county commissioners of Cook county." It begins: "In pursuance of the provisions of the statute of 1871 the south park commissioners . . . make the following report of their acts and doings, and receipts and expenditures from Dec. 1, 1877."

May 25, 1907, the state legislature amended the law relating to the requirement of annual reports from the south park commissioners, so that it now reads:

"That park commissioners, who are now required by law to submit, on the first day of December of each year to the board of county commissioners . . . a written or printed report of all of their acts and doings in relation to the parks and other improvements under their supervision and control, shall hereafter submit such report on the last day of February of each year."

The south park commissioners have recognized that law as prescribing their duty, because they have made reports in compliance with it. Their report in 1920 is dated Feb. 29, in 1921 on Feb. 28, and on the same date in succeeding years up to 1924. The 1924 report addressed to the county board says: "In compliance with the provisions of the law the south park commissioners submit annually to your board a report of their acts and doings in relation to the parks and other improvements under their supervision and control. . . ."

Report Being Compiled?

"The acts and doings" of the board are much more important during the three years when no report has been made than in previous years. The expenditures of the board in 1927 are said to have been $12,597,311.34. In 1919 the funded debt of the board was $4,003,000. In 1923 it had jumped to $17,137,000, and in 1927 it was $45,346,000.

Of course the board has been very busy, but it was reported yesterday that the commissioners are having a report compiled covering three years in one document.

The commissioners are appointed by the judges of the Circuit court. Chief Justice Feinberg of that tribunal said yesterday that he personally preferred that some other agency do the appointing.

JOAN STUART BECOMES BRIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Scudder leaving Winnetka Congregational church after wedding ceremony yesterday. The bride was Miss Joan Stuart. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Carries Calla Lilies

Bouquets of calla lilies smilax and greens banked the altar of the Winnetka Congregational church yesterday for the wedding of Miss Joan Stuart and Barrett Scudder. The ceremony took place at 4:30 p. m. with the Rev. James G. K. McClure officiating, and was followed by a reception at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart of Hubbard Woods.

The bride wore a gown of ivory chiffon velvet, made with fitted bodice, long sleeves and long full skirt, and her grandmother's veil of Carrickamacross lace and tulle. She carried a cluster of white iris and lilies of the valley.

Miss Ellen Stuart served as maid of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids were Miss Ellen Douglas, Miss Louise Tyler, Miss Emily Otis, Miss Mary Fentress, Mrs. Langdon Hubbard, Mrs. Scott Bromwell, and Mrs. George Hyslop. The masculine portion of the party consisted of Robert W. Patterson, as best man and Thomas and John Scudder, Richardson White, William Louderback Jr., Joseph Belden, James W. Rogers and Carroll Sudler as ushers.

20,000 CHILDREN GIVEN CLOTHES BY AID SOCIETY

How important a part clothing plays in creating a feeling of self-confidence and self-respect among children in Chicago schools was stressed yesterday by Mrs. George A. McCorkle, president of the School Children's Aid society. The society, an auxiliary of the Chicago Woman's club, held its forty-fourth annual meeting in the Lew Woman's club.

During the fiscal year closed on April 30, over 80,000 garments were given to 20,000 children of the Chicago schools who might have had to remain at home had they not been so supplied, the report showed. In addition, 15,000 pairs of shoes were distributed. All were bought with the $65,000 fund raised through the school children themselves to help those less fortunate.

"All of the fund raised as a Thanksgiving offering by the school children went back to them in the form of clothing," explained Mrs. McCorkle.

ELECTRIFICATION SOMETHING NEW? IT APPEARS NOT

U. S. History Since 1895 Record of Growth.

The timid consideration of electrification of the railway terminals in Chicago by the state legislature was explained yesterday by one lawmaker as follows:

"We don't want to rush headlong into something new without having our bearings. It is true that the Illinois Central has electrified part of its suburban service, but there aren't more than three or four or half a dozen electrifications at the most, are there?"

New? Started in 1895.

The answer is: between 1895 and 1927 there were probably more than 80 instances of steam railroad electrification under a wide variety of conditions of operations. THE TRIBUNE has compiled a list of 35 electrification projects, and while it is uncertain regarding the dates of a few of them, probably not more than five fall outside of the 32 years' period referred to above.

Electrification of steam railroads is not "something new." It started back in 1895 in this country, when the Nantasket Beach line of the New Haven railroad was placed under electric operation. Between that date and 1900 three short sections of the New Haven railroad were electrified.

In the following decade several notable projects were started in the United States. Among them were certain of the suburban routes of the Long Island railroad in and near New York City, and the New York terminals of the Pennsylvania railroad, the New York Central railroad and the New Haven railroad. Other projects of this period were the St. Clair tunnel of the Grand Trunk railroad between Port Huron, Mich., and Sarnia, Ont.; the first section of the Cascade tunnel of the Great Northern railroad crossing the Cascade mountains, and the Detroit river tunnel connecting Detroit with Windsor, Canada.

The electrification of steam roads went forward at a faster pace between 1911 and 1920. Among the most important of these in this country were the following:

The Hoosac tunnel of the Boston and Maine railroad, the suburban lines of the Southern Pacific between Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley, Cal.; the New York, Westchester and Boston; the Fort Dodge, Des Moines and Southern; the Butte, Anaconda and Pacific; the New York, New Haven and Hartford, between New York City and New Haven; a mountain division of the Norfolk and Western in West Virginia; the Mount Royal tunnel of the Canadian National in Montreal, Canada; the Broad street terminal of the Pennsylvania railroad in Philadelphia, and 648 miles of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific in Montana, Idaho, and Washington.

More in 1920-1927.

Still more evidence of the practicability and feasibility of electrification was supplied in the period between 1920 and 1927. In these few years came the Long Island's electrification between Jamaica and Babylon; short sections of the New Haven and the Baltimore & Ohio near New York City; the mountain division of the Virginian between Mullens, W. Va. and Roanoke, Va.; the Norfolk & Western between Vivian and Iaeger, W. Va.; part of the Putnam division of the New York Central; the mountain section of the Great Northern between Cascade tunnel and Skykomish, Wash.; the suburban service of the Illinois Central and the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton from Fordson to Flat Rock, Mich.

It was announced in Springfield on Thursday that a house subcommittee will hold a public hearing on electrification in Chicago next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

SCREEN-GRID RADIO

new!

THEY'RE SAYING that the new Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio is the biggest advance in radio since the advent of house-current sets two years ago.

They're saying that the twenty-seven years of Atwater Kent leadership in electrical engineering have never been more clearly demonstrated.

They're saying that at last pure tone comes out of this set just as it goes into the microphone at the broadcasting studio.

They're saying, "This new Atwater Kent is IT!" Saying it so clamorously that the 31-acre Atwater Kent factory—just doubled and now doubly the largest radio factory in the world—is now devoted to satisfying the demand for the new Screen-Grid set.

In your own home—try it! Let the Screen-Grid Atwater Kent tell its own story. Let it tell you today!

OPEN INQUIRY ON VAST GRAFT RING IN PHILIPPINES

Scandal Stirs a Demand for Strong Governor.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.

MANILA, May 4.—The investigation of the bureau of posts, which may reveal gigantic graft, begins on Monday. Formal approval of the inquiry by Acting Governor Eugene A. Gilmore was received from the town of Baguio in the northern island of Luzon on Saturday. Some think that it will expose frauds running into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Further government scandals, involving customs, irrigation, and other activities, are being uncovered by Insular Auditor Wright and are also likely to be aired during the next few months.

The popular report is that millions are involved, with specific instances established in numerous cases. The delay in the investigation was due to hesitation on the part of officials to act until a new governor-general was appointed.

Urge Strong Governor.

In the meantime an effort is being made to impress upon President Hoover the name of a strong man to prevent further wastage of the people's money. There is indication that the commission of Filipinos now in Washington is lobbying for an easy-going type who will be challenged both by the business and the Quezon opposition parties. The latter is accused of making all the recent governors, except the late Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood, mere rubber stamps.

The director of posts, José Topacio, who left presumably for Spain, is located at present in London, from where he will possibly be recalled as soon as the inquiry is begun by Civil Service Director Gil, Bureau of Justice Attorney Paes, and Provincial Treasurer Agrolli, who have been named by Secretary Perez. The preliminary and possibly the final report is expected on July 1.

Stirs Criticism of U. S.

The extent of the scandals involving various departments is causing outspoken criticism of the indifference of Washington in the appointments of governor generals, including former Gov. Henry L. Stimson, now secretary for foreign affairs. It is being contended that despite a vigorous governorship he did not prevent enormous wastage of the people's money.

Among the outspoken critics is Gov. Padilla of Bulucan province, immediately north of Manila, whose home is in the seat of the first independent government, not far from where Stotsenburg was killed a third of a century ago. Gov. Padilla was three times a member of the legislature and was elected provisional governor as a Democrat in a wealthy province of 200,000 population.

Victims of Courtiers.

"Most governor generals," he said, "pay only attention to the leaders of the majority clique, since they monopolize his time socially and otherwise and prevent him learning the real situation by keeping the public away. Since Governor General Francis Burton Harrison's predecessor the civil service has been virtually ignored, particularly in the highest offices, although the late Gov. Wood was courageous and personally obtained inside information, thus giving the people a square deal.

"To check the corruption a vigorous man is needed, preferably one who has had experience in the islands, like Frank Ross McCoy, for instance, who was assistant to the governor general from 1921 to 1925. Under Gov. Stimson we had nothing but political horse trading."

Many others are unwilling to be quoted but they also assert the only solution to the graft which is enriching the insiders is to have a governor general who will be strong enough not to be fettered by a council of state.

Graybar

What! An exerciser for only $59.50!

Here's a "reducer" that doesn't seriously reduce your bank account!

Its name is the Graybar Stimulator. And it's a marvel in more than one way!

It rolls off the pounds—and the years—without your lifting a finger! It wakes up every bodily function! Makes your circulation fairly sing! Puts tingling pep into every pore!

Just a few minutes each day does it. Just a few minutes of sheer, downright fun!

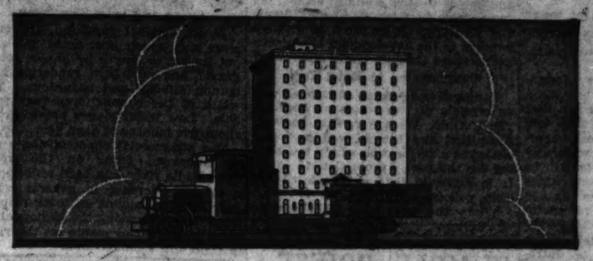
The Stimulator is simplicity itself. No gears. Only one moving part. That's why such high quality costs so little!

Yet—in spite of its simplicity—it has varying gradations of massage. Do you like it gentle? Do you like it brisk? Do you like it really vigorous? . . . Take your pick!

We'd like to tell you about the new Stimulator Table . . . and the new Cabinet, too . . . Just clip the coupon for further information!

$59.50

VARYING DEGREES OF SPEED



Delivered on time

Right here in town, Graybar service has helped to deliver many a building to its owner on time. From motors to meters, from coils of wire to clothes-washers, Graybar puts everything electrical within arm's reach of local buyers. Successor to the Supply Department of Western Electric, Graybar has had 60 years of electrical experience—a background which is reflected in the excellence of every Graybar product!

It's "modern"..... yet "not-modern"

Modern it certainly is . . . but only in the best sense. It's subtle! It's restrained . . . is this radio!

Conservative it is, too, "home-like," delightfully livable!

The finish is dark walnut with "silvered" edges. Durable. Lustrous. Compact . . . fits in the smallest apartment! Simple to operate, too. Six tubes . . . all-electric! And adaptable! Has "demountable" legs . . . As for the tone . . . it has that rare combination, sweetness plus character. You want it to go on forever! P. S. Of course it ought to cost lots more. Think of it, a Graybar radio at this low price! (Coupon below)

LOUDSPEAKER $22

That "almost-human" washer

Instead of one speed, it has two . . . Its slow speed washes fragile things gently . . . safely . . . for all the world, just as your own hands would wash them.

Its fast speed washes every-day things vigorously . . . exactly as you would do! Truly, its responsiveness is almost human!

When you see it, note its tank, too. Of protected white porcelain enamel. Easy to clean! And self-emptying! $165

A BIG little cleaner!

Small in size. Large . . . oh so large . . . in performance. That's the handy cleanerette! From curtains to clothes—from mattresses to motor-car upholstery, it cleans 'most anything! It's complete in itself—yet weighs only 4 pounds. It fits your hand—is convenient and comfortable to use. It's a sturdy little thing, too. Just one of those indispensables around the house, that's all! $13.50

Dirt-chasing, de luxe

The Graybar Two-Fan Vacuum Cleaner has a positive talent for tracking down and eating up elusive dirt!

Here's efficiency plus! Lint, dust, ground-in grit—it's all the same to the Graybar Two-Fan—quick as a flash it all disappears into that powerful nozzle! This cleaner is quieter, better-balanced, and lower in height, too. All due to that very unique Graybar Two-Fan feature! $60

The giant in every man

Flip an electric switch, and you become a veritable giant . . . You can cut rock like paper—lift tons like ounces. You can reduce household tasks to trifles! But . . . You must have enough outlets! Let a reliable contractor provide you with those additional convenience outlets. (It costs surprisingly little!) Then you'll be all set to utilize the faithful service of your power and light company!

HOOVER ORDERS SURVEY TO FIX LAKE DIVERSION

Vital to Illinois Part of Gulf Waterway.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—At the request of President Hoover war department engineers are restudying the engineering phases of the Illinois section of the lakes to the gulf waterway, with a view to determining the exact amount of water diversion needed to insure its successful operation as a barge transportation route.

The President's request for information was made after he had been informed by Illinois congressmen that the gulf route between Chicago and New Orleans, one of the most important links in his inland waterway transportation program, never will be successful unless a permanent water diversion from Lake Michigan is made available for lockages and for maintaining depths.

It is understood that in view of the fact that legislation may be introduced this fall authorizing a definite annual diversion for the gulf project, the President has asked for early information, so that he will be able to make up his mind in advance.

His Pet Project.

The President has consistently urged early completion of this waterway and indications are that he will be in favor of supplying whatever diversion is necessary.

The Illinois link of the lakes to the gulf route consists of three sections: the Illinois river, the Illinois waterway between Utica and Lockport, and the sanitary district canal between Chicago and Lockport. In constructing a nine foot channel in the Illinois river, the federal end of the project, the government is going ahead on the supposition that a water diversion of 4,167 cubic second feet will be supplied permanently.

Appearing before Charles Evans Hughes, special master for the Supreme court in the hearings which will determine the amount of water diversion to be allowed for navigation purposes in the Chicago river, Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, army chief of engineers, testified that a water diversion of 5,000 cubic second feet would be sufficient to keep the Chicago river in a good sanitary condition and supply sufficient water at Lockport for lockages.

Considers Probable Figure.

In view of Gen. Jadwin's testimony, and the fact that the present federal project calls for 4,167 feet at Lockport, it is considered certain Secretary of War Good will advise the President that a water diversion of at least 5,000 feet is necessary.

Administration officials acted today to insure early completion of the Illinois river project, calling for a nine foot channel between Utica and Grafton. Secretary Good issued orders directing the corps of engineers to complete all the government work on the Illinois river without delay. It is anticipated that the channel connecting the Mississippi river and the state section of the waterway will be completed early in 1931. Indications are that the federal share of the waterway will be completed some time in advance of the state section.

Financial Aid Possible.

The present war department position as is was explained today to Rep. William E. Hull [Rep., Ill.] is that the federal government wants to complete its end of the work so that the government will be ready to open the lakes to the gulf route in 1931.

Whether the federal government will aid the state financially in completing the Illinois waterway will depend largely on the results of the survey of that project now being made by war department engineers for President Hoover.

HEART ATTACK KILLS DOCTOR.

Logansport, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—Dr. Adelbert L. Palmer, 56, died of a heart attack at his home here today. He is survived by his widow.

Completion of Ohio Waterway to Be Celebrated in October

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—While those interested in the Illinois river waterway project still are seeking to devise means of insuring its completion, industries along the Ohio river will be celebrating this fall the completion of its canalization.

When the last of the 50 dams and locks are finished there will be a nine foot channel for the nearly 1,000 miles of the Ohio from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill. It will be the biggest accomplishment of the kind on record and will form an important link in the inland waterway system. Already there is considerable traffic on the Ohio, most of it of a local character, but some of which goes to the Mississippi and thence to the Gulf of Mexico. The completion of the last of the dams and locks in the section where the river flows between southern Illinois and Kentucky is expected to give an impetus to the development of a greatly increased through traffic movement.

Congressmen to Make Trip.

Congress and federal officials as well as officials of the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana, Kentucky, and Illinois, will be represented in a celebration which has been set for the period from Oct. 15 to 20. It is expected that a trip down the Ohio will be arranged.

When the canalizing of the Ohio is complete the federal government will have expended more than 118 million dollars on the project. In comparison with this total, the $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 which Illinois members of congress have somewhat timidly proposed the government should appropriate for the completion of the Illinois state waterway project connecting the Illinois river with the Chicago sanitary district canal is insignificant.

Most of the dams and locks from Pittsburgh down to the part of the river which flows past southern Illinois have been completed for some years. The last of the dams and locks on which work has been in progress during the last year are those near Golconda, Brookport and Joppa, Ill., and Weston, Ky.

Grave Obstacles Overcome.

In its original condition, the Ohio river was much obstructed throughout its entire length by snags, rocks, gravel, and sand bars, rendering navigation difficult and hazardous. The width of the channel was very variable. Low water stages prevailed for about five months of each year.

The commercial effect of the series of completed dams on the upper and middle river has been reflected in a marked increase in general traffic and in the amount of coal shipped from the mines along the Monongahela river to industrial plants on the river in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

HUMBLE PRIEST TELLS OF AIDING POPE SPIRITUALLY

Pius Confesses Like Simple Catholic.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, May 4.—To one humble and little known personage living in Rome any door of the papal apartments in the Vatican is opened immediately any time he asks to see Pope Pius XI. His name never figures in the Vatican year book and he is never mentioned among those present at solemn ceremonies at the Vatican.

This modest person is Father Celestino Alisiano, Jesuit confessor of Pope Pius XI. It is not generally known that the pope is obliged to confess weekly, the same as the lowest priest in the Catholic hierarchy. The pope has a right to choose his own confessor.

Other Popes' Confessors.

Father Basilenow, living in Bologna, was the confessor of Pope Benedict XV., aiding him with spiritual comfort during the years of the war. Msgr. Bressan was the confessor of Pope Pius X. during the days of August, 1914, which preceded the war and which so undermined the pope's health that he died of grief.

Father Alisiano, the confessor of Pope Pius XI., is a venerable man, 84 years of age. Keeping apart from all things in this world, he lives in a small, poorly furnished room only a few yards square in the Jesuit college near the Jesuit church and Capitoline hill. The aged confessor generally refuses to talk, for he desires to remain in complete obscurity.

Knew Pope Many Years.

"The pontiff chose me as his confessor when he was a cardinal and archbishop of Milan, and I have served him through the seven years of his pontificate," he said. "I have known the pope many years, since he was the prefect of Ambrosiana library. I wait for the pontiff in the Chapel of the Most Holy. He remains on his knees before me throughout his confession. At that moment he ceases to be the successor of St. Peter and head of 305,000,000 Catholics and becomes himself a simple Catholic."

Such a confession is a sealed secret. Those in the Vatican, however, say that during the weeks preceding the signing of the Lateran treaty the pontiff devoted himself with more than usual fervor to confession and prayer.

"The pope's health is of the best," said Father Alisiano. "For a year he has taken no medicine and his motto, like St. Benedict's, is 'Work and pray.'"

DISCORD RISES IN SETTLEMENT OF ROMAN QUESTION

Catholics Question Other Religions' Rights.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, May 4.—Strong notes of discord over the application of the Lateran concordat are being heard throughout Italy today, on the eve of the ratification by the chamber of deputies of this pact settling the Roman question. Doubts and veiled protests over the wisdom of the four bills giving application to the concordat, which had been voiced privately, have broken over the threshold into print this week.

They are to be answered, it is announced, by Premier Benito Mussolini himself in a speech before the chamber of deputies.

Some of this "misplaced discontent," declares the Populo di Roma, comes from Masonic elements and anticlericals, who say Italian interests will suffer from too radical a substitution of canonical law for civil law, as, for instance, in the bill relating to marriage, in the bill covering the administration of church property, and in the fact that conciliation makes Catholicism an official state cult.

"Duce Victim of Own Success."

The Populo di Roma refutes the and declares Premier Mussolini has been a victim of his own success. The conciliation with the church was so imposing that it has given rise to recrudescence of international Masonry and anti-Fascism, says this paper, arguing that in the legislative measures for application of the concordat the state has kept its full prerogatives, and that these measures do not represent victory for the church in gaining control over certain aspects of Italian national life.

On the other hand, the Catholics themselves voice complaints at the excessive liberality which the legislation giving application to the concordat extends to non-Catholic cults in Italy.

A few days ago the semi-official government organ, Giornale d'Italia, sent reporters to interview the head of the Methodist church in Rome and also several rabbis and leaders of the Waldense sects here. These non-Catholic clergymen expressed warm satisfaction with the religious liberty to practice their cults and expressed admiration for Premier Mussolini.

Catholic Organ Expresses Alarm.

This was immediately taken up by the Corriera d'Italia, an organ of Catholic centrists, which last night expressed alarm at "these enthusiastic expressions of approval of the concordat by nonCatholics," which, according to the Corriera D'Italia, were dangerous.

Catholicism, it argued, admitted of no other religious verity than its own. It refuses to discuss with any other religious, all of which it regards as an error or heresy. Hence, the fact that the Jews, Protestants, and Waldenses approve of the new pact can be inferred to mean that the Vatican is not altogether satisfied with the fourth bill of the concordat, extending full liberty to nonCatholic cults.

This article of the Catholic paper draws fire again from the Populo di Roma this morning, which reminds the Catholics that despite the concordat, the government of Italy is still a civil state and not a church state.

It warned the Catholic church that such an attitude of intolerance is prejudicial to the church's own proper interests, and the "special privileges and honors conferred on the Catholic church cannot be permitted to devolve into an odious persecution of other cults without provoking reactions that would cause irreparable damage to the Catholic religion and its church."

The Italian state must defend modern thought, continues the Populo di Roma, reminding the church that it must not forget that there are as many Protestants as Catholics in the world and that any persecution here or attempts to establish a "sort of moral Ghetto" would be furiously resented in the Anglo-Saxon countries, where the "Catholic church is fighting valiantly but at the price of concessions which are not always desirable."

Approved in U. S., O'Connell Says.

ROME, May 4.—(AP)—Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, in an interview with the Italian press, was quoted today as saying that the Italo-Vatican conciliation had been received in the United States not only with great joy but true enthusiasm not only by Catholics but also by Protestants.

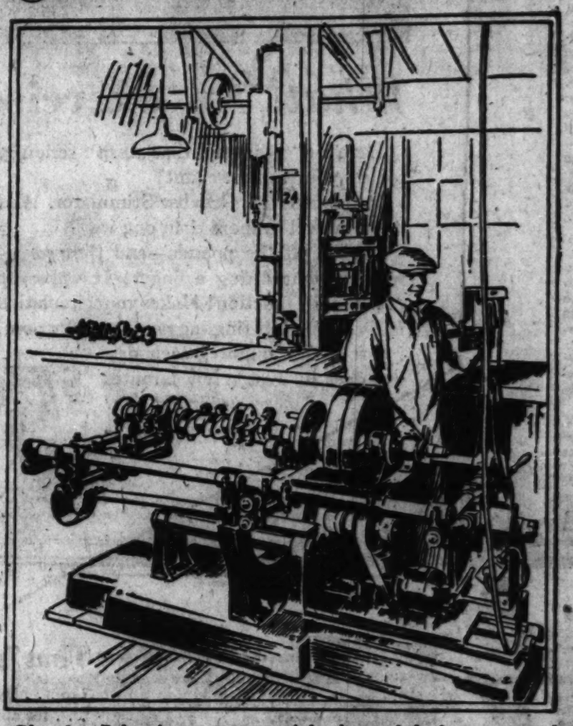
CHRYSLER
CHRYSLER MOTORS PRODUCT



Chrysler 7-bearing counter-weighted crankshafts are tested exactingly for accurate balance. This is only one of the many reasons for the smooth performance of every Chrysler motor.

HAIRBREADTH precision and custom care

A demonstration reveals surpassing results due to Chrysler's finer standards

CHRYSLER, by applying new and ingenious methods of scientific efficiency, introduced to volume production the fine precision heretofore associated only with hand-built cars.

CHRYSLER "75" ROYAL SEDAN, $1535. Wire wheels extra

The man who buys a Chrysler Imperial, a Chrysler "75," a Chrysler "65," gets a car that is held to hairbreadth limits in every specification.

From raw material to finished product, Chrysler is applying to all phases of manufacture the custom care and accuracy formerly possible only in costly hand-built cars. An elaborate system of inspections and tests safeguards the finest kind of craftsmanship, and makes certain that every part scales to the ultimate decimal of its prescribed weight and dimension.

The extreme to which Chrysler invariably goes in protecting quality and accuracy is something unique in the field of big production. Care guides skill in every move. Infallible instruments eliminate chances of human fallibility.

So it is that Chrysler cars, as they take to the road, are in every particular as fine and fault-free as modern science and expert human craftsmanship can make them.

And as the natural outcome of all this standardized care and precision, plus the genius of Chrysler engineering, there is a distinct difference in Chrysler performance that is wholly and lastingly delightful. Take a demonstration and learn the difference yourself.

CHICAGO POLES WELCOME NEW POLISH MINISTER

Filipowicz Lays Wreath on Lincoln Statue.

Titus Filipowicz, newly appointed minister from Poland to the United States, was feted last night with a reception and program by about 2,000 Poles of Chicago at the Palmer house. His trip to Chicago is his first official visit since arriving in Washington late in March.

Author, historian, miner, political scientist and diplomat, the new Polish minister has been identified for the last quarter of a century with the struggle for freedom of Poland. He has been a close friend and comrade of Marshal Josef Pilsudski, and his first visit to Chicago, a quarter of a century ago, was made as the companion of Pilsudski on his trip to Japan during the Russo-Japanese war.

Lays Wreath on Lincoln Statue.

Yesterday, before leaving the hotel to place a wreath on the St. Gaudens statue of Lincoln in Lincoln park, he expressed amazement at the growth of Chicago in the last twenty-five years, and especially at the number of skyscrapers. A sightseeing tour of the boulevards and parks followed the ceremony in the park.

After his reception yesterday at the Union station by several hundred of his countrymen, Minister Filipowicz paid a call at the mayor's office in the city hall, where he was received by City Attorney William D. Saltiel.

Last night he was the guest of honor at a dinner given by Capt. Chauncey McCormick, at the McCormick home. Capt. McCormick was decorated for his services in Poland during the war, when the Hoover relief forces were busy there.

Honors Kosciusko Today.

This afternoon, under the auspices of the Polish National Alliance, a parade will be held from headquarters at 1406 West Division street to the statue of Gen. Thaddeus Kosciusko in Humboldt park, where a speaking program will be held in honor of Kosciusko day. Afterwards the flag of the Alliance will be decorated by Minister Filipowicz with an order conferred by the Polish government for services during the war, and he will then lay a wreath on the Kosciusko monument.

This evening a dinner will be given in honor of Minister Filipowicz at the new Louis hotel at Milwaukee avenue and Division street. He will return to Washington tomorrow.

THREE KILLED IN AUTO WRECK.

BROOKVILLE, Ontario, May 4.—(AP)—Three youths were killed and a fourth was injured seriously when the auto in which they were riding collided with an abutment of an overhead railroad bridge near Prescott early today. The dead are Joseph O'Reilly, Frank Black, and John Easter. They were returning from a dance.

FORESTERS PLAN BIG ANNIVERSARY FETE MAY 13-17

Completion of arrangements for celebrating the forty-sixth anniversary of the Catholic Order of Foresters and the holding of its annual convention the week of May 13-17, were made at a meeting of state trustees from Illinois, Oklahoma, and Texas, according to Thomas R. Heaney, Illinois state chief ranger, who presided over the gathering which was held in the Chicago headquarters in the Stock Exchange building.

The celebration convention is expected to be the most elaborate yet held, acording to Mr. Heaney. The former will include a dance and card party on May 17.

The convention will be held in the Stock Exchange headquarters beginning May 13. Delegates from all over the United States and Canada will be in attendance.

Forty-six years ago a few pioneer Catholic men organized the Catholic Order of Foresters in Chicago. It now has branches in twenty-eight states in the Union, and all the provinces of Canada and a membership of 130,000.

Big Military Parade Marks Polish National Holiday

WARSAW, May 4.—The Polish national holiday was celebrated by a solemn mass at the cathedral, followed by a brilliant military parade, yesterday morning. President Ignace Moscicki, surrounded by his cabinet and the diplomatic corps and a tremendous crowd, reviewed the troops. Considerable comment was caused by the fact that the British military attaché remained in the diplomatic box instead of occupying a place with the other attachés.

Make Performance your Yardstick!

Day after day—from one end of the country to the other—motorists are confirming Buick's clear-cut superiority in all elements of performance.

Men and women everywhere are getting behind the wheel and making the pleasing discovery that there are entirely new thrills in motoring which Buick alone can provide.

The thrill of absolute mastery over hills—highways—traffic . . . the thrill of matchless power—getaway—swiftness . . . the thrill of a wonderful new order of performance.

It is this performance leadership, more than any other one thing, which causes more than twice as many people to purchase this new Buick as any other automobile priced above $1200.

Come, drive a Buick! Compare it with any other car—in traffic—up the steepest hills—over the roughest roads. Prove to yourself that it provides elements of performance unapproached by any other automobile of the day.

BUICK MOTOR COMPANY, FLINT, MICHIGAN
Division of General Motors Corporation

The glowing praise of owners . . . daily feats of supremacy on street and highway . . . two-to-one leadership in fine car sales . . . all prove Buick the greatest performing car of the day . . . .

NASH "400"

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

$1398

DELIVERED FULLY EQUIPPED
NOTHING MORE TO BUY!

Twin-Ignition Performance

22% MORE POWER — 5 MILES MORE PER HOUR IN SPEED — 2 EXTRA MILES per GALLON OF GASOLINE

Lower, Delivered, Completely Equipped Prices

THE Nash Motors Company employs one of the greatest engineering organizations in the automobile industry.

This is evidenced by its achievements in the advanced motor car design found in the Nash "400" series.

The Nash "400" Twin Ignition motor produces 22% more horsepower, 5 miles per hour more speed, and 2 extra miles for every gallon of gasoline as contrasted to the same motor with single ignition.

This great feature and many others are available to you at delivered fully equipped prices substantially lower than you pay for cars of the same or lower factory price.

This is true because Nash factory-equips each "400" model at the factory with the very finest of equipment purchased at low, factory-volume prices.

All Nash "400" Special and Advanced Six models are equipped with Bijur centralized chassis lubrication which automatically and scientifically lubricates all vital chassis points with a single depression of a foot pedal.

In addition, bumpers, hydraulic shock absorbers, spare tire lock and tire cover come with each Nash "400," whereas, with most other cars the local dealer adds this equipment and charges you extra for it.

How much extra you will soon see when you investigate—sometimes they charge you $50 or $60 extra for bumpers alone.

Don't buy any car today until you check its delivered, fully equipped price against the Nash "400" delivered fully equipped price.

IMPORTANT "400" FEATURES

- Twin-Ignition motor
- 12 Aircraft-type spark plugs
- High compression
- Houdaille and Lovejoy shock absorbers (exclusive Nash mounting)

SIMPSON RUNS 100 YARD DASH IN 9½ SECONDS

Elder Finishes Third in Ohio Feature.

Claim New Record

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 4.—(AP)—The world's record for the 100 yard dash was bettered by 1-5 of a second during the Pacific Athletic association track meet here today when Russell Sweet of the Olympic club ran the distance in 9 2-5 seconds. Sweet had a strong wind at his back. Stanford with 80 points won the meet.

Columbus, O., May 4.—[Special.]—Although the temperature was around freezing and a drizzling rain turned into a downpour before the meet was concluded, 16 of the 24 events in the sixth annual Ohio relays were broken here this afternoon.

During the slaughter of the meet records one world's record was tied, one shattered, a National Collegiate Athletic association mark was broken, and a new prep school mark established.

George Simpson, Ohio State sprint star, tied the unofficial world's record in the 100 yard dash held jointly by himself, Charley Paddock and Gordon Locke. Simpson's time was 9 5-10 seconds.

Simpson jumped into the lead with his gun and finished better than five yards ahead of Reginald Bowen of Pittsburgh. Jack Elder, Notre Dame star, placed third, with Don Bennett, Toledo High school boy, on his heels.

Buckeye Hurdlers Set Mark.

The Buckeye hurdlers set a world's record in the shuttle relay, a comparatively new event in college circles. They were clocked in 1:01.3, which bettered Illinois' mark made last week at the Drake relays by more than nine-tenths of a second.

The Illinois 440 yard relay team of Thom, Burkhart, Cave and Patterson broke the National Collegiate Athletic association record in :41.5. Capt. Dave Elliott of Illinois led his team to a first place in the four mile relay for universities.

Warne Off Form.

Warne, Northwestern pole vault star, did not display his usual form and was fifth. Pickard of Pittsburgh won, soaring 13 feet 7⅛ inches. Summaries:

HAMMER THROW—Won by Gwinn, Pittsburgh, 153 feet 2½ inches; Ujehlyi, Ohio State, second, 148 feet 7⅛ inches; Keefer, West Virginia, third, 143 feet 1½ inches; Hood, Chicago, fourth, 140 feet 7 inches; Kelley, Indiana, 135 feet 2 inches.

SHUTTLE HURDLE RELAY—Won by Ohio State [Rockaway, Pierce, Cooks and Peterson]; Illinois, second; Pittsburgh, third. Time, 1:01.3 [new world's record].

COLLEGE MILE TEAM RACE—Won by Notre Dame [lowest score of 24]; Notre Dame, second, 27; Michigan State, third, 31. Best time made by Joe Sivak, Butler, 4:26.3.

880 YARD COLLEGE RELAY—Won by Ohio Wesleyan [Lambacher, Kane, Melvin, Smith]; Miami, second; Wooster, third; Detroit City college, fourth; St. Xavier, fifth. Time, 1:30.

880 YARD UNIVERSITY RELAY—Won by Ohio State [Rockaway, Strother, Kriss, Simpson]; Chicago, second; Illinois, third. Time, 1:27 [new meet record].

COLLEGE TWO MILE RELAY—Won by Western State Teachers [Gaines, Smith, Bruin, Teters]; DePauw, second; Miami, third; Ohio university, fourth; Michigan State Teachers, fifth. Time, 8:12 [new meet record].

BROAD JUMP—Won by Portmess, Northwestern; Utterbach, Pittsburgh, second; Snyder, Lincoln university, third; Bertelsman, Illinois, fourth; Gaines, Western State Teachers, fifth. Distance 23 feet 7¾ inches.

COLLEGE 440 YARD RELAY—Won by De Pauw [Hogan, Melbourne, Ramsey, Spina]; Miami, second; St. Xavier, third; Ohio Wesleyan, fourth. Time, 43. [New meet record.]

COLLEGE DISTANCE MEDLEY—Won by Indiana Normal [Potter, Crider, Beck, Roth]; Earlham, second; Miami, third. Time, 10:56.6.

UNIVERSITY DISTANCE MEDLEY—Won by Illinois [Ferguson, Doyle, Wagner, Marshall]; Chicago, second; Indiana, third; Northwestern, fourth; Notre Dame, fifth. Time, 9:57.2. [New meet record.]

UNIVERSITY ONE MILE RELAY—Won by Ohio State [Scott, Shuiz, Livingston, Gist]; Ohio State, second; Indiana, third. Time, 3:20.8. [New meet record.]

HIGH JUMP [OPEN]—Won by Carr, Illinois; Davis, Missouri; Silber, Olivet College of Detroit; Jack Western State [Teachers, and Russell Wesleyan institute, tied for second. Height, 5 feet 10½ inches. Brady took second in draw and Davis third.

COLLEGE MILE RELAY—Won by DePauw [Hogan, Ramsey, Spina, Sutherland]; Indiana, second; Wooster, third. Time, 3:25.7. [New meet record.]

TRIATHLON—Won by Anderson, Cornell, 2,105 points; Rasmus, Ohio State, 2,047, second; Hill, West Virginia, 1,737, third; Sweet, Ohio State, 1,633, fourth; Votkay Northern, 1,410, fifth.

POLE VAULT—Won by Pickard, Pittsburgh; McDermont, Illinois, second; McAfee, Indiana State, third; Whitney, Michigan State, fourth; Warne, Northwestern, fifth. Height, 13 feet 7⅛ inches [new meet record].

CUBS TROUNCE PHILLIES TWICE, 16-0 AND 9-7.

Grace, Cuyler and Hornsby Clout Homers

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 4.—Our Cubs pulled a lot of those old Philly thorns out of their sides this afternoon during the course of a most brutal double header. Not satisfied with a 16 to 0 riot in the initial encounter, they came roaring back in the sundown phase to rub it in, 9 to 7.

Pat Malone presided in the first affair and although he allowed one hit in each of eight innings and two in the other, he never was in any real danger of losing his shutout. It was Pat's second shutout of the season and his fourth victory. Charley Root was the boss of the second game, although he had tough experience in the first, seventh and ninth innings. His principal exhibition of skill was the striking out of seven of the enemy in the second, third, fourth and fifth innings. His worst lapses were the granting of homers to Klein and O'Doul in the first and ninth innings, respectively.

Stevie Bats .867.

On the offensive Hornsby, Grace and Cuyler obliged with homers. Stephenson, leader of National league sluggers, got through the first game with a 1.000 batting average with a sacrifice, two passes, a single and a triple. He made a single and a double in the second inning of the second game and walked in the third. Then he struck out in the fifth after a potential triple had fallen foul by 3-16 of an inch. He finished up with a batting average of .667 for the afternoon.

The Phillies surprised every one by grabbing a 2 to 0 lead in the first inning of the second game. Thompson struck out but O'Doul walked after a count of three and two. Klein then drove the ball over the right field wall, scoring O'Doul ahead of him. Beck threw out Whitney and Hurst furnished the second strikeout of the inning.

Thoroughly aroused by the refusal of the Phillies to submit to two shutouts in a row, the Cubs stirred up things with a vengeance in the second inning. Stephenson started it with a single to center and stopped at third when Grimm doubled over Southern's head. Grace made his first major league hit, a homer over the right field wall, scoring Stevie and Capt. Charley ahead of him.

Cubs Score 6 Runs.

Root popped to Whitney, but English walked and went to third on Beck's single to center. Cuyler struck out, then Hornsby singled to left, scoring English, Beck stopping at second. Beck scored and Hornsby stopped at second when Wilson's roller trickled between Friberg's heels. Stephenson preserved a 1.000 batting average for the day when he batted for the second time in the inning and doubled to right center, scoring Hornsby and putting Wilson on third. Collins relieved Willoughby. Grimm ended the inning when he went out, Hurst to Collins. The score was: Cubs, 6; Phillies, 2.

Cuyler joined the home run ranks in the third. Grace flied to Friberg but Root beat out an infield single. English fanned and Beck walked. Klein then did his stuff. Hornsby was called out on strikes.

In the seventh Thompson tripled after one was out and scored on O'Doul's sacrifice fly. Klein doubled to right and scored on Whitney's

WHEN THE YANKEES WENT BOOM! BOOM!

Crouse of the White Sox started too late for the plate on a squeeze play and was an easy victim of Dickey, Yankee catcher.

Meusel tried to score from first on Lazzeri's double in the fifth, but was tagged out by Crouse.

Mrs. George Herman Ruth, the former Mrs. Claire Hodgson, saw her husband knock a home run, double, and single in the opening game of the series at Comiskey park.

Babe Ruth had a big day at bat, but his achievements were dimmed by the clouting of his home run rival, Lou Gehrig, who raced around the bases three times.

World's Golf Stars Await British Open

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 4.—The British open championship will get under way Monday over the treacherous wind swept course of the Honorable Company of Edinburgh Golfers, founded, incidentally, about the time George Washington was chopping down his father's cherry tree. No other British open, nor any other open contest, ever attracted such a group of champions as is gathered here on the eve of competition.

Probably Bobby Jones is the only missing one who would stand a chance of winning, but it only would be a chance among the fast stepping company, which includes 17 leading Americans and the cream of British professional and amateur talent, not to mention dark horses like little Joe Jurado, swarthly Argentinian, or Bambata, the big, dusky boy from South Africa.

Will Use Two Courses.

There are 242 entrants, and all except 100 and those tied for the hundredth place will be left by the wayside in the qualifying rounds Monday and Tuesday. Because of the unprecedented number of entries, the officials pressed a nearby course at Gullane into use and the qualifiers will be forced to play alternate rounds on each circuit.

There is little optimism in the American camp tonight. The weather promises to be raw and cold, with a stiff gale blowing from the sea. The wind was so stiff today that most American players continually had tee shots blown into the rough. The Yanks also complained of the roughness of the putting greens.

Leo Diegel, whose perfect putting enabled him to smash the course record at Moortown last week, slumped so badly in practice this week that he returned from Edinburgh this morning with four new putters, but none of them seemed to work satisfactorily. And Wild Bill Mehlhorn, playing a foursome with Jurado, Horton Smith, and Gene Sarazen, putted all over the greens.

Experts Shun Forecasts.

Never in the history of the British open have experts been so reticent in forecasting a winner. The sudden improvement shown by the British pros like Duncan, Compston, and Charlie Whitcombe, who helped to whip the American Ryder cup team last week, completely upset the earlier dope which favored Walter Hagen, three times British open champion, and Johnny Farrell, American open winner last year, or Gene Sarazen, who finished second to Hagen here a year ago.

Following today's practice rounds there was a general opinion that any one beating Horton Smith's score probably will be the winner.

The youthful Missourian played the difficult course like a veteran today, going around in 70, and he was the only American for whom the treacherous wind seemed to hold no terrors. His drives were true, and practically all his approach shots escaped the yawning hazards, of which there are only 285 on this course.

The Muirfield course is one of the most difficult in the world. Perched on the cliffs beside the sea where a gale is blowing continually, it is trapped to the teeth, and even its four short holes are reputed to be the most difficult in Scotland.

Bradley Hurler's Homer in 12th Beats Lake Forest, 8-5

Peoria, Ill., May 4.—(AP)—Furrey, Bradley Tech pitcher, won his own baseball game against Lake Forest college today, hitting a home run over the left field wall in the twelfth inning with the bases loaded. The score was 8 to 5.

London Book Makers Spurn Bets on Smith

Springfield, Mo., May 4.—[Special.]—Visions of easy money as a result of big odds reputedly offered on Horton Smith to take the British open title this year went glimmering late this afternoon when two London "booking agencies," Heath & Co., and John Stanley, returned $5,000 placed by local men on Smith.

Last week the two London booking agencies cabled reports here on odds offered on the various players entered in the British open tournament. The odds were 50 to one against Smith, who captured the north and south open title this year, so fellow Springfieldians made up a pot of $5,000 and cabled it to the two agencies in London.

Smith had won most of the tournaments in the United States since last November and Springfieldians saw a chance to win a fortune on their favorite son.

Today a cablegram was received from the two London houses saying that virtually no bets were being placed, so the odds were off and the money was returned here.

Record? Not for Long! Find Course Ten Yards Short

Lewiston, Me., May 4.—(AP)—Billie Knox, Bates college freshman sprinter, was listed with the Charley Paddocks and Roland Lockes for just about half an hour here today during a Bates-New Hampshire State track meet. Knox was entered in the 100 yard dash and won it. He was astounded when he heard he had broken the world's record 9 2-5 seconds. The straightway was remeasured and found to be only 90 yards.

COAST SPRINT STARS, CONGER TRAIL RIVALS

Los Angeles, Cal., May 4.—(AP)—Charles Borah and Frank Wykoff, two of the fastest dash men in America, went down to defeat in the feature of the Southern Pacific A. A. U. track and field championships here today before the flying feet of Nathaniel George, Whittier college Negro star. George's time was 9:4-5 seconds for the 100 yard dash.

Nick Carter, Los Angeles Athletic club runner, racing a feature mile event with Ray Conger, America's premier miler from the Illinois Athletic club, won a close victory over the Chicagoan in 4 minutes 18 seconds.

15,000 See Big Sweep Win Opening Feature at Aurora

BY FRENCH LANE.

Aurora, Ill., May 4.—Big Sweep, the horse which they said was a hopeless cripple six months ago, came with head a-bobbin' down the home stretch here this afternoon and in a last desperate rally got up in time to win the Inaugural handicap by a head from the Kentucky sprinter, Gold Mint. Taddywawa, a star at Tia Juana last winter, after forcing the pace most of the way was quitting at the end, but saved third money from Runaway Princess.

It was the first time in nearly a year and a half that a big race gathering has cheered the veteran sprinter. He tried to gain those plaudits many times last season but each effort brought failure. When he finished badly lamed at Arlington Park last summer at the end of a sprint in which he was far back it didn't seem possible that he ever would return to the races. Then an accident while being transferred from Arlington Park added to his disabilities. It indeed looked like a miracle was to come if the old son of Sweep ever again went to the post.

But Big Sweep did it today as the Chicago racing season opened, and he did it on his courage. In the early running he was shifted about and did not find an opening through which he could poke his bobbin' head when the field was approaching the stretch.

Shakes off Gold Mint.

Jockey Tommy Luther was forced to take him wide and to the outside. They were at the eighth pole before he began to loom as a dangerous threat. But from there home Big Sweep wore down Runaway Princess and Taddywawa, whipped them in the final strides, and shook off Gold Mint's desperate challenge.

All signs of the strike which halted races here for three days had vanished hours before Big Sweep scored his sensational victory. A crowd of nearly 15,000 was packed into the stands and was lining the rails when the first call of the bugle came.

The sun was shining and the track lightning fast but there were no straw hats to be found anywhere, and those who didn't bring along the heavy wraps they wore last January and February shivered through the afternoon.

The crowd was larger than the track management had expected as all programs were sold at post time for the first race and it was reported that 9,300 programs had been printed.

With fresh bankrolls accumulated during six months away from the track the crowd bombarded the mutuels with more gusto than ever and it was believed to have been one of the heaviest betting throngs that ever gathered here.

One disaster after another was the fate of the favorite players and the climax to their misfortunes came in the Inaugural handicap when Old Kickapoo, backed until he was the betting favorite, was left at the post.

The veteran Charley Allen brought him home a quarter of a mile behind the leaders.

It took the fleet Runaway Princess only a few strides to get to the lead and she was closely followed by Taddywawa with Gold Mint third and Big Sweep back in the second division. Roy Gibson, another on which there had been a plunge, was away in a tangle and could never improve his position.

Big Sweep Pays $9.82.

As they neared the turn into the stretch Runaway Princess and Taddywawa were running as a team. Gold Mint was moving up and a big brown flash which proved to be Big Sweep was fighting to get through between them. But there was no opening and Luther took him up slightly and brought him to the outside.

From there Big Sweep had clear sailing. He came in enormous strides. He was fairly flying as Luther dropped his head down in front at the line of finish. In the mutuels Big Sweep paid $9.82 to win, $9.64 to place, and $5.58 to show. Gold Mint was at $8.12 to place and $5.16 to show. Taddywawa, another outsider, paid $4.24 to show. The time was 1:06 2-5.

Nine stylish 2 year olds went to the post in the Essay purse, which came fourth on the program and which was the secondary feature. It was a dash at 4½ furlongs and Mary Virginia, a daughter of Pandion-Vilna, came within a fifth of a second of the track record when she got home the winner by half a length over Saluta which raced in the apple blossom silks of Alderman John J. Coughlin. Commissioner Dee ridden by G. Woolf, was third. Mary Virginia's time was :53 3-5 and in the mutuels she paid $7.

Big Day for Long Shots.

The long shot players 1st go a rousing cheer when Go Away, a 10 to 1 shot, carrying the gold and white silks of J. H. Limbird of Chicago and ridden by Jockey M. Wimmer came marching home a length and a half in front of his rivals in the opening number.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

It doesn't pay to annoy the Yankees. The White Sox did it yesterday by going into the lead on three different occasions and the world's champs grew hotter. Finally they boiled over with three successive homers by three successive batters in the seventh, whereupon the home boys gave up and the opener of the series proceeded to a quiet conclusion before 22,000. The score was 11 to 9, and, as might be suspected, Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth did most of it.

LOU GEHRIG.

There is ample reason for placing Gehrig's name ahead of Ruth's, as above. All that Larrupin' Lou contributed to a murderous afternoon for three pale hose hurlers was a string of three homers, not to mention a single and pass. Lou hit one on to the roof in right field and interned two in the upper tier in right field, and thus, for the second time in a couple years, equaled the modern big league record on which such maulers as George Kelly, Ken Williams and the Babe have a claim.

Ruth Gets Three Hits.

Ruth was a bit more modest about indulging in his specialty. He slapped one homer in the seventh as a signal for Gehrig and Meusel to follow suit, but his bat was equally destructive at other times. Once he clouted a double and on another trip a single, both of which eventually led him around to the plate. At scoring runs, however, he had to give the edge to Gehrig, who besides going over three times on his homers also counted once as the aftermath of free transportation.

At the start of the show it looked much as if the Sox might go somewhere by virtue of their clouting against Waite Hoyt and the pitching of old Red Faber. For three rounds the veteran spitballer had the marauding New Yorkers pawing the air, the only damage during their periods being Gehrig's first homer, whereas the Sox were able to compile three tallies. But Ruth started to operate in the fourth and a run resulted. The worst was yet to come.

Faber Retires in Fifth.

Going into the fifth the Yanks decided the time was ripe to reveal themselves at their best. They plunked against Faber with everything in their repertoire and before McKain could end the inning four Yanks had crossed the pan. Undaunted by this the Sox bounced back in the sixth, and with the help of a Yank blunder moved out in front with a five run rally that removed Hoyt from the picture. This merely aroused the champs and they turned loose their home run assault in the seventh to eliminate all hopes of a Sox triumph.

The Sox started briskly by scoring one tally in the opening round on a pass to Metzler, a single by Kerr and Clancy's sacrifice fly. Gehrig's homer, that bounced on the roof in right field, evened it up in the second. Then the Sox took the lead for the second time when Hoffman cracked a single and scored ahead of Cissell, who planted one of Hoyt's offerings in the lower left field tier in round three. Ruth's double and Gehrig's single reduced the lead to one run in the fourth.

Hoyt Starts Trouble.

The champs didn't start rough-housing things up in the fifth until after Hoyt was dead. Hoyt set the wheels in progress in motion with a single. Combs also hit for one sack, and when Hoffman fumbled the ball Hoyt moved to third and Combs to second. Koenig flied out but Ruth let loose a single scoring Hoyt and Combs. The ball was trapped on the return throw, but Cissell sneaked back to first safely when Clancy muffed a throw. A wild pitch put Ruth on base and a hit by Meusel scored Cissell and a hit by Gehrig scored Ruth.

went Ruth home and ended Faber. Lazzeri greeted McKain with a two bagger that scored Gehrig with the fourth and last run of the inning. This put the Yanks ahead by 6 to 3.

A double by Watwood was the inaugural happening in the sixth when the Sox forged ahead with five runs. Cissell flied out but Crouse singled. Watwood stopping at third. McKain fanned but Metzler singled Watwood home and Kerr drew a pass, filling the corners. With this opportunity in front of him Kamm whacked a single to left, sending Crouse and Metzler over the pan. Catcher Dickey took Ruth's return throw and heaved it to third, thinking he might nail Kerr but the ball shot far into left field and before Ruth could retrieve it both Kerr and Kamm arrived at the plate. Moore then relieved Hoyt and for the remainder of the fight the Sox did nothing, except for a useless run in the ninth.

Three Homers in Row.

What developed into the home run riot in the seventh started modestly with a double by Combs who moved to third on Koenig's fly to right. Ruth stepped up and boomed the ball into the right upper tier, tying the score at eight apiece. Then Gehrig hit one to the same place and McKain went away to let Lefty Dugan try his luck. Meusel welcomed the newcomer with a drive that bounced off the bricks in deep right center and by the time Hoffman ran the ball down and started it back toward the plate Meusel was there with the third home run of the round. The record for successive homers is four.

After Meusel's homer Dugan managed to get along nicely for the remainder of the matinee, barring Gehrig's third homer which sailed into the second deck in right to open the ninth chapter.

Augustana Conquers Knox in 11 Inning Game, 8 to 6

Rock Island, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—A long hit into center field in the eleventh inning with two men on base by Theman, captain-elect of the Norse quintet, enabled Augustana to chalk up its fifth victory of the season here today at the expense of Knox, the final score being 8 to 6. The triumph puts Coach Almquist's men far out in front in the race for the Little Nineteen pennant.

Lake Forest's Net Team Routs Marquette Rivals

Lake Forest turned back Marquette university tennis team in an interesting match here yesterday. Lake Forest made a clean sweep of four singles matches and the two doubles. Three of the matches took extra sets to decide a winner.

OUR CUBS PAY OFF AN OLD SCORE; BEAT PHILS TWICE

Malone and Root Hang Up Pitching Victories.

single to center. Hurst then flied to Stephenson. The core was: Cubs, 9; Phillies, 4.

O'Doul Gets Homer.

In the ninth Thompson walked and O'Doul drove him in with a homer. There were then two putouts and Hurst doubled and was driven home by Pinch Hitter Cy Williams, who singled to center. The game ended when Friberg forced Williams.

In the first game our nine got going in the second inning after the usual opening fadeout. Hornsby walked and so did Wilson. Stephenson moved them up with a sacrifice bunt. Grimm singled to right, scoring Hornsby, Wilson stopping at third. Grace walked, filling the bases. Malone's long single to right center scored Wilson and Grimm and put Grace on third. English tapped to Ferguson, who elected to get Malone at second instead of trying for Grace at the plate. So Earl scored and Pat was out. English then supplied the third out by trying to steal second.

In the next inning—the third—the Cubs added three runs. Beck fouled to Whitney. Cuyler doubled off the right field wall and went to third while Hornsby was landing safely on first as a result of Friberg's juggling of his grounder.

Hack's Double Scores Kiki.

Wilson doubled to the clubhouse in center field, Cuyler scoring and Hornsby stopping at third. At this point Benge replaced Ferguson. Stephenson singled to center, scoring Hornsby and Wilson. Grimm fouled to Whitney and Stephenson was run down between first and second, Benge to Friberg to Hurst. The score was: Cubs, 7; Phillies, 0.

The Cubs' fourth is mentioned because Malone got his second hit. He got it after Grace had struck out. He then was forced by English for the second time. Beck struck out.

Cuyler was out to start the fifth but Hornsby socked his fourth 1929 homer over the score board in right center. Wilson's second double was a crack off the right field wall. Stephenson walked, but Grimm hit into a double play, Thompson to Friberg to Hurst.

In the eighth Hornsby singled with one out and went to second while Elliott was throwing out Wilson. Stephenson tripled to right center, scoring Hornsby and counting himself when Grimm got his third hit, a single to left. Thompson threw out Grace. In the ninth the Phillies tightened up. Thompson threw out Malone and English and Beck fanned.

Clubhouse Confessions of Our Cubs

WORDS AND ART BY

Edward Burns

Lewis "Hack" Wilson

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 4.—This is the second of a series of intimate studies of the Cubs' personnel, composed to let you know what our heroes think about and do while off the diamond. The stars are telling, in their own modest way, the sacrifices they have made to attain greatness; of the times Satan has appeared before them only to be shoved into the background; of the heartbreaks caused by a fickle public. Each confession, in truth, is a sermon on the text that virtue has many rewards, including the full dinner pail. Ponder well these human documents—you may be a ballplayer yourself some day.

In this week's clubhouse confession is embodied a scheme through which autograph bugs can save the time involved in hanging around the clubhouse, the dugout, or hotel lobby. Simply clip the autograph in this week's confession and those in subsequent confessions, trace or paste them on a baseball scorecard, album, or sofa pillow, and, if persistent, eventually you'll have an authentic souvenir without pestering the athletes. Today you may read the confession of your pudgy pal, Hack Wilson, B. P. O. Elks, Martinsburg lodge, No. 778. Five foot six, but a mighty man withal.

Dedicates Life to Baseball; Born in 1900.

Robert Lewis Wilson, born in Elwood City, Pa., April 26, 1900, has dedicated his life to baseball. He wants to stay in the game for years and years and doesn't give a whoop what he does when his athletic career is ended. He has no profession, no trade, other than baseball. He will not think of the day when he'll have to sell lots, insurance, or bonds or run a barbecue or filling station. Hack Wilson is a ball player and is being paid a pretty penny for playing ball. Why borrow trouble with thoughts of the future?

"I owe everything I am today to the fact I tried to smoke Five Brothers' pipe tobacco in a crepe paper cigaret," Mr. Wilson said in beginning his confession.

"The time of which I speak I was only eight years old and Five Brothers was a very potent tobacco, which my old man had been using for years exclusively for pipe smoking. Child that I was, I never suspected the difference in tobaccos, so, innocently, I stole enough out of the gentleman's pouch to cover my plans for dissipation, and with three companions my own age, set out for a nook under a railroad tressle in Eddystone, Pa.

"We smoked briefly, until all collapsed. We were carried home and spanked by the posse that discovered us, and from that day to this I have often publicly condemned smoking among young Americans who seek an athletic career.

Was Going to Be Soldier and Play Football.

Incidentally, Hack weighs 200 pounds although he only wears a 6½C shoe.

"Did any career other than baseball ever beckon you?" Mr. Wilson was asked.

"Yes, Jimmy Dougherty, manager of George Godfrey, the fighter, once met me in with Capt. Hyatt of Pennsylvania Military academy and I was going there to be a soldier and play football, but Cap hinted about curfew laws so I told him to hell with the education noise."

"Just how much schooling did you have before you declined to go to the military academy?"

"Someplace along about the seventh or eighth grade at Eddystone. I liked the readin' and ritin', but the 'rithmetic was the bunk. So I left the joint flat."

"Did you ever have any ambition to work at anything besides baseball?"

"Yes, several years ago, when I was drawing meager pay as a busher, I thought it would be nice to carry mail in the morning and play ball in the afternoon. I was about to achieve my purpose, when, at a dress rehearsal an inspector noticed my bag of mail was dragging. He disqualified me, saying my shoulders were built too close to the ground for a mail carrying career."

Jack Scott to Rescue of Two Green Peas.

"Have you ever suffered from hunger and thirst, Mr. Wilson?"

"Yes. The Giants bought Kent Greenfield and me from Portsmouth in the Virginia league in 1923 and we were ordered to report to the club at the Auditorium hotel in Chicago. We reported, but Mr. McGraw didn't give us a tumble—no instructions or anything. We had come in light and nearly starved for four days, eating sparingly in a one-arm joint on Wabash avenue. Then Jack Scott saw we were a couple of green peas and on the train leaving Chicago told us we were supposed to eat in the main dining room and sign the tabs. I never have been hungry since that day and I'll always have a warm spot in my heart for Jack Scott."

Hack broke in with Martinsburg as a catcher. His batting record follows:

1921—Martinsburg	.356
1922—Martinsburg	.304
1923—Portsmouth	.359
1924—New York Giants	.200
1924—New York Giants	.295
1925—New York Giants	.239
1925—Toledo	.343
1926—Cubs	.321
1927—Cubs	.318
1928—Cubs	.315

Five years ago Hack was married to Virginia Hetzel of Martinsburg and they are the parents of Bobbie, aged 3½.

GIANTS' DEFENSE WILTS IN TENTH; CARDS WIN, 10-7

High Blasts Two Homers to Aid Red Birds.

New York, May 4.—(AP)—The champion Cardinals started their first invasion of the east this season with a 10 to 7 victory over the Giants in ten innings today. The home run bats of Andy High and Taylor Douthit kept the Cards in the game until the Giant defense exploded in the tenth, giving the Southworth forces the three deciding runs. High hit two circuit drives, each with a man on base, and Douthit one.

Melvin Ott sent the Giants into a tie in the ninth, by hitting into the right field seats with one on base. Bill Terry followed with an apparent triple, but missed first base and was thrown out. Score:

BRIDGE TOURNEY DATES SET; 300 WILL PARTICIPATE

Three hundred men and women from all parts of the country who know the difference between a kibitzer and a finesse and a grand and a little slam, and consider the trumping of a partner's ace a just cause for shooting on sight, will gather at the Edgewater Beach hotel June 5 to 8 inclusive for the first annual national summer tournament of the American Bridge league.

Dates of the tournament, which will include some of the country's most prominent bridge players, were announced yesterday by Robert W. Halpin, 141 West Ohio street, president of the league.

SEIBOLD TWIRLS BRAVES TO FIFTH STRAIGHT VICTORY

Boston Wins First Game from Pirates, 5-3.

Boston, Mass., May 14.—(AP)—The league leading Boston Braves made it five straight by taking the opener from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 3. Harry Seibold, who starred for the home team, pitched well in the pinches. The Braves bunched hits for four runs in the sixth, an error by Barte'l helping them. Paul Waner and Grantham hit for the visitors. Petty started for the Bucanneers, but was relieved in the sixth. Score:

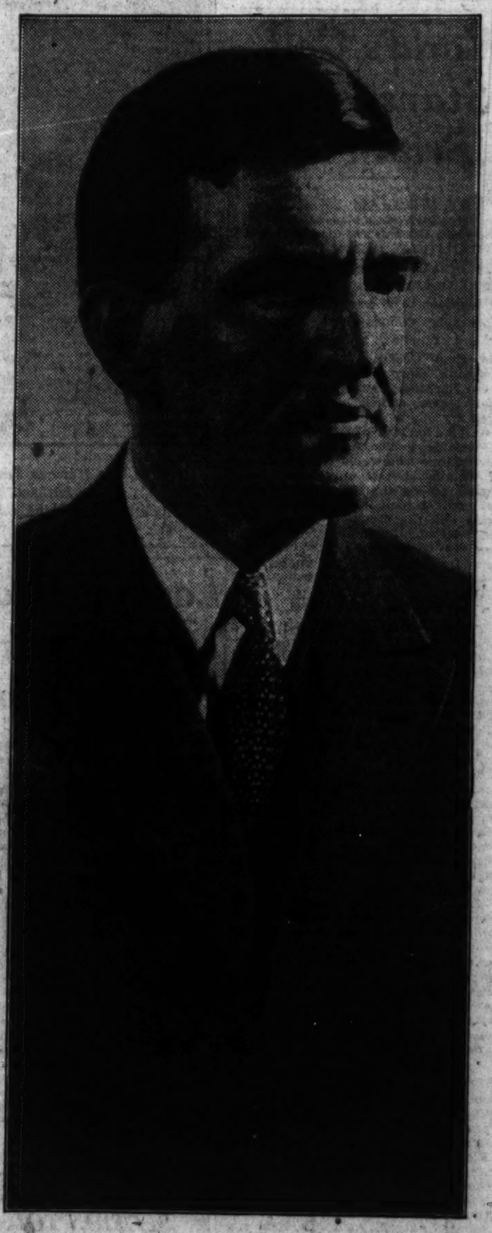
"I'm proud to certify CREMO"

Says

Alfred W. McCann

D. Litt., A.B., LL. D.
Famous Pure Food Expert



"The day of the disgusting cigar factory, with its stuffy, dark, ill-ventilated workrooms—an ideal culture for germs—has, I hope, to a great extent passed," Alfred W. McCann asserts. He is impressed by the fact that at the Cremo factories every sanitary precaution known to modern hygiene is none too good for Cremo. The Cremo factories are protected by white walls and plenty of sunlight—safeguards of cleanliness.

"No wonder," says Alfred W. McCann, "that Cremo is a cigar that can be trusted by smokers who want enjoyment and safety, too. Every tobacco leaf entering the Cremo factories is scientifically sterilized by U. S. Government approved methods."

He says we ought to call our Cremo factories "the Cremo sanitary kitchens" because in cleanliness they are precisely what all food factories ought to be.

In addition to the health protection outlined by Alfred W. McCann, Cremo gives you the greatest possible cigar enjoyment, being made of selected tobaccos, all ripe and mellow. Over $7,000,000 was spent in perfecting the method and means of manufacture that in Cremo insure uniformly fine cigars. Cremo comes to you fresh, germ-free and crush-proof—being individually foil-wrapped.

Distributed by J. & B. Moos, Inc.

HORSES OF EAST DOMINATE FIELD FOR PREAKNESS

Twink Among Standouts in Race Friday.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The $50,000 Preakness stakes, the first of the long series of rich 3 year old events to be decided during the spring and summer, is to be run next Friday afternoon over the old Pimlico course in Baltimore.

As the date for the struggle draws near it shapes up as a contest which will be limited almost strictly to the leading eastern 3 year old thoroughbreds. The west, with its strong contingent of Blue Larkspur, Ervast, Foolish Eye, and Clyde Van Dusen, will not patronize the big Pimlico fixture to any great extent this season. The owners of the western colts prefer to hold them at Churchill Downs and take their chance on a victory in the Kentucky Derby.

Blue Larkspur Stays Home.

Until a few days ago it was expected that Blue Larkspur, the Derby favorite, and which, no doubt, would have been made the post time choice for the Preakness, would be sent to Pimlico for the race. Owner Edward R. Bradley decided to keep him in Kentucky, however, until after Derby day, May 18.

Blue Larkspur might have added both the Preakness and Derby prizes to his string, and it would have sent him far out in front in the race for high money winning horses. He appeared to be one of the few colts eligible for both races with a chance of capturing them. But Owner Bradley, who, according to reports, stands to win a fortune on a Blue Larkspur triumph in the Derby, evidently was afraid to take a chance on possible injuries to his championship contender during the long trip from Kentucky to Maryland and return.

May Move to Kentucky.

Among the more formidable Preakness starters is Twink, the imported colt which runs in the silks of the Loma stable of New York. So far he has faced the barrier but once this year.

From a half dozen to a dozen of the starters in the Preakness usually move on west immediately after the race to fill their engagements in the Derby. Despite the fact that the eastern Preakness and Derby eligibles have been beating each other about as often as they have clashed early this spring, the Derby contingent from along the Atlantic seaboard is expected to be as large as ever.

Should the winner of the Preakness prove the outstanding colt of the year and then go on and score triumphs in the Kentucky Derby, American Derby, the American classic in Chicago and the Belmont stakes in New York, he will earn more than $250,000 for his owner.

ERVAST'S OWNER CAN SEE NOTHING BUT DERBY WIN

Baron Long of California, capitalist, hotel proprietor, chief stockholder in the Agua Caliente casino and owner of the 3 year old Derby candidate Ervast, came into Chicago yesterday and told his friends that he regarded Ervast as an almost certain winner of the Kentucky Derby, May 18.

He also told some of his closer acquaintances that if Ervast does capture the 3 year old fixture he will win $125,000 in wagers aside from the $50,000 Derby purse. He wagered most of his money with Tom Shaw of New York and got as high as 100 to 1 for some of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Long traveled from San Diego to Kansas City on the same train Ervast was shipped on from the west to Churchill Downs. Ervast made that part of the journey in fine shape and according to a telegram Long received from Louisville last night he was unloaded at the scene of the Derby in first class shape.

Long came here to sign Jockey George Woolf to ride Ervast in the Derby. Woolf is at the Aurora track and it is understood will ride the colt in his first start in Kentucky the Tuesday before the Derby in a mile race.

The Baron changed the subject when asked if he was going to make a side wager with Col. E. R. Bradley on Ervast to beat Blue Larkspur. In gambling circles on the west coast Long is what Bradley is to Palm Beach.

Rumage's b. h., by Pennant-Cabaret. Trained by owner. Went to post at 2:56. At post 1 minute. Start good. Won driving, second the same. Red Spider was forced back soon after the start, but gained steadily and came with a rush after saving considerable ground by staying close to the inner rail to draw out in the last twenty yards. Sandy Hatch probably much the best, was raced wide for the entire trip and weakly ridden in the stretch. Golden Sight was far out of it for half a mile, but closed a big gap and was going well near the end. Emphatic raced prominently for half a mile before tiring. Supporter showed good form for half a mile, but tired badly. Perrieron was outrun for most of the way.

Winner, Lewis & Kemp's br. c., by Sweep-Hawkseva. Trained by J. J. Duzran. Went to post at 4:30. At post 1 minute. Start bad. Won driving, second the same. Big Sweep, racing in his best form, suffered slightly when he failed to find an opening approaching the stretch, and had to race wide. Once in the stretch, however, he came fast and outstayed Gold Mint in the last strides. Gold Mint, always a forward contender, continued gamely during the stretch, and wore down Taddywawa. The latter showed good, but he beran tiring in the last sixteenth. Runaway Princess, from a bad beginning, raced with the leaders to the last furlong, where she tired. Winner, McCown's br. c., 3, by Faicines-Silver Diana. Trained by owner. Went to post at 5:12. At post 1 minute. Start good. Won driving, second the same. Don Fernando was restrained during the first half mile, saved much ground by staying close to the inner rail and, holding on determinedly in the last sixteenth, just succeeded. John Johnson Jr., probably the best, lost ground all during the stretch turns, which forced him to race wide. Isoard broke fast and, hard ridden, moved into a good lead, but tired badly in the stretch. Flora M. closed a good gap during the last quarter. Jealous raced prominently for six furlongs, and tired badly during the stretch. John J. S. had no mishaps. Hunt was badly outrun from the start.

Winner, E. Hildebrandt's b. c., by Lord Rock Sand-Lady Atkin. Trained by M. S. Powell. Went to post at 5:43. At post 1 minute. Start good and fast. Won driving, second the same. Rock Candy began slowly and raced far back of the leaders the first six furlongs, moved up enteriar the stretch, then came fast on the outside, wearing down Edward Gray in the final few yards. Edward Gray was rushed into the lead midway of the back stretch, held sway to the final sixteenth, but tired thereafter. Junior's Nurse improved her position steadily and made a strong bid in the stretch, but was outfinished. Cartoon had no mishaps, and raced well. Finnster, close up the first six furlongs, tired thereafter. Old Guard and Elmer H. were done after racing well the first five-eighths.

CLYDE VAN DUSEN TURNS IN GOOD TRIAL OVER MUD

Some Experts, However, Say He Sulks.

Louisville, Ky., May 4.—[Special.]—Clyde Van Dusen, second choice for Derby honors, turned in the best trial this morning, considering the miserable track conditions. The course was deep in mud. The Man o' War gelding, working with Torch Boy, was "clocked" the first quarter in :25 3-5, half in :53 3-5, three-quarters in 1:20 2-5, mile in 1:48 4-5, and up the mile and one-eighth in 2:02 4-5.

Expert work watchers saw the gelding sulk a bit when turning the corners and show a tendency to run out. He came fast when straightened out and ran true, passing out his workmate, Torch Boy, easily at the end of the mile, where Torch Boy was pulled up in 1:50 2-5. Clyde Van Dusen at times last year had fits of sulking or sourness, but he snapped out of them when sent for the real contests. Clyde Van Dusen appears real fit and no doubt will turn in his best race at the first asking.

The Choctaw and Easter Stocking were breezed the full Derby route in slow time, finishing out the mile and one-quarter in 2:20, the first mile in 1:49 4-5. The Choctaw does not like the soft going and he was not encouraged by Jake Heupel to go faster than a quarter in :27.

Flat Iron and Martie Flynn, the Peabody candidates for the Clark handicap, breezed a good mile in 1:49 3-5. These two racers are ready for the question.

Boots Durnell, who is training the largest stable of high class racers ever stabled at the Downs, worked his derby colts Friday afternoon. He breezed most of them halves in :51. All of the 3 year olds in this barn look fit and ready to run at the first asking. The big gray colt, Royal Ford, has caught the fancy of the work watchers. He is a good one, no doubt. He likely will be reserved for the American Derby at Washington Park. Double Heart and Prince Pat are the two Durnell is pointing for the Derby. If the course looks as if it is going to be muddy, Durnell probably will add Calf Roper, winner of the Louisiana Derby, to the Three D's stable entry.

Trainer Charles D. Lewis galloped his two derby charges, Peboney and Bonoby, separately. Bonoby is going to be a starter in the Derby, according to Mr. Lewis, and D. Froggate will have the mount.

The Feurst Brothers' Derby colt, Up Time, worked a mile in 1:52, the first half in :51 4-5, three-quarters in 1:21 2-5. Lehmann Brothers' Derby colt, Suitor, was given an opener of three-eighths in :40 2-5.

Karl Eitel, the big red colt in Ald. Coughlin's barn, was out for a long gallop, but Roguish Eye, recently declared out of the Derby, did not appear on the track.

MAROONS WHIP OHIO STATE, 4-3; FOR 2D VICTORY

Chicagoans Make Most of Their Six Hits.

University of Chicago's baseball team won its second Big Ten victory yesterday when it nosed out Ohio State, 4 to 3, in a game played on the Midway diamond.

Chicago gave the Buckeyes a lesson in run efficiency, turning six hits into four runs, while the Bucks gathered twelve safe blows. Ohio had eighteen men left on bases, but only four Maroons were left stranded.

Will Urbon, sophomore Chicago hurler, was in hot water on several occasions, but usually came through even though the bases were well occupied. Kermode, Buckeye tosser, had a tough afternoon, losing a game when he allowed but six hits, struck out three men and passed none. Score:

Ignatius Wins First League Game, 11 to 10

St. Ignatius scored its first victory in the south section of the Catholic High School Baseball league yesterday by coming from behind to beat De La Salle, 11 to 10, at St. Rita's field. Five run rallies in the third and sixth innings gave the westsiders the game.

A double by Calek and a home run by Pechulis were factors in the third inning attack. Three singles and a pair of walks, aided by De La Salle errors, accounted for the quintet in the sixth. Score:

De La Salle	232	000	0—10 12 4
St. Ignatius	105	005	*—11 11 4

Batteries—Hayes Parker, and Gavin; Hanley, Zarazinski and Kulos.

ST. RITA BLANKS MOUNT CARMEL.

St. Rita handed Mount Carmel its first defeat in the south section of the Catholic league by whitewashing the latter 5 to 0, at St. Rita's yesterday. Brice, St. Rita pitcher, held the Carmelites to three hits. Gardner, Donelan, and Lenat of St. Rita each got two hits. Score:

St. Rita	211	001	0—5 11 1

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Doris P. Pietra, Francesville, Ind., was awarded $5.

The Question.

What outdoor sport will be your chief recreation this summer?

The Answers.

David Schwartz, 3321 Flournoy street, insurance agent—Tennis will be mine. I play at the Garfield and Douglas park public courts. In the winter I do a lot of bowling, but that's inside work and I balance that up with tennis in the summer. One can't do much bowling in the summer unless he is reducing and I am not reducing. Tennis affords an opportunity for exercise in the open air.

Miss Mary Green, 523 Brompton avenue, bookkeeper—Golf. I don't play the game as much as I would like to, but it is the sport I like best. I also slip in a game of tennis once in a while. A visit to a golf course makes me feel as if I am spending the day in the country.

Philip Richman, 1130 South Francisco avenue, bookkeeper—I am a sports fan, but I don't indulge in sports; my interest lies in watching the various kinds of games. Instead of attempting to do anything in those lines I prefer to observe those more capable and competent than I. I like to watch all kinds of sports—baseball, boxing, in fact, everything. Sometimes I take part in indoor baseball.

Miss Erna Nielsen, 4315 Drexel boulevard, secretary—I can't swim, and women don't wear trousers and play baseball. So I go in for golf. Even though I do not make a low score I enjoy the game because it takes me into the open. Aren't some of the golf courses just beautiful? I believe golf is one of the best games for people of all ages.

R. E. Pinnell, 3033 Argyle street, salesman—I am particularly interested in trips into the north woods. I take a group of boys into the north woods every year. We study camping, fishing, and nature—all those things that boys are interested in.

CRANE JUNIOR COLLEGE LOSES MEET TO CULVER

Culver, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—Culver Military academy won a dual track meet from Crane Junior college, Chicago, this afternoon, 84 to 29. The cadets demonstrated marked superiority in all events except the hurdles and high jump, which were won by the visitors. Cadet Peckham won both dashes, while Brugman of Crane took first in both hurdle races. Capt. Dickey's 4:40 mile was the best performance of the day. Cadet Bibb was the leading point winner with 11¼, scored in the dashes, broad jump, and relay. Summaries:

MOLINE ROOTERS PLAN TO HONOR WEILAND OF SOX

Moline, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Sunday, May 12, has been designated as Bob Weiland day at Comiskey park, Chicago, and a large delegation from this city and vicinity plan to honor the former Moline pitcher, now with the White Sox. Several valuable gifts from his admirers here will be presented on that date.

Harvard-Mass. Tech Rowing Race Postponed

Cambridge, Mass., May 4.—(AP)—Crew races between Harvard and Massachusetts Tech, scheduled for this afternoon, were postponed for one week after the crews had waited until after six o'clock for the waters of the Charles river to become calm. A stiff wind made the water too rough for the crews to venture onto the river.

Herrin and Benton Teams Tie for Big 7 Track Title

Harrisburg, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Herrin and Benton, with 43½ points each, tied for first place in the second annual Big Seven conference track and field meet today. West Frankfort scored 41½ points, Harrisburg 23, Carbondale 22½, Murphysboro 21⅝, and Marion 13⅛. Seven records were broken.

WISCONSIN NIPS ILLINOIS, 2-1, IN HURLERS' BATTLE

Urbana, Ill., May 4.—(AP)—Wisconsin continued its victorious march in the Big Ten baseball championship race by edging out Illinois, 2 to 1, after a pitchers' battle between Maury Farber and Bower of the Illini.

Farber was invincible, allowing the heavy hitting Illini three hits, scattered over the first, sixth and eighth innings. Bower allowed five, which were coupled with errors and bases on balls to give Wisconsin its runs.

It was the second straight Big Ten victory for Farber and the second time he has pitched a three hit game.

Illinois scored its only run in the fourth inning on two errors and a wild pitch. The Badgers knotted the count in the sixth, tallying once behind two walks and two errors. In the eighth, they pushed over the winning run on a hit, one base on balls and two errors. Ellerman and Evans got four of Wisconsin's five hits.

Today's triumph was the third straight in Big Ten baseball for Wisconsin and it gave the Badgers a big edge in the championship race. Score:

WASHINGTON HIGH OF CEDAR RAPIDS WINS RELAY TITLE

Clinton, Ia., May 4.—[Special.]—By virtue of victories in the one mile and 880 yard relays, the closing events on the program, Washington High school of Cedar Rapids won the team championship of the Gateway track classic today from a record breaking field of 40 western Illinois and eastern Iowa high schools. It was the Tigers' third victory in nine years.

Milledgville, unnoticed by the dopesters, was the sensation of the meet, taking four firsts to win third place. Glen Ellyn, Chicago suburban school, failed to live up to expectations, failing to win any first and collecting only nine points. Davenport, Ia., took second place in the team totals.

STARK MEET FRIDAY.

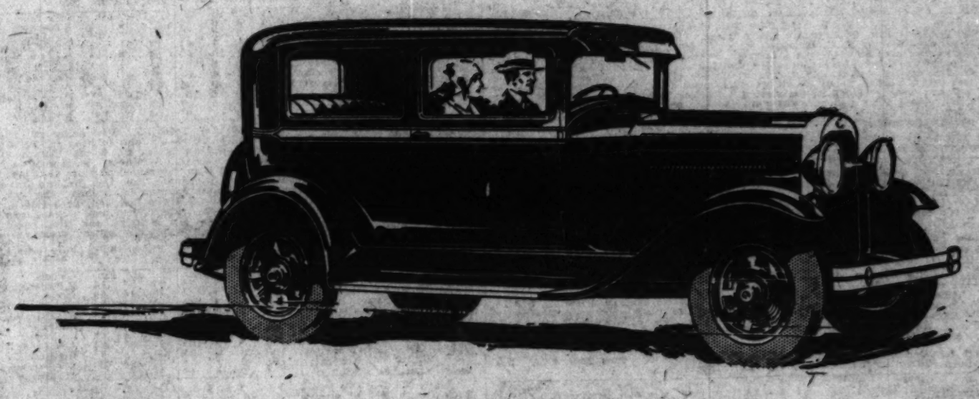
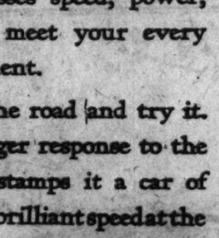
Drive it.. Measure its Speed. Power and Getaway

TRY IT ON THE ROAD



SATISFY yourself that this finer Oldsmobile possesses speed, power, and getaway to meet your every driving requirement.

Take it out on the road and try it. You'll find an eager response to the accelerator that stamps it a car of spirit. You'll find brilliant speed at the command of your toe—more than the average driver ever uses. You'll find an even, effortless flow of power, with an ample reserve for any emergency.



This new radiator emblem identifies the fine car of low price.

And with this thrilling performance—adding even greater enjoyment to driving—Oldsmobile's big 62-horsepower high-compression engine provides bull-dog stamina that enables you to maintain touring speeds hour after hour, and to conquer hill after hill in high.

Test Oldsmobile's riding qualities on every type of road. A low center of gravity and correctly balanced weight result in marvelous roadability. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers and special alloy-steel springs provide smooth, easy riding on rough roads or choppy pavements. Wide, deep-cushioned seats permit you to relax in restful comfort.

Then drive Oldsmobile through traffic. See how its remarkable getaway and handling ease simplify city driving—how fingertip steering and a short turning radius make parking easy, even in small spaces. Test Oldsmobile's four-wheel safety brakes—they'll bring you quickly and quietly to a smooth, sure stop. Oldsmobile does all things well—because of its balanced design. But the way to find out what this car can do, and how it does it, is to check its performance yourself. Come, take a drive. Make every performance test. Match Oldsmobile, point for point, with other cars. Then you'll discover, as thousands already have, that this finer Oldsmobile is unsurpassed in performance and value by any car near its price.

MILWAUKEE EAST WINS HONORS IN MARQUETTE MEET

Deerfield - Shields Takes Second Place.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 4.—[Special.]—Central Institute of Hamilton, Ont., two or three Chicago schools, and one local entry held the spotlight here today in the seventh annual Marquette University High school relay carnival, in which eleven meet records were broken, two tied and two new ones established.

Seven thousand saw the meet. Despite a chilling wind, the 1,200 boy athletes who gathered in the Hill Top stadium turned in innumerable good performances in the competition for the John L. Barchard cup, which was won by Milwaukee East, with a total of 27 1-3 points.

Deerfield-Shield of Highland Park, Ill., was a close second with 26 points, and the result was in doubt to the last event.

Central Institute of Hamilton, Ont., led the private school competition, with 47 points, winning the two mile, mile, and half mile relays, and the 100 yard dash.

Lake Forest [Ill.] academy was second in this division with 38¼ points, and Mooseheart [Ill.] High school ran third, with 20¼ points.

In the special half mile relay for Chicago Catholic high schools De Paul academy's team, composed of Gintner, H. Smith, E. Smith, and Booth, was first in 1 minute 35 seconds, a new meet record, while St. Ignatius was second, Mount Carmel third, and Loyola fourth.

Ralph Metcalfe, Tilden Tech's star colored sprinter, did not compete in the century, as he was saved for two relay races.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

TURFMEN'S STRIKE.

HORSEMEN, striking and refusing to make entries for races at Aurora race track, took an untenable position. They presented three demands: That they be allowed to purchase feed wherever they wished; that purses be increased; that the association deduct 1 per cent from winning purses and turn it into the treasury of the Thoroughbred Horsemen's association.

HARVEY WOODRUFF.

Horsemen should be allowed to purchase feed where they can do so to the best advantage. Perhaps it is more convenient for the track to have a central distributing point, but the practice is monopolistic and un-American. The track management conceded that demand.

they wished; that purses be increased; that the association deduct 1 per cent from winning purses and turn it into the treasury of the Thoroughbred Horsemen's association.

Horsemen should be allowed to purchase feed where they can do so to the best advantage. Perhaps it is more convenient for the track to have a central distributing point, but the practice is monopolistic and un-American. The track management conceded that demand.

The question of purses is one on which The Wake cannot pass. That is a matter of business. Because of its nature, racing always is subject to attack by reformers and by grafters. We always have thought 15 to 20 per cent was not an unfair return upon race track investments, at least until the original capital is returned. Presumably Aurora has made money. It knows what it can afford to offer. Horsemen are not compelled to race there. But Aurora promises to increase the purse scale.

There is no reason why Aurora should act as a collection agency for any turf association, or any tailors, butchers, or grocers. The very fact that the Thoroughbred Horsemen's association insists on this demand implies lack of faith in its own membership. If this body cannot collect its own fees from members, there is no reason why it should expect others to do so. Its stand was ill advised. The whole affair, so far, has done practically no damage to racing. It could—but we do not think it will—prove a serious menace.

Point of View.

"Bunny," the Wrangler, came in one day,
Out from the west for a holiday;
We finally got him to say he would stop
And rest his spurs in our new co-op;
So up to the top of the building tall
We piloted "Bunny," his Stetson and all;
"And aren't you scared," I says to him,
"Riding around on a mountain's rim?
"What if your pony," says I with a shiver,
"Slipped and you fell in the Yellowstone river?"
"And aren't you skeered," he says to me,
"Up at the top on this jamboree?
"Nothing to do if a fire broke out
"But stand at the window and whoop and shout?"
Thus he went on and it sure seemed funny—
He pitied us and we pitied "Bunny."

Maixis.

"Gabby" Hartnett.

If Leo "Gabby" Hartnett's ailment does not respond to treatment, it will prove a serious loss to the pennant seeking Cubs. It might even determine the issue. No matter what other receivers may do, Hartnett's experience is an invaluable asset. Hartnett was the question mark in a pennant discussion at which The Wake sat in before the season opened. Baseball dopesters insist an experienced and reliable back stop is essential to pennant success.

BADGER PROGRAM OF 'ATHLETICS FOR ALL' DRAWS 2,995

Madison, Wis., May 4.—[Special.]—Athletic Director George Little's program of athletics for all, inaugurated three seasons ago, is bearing fruit with 2,995 men students engaged in intramural sports at the University of Wisconsin, an athletic department report revealed today.

The total of 2,995 comprises 69 per cent of the male enrollment at the Badger school and is exclusive of varsity sports, which attract upwards of 1,000 others.

Coach Leonard Allison, director of intramurals, stressed the fact that there is no duplication in the departmental figures. Many men, of course, participate in several sports. If the total number of participants in all sports was added, the result would be 7,500, which is 2,500 more than the total male enrollment.

Football draws the most competitors, with 956 men participating, besides the 900 varsity, B squad, and frosh team athletes. A total of 476 men are playing baseball in the interfraternity leagues.

Fifteen sports offered in the intramural curriculum are to teach football, varsity football, cross country, basketball, bowling, hockey, swimming, water polo, wrestling, boxing, baseball, track, golf, tennis, playground ball. A free throw trophy is also offered at the end of the cage season.

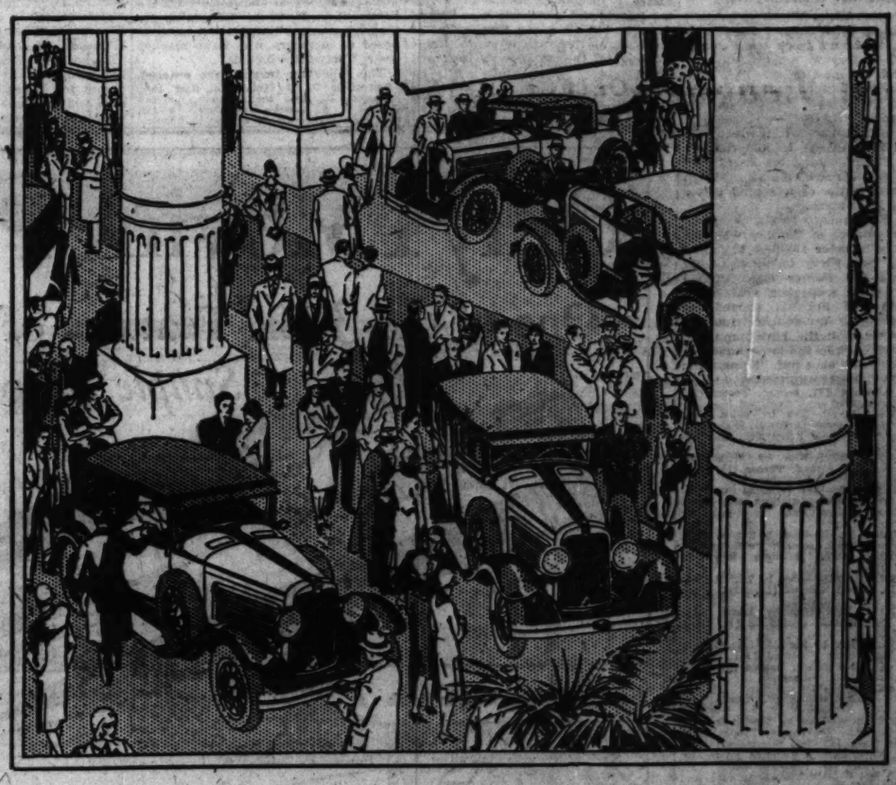
A NEW CAR FOR ALL — MARMON-BUILT

TO CORRECT A RUMOR

Many who are considering the Roosevelt have delayed seeing it because of the report that delivery could not possibly be made for two or three months. While sales are nearly double our best anticipations, the factory has assured us of large immediate shipments. We therefore can now promise delivery in reasonable time.

Never before such Crowds . . . because never before such a Car



Salesrooms packed all day and on into the night . . . A fleet of demonstrators with hardly a minute when their motors are shut off . . . Salesmen with a pocketful of places to go and people to see . . . These are highlights of what the public thinks of the Roosevelt—the world's first straight-eight under $1000.

The public buys a car for three primary reasons: (1) Eye appeal (2) Performance appeal (3) Value appeal. They might buy for any one of these reasons individually, but when all three reasons are found in one single car, nothing can stop the avalanche of that car's success.

This three-way appeal, the public has decided, is in the Roosevelt. As a result the success of this car is everywhere—the biggest automobile ten-strike of recent times. For a moment forget its low price and consider what it offers:

Demonstrations in the new Roosevelt and in the Marmon 68 and 78—at any time to suit your convenience.

In Eye Appeal

Beauty is a matter of lines and harmony of design. It can be put, so Marmon thinks, in a $1000 car as well as a $3000 car. The Roosevelt has low sweeping lines. It is as neat and trim as a yacht—either "head on" or at a side view. The radiator reflects the staunchness—the inspired character of the great name which it bears.

In Performance Appeal

Satisfactory performance in a $1000 car could undoubtedly have been obtained with a six cylinder motor. But to be merely satisfactory is short of the Marmon ideal. So into a $1000 automobile Marmon put a straight-eight motor! And not a mere average motor of eight cylinders—but a genuine Marmon-designed, Marmon-built straight-eight motor. This motor develops an actual 70 H. P.—more power, by far, than any other car at or near the price.

In Value Appeal

Marmon believes getting the most car for the money means stylish appearance, performance that is not only advanced but of assured dependability and a car that can be economically operated and serviced.

The Roosevelt is exactly that car. On any basis of comparison it is the greatest automobile in the world at its price. May we have the opportunity of proving that all this is true?

Marmon 68, a straight-eight which has won a great place for itself among medium-price cars.

Highlights of Design: Springs 81% of wheelbase with spring compensators, an entirely new development in easy riding; full-pressure lubrication; thermostatic cooling; adjustable steering column; "single button" control.

The Three Greatest Automobile Buys in the World Today

Whether your automobile budget is $1000 or 2500, the great new Marmon-Roosevelt line of straight-eights should be seen before you decide to buy any car. Roosevelt, $995. Marmon 68, $1465. Marmon 78, $1965. All prices at factory. Group equipment extra. Convenient income-purchase plan.

MICHIGAN DOWNS IOWA.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 4.—[Special.]—Showing a team balance superior to Iowa's, Michigan's track team won a 68 to 65 victory in a Big Ten dual track and field meet today.

A brisk wind swept down the track, favoring performers in the dashes and hurdles. Eddie Tolan scored a double victory for Michigan in the 100 and 220 dashes. He did the former in :09.6, equalling the Ferry field and collegiate mark, and the 220 in :20.9, three-tenths of a second better than the local mark.

Capt. Ketz turned in the outstanding performance of the day when he threw the hammer 165 feet 10 inches to set a new Ferry field mark. He also held the former mark of 160 feet 10 inches made last year.

Gordon and Forwald starred for Iowa, chalking up double triumphs. The former took the high jump and broad jump, while the latter captured the javelin and shot put. Summaries:

HAKOAHS PLAY SPARTA SOCCER TEAM ON SUNDAY

The Hakoah eleven, world famous Jewish soccer team, is coming to Chicago again. Restored to its original strength, this aggregation of kickers now represents New York instead of Vienna, as in former years, and is the champion soccer club of the United States.

So there is certain to be a demonstration of dazzling head and foot work when the Hakoahs clash with the Sparta A. C., title holders of the Chicago Senior Soccer league, next Sunday at Soldiers' field.

In 1926 the swift stepping Jewish lads came to this country for the first time, bringing with them a splendid European record and reputation. And by their beautiful teamwork and individual playing they stirred up new enthusiasm for soccer in many of the leading American cities. In 1927, however, it was a weakened Hakoah that came across the Atlantic seeking new conquests. Several of the stars had been lured away by American clubs.

Consequently, the showing the team made that year, though creditable, fell considerably below the record of the previous year. But now the lineup of the New York Hakoah almost is identical with that of 1926. The players who wandered away have returned to the fold.

Poloists Gallop Into Action on Local Fields This Week

Chukker, foul and save, all significant terms where polo is played, will be heard on local fields this week. Particularly will this be true at Onwentsia, where practice begins in earnest in anticipation of a banner season.

Balked by inclement weather that has left turfs treacherous, Chicago's polo season has been deferred. Ordinarily it begins May 1. Yet, with turf in condition, the ponies will not be long in developing form.

Striving to produce a regional champion to take part in the national inter-circuit tournament here in August, Onwentsia has a wealth of material from which to draw. A team carrying an aggregate goal handicap of thirteen is available. The club has a string of ninety ponies, including the recent shipment of Texas horses.

With Kenneth Fitzpatrick as No. 1, Baldi Balding as No. 2, William Mitchell Blair as No. 3 and Earle Reynolds as back, Onwentsia's team goal handicap rises to thirteen. Blair, by the way, acts as team captain and it is his duty to complete a playing schedule for Onwentsia.

Dick Simmons, former Yale player who shone along the eastern intercollegiate polo horizon several seasons ago, probably will affiliate with Onwentsia this season, thus adding strength to its already formidable array.

Anent records, the two indoor teams representing the 124th Field artillery in the national class C and D championships recently hung up quite an unusual mark.

The class D team, champions in their division and made up of Lieuts. Mura, Callahan, Everett and Schuh, scored a total of 29 goals in two games as against their opponents' 13½. Class C, also champions, perhaps did even better. This combination, embracing Lieut. Col. H. H. F. Gosset, Capt. G. L. Ferguson and Lieut. L. E. Everett, tallied a total of 54½ goals in three contests as compared with the opposition's 13½.

BOB GARDNER.

Robert Gardner, probably better known in athletic circles in and around Chicago for his ability as a golfer, this season will be candidate for one of the four berths on the Onwentsia team. Charles Clore and Bud Rader are among others prominently mentioned for places.

Army fours in and around Chicago, as usual, will concentrate on developing talent so that when the national army heads look around for material to throw into the national junior at Rumson, N. J., local teams may be represented.

The 124th Field Artillery players, indoor class C and class D national champions, virtually have completed arrangements, for playing their contests on the grounds of the North Shore Country club.

At Fort Sheridan the army officers are installing a playing field of their own on the parade grounds. It is probable that a practice field also will be prepared on a site yet undetermined.

Onwentsia's recent importation of Texas ponies are now undergoing polo training with Tom Phelan and Cliff Scott serving as drillmasters.

Iowa U. Golfers Defeat U. of Chicago by 19 to 5

Iowa City, Ia., May 4.—[Special.]—University of Iowa golfers won a 19 to 5 victory over the University of Chicago team today in the opening contest of the Hawkeye Big Ten schedule.

A QUESTION . . TO THE MAN WHO IS "LOOKING AROUND" IN THE $1000 CLASS

Can you swing maybe a hundred dollars more on your down-payment—and shoulder perhaps three additional payments? That actually is all you have to consider in order to own a Reo Flying Cloud. But that, however, is not the whole story. By the end of the third year, with a Reo, you will have saved in repairs alone far more than your added investment—and you will have a fourth, fifth sixth year and even more of really outstanding service to look forward to.

Reos are built the way only the finest cars are built—to last. And people who know motor cars will tell you that for long life, performance and mechanical dependability a Reo is to be compared only with cars in the highest price-brackets . . . Besides, wouldn't you rather drive a car that hasn't an obvious price tag attached to it?

Look around, of course—but be sure to look in at your Reo dealer's.

Now you can have a Reo Flying Cloud at a lower price than ever before.

KNOXVILLE WINS GALESBURG MEET WITH 24 POINTS

Prep Athletes Smash 4 Meet Records.

Galesburg, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Knoxville scored 24 points to win the twenty-eighth annual Military Track association meet held at Knox college today. Lewiston, with 20½, was second; Abingdon, with 20 points, third, and Rossville, with 19, was fourth; 229 athletes from 18 schools competed.

Four records were smashed. Berry of Abingdon, who won first place in three dash events and was the individual high scorer of the meet, upset two of them. He won the 50 yard dash in :5.4 to break the old record of 5⅘ seconds, which has stood since 1913, and did the 220 yard dash in :22.9. The old record was :23.1.

Rusk of Kirkwood threw the discus 117 feet 3½ inches. The old mark was 116 feet ¼ inch. Dunbar of Macomb attained a height of 11 feet 10¼ inches in the pole vault, which is some five inches higher than the previous record.

Walter Eckersall of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE was the referee and starter. Knox college track stars staged several exhibition matches in track and field events. Crawford furnished the outstanding feature of these when he threw the discus 138 feet, which is considerably better than the Little Nine conference mark in this event.

Summaries:

50 YARD DASH—Won by Berry, Abingdon; Gillam, Lewiston and Hitchcock, Yates City, tied for second; Links, Macomb, fourth. Time, :5.4. [New record; old record, :05 3-5, set by Johnson, Macomb, in 1913].

SHOT PUT—Won by Van Arsdale, Rossville; J. Kelly, Kirkwood, second; Proctor, Lewiston, third; Stronghurst, fourth. Distance, 41 feet 1½ inches.

MILE RUN—Won by Threw, Farmington; Line, Alexis, second; Harah, Roseville, third; D. Woolsey, Knoxville, fourth. Time, 4:45.2.

440 YARD DASH—Won by Kay, Knoxville; Hitchcock, Yates City, second; Hart, Elmwood, third; Rush, Kirkwood, fourth. Time, :52.9.

100 YARD DASH—Won by Berry, Abingdon; Zempel, Lewiston, second; Monroe, Rosehill, third; Bohan, Alexis, fourth. Time, :10.3.

DISCUS THROW—Won by Rush, Kirkwood; Wallick, Knoxville, second; Barrett, Lewiston, third; Boice, Elwood, fourth. Distance, 117 feet 3½ inches. [New record; old record of 116 feet ½ inch, made by Miller, Elwood, in 1926.]

POLE VAULT—Won by Dunbar, Macomb; Woolsey, Knoxville, second; Lewis, Abingdon, third; Holcomb, Bardolph, fourth. Height, 11 feet 10½ inches. [New record; old record of 11 feet 5⅘ inches made by Isted, Lewiston, in 1928.]

RUNNING HIGH JUMP—Won by Burrill, Roseville; Woolsey, Knoxville, second; Miller, Alexis, Dasbert, Williamsfield, and Salter of Biggsville tied for third. Height, 5 feet 5½ inches.

880 YARD RUN—Won by Westerfield, Knoxville; Lewis, Abingdon, second; G. Lawson, Macomb, third; Gibb, Rossville, fourth. Time, 2:06.8.

220 YARD DASH—Won by Berry, Abingdon; Zempel, Lewiston, second; Galloway, Macomb, third; Bohan, Alexis, fourth. Time, :22.9. [New record; old record of :23.1 made by Hampton, Macomb, in 1926.]

PRO CAGE LEAGUE RETAINS O'BRIEN AS PRESIDENT

TORONTO, Ont., May 4.—(AP)—John J. O'Brien of New York was reelected president of the American Professional Basketball association when that organization held its fifth annual meeting here today. The financial condition of the league was reported as the best in its history. Everything, executives said, pointed to a banner year for the season 1929-'30.

Application for franchises from three western and two eastern cities were received and passed on to a special committee for consideration. The names of the cities were not announced.

The meeting decided to present Max Rosenblum, owner of the world's champion Clevelands, with a trophy emblematic of the title.

The delegates decided to retain the same playing rules for the season 1929-'30.

The cities represented at the meeting were: Cleveland, M. Rosenblum and I. Rose; Chicago, George Halas; Fort Wayne, C. S. Alter; New York, D. Kosch; Brooklyn, J. Donlon; Paterson, N. J., R. Myers, J. Wagner; Trenton, N. J., C. Smith.

HINTS ARMY, NAVY MAY PLAY AGAIN ON GRID THIS FALL

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[U. P.]—New negotiations for resumption of athletic relations between the United States military and naval academies may be started soon, Chairman Britten of the house naval affairs committee said today.

"There is a bright prospect that the army and navy football game can be played this fall," he said. "High officers of the army and navy are anxious that the two academies renew their relations."

Britten suggested that the secretary of war, the secretary of navy, and a disinterested third party, familiar with all athletic rules, should get together and draft a set of rules to apply to the academies and their athletic contests.

HUSKER TRACKMEN WIN.

Lincoln, Neb., May 4.—(AP)—Nebraska tracksters won the dual meet with Oklahoma here this afternoon by a score of 78 1-3 to 52 2-3.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS · By WESTBROOK PEGLER

"Get up, Jack—meet Charlie Murray, the promoter."

NEW YORK, May 4.—[Special.]—If some young alley fighter should step out of the back room of a saloon and knock out Paulino Uscudun and Jack Sharkey within a month or six weeks, people would be more than likely to pay him some mind. You'd see his picture in the papers and interviews with his Ma.

Mr. Charles Murray, a citizen of Buffalo, tells me of one such fighter, but this one has come, and been, and grown fat, and been licked, and gone. Mr. Murray hankers to see his like, but doesn't think he ever will.

"Back in 1918," Mr. Murray relates, "I was going to put on a fight between Fireman Jim Flynn and Carl Morris. It was going to be a pretty good fight, with some bleeding and stumbling, and a little muttering back and forth in the clinches, and a return match for a few weeks later. Mr. Flynn came to town of a Monday. The fight was to be of a Friday.

Wonder If Flynn Has Become Buffalo Citizen?

"So I said to him, 'What are you doing in town five days early?' because he usually figured to get in a day or so before a fight. Five days in town was like settling down and becoming a citizen with Jim.

"He said, 'Oh, I just dropped off the train to tell you I'm fighting a fellow out in Illinois between now and Friday.' I forgot where in Illinois it was, but it was Quincy or Peoria or somewhere. He said, 'I am fighting some punk middleweight, but I will be right back and fight for you.'

"So he got on the train and went to Quincy or Peoria. And that's the last I saw of him, because on Thursday morning early somebody called me up and said, 'Say, Charlie, who are you going to use in place of Flynn against Morris?'

"Well, then they told me that this middleweight hit Flynn on the whiskers and knocked him out in a round. I said, 'What's the name of this middleweight?' They said, 'His name is Jack Dempsey.'

Show Ruined, Murray Sends Out His S O S.

"So that ruined my show, but I happened to put in a long distance call to a fellow in Chicago. This fellow generally has some fighters hanging around, and I thought I might get some bum to come on up.

"I got this fellow on the phone and told him my troubles, and he said, 'Well, why don't you use Dempsey? He's little for a heavyweight, but looks like a pretty good fighter, and you can have him for $750 and a couple of one-way tickets to Buffalo. He wants to get east.'

"Well, I didn't know what to do. Putting a little fellow in against Big Morris wasn't smart. The law was against us up in Buffalo then, and they were just letting us sneak along from week to week. I didn't want any massacre that might be a blot on the game and cause a reform, you understand.

"But I was desperate and I said, 'All right, send him up here and I'll have a look at him anyway. Maybe we can get Morris to favor him a little.'

Dempsey Appears Like One of Singer's Midgets.

"The next night I got a phone call and a fellow said, 'This is Jack Kearns, the manager of the fellow that's to fight Morris for you. We're down at the hotel.'

Well, down I went and up to his room, and there was a young looking fellow lying on the bed wearing just nothing but some athletic underpants and reading a paper.

"Kearns was there. I looked at the kid lying on the bed and motioned Kearns to go on in the bathroom so I could talk to him. He went in, and I went in and closed the door.

"I said to Kearns, 'For God's sake I've got to get somebody to fight Big Morris, a 225 pounder, and you chisel me out of a couple of railroad tickets and bring me up one of Singer's midgets. I don't mind the tickets, but you've ruined my date on me again. I could have dug up somebody—Gunboat Smith or somebody.'

"Kearns threw open the bathroom door and said, 'My fellow will punch Morris' head off. He doesn't like Morris, anyway. It will be a grudge fight. We're likely to kill him. Get up, Jack, and meet Charlie Murray, the promoter.'

Dempsey Swells Out His Chest; Promoter Unimpressed.

"Dempsey got up and swelled out his chest, trying to make himself 'ook big. I said, 'Don't be holding your breath to swell out your chest. You fellows have put me in a bad spot, so I suppose I will have to use you. But promise me one thing, don't let them take the bathrobe off you until you're coming out for the first round. If the chief of police sees a little guy like you in there with Morris before the bell, he'll stop it sure.'

"I sat by the bell myself, so I could cut the rounds short if Morris started to butcher him. Then they started.

"I've seen, I guess, about 10 000 fighters in my time, but I never saw such a tiger as this Dempsey was that night. He murdered Morris in the first round. He cut him to tatters, knocked him down, banged him around, nearly knocked his head right out of the building. Morris weighed 225, Dempsey weighed 135.

"After the first round, Dempsey walked clear around the ring, frisky and cocky. When he passed me, he looked down and yelled, 'How'm I doin', kid?'

"I said, 'You're doin' fine, boy. Go to it.'

"Dempsey hung him over the ropes and stopped him in the sixth. I never saw such a fight. The Firpo fight was pretty wild. This was six of those.

"A few weeks later I brought him back to fight Gunboat Smith. This time I had to give him $4,000. He hit Smith in the small of the back so hard his right leg got stiff as an iron bar. Smith was out. They couldn't loosen that leg when they got him back to the corner, and they couldn't bend it in the dressing room, either.

"About midnight Dempsey went down to get the New York train. Smith was waiting for the same train. He couldn't sit down, on account of the stiff leg. Dempsey helped him into the train and took off his clothes and put him in the berth. Never any animosity out of the ring, but a murderer when the bell rang.

"Fellows get tired listening to me tell about Dempsey. If you see one like him, send him up to me."

Krone Cards Two 'Windups' for Mat Show

Although he has no champion on his heavyweight wrestling card at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium Tuesday night, Promoter Doc Krone predicts the bill will satisfy the appetites of the fans.

Krone is basing his prediction on the double windup he has provided. Jimmy Londos will meet Gino Garibaldi, the Italian star. Garibaldi is one of the greatest young wrestlers to invade this country, and his backers believe he will be returned the victor over the experienced Greek.

Ray Steel, colorful Californian, and one of the best wrestlers developed in the last ten years, clashes with George Hagan in the other half of the windup.

The third bout arranged will bring together Charley Strack, the collegian, and Jack Roberts, local trial horse. One more match will complete the card.

INDIAN SHATTERS 6 MILE RUN MARK 25 YEARS OLD

Los Angeles, Cal., May 4.—(AP)—Harry Chaucs, Little Mission Indian, running under the colors of the Los Angeles Athletic club, toppled the 25 year old world's record for the six mile run at the Southern Pacific A. A. O., track and field championships here today, running the distance in 29 minutes 44 seconds.

Greenfield Coach Awards Nineteen Athletic Letters

Greenfield, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Coach Raines has distributed honor letters to nineteen athletes of the Greenfield High school who distinguished themselves during the recent season.

Grid emblems went to Skaggs, Stuck, Melvin, Nelson, Struble, Wilder, Pruitt, Standridge, Burkhart, Parks, Holmes, O'Brien, and Cole, while cage awards went to Roth, Nelson, Skaggs, Holmes, Burghardt, and Faulkner. The squads elected Pruitt captain of the grid team of next season, while Holmes was the choice as leader of the 1930 cage team.

WISCONSIN BIDS FOR FISHERMEN; RESTOCKS LAKES

Work of Hatchery Crews Wins Anglers.

BY BOB BECKER.

Although spring usually is considered planting time instead of a season for harvesting, there have been several harvesting crews at work during the last few weeks in Wisconsin, and every fisherman is interested in the "crop" which was gathered. These crews which reverse the seasons have been working under the direction of E. O. Webster, superintendent of fisheries of the state of Wisconsin.

They put on hip boots, take their seines and fish cans and harvest a big crop of eggs from wall-eyed pike and muskies so that the state hatcheries may turn out millions of fry for restocking the lakes of the Badger state.

Promises Good Muskie Fishing.

The fact that muskellunge are hatched in a hatchery and grow until they are of good size augurs well for the future of muskie fishing in the middle west. With hundreds of lunge fishermen going after the big fish every season many lakes have been depleted of these popular fighters. Inasmuch as the Wisconsin conservation department has shown that the lunge may be developed in a hatchery, the state should be able to maintain good muskie fishing by constant restocking.

A few years ago we visited one of the Wisconsin hatcheries near Minocqua and Woodruff and saw nearly 200,000 infant muskies in the "nursery." They thrived there and were placed finally in outdoor nursery ponds.

Helps to Seine 'Lunge.

Later in the same year [illegible] in company with State Conservation Commissioner Charles L. Lacey of Wisconsin, a man who pioneered the work in raising "crops" of muskies, we also visited the hatchery and helped to seine several cans of 6, 7 and 8 inch muskies which had come from the hatchery as fry six or seven months before. These slim, handsome fish with dark bars on their sides were planted in northern lakes and probably are pretty husky fighters.

CHRYSLER MOTORS PRODUCT

With its many vital Betterments PLYMOUTH becomes an Even More Remarkable CAR

FULL SIZE

Long noted for its amazingly smooth performance, the Chrysler-built Plymouth now takes a new and more commanding lead over other cars in the low-priced field.

Features of vital importance added by Chrysler engineers to Plymouth's modern high-compression engine enable this great power plant to attain a new degree of operating efficiency, with still greater smoothness, silence and flexibility.

Lengthened piston stroke, larger crankshaft with bigger bearings, larger connecting rods and camshaft bearings, full-pressure lubrication of new design, and advanced system of manifolding and improved crankcase ventilation are among the innovations which assure added excellence in smooth performance with an attendant increase in economy.

Nor have improvements in Plymouth been confined solely to the power plant. Plymouth now offers self-conforming cushions that insure actual "easy-chair" repose. A refinement of the steering mechanism creates an even more sensitive response to the driver's will.

Here—there—everywhere—you will note other touches of superiority which combine to give the full-size Plymouth a quality and poise that formerly characterized only much higher-priced cars.

Add to these such costly features as aluminum alloy pistons, rubber engine mountings, and a scientifically engineered chassis with 4-wheel hydraulic brakes, of the famous Chrysler weather-proof internal-expanding type. Then you will quickly understand why Plymouth is unapproached in value among low-priced cars.

FULL-SIZE PLYMOUTH DELUXE COUPE (with rumble seat), $695

PLYMOUTH—product of Chrysler engineering and craftsmanship—has been so named because its endurance and strength, ruggedness and freedom from limitations so accurately typify that stalwart band of Pilgrims who were the first settlers of Plymouth, and who were among the first American Colonists.

Coupe, $655; Roadster (with rumble seat), $675; 2-Door Sedan, $675; Touring, $695; De Luxe Coupe (with rumble seat), $695; 4-Door Sedan, $695. All prices f. o. b. factory. Plymouth dealers extend the convenience of time payments.

HANDLERS CLAIM CANZONERI BEST AT 130 POUNDS

Battles Routis Friday at That Figure.

Tony Canzoneri will attempt to obtain revenge from the man who lifted the world's featherweight crown from his head when he meets Andre Routis of France Friday night at the Chicago stadium in the feature bout of Paddy Harmon's show.

TONY CANZONERI.

Allowing Tony to come in at 130 pounds, the champion will try to prove that he is master irrespective of weight. Canzoneri's handlers have asserted that he was weakened in attempting to cut down poundage for last September's title bout and claim that Tony, at his fighting weight of 130 pounds, is the better man.

In another ten round attraction the same night, Otto Von Porat will meet Jack De Mave of Holland. The latter appears to have the more imposing record, including a victory over Johnny Risko, who recently whipped Von Porat. De Mave had Risko on the canvas twice during their battle. He also set down Jimmy Maloney eight times during a ten round encounter. Never has De Mave been knocked off his feet.

Armand Santiago and Honeyboy Finnegan will trade punches in the third ten round bout of the evening. The Cuban scored a knockout over Joey Sangor last winter. Finnegan made an impressive Chicago debut recently by handing Eddie Anderson a ten round trimming.

In a six round preliminary, the German welterweight champion, Kurt Prenzel, will fight Joe Jabelka, Czecho-Slav titleholder in that division. Paul Panteleo, formerly of Tilden High school, is scheduled for a four round opener against Gherasium Saftopules.

Mt. Pulaski Prep Coach Resigns, Effective June 1

Mount Pulaski, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Kenneth Conroy, for the last five years coach of track and basketball at the Mount Pulaski High school, has resigned, effective June 1, to engage in other fields of activity. His cage teams have won four major tournaments as well as three-fourths of their scheduled games.

Plan Naval Rites for Noted Sloop, U.S. Cup Defender

Boston, Mass., May 4.—[Special.]—The next to last America's cup defender afloat, the Mischief, which half a century ago successfully retained for this side of the Atlantis the famous trophy of yachting, won thirty years before by the yacht America, will be buried with impressive naval honors outside Boston Light, on the graves, Sunday, May 26.

By a unanimous vote, the Massachusetts Bay Yacht Club association decided to give the noted old sloop, which has been crumbling away in Chelsea creek, a fitting naval burial and let her go down to Davy Jones' locker with her boots on and her colors flying.

Alumni Trophy Spurs Gridmen at Ann Arbor

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 4. — [Special.]—The chase for the Chicago Alumni trophy, which serves to lure Michigan's spring football candidates on to greater work, will come to a close at the end of next week when Coach Tad Wieman will call a truce until the 1929 grid campaign begins in earnest Sept. 15.

For the last four years the Michigan alumni in Chicago have offered a full size silver football as a trophy to be awarded at the end of spring practice to the man who has shown the right spirit and attitude, who has worked faithfully, who has shown improvement, and who has value as a prospective varsity candidate.

Winners have been Ray Baer, George Rich, Le Verne Taylor, and Danny Holmes in that order. Baer received all-conference honors and Rich captained the 1928 eleven. According to the alternation of the last four years this spring's winner would be a lineman or end, but few promising linemen have been working out.

By far the greater number of possibilities are back field men. Among these are Priest of Battle Creek, "Wee Willie" Heston, Stoll of Ann Arbor, and Daniels of Detroit.

Hudson and Jones are a pair of backs who also have been doing work at end and who might gain some consideration. Kirk Holland of Chicago is another back with an outside chance. If men with experience were counted, one would have to include Jim Simrall, slated for quarter next fall.

Of the line men, Hewitt, at end, and Sorenson, who plays anywhere from center to tackle, have about as good a chance as any one.

The turnout this spring has been rather disappointing as far as numbers are concerned, there being hardly 75 candidates as compared with more than 100 for the last few years.

Ohio State and Purdue Nines Play Saturday

Columbus, O., May 4.—[Special.]—Well into the spring athletic program, Ohio State varsity squads will be on their way toward the end of the last long grind during the coming week. June 1 will see the completion of all scheduled matches with the exception of track. The trackmen must stay in condition for the national collegiate championships June 8 at Chicago.

Three tennis matches, a golf engagement, a ball game and a unique track meet are on the books for the coming week. The Buckeye racket welders draw the toughest assignment of the coming week with a match Monday at Chicago, one with Pittsburgh here Thursday and another Saturday at Urbana against the Illini.

The diamond squad will be out Saturday to even matters with Purdue. The Boilermakers won the previous game at Lafayette.

Kenyon comes here Saturday for a golf match to be held at the Scioto Country club. Morning and afternoon rounds will be played.

A new experiment in track and field meets will be witnessed at the stadium Saturday afternoon when three separate meets will be held. Ohio Wesleyan and Denison meet in one of these features, while Mount Union, Otterbein and Capital will settle a triangular dispute.

Due to a cancellation with Indiana, the Ohio State track squad is without an opponent for the third meet of the day, but Buckeye officials expect to land some one early in the week. No additional time is required for the extra meet, as all events will be run off in the interval necessary for a single track meet. One set of officials will handle the entire affair.

WOMAN SEEKS BOAT CUP.

Marion Carstairs, English sportswoman and speedboat driver, again will try to lift the Harmsworth trophy on Labor day on the Detroit river.

SEAVER MADE PRESIDENT OF ROCKFORD CLUB

Rockford, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Members of the Ingersoll Golf club, at the annual meeting here this week, elected the following officers for the ensuing year: president, Frank Seaver; vice president, E. R. Kelly; secretary-treasurer, Elmer Unger.

It was voted to authorize a branch of the club to be known as the Women's auxiliary. This annex will have sole charge of tournaments and other events for women of the club. The program of inter-club matches for the summer is now in preparation.

AND STUTZ STILL HAS FOUR MAJOR FEATURES ALL ITS OWN

It is an unwritten law of automobile advertising not to print a competitor's name . . . All right—Stutz will play by rule.

But the fact that ten different features are separately advertised by ten different cars—

The fact that EACH of these features is somewhere made the substance of a whole advertising campaign—

Can hardly keep us from saying, "You get ALL TEN on the Stutz—

"And you get many more major features on Stutz and Blackhawk cars—which only these two cars combine."

Here are the features. If you've liked them on some other car—see what goes with them on a Stutz.

Car "A"—VALVE-IN-HEAD—The Stutz eight cylinder motor has always been a valve-in-head, freed from the noise of rocker arms.

Car "B"—SAFETY GLASS—Stutz was the first car equipped with non-shatterable glass, and both Stutz and Blackhawk come equipped with Safety Glass all around. It's a part of Stutz leadership in safety.

Car "C"—4-SPEED TRANSMISSION—There's something worth talking about. We predict that cars without this improvement will be as obsolete as cars without four-wheel brakes, within less than two years. Stutz and Blackhawk give you a transmission with four forward speeds.

Car "D"—DUAL CARBURETION—Stutz and Blackhawk have always had this airplane engine feature.

Car "E"—DOUBLE-DROP FRAME—It is an important factor in Stutz and Blackhawk safety and stability.

Car "F"—ONE-THRUST LUBRICATION—You can force lubrication to every chassis point on the Stutz or Blackhawk by one pedal pressure from the driver's seat.

Car "G"—TWIN IGNITION—Two spark plugs fire simultaneously in every Stutz cylinder.

Car "H"—OVERHEAD CAM—Gives the Stutz motor valve-in-head power without rocker arm clatter. 192 wearing surfaces are eliminated by this Stutz feature used in only one other American car—and it sells for three times the price.

Car "I"—RYAN-LITES—The most effective lights ever used on an American car. They add safety to night driving in the Stutz and Blackhawk.

Car "J"—WORM DRIVE—The adoption of this superior final drive has made Stutz and Blackhawk safety possible. This type of drive is used on costly European cars.

STUTZ LOW-WEIGHTED SAFETY—The greatest advance in car design since the engine was moved from beneath the seat and put under the hood. Stutz has lowered the floor line 20%—which gives the lowest center of gravity on any American car.

STUTZ NOBACK—Automatically keeps the Stutz and Blackhawk from rolling backwards—makes it as easy to shift gears or accelerate from a standing start on any upgrade as it is on the level. The most spectacular safety development of 1929—used exclusively on Stutz-built cars.

STUTZ BOOSTER BRAKES—Operate with the lightest pedal pressure—and antiquate existing standards of deceleration.

STUTZ SIDE-BUMPER RUNNING BOARDS—Stutz and Blackhawk running boards are of heavy steel, integral with the frame instead of being suspended on fragile brackets—a tremendous protection for car and passengers in case of side collision.

What a combination of safety with performance!

NO WONDER STUTZ AND BLACKHAWK SALES HAVE INCREASED 73.5% THIS YEAR IN CHICAGO! In its new concepts of beauty—in the fine luxury of its interior appointments—in its haughty command of every road—Stutz is a leader which appeals to leaders. This is eloquently recorded in the fact that Chicagoans have increased their orders for Stutz 73.5% over the same period last year.

Take the wheel of one of these remarkable cars—drive it any distance—and we predict that "Stutz" or "Blackhawk" will be your next car's name.

Stutz is priced at $3395 to $6895 f. o. b. factory; Blackhawk prices, recently reduced, are $2395 to $2735—the greatest values in motordom

NO OTHER AUTOMOBILE COMPANY CAN HONESTLY SIGN THIS ADVERTISEMENT

MOTORS — TRAFFIC — HIGHWAYS

TRUTH ABOUT SPEED TRAPS IS BEING SOUGHT

Tribune Asks Motorist for Complaints.

Traffic police in a number of localities adjacent to Chicago, as well as at spots within the city itself, appear to be running wild in the matter of bulldozing motorists and applying strong arm methods in the extortion of money.

Since warmer weather arrived and traffic has increased materially the number of reports made to THE TRIBUNE by victims of police and small town justices has grown to hundreds.

Because of the abuses imposed upon law abiding and well behaved automobilists, and the apparent failure of communities to control their traffic officials, a definite campaign to suppress such activities has been launched. The state's attorney, cooperating with the Chicago Motor club, is formulating charges of abuse and extortion in a number of cases already reported, covering, perhaps, the most glaring instances of violent treatment offered motorists.

To Fight Practice.

Reports of all instances of abuse, mistreatment, incivility, extortion or attempt at extortion, brutality and profanity will receive prompt attention if sent to THE TRIBUNE, and victims are advised to forward a written statement as soon after such experiences as is possible.

It is the intention of THE TRIBUNE to take steps to suppress this system of preying upon automobile users and to accomplish results it requires the stories of those who have sustained abuse, humiliation or extortion. All communications of this character will be treated as confidential, if desired, and it is believed that if all victims report promptly it will be possible to clean out the vicious individuals engaged in the traffic racket.

Complaints should be addressed to the Automobile Editor of THE TRIBUNE.

Vicious Racketeering.

If all victims will report their experiences there will be little doubt in regard to clearing up the situation. In case the abuses are not strictly unlawful acts or punishable through indictment or court action, valuable results may still be obtained if it can be shown that objectionable incidents persist in certain localities. It is the experience of the Chicago Motor club in its campaigns that the smaller communities will correct abuses, if it can be shown that such abuses exist in volume.

In many localities traffic regulation has degenerated into a vicious type of racketeering which motorists should not be compelled to stand and which they will not be called upon to stand for long if the facts in individual cases can be obtained. The same situation exists in certain police districts and in some of the parks. As long as victims will complacently give up money or stand abuse and profanity, the situation will not be changed. On the other hand if sufficient light can be thrown upon the bad spots it is practically certain that the evil can be corrected.

The season for the big harvest of the traffic racketeers is on and if the public doesn't relish it the way out is obvious. Merely report, with date, place, time and identification, all instances of abuse, injustice or violence and improper detention.

VOICE OF THE TRAFFIC

FROM ANOTHER ANGLE.

Chicago, May 3.—I would like to ask C. L. McCormick if a property owner on a boulevard who pays twice as much for his property as does a man on a side street (where they park all day and night) is not entitled to parking privileges? I suppose he would like our park commissioners to widen out boulevards like Jackson and Washington so buses and cars would be right up to front doors and windows, reducing values 50 per cent and making a race track like that on Warren avenue. On Warren from 8 to 10 o'clock mornings you can drive 30 miles an hour and cars from Oak Park, Maywood, River Forest, and other western suburbs tear by you at 50 miles an hour as if you were standing still. How about ladies and children who wish to drive slowly? Why not go after the buses with their hard tires carrying four to five tons, tearing up our boulevards and stopping when and where they please? A passenger car must respect them, for it will get the worst of it if it hits one. They horn you out of the way if you don't go fast enough for them and shake our buildings to pieces with vibration. If we rent, our tenants have no parking space. I have owned property on a boulevard fifteen years and have driven a car sixteen years. I should have a few privileges as well as the insurance man who lives on a side street. A. M. C.

MICHIGAN'S BLOSSOM FESTIVAL.

Banton Harbor, Mich., May 3.—Over in this country we are interested in our blossom festival celebration from May 5 to 12. During that period a great many motorists will visit this section. At a conference with an official of the Michigan road commission we talked over the matter of the best highway to be used between Chicago and this section and he gave us authority to state that all motorists coming until May 15 should follow U. S. 12 signs and that they will be changed accordingly, giving the best roads to traverse during that period. I am writing this so that you may use it authoritatively in any mention you may make in reference to the festival. Won't you kindly use this information to give your readers advice as to reaching the blossom country?

J. H. POUND.

HOW DO THEY DO IT?

Chicago, May 2.—How are Chicago citizens able to beat the state license and vehicle tax fees? Simply by going into Indiana or Michigan and getting a license plate at $5 or $6, and then live right in Chicago. Some save $15 or $20 a year by this means. Some of the officers on the city police department, even, have these foreign licenses, and no vehicle tax tags. This is a matter for Morris Eller and Commissioner Wolfe to look up and get these outlaws to pay their taxes. Then there would be more money with which to repair our streets that are full of holes. R. S. H.

JAM AT THE GRANADA.

Chicago, April 30.—Will some one tell me if the police stationed in front of the Granada theater are working for the city or the theater? If for the city, we who drive cars and do not stop at the theater ought to be given fair consideration in the matter of right of way on Sheridan road between Devon avenue and the Loyola elevated station. At 9 p. m. last night it required ten minutes to drive that distance, although automatic signals are at either end. People putting cars in the parking lots are given preference over through traffic, regardless of what the lights show. Furthermore, you are stopped regardless of whether you have gone only one or two car lengths since previously stopped. If the theater as such a drag, why does it not have stop lights placed in the middle of the block? If that is impossible, why do not the police work with some semblance of recognition of present traffic lights? The limitations on turns which applies at the corner of Devon and Sheridan makes it practically impossible to avoid driving through this block. A DRIVER.

SKILL HELPS GETAWAY.

A driver who is proficient in gear shifting often can make a slow car lively on the getaway.

GAS COSTS LESS THAN IN 1920 DESPITE TAXES

And Now Motorists Also Get Good Roads.

Although gasoline taxes varying from two to six cents are now collected in all but two states, the motorist of today is paying less for fuel than he did nine years ago.

Then, when he purchased gasoline he got gasoline only; today he gets galosine and in addition he buys good roads.

The retail price of gasoline in Illinois nine years ago was 25 cents. After Illinois new three cent gas tax becomes effective in August motorists here will pay no more than 18 or 19 cents.

Many Similar Cases.

California has a three cent tax, yet there the gasoline price of 23½ cents is one-half cent less than in 1920.

Louisianians paid about 28 cents a gallon in 1920. Today gasoline sells for 19½ cents a gallon and that price includes a four cent tax. Similar comparisons may be made for other states.

Gasoline tax money has been largely responsible for roads improved beyond the graded and drained, and graveled stages. The importance of the gas tax is pictured, for example, in the pavement achievement of 1928. Altogether, American motorists last year contributed $282,000,000 to state and county highway departments through the medium of the gas tax. During the same period approximately $300,000,000 worth of first class pavements were built.

Retires Road Bonds.

All gasoline tax money, of course, does not go directly to pavement construction. However, most all improvement programs are dependent in one way or another on funds derived from this source. For instance, three states last fall adopted highway bond issues totaling $140,000,000, the retirement of which is largely dependent upon gas tax income.

The gasoline tax has become increasingly popular of late as a means for obtaining much needed road funds. The Oregon experiment in 1919 has resulted in the adoption of this form of taxation by all state, for New Yorkers are to pay a two cent tax.

Gasoline tax rates have never been lessened; rather the tendency is to increase them. Many tax rates have been adopted with the proviso that the tax would be lowered or dropped entirely when roads were improved to a point where such a tax was no longer needed. With automobile usage increasing rapidly, no state is within shouting distance of such action.

LOS ANGELES, WITH ONE DEATH FOR EACH 1,343 AUTOS, IS SAFEST CITY

Based on recent automobile registration figures, a Los Angeles motorist is far less likely to become involved in a fatal traffic accident than a driver in any other large American city.

The traffic commission of Los Angeles, comparing automobile registration in large cities with the total number of fatalities, found that this city has the best record of any, and that it is nearly three times as safe to drive in Los Angeles as in Chicago.

There are now 745,929 motor vehicles registered in Los Angeles county of which approximately 430,000 are registered within the city limits. Last year there were 320 traffic fatalities within the city limits which shows one fatality for every 1,343 automobiles.

Last available records from Chicago show 868,982 motor vehicles and 231 deaths for 1928, which gives one death for every 444 automobiles.

New York had one death for every 525 registered motor vehicles, and Philadelphia's ratio was one to every 589 cars.

The rate in San Francisco is one to every 940 cars.

Detroit is the closest to Los Angeles with but one death for every 1,056 automobiles.

EARLY DEMISE OF AUTOS DUE TO POOR ROADS

2,000,000 Cars Likely to Be Retired in 1929.

Cars that have gasped out their last bit of usefulness, two million strong and of a one time value of two billion dollars, will during 1929 pass into oblivion through smash-ups, cremation, and junking.

Bonfires, whose chief fodder are automobiles used to the point of exhaustion, are now the latest thing in making certain the complete removal of old wrecks from highways. Los Angeles and Chicago have both recently burned several hundred cars in public demonstrations.

With the automobile registration figure for the nation nearing 25,000,000 vehicles, a fairly large replacement sales volume is to be expected. The spread of good roads, however, is lengthening car service.

Cost of Depreciation.

One of the greatest costs the motor owner faces is that of depreciation. Aside from bad driving, which includes undue ripping of gears and bumping into telephone poles and other peoples' cars, the road surface over which the car is driven has most to do with its premature death.

Replacement and repairing of broken springs and other disrupted parts of the car's anatomy cost sizeable sums, and strangely, rare indeed is the motor owner who reckons these charges as tolls collected by bad roads. Modern automobiles are well built and certainly most breakage cannot be rightfully charged to ordinary wear and tear.

Life Depends on Treatment.

It was once said of Missouri that there cars lasted but half the normal automobile lifetime because of the sun-baked rutty roads. Missouri at present has 1,660 miles of concrete, so cars operating for the most part over the state highway system now approach a full span of service.

The normal life of a car depends upon the treatment given it by its owner, which indirectly has to do with the highways over which he drives. An extra year of service may be squeezed out of a rattletrap, just as it can be done with an old pair of shoes. However, there is one difference and that is in regard to public safety.

RUNAWAY HORSE OBEYS TRAFFIC LIGHT; MANY MOTORISTS DO NOT

A wooden horse played no small part in the fall of Troy. A milk wagon steed helped write history in Stamford, Conn.

Here's the story—and the good folks of Stamford are going to stick to it. During the wee, small hours this particular horse decided to run away. The streets were wide and deserted and the going was fine for a block or so, during which time a lot of milk was delivered promiscuously.

Then came a Stamford intersection, and as old Dobbin thundred down upon it the green light changed to red.

The noble charger dug his cleats into the pavement and stopped dead in his tracks, thereby qualifying himself as a law abiding plug. The National Safety Council points out this little incident as an evidence of horse sense—often needed by careless drivers.

OIL ASSOCIATION IS FIGHTING FOR LOWER GAS TAX

A decade of state gasoline [illegible] has passed—1919 to 1929—and during the period the motorists have paid billion dollars, 900 million dollars which has been paid in the last [illegible] years. Due to the steadily increasing tax, war has been declared on the levy by the American petroleum industry.

Even as the automobile owner saved motorists 100 to 160 million dollars through successful efforts to eliminate the excise tax on motor cars and parts, the petroleum industry hopes to aid American motorists in keeping in their pockets at least a million dollars yearly.

The nation's aggregate gasoline bill in 1928 is placed by the United States bureau of public roads at 2[illegible] dollars. The tax this year is expected to aggregate 450 million dollars.

Directors of the American Petroleum institute, meeting in New York, have adopted a resolution opposing the raising of a rate per gallon tax beyond reasonable bounds, or where the burden the consumer must pay is out of all reasonable proportion to the price of gasoline.

The directors do not oppose a reasonable tax where all revenue is used solely for highway purposes, but they hold the tendency to divert gasoline tax funds to other purposes "unwise and vicious."

Automobiles Definitely Barred in Bermuda

Automobiles have been banned definitely from Bermuda as a result of the action of the house of assembly recently in refusing doctors permission to use cars. Opponents of the measure argued it would be an entering wedge for other exemptions from the law. The recent measure was defeated by a margin of one vote. The use of automobiles on the island has been prohibited since 1905.

INTERNATIONAL

It will pay you to know the International Line and International Service. Speed trucks and heavy-duty trucks: sizes from ¼-ton to 5-ton.

Their 450th INTERNATIONAL marks BRINK'S 70th Year

A fleet of 450 trucks, touching nearly 600 cities—and Brink's do only the emergency servicing themselves. The main job is left to us—because International Harvester has service wherever Brink's have trucks. The same service is available to every International owner.

A new armored International Truck is being delivered to Brink's Express Company this week. Many other Internationals—449 of them—have gone to Brink's in the past eight years, but this one takes along a special message. It bears the good wishes of International Harvester to an institution celebrating its 70th anniversary.

Brink's Express Company, world's largest transporters of money, valuables and securities, last year handled a volume worth over forty billions of dollars, almost all of which traveled in International Trucks.

Brink's Express operates from coast to coast. It has branches in 42 of the largest cities and serves 576 other cities. Its trucks operate everywhere, and everywhere it is served by International Harvester.

This Company, through its 152 Company-owned branches, assumes the responsibility of servicing the hundreds of Brink's Internationals. From routine greasing to mechanical maintenance we do the work, mainly at night, with no interruption to the regular schedules. Brink's are thus enabled to function reliably with a minimum investment in service facilities of their own.

Brink's are true to Internationals because International is true to them—a typical example of the close tie between International Harvester and its customers.

MOTORS — TRAFFIC — HIGHWAYS

MOTORISTS FIND LITTLE USE FOR NEW LA SALLE ST.

The Trouble Is It Doesn't Go Anywhere.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

A concrete illustration of the fallacy of attempting to steer motor traffic off a straight line thoroughfare by providing equal facilities for a few blocks is found in traffic conditions since the opening of La Salle street north of Washington and the construction of the La Salle street bridge.

While 70,000 or more vehicles pass over Michigan avenue bridge during rush hours each day, the total volume over La Salle street bridge is probably not more than 5,000 to 6,000, accounting for the exodus period from the business district in the southwest part, the La Salle street structure is not much more heavily traveled than the Dearborn street bridge, and surely not as heavily as the Wells street bridge, which has street car tracks and cars upon it.

Has Better Facilities.

For motorists entering the loop from the north the La Salle street bridge offers better facilities and faster passage than the Michigan avenue bridge. In fact, almost a clear running space may be guaranteed vehicles over La Salle street for 80 per cent of the day.

North of Washington street and across the La Salle street bridge the broad pavement and wide bridge traffic way are equally as attractive to motorists as Michigan avenue, and besides have none of the signal stops. It delivers traffic to Wacker drive as does Michigan avenue and continues into the western part of the loop as Michigan avenue does not.

Despite the expectation and wish of experts, traffic units destined for interior loop streets persist in remaining on Michigan avenue and entering the loop over cross streets. At the outbound hours they go east to Michigan and proceed north through numerous stop light signals and crawl toward Lake Shore drive and Walton place, where fast travel is assured.

An Idle Dream.

The prediction that the opening of La Salle street bridge into the loop would relieve traffic congestion on Michigan avenue has proved an idle dream. Unofficial counts in the past fortnight indicate that the number of vehicles using Michigan avenue bridge this spring is larger than the number which passed over it daily last fall before the La Salle street opening was turned over to the public.

An inspection of the two bridges at the same time of day clearly proves that the traffic is on Michigan avenue and is not on La Salle street. Yet there are a number of ways to get to the loop from the north, besides La Salle street, which will save time for the driver as well as offer a safer and more comfortable driving.

By leaving the shore drive at North avenue and coming down over State or Dearborn and by using Cass or Rush to get on the lower level of Michigan avenue two routes are provided. Once south of the river the lower level leads to the upper level on Wacker drive to north and south streets or even away around to Market street on the way to the west side.

Another Reason.

Another direct route is to leave Lincoln park at Clark and La Salle streets and come into the loop all the way on La Salle street. It is also possible to leave Michigan avenue at Ohio street and go across to La Salle and in on that street.

With all these routes it may, at first glance, seem strange that practically all the north traffic of Chicago should persist in jamming and crowding onto the congested boulevard at the far east. Superficial analysis supports the idea that it is foolish for traffic to do so, as it has been demonstrated by test trips that motorists may save from five to ten minutes on the journey south from North avenue by taking to the side streets. Consequently there must be another and an overwhelming reason for this outer drive stampede.

Unless all indications are at fault, the reason has been found in the fact that the pavements leading to the loop on other thoroughfares are inferior to that on the drive and to some extent lack of protection from side streets induces the prudent driver to train with the pack.

Bridge Cost $2,650,000.

It is safe to say that were La Salle street paved decently from the bridge north to the intersection with Clark street that 20,000 to 30,000 vehicles a day would take advantage of it. It would offer a saving of time and shorter mileage between the loop and Fullerton avenue and Diversey and westward. Yet regardless of shorter mileage and the saving of time which even now exists, automobile traffic will not use the rough and tumble pavements now provided. Such traffic prefers to go the long way round and accept the inconveniences of congestion, rather than to bump over mounds and holes.

The bridge cost the citizens of Chicago $2,650,000 and the widened paving and other improvements into the loop about as much more. With this outstanding $5,000,000 improvement complete it attracts no traffic. The same sum expended in paving for instance on Halsted, Ashland, Western, Cicero and Harlem avenues would serve 200,000 vehicles a day as compared with 5,000 or 6,000 vehicles served on La Salle street, as matters stand. That sum of money would pave with concrete 100 miles of forty foot thoroughfares and would be of some material use to the vast motor traffic of Chicago.

Smooth Pavements Needed.

The one great and crying need of Chicago is smoothly paved streets. That apparently is the one thing that the citizens are unable to obtain from those in command of the municipal administration, despite the fact that the citizens are willing to pay and actually do pay huge sums of money for the purpose. In the twenty years Chicago has been engaged in an attempt to obtain adequate facilities for motor traffic only four presentable thoroughfares have been created, and these have been planned and built, or partially built by the park systems.

So far as the city of Chicago goes, there has not been one single through thoroughfare paved for its length, although hundreds of millions of dollars have been expended on enterprises purporting to be solutions of the traffic problem.

For twenty-three years Roosevelt road has been in process of widening, and today it exists as a thoroughfare of a minimum width of 100 feet, excepting for about eight blocks, useless to motor traffic. It is useless because it is so badly paved that motor traffic cannot utilize it with speed or comfort. It is the most direct, longest thoroughfare of the city with a width practical for heavy motor traffic, and extends from Lake Michigan to Des Plaines avenue, west of the city limits. If paved it would carry probably a heavier traffic than any other east and west street. If an elevated highway were built above it, it would carry a heavier traffic than any other thoroughfare in America, and do it faster.

A Transportation Necessity.

Since the motor traffic problem came into being the demands of that traffic have altered almost diametrically. In the early days a short speedway of good pavement was about all aimed for. Today speedways are of no great use to motor traffic, for motoring has changed from a pleasure and sport to a transportation necessity. Motor transportation, at least in Chicago, is now a problem to meet distances. Ten, twenty, thirty miles or more are average motor journeys twice a day for suburban regions. Continuous smooth pavements constitute the only facility that will meet the demand. Parade thoroughfares get no patronage. Even in the city parks traffic slams right through. People do not ride for the pleasure of riding; they ride for the purpose of getting somewhere. And it might be added that the "somewhere" is gradually moving out and out, increasing the necessity for highway continuity.

Summing up the situation, it is not difficult to see why the $5,000,000 La Salle street improvement has few customers. It would have more if the pavement was usable to Lincoln park, but even then it will never be a street of much traffic importance because its entire length has little part in the great mass movement of automobiles.

TRAFFIC HAS ITS PREFERENCES

TWO broad, modern bridges span the Chicago river, one at Michigan avenue and one at La Salle street. Photographs of each taken at midafternoon one day last week show that identical traffic facilities at a given point do not have an equal appeal to traffic. The reason for the desertion of La Salle street bridge is that La Salle street north of the river does not provide desirable pavement to Lincoln park, while Michigan avenue does. Despite the crowded condition on Michigan, traffic persists in using it in preference to the defective pavement on shorter La Salle street. The condition proves that good pavement and continuity outweigh many other considerations in the eyes of motorists.

85% OF AUTO DRIVERS SAFE, 15% DANGEROUS, STATISTICS REVEAL

Fifteen out of every 100 automobile operators are responsible for all the accidents on highways, while the other 85 are quick thinking and respond successfully to all emergencies that arise as they drive, says Robbins B. Stoeckel, Connecticut commissioner of motor vehicles, after a long study of the situation.

And to make the present traffic situation better and safer all the efforts of the authorities ought to be devoted to better traffic control, the commissioner believes.

Some one in Connecticut suggested that every auto driver be reexamined at once and then every three years to find whether the driver has trouble or not. Stoeckel believes that the 85 good drivers should be left alone and only the 15 be subjected to examination again.

You can't compromise with Pride of Ownership

The owner of a De Soto Six has a sound basis for his pride of ownership—he is driving exactly the car he wants to drive—a Chrysler-built car.

Cars of lower price attracted him not at all. He knows they lack many of his essential demands. And he didn't need to buy a more expensive car because he found complete satisfaction—full realization of his personal standards of performance, comfort, economy and durability—in the De Soto Six.

Here is a car that is literally built to order for those whose budgets are not unlimited—a car that even the most discriminating motorist can own without either sacrificing his pride or straining his pocketbook.

Before deciding on your purchase, give the Chrysler-built De Soto Six your most critical inspection. You will find all the advantages and comforts, all the zestful driving, and all the pride of ownership that are associated in your mind only with cars of much higher price.

Announcing My Personal TRADE IN OFFER

C. H. Dreyer

To Help Every Car Owner Enjoy Houdaille Riding Comfort

AFTER equipping hundreds of cars owned by the most critical motorists in town, I know from experience that I can make hundreds of new friends by making it easy for EVERY car owner to change to Houdailles.

Now, to get down to my trade-in-offer . . . I've had a lot of car owners here in town tell me they wanted Houdailles but hated to throw away whatever inadequate devices they have on their cars now. So they gave me this idea.

I Will Give You A Liberal Allowance

Come! Trade in your old Shocks any age any make any condition on—

HOUDAILLE
Hydraulic Double Acting
SHOCK ABSORBERS

Simply drive around, let me see what device you now have on your car, and I'll give you a pleasant surprise. More than that, I'll install the Houdailles on thirty-days' trial, you to be the judge! What could be fairer than that? Drive around tomorrow and drive away in REAL comfort.

HEAR ARGUMENTS FOR WEST SIDE SUPERHIGHWAY

Robertson Asks Senators to Authorize Vote.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

All the west side is seeking is an opportunity to vote on whether it favors financing an elevated thoroughfare across its area. We believe that the progressive west siders of this day are overwhelmingly for such a public work. If this division is to participate in the World's Fair, we will have to get our thoroughfares in as good shape as those in the north and south parks by that time, and the west side certainly does want to participate in that occasion."

Briefly, but with some additional detail of plans, Dr. John Dill Robertson, president of the west park commission, yesterday outlined in those words the position of his district before the senate subcommittee of the municipalities committee, which met at the Garfield park administration building to hear arguments on the senate bill providing a referendum on an elevated highway bond issue for $20,000,000.

Senators Hear Arguments.

Senator Lowell B. Mason, chairman, and Senators Epier C. Mills of Virginia, E. J. Abt of East St. Louis, J. Le Roy Adair of Quincy, Guy L. Smith of Pana, and Joseph Mendel of Chicago, who introduced the bill, sat as the subcommittee. Those who spoke before it, besides Dr. Robertson, were Hugh Young, chief engineer of the plan commission; M. A. Flynn, representing the building trades council of the west side; Douglas Sutherland, representing the Civic Federation; Nelson Rehse, banker and extensive holder of small properties on the west side; George J. Dehn, director of the West Town Chamber of Commerce, and Judge Herman Hasen.

The committee was informed by Dr. Robertson that the necessity for such a highway as proposed is apparent throughout the west side. It was pointed out that the surface boulevards in that area, intersected by seventy-six cross streets between Clinton street and west limits, were killing seventy-six persons and causing 2,500 accidents a year, despite twenty-six stop and go lights in the seventy-six blocks on Washington boulevard.

He stated that the district, with over $900,000,000 of assessed valuation, a bond limit of about $50,000,000, and a leeway over obligations of over $31,000,000, could amply afford to finance the enterprise. He showed that if this expenditure is made, it will cost tax payers only an additional $2.50 a year in excess of present taxes to pay off the debt.

Benefit to Entire City.

Mr. Sutherland called attention to the fact that if the west side builds such a highway, the residents of that district will be paying for an improvement which people from other parts of the city will use, but will not help finance.

"The west siders use the boulevards of the north and south sides," Senator Mason interposed, "and those park districts pay all their boulevard costs."

"I agree that localities do not build public works only for their own use," Mr. Sutherland admitted, "but I think the voters should be advised as to what they are doing."

Mr. Flynn presented resolutions from the carpenters' district council and the west side building trades, urging the legislature to provide means for a referendum on the subject.

"Our 140,000 building tradesmen and 32,000 carpenters," he said, "will put a shoulder to the wheel to carry the election."

Engineer Young explained studies made by the plan commission of the west side traffic situation and indicated that an elevated highway along the socalled "dead" territory between Lake street and the North Western railway elevation, would fit into the commission's general plans.

In response to inquiries, Dr. Robertson said that no fixed route had been decided upon, and that the Fulton street suggestion was in the nature of a yardstick by which to get at costs. He said that a route would be determined by ordinance after legislative action was obtained.

OBJECTION ANSWERED

An objection to the elevated highway on the ground that the proposal would interfere with the work of the Chicago plan commission was exploded at the annual meeting of that commission last week, when Chairman James Simpson requested Dr. John Dill Robertson, president of the west park commission, to outline the proposal of the park authorities to the plan commission.

Dr. Robertson explained that the highway in mind is proposed as a supplemental thoroughfare to projects studied by the commission's engineers and would not conflict in any way with recommendations which may be made for the construction of an elevated motorway over either Congress, Polk or Monroe streets.

"Far from conflicting with the plan commission," Dr. Robertson told the meeting, "the west siders now engaged in an effort to build an elevated highway immediately seek to cooperate with the commission.

"I would like to point out, in this connection, that such a two level thoroughfare as we have in mind would not cost more than $20,000,000, and perhaps could be completed for less. On the other hand the property damage alone on Monroe street for widening and the construction of a 120 foot structure, would cost upwards of $90,000,000. It is our idea that for immediate action the $20,000,000 plan would be more practical, from the standpoint of acceptance by the public, than a $90,000,000 plan."

Chairman Simpson indicated that the plan commission would take into consideration the representations made by Dr. Robertson that the latter's proposal appeared to have more favorable elements for immediate action than perhaps more expensive projects might possess.

GOOD MANNERS FOR MOTORISTS

When stopping at an intersection to await the lights a considerate and well mannered driver will halt his car back from the pedestrian crossing line, or if no line is painted in, then back far enough to let pedestrians have a clear path. In the picture the confusion to a pedestrian is indicated as a result of a car pulling halt across the rightful path of the foot traveler.

NEWS AND VIEWS

April shipments by Nash exceed those of the corresponding month last year by 92.68 per cent, thereby establishing the highest April record in the history of the company, it was announced today by C. H. Bliss, general sales manager. It was also announced that total shipments from the Nash factories for the first four months of this year were 59.38 per cent greater than the shipments for the first four months of 1928.

Beginning tomorrow Durant motor cars will be handled by the L. Markle company as distributors at 2309 South Michigan avenue, with parts and service station at 2536 Indiana avenue. In taking over the Durant distribution for the Chicago metropolitan area, Mr. Markle says that it is like getting back home with his old friends and family, as he had the pleasure of working with Mr. Philp and Mr. Hodgkins in years past.

Four hundred ninety-two Graham-Paige cars, representing more than a 100 per cent increase over the same month last year, were registered in Cook county during April, according to official figures just released.

The first of the new White six trucks to reach Chicago were delivered to the Sawyer Biscuit company last week; a part of the fleet of thirteen being assembled for that concern, according to H. E. Seanor, local district manager.

Thomas E. Jarrard, Marmon general sales manager, says that the reason the new Roosevelt eight at less than $1,000 is possible is because Marmon has organized what it calls a "straight eight plant" and concentrates solely on this type of vehicle.

Stutz has added "Nobtck" to its equipment. This is a patented device which prevents the car from rolling backward when headed up hill. On grades or in traffic it is no longer necessary to use either brake. When the gear is shifted into reverse the device is thrown out of action, the factory announces.

Willys-Overland is placed in second position in the industry, the factory states, in point of increase in registration in all states in January and February and in 24 states in March. Whippet shows 34 per cent increase and Willys-Knight a gain of 43 per cent.

Under inflation destroys more tires than any other factor, according to the Hood Rubber company of Watertown, Mass. The chief factor in the life of any tire is the air within it. The air cushion within supports the load, it is pointed out, while the tire is simply the air container. The amount of air should always be sufficient to carry all the weight imposed, leaving the tire to perform its natural function without requiring it to bear any more of the burden than necessary.

Dependability, economy, and speed of motor trucking are proving major factors in the shipment of live stock from farms to city markets, according to figures received by Dodge Brothers, showing that every day during 1928, live stock valued at more than $1,000,000 was hauled in trucks to seventeen leading markets.

"The human machine, rather than the automobile, has fallen down in the matter of safety," John Warner of Studebaker told the safety council at Boston recently. While the automobile maker, he continued, has concentrated his energies through years upon safety, the final word of safety today is with the driver. With modern roads, brakes, steering equipment and durability the mechanism offers definite safety. Lack of safety results from defective handling.

Peerless broke all sales records for the first quarter of 1929, despite the fact that the new eights were not in production until March, the factory reports.

Shifting from high to second speed at any point in the miles per hour range is a feat which any motor novice will be able to perform in new models of the Franklin line. A second gear speed of more than 50 miles an hour can be obtained as quietly as if the car were running in high.

Evidence of the widespread popularity of the new six cylinder Chevrolet is revealed in an announcement by R. H. Grant, vice president of the company in charge of sales, that more than a half million of the new cars have been placed on the road since the first of the year.

Pierce-Arrow announces a group of custom de luxe models, created for the new 143 inch straight eight chassis. The new bodies are an addition to the complete line of cars.

INDUSTRY LOOKS FOR FIVE MILLION AUTOS THIS YEAR

April Another Big Month for Car Builders.

Detroit, May 4.—[Special.]—As the automobile industry heads into another month those most interested are more optimistic than ever as to what the final result for the year will be. Four months of unprecedented activities, and with a slackening in demand for more cars scarcely felt, there is ample cause for the belief which developed early in the year that five million vehicles, and possibly an additional 400,000, will be the total for the year's output.

For the automobile industry as a whole, April was another big month. A few builders report a slight easing off in production; but the high average for the three preceding months was fully maintained by the stepping up of output by others.

New Cars Make Bow.

During May a seasonable decrease may be expected, but such a condition would cause no alarm. The situation in general shows the industry at a high peak, and sales of passenger cars, both new and used, evidence increases in comparison with recent reports. There is a big demand for heavy duty vehicles, and all influences point to a maintenance of this condition.

New passenger cars continue to be introduced and absorbed in various fields. The more recent arrivals are the Roosevelt, a Marmon-built car; the Viking, which is a companion to the Oldsmobile, and the Marquette, the name of which was made public this week. It is a running mate to the Buick.

Fours, sixes, and eights now have their followers, but another year will probably find cars with twelve or even sixteen cylinders available in the high priced field. That such high-powered cars are even now under construction is not denied, and have, in fact, passed the testing and research stages. Specifications, of course, are being withheld, but announcements have seeped through the engineering departments that several new cars will be announced some time in July. Radical changes are promised, especially in body and mechanical details.

Why a 16 Cylinder Car?

But the light fours and sizes are in no danger of being discontinued, for they now supply the wants of more than 75 per cent of the motoring public. Ford with his four cylinder modles is fast approaching the 8,500 cars per day production, while Chevrolet is still at capacity. It is simply a matter of choice—a four cylinder car which will take you there and back, or the more powerful, more comfortable and more expensive 12 or 16 cylinder vehicle.

A production at the Lansing plant of Durant Motors, Inc., totaling more than 6,000 cars for April, is announced by factory officials. This is an increase of approximately 2,000 over March. Shipments of Dodge Brothers, a division of Chrysler Motors, is showing an increase of nearly 50 per cent over those of March, and over the corresponding month of 1928 of more than 140 per cent.

Willys-Overland's sales indicate an output of 40,000 cars per month, while advance orders booked for May already assure the factory of a record month.

Here's an order unique and distinctly rare. The Ford Motor company of Canada, Ltd., this week received an order for 1,000 cars from the United States plant of the Ford Motor company. This was the result of a rush of export orders at the home office. The cars to be made in the Canadian plant will not, however, be shipped to the United States, but will be forwarded directly to the various foreign countries that have ordered them.

CLEARS MILES OF SNOW.

During winter New York state must keep 15,000 miles of highway clear of snow.

INCREASING DISREGARD FOR TRAFFIC LIGHTS DUE TO THEIR MISUSE

The misuse of traffic signals is increasing disregard for their meaning, says a recent report of the American engineering council, which has just concluded a traffic survey in 104 American cities.

Two fundamental errors have been observed in a majority of the cities, the council finds. The most important is the placing of the signals without first having an adequate survey of conditions to be handled, or without a thought of what may result at other intersections. The other fault is the placing of signals at corners not justified under the circumstances.

"The result of both errors," says the report, "is that the public will recognize these errors and have a consequent disregard of all traffic signs and devices."

CO-OPERATION OF OFFICIALS NEEDED IN ROAD WORK

Many Counties Have No Definite Plans.

Progress toward getting the farmer out of the mud and the city man out of the city on week-ends is hinged upon the coördination and coöperation of authorities in charge of roads adjacent to cities, according the bureau of public roads.

Answering a general plea for greater progress in the solution of highway problems, the bureau points out that approximately 1,000,000 miles of local rural roads in the United States are administered by town or township authorities, and that more than 1,750,000 miles are administered by county authorities.

No Definite Organization.

Only 975 of the 2,999 counties exercising control over local roads carry on construction and maintenance programs which can be described as competent, according to public road engineers. There are 829 counties, they say, which have no definite organization for the maintenance of roads and in which "the work is of a most casual and inefficient nature."

"The county or township unit is generally so small and its taxing power so limited," the bureau's report, "as to preclude costs for proper supervision of road work. If adequate equipment is provided, the area is generally so small and the mileage so limited that it cannot be employed full time.

Suburban Growth.

"In many counties [illegible] is limited to a single engineer who, in many cases, is poorly paid and is inexperienced or relatively incompetent. In the larger or richer counties the sufficient income to employ competent engineers.

"The outward movement of population in metropolitan areas has caused a rapid growth of suburban problems. Generally each of these urban areas has a partial jurisdiction over portions of the county highways within their boundaries, and the lack of a coöperative plan has been a serious obstacle to continuous improvement of main highways."

The bureau advocates in its report that greater coöperation between authorities in charge of road construction adjacent to cities be achieved.

Third of Men in Coast Prison Are Auto Thieves

Automobile stealing ranks as the third leading cause for men being in penitentiaries and prisons, it is indicated in a recent check which showed that 15 per cent of the [illegible] prisoners in California's "prison family" were serving time for a violation of the motor vehicle theft law.

Utah Wool Growers Want Sheep on Auto License

A resolution adopted by the Utah State Wool Growers' association recently requested the secretary of state to provide for automobile license tags in 1930 bearing the contour of a lamb. Sheep raising is one of the state's leading industries.

LINE-O-BRAKE

Think of brakes that never squeak, grab, slip, chatter . . . brakes that are as safe in wet as in dry weather . . . brake linings that outlast the car . . . velvety-smooth brakes that respond to your lightest touch. Watch for the big announcement—Tuesday.

AIRPORTS NEED R. R. FACILITIES FOR FAST TRAVEL

Time Gained in Flight Is Lost at Terminals.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

One of the most significant details of the plans for the projected Transcontinental Air Transport passenger line from New York to Los Angeles, as outlined last week by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, is the location of the various airplane terminals. The important stations, Lindbergh said, will all adjoin tracks of the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania railroads in order to facilitate the transfer of passengers from plane to train and vice versa.

Such an arrangement is necessary in the case of T. A. T. because of the fact that the two day coast-to-coast service is a combined air-rail service. Night travel is made by train and the passengers are transferred to planes for day travel. The pilots of the T. A. T. planes will carry as part of their equipment schedules of the rail routes which they follow. In case of bad flying weather the pilot will discern where the best rail connection may be made, descend to the airport adjoining the railroad and place his passengers aboard the next train.

Still Needs Assistance.

Parallel operation of the two carriers is worthy of universal application. The most ardent exponent of aviation will admit that air transportation today is not wholely self-sufficient. Until the airplane is capable of flying in all kinds of weather air transportation must lean upon the railroads for assistance in emergencies which arise when storms, fog and smoke bar flying.

Rapid rail transportation should be one of the first considerations in the selection of airport sites. It is a factor which so far has been almost entirely overlooked in the scheme of airport development. None of the airports in the Chicago region, save the new Curtiss field, has direct rail communication with the loop. The Municipal field is nearly inaccessible. It is far from any rail connection and no through highways lead to it.

There seems to be little point in expending millions of dollars for a lake front airport which, because of Chicago's smoke evil, would be covered in a haze during much of the time. With rapid rail transportation, airports might be located at various points outside the city and free from its smoke.

Should Have Regular Schedule.

Limited trains could transport the passengers from the center of the city to the airports and schedules of the planes and trains synchronized so that there would be no long wait between the arrival of the train at the airport and the takeoff of the plane.

This scheme or some variation of it must be worked out to make airplane travel wholly practical. Today the air traveler arriving in Chicago, or rather near it, must travel by bus or taxicab over byroads and through tangled traffic to the city, consuming much of the time gained through the speed of air travel.

The problem of rapid transportation to and from airports is not peculiar to Chicago. This fact was made apparent in the recent trip of the "Untin Bowler," the Tribune flying yacht, from here to New York and return. Forty-five minutes were consumed in riding from the loop to the plane at the Cicero field. Arriving at Buffalo the passengers found that the only means of transportation to the city was by taxicab, an hour's ride.

New York in Same Fix.

Curtiss field on Long Island is twenty minutes from the nearest railroad by automobile. There the air traveler catches a train for New York City and arrives at his hotel close to two hours after his arrival by plane. None of the New York flying fields are served by fast rail transportation, although the new 700 acre airport, which is under construction in the Jersey meadows just across the Hudson from Manhattan, flanks two through rail lines. Because of the direct rail connection, it is planned to use the new field as the terminal for commercial air lines and as a location for aircraft manufacturing plants.

Returning to Chicago the Bowler was stopped at South Bend by a thick fog. Landing, the passengers waited half an hour for a taxicab, which required another half an hour to transport them to the electric railroad station at South Bend.

Air lines generally follow the main trunk lines of the railroads. Landing fields scattered at intervals along the rail lines would make it possible to transfer passengers and merchandise from plane to train with little inconvenience and loss of time in case of a forced landing.

Many Cities Planning Construction of Airports

According to the department of commerce, the following cities have recently proposed the establishment of airports: Holbrook, Ariz.; San Bernardino, Cal.; Madison, Conn.; Darien, Ga.; Vandalia, Ill.; Lohrville, Ia.; Norway, Me.; Grand Marias, Minn.; St. Cloud, Minn.; Belton, Mont.; Bridgeport, Neb.; Malone, N. Y.; Lenoir, N. C.; Sandusky, O.; Brownsville, Pa.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Nashville, Tenn.; Trenton, Tenn.; Dalhart, Tex.; Galax, Va.; Norfolk, Va., and Clintonville, Wis.

3,000 Different Parts in Modern Airplane Engine

Engines used in air mail and passenger planes have 3,000 parts and each one is thoroughly inspected and given safety tests after every two to three hundred hours' use. Exposed parts are inspected every time a plane lands, and ears trained by long experience listen for interior flaws, and if any are detected the engine is immediately replaced.

NEW AIRPLANE TERMINAL

The railroad terminal principle of handling passenger traffic will be used in the new Boeing airport, now being built at Seattle. In the new $1,500,000 depot the passenger will pass from the street door through passenger concourses directly into the cabins of the planes without leaving cover.

More Airports Near Chicago Are Described

Chief among the airports in the Chicago region located more than 20 miles from the center of the city are the Ford and Great Lakes landing fields. These with two other landing fields in this region are described here today. Various other landing fields located within 20 miles of the loop have been described in this department previously.

The Ford airport is located little more than a mile south of Lansing, Ill. It is distinguished by a 200 feet white circle in the center of the field with a 400 feet white arrow through the circle pointing north. Other markings are the red and black roofs of the hangars and a wind cone on the main hangar roof.

Has Ditch as Obstruction.

The airport is owned and operated by the Ford Motor company. The "L" shaped field comprises 1,440 acres and has a good level surface of sod and clover. It is drained with tile. Its obstructions are an open ditch and embankment along the north and east sides, high tension wires a half mile north of the field, a telephone line to the east, and a radio beacon antenna at the north center of the field. It is equipped with boundary lights, a hangar beacon and flood lights for the hangar roofs. The prevailing winds are northeast in the summer and southwest to northwest in the winter.

The Great Lakes naval training station, located 30 miles north of the city by air line, provides landing facilities for both land planes and hydroplanes. Both are easily identified by the rows of barracks and administration buildings on the lake front. The hydroplane base is located at the foot of the bluff and is protected by breakwaters. A wide plank ramp makes it possible to transport watercraft from the water to the aviation beach.

The Aurora Airport.

The field for land planes comprises about 30 acres and is of irregular shape. The field is tile drained and level but has no runways. The surface is of turf. The name "Great Lakes, Ill." is painted on a shop roof in the southwest corner of the field. At night the field is indicated by red blinking lights on top of the radio towers and white lights at the 100 foot level of the towers.

The Aurora municipal airport is located north of the city of Aurora and about 35 miles by airline from Chicago's loop. It has no marks of identification. Pole lines obstruct it on the north and east. The 100 acre field is oblong and is slightly rolling in spots. It has good natural drainage and a fair turf surface.

The Gary airport is located south of the city and about 30 miles from Chicago. The 80 acre field has a turf surface and good natural drainage. The field has no runways but the entire area is useable. Pole lines on the south and west sides obstruct the field. It has few distinguishable marks of identification.

ADD 15 CITIES TO AIR ROUTES IN THREE MOS.

In the first three months of 1929, 1,815 miles and 15 cities have been added to the air mail and passenger routes, according to the American Air Transport association. Daily stops are made at 123 cities and planes now fly over routes 21,253 miles long, which are divided into sections, all equipped with the latest aides to aerial navigation.

More than 9,000 miles of airways are lighted for night flying with flashing or rotating beacons located every few miles and emergency landing fields every 30 miles. Within 60 days 4,000 additional miles will be lighted.

QUESTIONS

Questions relating to aviation are answered in this section by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, famous world war flyer, who formerly held the world altitude record. Inquiries should be addressed to the Aviation Department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Q. Can an engine in an airplane have more than 9 cylinders?—Frank L. F. Nourzaki, Chicago.

A. An airplane motor may have any number of cylinders though generally those of the radial type do not have more than 9.

Q. Is it possible for a young man of 17 to take the army flying course and to whom should I write in regard to same?—Mrs. L. N. Soden, Villa Park, Ill.

A. Army pilots are selected generally from men with two years of college training, but inquiry can be made from the U. S. army department of aeronautics, Washington, D. C.

Q. Have the navy and marine corps a flying school?—Warner Holcombe, Chicago.

A. Yes. Both schools are located at Pensacola, Fla.

Q. Who holds the cross continent record from west to east and east to west?—L. W. Mamer, Evanston, Ill.

A. Lieut. Maughn holds the record from Mineola to Oakland for dawn to dusk flight in a Curtiss plane. Capt. Hawks in a Lockheed air express holds the west to east record.

Q. Where can I obtain information as to the size and performance of the D. H. 9, Spad and the Curtiss J. N. 4 D. 2 training plane?—Bob Peterson, Park Ridge, Ill.

A. This information may be obtained from the Aircraft Year Book of 1920 published by the Aeronautical chamber of commerce.

Q. How does it feel to go up in an airplane?—P. M. Chaty, Chicago.

A. When the throttle is opened wide the roar of the motor causes a person on their first trip to feel bewildered and perhaps a little frightened. As the plane gathers speed and bumps along the ground the sensation is increased somewhat. When the plane leaves the ground, however, a source of relief is usually felt and the feeling of timidity is lost. A feeling of excitement may still remain.

FIRST AVIATION SCHOLARSHIP IS OFFERED IN U. S.

NEW YORK.—The first aeronautical scholarship ever offered by an American aircraft company has been established by the Daniel Guggenheim School of Aeronautics at New York university by J. D. Alexander, president of the Alexander Eaglerock company of Colorado Springs, Colo.

A four year scholarship in aeronautical engineering or business aeronautics will be awarded this year to the college student who shows the most practical imagination in aeronautics. The winner may chose between the scholarship and an airplane.

3 BRAND NEW Command-aires added to A·S·T training FLEET!

YES, SIR—three new Command-aires—all fully equipped with the very latest safety devices. That's just part of the great A. S. T. training fleet. And remember—A. S. BOEING BUILDING NEW BIPLANE FOR 18 PASSENGERS

Other Big Transports Are Monoplanes.

This is another of a series of articles describing the 1929 line of American and foreign made airplanes. Another make of plane will be described next Sunday.

Differing from the other transport planes of its class, the Ford, Fokker and Keystone-Patrician, the new Boeing eighteen passenger air liner is a biplane. A fleet of these planes is to be put in service this summer over the transcontinental route from Chicago to San Francisco.

The plane is powered with three Pratt & Whitney "Hornet" motors each generating 500 horsepower at 1,900 revolutions per minute. The propellors do not overlap. The total weight of the ship is 16,500 pounds.

The passengers' cabin is 6 feet 4 inches high, 5 feet 3 inches wide and 14½ feet long. The seats are arranged in four rows of three each, two seats together on the left of the aisle, with a single seat on the right. These seats, provided with reclining backs, adjustable to four positions, are upholstered with springs and leather.

Instruments for Passengers.

The windows are large and are unobstructed by any of the structural members of the body. Nonshatterable glass is used. A dome light provides illumination for the cabin at night and, in addition, there are shaded wall lamps opposite each row of seats. These lamps are provided with individual switches.

On a panel at the forward end of the cabin there are mounted a large altimeter for indicating altitude above sea level, an air speed indicator, a clock, and a board for a large map of the route flown and information of interest to the passengers. In a compartment forward of the passengers' cabin is a small buffet from which coffee and light lunches may be served.

Aft of the main cabin is a lavatory. Provision is made for running water. Forced ventilation and heating for the cabin are provided, and the cabin is insulated to diminish the sound of the motors and propellor. There are metal racks for hats and small parcels. Providing the water and the cabin with heat is a 120 watt electric heating unit, thermostatically controlled.

Structure of Steel.

The pilot's cockpit, in the nose of the fuselage, is designed to give the operating personnel protection during all kinds of weather. Windshields made of nonshattarable glass are provided both in the front and on the sides and are easily operated. There are also two sliding doors above the cockpit made of celluloid through which easy ingress and egress are possible.

Communication with the passengers' cabin is made by means of an aisle past the baggage compartment. There is a door at either end of the aisle.

The landing gear material is of welded steel tubing. The wheels are equipped with brakes and shock absorbers. The tail skid is a wheel fitted with a hard rubber tire and spring. The fuselage structure is of welded steel and bolted dural tubing. The covering is of fabric. The wing ribs are of dural. Its covering is fabric.

Has Fire Extinguishers.

The controls are of the wheel variety, adjustable for two positions. The propellor is metal and is adjustable. The following controls are operated from the pilot's cockpit: primer, electric inertia starters and boosters, shutter controls to regulate oil temperature, hot air intake controls, fire extinguishers (individually controlled), landing lights individually controlled and retractable within the wings when not in use, four parachute flares, passenger cabin lights, and brakes which are mechanical and operated by one lever, giving selective braking effect to both wheels.

The following specifications and performance data are furnished by the Boeing company:

High speed with full load	125 m. p. h.
Landing speed with full load	55 m. p. h.
Rate of climb with full load	850 ft. per min.
Climb in 10 minutes with full load	7,000 ft.
Service ceiling with full load	14,500 ft.
Take-off run with full load	850 ft.
Take-off time with full load	10 seconds
Length over all	55 ft.
Height over all	14 ft., 3 in.
Wing span, upper	90 ft.
Wing span, lower	63 ft., 6 in.
Chord upper wing	120 in.

The baggage compartment is forward of the passengers' cabin and the door to the compartment is on the left of the fuselage. The compartment has a capacity of 72 cubic feet.

No other low-priced Six has all these features

7-bearing crankshaft . . . Full force-feed lubrication . . . Silent timing chain . . . Extra long wheelbase

NOT empty claims, but definite facts that you can instantly check, are the elements of the value leadership that is winning thousands of Chicagoans to this big, new, speedy Whippet Six.

The Superior Whippet Six is the only low-priced Six with ALL these important advantages: Seven-bearing crankshaft, full force-feed lubrication, "Finger-Tip Control," silent timing chain, extra long wheelbase, oversize balloon tires, shock absorbers, adjustable Timken bearings throughout pinion and differential, extra long connecting rods and Nelson-type aluminum alloy invar-strut pistons.

The new Superior Whippet Six is also stronger and safer, having more frame cross members and a greater braking area than any of its competitors.

These vital features add a value in performance, comfort, safety and durability far beyond anything offered by other Sixes in Whippet's price class.

TILDEN'S YOUNG ARCHITECTS WIN SCHOOL CONTEST

Take 14 of 32 Places; Lane Is Second.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Tilden High school this year walked away with the honors in the annual competition held among students in agricultural courses by taking fourteen of a possible thirty-two places in six classes of endeavor. About thirty junior and senior high schools had entries in the competition, the winners of which are on exhibition at the Own Your Home exposition and in the board of education building at 460 South State street.

EMIL LATTYAK.

Lane was second with two prizes and two honorable mentions and Austin, last year's winner, was third with four honorable mentions.

In the architectural division — the section in which we are interested—there were two classes: Class A for students specializing in architecture, and class B for students taking the subject for an hour or two. In class A there were competitions for each of the four years and in class B for third and fourth year students.

Perhaps the most striking piece of work was that of Emil Lattyak, winner of the fourth year group of class A, who submitted a perspective and plan for a six room house which any seasoned architect might be proud of. Emil, who is 17, and lives at 6155 South Troy, won first prize in his group last year. He plans to study, after graduation from high school, in the architectural department of the University of Illinois. Emil has been studying in the class of A. N. Lurie.

List of Winners.

Here are the winners in the various sections:

Class A—Fourth year architectural drawing—Six room house:
First prize—Emil Lattyak, Tilden.
Second prize—Herbert Rhine, Lane.
Third prize—Anthony A. Merzel, Lane.
Honorable mention—John A. Schuster, Lane.
Honorable mention—William Hersee, Austin.
Honorable mention—James Romano, Lane.
Class A—Third year—Five room bungalow competitive:
First prize—George W. Stiles, Tilden.
Second prize—Robert Exter, Tilden.
Third prize—William Steiss, Tilden.
Honorable mention—Max Novitsky, Senn.
Honorable mention — Robert Richmond, Lindblom.
Class A—Second year—Detail of doorway or mantel:
First prize—G. Komives, Lindblom.
Second prize—A. Donald Donaldson, Tilden.
Third prize—Eugene Stoyke, Waller.
Honorable mention—Clarence H. Sullivan, Tilden.
Honorable mention—Robert Burr, Senn.
Class A—First year—Building details:
First prize—Verner Johnson, Waller.
Second prize, Edward Probst, Waller.
Third prize—Stanley Hock, Austin.
Honorable mention — Oakley Dahlstrom, Austin.
Honorable mention—Donald Doherty, Kelvyn Park.

Class B Victors.
Class B—Fourth year—Six room house:
First prize—Paul A. Enrietto, Tilden.
Second prize—Eugene Burgess, Hyde Park.
Third prize—Melvin Brockman, Tilden.
Honorable mention — Richard Ettlinger, Hyde Park.
Honorable mention—Robert S. Bridges Jr., Tilden.
Class B—Third year—Five room bungalow:
First prize—Charles H. Weber, Tilden.
Second prize—John Farke, Tilden.
Third prize—Joseph Schneider, Tilden.
Honorable mention—James Myers, Tilden.
Honorable mention—Philip Dellegrazio, Medill.

Another competition—that for miniature model houses—elicited considerable favorable comment. We'll give the winners in this class:

First prize—Calumet High school group.
Second prize—John F. Kassal, Austin.
Third prize—Harper Junior High group.

More than 20,000 students in the schools submitted plans in the competition. Individual competitions were held by the various schools, and the winners in turn took part in the finals held in the board's building.

One of the reasons for the competition is to promote the knowledge of home planning among the city's future citizens.

Will Obviate Mistakes.

Commenting on the movement, Albert G. Bauersfeld, director of technical work in the high schools, said:

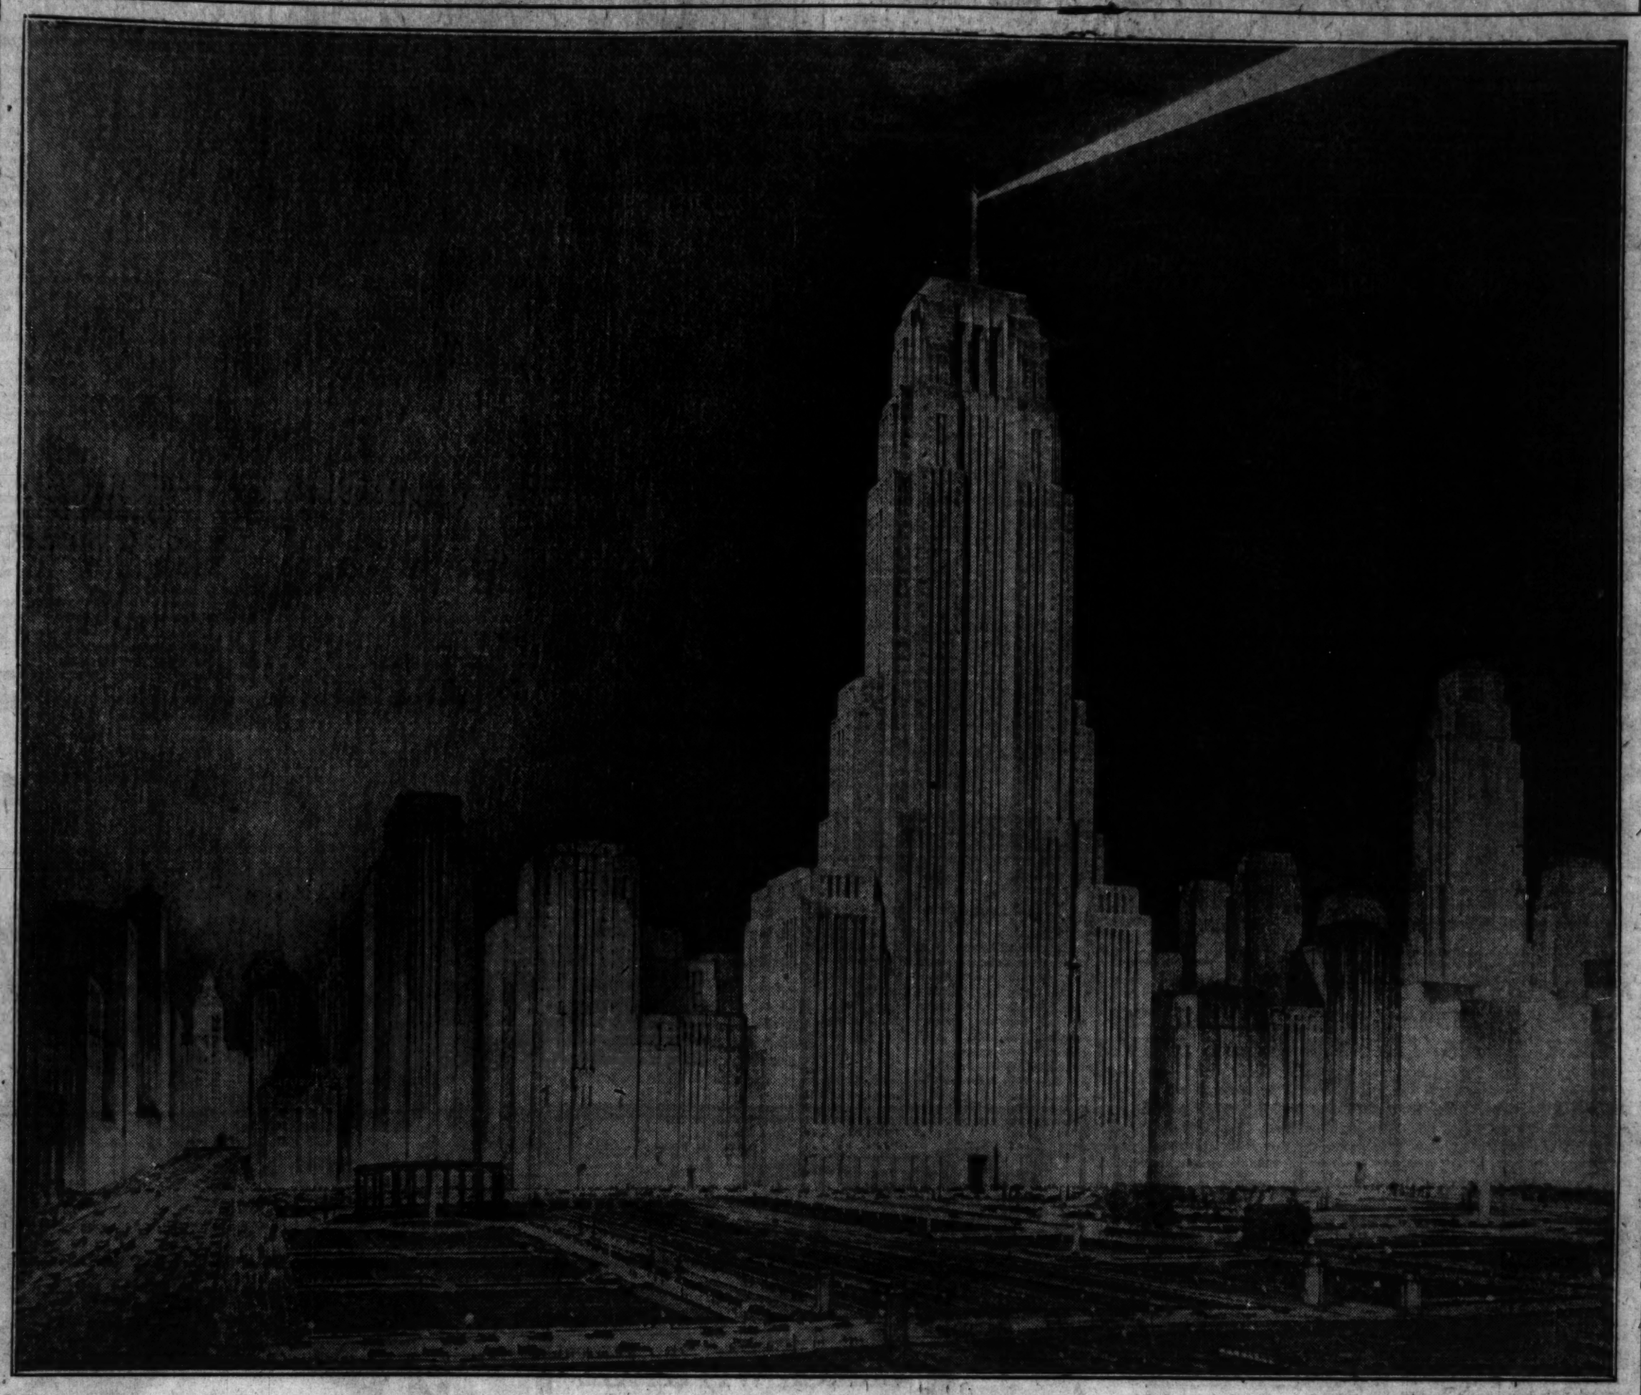
"It often happens that men set out to build homes without any knowledge of the preliminary steps required. They consult architects and contractors, have plans drawn according to hazy verbal descriptions, and when building is under way, demand changes which add to the original cost estimate. Our graduates will not need to make these costly mistakes.

"The idea of planning a house and working out all the details is making a strong appeal in the schools. Here is a project that is real and that stirs the imagination of young draftsmen to attempt something worth while. Fathers and mothers at home are being drawn into conferences, and discussion is being developed in the family council."

Harmon Trust Builds Flat Buildings in Roseland Sub

The Harmon National Realty trust is erecting five three flat buildings on the New Roseland subdivision at Halsted and Vermont street, formerly known as Blue Island road. This subdivision extends down to the north bank of the Little Calumet river, on the opposite bank of which is forest preserve.

CRANE TOWER—CHICAGO'S NEWEST AND LARGEST OFFICE BUILDING



Walter W. Ahlschlager, Inc., is architect of the above great air right development, the first scheduled to go ahead on Illinois Central property on the north side of the proposed new Randolph boulevard. This is a $23,000,000 structure to be known as Crane Tower, christened for the Crane company, which will move its general offices there. The Illinois Central railroad also will move its general offices into the new building. Although called a 75 story building, in reality it has seventy-eight floors, the upper three being nonrentable and used for elevator machinery, tanks, etc. Other buildings along Randolph, pictured above, were put in by the artist merely to give an idea of the prospective development in the I. C. air right area. Michigan avenue is shown on your left, with Tribune Tower and the Wrigley building in the distance. Crane Tower is to be ready for tenants in the fall of 1930, which year marks the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Crane company.

To House I. C. and Crane Co. Offices.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Chicago's newest thoroughfare, Randolph boulevard, to extend from Michigan avenue east to the lake, is to have as its initial improvement the world's tallest structure, the gold tip of which will nip the clouds at a point thirty-eight feet higher than the top of the famous Eiffel tower in Paris. This seventy-five story edifice will soar skywards 1,022 feet. It's to be called Crane Tower and will house the general offices of both the Crane company and the Illinois Central railroad.

WALTER W. AHLSCHLAGER.

In addition to being the tallest structure ever erected by man, it will be the world's largest office building, containing 3,500,000 square feet. The net rental area of the biggest office building existing today is said to be the Equitable building in New York City which contains 1,250,000 square feet.

And, of course, it goes without saying that the Crane Tower will be one of the most colossal edifices so far erected on air rights property. The structure will be entirely on Illinois Central land, from which it will rise on its steel legs, leaving the railroad landlord space beneath the huge building for the free passage of electrically propelled trains. The air rights lease is for 100 years.

Across from New I. C. Station.

Crane Tower will be 482 feet east of Bodi Mich and in the next block directly east of and across "B" street from the proposed new Illinois Central suburban station, with which it will be connected by a pedestrian subway. This will be Chicago's first big office building to have direct underground connection with a railway terminal, similar to what has been developed on a large scale in New York City between the Grand Central station and neighboring skyscrapers and hotels.

The owner of the Crane Tower is the Railroad Air Rights corporation, organized for the owners, a syndicate of Chicago and New York men, and represented in this city by their architect, Walter W. Ahlschlager, who conceived the project.

And right here while the reader probably is wondering what has happened to the much talked of and extensively pictured Apparel Mart, or Chicago Tower, as it was later christened, to be erected on Wacker drive, a block east of Michigan avenue, we'll explain the situation. That project has been abandoned for that particular location because it was found office space was more in demand at that point than for apparel display, etc.

Work to Start on June 24.

It is undestood that the Chicago Tower may be erected in another part of the downtown area at some later date. Meanwhile the Ahlschlager interests are going ahead with the Crane Tower project, work on which will start by the Starrett Building company on June 24. The contract calls for delivery of the building ready for occupancy by Oct. 15 of next year.

The Crane company will vacate its twelve story building at Michigan and 9th and have a large display room on the ground floor of the new Crane Tower, facing Randolph boulevard. There'll be another display room on the second floor. It also will occupy with its executive offices the entire 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th and 39th floors.

The Illinois Central railroad has authorized the statement that it will move all of the executive office space which it now occupies in and around the present Central station, into the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th floors of Crane Tower, aggregating 300,000 square feet.

Will Have Garage, Club, etc.

Other outstanding features of this Gargantuan edifice will be garage space for 1,000 automobiles of tenants, a bank on the first floor to be organized by the owners and a large convention hall, 89x164, with balcony and several smaller conference halls on the second and third floors. The balance of the space on the second and third floors, 104,000 square feet, will be devoted to exhibition purposes.

The 23d and 24th floors will contain 30,000 square feet devoted to a club for the convenience and service of patrons of the building and in addition a grill and restaurant. The club will have a swimming tank, Turkish baths, gymnasium and forty-eight hotel rooms, each with bath, for use of building tenants or their out of town guests.

Almost all of the space in the upper floors of Crane Tower, from the 73d floor down to the 63d, have been reserved by the owners for Chicago tenancy and most of this has been leased, it is stated. Charles F. Noyes & Co. have charge of the renting and report having closed leases aggregating $1,800,000 annually.

Upper Floors in Gold Design.

Now for a word about the outside of the building. It's to be of Bedford stone on all sides with the exception of the crowning stories which will

Short Cuts to Comfort at Home Show

The Own Your Home exposition is now in full swing on the city property on East Chicago avenue, at Michigan, just east of the water works.

Even though last week, when the exposition opened, not everything was finished and ready to exhibit, there was still a great deal to be seen pertaining to the home in all its stages.

Advice, literature, first hand information on where to buy your lot, why to build your home, how to build your home, and last and not least—what to put in your home—is on every hand. And more than advice, more vivid than literature and first hand information, are the hundreds of actual examples which are to be seen in the long halls where more than fifty different building materials are on exhibit.

We see gas furnaces and oil heating furnaces working for our edification; we see electric refrigerators refrigerating before our eyes, and, for our appetites, the proof of this refrigeration is offered us. The benefits of insulation are vividly shown; the economies of automatic temperature control; the joys of a self-feeding boiler.

Basement specialties such as washing machines, clothes driers, ironers, incineration, laundry tubs and heaters, are on exhibit. Kitchen specialties, of course, are shown.

Modern casings, doors, built-in porches, attractive entrances, a modern kitchen, a breakfast nook, a modernized fireplace and a reading nook obtained by the installation of bookcases and window seats perhaps in a disused corner.

If you want ideas—or if you like to see things for yourself—the Own Your Home exposition is the place to go! Nor have half the things been mentioned which you can examine and investigate over at the show. You can even see the outside of homes, in different materials, ready for your approval. Brick, stucco, limestone, siding and shingles; for the exterior walls of a home are a big field in themselves, and this field, too, is comprehensively treated at the exposition.

PRIZE WINNING WORK OF HIGH SCHOOL BOY

Above is a perspective and floor plans for a six room house which won first prize for Emil Lattyak of Tilden in an architectural drawing competition among the junior and senior high schools of the city. Tilden High school took fourteen of the thirty-two places in the six architectural drawing groups. Many of the entries in the competition are on exhibition at the Own Your Home exposition and in the board of education building, 460 South State street.

JUST A FEW FIGURES TO SHOW HOW TALL THE CRANE TOWER IS

Perhaps you'll think when you read the story about Chicago's proposed world's tallest building of certain stories you've read recently of predicted record breakers in New York. For that reason we'll give a few figures. Here is a list of some of the world's tallest structures:

Crane tower	1,022 feet
Eiffel tower	906 feet
Bank of the Manhattan company New York	840 feet
Chrysler building, New York	804 feet
Woolworth building, New York	792 feet
Washington monument	555 feet

In case any one complains that we arrived at the 1,022 feet for the Crane Tower by adding on the 125 foot beacon light, we'll deduct it and the building still will be 897 feet, or fifty-seven feet taller than its nearest rival in Manhattan.

In Chicago the Pittsfield building is 557 feet to the top of its ornamental chimney, and the tip of the cross on the Methodist temple is 556 feet above Clark and Washington streets.

Pays $160,000 for Thirty Flats at 913 Sunnyside

Irwin Katz and William Simon sold to Stefan Gangl the thirty flats at 913-19 Sunnyside for a reported $160,000, subject to $110,000. W. E. Ehrenhalt of E. A. Hastings & Co. was broker.

Woman Rents Space on East Oak Street for a Tearoom

Mrs. C. Fagaros has leased the store at 127 East Oak street, 100 feet west of Michigan avenue, from the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust, for ten years at a reported term retnal of $50,000. She will operate a tearoom. S. M. Polkey of Krenn & Dato was broker.

Californian Sells Her Former Kenilworth Home

Minnie S. Crandall, wife of Bruce V. Crandall, now living at Leguna Beach, Cal., has sold her former residence at 515 Warwick road, Kenilworth, to Melvin M. Hawley, a member of the law firm of Adams & Hawley. McGuire & Orr and George Mulford of Baird & Warner, were brokers.

South Center Building Is Reported 96% Rented

The Crown Shoe stores have leased the shop at 4709 South Park Way for five years. Harry M. and Louis Englestein, agents for the South Center building, state that this lease makes the structure 96 per cent rented.

have their central architectural effects on each of the four fronts, from the 63d to the 70th story, of gold terra cotta.

Unusually elaborate floor lighting effects are now being worked out and the word "Crane" in huge tube colored lights probably will be placed on the top of the building. A beacon light, also of gold terra cotta, will extend 125 feet above the roof, making the uppermost part of the finial 1022 feet above the ground.

The financing of the Crane Tower project will be by means of an $18,000,000 first mortgage leasehold bond issue, $7,000,000 of first preferred stock and 1,000,000 shares of common stock. Details of the financing and the bankers who have underwritten the issue are to be announced within a few weeks.

To Be Built in Units.

The building site fronts 355 feet on Randolph, which is to be made 128 feet wide, and has the same frontage on Lake street. It fronts 282 feet on both "B" and "D" streets. Its total area, therefore, is 135,610 square feet.

The project will be erected in two units. The first section will face the entire Randolph frontage and will be 207 feet deep, covering 72,662 square feet. The balance of the block, facing on Lake street, contains 61,948 square feet of area, will be used for the second unit.

The first unit of the Crane Tower will have 2,100,000 square feet of rental space. When the addition facing Lake street is completed the total net area will be 3,500,000 square feet.

Easy to Motor To.

For those who like figures we might add that a single floor area of approximately 62,000 square feet is, we believe, a record for an office building. As the structure climbs skywards the setbacks, of course, bring the floor area down to smaller figures. The fiftieth floor, for instance, will have a net rental area of 13,464 square feet and the seventy-fifth floor 6,700 square feet.

And last, but certainly not least of the features which the owners point to with pride, is the fact that tenants may motor from both the north and south sides, when the outer drive and bridge and Randolph boulevard are completed, directly to their offices without crossing or using Michigan avenue.

Fred L. Thompson, vice president of the Illinois Central railroad, represented his road in the site leasing negotiations. Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann & Levinson and Schuyler, Weinfeld & Parker were attorneys.

CONSIDERED FOR NORTH SIDE

S. Chester Danforth drew the above picture—a preliminary sketch of a twenty-two story apartment building which Howard B. Peabody contemplates erecting at the northeast corner of La Salle and Schiller streets. Mr. Peabody has completed the assembling of a site 70x70 feet at that location.

LOMBARD TO GET 24 FLAT BUILDING NEAR TOWN HALL

What is said will be Lombard's first simon-pure flat building is to be erected on the east side of Park street, between St. Charles and Grove—opposite the new town hall. The structure will be the first of three units to be put up on 250 feet of frontage on Grove. It will be L shaped, measuring 85x145 feet. Designed by A. O. Lauderstrom, the structure will contain twenty-four apartments of two, three, four and five rooms. It will cost $130,000. The owner is a syndicate headed by Charles Bainbridge. Sorgenson & Ericson have the general contract.

CALIFORNIA RADIO FIRM TO EMPLOY 300 IN NEW CHICAGO PLANT

Chicago's position as a radio manufacturing center has been considerably strengthened by the location of a branch factory of the Magnavox company — with general offices and main plant at Oakland, Cal.—at 2931 South Winchester avenue, in the Central manufacturing district.

The concern has taken 32,000 square feet of space in Unit E, a loft building of the district, and will employ about 300 persons of whom 200 will be female. It is expected that 127,000 speakers will be turned out during the first year, with an average of 2,000 a day for the second year.

The California concern was impelled to locate in Chicago by the fact that sixty per cent of its distribution is east of the Rockies. It is the third radio firm to establish a new plant in the Central manufacturing district and one of the six companies that have added additional space to their manufacturing facilities.

W. B. Walter of Rowe & Whitman represented the Magnavox company, and A. A. Schmidt and J. U. Nicolson the Central Storage company, operating the building in which the plant is located.

PROPOSES 22 STORY FLATS IN NORTH LA SALLE

With the purchase from Mrs. Laure H. Tarpey of a holding 30x58 feet at 1505 North La Salle street, Howard B. Peabody, a real estate man, has completed the assembling of a building site, 70x78 feet, at the northeast corner of La Salle and Schiller streets.

Three holdings purchased by Mr. Peabody at various times during the last year or two comprise the site—that of Mrs. Tarpey and holdings acquired from Mrs. Mary F. Manierre and Stephen A. Crowe Jr.

Residences now on the property are under lease. When the leases expire Mr. Peabody contemplates erecting a twenty-two store fireproof apartment building on the land. The structure, according to his present plans, will contain 152 apartments of two and three rooms.

Plans call for a structure of modern design, with all four walls of face brick with Bedford stone ornamentation. Moderate rentals will be charged, it is stated. S. Chester Danforth has made a preliminary sketch of the proposed building.

The site, which fronts 70 feet on La Salle and 78 feet on Schiller was assembled through Ralph E. Peterson of McMenemy & Martin, Inc.

SUBURBAN REAL ESTATE COUNCIL TO MEET MAY 9

Thursday, May 9, is a day on which real estate transactions consummated in the suburban area are expected to be practically nil. For that is the date when the Suburban Real Estate Board council will hold its annual convention. This year's meeting is being held at Waukegan, the Waukegan-North Shore Real Estate Board being the host. Some of the member boards may close up shop and the membership go en masse to Waukegan. Pleasure is to be mixed with business and after 3 p. m. those attending will turn their attention to golf. Charles E. Jackson of Rockford, president of the state association, and H. S. Hicks will be among the guests of honor. Mrs. W. H. Wright of Oak Park is president of the Suburban council.

Herbert Becker to Address Real Property Institute

Herbert Becker, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, will address the Cook county real estate board, Wednesday, May 8, at 8 p. m. on "Foreclosure of Mortgages." In this connection he will discuss the Hack-Snow decision. Judge M. M. Oshe will take at 7 p. m. on "Corporations."

SAYS 5 DAY WEEK WILL BOOST COST OF CONSTRUCTION

Survey Predicts Nation-Wide Increase.

Building construction costs throughout the nation are expected to advance considerably as the five day work week for the building trades—a movement now making important headway—approaches general adoption, according to a survey just made of conditions in the building industry by S. W. Straus & Co. According to the Straus investigation, the present trend indicates that the entire building industry will be on a five day basis in the near future.

"Chicago's increased cost, if the five day week were adopted throughout the building trades, would exceed $12,000,000 on the basis of the 1926 building volume for Chicago of $315,800,000," the report states. "This figure would be on the basis of a 4 per cent increase, an arbitrary figure assumed to represent the approximate increase in construction cost on the basis of an investigation carried on by the building interests. The figure of $12,000,000 increased cost in Chicago might be offset, however, by increased efficiency in labor and labor saving machinery.

"From an economic standpoint the most important current development in the building industry in this country is the rapid drift toward the five day week. Following its recent adoption by the 12,000 bricklayers in New York City evidence is at hand indicating the possibility of the entire industry in the eastern metropolis quickly adopting the short week schedule. According to C. G. Norman, chairman of the board of directors of the New York Building Trades Employers' association, the 150,000 building craftsmen in New York and immediate suburbs will be on the five day schedule by Jan. 1 next. This, he estimates, will add approximately $40,000,000, or 4 per cent, to New York's annual building bill.

"In Chicago, plasterers and painters are now on the short week basis, and in other trades the schedule will be one of the major points of discussion on new wage agreements as of June 1, this year.

St. Louis Leads Move.

"St. Louis comes nearer being completely on the five day week plan than any other American city. The following building trades are now operating on it there: Carpenters, plasterers, cement finishers, elevator constructors, electric workers, lathers, sheet metal workers, plumbers, steam fitters, asbestos workers, and all craftsmen connected with the painters' trade.

"The five day week is gaing considerable headway on the Pacific coast, particularly in San Francisco, Portland and Seattle, but has made no appreciable progress in Los Angeles, because of the open shop basis.

"Considerable progress is reported in various other important building centers in all parts of the country.

"The adoption nationally of the 40 hour week schedule would add close to $250,000,000 ot the annual building program unless greater labor efficiency through mechanical inovations can be developed. It seems to be the feeling among contractors and builders that this can be accomplished only in part.

Sees Handicaps to Business.

"Oscar W. Rosenthal, official spokesman for contracting interests in Chicago, voices the belief that the 40 hour week schedule will prove a serious handicap to the industry, as it will prolong the period of construction on large operations. Builders will then be faced with the alternative of meeting heavy overtime charges or of not being able to get their jobs completed for the May 1 or Oct. 1 rental periods.

"Eastern contractors generally express the point of view that the effect of the five day week cannot be offset by increased efficiency, inasmuch as construction is now about as efficient as possible. They see in effect the recent New York agreement between contractors and bricklayers as virtually a forerunner of a nation-wide movement toward a shorter work week."

START SHORTLY ON THIRD UNIT OF DEVON BUILDING

Report North Town Mart Cost as $900,000.

M. F. Schiavone, who heads a syndicate responsible for a number of important improvements in the comparatively new Devon and Western district, will let contracts immediately for the erection of the third unit of the North Town Mart building occupying the entire block on the south side of Devon avenue, between Campbell and Maplewood. The entire development in land and building will represent an investment of $900,000, it is stated.

The first unit—at the southeast corner of Devon and Maplewood—was completed some months ago. In it are located billiard tables and bowling alleys under lease to Schueneman, Inc. The second unit, fronting 100 feet on Devon, is now nearing completion. It will be leased to the Crawford Department store.

Work is to start shortly on the third unit at the southwest corner of Devon and Campbell and it is expected that the entire project will be completed late in the summer.

The North Town Mart building fronts 266 feet on Devon. Designed by Oldefest & Williams, it will be of modern design. Exterior facing is of terra cotta. When completed it will contain twenty-four stores. It is diagonally across the street from the theater building to be erected at the northeast corner of Devon and Campbell—announced in this department recently.

The North Town Builders and Finance corporation have the general contract for the improvement. S. E. Terman & Co. are brokers and A. J. Schiavone is attorney.

WALGREEN RENTS STORE AT DAMEN AND IRVING PARK

The Walgreen company has leased a store containing 7,500 square feet at the northeast corner of Irving Park boulevard and Damen and Lincoln for eighteen years from Joseph, William, Peter and Louise Heim. Gus C. Juhnke was broker. Robert J. Nesbitt was attorney.

Don't swelter again this Summer . . . .

A Balsam-Wool Blanket in the attic will make the whole house cool and livable

Think back to the sizzling days last summer when the house was "like a bake oven." Will you go through it again this summer—and in all the summers to come? You need not—there is an easy way to avoid it.

A blanket of Balsam-Wool in the attic will put an end to discomfort—prevent the sun's heat from penetrating—make even the upstairs bedrooms cool and comfortable—bring nights of comfort after the hottest days.

Balsam-Wool is TRUE Insulation

Balsam-Wool is a thick, flexible blanket which tucks snugly into crevices and corners, fits closely between studding, joists and rafters. It is the identical material used in the most modern refrigerators to keep the outside heat from penetrating.

The service of Balsam-Wool to you does not cease with the summer's end. Just as it keeps the sun's heat out in summer, so in winter it keeps the furnace heat in—stops the costly leakage of heat through the roof—saves you so large a part of your fuel bills that it soon pays for itself.

Easy to Apply

Any good carpenter can put a Balsam-Wool Blanket in your attic—quickly and without muss. The full inch thickness is recommended. Now is the time to have it done—before hot weather comes. Ask your carpenter to call and tell you how little it costs, or 'phone your lumber dealer today.

HOME BUILDING AND REMODELING

FRENCH CHIC PLUS YANK COMFORT, HERE'S RESULT

A House Good to Look At, Ideal to Live In.

("Next week will appear the last of the articles on correct lighting in the new or remodeled home, "Illumination Rules for Bedroom and Bath.")

BY LOUISE BARGELT.
[Home Builders Editor.]

Romance and comfort have gone into the making of this seven room home of whitewashed brick located on Woodland avenue, in Winnetka, Ill. Architect, Willard Clyde Walker, 58 East Washington street, Chicago.

It frequently happens that when a family becomes imbued with the spirit of home building, some certain type of construction appeals to them above all others. In the case shown today the house is of French inspiration, though Americanized for the practical purposes of city or suburban living.

But after all is said, whatever the style of the house, whether it is Mediterranean or colonial, English or frankly mid-western, the first essential is that it shall be built well. The second essential is that it should be so designed as to be pleasing to the eye and convenient to the dweller therein.

Often you hear some one say:

"But I don't intend to live in the house forever. Why so much worry over its permanency? I'm not like my grandfather—building for generations to come."

Have Durable Construction.

Even though this may be so and one does not anticipate a lifetime in the home one builds, there are several emphatic reasons which should urge a home builder to adopt the utmost precautions in durable construction.

One is the economic reason, for money must be spent on the house in the first place. And if money is not to be spent on its upkeep after a few years, that house should be constructed soundly and well. A poorly built house is a poor investment.

Again the designing and layout of a house are important, for a well designed and conservatively planned residence does not age in style nor cease to be of value as does a bizarre or freakish one. This growing old in style and corresponding decrease in value is termed "obsolescence." And this obsolescence is something no home owner wishes his house to suffer from.

Such a house as this one of French lineage belongs to the enduring class both because of the conservative artistry which has gone into its designing and the staunch materials into its construction.

Common Brick Walls.

The walls are of common brick painted white, common brick quoins and belt course, treatment around main entrance of common brick and stone, a slate roof of varying shades of unfading green, copper sheet metal work, wood frames painted light green, sash and doors in white and wrought iron work black. The upper part of the chimneys are in red, blending down to white at base.

The garage is attached to the house in such a way that nothing more than driveway is required of one side of the lot. By doing this one has the rear reserved for full development into yard and flower garden space. Overlooking the garden is a terrace accessible from both living room and library. This terrace may have an awning over it, which, screened in, may be used for dining purposes in the summer time, with service from the kitchen through pantry.

The driveway is used as a service walk. The service entry is midway between kitchen and garage and from it are stairs both to second floor and basement.

Two Daughters' Rooms

The second floor has an owner's suite consisting of chamber, bath with shower and dressing room, two daughters' rooms with connecting bath and guest room. The maid's room with bath is over the garage.

One of the excellent features of this plan is the large number of closets and cases throughout; three off the first floor hall, linen cases in every bathroom, large linen case and closets in each bedroom with separate shoe and hat closets and a book alcove off chamber No. 3.

The plan is compact, the rooms are large, and the house is insulated throughout. On account of its simplicity and compactness it has been built at a much lower cost than would result from a house more irregular in plan.

ROMANCE AND CONVENIENCE

Romance plus convenience expresses the architect's achievement in this seven room home of French inspiration. Exterior walls are of whitewashed brick with slate roof in varying shades of unfading green. The wood frames are painted light green, the sash and doors are white, and the wrought iron work, rails, balcony, and so on, are black. An exceptionally fine plan for a suburban home which may be placed on a 65 foot lot. It is located on Woodland avenue, in Winnetka, and the architect is Willard Clyde Walker, 58 East Washington street, Chicago.

BRICK VENEER COAT RESTORES YOUTH TO DODDERING OLD HOUSE

Overcoating with brick veneer gives an old frame house a handsome and durable exterior. In this way many an aged dwelling, about which hover many memories, is returned and the investment is a worth while one from the financial standpoint as well.

Any experienced mason contractor can achieve a satisfactory job in the application of the new brick veneer overcoat.

One builds out from the original foundation an extension for the brickwork. Masonry ties at regular intervals tie the new wall to the old one. Some insulation and also some fuel saving are accomplished by the space which is left between the old wood siding and the new brick walls and also by the new wall itself. Naturally the house will be even sturdier than before by proper foundation and tying of the new wall.

Often in connection with this brick veneer overcoat given an old house, brick walks and walls are added around the place. Perhaps a new porch is put on, or an extra wing added with sun room and garage.

Many are the ways by which old houses are given a new lease on life, and whether that new lease takes the form of a brick rejuvenation, a stucco rejuvenation or a new shingle or siding rejuvenation, the results are well worth the money.

Quaint Folderol in Garden Makes Unforgettable Home

Little things count heavily in life—and in gardens—and it is surprising how a bird bath or a sun dial, a graceful vase or a vine-covered pergola can mark the garden we all remember and love.

Faucet Close to Veranda Makes Porch Washing Easy

A faucet adjacent to a veranda with a length of hose conveniently attached for the warm weather months makes porch washing a comparatively easy task.

Old Cottage Is Restored by Hard Work

Discouraged at First

CHICAGO.—Our home is a frame cottage about forty years old. It was rented when we bought it, and had been allowed to run down, else we would never have been able to consider buying a place of our own.

The tenants moved out in the middle of winter, and all of our friends sympathized with us. We were truly discouraged. However, my wife and I, by working far into the nights, Saturday afternoons and Sundays, repainted the entire exterior in contrasting colors.

We replaced eleven broken window panes, installed some new plumbing fixtures, and refinished the woodwork in white enamel and oak graining. A decorator repapered the walls on the installment plan, and we painted and varnished the floors, and constructed a partition of plaster board upstairs, making two separate bedrooms with connecting hall, where only one had been before.

Having no sidewalk to alley, we laid bricks in ornamental design, which was very attractive. We also fixed the front steps and railings.

There is still much to be desired, and work to be done, but we hope in a few years to get our place paid for and see same increase in value by reason of our hard work.

LIMESTONE AS HOUSE FACING PROVES WORTH

So many questions have come to this department in the last year relative to the subject of the recent developments in limestone surfacing for homes that it seems only fair to call attention to the attractive home with surface finish of limestone which has been built at the southwest corner of the plaza of the Own Your Home Exhibit now being held at Chicago avenue at Michigan, back of the water works.

This home, which is in miniature, gives a decidedly comprehensive idea of the architectural possibilities and structural attractiveness of limestone.

This particular stone is designated as "variegated." Its colors range from bluff to bluish gray, most harmonious in relation to the green of lawn, or for any color scheme of window sash, shutters, or doorway features.

This limestone surfacing is also available in a golden brown known as "Old Gothic."

The cost of a home surfaced with this limestone is only a little higher than brick or stucco.

Natural stone for ages has been synonymous with durability and permanence and once it is set in the wall there is no occasion for subsequent repair or replacement due to cracking or structural defects. Furthermore, this stone needs no painting or freshening as it ages gracefully and with dignity.

GAS PROVIDES EFFICIENT WAY TO HEAT HOUSE

Cost Slightly in Excess of Older Methods.

At the own your home exposition where one sees featured so many various types of home equipment and materials space is occupied in showing the interesting and efficient workings of the gas heated furnace.

This gas heating is a subject which interests people mightily today; people who are considering new homes or people who are contemplating changes in their old heating equipment.

Many an old home this spring and summer will see the junking of its old coal burning heater for replacement by gas. In many cases one has the gas heater piped in tandem with the old furnace and the old appliance can be used for auxiliary heating, rubbish disposal and other uses.

Since 1922 there has been a steady increase in gas heating. It was not until about that time that the gas industry was ready to promote such a project. Now gas heating equipment can be supplied for steam, vapor, hot water, and warm air heating.

No claims are made for gas heat being "cheaper" than other methods of heating. It is admitted that it may be a little higher than other methods or means, but it is an absolutely clean heat, a noiseless heat, a fully automatic and dependable heat.

No misrepresentations are made as regards price or cost of operation. The actual cost of gas can be forecast month by month before installation, and in almost every case, it is claimed, the estimate of the gas company is a little above the actual cost of the heat. Nor is there much likelihood of any fluctuation in the price of gas. No claims are made that the price for gas house heating will change, unless possibly to lower a little, as so far the trend has been downwards.

DECORATVIE WOODEN FLOORINGS HELP TO BEAUTIFY RESIDENCE

Decorative wood floorings have been used in Europe for centuries.

When properly used, parquet floors are valuable assets. Early in this century they suffered a temporary eclipse in popularity through abuse of their uses. A floor, most people agree, should be restful and furnish an unobtrusive base for furnishings. Simple floor designs fulfil this purpose and they are being offered at the present time reproduced by wood blocks of various sizes; a decorative floor and one within the reach of the smaller home owner.

While the parquet floor, with its definite place in the more formal home and its adaptations on occasions in the less formal home, is coming back into vogue, the wide plank floor is now widely used in English cottage types of homes or early American homes.

These floors are informal and hint of the ruggedness and picturesqueness of ye old times.

FARM AND GARDEN

IT'S POSSIBLE TO BEAUTIFY SCHOOL GROUNDS

Velvety Lawns, Flowers Appreciated.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Chicago will attempt to demonstrate during the next few years that public school grounds can be successfully landscaped. Already velvety lawns, wide spreading shade trees, and flowering and fruitful shrubs are being established around new school buildings and playgrounds. These smoothly carpeted and shaded greenswards will take the place of dusty or muddy grounds.

In the wake of the scuffling and cuffing of millions of school children, the grounds are left grassless, treeless and shrubless around thousands of schools in America. In the face of such a discouraging condition there are Chicago landscape men who believe that they have the answer to the question of whether grass, trees and shrubs can be made to thrive on school grounds as well as in the dooryard of homes.

Careful Planning Needed.

Their theory is that trees and shrubs are doomed to be killed, twisted and trampled where they are planted in a planless, haphazard way. On the other hand, if the landscaping is done according to plans as carefully worked out as the plans for the school building, the principal, teachers, children and their parents will readily assume the obligation of looking after the plants on the school ground and see that they are not molested.

Twenty-three new elementary and junior high schools have been built or are under construction in various parts of Chicago and in every case the grounds are being landscaped according to plans worked out by skilled landscape architects. Twelve elementary and three junior high schools have been finished in the city within the last year. Six elementary and two junior high schools will be finished this year. As soon as they are completed the grass, shrubs and trees are planted. The landscape men are required to replace all dead shrubs and trees for two years.

This landscape work is expected to serve many purposes. First it will beautify the school grounds and serve as a sort of outdoor classroom where children will be taught rudimentary lessons about shrubs and trees. The plants will be labeled so that they may be readily identified, aiding in fixing the names of the different shrubs and trees in the minds of the children.

In addition to this the school grounds are expected to serve as nuclei and stimulate interest in landscaping the home grounds in the near-by neighborhoods in all parts of the city. Some look upon the work of landscaping the school grounds as a fundamental part of the great beautifying movement that is needed to primp up Chicago before the World's Fair in 1933.

Beds for Annuals.

The permanent planting work is limited to grass, trees and shrubs, but in some cases perennial flowers are used. Special plots are being turned over to the pupils. In these beds the children are planting annuals. Principals, teachers, and pupils are taking the entire responsibility of planting and caring for the annual flowers.

Landscaping the grounds of the new schools as rapidly as the buildings are completed will probably lead to the improvement of old schools.

Plants Are Respected.

William A. Beaudry, a Chicago landscape architect who is helping establish the plantings around the city schools, says that from many years of experience in landscaping public buildings he has learned that the public takes a keen interest in seeing that school ground plantings are not injured.

"Careless planting is never respected," he said. "Around the Chicago schools a definite plan is worked out for each place. Effort is being made to plant some of the finer varieties of shrubs."

Schools in Chicago and other cities and towns where plans are under way for the planting of school grounds may be able to get some valuable general suggestions from the shrubs and trees that are being planted at one of the city's schools. Some of the material planted at the Jessie Spalding school on the west side at Ashland and Washington boulevards is given below as an example of shrubs and trees used around the new buildings.

Trees—Honey locust and silver maple.

Shrubs—Japanese barberry, forsythia, intermedia; hydrangea, paniculata; honeysuckle, morrowei and bella crysantha; lilac, French purple, French double white, and Persian; ligustrum, regels; privet amurense; prunus triloba; Philadelphus coronarius grandiflora virginalis, and bouquet blanc; spirea Van Houttei; Snowberry; Veburnum pubescens; Hybrid Grootendorst, rosa rugosa (continuous blooming Japanese shrub rose); sweet briar rose, and Weigelia Eva Rathke.

Choice Shrubs.

Mr. Beaudry singles out the following varieties of shrubs, noted especially for their beautiful foliage and flowers, included in the scheme of planting around the Jesse Spalding school:

French hybrid lilacs varieties—

ALPHONSE LAVALLE—Broad panicles, violet blue.

CHARLES X.—Dwarf; violet and wine purple.

MARIE LE GRAYE—Single, pure white.

MICHAEL BUCHNER—Dwarf and stocky, delicately beautiful trusses of pale lilac color.

PRESIDENT CARNOT—Distinctly separate narrow petals in wide open flowers; pale blue and white.

PRESIDENT GREVY—Slender tube and scapes of rosy mauve, the open face a contrasting shade of bright blue.

SOUV. DE LUDWIG SPAETH—Single, darkest of the blues, a deep purplish shade, in long panicles.

HOW TO PLANT ODD NOOKS AROUND SCHOOL BUILDINGS—Above is shown a sketch of the landscape planting plans followed in setting out trees and shrubs around Jesse Spalding school at Ashland and Washington boulevards on the west side of Chicago. The plan shows were the shrubs and trees are planted. The numbers appearing before or along with the names indicate the number of shrubs used in each place.

DRAINING FLOODED LAWN.

We have a very large lot on which we intend to put a tennis court this spring. Though we do not expect to build a house for another year we want to get some expert advice on drainage before we begin work on the tennis court. A dozen lawns slope down to the lot, thus draining onto it. Can you tell us where to get the proper information on how to handle the soil problem? A mistake now would be enormously expensive later when we are ready to put up the house. MRS. M. P. B.

REPLY.

For such expert advice get in touch with a drainage company experienced in laying tile and filling in lawns.

Would it be possible to build up the tennis court a few inches to catch the water as it comes off the adjacent lawns? Drainage tiles might be used along the high side of the tennis court to carry off excess water. This is merely a hazy suggestion since I do not know exactly what your problem is. It might be possible to carry off the excess water temporarily by digging a small trench.

When your house is built the lawn may be filled in high enough to prevent it from being flooded by water coming from surrounding lawns. With a waterproof basement you would probably have little trouble.

HOW TO HANDLE BROWN PATCH ON LAWN.

Have you any information on what to do with brown spots on a lawn? My lawn was sodded with creeping bent grass two years ago. It looked beautiful last summer until about the first of August. Then these brown spots appeared and spread over almost the entire lawn. It started again almost as soon as the grass began to grow. W. L. V.

REPLY.

Brown patch on lawns is a serious thing. It is caused by fungi penetrating the grass blades and killing them, according to experts who have observed the way this disease works on lawns. Treatments that have been used in the past have often caused more trouble than the disease. The use of Bordeaux mixture, a chemical used in the treatment of brown patch, is no longer recommended by federal government authorities, because copper in the mixture accumulates in the soil and ultimately causes more serious damage than the disease.

Proper watering and fertilizing, however, help to hold these lawn diseases in check. Lawn experts say that where the brown patch disease has a start watering should be done in the morning, instead of the evening, wherever it is possible. They find that plenty of fertilizer, especially nitrogen, is important in aiding grass to recover from the disease, but excess fertilization tends to make turf soft and more susceptible. Too much water causes the same trouble.

Chemicals containing mercury, including chlorophenol, corrosive sublimate, and calomel, are the most effective materials now used in treating lawns troubled with brown patch. They must not be used excessively. For detailed instructions on how to use these chemicals on lawns write to the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

ALBERT J. EARLING.

Albert J. Earling, former president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway and now chairman of the board, has sold his home at 1460 North State parkway to J. Wilkes Ford Jr. of St. Louis, president of the Ford Roofing Products company, for an undisclosed cash consideration of $40,000. The house is three stories high, on a lot 50x132.9 feet and contains about sixteen rooms. Mr. Earling acquired the property about ten years ago for $40,000 and expended about $10,000 on improvements.

The Buck & Rayner corporation bought the ninety-nine year leasehold interest in the 70.75x30.1 feet at the southeast corner of Clark and Randolph and the six story building thereon from the trustees under the Randolph trust agreement, including Frank W. Alter, Robert White, J. Percy Strickland and Ernest H. Lyons. The lease is dated March 1, 1911.

W. D. Kerfoot and company have sold for the Rev. J. Calvin Stewart of Richmond, Va., through J. W. Dooley and company to John R. Thompson 99 feet of frontage by 418 feet deep on the east side of Grand boulevard, south of 44th street, for $32,200, or $325 a front foot. Mr. Thompson bought the property for the purpose of erecting a fine residence for which plans are being made by Wilson & Marshall. The house will be of French Gothic design, having a frontage of 40 feet by a depth of 60 feet.

[on laying in next winter's fuel supply]

To buy or not to buy; that is the question: Whether 'tis wiser to store up another year's hard work in yon empty fuel bin or seize this opportunity to install Gas Heat in my home.

To suffer longer the tolls of smoke and soot, and noisy motors and greasy grime. Grime? Ay, there's the rub! Or by installing Gas now to banish forever these enemies of health and comfort from my home.

To sleep later in the morning—perchance to dream. Untroubled dreams—free from ash-pile ogres and the voracious furnace's maw.

For who would willingly tie himself to such a fiery master—to subjugate his heirs and mistress to its fire-tending chores; his invited guests to its contrary whims.

Too long has habit made slaves of us all. Let not my unfounded fears restrain me longer from these comforts at my door. E'en now I shall phone Wabash 6000 and do it better with Gas.

Superior Sales Opportunities for Keen Salesmen

Our carefully planned, well merchandised sales program calls for three exceptionally capable district sales managers to secure and manage dealers in the several states surrounding Chicago and several well qualified men to work retail with Chicago dealers. Product is a well known oil burner, now in sixth successful year. Priced right and backed by dominating, non-cancellable Tribune advertising campaign. No previous oil burner experience necessary, as intensive sales training and comprehensive portfolio furnished. Applicants must have merchandising sense. Applicants should give age, experience and qualifications when writing for appointment. Morrissey Oil Burner Corporation, 225 N. Michigan Avenue.

Weedless Lawns and Gardens

LABOR saving has appeared in modern gardening. Sulphate of ammonia for the lawns, and paper mulch for the garden rows eliminate hard work and insure rapid growth of grass, flowers and vegetables. Everything a gardener needs or desires is found at Vaughan's Seed Store, founded in 1876, for 53 years the chief source of supply for midwest florists, estates, and home gardens.

Paper Mulch, 1,350 Square Feet, $3.50

This specially prepared paper, laid down between the rows in the garden makes cultivation unnecessary, keeps weeds from growing, and does away with irrigation, and increases enormously the yield. One roll is sufficient for an area 10x50 feet. Comes in 18-inch or 36-inch widths.

Materials for British Lawn Sand

The weed killing formula for British lawn sand recently published in the Daily News calls for ½ lb. sulphate of iron, 1½ lb. sulphate of ammonia to 9 pounds of sand thoroughly mixed. Apply 5 ounces to the square yard. Consistently used, this will eliminate dandelions, crab grass, dock and other weeds from the lawn and stimulate the growth of grass.

Sulphate of ammonia, 5 lbs., 85c; 25 lbs., $2; 100 lbs., $3.75.

Sulphate of iron, 5 lbs., 45c; 25 lbs., $2.45; 100 lbs., $8.50.

Japanese Cherry Trees

We offer three varieties of these wonderful flowering trees. Kwanzan, the handsomest of double flowering pinks; Yoshino, the variety planted on the tidal basin, Washington, D. C., and Seiboldii, late flowering blush pink. Small trees, 4 to 6 feet, each $5.

Tuberoses for Garden Fragrance

A dozen of these deliciously fragrant and beautiful plants will perfume your garden. First size bulbs of best varieties, including Excelsior Dwarf Pearl, 50c; reduced from $1.

Lily of the Valley Clumps

These hardy bulbs will naturalize in a partly shaded spot under shrubs, or beneath a tree. They will spread rapidly and delight you each spring. Large clumps, 35c each, 3 for $1.

Surprise Garden of Flowers, 25c

Our surprise garden mixture is famous among flower lovers for the new varieties it introduces to them. Oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.60.

Plant Lilies Now

You may grow gorgeous lilies without the hazard of fall planting by using our bulbs which have been carried over the winter in cold storage.

Lilium auratum, the gold banded lily, tallest, largest and most beautiful, 45c to $1 each according to size; doz., $4.50 to $8 prepaid.

Lilium tenuifolium (orange lily); thrives under city conditions; each 40c; doz., $4.

Lilium regale, very hardy bearing large fragrant flowers. Each, 40c; doz., $4.

LONDON MARTS DRAW LIFE FROM WALL STREET

Influence of U. S. Is Seen in Buying.

BY SIDNEY CAVE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, May 4.—American financial interests provided the only bright spot in an otherwise deadly dull and dismal market here this week. The Wall street operators were responsible for some of the big buying of industrial equities, which is interpreted by the public that Wall street is now rising superior to local and adverse monetary conditions.

The lead in the industrial market was provided entirely from Wall street, whose influences led at will the fluctuation and erratic movements, which were chiefly confined to the industrial issues, such as Associated Electric, which were run up sharply in all, and General Electric, to well over 30 again, American buying giving rise to rumors of a working agreement under American initiation.

The Gramophone group was also the center of unusual activity consequent to persistent New York rumors of a coming merger, while international favorites, like International Nickel, Brazilian Traction, and Rhodesian copper shares, wer enotably under American influence.

Under ordinary circumstances the London market would immediately respond to America's cheery influence, but with the general election shadow affecting the stock exchange abnormally there is a natural tendency to wait and see which way the political cat will jump. But with a healthy market position existing and the prospect of still more favorable monetary conditions there is little ground for pessimism regarding the market outlook, although some sections fear that political uncertainty after the elections may continue as a market factor.

Await Political Changes.

The London stock exchange is usually wrong in its gloomy predictions of election verdicts and results, which is probably the reason why many brokers, sensing that a stalemate will result, are at present advising investors to stand from under temporarily until they see the outcome of the next political change.

Almost the only public business—and that is small—is directed at the gilt edged investment section, which explains the continued strength of that section in contrast with the lethargy of the other markets, notwithstanding the enlivening flip due to the Bank of England increasing its gold holdings.

The prevailing market view, however, is that, whatever the result, there will follow a decided revival of activity. Operators argue that if there is a Conservative or Liberal majority, or a majority by combination of both, the markets are certain to respond satisfactorily. But even if Labor comes to power, which in stock exchange views is the worst that can happen, its effect as a depressing factor is expected to be of short duration.

The recent developments in the European monetary situation, of which which the most important was the rise in the German bank rate, have not largely affected the London market. The German development attracted particular attention because it was almost coincident with the reparations deadlock. Lombard street opinion, however, agrees that the advance in the reichsbank's rate is unconnected with the political situation, being entirely due to the weakened condition of the reichsbank as indicated by the loss of approximately 50,000,000 marks, due to spending gold and gold exchange reserve since the beginning of the year.

Gold Flow Accelerated.

The Bank of England's inflow of gold was accelerated this week by the purchase of bars and the release of sovereigns for a large total, the net movement being the influx of £2,125,000. Where the gold came from originally is something of a mystery, as the announcement of the bank's purchase of bar gold came at a time when no bar gold was in the market. The purchase may represent a special operation of private character, but it is whispered that it is of Russian source, although it might equally well have come from Germany or Holland. But the mystery of its origin does not lessen the importance of the transaction, and as far as the gold situation is concerned events since the London bank rate's advance early in February have been wholly satisfactory to the Bank of England, as it has increased its holdings since that date by more than £8,250,000.

PARIS BOURSE FIRMER

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, May 4.—Financial markets here showed a good disposition during the first part of the week and prices were sensibly higher, particularly in the departments most affected during the last part of the previous week. Bank stocks were especially notably better and French rentes showed further proof of firmness.

Apparently after a few days' reflection the market realized that last week's scare with its accompanying sickness in trading was unjustified by conditions. Many traders believe that big forward movements are being prepared, although there are no signs of this apparent. When the experts' conference on reparations is over, and if the results are favorable, there is no doubt there will be plenty of buyers, but no predictions can be given credence at present.

The last session of the week on Friday—an summer regulations came into effect on May 1 and the Paris bourse is closed on Saturdays—was very calm, but the market was still fundamentally resistant.

CHICAGO BANK STOCK TRADING EXPANDS; PRICES WORK HIGHER

The trading volume in bank stocks showed an expanding tendency last week and prices generally worked higher.

Continental Illinois Bank and Trust enjoyed the heaviest turnover, and closing prices of 792 to 795 showed a 20 point gain from the low of the week. Chicago Trust added 55 points to its recent rise and closed in good demand at 660 bid, but there was little interest on the selling side. Northern Trust was in excellent request and rose 50 points to 850 bid. Foreman National after early sales at 1,040 was in supply at this price.

First National climbed 37 points to 867 bid, offered at 872. The rights were 2 points better at 11 to 11¼. National Bank of the Republic was again in good favor, and after early sales at 250 improved to 256 bid, offered at 259. Peoples Trust and Savings, Straus National, and State Bank of Chicago were loggy; closing prices follow: 528 to 533; 330 to 335; 730 to 735. Central Trust was heavy, declining from early sales at 605 to a close of 590 bid, 595 asked.

Moline Implement shares featured the unlisted group, being run up 40 points to 205 bid, offered at 215, ex-dividend $25. Chicago Title and Trust rose 4 points to 611 bid, offered at 615. Aviation Securities reversed its trend of a week ago and gained 10 points at 46½ to 47½. Gillette Rubber was slightly easier at 30½ to 32½. Greenebaum Investment was in good demand, improving a point and a half to 43. Jenkins Television was steady at 11 to 11⅜.

Chicago Daily News common was 5 points better at 46 to 48, while the preferred was a little better at 99¼ to 100. Elgin National Watch was in supply at 62, with best bids at 60, off 1. Federal Electric was 2 points easier, being traded in at 109; the preferred was unchanged at 115 to 119. Sales in Godchaux Sugar first preferred ranged between 87 and 89. Woods Brothers' common was 3 points higher, and bids of 42 for stock failed to attract sellers.

AGREE ON MERGER OF CONTINENTAL MARLAND OIL CO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—Consolidation of the Continental Oil company and the Marland Oil company has been agreed upon and special meetings of the stockholders of both companies will be called shortly to ratify the plan, it was announced today. The merger, which has been under negotiation for several months, will bring into one organization total assets of close to $200,000,000.

D. J. Marland, president, said the operation will be carried out through the purchase by Marland of all the assets and properties of Continental, for which Marland will exchange 2,317,265 of its no par capital stock. This exchange basis figures out at about $1.57 a share of Continental for every share of Marland.

Upon approval of the plan of reorganization and consummation of the merger, Mr. Marland announced, the name of the Marland company will be changed to the Continental Oil company. The interests now represented by the stockholders of Continental will be given representation in the management and on the board of directors of the new Continental company.

ADMITS PLANS FOR COMBINING WITH RADIO CORP.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—Sir George Kroydon Marks, chairman of the Columbia Graphophone Company, Ltd., said today upon his arrival from England on the S. S. Aquitania, that merger possibilities between Columbia Graphophone and the Radio Corporation of America had been under discussion for some time.

"Although no terms have been arranged," Sir George said, "a fusion of the two companies would seem both logical and practical. Certainly the consummation of a merger would be of tremendous benefit to both companies."

There have been several reports in Wall street that conversations between bankers interested in Columbia and officials of the R. C. A. have been proceeding abroad for some months, but Sir George's statement was the first official admission of this fact.

Cites Effects of Excessive Freight Rates

BY SCRUTATOR.

Tinkering with railroad rates these days seems to be based on a theory that the transportation burden of the United States can be shifted from one commodity to another or from one district to another by the interstate commerce commission without disturbing the amount of traffic in the commodities on which rate raises are made.

As an illustration of this type of thinking, we have the revenue test conducted by eastern railroads in the eastern class rate investigation and presented to the commission in April. A further showing is to be made on May 8, when shippers will be given a chance to argue against the proposed raise.

The railroads estimated that if rates recommended by Howard Hosmer, an attorney-examiner, had been in effect in 1925, their revenues would have been greater by from 43 million to 60 million dollars that year. The method they followed was this: First an accurate check was made of the receipts collected from actual shipments via the roads involved over a period of twelve days, with agricultural products, iron, and steel eliminated from the test. They next figured what the increase would have been on these shipments, multiplied by 25.5 to bring the ratio of twelve days up to the total number of days on which freight was received, and got the answer—$43,882,873.

Congress Has Same Idea.

This would be a correct figure if traffic remained at the same volume level. Apparently the railroads, who want the new mileage scales in effect, assume that all the shippers will continue to stand the raise and ship just as much and just as often.

Congress in passing the Hoch-Smith resolution seemed to have the same general idea. In effect it asked the interstate commerce commission to favor industries which were in distress by giving them more favorable rates and getting the needed revenues to replace the lost ones by piling up the amounts that industries not in distress should pay.

As a matter of fact, rate increases kill a lot of rail traffic. If we go back to 1894 we find that for every inhabitant in the United States the railroads moved four tons of freight one mile every day. By 1920 they were moving around thirteen tons a day per capita. A rate increase of 40 per cent was put into effect, and the ton miles per person per day fell to something less than ten. The 40 per cent increase had killed so much traffic, or shifted it to other means of transport, that the advantage in total revenue was almost wiped out.

Since that time there has been a gain, but on this basis the roads are still carrying a lesser percentage of the country's shipments than they were in 1920. The shippers simply would not pay the higher rates if they could avoid it.

Experience of Ink Company.

A specific instance is an ink company that formerly was located in a Massachusetts town. It sold its product to newspapers in Chicago. When the 40 per cent advance was put into the rate structure it lost out. The local customers left this concern to deal with others nearer Chicago, solely because of high freight charges. Rather than lose all his business the Massachusetts manufacturer came here, obtained contracts at a lower rate, and established a new plant to make ink in a Chicago suburb.

The railroads lost not only the revenue on all the hauling of the finished product, but they also get no road haul on this manufacturer's raw material. It is mostly crude oil and comes to Chicago in pipe lines.

Similar instances could be multiplied. Traffic managers have them at their fingers' tips. They assert that the cost of railroad transportation can no more be raised to uneconomical levels than can the price of automobiles or any other commodities. And most railroad rates in 1929 are higher in comparison with the prices of the commodities on which they are levied than they were, relatively, in 1913.

No one can doubt the power of the interstate commerce commission to authorize the rates or that the railroads can print them, but just as surely no one in the world can compel the shippers to use rail transport if they don't want to.

Bank Clearings Fall Off 7.7 Per Cent for Week

New York, May 4.—Bank clearings show some further reductions at most centers, the total for this week at all leading cities in the United States, according to Dun's Review, of $12,477,384,000 being 7.7 per cent below that of the corresponding week of last year. New York City clearings of $8,781,000,000 are 5.7 per cent less than last year's, while the total for leading centers outside of New York of $3,696,384,000 shows a decline of 12.1 per cent. Bank settlements at this time last year were exceptionally heavy, clearings at a number of the larger centers reaching record figures up to that period.

WESTERN ROADS TO SLASH RATES ON GRAIN, FLOUR

Meet Here Tuesday to Act on Reduction.

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—Voluntary reductions in grain export rates, announced by eastern railroads at the suggestion of the federal administration Friday, will be followed by like reductions in the same rates on the part of western railroads and will be extended to wheat flour.

This was indicated today after conferences by members of the interstate commerce commission with traffic vice presidents of several western trunk lines and representatives of the Hoover administration.

Conrad E. Spens, vice president of the Burlington system and chairman of the railroad committee, announced at the termination of the meetings that he had summoned representatives of all western lines to meet in Chicago Tuesday for the purpose of acting on the request for export grain rate reductions which has been made by the administration.

Would Limit Period.

"As the situation stands, the eastern lines have announced an export grain rate cut amounting to 5½ cents per hundred pounds. If reductions in the west on grain moving to Chicago and St. Louis equal to that amount are granted, the total export transportation charge from western wheat growing areas on grain will be cut 11 cents per hundred pounds, or nearly 7 cents per bushel."

It was understood that western lines were willing to grant the reductions sought for a period limited to next September, but that the protests from milling interests against the failure to include flour had complicated the situation. The Chicago meeting called by Chairman Spens will be attended, it was said, by representatives of southwestern lines reaching the gulf ports and the program to reduce the export charges may be extended to include that movement. One of the southwestern lines, the Kansas City Southern, already has announced a cut of 7 cents a hundred on the gulf export rates.

Say Emergency Exists.

An endeavor will be made to get the wheat flour reduction included in the eastern export cuts. Eastern railroad executives, in announcing the intended action Friday, said that the great accumulation of grain on western farms had created a national emergency and that the rate cuts would be made in an endeavor to help move the old crop into world consumption before the new is ready for harvest.

Applications in behalf of some of the eastern lines were made to the commission today for emergency authority to make the new schedules effective on short notice and without the usual 30 day advance publication, but no action was taken upon them in view of the discussion as to the attitude of western lines and the proposed inclusion of flour.

Stirred by the substantial voluntary reductions in grain freight rates from midwest points to north Atlantic seaboard export centers, Portland, Ore., and Pacific northwest organizations today were reported mustering forces for a concentrated relief program expected to match benefits derived by midwestern and eastern growers.

May Cut Ocean Rates.

With a view to aiding the export of surplus wheat the shipping board is considering the question of reducing ocean rates on grain, Representative Briggs [Dem., Tex.] said today after a conference with shipping board officials. Representative Briggs, who is from Galveston, one of the largest grain exporting ports of America, said the question was being considered with particular reference to exports to European ports, but that no conclusion had been reached because reduction in ocean rates was more complicated than in rail rates.

K. C. RESERVE BANK RAISES REDISCOUNT RATE TO 5 PER CENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4. — Announcement of an increase in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City from 4½ to 5 per cent was made today by the federal reserve board.

This brings the rate of that bank up to the level of most of the other banks, including New York and Chicago. All of the twelve federal reserve banks have maintained a five per cent rate except San Francisco, Minneapolis, and Kansas City. There was nothing to indicate that the reserve board was ready to consent to an increase in rates of banks already on a 5 per cent basis.

W. J. Bailey, governor of the district, said the advance was ordered because of strong money demand and shrinking bank deposits. "The action conforms to our usual policy of keeping the rate in line with commercial credit," he said. "Finances and credits of the district are in good shape and there is no cause for any alarm."

Chicago Stock Prices Gain in Short Session

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

Chicago stocks shook off the usual week-end inertia about fifteen minutes before the close yesterday and prices were run up from one to ten points in spirited trading, which put total sales above the 100,000 share mark for the first Saturday in months.

Auburn Automobile again was a leader as the pool group sent that issue up 10 points to a new high of 210. Modine was another feature of the automotive list, with a three point gain, while Winton Engine closed two points higher. Allied Motor Industries and Great Lakes Aircraft advanced 1½ and a point respectively. Borg-Warner eased fractionally.

Ontario Manufacturing, manufacturer of silver plated cutlery and specialties, sold up three points on reports that first quarter earnings made a good showing.

Leath & Co. was dull and unchanged although announcement was made that it expects to double the furniture manufacturing operations in the Elgin plant around Aug. 1 through the construction of an addition which will add more than 500,000 feet of floor space to the factory.

Grigsby-Grunow recovered 3⅝ points and U. S. Radio advanced two points. Sonatron Tube reflected the entrance of new eastern stock sponsorship with a gain of 1½. Ceco also closed 1½ higher.

William Wrigley Jr. gained four points on light sales. U. S. Gypsum was down a point but was closed up unchanged. Morrell touched a new high of 80 on announcement of a big increase in earnings.

Average Price of Crude Oil Rises Two Cents a Barrel

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—The average price of crude petroleum in ten producing fields was higher last week at $1.67 a barrel, against $1.65 a barrel for the previous week. The average for the corresponding period last year was $1.43 a barrel, according to the Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter.

Universal Pictures, Inc., Operates at $98,023 Loss

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—The stock market today staged a typical week-end performance, backing and filling, and in the end not getting much of anywhere. A further collapse in the Advance Rumely issues, coupled with the usual Saturday profit taking and evening up, caused some weakness in the first hour.

Then came reports from Paris that the American and German delegates had agreed on a plan for settlement of the reparations problem, with the probability that the British, Japanese, French, Belgian, and Italian delegates would be won over. This news brought a rally in stocks.

The net result of the two hours' trading was that final quotations were highly irregular, although favoring the up side. The oils, motors, and rails made the best showing. However, both net gains and losses generally were held to moderate proportions. Trading was in good volume with particular activity in the last hour. Total transactions were 1,900,000 shares, or at the rate of 4,750,000 shares for a full five hour session.

Provides Fireworks.

The Advance Rumely issues provided the fireworks of the session. The common stock broke from 79¼ to 60 and rallied to 69¼, making a net loss of 13¼ points on the day. More than 28,000 shares were dealt in and at one time trading was so wild that stock was being offered on the floor almost ten points below the price carried on the ticker tape. At today's closing price the stock was

Commercial AVIATION

Who Will Make the Profits?

UNQUESTIONABLY there is a great future for commercial aviation. Who will make the profits in the airplane industry? Will it be airplane companies already in existence? Which ones? Or will it be Ford, General Motors, Packard or some other automobile company?

Fortunes have been made in the motor industry, in railroads, in telephone, telegraph, radio, and in all the new and improved methods of transportation and communication.

How can investors secure profits that seem certain to result from commercial aviation? How can they participate in the progress of this new industry?

A special bulletin on this subject has just been prepared for the clients of McNeel's Financial Service, and will be distributed free upon request to interested investors until the supply is exhausted.

Security Salesman

We are increasing our organization and have an opening for a thoroughly experienced security salesman. The man we require must not only be able to supply splendid references, but must also have an established clientele and other desirable contacts.

This is an unusual opportunity for one who is able to qualify. We can also use the services of two or three representatives located in good territories outside of Chicago. Letters or personal interviews will be treated in strict confidence.

GARVAN LIKENS I. G. CHEMICAL TO A TROJAN HORSE

Sees Blow at Chemical Freedom of U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—German dyestuff makers have launched a war to destroy American post war progress in dyes and other chemical processes and thus to recapture the market, according to Francis P. Garvan, formerly alien property custodian, who founded the Chemical Foundation.

He made his charge in a paper responding to the presentation of the medal of the American Institute of Chemists, which was awarded to him and to his wife at a meeting of the institute here tonight.

Mr. Garvan, who took over the German patents in this country and formed the foundation, centered his attack upon the American I. G. Chemical corporation. Announcement was made on April 25 that the corporation would start production in this country as an ally of the I. G. Farbenindustrie Aktiengesellschaft Frankfort-on-the-Main, world known as I. G. Dyes.

Outline Achievements.

The recent disclosure that the American I. G. corporation planned to enter the field here was coupled with the statement that several American leaders in finance and industry would be in the corporation. Assets of the new corporation were then announced as in excess of $60,000,000. Those named as interested in the formation of the corporation were Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank; Edsel Ford, president of Ford Motor company; Walter Teagle, president Standard Oil company of New Jersey, and Paul M. Warburg, chairman of the International Acceptance bank.

Speakers at the medal award had outlined the fight which Mr. Garvan had led to develop American dyestuffs and other chemical products. When Mr. Garvan's response was read it referred to this theme in the remarks of preceding speakers.

"One would think, from the addresses of the other gentlemen, that our fight was largely won," said Mr. Garvan in his response. "I thought so, too. But now it has all got to begin over again. Next week we will carry that fight to the American people and the American congress." Mr. Garvan likened the entry of the German concern into the American industrial field as that of "a Grecian horse labeled 'The American I. G.,'" and added:

Destroys Progress, He Says.

"This horse has been brought in here for the purpose of cutting the throat of our chemical independence, our safety in national defense, and the protection of the health of our children and our children's children—to destroy the progress we have made since we rejected the threats of the German I. G. under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson in 1915.

"It has been brought here by a group of our commission-mad bankers, who have taken $30,000,000 out of the funds in their custody, or under their control, to assist the I. G., under the guise of bonds, in the new war to destroy our chemical progress."

SURVEY REVEALS INTEREST TAKEN IN STOCK MARKET

Business men and women are particularly interested in the fluctuations of the stock markets, a survey compiled by the research department of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, on the sources of individual income of residents of Illinois, shows. According to the latest income tax returns 3.66 per cent of the income of individuals in Illinois came from profits on the sale of stocks and bonds and other assets, while the impressive figure of 12.5 per cent was derived from dividends on securities.

The survey, covering Illinois only, shows that slightly over five per cent of the total population filed income tax returns, the average yearly income being reported at $5,323. While dividends and profits from the increasing value of stocks, bonds and other assets amounted to over 21 per cent of the total, 41.7 per cent of the individual incomes were derived from wages and salaries. Business and partnerships provided 20.89 per cent, while interest and investment income other than stocks is listed at 7.09 per cent. Illinois citizens derived 7.17 per cent of their income from rents and royalties.

GASOLINE AND LINSEED OILS.

GASOLINE—Tank wagon, 14c; service station, 13c. CARBON—Perfection, 13c. FURNACE OIL—Stanolind, tank wagon, 1 to 99 gals, 9c; 100 to 799 gals, 8c; 800 gals or more, 7½c. CHICAGO CURB EXCHANGE

A new peak for weekly sales was set on the Chicago curb at the close of yesterday's session, with a total of 69,689 shares sold. The previous top was made the week ending March 23, with 68,179 shares. Spirited trading in Bendix Aviation the latter half of the week and a revival of brilliant interest were instrumental in setting the new record. Greenebaum Sons Investment company no par common sold initially yesterday above 43.

DELIVERIES OF WHEAT SELL AT LOW PRICE LEVEL

Other Grains Also Weaken and Close Lower.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on in the grain market yesterday, with all deliveries of wheat except the December selling at a new low on the crop, May touching $1.10¾, a drop of 23¼c from the high in February and 14½c under the best figure of the previous week.

Stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down, with prices at the inside showing 1⅞@2⅛c under Friday's finish. Short covering and buying against bids made a fair rally toward the close, but the finish was at net losses of 1⅜@1⅝c, with May $1.10⅝@1.10¾, July $1.15⅛@1.15⅝, September $1.19⅛@1.19⅛, and December $1.23⅜@1.23⅝.

Corn weakened with wheat and on local and commission house selling and closed ⅝@1¼c lower, with December leading. The latter was 38@38¼c at the last, with May 87⅝@87¾c, July 92⅝@93⅛c, and September 94⅝@94¾c. Oats lost ⅝@1c, with May leading. Finish on the latter was at 47¼c, with July 45⅛@45⅝c and September 44¼c. Rye lost only ¼@⅝c, with May 93⅜c, July 94½c, and September 95⅜c.

Grains Lower for Week.

Considering the drastic liquidation which was on in the grain markets a good part of the week net losses were not large, with wheat off 1⅛@1⅜c from the finish of the previous week, corn ¼@2c, and rye off 1@2⅛c for the week, while oats were ½c higher on May, ⅝c lower on July and ¼c higher on September. Lard closed ½c higher to 2½c lower; ribs, 20@25c lower, and bellies, 22½@42½c lower for the week.

A break of 1@1½d in wheat in Liverpool was due to the reduction in freight rates in the United States on export grain to the seaboard and to further pressure of cash grain, and with favorable crop comments from the southwest bringing in general selling. Local operators were bearish, and it took but little selling to start values downward, and support was limited until the July was around $1.15. Winnipeg was weak and 1⅛@1⅜c lower, and May wheat at the opening there was 81.20¾, or ½c over the close of the same delivery at Liverpool. Buenos Aires finished ⅝@1c lower for the day. Export demand was limited.

Freezing temperatures prevailed in the Canadian provinces, and generally fair with temperatures below freezing was expected in the American northwest over the week-end, with frosts in parts of the winter wheat belt. However, the trade paid little attention to bullish news. Deliveries of $11,000 bu wheat on May contracts here went around freely.

General Selling in Corn.

Fairly general commission house and local selling was in evidence in corn, and while local bulls gave support at times the undertone was heavy. There was some buying of corn against sales of wheat by local operators. Shipping demand was fair, with sales of 113,000 bu, while the spot basis was steady to ¾c higher. Cash interests bought May and sold July at 5c difference. Buenos Aires was 1c lower for the day.

Form New Securities Firm Here of A. C. Baur & Co.

Adelbert C. Baur, member of the Chicago stock exchange, has announced the formation of a new securities firm to be known as A. C. Baur & Co. Charles Sincere & Co., brokers, announce the opening of their second branch office in Chicago in the new Foreman National Bank building at 33 North La Salle street.

COTTON RANGE HIGHER

The cotton market showed considerable strength yesterday and prices averaged higher but failed to hold the extreme gain due to profit taking while at the same time others were good buyers and there appeared to be a fair amount of trade buying. Weather conditions were generally favorable, although temperatures are a little low for the season.

Reports from Fall River indicate that the cloth market remains quiet, and without particular feature, while in Worth street a fair business was on. At the close, futures in Chicago were 8 points higher to 2 points lower, while in other markets gains were 5 to 14 points. The Chicago market is open an hour longer than New York or New Orleans on Saturday and the late weakness in grains had a depressing influence. Spots advanced 15 points with New York 19.90c, New Orleans, 18.90c, with sales 1,247 bales. Houston was 18.80c with sales 665 bales, and Galveston, 18.80c, with sales 819 bales. Prices follow:

EGG FUTURES EASIER

An easier undertone prevailed in the egg future market on the Chicago mercantile exchange, with profit taking by longs a feature. Storage packed April for May first sold and finished at 30¼c, while June were unchanged at 29¾c. November refrigerators, new, lost ¼c and closed at 26½c, while old were ¼c lower at 28½c. Sales were 266 cars and receipts 27,504 cases.

Production of butter remains fairly good and storage stocks increasing. December closed 1c lower at 42¾c. Sales were 19 cars and receipts 13,440 tubs.

BY MY FEE, FIE, FO AND FUM-
I'LL KNOCK THIS BALL TO KINGDOM COME!

SO YOU'RE THE ORIGINAL GIANT, EH? YOUR SCORE WILL BE ONE GOLDEN GOOSE EGG WHEN I GET THROUGH WITH YOU!

PERRY, COME BACK HERE!! WHERE DO YOU THINK YOU'RE GOING??

AW, I GOT A' BIG GAME ON TODAY AND I'M CAPTAIN OF OUR TEAM-

WELL, YOU'RE GOING TO STAY HOME TODAY FOR A CHANGE AND AMUSE LITTLE ARCHY SPIFF, WHILE I ENTERTAIN HIS MOTHER—SO NO ARGUMENTS!

AH'H - HE'S ONLY A LITTLE TEENY BABY!! AW JINKS— I'M NO NURSE GIRL!!

RUN ALONG AND PLAY NICELY TOGETHER AND PERRY - BE VERY CAREFUL WITH ARCHY!

IT'S SUCH A PLEASURE TO HAVE ARCHY PLAY WITH PERRY! I NEVER PERMIT HIM TO PLAY WITH OTHER CHILDREN AS A RULE!

WELL SAPPO— WHAT DO YOU THINK WE'RE GOING TO PLAY?

MY NAME ITHENT THAPPO! MY NAME ITH ARCHY AN' I WANNA PLAY HORTHY!!

HORSY?!! I S'POSE YOU THINK I'M GOING TO GET DOWN ON MY HANDS AND KNEES AND BE A HORSE FOR YOU, HUH?? WELL, GUESS AGAIN, KID!

I CAN'T GETH! WHAT DO YOU WANNA PLAY??

ME? I WANT TO PLAY BASEBALL— AND ONLY FOR YOU, I WOULD BE PLAYING RIGHT NOW!!!

I DON'T KNOW HOW TO PLAY BATHE-BALL!!

NO— A KID LIKE YOU WOULDN'T!! C'MON— I'LL READ YOU A STORY!!!

OOH— I LIKE TO HEAR A TH-TORY!!

READ ME THE ONE 'BOUT THE GIANT!

OH— YOU MEAN JACK THE GIANT-KILLER! I DON'T HAVE TO READ THAT ONE— I KNOW IT BACK-WARDS!!!

MISS WINKLE— DO COME HERE AND SEE HOW LOVELY THE CHILDREN ARE AMUSING THEMSELVES! PERRY IS READING ARCHY A STORY!

PERRY CAN BE SO SWEET WHEN HE WANTS TO!

AN' JACK'S OLD LADY BAWLED HIM OUT, SO JACK BEAT IT OUT AN' CLUMB UP TH' BEAN-POLE TILL HE SEEN TH' GIANT! HE CALLED TH' GIANT A BIG, FAT, OVERGROWN SLOB AN' SOCKED HIM IN TH' BEEZER WITH A ROCK! THEN JACK GRABBED A' HEN AND SLID FOR HOME. TH' HEN LAID HARD-BOILED EGGS FOREVER AFTER!!

HEAVENS! SUCH LANGUAGE! AND RIGHT BEFORE MY ARCHY TOO!! I'LL TROUBLE YOU FOR OUR CLOTHES, MISS WINKLE!!

I'M SO SORRY MRS. SPIFF— ER-ER- I'LL TEND TO YOU LATER, YOUNG MAN!

IT'LL HAVE TO BE LATER THAN THAT, BECAUSE I'M GONNA PLAY BALL!!

Newest Fashions from Paris

From the house of Paul Poiret comes this printed silk and rayon crepe in shades of brown and tan—autumnal shades which Spring, 1929, ingeniously sponsors. Graceful back drapery, a higher waistline and interesting contrast between the material and its decorative border command attention to this afternoon frock. The material is supple and sheer.

The jeweled strap over one shoulder and the radiating fullness from the knees show the unusualness of this Irene Dana evening gown done in the new sunburn shade of Ninon.

Schiparelli conceived this ultra-modern street ensemble of black and plaid printed permanent moire. The herringbone effect in the skirt is achieved by a clever pleating of the plaid print.

Suzanne Talbot utilizes a decidedly new color combination of turquoise and dark blue in this afternoon dress of Crepe Amcella.

The value of the draped line is seen in this Lucien Lelong evening wrap of black Celanese permanent moire, with lining of white satin. To the cape design is added the long, panel-like bow falling from the shoulders.

Lack of back to catch the sun and, if needed, a voluminous cape to protect, are featured in this Schiparelli bathing ensemble of Celanese tricot.

This classical black net evening gown, an original Molyneux model, is touched with added genius in the fine beige rayon and silk lace accentuating a dipping shoulder cape and two back tiers, the lowest forming a train. (All photographs from Fab studio.)

Next to nothing—pink net side-fastening Nemo-flex girdle, No. 225 (left). "Ventilated" elastic panels lightly boned. $2.50

Cool · Dainty · Sheer Fabrics Slender · Feminine Lines

a flock of lovely new Nemo-flex Garments flutters in for Nemo Week!

MAY sixth to eleventh is Nemo week! In all the better stores the smart new models Nemo-flex has designed for spring and summer will be arranged in special display.

There'll be a whole flock of lovely new things you've never seen before—exquisite fabrics in delicate pale pinks, sheer, cool, airy! And what perfection of dainty workmanship, what fascinating little touches of laces, ribbons, tiny bows!

There's an adorable girdle and bandeau set that no young girl could resist—Dresden pink rosebuds on pale pink crepe de chine! Clouds of pink net have been transformed into brassieres, girdles . . . combinations even!

Combinations with new mesh tops are cool for hot days, and others of lace and net are enchanting for evening wear.

Special elastic webbing in an open mesh weave has been used for summer comfort. Washable silks are irresistible! Oh, there's no end to the pretty things Nemo Week is bringing in this year!

Yet all of them are practical! Though so light and sheer and dainty, it's amazing how they are fashioned to restrain hips just enough, to uphold the abdomen, to flatten the back, to round and cup the bust! Just enough support for summer, deliciously cool and comfortable, adorable to behold! And washable every one!

In all the stores, throughout Nemo Week, courteous saleswomen and skillful fitters will be at your service to help you choose from this fascinating array, to try on and adjust the Nemo-flex garments that best meet your figure's special needs!

"Breezies"—an open-mesh fabric—and rayon-striped open weave batiste make this cool Nemo-flex combination, No. 96-665. "Aero web" open weave elastic panels and Wonderlift Inner Girdle (patented). $6.50

The net of the summer question lies in this cool, boneless, Nemo-flex combination, No. 25-500, of pink net. Side panels of rayon-ribbed elastic. Uplifting bust. $5

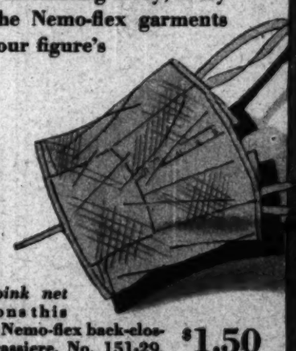
A mere wisp of pink, yet it cups the bust youthfully—Nemo-flex bandeau, No. 101-19, of pale pink two-ply net, with two-hook back-fastening. $1

So sheer and yet so firm is this Nemo-flex back-hooking garter brassiere, No. 355-26 (above left), of pale pink net reinforced with rayon batiste. Side gores of elastic, four garters. $3.50

Your one and only "undie!" for you'll use no other when you wear this Nemo-flex boneless pantie combination, No. 27-750 (above right). Satin-striped rayon, batiste reinforced, pantie ruffle of tricot. $7.50

A dainty scalloped edge finishes this sheer little uplift bandeau of two-ply pale pink net, Nemo-flex model, No. 150-87, for low cut frock. $1.50

Pink crepe de chine makes this delicious girdle, Nemo-flex model No. 303. Side panels of rayon-ribbed elastic, two front bones, and two longer in back. $3



Pale pink net fashions this dainty Nemo-flex back-closing brassiere, No. 151-29. $1.50

When you are caught in this dainty net, you'll look slimmer than a pink sweet pea! Nemo-flex girdle No. 325, side panels of rayon elastic, three bones in front, three in back. $3.50

Gather ye rosebuds while ye may! Dresden [illegible] buds on pink crepe de chine fashion this [illegible] Nemo-flex set of girdle and bandeau (above). Side-closing girdle, No. 525, lined with [illegible] tiste, side panels of rayon elastic. $5

Bandeau, No. [illegible] combines crepe de chine, to match the girdle, with jersey. $1.50

Not a bone to hamper you in this exquisite combination of embroidered lace and net, Nemo-flex model No. 25-[illegible]. Cut low in back for evening wear. Batiste lining. Elastic side panels tapering to a point above waist to give a princess line. $7.50

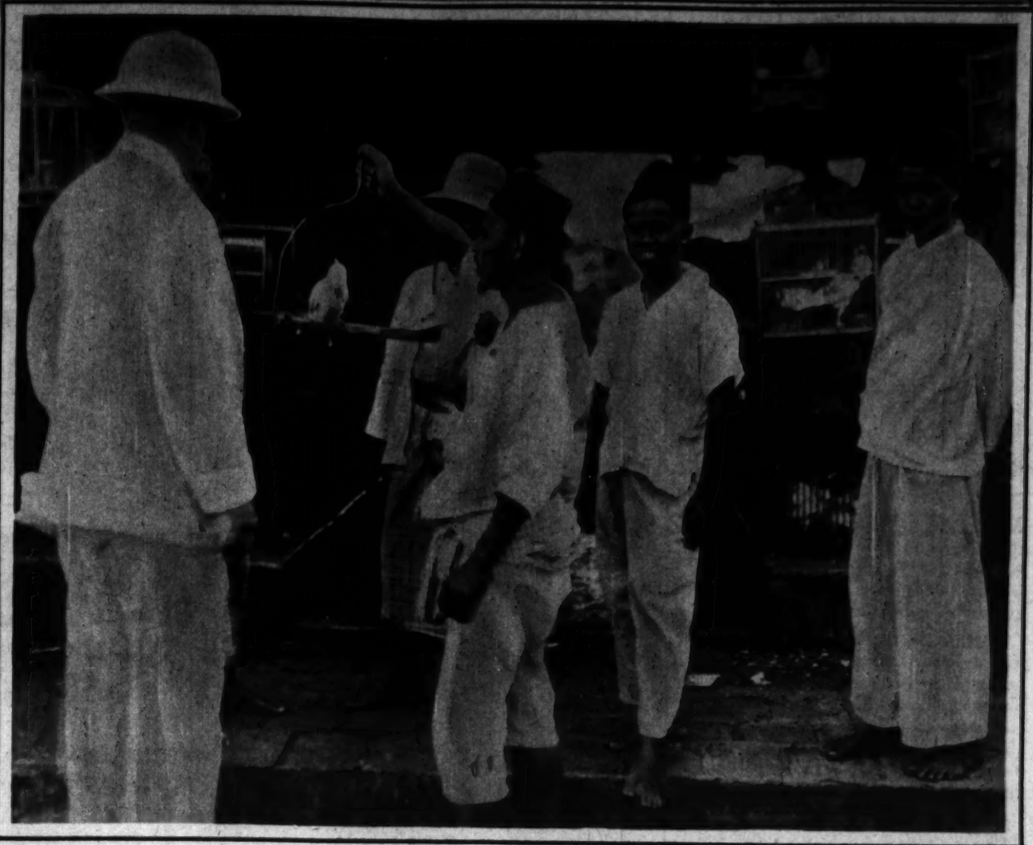
SHOPPING THE WORLD OVER—The wares of the ever-present Hindu merchant have a wide range, but ultimately he is almost sure to produce a few gems from a hidden pocket. His prices are scaled according to the knowledge and skill of his customer.



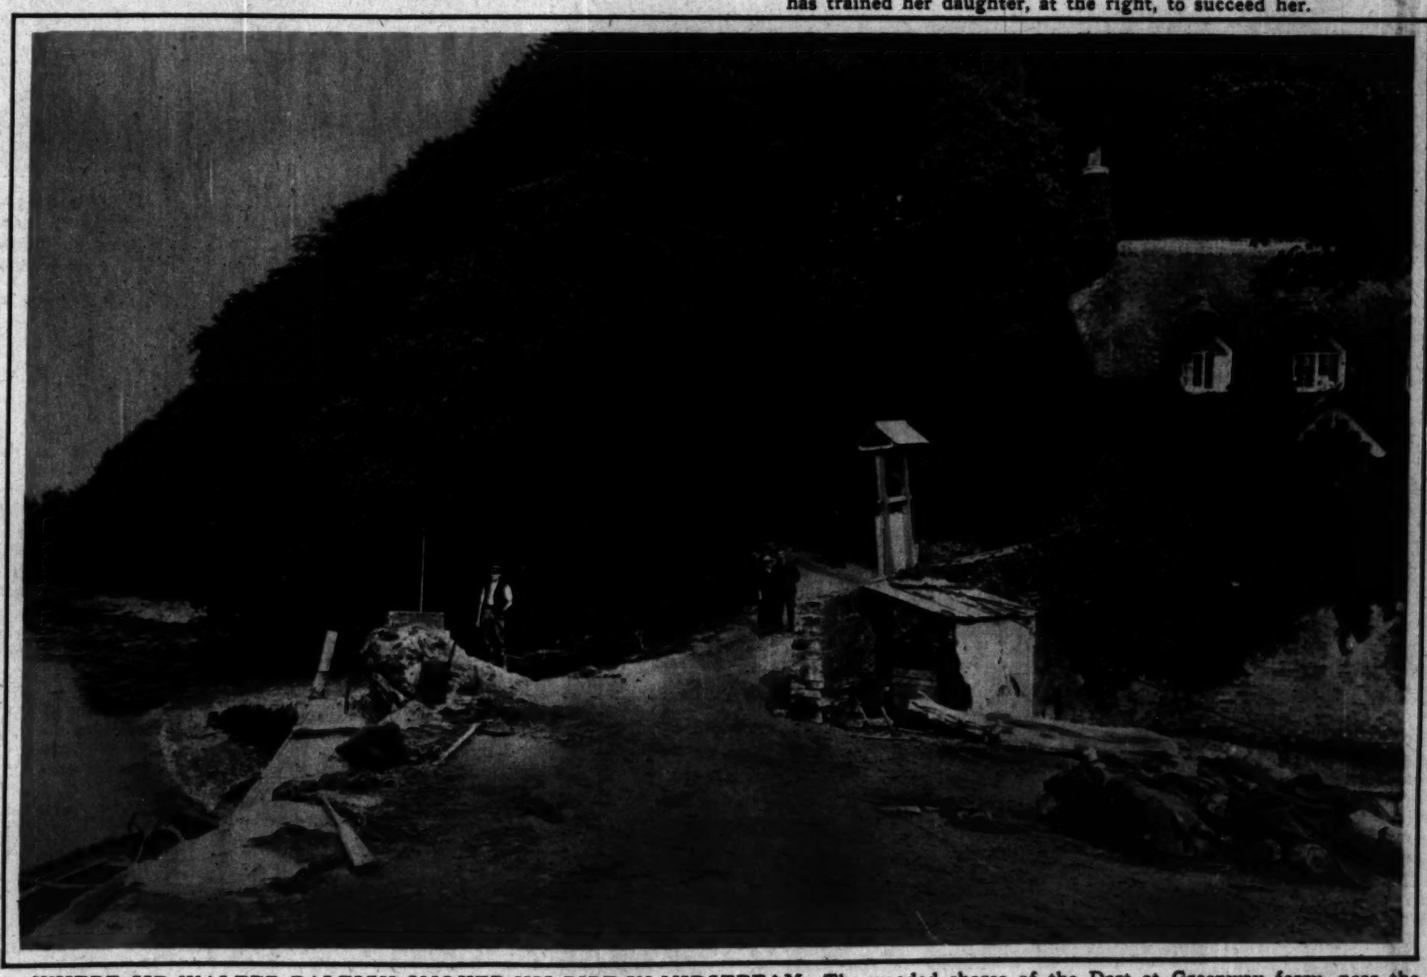
IT IS A HARDENED TRAVELER who can withstand the blandishments of the oriental bird dealer. Every port has its sidewalk markets, where exotic specimens may be obtained in all colors. Except for parrots and canaries, however, few birds bought in the tropics survive northern climes.

SNARING THE TOURIST—Subtle traders are Chinese, and this old boy is well aware that the American business man nowadays has a weakness for ship models. He has taken his teakwood affair to a cruising vessel at Hongkong, where he will have a customer before long.

A JAVANESE BATIK WORKER—The standard fabric in this far eastern country is made from fine English cotton. The cloth comes out with rich coloring and soft texture, similar to velvet, but no fewer than twenty-one handlings are required to bring this about. Nearly all visitors in Java buy batik.

JAPAN'S RICH EMBROIDERIES intrigue American women when taken aboard ship by smiling and soft-spoken Yokohamans, who offer their fabrics at surprisingly low prices. After twenty years of selling silks to occidentals, the woman in the background has trained her daughter, at the right, to succeed her.

MANNEQUIN—Daughter of a Dutch merchant in Batavia, Java, this little maid displays costumes to the artists with mask ball prizes in mind. The bodice and headdress are of black velvet, with old gold braid and embroidery, and the skirt, or "sarong," is of batik.



WHERE SIR WALTER RALEIGH SMOKED HIS PIPE IN MIDSTREAM—The wooded shores of the Dart at Greenway ferry, near the picturesque Devonshire seaport of Dartmouth, call to peace and calm from the hurry and worry of the world. Sir Walter is said to have made a smoking den of a rock in the river near here—which wouldn't be such a bad idea for some pipe smokers of today. (Photograph from Associated Press.)

Colorful Rooms planned by Miss Anne Morgan and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt—

The 28 story A. W. A. Club-house—1250 individual living bedrooms for business and professional women, at rates from $10 to $25 a week.

1250 delightful rooms in the new Club-house of the American Woman's Association at 353 West 57th Street New York . . .

A MAGNIFICENT pine-panelled library, a pool, a theatre, a gymnasium, roof gardens, a ballroom, lounges, restaurants. And 1250 delightful living-bedrooms for business and professional women.

What an amazing thing is this most complete, most modern, most luxurious of women's club-houses! And what a tribute to the rare idealism and boundless energy of its President, Miss Anne Morgan and to the exquisite taste of its Chairman of Furnishing, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt.

The lovely private rooms are havens of rest and comfort. As Mrs. Vanderbilt says, "We wanted to give our residents, women who lead busy, active lives, a place where they might live in privacy and yet among their friends! Sunny, cheerful rooms that would rent from $10 to $25 per week were our goal."

Economy and comfort were of primary importance. Although strictly budgeted, Mrs. Vanderbilt achieved these charming rooms at a very moderate cost though she used only the finest quality furnishings. She says, "We felt none but the finest beds would suffice for women who need their rest."

Simmons Beds, with their durable finishes, were Mrs. Vanderbilt's choice throughout. Each of the 1250 rooms has its Simmons Bed, attractive in line, beautifully finished and suiting the individual decorative scheme perfectly. On this page, you see four of the scores of designs, a Windsor, a four poster, a quaint spool bed, and a gay modern.

READ in the captions what four leading professional and business women who are residents of the Club-house say of their delightful beds!

Comfort goes hand in hand with beauty in these charming rooms for the beds are fitted with Beautyrest Mattresses and Ace Springs, also by Simmons. Miss Morgan herself, insisted upon them. "Since I use them myself," she says, "I know of their comfort and reliability."

You can buy Simmons Beds in all furniture and department stores, $10 to $60; No. 1025, $18.50; No. 1850, $37.50; No. 1636, $35.00. Simmons Beautyrest Mattress, $39.50; Simmons Ace Box Spring, $42.50; Simmons Ace Open Coil Spring, $19.75. Look for the name "Simmons." The Simmons Company, New York, Chicago, Atlanta, San Francisco.

Miss Anne Morgan, President of the American Woman's Association, whose vision, faith and energy were largely instrumental in creating this great club-house. Miss Morgan says:

"Although the A. W. A. Club-house was designed primarily to meet the needs of the progressive business and professional women of New York City, our transient rooms are always available for visitors, and those who come more frequently to New York we look forward to having join us as members.

"Our bedrooms are not only colorful with gay chintzes and tinted walls, but models of ease and convenience. Simmons Beds, Springs, and Mattresses have been used throughout and since I use them myself I know of their comfort and reliability."

Miss Florence Allen Mastick, an interior decorator, and resident of the Club-house, says, "The smart little Simmons beds fill their corners most appropriately."

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, who, as Chairman of the Furnishing Committee, worked directly with the decorators, Burnet-Clark, Ltd. She says, "We had to budget ourselves very carefully, yet we felt we must not economize on our sleeping equipment—none but the finest beds would suffice for women who need their rest. Our choice was Simmons! These pleasing beds in charming wood finishes and gay colors were perfect for our needs."

Mrs. Ada Werrenrath, who paints delightful landscapes, says of her room in the Club-house, "The pretty beds are so pleasing. I like their simplicity, their good lines and coloring. And I literally sink to sleep on my Beautyrest Mattress."

An attractive room in old blue and burnt orange. Simmons "spool" Bed No. 1850. May be had in maple finish and two shades of green.

Miss Helen W. Swayne is a busy moving picture executive of the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation. She says, "The beds are ever so pretty—I'm proud of my room. And these Simmons Springs and Mattresses are magic positively—the way they make one sleep!"

How inviting this room appears at the end of a busy day—with chintzes in buff, blue and rose, and a little four-poster Simmons Bed No. 1025. Comes in walnut finish, maple, or blue, decorated.

Madame Della Samoiloff, a singer of note, recently with the Chicago Civic Opera says, "My sweet little room at the A. W. A. Club-house invites me with its cosy comfort and I sink down onto my Simmons bed for a night of wonderful rest."

Colorful A. W. A. room with green walls and Simmons Bed No. 1636 It comes in orchid, blue-green, gray, or walnut finish, decorated.

This colorful room in the Club-house is brilliant in lacquer red and Chinese yellow. On a red lacquer stand, a mirror lamp reflects all the color and charm of the room, the gay chintzes—the intimate secretary and the demure Windsor Bed by Simmons. This model comes in walnut finish, blue-green, and light green.

Each of the 1250 rooms of the A. W. A. Club-house is furnished with a charming Simmons Bed which harmonizes delightfully with the decorative scheme. And, for superb comfort, each bed is equipped with Simmons Ace Springs and Beautyrest Mattresses. Prices are quoted below.

Simmons Beautyrest Mattresses and Ace Springs were chosen by Mrs. Vanderbilt, because of their marvelous comfort, to equip every bed in the A. W. A. Club-house. She says, "In their damask covers, in a choice of six lovely colors, the Beautyrest Mattresses and Ace Springs harmonize beautifully with the individual decorative schemes. And their comfort is unsurpassed."

"La Loie Silvel" the durable TRANSPARENT VELVET

THE most popular type of formal evening wrap is the softly feminine coat or cape of "La Loie Silvel"—the durable Transparent Velvet . . . With the sheer chiffons and supple crêpes of the summer mode, these velvet wraps—frequently flounced and tiered—lend to the ensemble a luxurious richness universally flattering to the face and figure, whether in gayly contrasting colors or in the pastel shades so effective with sun-tan complexions.

Discovered ... by a million small home owners

—the big-estate method of assuring success with lawns, flowers, gardens, shrubs, trees

YOU see it more often now—the kind of lawn you used to find only on big estates. One clean sweep, unbroken in its rich green color.

You see more and finer flowers, too. You see thicker hedges, leafier shrubs and trees.

And if you've had a taste of the new kind of home grown vegetables—crisper, juicier—you'll surely realize there's been a change in our everyday gardening.

For there has! A million home owners have adopted it.

They have discovered a successful method long known to expert gardeners on America's finest estates.

They are feeding their lawns and flowers, their shrubs and trees, their garden vegetables. For they have learned that all plants require food, just like human beings.

That like human beings, plants must have the right kind of food to thrive at their best. The right elements, all the elements, the right proportions!

Such a food is Vigoro, used now by a million home owners. Complete, scientifically balanced. Originally formulated, by Swift & Company plant food experts, for professional use.

Clean, odorless, pleasant to handle, Vigoro can be sown by hand like grass seed.

It produces vigorous root systems, early growth—makes plants more resistant to diseases. It increases the humus in the soil. It helps choke out weeds!

And the cost is only 10c to 20c for every 100 square feet. Beautify your grounds. Enjoy more and better vegetables from your own garden. Improve your property and increase its value.

Full directions in every bag—100, 50, 25 lb. sizes; 5 lb. packages.

Vigoro is sold everywhere—by a dealer near you. Get enough of this plant food now for everything you grow.

A glimpse of the velvety lawn and bright beds of flowers grown by Henry M. Camp, 16 Primrose Street, Washington, D. C. "Vigoro is the most resultful, satisfactory plant food I have used," says Mr. Camp.

"With Vigoro my lawn, flowers and shrubs were more luxuriant than ever before," states George E. Everitt, Decatur, Georgia, who grew this beautiful specimen of canna.

The beautiful estate of George Ade, at Brook, Indiana—kept in perfect condition with Vigoro. "It makes the grass velvety, green and thick," says Clifford James, the head gardener. "It develops flowers rapidly—unusually large, beautiful blossoms."

Science sat at her feet

and learned that sparkling white teeth usually come to people who live largely on fresh fruit. "How," said Science to himself, "can I put this same fruit-whitener into a tooth paste?" By long experimenting Science learned that for this "whitener" to do its work it must be kept fresh, separate, so it is full strength at the moment of use. "Eureka," said Science. "I'll put it in a separate inner tube!" So was born the only "fresh-whitener" tooth paste. You'll see the stain-removing whitener come out on your brush, a cheery red inner cream—and the white accompanying creams are what keep your gums healthy, protect against decay, and keep your mouth fresh, cool and fragrant. Give New Mix one trial. You never saw anything like it. You'll never use anything else. Gilmont Products Corporation, New York City.

Few men realize how much the pajama drawstring interferes with sound, true sleep. Hard, unyielding, and tightly drawn (or the trousers fall down) it hinders circulation and prevents muscles from completely relaxing. It's just like so much rope around the waist!

Here's Sound Sleep for you!

—and you'll say they're the first real sleeping pajamas you've ever worn!

They stay up without noticeable waistline pressure

IN THE stores that sell Faultless pajamas, you can spend hours, or moments, regally shopping for sleeping garments as rich as ever Oriental caravan has carried from the East.

Fine stylings, the very latest models, and a gallant play of colors, are combined in an assortment of pajamas from which you can suit any taste, whether it be the simplest or the most gay. Coat models of percale and silk with fashionable turned-down collars or with low-cut necks vie with youthful buttonless pajamas of broadcloth and madras. All full-cut, carefully and correctly tailored.

Here, too, is the exclusive feature that in two years has made Faultless Nobelts the most popular pajamas of today . . . the famous Nobelt waistband (banished forever . . . the unsightly, uncomfortable pajama drawstring)!

Broad, flat and freshly resilient, the Nobelt waistband not only prevents pajamas from slovenly bunching and wrinkling, but it permits sound and restful sleep. The Nobelt contains no rubber threads to cut into the flesh. Its elasticity is woven by a special process into the soft fabric of which it is made. It expands and contracts with every movement of your body, even with the slight muscular variations of quiet breathing. It adds real comfort to the colorful style you'll find in Faultless pajamas.

If you have not yet worn these 20th century sleeping garments, shop for a pair. We invite you to buy yourself nights of deep, refreshing rest! The Faultless Manufacturing Company, Baltimore, Maryland. Chicago Sales Office: Republic Building, 209 South State Street. New York Sales Office: 452 Fifth Ave. (at 40th Street).

Faultless Nobelt Pajamas

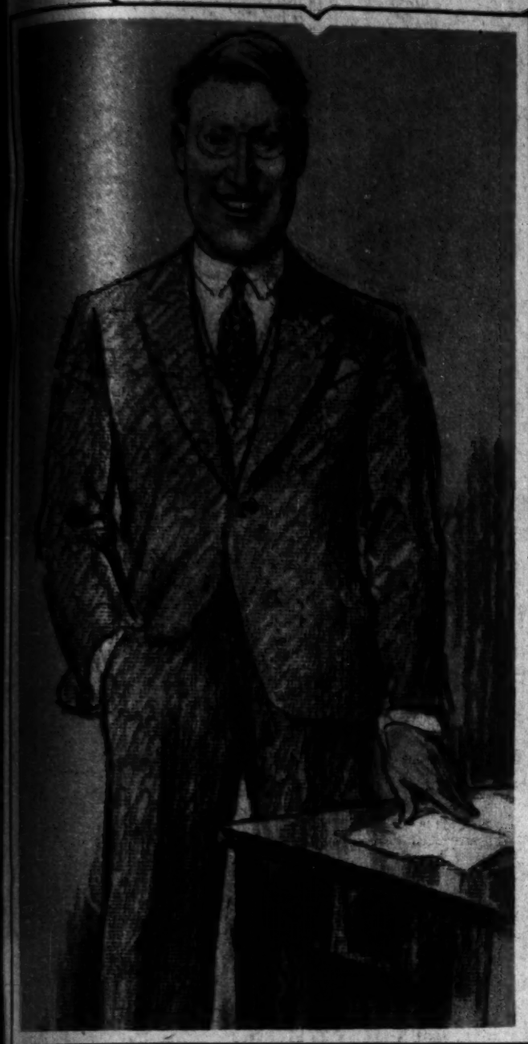
The Great American Film Industry

By W. E. Hill

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]



Herman, of the publicity department for True Heart Pictures, Inc., is always glad to see the reporters, even though they are little nuisances at times. "There's a swell story for you," says Herman, "over on stage 8. Dolores Meehan has just been elected chairman of the committee that's getting up 'Eat More Liver Week'!"

Publicity stuff. This is called an interview, and it is just like being received by royalty. Miss Viva Del Vista, popular motion picture star, surrounded by her staff, is granting an audience to a simple newspaper boy. Miss Del Vista's personal secretary is toying with some new stills, just in case, while Miss Del Vista's personal press representative is telling the thrilled emissary of the Sunday edition all about how Miss Del Vista's great success in the talkies is due to the fact that before she memorizes her lines she gets the sense of them. "And," concludes the P. P. R., "I'm going to give you some news that hasn't been released before now. You know the little white dog that played with Miss Del Vista in 'The Passionate Sinner'? Well, that same little dog is going to be with her in 'Always a Lady,' the new release, a screen version of 'Madame Bovary'."

The producer. This is Wibert O. Mazuma, where the money comes from. Sometimes it comes more readily than at others. Just now Mr. Mazuma is retrenching, owing to a little matter of three million or so which sank out of sight when the last Mazuma feature flopped.

Wilma, the double, has been pinch-hitting for Evelyn Pattypat in times of stress for three years now. Whenever the script demands that the heroine plow through a blinding snowstorm of salt and ground rice, or be thrown off a cliff, or be stepped on by an elephant, they use Wilma.

While they are shooting the talkie, Bernie, the doorman, guards the way to the soundproof stage. Try to get by him while the red lights are on.

The studio visitor—sometimes they will slip through the outer gate—is going to be put off the lot in about thirty seconds. "Can you," she asks of nobody in particular, "tell me where I can find Mr. DeMille? I want to see about getting a child of 11 who is slightly deficient mentally, but very comical, into 'Our Gang'."

The character actress. You don't know half the misery, to actor and director alike, that happens on the talkie stages. Take Bebe Baloney, a well meaning girl if there ever was one. The action of the comedy called for a tomato to be thrown in Bebe's face. It made such a resounding squash that two microphones were wrecked, and the director had the face to blame it on poor Bebe.

Sadie, the beautiful script girl, is very busy with a stop watch and a lapful of dialogue. Her job it is to see that a kiss, a mouse's squeak and a slap fit in with the action and the script.

Cameramen and prop boys are getting more and more collegiate as to dress. It's increasingly difficult to tell them from the college boy extras.

Time, 4:30 A. M. on the soundproof stage, showing Mr. Switzer, the director, all worn out and thinking, O, what's the use anyway? The character woman went up in her lines, and now the whole scene has to be shot over again!

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) offers you a superior, modern service—backed by years of experience and the proved dependability of a well-established organization — rendered in a spirit of friendly helpfulness.

Two Modern Motor Oils

POLARINE and ISO-VIS

Today we drive faster. We use higher compression engines. The motor is apt to run hot, putting an extra load on the motor oil. Polarine and Iso-Vis, extra sturdy and extra rich, are made to meet these extra demands.

If you use Polarine, drain the crankcase every 500 miles. If you use Iso-Vis, the constant viscosity new type motor oil, you can drive for a thousand miles or more without changing oil. Iso-Vis wears and wears and wears. It does not thin out.

Whether you have Polarine or Iso-Vis in the crankcase you are sure of smooth miles ahead and a long life for your engine. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) recommends both. Take your choice.

This Company is geared to meet your needs. Drive in today at one of its service stations and take advantage of the superior service offered there.

SCIENCE PERFECTS A VASTLY BETTER BREAD

How, after two years research, Continental master bakers combined delicate flavor and remarkable dietetic worth in an amazing new slo-baked bread. How $6,000,000 was spent in its development. Why it has swept to quick success.

Here is the remarkable story of Wonder Bread, told by Alice Adams Proctor. Read it carefully. And begin today to secure these amazing benefits.

BY ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

Here, Madam, is a new-day bread that offers the very advantages domestic science experts have been seeking.

Namely, delicious flavor and high dietetic value in a food within the reach of all.

It's a bread that slices firmly and easily without crumbling.

A bread that toasts quickly to an even golden-brown.

And a bread that supplies the elements that foster growth and energy! Also proteins to build up body-tissues.

The price is the same as the price you pay for ordinary brands.

"Wonder Bread" is the name. It's a product of the great Continental Baking Company. $6,000,000 was expended in its development.

7 QUICK FACTS
About Wonder Bread

1. Every loaf slo-baked to seal in delicate flavor and to prolong the freshness.
2. Toasts quickly to an even golden-brown.
3. Rich in vital food elements for growth and energy. There are 1100 calories in every loaf.
4. Made of specially milled short patent flour. The heart of the wheat berry.
5. Double the usual quantity of milk is used. And every drop is pasteurized.
6. All ingredients tested for quality, purity and nutritive value.
7. Delivered to your grocer's, oven-fresh, morning and afternoon.

SERVE IT TO YOUR CHILDREN, MOTHER! That's what dietitians urge you to do. It contains calories in a marked degree to replenish burned-up energy. Also proteins and phosphates.

How it was developed

In 1925 Continental officials set out to produce a bread worthy to be sold from coast to coast.

To accomplish this a group of bread experts were called together.

They were directed to spare no effort or expense to achieve their goal.

First they studied popular brands.

Then they experimented with flour from all parts of the country. They sought ingredients with maximum dietetic value. At last, after long months of effort, they developed a remarkable recipe.

It calls for specially milled short patent flour, made only from the most nutritious part of the wheat.

Double the usual milk content is used. Pasteurized milk.

The sugar tests 99.7% and the salt 99.6% pure. The highest grade!

But even with this recipe something was lacking. The bread seemed dainty and delicious enough. And yet these men were not satisfied.

It was then that they developed a special method of baking. "Slo-baking." A process designed to form a delicate, firm crust. Also to seal in the delicious nut-like flavor.

Their entire baking experience went into this supreme effort.

A delicate oven adjustment. The final trial. A notation. SUCCESS!

And thus America's Wonder Bread was created!

Each loaf same high standard

The development of Wonder Bread had been a mighty problem. But unless the original goodness of that first scientifically perfect loaf could be duplicated millions of times a day, those months and months of tedious effort would be spent in vain.

So six million dollars was spent to put Wonder Bread on your table! The vast sum of $5,094,000 was spent for new equipment alone. But that was not all.

To make every loaf up to our original standard, over a million dollars extra must be spent each year for extra quality ingredients.

Why it builds health

A careful analysis soon established Wonder Bread as one of the most efficient energy foods. 1100 calories are contained in every loaf.

It provides, in addition, much protein to rebuild body tissues.

It contains, also, calcium and phosphate, so essential in the strengthening of the bones of growing children. Hence, Wonder Bread fosters family health amazingly.

Today it is the largest-selling bread in America. When will you start with it . . . today?

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING GIVES APPROVAL TO FAMOUS NEW SLO-BAKED BREAD

Food bureau of noted magazine heartily endorses the new Wonder Bread, now on sale at all grocery and delicatessen stores

We know the women here in town are keenly interested in the new Wonder Bread.

And we know they will be even more anxious to try it when they know that this slo-baked bread has been heartily endorsed by the Good Housekeeping Magazine.

It is stamped with that STAR of approval we women have learned to trust. Signifying, as it does, absolute purity and quality of food products.

No quick, cursory inspection ever won this coveted seal of approval. The Good Housekeeping Bureau has built its reputation on its scientific thoroughness.

Not just one loaf of Wonder Bread was analyzed. But many, many loaves. Each loaf had to pass the rigid requirements set up by this famous institution.

The results of these tests will prove gratifying to every woman here. It was found that Wonder Bread is made with more than twice the amount of milk usually found in ordinary breads. Wonder Bread is rich in food elements every growing child should receive.

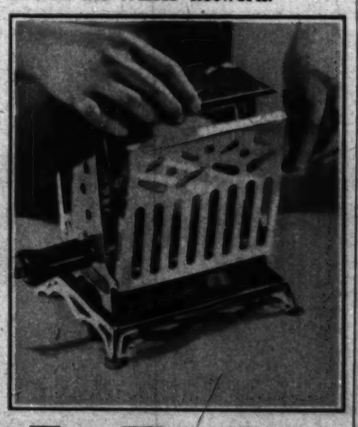
Wonder Bread is made of a specially milled short patent flour. Every loaf is thoroughly baked. Baked to perfection. Neither too soggy nor too dry. It is the slo-baking process which seals in all the goodness of the fine ingredients. Naturally we're proud indeed to offer such a bread to local women.

HAPPY WONDER BAKERS

Broadcast Wednesdays

Tune in on WLS at 7:30 P. M.

Did you hear the Happy Wonder Bakers last Wednesday night? If not, don't miss next week's program. Each broadcast features one nationally known musical star. This "Wonder Period" is one of radio's newest features. Don't miss it! It's on the WEAF network.



Try This Test

Here's a "toaster" test that quickly proves the goodness of Wonder Bread. Take a slice of this slo-baked bread and a slice of any ordinary bread you are now using. Toast both the same length of time. Then compare them. The Wonder Bread toast will be browned evenly. The other slice will be only partially browned. This test will astonish you. Just try it!

New Sandwich Booklet Free to Women Here

Alice Adams Proctor, the Continental Food Authority, is now offering a valuable booklet to local women.

It describes in a vivid, interesting way many of the unique sandwiches now so popular with hostesses for bridge luncheons and teas.

Many women have found that "Jardineer," one of Mrs. Proctor's newest recipes, is a sandwich that guests all praise. You may discover one you will like even better.

Only this one word of warning: Attempt none of these sandwich recipes without Wonder Bread.

Wonder Bread, you see, slices easily and firmly. You can cut it so delightfully thin.

LOCAL WOMAN Discovers WONDER BREAD . . . . . Told in Pictures

WONDER BREAD COMES TO TOWN! "I think I'll try this new bread. It offers more than any other I have ever heard of. It seems to be just the bread for the children to eat. No matter how hard I try I can't be sure they are getting all the correct dietetic elements. Wonder Bread will take care of that."

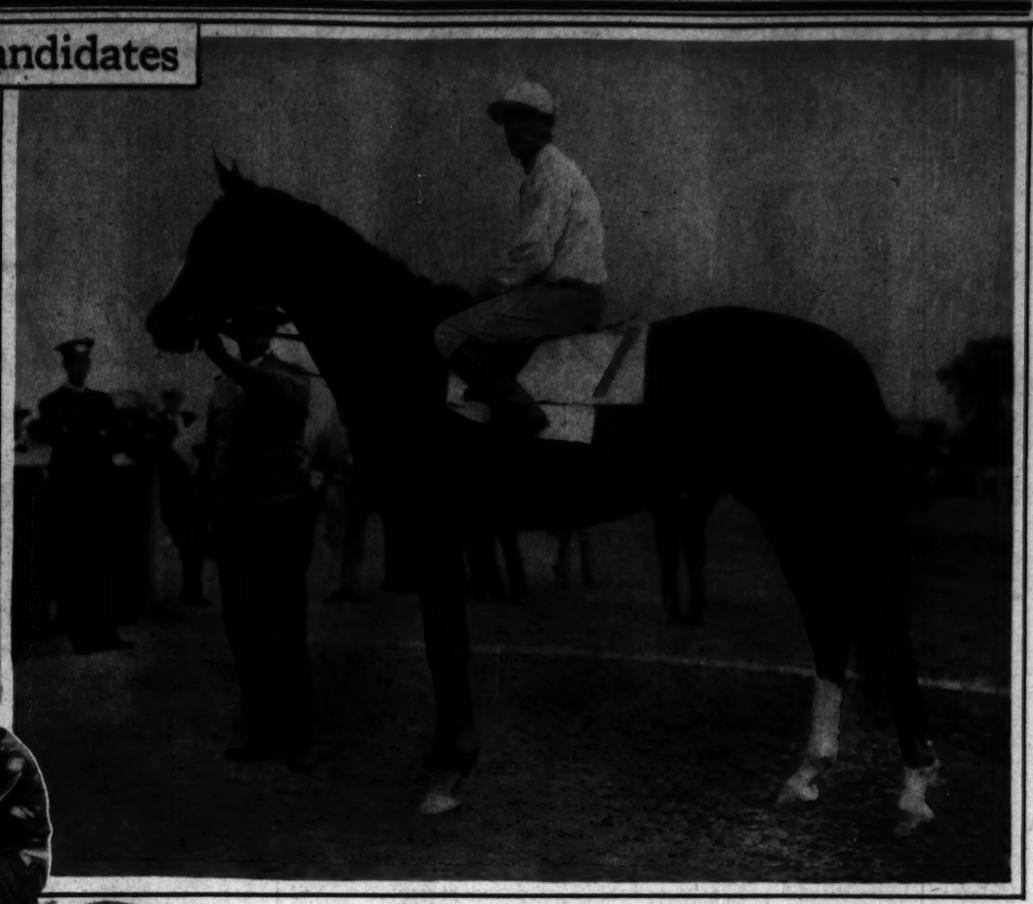
YOUR GROCER HAS IT FOR YOU! "Yes, Ma'am. A fresh loaf of Wonder. This bread, you'll find, is always fresh. It is delivered in my store, you see, early in the morning and in the afternoon. That way you're sure of getting a fresh loaf any time of the day you need it."

YOUR FAMILY WILL SEE THE DIFFERENCE! "Why, Mother, such delicious toast! Every slice is the same nice golden brown. And it tastes just as good plain. It seems like a different kind of bread. Did you buy a new kind today? It's so good, why can't we have it always?"

WOMEN JUST CAN'T KEEP THE NEWS! "You ought to try that new Wonder Bread! You know how long I have used my regular kind, and yet this new bread tastes so delicious and does so much for the children I can't afford not to use it. Our grocer has it. You ought to try a loaf today."

Derby Candidates

BLUE LARKSPUR will be the chief hope of the west in the Kentucky Derby, that $50,000 classic of the American turf which will be run at Churchill Downs, Louisville, on May 18. That is, provided nothing happens to him between this writing and Derby Day. The favorite will carry the silks of Col. Edward R. Bradley of Kentucky.



CHICAGO'S BEST BET, Roguish Eye, owned by Alderman John J. Coughlin. "The Eye" is another future book favorite. Most outstanding of an imposing array of Chicago entries, the colt is expected to go to the post as second choice.

CLYDE VAN DUSEN, son of Man o' War, has been second choice in the future odds, though he is expected to be replaced in that distinction by Roguish Eye on Derby Day. He is owned by H. P. Gardner.

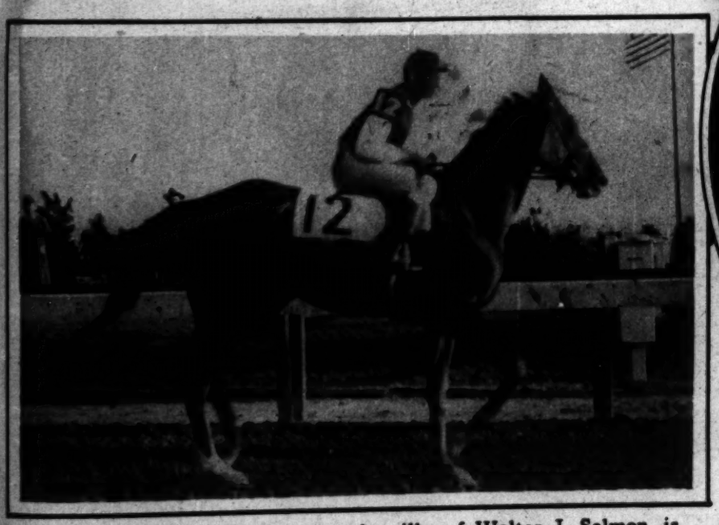
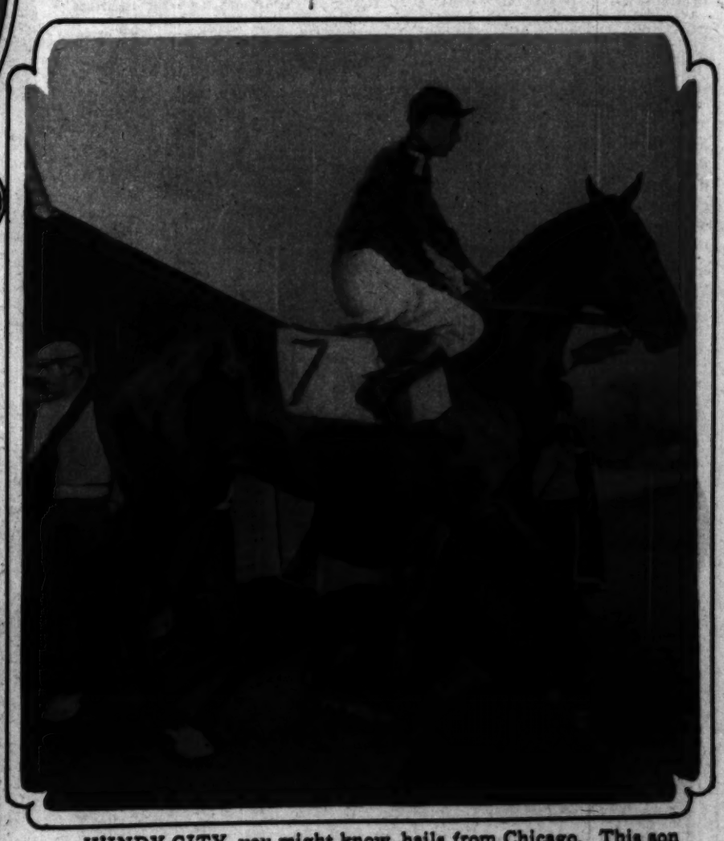
LORD BRAEDELBANE, owned by Desha Breckinridge, has been doing his training at Lexington. He won his first start this year.



DR. FREELAND, carrying the silks of Walter J. Salmon, is regarded as one of the east's two most formidable candidates. The other is Twink, which may go to the post as third choice.

THE OKAH is an entry from the stables of Edward B. McLean, millionaire Washington publisher.



WINDY CITY, you might know, hails from Chicago. This son of Upset is owned by F. M. Grabner. All these are some of the bluebloods of the field that will, a week from next Saturday, flash from the barrier to the accompaniment of a Niagara of sound from the stands. But perhaps even before this page appears, some training accident, some illness, or some such hard luck may eliminate one or more of these candidates from the Kentucky classic.

NAISHAPUR, another western aristocrat, is entered by the Wilshire stable.

VERMAJO, which will carry the colors of the Three D's Stock Farm of Texas.

Revolution in Rug Values puts silky Oriental rug beauty in every luxury-loving home!

Unless you have visited the rug department of a good store recently you don't know anything about rug values of today. A great change has taken place, and Gulistan de Luxe has caused it.

What does Gulistan de Luxe mean? It means that you can have the silky beauty and pile-deep lustre of Oriental Rugs at a price you can afford.

That very sheen which has the power to change the appearance of any home, until it seems to contain many hundreds of dollars' worth of new luxury!

No need to postpone your purchases. If you are moving this month give your order now. Convenient terms are available at many of Chicago's finest stores.

\+ + +

This change in rug values is causing such a stir that if you were to travel all over America you would find stores and customers everywhere taking immediate advantage of it.

People know that in the Orient, the famous House of Karagheusian has made for years great numbers of the world's most beautiful Oriental Rugs.

They know that in Karagheusian's American plants they have been trying for years to machine-loom American Rugs that would be truly as lustrous and luxurious as their Orientals.

And now they know that Karagheusian has done it.

Think of the facts. The sheen is the same as that of a thousand dollar Kashan Rug, the wools are especially imported from the Near East and China, the wearing-power exceeds that of popular-priced Oriental Rugs, and the fabric has been demonstrated by actual test in the "Times" Model Home at Hartford, Conn., to emerge revealing hardly any signs of wear, after 83,000 people had trod and re-trodden it.

And how you will delight in choosing the designs! There is a large choice, many of them duplicate museum pieces of almost priceless value. Many color-combinations, too. Sizes all the way from 27" x 54" to 11'3" x 21'. Scatter Rugs, Room Sizes, Runners, Stair Carpets. See the display at your favorite store at once.

NOT A COUNTRY CLUB, but a fire house, an $80,000 one, which is being built at 62nd and Green streets in Chicago. This last word in fire stations will have oil burners and electric refrigeration, and will house, among other equipment, a searchlight wagon for use at night fires. Fire Commissioner A. W. Goodrich asserts that such comfortable quarters lessen illness among the men.

"MR. CINDERELLA," the twenty-fifth annual Blackfriars production at the University of Chicago, will be presented four times at Mandel hall, May 10, 11, 17, and 18. Standing in this group of performers are John Haeberlin, Adolph Rubinson, and Lauren Smith. Seated, James Parker and Don Rosenthal.

The "Why" of Hursen Funerals

IT is always one's desire to give the utmost, in service and elegance, as a final expression of devotion. Small establishments cannot provide the service, the quality, the elegance of materials, the environments of a "funeral-home," the superb array of automobile equipment, as Hursen provides them.

Whenever you attend a "Hursen" funeral, you realize at once why it is that thousands of families in Chicago and its suburbs have chosen Hursen to "conduct the funeral."

The outstanding and unusual elegance of Hursen funerals costs you less than the charges you pay anywhere else, without this Hursen super-elegance. The superb specially built Hursen automobile equipment, an entire fleet, is the finest thing on wheels, and costs you no more than the usual, less desirable kind.

There is no charge whatever for the use of any of the 3 Hursen organ-chapels, the finest of their kind in America. Whether you live 1 or 20 miles away, this same Hursen service and elegance is at your disposal. There is no extra charge for distance. So, call Hursen, of course!

Preparations so good your Treatment can be simple

BECAUSE each Preparation is so extravagantly good, the Marie Earle Basic Treatment is consequently simple. First you cleanse your skin with the Essential Cream (the most luxurious cream in the world). To nourish the skin, you apply the same Cream again, adding a little Cucumber Emulsion (right on top of the Cream) to increase absorption, and stroke these two over your face and neck till the tissues have accepted all they will. Then wipe away what remains, and finish with Soothing Freshener Lotion. The new Powder by Marie Earle gives an exquisite bloom to your skin after this Basic Treatment.

Its zest and sparkle Make Luncheon Delicious

Not that the occasion would be less delightful . . . nor the conversation drab . . . not that the meal would taste any the less delicious . . . nor the pleasure of the meeting be lessened . . .

But simply that to lunch without drinking "Canada Dry" is to miss the full possibility of the meal. For the unforgettable flavor and the wonderful taste of this fine old beverage bring a quality to eating found in no other way.

Sparkling as the quick rhythm of the dance music the orchestra plays . . . mellow as the crooning notes of a saxophone solo . . . and refreshing as the dance you take between courses. Think of this—and you know something of the exhilaration of drinking this fine old ginger ale.

The purest ingredients and high-quality Jamaica ginger are used

No accident attends the distinction which is "Canada Dry." No accident has won it the approving nod of connoisseurs the wide-world over. For "Canada Dry," first, has basic excellence.

This basic excellence begins with absolutely pure ingredients. "Canada Dry" contains high-quality Jamaica ginger. It is blended and balanced in exact proportions. Hourly check-ups are made to see to it that those proportions do not vary. A secret and exact process of carbonation contributes, finally, to that result—the crystal clear, sparkling beverage you pour from an emerald bottle, "Canada Dry" Ginger Ale.

At luncheon today, capture that thrill, that new delight, which "Canada Dry" brings to the meal. Try it.

POUDRE LE DEBUT—CONTAINING NEWLY DISCOVERED BENEFICIAL INGREDIENTS NEVER BEFORE USED IN A FACE POWDER

Certainly, today, a woman demands of her face powder qualities which a few years ago she would hardly have considered important.

We are living . . . playing . . . more in the sun, more in the wind. The skin demands a protection that ordinary face powder cannot afford.

Furthermore, skins have more warmth and color—tan is increasingly fashionable. Face powder must adapt itself to these new conditions. And even more important, face powder can no longer be merely a mask that "covers up." It must be of a subtle tone and texture that harmonizes with your natural skin tones and blends with your skin texture . . . and becomes, in truth, a very part of your face.

No easy problem to solve! Indeed, it required two years of intensive research and experiment in scientific laboratories—and constant consultation with authorities on Fashion—to create Poudre le Début. And it required entirely new ingredients never before used in a face powder to give the qualities that women are so insistently demanding.

A product of modern science . . . and modern fashion

Poudre le Début is distinctly a product of the best dermatological knowledge and the best style authority available. Totally new—vitally different—absolutely safe.

And what an exquisitely lovely powder it is . . . incredibly velvety . . . smooth . . . fine . . . spreading with a

Children's Clothes Speak with a French Accent

Little Frocks and Coats Come in All the Lovely Pastel Shades, and Smart Youngsters are Wearing Ensembles.

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—Nowadays we are tempted to speak, not of pastimes for children but of pastel times. Never were such delightful colors shown for the very young person. Yellows and exquisite greens, blues and rose color, all sorts of two tone effects—these make the shop windows devoted to children's wear look like something laid by the Easter bunny. One really can't make up one's mind which is the more colorful—these juvenile displays or those of spring shoes for the older folks.

One thing which makes the employment of color more expressive is the growing vogue of youthful ensembles. A small boy or girl may, nowadays, contract the ensemble habit when "it" is no more than two or three. As to the degree of intensity, this is variable. Sometimes only the hat and coat agree in color and material and in other instances the frock, too, is included in this match game. It is all something which the French wished upon us and which we adapt without incurring that sophistication of effect considered so pernicious by the American mother.

Yes, not only do the children's clothes of the present time speak the language of flowers. They also speak with a decided French accent. No matter if the frock or suit be of ideal simplicity, there is some adroit combination of color or material, some finesse of hand trimming, some distinctive arrangement of folds to connect it with overseas sources.

Our page today illustrates the manner in which the small person's wardrobe is using the Gallic idiom. All of these fetching clothes are imports and all point to the fact that some of these French creations are thoroughly consistent with the American idea of perfect simplicity.

In the fashioning of the miniature wardrobe synthetic materials are playing an important part. Both the celanese and the rayon fabrics are, in fact, so well adjusted to the twin needs of practicality and the decorative sentiment, that designers both here and abroad have recruited such weaves for some of the most delightful models that are to be seen.

At the extreme left the tot's frock designed to serve her who is between 2 and 6 illustrates once more the fact that even the straight from the shoulder idea which remains the standardized model for the smallest girl may be so individualized that it looks absolutely unlike any others of its kin. This particular model is developed in pale blue celanese ninon which is trimmed with self material basket weave. Squares of this contrasting tissue are placed on the tops of the shoulders to accent a little yoke with a V front and they are distributed artfully over the skirt. Touches of shirring and large tucks constitute the remaining details of the model.

After a girl has passed the age of 6 or 7 she usually is admitted to certain ancient privileges of womanhood. One of these is the waistline. As a rule, this is placed low on the hips, but some of our recent fashions point to a renaissance. It is of the high fitted waistline combined with a full skirt. Delightfully quaint are such little basque-like bodices and ample skirts and our second model from the left indicates that the modern little girl may look exactly like something from the old family album and still not lack supporters for her own autograph volume.

This model is a printed twill celanese, distributing red and yellow figures on a black background. Just as gay as the hyacinth which this little girl holds in her hands! But, as is always the case with these diminutive prints, the color is tempered by white collar and cuffs. In this case the snowy touches are of white silk set off by white rickrack braid. Also, are the buttons down the front of that Victorian basque of white.

It goes without saying that one is not held down to material considerations. For example, calico or chintz might be substituted for the original fabric without losing any essential charm. In any weave, the design of this little dress guarantees the wearer—the girl between 6 and 10—to look quite different from any of her friends on the same block.

Equally independent of fabric choice is the small boy's suit near by. Make this model of the original beige peach crêpe anella of celanese persuasion. Or make it of shantung, pongee, linen, handkerchief linen—what you will. The result will be the same. You can't invalidate the way in which orthodoxy of cut is combined here with little individual adaptations. For example, what could be more different than the front panel of stitching deflected into points and accompanied part way by a plaited ruffle of self material—unless, indeed, it is the manner in which two other rows of stitching are placed at one side of the blouse.

This shows you that Beau Brummel, who is between the ages of 2 and 4, may boast that his tailor is quite as asymmetric as his sister's dressmaker. And, speaking of that, what small girl would not consent to be a sister to this lad—provided she might wear a replica of his costume? And why not have a sister and brother suit on this order? Put a skirt of self material under the blouse or attach a little gathered skirt where the boy's belt occurs and you perform the trick.

To many a harassed mother who wishes her children to be dressed up without fear of the consequences, the wash silks continue to look as pleasant as the opening of school after a long hard summer. These wash silks in all their different phases are made to combat all the excesses of youthful spirits. It doesn't make any difference how many mud pies the wearer achieves or how intimate is her general association with mother earth—the wash silk frock comes out triumphant from its frequent tubbings.

Fourth, we are showing a cape ensemble for the girl of from 10 to 14 which utilizes one of these wash silks in green and yellow. The prevailing tone of the print being in yellow, monotone green silk accomplishes the lining of the cape turned back into those original revers and also the narrow belt. The pale yellow silk blouse—the yellow of the print is much deeper—is tucked and it gains a new air by the point into which it is drawn at the one side. A hat of dark green felt faced with pale yellow felt is the concluding touch. And, by the way, speaking of hats, the off the face model prevails.

For the girl of this age the camel's hair coat of tailored inspiration serves a general purpose. This, the most practical of all spring and summer wraps, is the favorite traveling companion of the very young person. But it is rivaled just at present by the tailored navy blue coat. In wool crêpe, basket weave, Poiret twill, rep, and a variety of other favorite coat materials, such coats are having more than their accustomed success in society. And what different circles of society they do move in! They look perfect over the cotton or linen dress and they are the favorite associates of the printed dress of various fabrics.

Many of the coats for girls ranging from 4 to 14 include capes. These are not for the little girl made Roycroftie, as it were. They demand a Sheraton slimness of outline. But when the small wearer is a very, very slim child, how becoming these adorable caped models are! One of navy covert rep I saw recently seemed to sum up all that one asks for childhood in a model of blue with a deep cape bound in matching braid.

For the very small girl basket weaves are as regular as a cat in a grocery store. These, as well as the pastel tweeds, are in the vanguard of that colorful summer promised by Paris. But in saying this one does not wish to slight either cashmere or alpaca, for both of these weaves are found in the smartest shops.

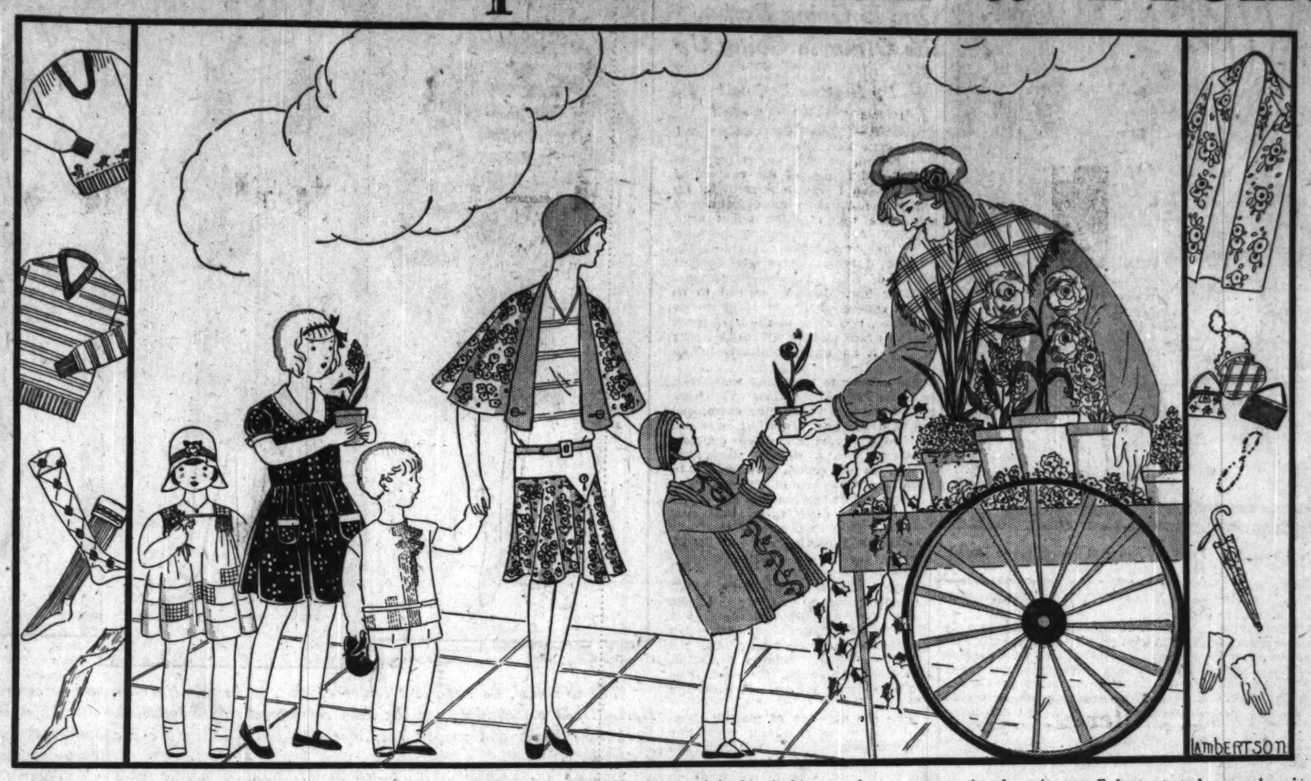
The cape ensemble we have described is a variant of the many jacket ensembles which have established, this season, a tremendous authority over juvenile fashions. Some of the most delightful of such jacket ensembles designed for the girl of from 10 to 14 years are made of flannel with gayly printed silk blouses. Another favorite medium is linen and nothing could be more charming than the various two tone alliances developed in this classic material. For example, one of the most appealing of such ensembles makes the skirt and jacket of crocus yellow and the jumper of white linen.

The last named shows its affinity with the current adult mode by placing two tailored bows at the top of the corsage. As for the skirt, this is made on the lines so generally accepted for the young person of chic. That is to say, it has deep plaits at the sides to contrast with plain front and back panel.

Our final model indicates how this ensemble germ has spread among the very youngest of us, for here is a costume making coat, hat and frock all of the same celanese tricot in rose color. Observe in this model the lovely corded tucks which achieve a front panel and which finish the sleeves of the coat. The little hat with its band under the chin utilizes the same corded tucks.

But, though these details are important, they are hardly more vital than the curving appliques of self material that diversify the front, for these remind us that the scallop always so beloved by the juvenile designer, is just as much a part of childhood's hour as ever before.

[Copyright: 1920: By The Chicago Tribune.]



At the extreme left a little frock of pale blue celanese ninon introduces motifs of basket weave self material.

Next, a frock borrowing charm from the old family album is achieved of printed celanese twill with trimmings of white silk and white rickrack.

Third, the small boy's suit of beige peach crepe anella (celanese) involves original stitching and asymmetric effect.

Next, a cape ensemble of printed wash silk combined with plain silk, and last, an ensemble of rose colored celanese tricot.

LEFT. At the top, the sweaters give one a choice between embroidered ducks and the more conventional stripes. Below, popular modes in both sports and dressup hosiery.

RIGHT. A calico coat for the small girl may also be evolved in printed linen. Below, tiny handbags are achieved respectively of plaid leather, printed linen and plain leather. A printed silk parasol with gay red handle, and gloves with scalloped cuffs are the final suggestions.

Woman's Club Is Ultra-Modern

Harmony of Color, Line, and Simplicity in Rooms of New Building Offers Hints to Interior Decorators

By Edith Weigle.

THREE essentials in modern interior decoration are color, line and simplicity. Given these three in harmony, the result is bound to be pleasing.

A fine example of contemporary design is the recently completed building of the Chicago Woman's club. Here the architects, Holabird and Root, not only planned and executed the building but they furnished it completely, from top to toe. This was done under the direction of Mr. Hopkins, the head of the interior decorating department. The result is a perfect achievement in unity. The club, outside and inside, "hangs together" without a single jarring note.

The colors used are really tones rather than decided shades. Soft browns, yellows, apple greens, orchids, grayrose, chalk-blues and silvers predominate. Nothing is startling or bizarre. While furniture, hangings and wallpaper are ultramodern, not a garish note is struck in the entire building.

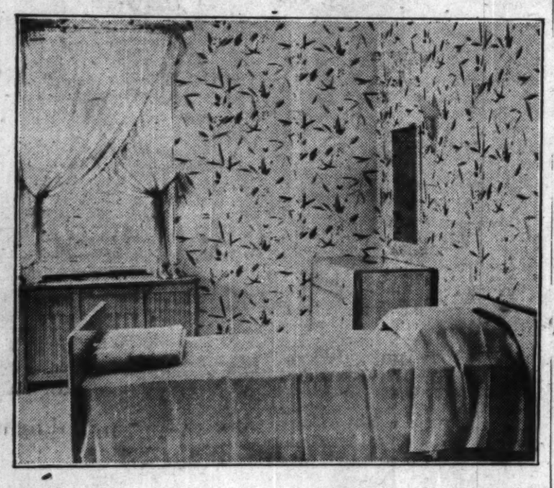
Long, unbroken lines give the apartments a feeling of space and Grecian beauty. In many instances the walls are without moldings, thus achieving an undisturbed sweep from ceiling to floor. Heating fixtures are installed under the windows, and artistically wrought bronze screens are fitted into the walls in front of them, so that they are not visible.

Simplicity is accomplished by doing away with all unessentials. Modern art dispenses with all the gee-gaws and frummings so beloved by the decorators of the antimacassar era. Draperies hang in long, simple folds minus edging or valances. Their beauty lies in their fabric and color.

Solid Comfort.

Furniture is plain in the extreme, and again it is lovely because of the texture of the stunning modern fabrics with which it is covered and because of their colors. And one quality almost all furniture of the new trend has is comfort—something that often was absolutely lacking in the specimens found in the Georgian and early American periods. Chairs don't hit you in the small of the back; sofas are meant to sit on; beds are conducive to slumber rather than curses.

The reception room on the first floor is one of the most charming apartments in the entire club. The colors used are ivory-cream and a soft, dull shade of blue.



THE furniture in this bedroom is of white maple with natural finish, and the wallpaper, in complete accord with its modern spirit, is a German importation. Predominating colors are light yellow and rusty peach.

The walls are plastered and painted in the rose, and the furniture is in several harmonizing shades of the blue. A large rug, especially designed for the room, echoes these two colors. In the center is a long table made of white metal and wood, the top of which is of a peculiarly lovely shade of deep blue glass that mirrors the flowers in a Swedish pewter bowl and branching pewter candelabra.

The bedrooms, one of which is pictured herewith, are full of light and air. There are forty-eight in all, varying in size and treatment. The furniture in each is white maple, in natural finish, and is characterized by perfect simplicity and lovely lines. The mirrors hanging above the chests of drawers are framed in white metal, which also is used for the table and floor lamps. Lamp shades are of natural colored parchment without decoration of any kind.

Made in Germany.

Lighting fixtures in the walls are of white frosted glass and all, of course, are in the modern manner.

Wallpaper in many of the bedrooms is imported from Germany and is fadeless. It is extremely charming and, besides the beauty of its pastel tones, it has a practical side. It may be washed with soap and water. So, also, may a great many of the fabrics used on the furniture.

Of course, the objection most of us have to modern art in interior decoration is that it is too dear for the average purse. Well, some of it is. When woods used for furniture are mahogany, satinwood and Circassian walnut, the retail price is necessarily high. Mr. Hopkins proves, however, that ordinary white maple is just as attractive in many respects. And again, in a perfectly charming little breakfast room that brings all of spring indoors by employing shades of light green, daffodil yellow and silver, he demonstrates that even old furniture may be converted into new. Paint is the thing.

Breakfast tables in this room are painted a soft, flat green and the finish is dull, not lacquered. Sunny yellow paint covers the plaster walls without trimming or decoration of any kind. At the windows are gay, green taffeta curtains, with deep ruffles of the same shade. They are looped back in graceful curves. The whole effect is one of joyous light and color.

A Work of Art.

The main lounge, a picture of which appears herewith, is wainscotted in walnut with a natural finish. The huge rug in block pattern of various shades of brown was designed by Mr. Hopkins. The furniture in this apartment is delightfully feminine and relieves the air of solemnity that might otherwise prevail. Colors of spring flowers are used in the fabrics covering the chairs and love seats: buttercup yellow, apple green and lavender.

The entire club is a work of art—modern art—and much credit is due its creators and the members of the organization who worked hand in hand with them.

Decorative Charm Lies Around the Corner

An Arm Chair, a Table with Books and a Lamp Give Pleasing Touches to that Otherwise Awkward Part of a Room.

By WillElla de Campi

CONSIDER the importance of corners. What vast meaning that one word may hold! One of the most vital points in building, whether the building be a small house or an impressive monument, is the laying of the corner stone. We say that a person of keen observation sees things out of the corner of his eye. Every one knows about "The Little Church Around the Corner," and we speak of treasures gathered from the four corners of the earth.

Corners of every room in the home must not be forgotten if we wish to have pleasing and satisfactory interiors. If all of the corners are treated in an interesting manner, it is reasonable to assume that the entire room will be a success.

Today we are showing three corners which are pleasing to the eye, as well as gratifying to the sense of comfort. The first is in a man's study. A luxurious arm chair, with walnut arms, legs and stretchers, is upholstered in plum colored mohair, with a jacquard pattern. An ottoman to match furthers the restful quality of the group.

On a walnut table at one side is a gray-green crackled pottery lamp, with a shade of heavy brocaded silk in amber color. In addition there are a few books between tooled leather bookends and a cactus plant in a scarlet bowl. The low walnut table at the other side of the chair is conveniently placed to hold a smoking set. Walls and woodwork are painted a dull parchment color. The draperies are of soft green casement cloth, the glass curtains pale amber gauze, and the carpet is deep plum chenille.

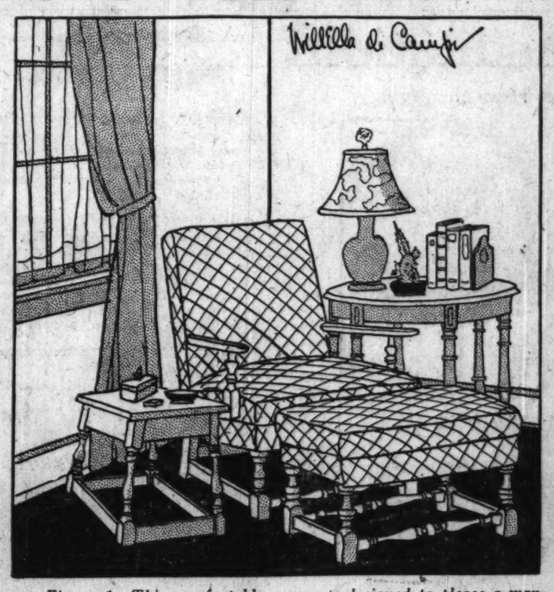

Figure 1—This comfortable corner is designed to please a man. The arm chair is inviting and the lighting arrangement is adjusted for both day and evening reading.

Figure 2 shows one corner of a cool and inviting sun room. A stick reed chair and stool, painted lemon yellow with touches of black, have down-filled cushions covered with a simple but fascinating cretonne. The design is in shades of sea green and blue with accents of ivory. A small table beside the chair holds a lemon yellow lamp with a square parchment shade striped in blue and green.

Draperies at the windows are of cretonne matching the cushions. They hang straight to the floor and are unlined, so that the light shining through them seems to take on that indescribable sparkle of the sea on a clear summer day. The walls are finished in rough plaster, tinted sand color, making a pleasing background for wrought iron swinging bracketa. Woodwork is peacock blue and peacock blue linoleum in a very deep tone covers the floor.

In order to afford a daytime resting place one corner of a charming bedroom has been equipped with the delightful chaise longue shown in Figure 3. It is upholstered in plain rose colored glazed chintz, piped with leaf green. A quantity of small extra cushions are in many colors, some plain and some figured. Beside the chaise longue is a small table, lacquered leaf green, high-lighted with dull gold. This makes a convenient stand for breakfast things, or for a few books and smoking accessories. A tall lamp, painted green, has a shade of accordion pleated rose colored glazed chintz.

Completing the group is a three-fold screen. This is painted parchment color and is decorated with a wallpaper border showing a ribbon design in rose or a pale green ground. The walls and woodwork in this room are antiqued ivory, with molding and door panelings picked out in dull gold. Sage green carpeting covers the floor.

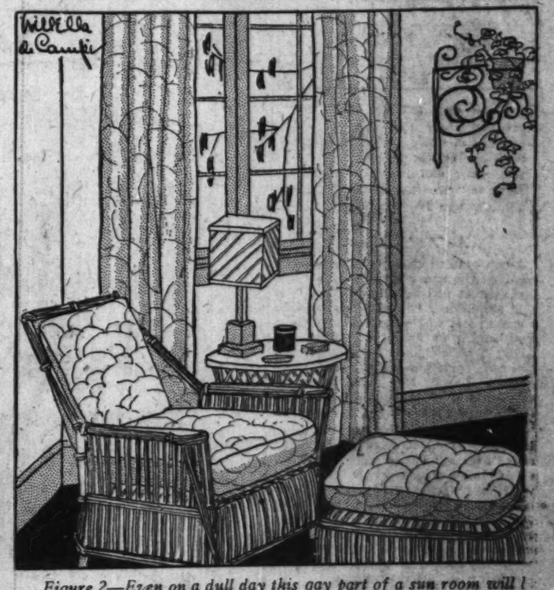

Figure 2—Even on a dull day this gay part of a sun room will be cheery, for the chair is lemon yellow and the down filled cushions are sea green and blue with accents of ivory.

Figure 3—A luxurious chaise longue with many chic little pillows tempts one to flop down for a few minutes' rest during a busy feminine day. Note the lovely screen, lamp and little table.

Color Brings Out Charm

Know Your Type, Then Choose Your Makeup and Clothes Accordingly, Says Antoinette.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—There is a belief in almost every human soul that granted time and opportunity it would be a simple matter to become a well paid author. There are two contributions to the belief: one, the eulogies of friends and relatives on letters received; the other, the fact that there is a story in almost every life.

Almost as firmly entrenched in the soul of every woman, at least, is the conviction that if she had money she could be one of the best dressed women. Nor do we attempt to deny for a moment that money has accomplished the feat for certain women. But the type of woman money works the dress miracle on is she who is clever enough to put herself in the hands of a designer-artist. Without a good sense of line and color value, she is willing to be told, and so she stands a good chance of emerging a better dressed person than she ever dreamed she could be.

On the other hand, certain women accomplish just as effective a reputation for clothes by the application of their own wit and wisdom to the subjects of color and line. On line we shall not dwell today because it affects beauty less than color. Only in the matter of slenderizing or "padding" does it enter our particular realm. But color—with it you can do amazing things for your looks. And you can do ruinous things with it, too.

Color Is Up to You.

Referring again to popular inner convictions, woman suffers—rather her beauty suffers—more from erroneous convictions about what she can wear and what she can't wear in the way of colors than from faulty ideas about line or texture. The latter are more or less worked out for the season by designers who are aware of the current silhouette demands. But on colors, there is infinitely less attempt at dictation because designers know that here you are wrestling with individual tastes and individual prejudices and consequently a wide gamut of shades must be offered the public.

There was a time when we advisers used to present color charts rather dictatorially. But we found our rules too often transgressed with the most flattering benefits. Then, too, a few years ago we were more standardized about colors for blondes, for brunettes, for red heads, for white-haired women, for fats and for leans. Today, liberties may be taken with colors that wouldn't have been dared a few years back. And the reason is because of the youth drive, and the successful experiments that prove there is often more youth in color than in conventional browns, blacks, wistarias, etc.

The red heads, for instance, used to be condemned for life to browns, tans, beiges. The idea was to make red hair less conspicuous. One day it was discovered when personality began to be courted, that a contrasting color gave both hair and girl more of the quality sought. One of her broke forth in a blue-green and the effect was to accent the red in her hair, bring out the flesh tints in her cheeks, give depth to the blue of her eyes; in fact, to turn a rather colorless personality into a vivid one.

It isn't so many years ago that a woman attaining a certain age felt it her duty to wear black, battleship gray, or a deep and undistinguished purple. With the shortened skirts and bobbed heads those colors were simply consigned to the storehouse and mammas and grandmammas adopted younger colors, with the most exhilarating effects pictorially and psychologically.

The Myth About Black.

One outstanding fallacy among women is that black is universally becoming. It isn't. One of the fashion experts of Paris recently declared that a woman in black looks distinguished, dowdy or dangerous. To be distinguished one must have carriage, chic and wellcut black. To be dangerous—one has to be born that way and she'd probably look just as dangerous in violet or baby blue. So that the dowdy fear might well attack a proportionately large number of us. On some women black is horribly depressing, both to themselves and their audience. And there is no question that when it is not distinguished or dangerous it adds years.

In lieu of chart, let us think of colors in relation to youth. A color that will freshen the skin, make the eyes more brilliant and bring out the high lights in the hair is bound to be a young color. Understand, we're not advocating an orgy of glaring shades. They might kill the very thing we're struggling for. For instance, a sallow skin in contrast with a clear yellow might look very ugly. And blatant colors wash the individual out. A mouse colored girl would lose all personality swathed in a vivid scarlet, a royal purple, king blue, or jade green.

Our color rule heretofore has been to choose shades of like tones of hair and complexion. Now we are learning the advantages of contrasting colors where there is warmth in skin, hair, and eyes. In cases of delicately colored skin, a contrast may prove disadvantageous. It's pretty much a question of whether the color you choose is going to make you colorful or colorless.

Take a person of drab coloring. If you attempt to match the skin you only have more drabness, where colors with flattering over-tones are what are needed—such as beige with pinkish cast if you wear beige, or orchid with strong pink in it. The dull beige or dull orchid would prove anything but youth giving.

Costume Enhances Color.

The faults of color practices might be illustrated on a blonde with fair skin and yellowish hair. She could wear a lustrous black (velvet or satin) and her skin be made whiter. If the black happened to be wool or flat crêpe, she might readily be dull and uninteresting. Were she to attempt to match the yellow in her hair, a faded and characterless effect would result.

The greatest lesson to learn about color choosing is that the costume should increase the attractiveness of one's own color, that the individual herself is what must stand out, and that colors that overwhelm one's own individuality are not good selections. In other words, YOU should be the center of interest—not the color of your dress.

Before one can be an expert, before one gets an idea of what her correct colors are, she must know something of the actual pigmentation of her skin—whether it is white, pink, yellowish, or light orange. But there has been some educational work in this regard from makeup lessons. If colors of rouge and powder are important, how much more is the color of the frock in rejuvenating skin and making eyes more expressive and hair more lustrous?

It's a study, this one of correct colors. It's one you will hear much about in the next few years because it is one of the last beauty fortifications that remain to be attacked.

The Last Word in Paris Fashions

Centers of Chic, the Hemline and the Hipline Are Changing; One Is Going Down, the Other Is Going Up

By Bettina Bedwell

[Chicag Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—The hemline, which is at the bottom of the smart coat or dress, is one of the centers of chic. When I was in your midst recently the question most frequently asked me was: "What about skirt lengths? Are hems coming down or going up?" And the next most important question concerned another center of chic. It was waistlines—high or low. Nobody seemed to be much concerned about hiplines or necklines, two more of the four great centers which make a silhouette smart or give it an unsurmountable handicap.

The answer to hems and waistlines, so far as Paris is concerned with them, is that the first are coming down, and the second are traveling upward. They're not moving in these opposite directions like a wildcat stock, but slowly, as all sound investments in style do. The rise of the waistline and the fall of the hemline are movements in the direction of that goddess long limb line, created by Paris specially and particularly out of admiration for the American girl.

The queens of Hollywood have announced recently that they won't have anything to do with longer skirts. They are silent on the subject of waistlines. The queens of fashion are all for the longer skirt and the higher waistline. This is a matter, according to experts, for each little queen to decide for herself, even you and me.

How the question of placing these two centers of chic and their two complementary lines, the neck and hip, is settled, depends then on how the woman underneath measures up herself. There isn't a lady anywhere who cannot be improved in chic and charm this season by covering up her dimpled knees with at least three inches more of skirt. And, for daytime her waistline will be lifted accordingly.

What is done with the hipline depends on the girth of the hips. Paris likes the neatly fitted hipline. It is excellent for an ample hipline, and good also for the very slender. Paris also favors the hipline which is flared by that well known device, the peplum. Nobody denies that a ruffle around the hips is good only for those women to whom Nature has given no surplus flesh. What the peplum does for the slim sisters is to accentuate the willowy grace of the upper body. It's clever, chic and A No. 1 for them. The fitted yoke at the hips is every woman's line.

Necklines in the fashionable centers of Paris are variable, to suit all types. There are quantities of lingerie collars attached to the newest dresses, and for a rounded throat these are attractive and feminine. There are thousands of scarf arrangements, and these can be so draped as to enhance the short, the long, the lean, and the fat neck.

There are also many simple square and rounded necklines, with no decoration at all, which are the grandest kind for you who have beautiful throats and shoulders. Not bad for the heavy necked. Not so good for the scrawny. A flower or a necklace, however, often increases the allure of a plain neckline for anybody.

Combinations of these four centers of interest result thusly in Paris: For sports necklines are plain and modest, waistlines are higher, and often with tucked in effects, hiplines are trimly fitted, and skirt hems reach three inches below the knees. They (the hemlines) are always comfortably wide and even.

General daytime clothes have necklines softened by collars, attached flowers, scarfs, or jewelry. Higher waistlines are set off by peplums or by hip yokes carefully and expertly fitted. The wandering hemline ranges from three inches below the knees to half way to the ankles. It is even or uneven according to taste.

Evening clothes go to extrémes at all the big centers of chic. Necklines are very modest, or very decolleté. Waistlines are almost at normal, or they don't exist, and a long basque effect, ending well below the hips results. With the waistline indicated, the hipline is either flared a la peplum or fitted to a low level. Hemlines are always fashionably irregular, and wander up in front, at the sides, or in back, and down at all the points in between. Some smart skirts have even hemlines reaching to the ankles, with a short slip worn beneath.

I suggest that each woman try out these arrangements of neck, waist, hip, and hemlines on her own sweet person. Be your own critic, and be severe. A full length mirror will tell you heaps of valuable facts about where you should place the big four lines of your silhouette. Be yourself, and let Greta Garbo and the queen of Roumania place their lines where they will.

The sports tailleur shown in our first sketch shows the most universally popular placing of the centers of chic. Norman Hartnell, who made this dark blue kasha suit, made a straight cardigan jacket reaching to just below the hipline. It is lined with fantaisie striped jersey in beige, red and blue, the same material making the brief waist, which has no sleeves, begins with a modest square neck and ends by being tucked in at normal. The skirt has the most graceful of fitted hip yokes, carried down to the hem in a front panel. The sides are circular.

Our second model is a Bernard et Cie suit of black wool crêpe with a jacket banded at the waistline and flared by a peplum around the hips. The collar and cuffs are of embroidered lingerie, and the blouse is of white organdy, tucked horizontally. The collar makes for a femininely dainty neckline. The skirt of this tailleur has a fitted hip yoke, to which is attached the circular lower skirt.

Our third sketch illustrates the smart evening gown which has the waistline placed at the good old normal situation, and added below is the smart peplum flare. There is no jewel to hold the blouse of this French Beer in place. It is done by fitting the black lace of the bodice tightly just below the waistline. The peplum descends at the back, in a cascade panel, and the flared skirt below also descends in a similar panel at last, thus achieving a drooping hemline.

Our fourth sketch shows a formal evening gown, worn by a famous woman—the Honorable Mrs. Reginald Fellowes. This Augustabernard model of black moire has a long basque waist effect, which is bloused down to the normal waistline, and fitted by shirred panels below. The skirt is in the low flares at the sides which are so extremely fashionable in Paris just now, which give a different kind of uneven hemline.

The waistline, an important center of chic, is, in this Norman Hartnell suit placed high, and the skirt correspondingly lengthened. Dark blue kasha and striped red, blue and beige jersey are the materials.

Second, the peplum on the jacket of this Bernard suit of black crepe gives a flared hipline. The blouse, collar and cuffs of this suit are of embroidered organdy.

This black lace frock from Drecoll-Beer, shown third, has the long-limb line which is smart in Paris, and the hipline flare achieved by a drooping peplum.

One of the most famous evening gowns of the season is the black moire model from Augustabernard, shown last.

My Greatest Thrill

An Awful Scare.

I can easily recall the night when I received the greatest thrill of my life. My dearest girl friend called me and said her mother had passed away that morning and would I sit up with them that night. I consented, of course. About 1 o'clock, my friend said that she would make coffee for us. Consequently I was left alone with the corpse, and a sudden overpowering fright took possession of my soul.

A few moments after my friend had left the room, a silver half dollar rolled near my feet, a second later, another followed. I knew that they were weights for the eyes, then I beheld a slight movement of the sheet. For a second or two, my heart almost ceased beating, and my hands did shake and my knees did quake and icy chills chased each other madly up and down my spinal column.

When my friend returned, she found me in a dead faint, and the corpse breathing softly. The old lady, then almost 80, remained on earth three or four years longer. M. L. C.

A Rude Awakening.

While visting my cousin, who lived in a log house surrounded by many large trees, I slept near an open window without screens.

One night I awoke feeling something heavy on my head, and reaching my hand up, placed it upon something cold and clammy. In terror, I screamed, and, in the bright moonlight, saw a large lizard go wriggling out through the window. J. Y. H.

In a Burning Plane.

It happened last summer in Germany. I was visiting a friend who happened to own an airplane and one day he offered to take me for a ride and naturally I jumped at the opportunity.

Luckily, we both wore parachutes. The field was on the outskirts of Berlin and it was a lovely day for flying. He made a perfect takeoff, and we were soon up around three thousand feet. Then, to our alarm, the plane caught fire. He turned around and screamed at me, "We will have to jump—go ahead—it's our only chance."

I was terrified, but followed his instructions, closed my eyes and stepped off into space. After counting three I pulled the ripcord and the parachute opened perfectly. My friend had also jumped out, and we both came down safely. This was certainly the greatest thrill I ever had. J. M.

DEFYING GRAVITY.

O damosel who lightly treads
So airily above our heads,
With care you keep a balance fine,
Upon a very slender line.
Indeed, your job is much like mine,
We both rejoice to jauntily
Defy the laws of gravity.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

DO you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon? Nature causes the normal skin to peel off in tiny, unseen, flour-like particles, a little each day, renewing the complexion of youth naturally, but there comes a time when this skin shedding slows up. Worry, overwork, sickness, inactivity are reasons that cause the face to be blotchy, discolored, pimply and old looking. The thing to do, if you wish to look your prettiest at all times, is to assist nature in the process of absorption by using pure Mercolized Wax. Get an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter and use as directed. It gently but surely peels away the outer scarf skin, removing freckles, pimples, blackheads or a muddy complexion. The underneath skin, now in evidence, is clear, pink, fresh and velvety, and the entire face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines we recommend a face lotion of unusual merit. One ounce powdered saxolite and one-half pint witch hazel.

In fitting the blouse don't make it too tight about the hips. It should fit closely, but if it is really tight, you will always be trying to pull it down in place.

Pattern No. 2566 is one of the newest designs for a sports frock. It is sometimes spoken of as the sun-back tennis dress. Skirt and waist are cut separately and joined under a suede belt. The blouse is cut in two pieces, and has drop shoulders that form all the sleeves that are necessary. The neck is cut in a deep V shape, and finished with an applied facing that extends below the end of the opening and is button trimmed.

At the lower right side of the blouse is a dear little inserted pocket. The skirt is cut in two parts, the back of the skirt gores out at the bottom, giving a graceful flare, and the front is closely box plaited. Lay the front of the skirt on a table while laying the plaits, and after transferring every mark from the pattern to the material, lay the plaits, working from the top towards the bottom and first pinning each one. Before basting, see that the under side of each plait is as smooth as the outside. If there is even a slight twist, release the necessary pins and fix it.

Orchid rajah silk, white linen, pale blue washable flat silk crêpe, flesh colored cashmere jersey or any of the beautiful printed cottons will be attractive looking. This dress can also be made with a high round neck at the back for general sports occasions, of printed silk crêpe, georgette crêpe or crêpe satin.

2582—Woman's and misses' dress. Sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inch bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 40 inch material with ⅞ yard of 40 inch contrasting.

Women the World Over

Mlle. Wanda Grabinska claims the distinction of being the only woman judge in the republic of Poland.

Young women of Egypt now wear short skirts, transparent stockings and smart shoes of the kind worn by western women.

Women of New Zealand have voted for 25 years, and from 60 to 80 per cent of them turn out to cast their ballots.

Miss Marion Talley, young opera star who made her debut three years ago, is planning to go to the country with her family, buy a farm she long has wanted and, to use her own words, "be just like all other farmers."

Suggestions for the Lonely

Young Women Are Advised Not to Sit in Their Rooms and Mope, but to Get Out and Show an Interest in Something.

By Doris Blake.

NOT by sitting at home nights idly wishing and wishing and eventually working up a case against the world's cold-heartedness are young women going to relieve their loneliness.

The case of Lorraine, recently submitted in these columns, who wanted some one to dance with, some one to flirt with, some one to have dates with, brought forth suggestions from various parts of the country. But no matter what the vicinity, or the social opportunities, or lack of them peculiar to each vicinity, it was the girl's own self at which criticism was directed.

"The trouble lies with the girl herself," was the general consensus.

Certainly your modern young maid has small patience with a sister who sits and mopes and expects other persons to make her friends for her. In fact, most of them agreed that sitting down thinking was a shameful waste of young days with all the opportunities for improvement there are available today. Along the way of improvement, obviously from the experience of these other young women, lies opportunity to meet young men whose dates might prove worth while.

Being one of the younger generation is an opportunity in itself—with so many of the old time formalities and restraints discarded as useless where friendship forming is concerned.

Make Girl Friends.

"About Lorraine and her desire to meet people she would care to have for friends," a young matron advises, "the most common way to make men friends is to make girl friends. If the girl friends are worth while their men friends and relatives generally are worth while also. Granted a young woman is taken up by girls, she is bound to meet these men sooner or later. But at this point there must be something interesting in Lorraine to attract and impress the men so that she will be more than just another acquaintance.

"Let her sum up her good and bad points. What is she interested in—music, art, athletics, social work, politics, books, or what? What does she talk and think about? It isn't credible that a girl's only interests are for dates and more dates and flirting and more flirting, and nothing else besides It's a back number of a girl today who hasn't some interest in her life the pursuit of which must bring her in contact with young men or with girls, and later their men acquaintances, as before suggested.

"I'm not long out of my 'teens, and a couple of years ago I was in practically the same boat as Lorraine now is—with a few differences, particularly my attitude toward men. I wasn't as crazy about them, maybe. I liked them, to be sure, but then they weren't the sole interest. I was interested in athletics and it was through athletics I met my husband.

"There are organizations behind every movement in which a young person might be interested, but there is no organization that I know of catering to tastes that are indefinite or vague. O, there may be those so-called lonesome clubs. But what I mean is that you are apt to meet much more congenial friends among people pursuing the thing that you are interested in.

"For example, my best friend found herself alone in a great city. But she didn't sit down and pine about it. She joined a night class in connection with a well known university. There she met the boy who will become her husband some day this June."

Another Angle.

There is another angle to the lonesome girl which "Richard" points out. "I've often wondered," he advances, "when I see letters of the kind Lorraine wrote, whether one needs go far to find out why the individual is neglected and the reason for lack of male companionship, which is a perfectly normal desire.

"The trouble lies with the girl herself," Richard repeats. "This particular girl says she has a good job but cannot afford dazzling raiment, nor membership in clubs or classes. Apparently, then, she is just an average girl of fair ability, ordinary intelligence and appearance, of whom there are thousands in any city. She wishes some one to dance and flirt with her—some one to take her about—and she says emphatically not 'a dance hall clerk or gum chewing, garlic scented sheik.'

"The girl is certain of what she wants, but what reason has she for thinking she should have it? In other words, what qualities has she to offer a young business or professional man in return for his companionship? She lays down what she expects him to do, but not a word about her part of the bargain. And this is one reason why girls go lonesome. They simply want more than they have to offer in return.

Ready When Chance Came.

"I'm a young business man, 29, and by my own efforts I have acquired an education, a real job and enough money to maintain a modest bachelor apartment and a car. My parents gave me a high school education, and for several years I went to night school after working all day. I spent my spare time reading and taking care of my health in a gym class.

"When my chance came I was prepared and I owe my present position, not to luck or pull, but to preparation. It may sound egotistical. I only mean to infer that girls might likewise be prepared for something more than an idle line of chatter and a purposeless life for their meeting with the 'big chance.'

"Girl friends are chosen for certain qualities one admires. It may be the ability to talk well on subjects that interest us. It may be because they are making a success of their business or professional life. It may be an unusual personality. But, they have something to offer beside being just 'another female.'"

The conviction on both sides, then, reads that you can't be just girl. You must be girl plus something to offer. And the surest way of remaining "just another female," as Richard calls it, is to settle down to wishing and hoping for fate to deal you a lucky card instead of getting out and around where the real games of friendship making are being played.

If you would like to be choosey, which is your unquestioned privilege, you must grant the same privilege to men and so prepare yourself that you will measure up as well as they when they do make your acquaintance.

I think the point well taken, for interesting girls are not lonesome girls.

Forewarned.

I dreamed I was in an automobile accident. The car in which I was driving collided with a car going in the opposite direction. The left fender of our car was badly damaged, but luckily no one was hurt.

I related my dream to the family the following morning at the breakfast table but nothing more was thought about it. In the afternoon, mother, who had just learned to drive, took the car out and just as I had dreamed we collided with a car and the left fender smashed. I was thrilled when I thought of my dream. E. S.

Earning the Quarter.

When I was a boy my father offered me 25 cents (which looked like a big amount to me at that time) if I would locate the nest of a pure bred hen. This I was unable to do until I had a dream that I had located it with nine eggs, in the back end of an old sleigh that had been stored away for the summer.

As soon as I got up in the morning I hurried to the old sleigh and, reaching over into the back end, put my hand right on the hen. There were nine eggs in the nest, the same as I had seen in my dream. A. A. G.

Held Up.

My husband is a milkman and has to leave home at 3 a. m.

After he left one morning I went to sleep and dreamed he was getting held up by two men with revolvers in their hands.

I wakened frightened and heard the door bell.

It was my husband telling me that while waiting for a street car he had been held up just as I had dreamed, and had been robbed of every cent he had. H. M.

Making a Profit on Snow.

During a snowstorm I called upon a neighbor. I noticed pan after pan full snow on the porch and she would empty them into a large container as they filled.

Asking her motive, she replied: "I catch all the snow I can for soft water, even though my cistern is full. I sometimes sell it to neighbors without cisterns for five cents per pail."

ONE end of the main lounge shows the beautiful walnut walls and the deep brown rug designed by Mr. Hopkins. The chairs, being upholstered in light-colored fabrics, bring a note of femininity and color into the room. A mural will be placed over the mantel.

THIS view of a corner of the main lounge shows the long, sweeping lines of the walls which the mirror framed in bronze accentuates. In this room there is no overhead lighting. It is all done by floor lamps and by fixtures in the walls. Note the fixture at the right, designed to reflect the light rays.

If This Is Your Birthday Prepare for Surprises

By Jupiter

THE affliction of Saturn by the moon and sun will make this a disappointing day for many. This configuration also tends to depression, impatience and delay, and the best way to get through the period is to forget one's self and devote the time to religious observances, reading and study.

If this is your birthday many surprising events are coming into your life. More than once during the next twelve months you will stop and say to yourself, "Why, I never dreamed this could happen to me!" Unexpected opportunities will present themselves from unknown sources and you will be able to get just about anything you wish in the way of employment during this period.

A child born today will be clever, alert, intuitive, erratic, given to strange ideas, but generous and just. He will have to work hard for everything he gets and learn early in life to stand alone. Many obstacles will fill his path, but he will succeed in spite of them and his will be the kind that lasts.

Monday, May 6.

This is a splendid day to present new and original ideas. Anything that is out of the ordinary and unorthodox is favored during this period. After 7:24 p. m. the evening is good for social affairs and artistic matters.

If this is your birthday sudden changes and unexpected happenings will mark the next twelve months. Some of these will be good. Others will be disappointing, but altogether the oncoming period is more pleasant than otherwise. You will meet people of learning and in some of your experiences will find their advice of great value.

A child born today will possess remarkable talents. He will be deeply interested in everything scientific and may achieve great renown for his work in this field. He will appear erratic and different from other children, but his parents should encourage and sympathize with his thirst for knowledge.

Tuesday, May 7.

Except for a brief period between 11:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. today offers many opportunities for achievement. Several good aspects prevail which create energy, aggressiveness, and self confidence. Liquids, oils, lands and the products of the earth are also favored. The evening will be auspicious for social affairs and domestic felicity.

If this is your birthday the oncoming year is marked with pleasure and happiness for you. If you are young enough to contemplate romance and marriage this will prove a fortunate time for such a transaction. If you have passed the courtship-age, young people will bring you many joys and fill your days with contentment.

A child born today will be gracious, generous, high spirited, popular and extremely accomplished in dancing, sports and games. He will have to accept responsibility for others and make his own way in the world but he will be successful if he learns that there is a time for everything and does not devote too many of his working hours to his hobbies.

Wednesday, May 8.

The new moon is in eclipse with the sun at 2:07 p. m. today and until this aspect is completed the hours are not propitious for any but routine affairs. After 2 p. m. conditions improve and important matters can be pushed with aggressiveness. The evening will be good for social functions, business conferences and health efforts.

If this is your birthday you have a favorable twelve months before you. Many new interests will come to you and the indications are that you will become engaged in much larger projects and business affairs than in the past. Success will attend your efforts.

A child born today will be quiet, secretive, thoughtful and sensitive. He will live within himself and ponder at length upon the meaning of life. He will not be understood by the average person and for that reason will appear to lead a lonely existence but as his happiness comes from within he does not need to surround himself with gay friends.

He will be determined, persevering and reliable and will make his own way successfully.

Thursday, May 9.

Two major planets, Mars and Saturn, reflect violent rays upon the earth today which will create aggressive impulses in people. Under this configuration tragedies occur and later the perpetrator wails, "I don't know why I did it." Guard your emotions and your temper and avoid arguing during the period and you will have nothing to regret when the sway has passed.

If this is your birthday and you are not on the retired list, the oncoming year is the most important of your life. It all depends upon you during the next twelve months whether the remainder of your time on earth will be to your satisfaction or not. Be on the alert for every opportunity. Push every chance offering until you are confident you have exhausted its possibilities. Be aggressive, determined and industrious. Jupiter rules your year and will aid in bringing you success.

A child born today is destined for an outstanding career. He will be aggressive, confident, brilliant, and reliable. He will be at the back of any great movement for the general benefit of mankind and will have the courage to force his convictions upon others. Great success is written for him in any work to do with engineering projects, construction, or the management of big corporations.

Friday, May 10.

Neptune and Uranus form aspects today which aid those interested in the study of metaphysics. General business and correspondence are favored by a benign Mercury and much good can be accomplished by those who do not permit the slightly adverse vibrations between 2 p. m. and 6 p. m. to interfere with their efforts. The evening is good for social affairs, particularly anything pertaining to art or music.

If this is your birthday a year without a dull moment is before you. Much life and details of life will eddy around you and you will be amused, entertained, saddened and gladdened by the news you hear. Any new plans which you undertake during the next twelve months promise a remarkable reward and you will be somewhat amazed at your own good fortune.

A child born today will be witty, brilliant, conceited, popular, attractive and fond of a good time. He will acquire considerable knowledge, but it will be for the purpose of display and not from a deep and profound love for learning. He would succeed as a writer of humorous stories, artist, actor, lecturer, cartoonist.

Saturday, May 11.

Because the strongest vibration operating today is the moon's opposition to saturn, it is advisable to proceed with caution with each undertaking and duty during this period. This configuration also affects the health, and only the simplest foods should be eaten at this time.

If this is your birthday, 1929 is a favorable year for you, particularly in regard to friendship and marriage. Ties formed during the twelve months should prove beneficial in more than one way and of a permanent nature.

A child born today will be high strung, changeable, kind, cheerful, affectionate, attractive and refined. He must learn to be direct, determined and decisive. He will have to stand alone, but will make money and marry early in life. He would be successful as a banker, organizer, director, manufacturer, foreman, secretary or in the catering and baking business.

PREPAREDNESS.

By Eleanor Jewett.

I planted a calendar
Deep in the ground
So worms might read it,
If worms were around—

Or beetles (particular ones
That were smart)
Would find it and learn all
The numbers by heart.

Then they'd tell the dandelions,
Yellow of head,
It's time for all flowers to
Be out of their bed.

And when I went walking
I'd find all around
A hundred of flowers, like
Gold on the ground.

$5 Apiece for Bright Sayings

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune.

Joyce, 4, and Junior, 3, raced down to their father's store. Joyce got there first and let the screen door slam on Junior.

There was a scream and his mother called, "Junior, are you hurt?".

"No, I isn't hurted, but Joyce shut the door and left my arm outside!"

Remove Those Stubborn Cigarette Stains

Here's a simple method for removing cigarette stains and odor from the fingers. Get some Chlonite powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth and wash the fingers. Every particle of stain will disappear, every trace of odor vanish, and your hands will be left soft and white. It's really wonderful!

FRIEND IN NEED

By Sally Joy Brown.

I want to be the medium through which the friends in deed and the friends in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy and you would gladly give it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send letters to The Tribune, but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

With Mother's Day Approaching, Sally Asks You to Remember the Older People and to Help Those Who Are in Need of Comfort

ALL of us like to think that a life of hard work and devotion to family is rewarded in some measure by peaceful and contented old age. I'm sure, too, that when some simple help will do much to bring this about, many of us will be glad to give it. Here's a good example of what I mean:

"My daughter is a widow and an invalid, and I have to support her and her children as well as herself," writes Mrs. F. "Right now she needs a surgical brace, size 56, but it's out of the question for me to buy it. I'm just out of the County hospital and behind with everything, so there isn't a penny to spare. If someone would just help my daughter, it would do a lot for us."

Here is another case, where hardship and worry can be ended, by giving the chance which should belong to every one:

"I have been an invalid for the last three years," writes Mrs. E. W. "My husband has been out of work and going so hard to get some, but as he is over 50 it is impossible to get anything. We are both badly in need of everything, especially clothing of all kinds. My husband is almost in rags. He is five feet eleven inches tall. I am size 42. I can sew a little, so I can make things fit, and is any one will give my husband work we would be so thankful. I have had two strokes of paralysis."

There is no need to add comment upon a need as clear as that. And so it goes with dozens, scores of cases, we have on record, where no fault but that of passing years has created need. Old age comes with particularly bitter and trying force, when an individual has done his best, yet still must carry on, and support others into the bargain. Surely all of us will do what we can to help make these burdens easier.

In Desperate Straits.

"I am appealing to you in behalf of a woman who is in urgent need of assistance. Her husband is dying, she has three small children dependent upon her, and she is expecting another soon. She has nothing for the new baby and it has even reached the point where she doesn't know where their next meal is coming from. Friends have been helping her as much as they can, but they are not able to do much more. MRS. A. R."

Here is a state of affairs nothing short of tragic—this utterly dependent mother and her three helpless children. Won't you do what you can for them by supplying at least the much needed baby clothes?

Wishes for Camera.

"I would appreciate it if you would help to obtain a camera or any books on photography for me. I am a patient in a tuberculosis sanitarium and I would like to utilize my spare time doing something useful. J. P."

A Bowery Formal.

The Phi D's, to speak in the vernacular of the affair, were "throwing" a Bowery formal. All the men came garbed as bootleggers, gunmen, pugilists, or rubes. The women similarly were dressed in approved modern underworld style as night club hostesses, dancers, etc., strutting about in characteristic poses.

The rooms were decorated with beer signs and appropriate sporting pictures. In one room was a life sized bar with root beer on tap and big round game tables at which one could eat and play bridge. The conversation was picturesque, as was the dancing.

All the stags gave an imitation of a German band and the dean toasted his partners in a huge mug inscribed with his name.

The programs were board affairs tied with hemp rope and contained such startling information as: "If members are pulled off the management would appreciate it if they were done as quietly as possible," or "Any one attendin' this brawl who ain't howling by 9 o'clock will have to turn in their liquor for inspection." E. P.

The SONG is ENDED

By FRANK R ADAMS

A Back Stage Story of Amber Lee, Al Baker, America's Most Popular Singing Comedian, and Timid Joe Herman, Caught in One of Those Tense Dramas That Defy Fiction.

THE man who sat in the last row of the gallery had written the hit song of "Baker's Dozen," but nobody knew it except himself.

When the orchestra played the introduction and vamp, it had sounded familiar, and when Al Baker, the star of the show, began to sing the verse he was certain. The words had been changed, but the music was almost exactly as he had composed it, three years before. His original manuscript copy, dirty and travel-worn, lay at the bottom of his dresser drawer amid other sediment of his half-forgotten life, just as it had returned from its last listless journey to a music publisher's. It had gone out on many such journeys, each one a less hopeful venture, until at last there were no more places to send it.

Up to this moment Joe Herman had supposed that his winged child had died without any one's knowing of its existence except himself. And now here it was, astonishingly alive and disporting itself vigorously in the glorious raiment of a perfect orchestration, being sung by the star of the show, who knew, better than any other man in America, how to bring out the last flicker of value from a song. And then, finally, on a repeat, the melody became the foundation upon which Amber Lee, the season's most interesting dancing comedienne, built up a rhythmical monument of movement that made all other forms of poetry quite superfluous.

Joe was torn between pride at having originally conceived the beautiful thing that had just been handed back to him on a golden platter and anger at the thought that it had been ruthlessly stolen from him, and that but for the accident of his having dropped it at this tryout performance in a dog town he would probably never have known about it. Because Joe seldom had money enough to travel to New York, where shows of the "Baker's Dozen," "Ziegfeld Follies," and "George White Scandals" type flourish, and besides that, even if he ever were in New York, he would probably take his musical refreshment in somewhat more catholic form at Carnegie hall, where jazz seldom disturbs the acoustics.

Joe was a musician at heart, but he made his living, what little there was of it, as a clerk in a law office. From his association with legal matters he knew that a wrong, or "tort," as the lawyers laughingly call it, had been perpetrated upon him. What redress he might exact he did not precisely know, but it seemed advisable to seek some one's heart blood. And, furthermore, to do it immediately because Plattsville was only a one night stand, even on the dog circuit, and tomorrow the "Baker's Dozen" show would be out of the reach of all but expensive litigation. There was no way of instituting a legal action that night, so Joe finally decided to take matters into his own hands.

Doubtless, that was what destiny intended him to do. For upon that decision hung all the rest of Joe's life and a degree of depth of joy and sorrow that he would otherwise never have known.

ANYBODY can find the stage door of a theater. The trick that takes the doing is to "crash" it and penetrate to the star's dressing room. Al Baker was feeling a bit mellow already from having allowed himself three drinks during the last act, or he would not have finally given in to Joe's repeated messages that he "must see him." It had cost Joe five dollars in installments just to get the messages delivered.

"All right," Baker had conceded good naturedly. "He might be a relative. I've traveled this way a good many years, and I sort of forget who I may have married. But hold the door open, Bill, if you see me swinging him in your direction by the slack of his pants."

Joe Herman introduced himself as an attorney. He thought that might sound well in view of what he was going to say.

Baker indicated a rickety dressing room chair and devoted himself to the tying of a cravat and the final adjustment of his street clothes. "What," he asked, "can I do for you?"

"Do you know who wrote the music of your hit song, 'High Brown Honey'?" Joe asked without sitting down.

"Why, I wrote it," the actor replied, without even turning around. "Darn good number, isn't it? Are you a professional or—but I can see you're not."

"No, I'm not an actor, if that's what you mean, but I wrote the music of 'High Brown Honey.'"

Baker did turn around now. He not only turned around but he also laughed. "My dear boy, don't you know that every time a song or a play makes a hit immediately half a dozen people claim that it was stolen from them? However, you interest me. What makes you think you wrote 'High Brown Honey'?"

"O, I know I wrote it. You've changed the melody in one line to make it easier to sing, but I have a manuscript copy of the song as I originally composed it."

"Where is the copy?"

"At home."

Baker regarded him with an indulgent and slightly sneering smile. "That's what they all say. Of course you have a manuscript of the song or can have as soon as you write it down. If you had it here right now it might mean something, but——"

JOE HERMAN regarded the actor-composer imperturbably. For the first time in his life he was conscious of the tremendous sustaining force that comes from knowing that what you say is true.

"How long," he asked Baker, "would it take you or any good lyric writer to fit words to a tricky melody like the one you call 'High Brown Honey'?"

"O, a couple of hours, if you had the title and a sort of a good running idea of what you wanted."

"And it would take an amateur like me a lot longer than that, wouldn't it? The song isn't published yet. Nobody outside of your company ever heard it in this town before tonight. But I know another lyric to it—the one I wrote when I wrote the music—and it fits the melody a lot closer than yours does. There's a piano on the stage. Come on out and I'll prove it to you."

Little self-effacing Joe was so excited that he was irresistible. Baker followed him to the stage and watched him throw back the lid of the battle-scarred piano that had been placed under a working strip light. There was to be a chorus rehearsal yet that night before the train left.

"I'm not a pianist," Joe explained, "but I know enough about harmony to prove I'm not faking."

He played the introduction. Then he sang:

My ol' dady workin' like the scratch,
Hoein' sweet pertaters in the 'tater patch;
Sunny days or in the rain,
Sweatin', stoopin', bent with pain,
My ol' daddy don' complain.
But when dusk comes stealin' by,
He looks up there, way, way high
To Ol' Man Mountain holdin' up the sky,
He shake his fist and then he say:
'Ol' Man Mountain, don't go away.'

Ol' Man Mountain, Ol' Man Mountain,
Got to climb you 'fore I die;
Down here all is dark and dreary;
My bones achin', my heart weary.
So Ol' Man Mountain, Ol' Man Mountain,
Got to climb you 'fore I die.
Got to see there, got to be there,
Where there ain't no care or frettin'.
I keep elidin', I keeps slippin',
Climb a little, then I'm trippin';
It's so dark cause the sun am settin',
I can't see but I ain't forgettin'
Ol' Man Mountain, Ol' Man Mountain,
Got to climb you 'fore I die.

BEFORE he had finished playing and singing Joe had collected quite an audience. Performers on their way to the street and chorus girls in their practice clothes lingered to hear the unfamiliar words that so closely fitted the rhythm of their song hit. They had all instinctively stopped in back of him, however, so Joe did not know of their presence.

"There," he said, "if I hadn't known that song a long time I couldn't have sung those words to it, could I?"

"I guess you must have written it," Baker admitted. "And that son of a gun in the publisher's office said he owned it. I paid him fifty bucks for it, too.' The actor-composer was covered with chagrin, not at having been caught claiming a melody that was not his own, but at the thought that he had been swindled by a music thief cleverer than himself.

"Well," he brushed the entire matter aside as something of minor importance, "no matter who wrote the music, you got to admit that I made something out of it by dressing it up in a snappy lyric."

"But your lyric doesn't fit the movement of the melody."

"But yours sounds like a Negro spiritual."

"It was meant to. It's half savage, half religious, almost." Joe had forgotten all about the ownership of the melody, too, in the defense of his lyric.

"Could we hear the chorus again?" A very pleasant voice interjected itself into the discourse.

"My chorus?" asked Baker.

"No, the other one—about the mountain." The voice belonged to one of the girls in rompers—practice clothes—but she was a little more glorious than the rest—more luxuriously tawny and lithe. Joe recognized her finally as the girl who had danced alone after Baker's singing.

"Sure, honey, if you want to listen again. Sing it again for Miss Lee," Baker commanded, just as if Joe were his pet performing monkey and not the man who had come back stage to make him all the trouble he possibly could.

Joe started to say that he wouldn't, then he caught Miss Lee's eye and capitulated instantly. There was something so friendly and so eager about the way she looked and smiled that scarcely any one could have resisted her, surely not bashful Joe Herman.

So he started the introduction again. Before he had finished the preliminary bars Miss Lee, Amber Lee, he remembered from the program, had swung herself noiselessly from the floor to the top of the piano, where she sat facing him, her slim silken legs tucked under her so as to be out of his way.

Joe resolutely avoided looking at her and sang through the chorus.

"Again, again, please," she begged. "Al, are you getting those words?"

"O, I've got 'em, all right," Baker admitted. "I guess I can sing any song I've heard twice."

"Then sing it this time, your way, you know, like you did 'Dixie Gal.'"

AL BAKER did as requested. Even then Joe Herman sensed that Baker did practically anything that Amber Lee wanted him to. He put it across. As he dug into the lyric for himself Baker found new possibilities in it that even Joe had not suspected. He started softly, sadly, changed midway to pleading, and finished madly triumphant.

When he got through nobody said anything. Nothing happened. Just silence.

Then Amber Lee broke it huskily. "Any time that isn't a better lyric than 'High Brown Honey,' I'm willing to eat one peck of horse feathers. And listen, Al, will you do it in the staircase set instead of in 'one' the way you're handing it out now and let me work up the dance there on the steps. I'll start at the bottom and keep going up all the time with the increasing forte in the orchestra——"

"And when you get to the top," interrupted Joe Herman, all shyness obliterated by eager interest, "you ought to have everything dark on the stage except a kind of a little ray of sunlight on your head and then on the last chord that ought to go out, like sunset or death on a mountain top, I mean."

"What do you mean, death?" demanded the world's greatest singing comedian. "Do you think this opera is something by Shakespeare?"

"He doesn't mean really death," explained Amber, scrambling from the piano top, "and nobody in the audience will ever know what he does mean. But they'll get an impression of something a little sad and a little triumphant, and because I know what he means I'll be able to feel it every time when I get on that top step, feel it and make the cash customers think they've seen something besides just a new version of 'The Black Bottom.' Wait, I'll show you. Play it again, mister. Wait! Just a little slower and accent the off beat. That's it."

IT certainly was.

Before Joe left the theater the next morning the entire number had been rearranged, Al Baker was singing it as he had never sung anything before in all his life, which you must admit was some singing, and Amber Lee was putting the poetry of savage motion to the climbing melody that followed her with crashing footsteps up the stairway. Al had had the stage hands haul the scene off from the waiting trucks and had himself taken off his coat and collar in order to put the proper enthusiasm into his work.

When Joe got home he realized that nothing further whatever had been said about the ownership of the song. All he knew was that he would not have withdrawn it from the show now for any amount of money and that he was going on to Stamford to hear it sung his way the next night and that a rehearsal for the number had been called for the next afternoon in Stamford. Every one seemed to take it for granted that he would be there.

That was how Joe Herman got into the show business.

"You stick with me on a salary," Al Baker had offered a week or so later. "I can't very well give you back your song. It'll sell up in the million class with my name on it, but it wouldn't be worth a nickel with yours. But I'll give you a hundred a week to be a ghost writer for me, and you probably won't have to turn out another number until the run of this show is over and that ought not to be for two years, anyhow. What do you say?"

Joe would have said that he would see him in hell first had it not been for the fact that two things had gotten under his skin and had become as important in the continuance of life as heart beats and breathing. One of these was show business—the necessity of being in a theater at overture time. The other was Amber Lee.

Never more would he be happy away from the sights and smells of the stage. He might not have anything important to do there, but his presence was imperative.

That was the only urge that he admitted to himself. The other one—the desire to be near Amber Lee—was so utterly ridiculous that he went around covering it up whenever an edge of it crept into his consciousness.

Amber was obviously Al Baker's girl. Al was on intimate terms with lots of others, too, but in the theater it was Amber to whom he deferred, with whom he even generously shared honors. In the matter of the "Ol' Man Mountain" number, for instance—what singer would allow another performer to pick up an encore on a hit like that unless there was something besides mere professional courtesy between them?

It never occurred to Joe that he might take Al's girl away from him. Al's was the sort of robust personality, built up even beyond normal proportions by years of success on the stage alongside of which individuals like Joe Herman, afflicted with inferiority complexes anyway, fade into colorless jellyfish.

All that Joe could do about his passion for Amber was to stifle it as much as possible without resorting to the drastic remedy of never seeing her again. That couldn't be done—not if you really knew Amber.

Because Amber, no matter whose girl she was, had been given the keys to eternal springtime. She was in tune with everything! When she moved it was absolutely to the tempo of your heart. Her dance steps were the ones you would do yourself if you were able to express your happiest moods in rhythm.

SO Joe stayed with the show, first as as a sort of a barnacle and then, later, as a member of the orchestra, when they found out he was a very fair violinist. Joe had only one objection to sitting in the orchestra pit during the show—he was partly under the stage apron and could not see Amber when she danced. Joe, in fact, did not see his "Ol' Man Mountain" number for nearly three months. He heard Al Baker do magic tricks with it and he listened apathetically to the thunders of applause that the other man received for his own work, but never saw what Amber had done with the dance on the steps.

Never saw it, that is, until quite unexpectedly one night he found himself leading the Sphere theater orchestra. Harry Sanderson, the regular conductor, had been called away by an impending death in his family and the house leader was ill. Joe did not know, but it was Amber herself who had suggested to Al Baker that he try Joe out at the job.

"Humph!" grunted the manager-star. "How come? Have you adopted this pint pocket bozo? He wouldn't have the nerve to handle that crew of wops in the pit."

"Yes, he will. He'll forget everything but the music, and me," she concluded modestly.

"O, you know he's in love with you?"

"Yes. But isn't everybody?"

"Help! Some of us conceal it."

"You don't." She sat on his lap and kissed him eight times.

At the seventh kiss he promised to give Joe a trial. The eighth was by way of thanks.

SO Joe was allowed to play on the mightiest instrument yet devised by man—an orchestra. True, it was not a symphony orchestra, but it consisted of twenty-six men, which is a lot for a theater organization, and it was capable of thrilling diapasons.

And besides that he saw Amber Lee as he was ever after to visualize her—he looking up and she smiling down—at him. No matter how little passed between them at other times, no matter to whom she belonged elsewhere, there was always this nightly period during which they were united in a communion that was more satisfying to Joe than any mere physical embrace could ever be.

Beneath her tiny, naked feet he spread a soft carpet of sound. Her golden body was practically unclothed save for the warm melody in which he wrapped it. And yet he probably never realized her physical flesh at all except, perhaps, as an animation of sound.

Another result of giving Joe a baton to wield was the discovery that he was not a shy misfit in the world at all. Up to then he had never found a place where he could use his power, that was all. Now, with a powerful machine under him, he became a sort of demigod. He could get more out of that orchestra than even Harry Sanderson, the veteran director, had. For orchestras do not direct themselves even though a well rehearsed and practiced organization may seem to. The elusive quality of the music is all in the fingertips of the man who makes the silly little motions with the stick.

Joe had a feeling for that quality that was similar to Amber Lee's spiritual contributions to the motions of the dance, similar also to Al Baker's lift-you-out-of-your-seat method of singing a song. You, of course, have sat behind the wheel of an automobile. You know what a sense of power that gives you. Well, the leader of an orchestra has that feeling only more so.

THE song, then, was the link that joined together these three oddly assorted personalities, made a working team out of individuals who might have been at swords' points away from its influence. The melody also was the backbone of the show. Nothing else in the revue was especially distinguished, but a show doesn't need more than one smashing hit. Baker used it several times during the two acts, once with a male chorus and later for a spectacular chorus soft shoe dance.

Thus, it was almost a living thing, or at least the spiritual essence of a living thing. The show existed only because "Ol' Man Mountain" breathed in it and the three people, Al, Joe, and Amber, were united in a sort of offensive and defensive alliance merely because each of them had touched the highest point of his life on the current of the melody.

Most curious of all was the relation between the two men. Joe wasn't sure whether he hated Al nearly enough to kill him or if he secretly liked him. Al was one of the lovable disgraces of the show business. Frequently drunk, always a hunter of women, he yet managed by virtue of a boyish generosity and good nature to achieve a popularity seldom accorded by actors to a member of their own profession. The public knew him only as an entertaining clown and a silver throated singer. His intimates regarded him as an uncanonised Samaritan.

So many people couldn't be wrong and yet Joe knew that Al was a selfish, unprincipled ruffian in his treatment of Amber Lee. Amber apparently regarded him as something of a god, while he, in return, acted anything but godlike toward her. If he had been even outwardly faithful to her it would not have been so bad. But he made no pretense of caring for her alone, although he accepted her unwavering, unquestioning devotion as something inalienably his.

To her, apparently, Baker could do no wrong. Whatever way he treated her was the only way she expected to be treated. Secretly disgusted though he was, Joe had to admit that it must be wonderful for a man to be loved as she seemed to care for Baker.

Not that Amber did not have a secret and funny little place in her heart for Joe, himself. She had an affection for him.

How much the show depended on Baker was proven during the second season when, for a week, he was out on account of illness. Joe suspected that the illness came out of a bottle. But that did not matter. The show was wrecked, anyway. A very good young comedian with a pleasing voice was secured to take Al's place, but he couldn't do it. Al, it seemed, lifted the show, this other chap simply went along with it. Business dropped almost to nothing and there was talk of closing.

Then Al came back. So did business—everything, including a sort of excited happiness that hovers over a successful show and which droops its wings when the box office thermometer goes below blood heat.

But Al's buoyancy, while just as great as ever during a performance, was based more on stimulants and flagged appreciably when he was not making an effort. He did not drink much except just before and during a performance. That was rather a curious state of affairs, because, prior to his illness, it had been the other way 'round. Off stage he had once thrown his magnificent vitality to every wind that blew. Now he seemed to be saving it for his audiences.

EVEN Joe Herman did not understand what Al's change of front meant, and he ought to have known if any one did, because they stood face to face every night during the show and on matinee days besides, and Joe never took his eyes from Al's features while he was singing. There was nothing that Joe noticed, nothing unless it was that the perspiration stood out on Al's lip a little more easily, especially on days when it was not really warm at all, and Al seemed disinclined to take encores unless the audience absolutely insisted upon them.

Quite positively Joe did not understand that Al had been warned by his physicians. Otherwise, of course, Joe would never have attempted to knock Al down on that day when he had caught the comedian kissing one of the chorus girls right in front of Amber.

Al didn't understand it, either, but he blocked Joe's wild swing and then, with a good natured laugh that was characteristic of the man, dragged Joe into his own dressing room. Not until they were inside with the door closed did Al allow his grip on Joe to relax and sink, panting, into a chair.

"Now," he said, finally, "what's the idea? That broad wasn't your property, was she?"

Joe laughed grimly. "No."

"Then why mind my giving her a little smack?"

"I don't mind, but Amber might."

"O, that's it! You're Amber's guardian? Or her sweetheart, perhaps?" He added the last with sneering sarcasm.

"No, I'm nothing to Amber. I just resented the fact that since she loves you, you should give her any heartache. At least you could keep from flaunting any other woman in her face publicly."

"Um," Al considered. "Has Amber ever complained to you of any [illegible] ouzy?"

"No. But Amber would not complain about anything to anybody."

"You think pretty highly of her, don't you?"

"Yes. I'd go through any hell for her if it is to save her from being hurt."

"I imagined so. You probably will have to go through hell for her or anything else as soon as I sit down a minute while I write a note."

It took considerably longer than a minute and Joe wondered somewhat why he should be compelled to write. But he understood rather better when Al handed it to him and he saw that it was addressed to himself.

"Open it after I'm dead, Joe. It's kind of a will. Of course, if you get in first, I'll take it back. That's all."

IT was shortly after this that Norman Stanley happened along. No matter how or when he got acquainted with Amber. His presence and attendance on her after the performance almost nightly became an established fact.

Norman Stanley was what we call English type. A very fair caricature of it is, however, developed at our eastern universities. At any rate, he was tall, straight, and clean limbed with close cropped wavy blond hair and a pink and white complexion that had apparently stayed with him from boyhood. Norman was, in fact, mostly more than a boy in years or experience. To see him with Amber, the incarnation of youth, you got the impression that this was the first experience of life for both of them.

Al Baker, apparently, had not the slightest objection to having young Stanley around.

"He's a member of a fine family, well educated, and there's a lot of money coming to him when his mother and uncles kick off." This Al explained to Joe when they both happened to see Amber starting out under the man's escort.

Al regarded the intrusion of an outsider with more complacency than Joe could muster. The latter had developed fiercely the esprit du corps of the theater, which automatically bars from the inner circle of intimacy all persons who do not know a "prop" from a "cluster."

Joe had nothing to lose, and yet he resented much more keenly than Al the fact that Amber's leisure was practically monopolized by a supercilious who even took her out to the places where show people [illegible] see one another after the show. Evidently he patronized only the extremely ritzy cafés or went only to private parties.

Summer was just over the horizon. Nights were beginning to get warm and theatrical attendance fell off. Shows began closing all around them, falling silently and face forward like men under rifle fire. The "Baker's Dozen" review hung on, but there were not quite so many customers. This was partly accounted for, perhaps, by the fact that Al was becoming more listless in his performance.

He didn't seem quite to be able to key himself up to it, and the vigor poured out of him more profusely after each number. He began cutting out his other songs or assigning them to others with the exception of "Ol' Man Mountain," which was the backbone of the show and which no one else could do with even approximate satisfaction.

THEN came the notice. Two weeks.

A successful show under sentence of death is a pathetic thing to those who watch by the bedside. The members of a family ever see so much of each other as do the actors in a stage play. They work side by side on the same harness for three or four hours per day, and actually all of their waking moments are primarily dominated by one common purpose. Love affairs, gambling, recreation of all sorts may seem to occupy them, but to the troupers those are negligible side issues. Life really begins and ends with the rise and fall of the curtain.

And when the finish is in sight the puppets become strangely forlorn. Scarcely any one has another job in view, other friends and associates of former years are lost track of. The actors have functioned so long as a team that to contemplate individual effort is rather like being on a ship that is sinking beneath their very feet.

The sounds and motions of everything go on from a play that is dying the end of its run; but its spirit is numb. It isn't sad, exactly; rather it is absolutely and almost [illegible] anesthetized into an apathy that will last until it is all over.

And a last performance! There are tales of the wild gayety of occasions that are closing successful seasons, but never believe it. There may be later and there may be pranks, but what heavy hearts are saying over and over:

"This is the last time I'll do this step."

"I'll never say those words again."

"This costume will fade in the storeroom and I shall never put it on after tonight."

"That woman whose lips I have kissed every night for two years will be merely an acquaintance tomorrow."

"The song that I have sung night after night for hundreds of thousands of people will never find an echo from the walls of a theater."

Joe, in the orchestra pit, listening to the discordant tuning of his musicians, was wondering how the people in the audience in back of him could chatter so noisily and inconsequentially when the world about to go to pieces before their eyes. Amber, in her dressing

The TRIBUNE Cook Book

Gala Menus of Foreign Countries Present a Galaxy of Food at Their Best.

All receipts have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current markets materials and are indorsed by her.

By Jane Eddington.

LISTEN, you people who are planning alumni or class banquets, club feasts, complimentary dinners, big eating powwows of almost any sort. I am about to tell you about the most lavish set of eating hospitalities I have known of in this modern day. The telling about these may fairly drown you with ideas, so that you cannot see the woods for the trees, but knowing what the groups have been in the past who have applied to me for banquet types of dinner menus, I believe I can do no more helpful thing for "you all" than this, a review of a book which describes a brilliant and wonderful tour, lasting two months, taken by some of the great dinner givers of this modern world who were fêted first here in our own America, and then in England, Belgium, Paris and the Riviera, Germany and Austria, and Italy, by the great hotels of those countries and by famous persons through the hotels.

A year or so ago one of the party who took this trip presented me with the entertaining and, for me, highly suggestive and instructive book which was got up to memorialize the trip. The title of it is, "History of the European Tour of the American Hotel Association, United States and Canada, April 3-June 3, 1926." This was a pilgrimage of good will, and in the book we have a longer list of what are real party menus than any maker of "a party book" would devise, and all more real ones because every one catalogues a meal that was actually served.

It will be impossible even in six pages of copy to give anything other than a brief review of this record of what all the world is eating at the beginning of the second quarter of the twentieth century, and particularly of what is current as springtime foods on two continents, even if I should set down the bare menus without running comment. It would take that amount of copy to describe the hors d'oeuvres alone, plain and fancy, with their "bouches," "delices," etc., that were served at the luncheons and dinners described. And also the words that have newly come into use on menus, words which have begun to appear in sophisticated fiction and current writing of various sorts.

An American Farewell Dinner.

The farewell dinner to this great party of dinner givers by profession was held at one of New York City's most illustrious hotels, and the name for the caviar appetizer begins the entertaining series we might make of modern caviar preparations. It is "Bouche de Caviar Malossol." Some of our home cook books have been trying for a long time to make popular that picturesque French word, "bouche," meaning a mouthful, but the idea of it has been taken over as a slang term unconnected with the cuisine.

Turtle soup with peas, celery, salted almonds, olives, an elaborate fish bit and cucumber, a mousse of Virginia ham, spinach with pastry [fleuron], breast of guinea hen, a soufflé, dainties, sparkling water, demi-tasse—all in French—made this menu.

The welcome home menu for this crowd of people began with iced cantaloupe, had a white bean soup, olives and pickles, radishes and chow-chow, corned beef and cabbage, New England green corn on the cob, punch, apple pie, American cheese, and coffee, and it was not in French. We shall mostly not mention the speeches that went with the menus quite generally.

Boat Dinners.

If there is one thing the great ocean liners are more proud of than anything else it is the way they feed people. In the middle of the forenoon there is bouillon; in the afternoon, sandwiches. They set up wonderful luncheon buffets, and their dinners are cosmopolitan menus. I have met many foods for the first time on ocean liners, and of course the captain's dinner is a real party and very gay.

The menu of the purser's dinner for this party begins with caviar, or part caviar, under the title "Les Bagatelles Moscovites." There is turtle soup, langouste, which is spiny lobster, a vol-au-vent, artichoke bottoms, woodcocks on toast, fruit salad, French pancakes, pineapple, little delicacies, French cheese, baskets of fruit and wines, of course, six kinds.

At the captain's dinner the leading item of caviar was written thus: "Les Delices de Caviar à la Parisienne." This word "delices" seems to be one coming more and more into use as one of the hors d'oeuvres. There were a cream soup and a consommé, filet of sole and a "noisette" of something or other, an ice, new asparagus with mousseline sauce, special quail, foie gras, hearts of lettuce, a mousse, cake, cheese, fruit and no wine. And all the boat meals were written up thus: "Each meal a masterpiece."

English Meals.

The first English meal was on the boat train which we who have never landed at Plymouth are likely to remember well. Here for this party we begin to see that those who were entertaining were paying the compliment suggested by beginning the meal with grapefruit. Salmon from the Severn, spring lamb, new potatoes, Surrey capon, salad, meringues and cream, dessert—which means fruit and such "sass as radishes and lettuces, often, in England—and coffee, and wines, too.

And then came a banquet at London's most famous—or one of the most famous—hosteiries, with a speech by the prime minister, and a reply which begins by a reference to the culinary art and Dr. Johnson's famous saying about the felicity of an inn chair and English fare, including Cheshire cheese.

At this great banquet the meal began with that most famous English appetizer—plovers' eggs—taking the place of the cured eggs of the Russian sturgeon, and plover's eggs it is at many of the meals served in England to this mob of travelers. I have had this appetizer in Holland in May. There was also a "delice" named for the hotel, consommé, Scotch salmon so well known to fame, Dorset mutton saddle, peas from Guernsey, and new potatoes from Jersey, which suggests what is true, that those two channel islands have furnished wonderful vegetables these many years for the London market. There were half a dozen other items and as many wines.

English Food Geography.

An entertaining item on any menu, always, it seem to me, is that which tells where a food comes from, and the luncheon menu served the travelers at Brighton begins with the American grapefruit, but has cold Christchurch salmon with cucumber salad, cutlets of Southdown lamb, new potatoes, peas, cold Sussex chicken, York ham—so famous—salad, Worthing asparagus, cream, fruit, "Frivolities," coffee.

Back in London they came for a great dinner given by a man who had been in charge of feeding British troops. This is described as "a marvel of culinary achievement." The menu was in French. The plovers' eggs were in aspic, in the salad section. Among the dozen wines was Berncastler, which I have seen mentioned in Rebecca West's writings, and I have been in doubt whether it was a cheese, or what.

There were other famous dinners given in England with menus in French, and some of the items were essentially French, with English foods obscured mostly. These were mostly given by men wearing a "Sir" before their cognomens. Berncastler figures often. One at Liverpool gave both grapefruit and caviar beginnings, but one old English dinner began with clear oxtail soup, and the menu had all the ancient spellings. Roast beef was conspicuous in it, with horseradish sauce, and there was apple tart. Tart is English enough, as everybody knows. Going to Stratford-on-Avon, the party had Devonshire cream as well as York ham, etc.

Gala English Restaurant Dinners.

Four restaurants in London, and a hotel, gave gala dinners for these travelers, with souvenirs of silver spoons, a cabaret show, etc. Two of the menus begin with plovers' eggs, and one has these, and the caviar, as well. They all borrow from France, get in American touches in their French menus, and naturally use such items as Jersey new potatoes, etc. One menu has "Biscuits Glaces Baltimore."

The duke of York was at the farewell banquet, and the menu for this begins with plovers' eggs. The whole was most elaborate and rare.

French Luncheons and Dinners.

Now we come to the real land of eating and the chapter about it is headed "France's Hospitality Is Without Limit." The buffet luncheon at Boulogne begins with "Variété Culinaire," which first word is really, we think, the most up to date for appetisers. And there are also in it those modern "delices." But hors d'oeuvres is the more general word for all these things, and in France it nearly always appears on any luncheon menu. It includes all the bouches, canapes and even bread and butter, radishes, pickles and tidbits of endless sorts.

French specialties are so numerous that we might as well give up first as last, but it is interesting to see how much the French have modernised their terms and their dishes, as has the rest of the world for which they have so long set the example.

Netherlands Eating.

I have never seen such eating in my life as in Belgium nor ever elsewhere had such excellent hotel dinners, so I feel a thrill as I come to the page of the book where it says, "Off for Belgium," where the king and queen praise American hotels etc., and give the travelers a reception.

In Holland the menus are in Dutch, and fine, and there travelers saw Dutch girls making butter, and a Dutch farmer's wedding, and each took home as a souvenir of the party an Edam cheese.

German Food.

This party was welcomed with fervor by the Germans, and had a chance to learn what was really German food, with menus sometimes in German and sometimes in the plain American language, and with plain food though constantly there were also "delicious goodies." They ate cold Rhine salmon, and at Nauheim they had "a most unique menu." It was of the type of two columns in one. At the left there were the words, "This luncheon begins with," and at the right and beginning a line below, was the name of the one who offered words of welcome.

Then, "after which there will be served," at the left, at the right this, "a dish of crabmeat embedded in spaghetti and baked in the oven . . ." And there was tender spring chicken, from a special poultry farm, potatoes, a salad, ice cream and more speaking. The drinking specialties were numerous.

The next menu is for a cold buffet, and is extremely German. The German part of the trip seems to have come to an end at a brewery, where they had a "pick me up" with white sausages.

Austrian Cuisine.

Austria has had some great foods, and has passed on a considerable number of them, including wonderful breads, to the world, and so this party had delightful but often simple luncheons there, and then highly cosmopolitan dinners with French menus but with much American feeling; and it was much the same in Switzerland at the hotels of which so many Americans have always resorted. Here "Americaine" easily gets into the menus, and even "Niagara."

And on the Riviera, where they were next, the cosmopolitan caviar and all the foods of its class get represented on the menus. A menu at Monte Carlo will also look back to the grand in history with the name of Brillat-Savarin, and things "epicurienne" not a few.

An Italian Menu.

A luncheon menu in Italy which was declared to be "a culinary triumph" had the items in both Italian and English, the latter in smaller type, as follows:

Brodo ristretto in tazza
(Consommé special, in cup).
Trotelle all'azzuro
(Small trout "au bleu").
Arrostino annegato con riso e funghi Freschi
(Veal chop with rice and French mushrooms, Milanaise).
Insalata primaverile
(New vegetable salad).
Cassata alla Siciliana
(Fancy Sicilian ice cream).
Pasticceria fine
(Small cakes)
Frutia
(Fruits).

This word "cassata," because of its frequent appearance in stories lately written, has been exciting considerable curiosity and the above definition for an ancient Italian thing is interesting.

Another Captain's Dinner.

The menu of the dinner given by the captain of the steamer on which the travelers returned is unique and a gem, and begins by asking what they would think about having some little mouthfuls of fresh caviar with the remark that their decision is waited for. The ship's "Cordon Bleu" is mentioned to the effect that he says that the consommé, "fumet" with celery, is all it professes to be. Do you know what the "demoiselle of Cherbourg" is? Well, in this case she was served on rice with a rich American sauce. Then came a tenderloin steak, described in over twenty words, not altogether illuminating. It is called a "tournedos." The asparagus seems to be linked with the cold lakes of Italy, and to recall the charming visit to them. And some one of the famous fowls of Bresse comes from the spit, and has in its cortege a romaine salad. And there are a cup Melba, and fresh strawberries, and "drolleries" from the pastry maker, with a thousand fruits, and coffee.

Perhaps you will go out and buy a hotel so that you will be eligible for any further trips like this. If you do not feel like doing so, then I have done a lot of hard work in vain in trying to sketch what these 250 people ate during two months of marvelous travel, being honored in the eating.

THE SONG IS ENDED - By Frank R. Adam

room, heard the overture begin and brushed away two glorious tears that might have smudged her makeup. And Al Baker himself resolutely downed two drinks in swift succession and called a shapely chorus girl into his dressing room to help him shut out the specter that had suddenly confronted him.

CURTAIN up!

What a brave, gay way to die!

The chorus on, all smiling. Who cares about next week's rent money? The dialogue, snapping, sparkling. The old jokes light up just as brilliantly as if they had just been rehearsed that afternoon. And the romance! It is even tenderer because it is a story that will never be told again.

And here is "Ol' Man Mountain" himself. It grips you and does things to you that you never noticed before. It is the soul of the show and it is passing. Hang on to it. But you can't. It is slipping into the groove that leads to eternity.

Here's Al Baker singing it now. What a voice the man has. He never sang it like that before. It sounds as if it was his soul, too.

The audience went wild about it. Perhaps they, too, had caught the wistful finality in the way he sang it. But Baker did not take an encore at that time. Instead he signaled for Amber to go into the dance.

The orchestration swelled up into an undulating carpet and Amber glorified it with her feet.

"Ol' Man Mountain, Ol' Man Mountain,
Got to climb you 'fore I die."

And she did. Up each step, a little fantasy of motion on each one. Higher, higher, followed by mounting music and spotlight.

Then out of the darkness came Al Baker's voice. He'd never done that before, and Joe softened the orchestral accompaniment. Al had picked up the last half of the chorus—

Got to see there, got to be there,
Where there ain't no care or frettin'.
I keep slidin', I keep slippin',
Climb a little, then I'm trippin';
It's so dark 'cause the sun am settin',
I can't see but I ain't forgettin',
Ol' Man Mountain, Ol' Man Mountain,
Got to climb you 'fore I die.

The orchestra gave its final triumphant crash, the spotlight on Amber's head snapped out, and the song was ended.

And so was the show. Al had been singing directly in front of Joe, where he always stood, usually with one foot across the footlights, on the outermost rim of the stage.

Now, in the darkness, Joe saw him sway slightly toward him and then on the final note of the music topple forward. Joe caught him. For a moment or so after the lights went up no one knew that anything had happened. The applause was terrific, thundering.

Then, gradually and curiously, it died down. Then it ceased absolutely as if some one had dropped a giant muffler over the entire house.

WHAT a corking exit!

No actor or playwright could have planned a more effective final moment. It was on the front page of every newspaper in New York in the morning.

"Dance orchestras will no longer play 'Ol' Man Mountain'," one of the write-ups began, "at least not in New York City. Because beloved Al Baker, the man who wrote it and sang it into the heart of the city, is dead.

"Al stood on the peak—he could go no higher, he 'climbed it 'fore he died.' America's most popular composer and singing comedian finished his career singing his most popular song, perhaps the greatest popular song that has ever been written.

"Thousands of friends, for every one was his friend, will mourn his passing, but also they will rejoice a little because Al went the way he would have wanted to go—singing.

"The funeral will take place Sunday morning at the Sphere theater, whose walls are still echoing to the thrill of his living voice."

There was more, most of it about Baker's long and successful career up from burlesque to the high point of Broadway's favor. And there was also a symposium of eulogy from nearly everybody from the mayor on down. Each had some story of Al Baker's kindness or generosity to tell. Apparently, according to the code of the world he lived in, Al Baker had been a good man. The fact that he drank and wrecked commandments right and left seemed only a mist before the dazzling sunlight of his unfailing gentleness and consideration for people who had not the slightest claim upon his time. He had never failed to appear at a benefit for any worthy cause whatsoever, he had always contributed to every national charitable campaign and the instances of his private and unheralded benefactions exceeded any possible listing or enumeration.

> Over the body stood Judge Lewis, a massive bronze book-end in his hand. Could anything else have been expected but arrest? . . . An uncommonly gripping mystery story by T. T. Flynn next Sunday:
> The Man Who Judged

TO Joe Herman, reading all this, it was a trifle puzzling. That he, too, had cared more for Al than for any other man in spite of the fact that he had known him for a song-thief, to mention only the mildest of his discreditable characteristics, seemed a little less incongruous considering that every one else was in the same boat.

To Joe was entrusted much of the planning for the funeral. In the company he was, with the exception of Amber, actually Al's most intimate friend.

Because he was so busy Joe did not think to read the letter which Al had given him. He had run across it and dropped it into his pocket, intending to look it over a little later, and then promptly forgotten it.

He had not seen Amber, either. Probably she was being consoled by Norman Stanley. That thought caused him a moment's bitterness, but he banished it as one that never would have clouded the mind of his late patron.

Finally everything was all ready. The stage was banked with flowers. There was scenery somewhere down underneath, but the surface was entirely covered with blossoms. Joe had an hour before the ceremony would begin. He sat down unhappily to think.

It was then that he remembered the letter and drew it out of his pocket to read.

"Dear Joe," it began, "I know Amber doesn't look as if she was any relation of mine, but she really is my sister's kid. Amber happened along one season while I was on the road and her mother cashed in before I got back. My sister was a little different from me and she hated the show business. So she left word that Amber was to be brought up in a convent. Well, that was all right, see, but she didn't leave any money to do it with. So I took over the job. But I never let Amber know who I was or that I was paying the bills, because Sis hadn't wanted her to have any connection with show business.

"But when she ran away from school and joined a troupe I knew that the blood of her grandfather—he was Joe Baker, the king of comedy—had proved too much for her and so I quietly hunted her up and got her into my own company. That was better than having her on the loose. Besides, I trained her better than any one else would have done. And we liked each other fine—almost like she was my own daughter.

"SOMETIMES I thought I'd tell her, but I never did. After she got really good, and you know how good she is, it would have been bad publicity.

"So you're the first person to get the big news. I'm passing it on to you because, when you get this, you're going to have to take my place. You get this job because I like you and because I know that you care enough for the kid to see that she gets a little happiness out of life even if it cuts into your own. Tonight you proved it to me when you swung on me because I kissed another dame in front of her, and you did that not because you was jealous but because you was afraid she would be. You was practically elected before, but that cinched it.

"When I'm on my way, and the medic says it will be pretty soon now unless I quit working, which wouldn't be any fun, anyhow, you can tell her about my being her uncle or not, just as you think best. Do whatever you think will make her feel happiest. And let that go for anything else you do after that.

"It's a pretty big order, but I have a funny hunch you will get your own greatest life happiness out of it even if it breaks your heart at the same time. You may not know what I mean by that now, but you'll find out. When you read this you are Amber's only relative. Do for her whatever you think I would do, plus whatever you would do yourself. Knowing that, you will make me feel safe about her.

"So long, boy. St. Peter has just announced my act and I'm going up to knock 'em off the clouds with a couple of my best Scotch stories and that one about the taxi driver and the duchess.

"Yours as ever, AL."

SO that was it. Joe sat with his hands in his lap trying to reconstruct Al Baker from that angle. What a boob he had been not to have guessed it! But, then, neither had Amber. Perhaps——

His meditations were interrupted by the arrival of a person who had been indirectly in his thoughts—Norman Stanley.

Stanley seemed much upset, even a little violently out of key with the atmosphere of the stage setting.

"I've got to know something and you've got to tell me," he said with distracted emphasis.

"Yes?"

"You're not like the rest of these people," Stanley indicated the puppets of the stage with an almost contemptuous wave of his hand. "Amber has told me about you. You're a college man, she says. Maybe you can help me."

Joe waited for further explanation. For some reason or other he failed to get much excited over the other's perturbation. It offended him a little that Stanley should be affected much by his own troubles at all, just at this time.

"I've just heard something that ruins my entire future. They tell me that Amber was Al Baker's mistress, that before I knew her she was his 'girl' and that everybody knew it. And I am engaged to marry her, in spite of the objections of my family! My God! what shall I do? I suppose it is true, but I must know the worst. Tell me."

At first Joe felt a little like kicking Stanley through the stage door. Then he remembered that once, a long time ago, he, too, had felt a sense of revulsion at the idea of Al and Amber being anything to each other, and he managed to get a slant on the other man's frame of mind.

Besides, he now had a new responsibility conferred on him by that letter which he had just read. Amber's happiness was in his charge. And she was engaged to marry Stanley. She loved him that much, then. Joe had supposed so all along, but it was a little chilling to plunge into actual facts.

"Would it," Joe asked idly, "make any difference to you if you found out that the woman you loved had once loved another man so much that she had belonged to him?"

"I don't know what you mean." Stanley was unable to consider any idea off the beaten track that he saw before him. "The sort of thing you speak of just isn't done among my people. With stage folk it may be different. Tell me the truth. My life and happiness are at stake."

JOE laughed. "Your life and happiness don't matter two straws to hell to me. But Amber's happiness is the most important thing I have on hand just now. You don't she loves you?"

"Think? I know it."

"Well, that's settled, then. If you promise never to tell her that I asked me, I'll set your mind at ease."

"I'll promise, but I don't see why——"

"It's for your own good — for Amber's. I have an idea that she would like to think that she had won her love to a man who had never wavered in his regard for her."

"All right," Stanley urged him impatiently. "I've promised. Now, I? What's the answer?"

"The answer is that Amber is Baker's niece. I didn't know it myself until just now. Here's a letter from him to me telling all about it."

Stanley took the letter and read it through hastily twice.

"Gee," he said, "I don't know how I can thank you."

"You can't." Joe was seated on a folding chair near the microphone through which the services will shortly be broadcast. "All you can do is make Amber happy. If you don't, I'll kill you myself."

Joe didn't seem to have anything further to say, so Stanley, after leaving him the letter without making any response, laid the open sheet of paper beside him and tiptoed off the stage.

Joe did not know when he was gone. Neither did he know when another figure which had been kneeling at the far side of the coffin got up and approached him, picked up the letter, read it, and also left the theater.

Joe was too much occupied with his own thoughts. He had done the thing that he believed might make Amber happy. But he was not particularly happy about it himself yet. And as in his letter, had said that he would probably find his own greatest happiness that way. Well, perhaps he would come later.

He sighed and went down beside the stage, where the orchestra was assembling. He led them out to their places in the pit just as if they were to play a regular performance.

JOE looked at his watch. It was time. He rapped gently on the music rack with his baton. The doors of the theater opened and the friends who had been waiting outside filed in the orchestra, with muffled drums and in dead march time, began to whisper:

Ol' Man Mountain, Ol' Man Mountain,
Got to climb you 'fore I die;
Down here all is dark and drear,
My bones achin', my heart weary,
So Ol' Man Mountain, Ol' Man Mountain,
Got to climb you 'fore I die.
Got to see there, got to be there,
Where there ain't no care or frettin',
I keeps slidin', I keeps slippin',
Climb a little, then I'm trippin';
It's so dark 'cause the sun am settin',
I can't see but I ain't forgettin',
Ol' Man Mountain, Ol' Man Mountain,
Got to climb you 'fore I die.

And all during the simple service they played it, never loud, sometimes only a beat that suggested the melody but always there, the voice of Al Baker saying "good-by."

That was the last time that Joe was ever to play that melody or to hear an orchestra that played it. In a way he laid it in Al's grave as his offering.

AFTER the ceremony he stood away alone—walking.

Some one called to him. He did not why say "some one"? To him it was every one—the only voice that would have mattered—the one he scarcely expected to hear again.

He turned to her. "Please take me home," she requested simply.

Joe looked around for Stanley. The young man was not there, and he forbore to question her about it. She had laid her hand on his arm, and by falling into step had subtlely indicated that they were to walk.

"I scarcely hoped," she said after a long silence that he had seemed disinclined to break, "that I would find a second man in my life that I would care as much for as I did for Al."

Why couldn't she have waited? But Joe congratulated her anyway. "He was a fine fellow," he concluded listlessly.

"I suspected it first," she continued gently, "when he let Al have the one child of his heart without making any fuss about it, and then later I was sure of it when I found that he wanted me to be happy even though it broke his own heart at the same time."

Later, O, many days later—weeks in fact—she convinced Joe that she loved him and that, absurd though it seemed, she proposed to dedicate her lovely body and soul to him.

"Just as Al would have wanted me to," she added.

Somewhere or other everybody else seemed to have gotten lost out of the picture.

All but Amber and Joe.

And Al.

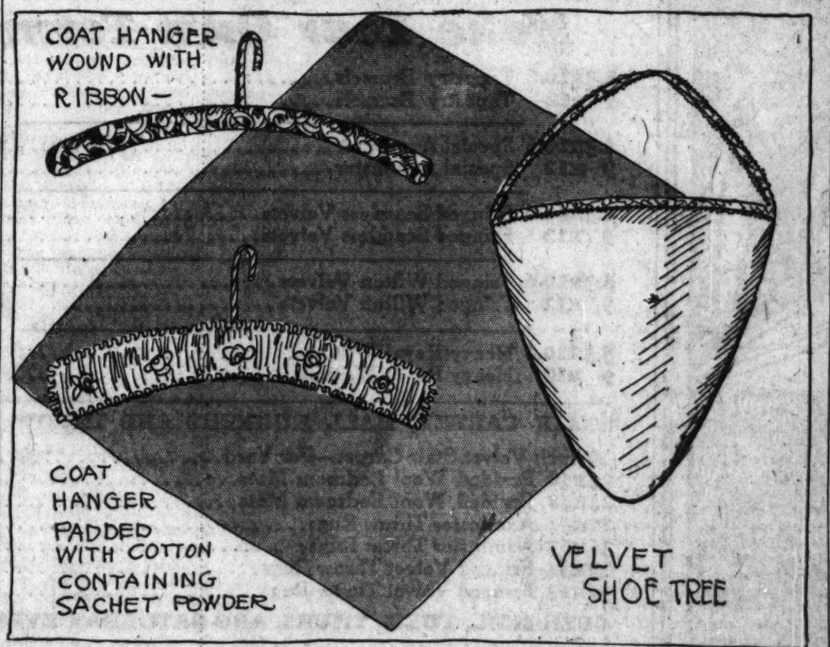
Practical and Fancy Needle Work

By Clotilde



These Little Accessories to the Wardrobe Can Be Beautiful as Well as Useful.

SHOE trees made of velvet are shown in the shops in all sorts of colors, and they really are much nicer than the old fashioned kind. They won't take long to make, won't take much material, and it will be nice to have several pairs for yourself, as well as to give away as attractive little gifts.

They each measure about four inches across the top and the same number of inches in length. They should be stitched together down each side, turned right side out and stuffed evenly and hard with cotton wadding. Then the edges are turned in across the top and neatly overhanded together. This top sewing is covered by sewing on a fancy braid not over one-quarter inch wide, and allowing it to extend in a loop over the top, to hang up by when not in use. Black, different shades of green, blue, orange, pink and orchid are seen. Velveteen would be just as nice as velvet to use.

Another attractive accessory for a closet is the covered clothes hanger. An unusually pretty one is made by winding each part of the hanger with one of the lovely printed ribbons, using the one inch width; and of course the winding must be evenly and tightly done. The hook part is also wound.

Another hanger was evenly padded with cotton wadding, and a favorite sachet powder sprinkled in between the layers. Then a good quality of satin ribbon in any desired color is used to cover the hanger with. The ribbon should be about one inch wider than the width across the two wires, so that when it is shirred on a half inch wide heading of the ribbon will extend beyond the edges. This ribbon should measure once and a half the length of the hanger, and of course there must be two of these lengths sewed together, and the gathering done before slipping it over the padded hanger. Then it is put on and the fullness evenly arranged and tacked in place. The hook is simply wound with narrow ribbon in a matching or a contrasting color.

At intervals through the center of the hanger tiny rosebuds or other flowers are sewed.

2 Glasses Water Help Kidneys!

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison; else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

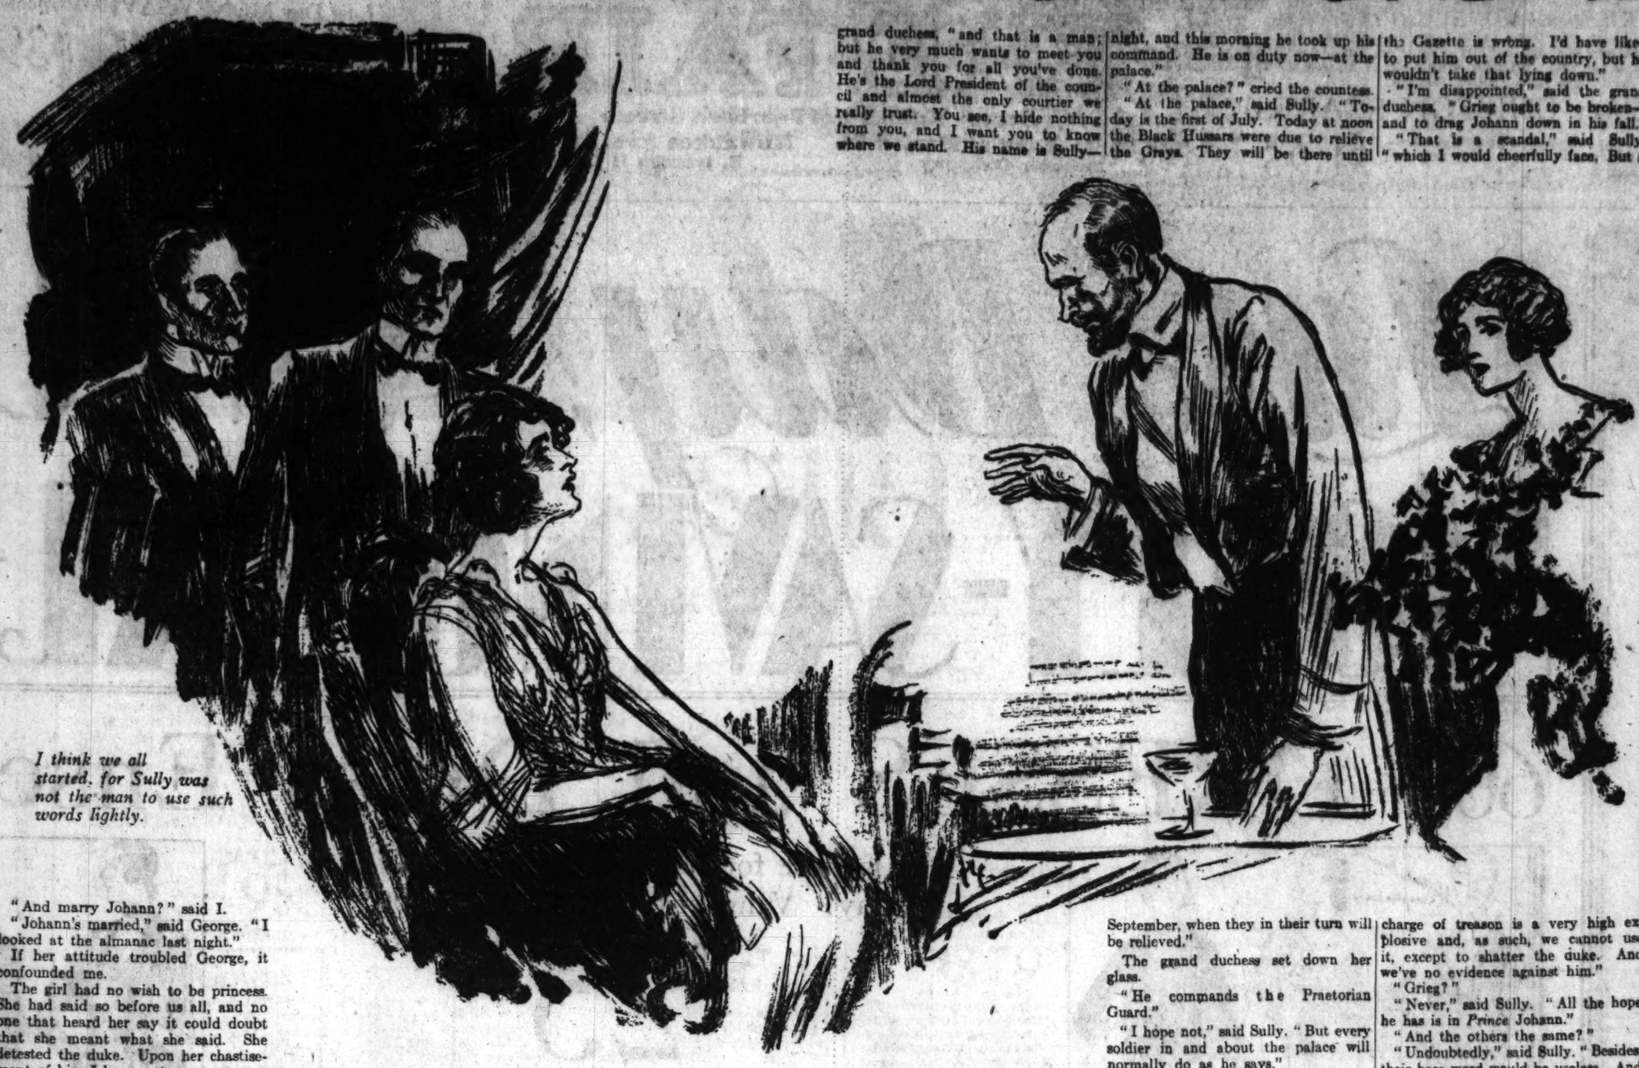
To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Drink at least two glasses every morning about an hour before breakfast. Add to one of the glasses a tablespoonful of Jad Salts. This makes the water doubly effective in cleansing and stimulating the kidneys. Try this for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clear and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders. Get about four ounces from your druggist to start with.

BLOOD ROYAL by DORNFORD YATES

In Foregoing Installments:

WILLIAM CHANDOS and his friend, George Hanbury, attended by their servants, Bell and Rowley, are spending a summer on the continent. They rescue Duke Paul of Reichtenburg, heir to the throne of the dying Prince Nicholas, from a kidnaper, Maj. Grieg. Grieg is a henchman of Duke Johann, cousin of Paul, who covets the crown. The kidnaping had been engineered by Johann to clear the way for a coup d'état. The Englishmen take Paul to Anger, castle of the Grand Duchess Leonie, the duke's cousin. Leonie sets out with them for Vigil, capital of Reichtenburg, to match wits with Johann. En route they are trapped by Grieg and confederates, but Chandos, thanks to the strategy of Bell, they outmaneuver and escape.



I think we all started, for Sully was not the man to use such words lightly.

INSTALLMENT V.

Vanity Fair.

I SUPPOSE I had heard of Vigil, but I had never met one who had been there or seen, so far as I remember, its name in print, and while that is nothing to go by, for I am not well informed, I have since referred to the guide books to find the city dismissed with half a line. This is to me a mystery, for though perhaps of little importance, Vigil is more attractive than many a well known resort, and I can only suppose that the singular absence of any kind of hotel has stifled again and again its claim to renown.

The town lies among mountains upon either side of a river which flows very swift, and if you approach from the east, you will suddenly see it beneath you, spread out like a map and resembling those fabulous cities that painters paint in their backgrounds five hundred years ago.

Now when we first saw it, George and I were afoot as well as alone, and were able to loiter as long as we pleased.

The car had gone on to Vigil with the servants upon her front seat. I had thought this arrangement a wise one and George had agreed. Four miles from the city therefore, the change had been made, and almost before our party knew it the servants had taken our places and we were out in the road.

The duke sat still, but the grand duchess started up with a little cry.

"I beg you'll excuse us," I said, with my hat in my hand. "It's better so. The less attention attracted, the fewer questions asked."

"If you want another reason," said George, "Chandos dislikes the limelight until he has shaved."

The grand duchess smiled.

"I expect you know best," she said. "I don't know how we happened to fall into such good hands. Good-by—for the moment."

"So long," said the duke, casually. "An' many thanks. What do you want for this car?"

"She's not for sale," said Hanbury.

Then I nodded to Bell, and the car slid forward.

When the dust had settled we walked down the road in its wake and presently came to the standpoint which, had it not been afoot we should not have enjoyed.

I have said that the town was below us, and so it was; but it was four miles distant, so that we had by no means a bird's-eye view. The air, however, was clear, as is the air of those parts, and the red and gray roofs and buildings stood out very sharp and pleasing with the brilliant blue of the river cutting them across like a sash.

We at once perceived the cathedral towering two massive towers, and a building by the side of the river which must we thought be the palace, for there were trees about it and open spaces. Four bridges spanned the river, one of them covered and crooked and as I suppose very old, and far to the north we could make out a big parade ground upon which we could see quite plainly the flash of steel.

Here let me say what I should have set down before this—that the moment we came to the frontier we knew that the prince was not dead, for the flags on the masthead high, and though we asked no questions, it was everywhere patently plain that nothing unusual had occurred.

At last I turned from the city and looked at George.

"I should like to stay at Vigil," I said. "The servants can go to Salzburg and fetch our things."

"Very well," said George, slowly. "I've only one thing against it, and that's Duke Paul. Not that he'll trouble us, but he was plainly immensely relieved when we got out of the car. But I should like to forget him. Intercourse with that youth is like drinking a glass of cheap claret which is badly corked. Long live Prince Nicholas."

"I'm with you," said I. "If the old prince dies we'll leave Vigil the very next day."

"Once he's proclaimed," said George. "And you promise to stay till then?"

"Practically," said I.

George nodded approvingly.

"She's out of the top drawer," he said. "I'd like to see her on Flattery, with sweet breast high and the merchant making for Bulrush by way of the Dale. Why the devil is she backing this waster?"

"You can search me," said I, and meant it.

For a little we smoked in silence, regarding the distant city, so gay in the sun.

"I can't understand it," said George suddenly. "Of course she loathes him—that's nothing. The girl he found in the chorus loathed the sound of his voice. He is—loathsome. Very well. Loathsome or not, she's got to marry him. Why? Because she's the obvious person to play the princess. If you want another reason, she's the head of the second line. She's betrothed to the heir apparent, not to the man. She goes with the throne."

"Of course," said I, heartily.

"Then why the blazes doesn't she kill him? Let him work out his own damnation and lose his throne?"

"And marry Johann?" said I.

"Johann's married," said George. "I looked at the almanac last night."

If her attitude troubled George, it confounded me.

The girl had no wish to be princess. She had said so before us all, and no one that heard her say it could doubt that she meant what she said. She detested the duke. Upon her chastisement of him I lay no stress; a woman can dissemble her love. But spirits of her sort do not like spirits of his. The thought of becoming his wife must be plain horror.

These two premises admitted, she had everything to gain by inaction and nothing to lose.

By folding her hands at Danger she might well have escaped a future to her more repulsive than death. Yet she had come out to fight.

The matter passed my understanding, and I would very gladly have put it out of my mind; but this I could not do, and that for a reason which I think I have made plain enough.

George Hanbury was speaking, as though to himself.

"'Vanity of vanities,'" he said slowly. "'All is vanity!' And that's a peach of a watchword for a couple of fools who are going to Vanity Fair."

"One fool," said I quickly.

"Two," said George. "If I had any sense, I should take you back to Maintenance—if necessary, by force."

WE lunched very well and simply beneath the awning of a tavern in the heart of the town. Far above us the bells of the cathedral rang with a pleasing jingle each quarter of the hour; on the roof of an aged house we could see a stork, like a sentry, beside his nest; an apothecary's faced us, with monks behind the old counter and a Latin superscription above the door, and next to this stood a handsome white stone cinema house whose boards announced a film which was being shown in London two months before.

In the streets, which were old and paved, yokes of oxen went plodding by the side of open taxis as silent of movement as themselves, and peasants, clad in white linen and wearing embroidered sashes and waistcoats laced with gold, were mingling with men and women whose attire would have passed unremarked in the Place Vendôme.

Later, when we went strolling, we found these curious conditions on every side. Ancient and modern fashions seemed to thrive knee to knee, and primitive styles and manners were neighbored by others which might have come straight from Paris the day before.

When, however, we sought a hotel, there was none to be found, and a man we accosted advised us to go to the station if we had need of a bed. Thither we accordingly went, but the lodging offered us was shameful and I would sooner have slept on the riverside.

We then returned to the tavern where we had lunched and asked the host to recommend us an inn, but to our dismay he immediately mentioned the station as affording the only shelter which we could possibly use. When we protested, the fellow threw up his hands. Vigil, he declared, had boasted two handsome hotels before the great war; as luck would have it, the one vying with the other, each had been wholly refitted in 1914—this at prodigious expense, which the custom, sure to be attracted, was to defray; instead of increasing their custom the black years which followed had taken even that which they had and had brought them both to ruin, so that one was now the war office and the other had been turned into flats. There were inns, he said, for the peasants, but at these we should find no bedding nor so much as a private room, and, though there was always the monastery, the discipline there was a byword, and at nine o'clock of the evening the doors were shut.

This unexpected setback disordered our simple plans, for, our personal comfort apart, we were especially anxious not to attract attention and had to that end decided to make no use of the car, but to lay her up in some garage until we should need her again. Now, however, it seemed that since there was no room in Vigil, we should have to leave the city and put up at some country inn and—what was far worse—go to and fro daily, because the grand duchess was expecting that I should be within call. The more I considered such a shift, the less I liked it, and I was wondering desperately whether we could find a house agent and hire some flat or apartment for two or three weeks, when the landlord who had left us staring, came back and ventured to ask us whether we were proposing to make some considerable stay.

George shrugged his shoulders.

"Man proposes, but Vigil disposes," he said. "How the devil can we stay in a city which harbors no guests?"

The man nodded over his shoulder.

"Sir," said he, "a particular friend of mine has this moment come in. He is butler to a gentleman who has a very fine flat. His wife is the cook. His master is away just now, and the flat is to let."

"By all means produce him," said George.

The man was quiet to look at and well behaved. When we asked if the flat had been placed in some agent's hands, he replied that his master had left the matter to him, because there was but one agent and him he disliked. He had, he said, full authority, provided that he and his wife remained as butler and cook and the rent was paid in advance, a month at a time.

The tale was easy to tell and I think we both suspected that here was a faithless servant betraying a master's trust, but for what it was worth, we decided to see the flat, and hailing a passing taxi we drove there at once.

THE flat was upon the ground floor of a three storied mansion which rose up on the bank of the river within its own grounds. By its side stood a big garage, divided like the house into three; one-third, as the butler vouchsafed, belonged to each of the flats. Though it had not been built as a flat, the apartment was most convenient and made our rooms at Salzburg seem very rough. It was well and comfortably furnished with a lot of leather and oak and some very pleasant etchings hung on the walls.

When we asked what was the rent, the servant named a figure which seemed to us fair, and indeed we would have paid more for the place was just what we wanted and there were a butler and cook to take the cares of housekeeping out of our hands; but though we were ready to agree, we could not help thinking of Maintenance and how we should blame a stranger that accepted the word of our servants that he could make use of our home.

While we were hesitating the butler divined our thoughts, and speaking very civilly, suggested that we should visit the Riechtenburg bank, "for," said he, "that is my master's bank and any one there will tell you that I have authority to act upon his behalf."

That was enough for us and George sat down at a table and drew up a rough agreement which the three of us signed, and though we had not enough money to pay a month's rent then and there, the butler said that that did not matter and asked if he should serve dinner at eight o'clock.

I will not dwell on our good fortune for I think it speaks for itself; but I must confess that it lifted a weight from my mind, for it is one thing to commit a friend to a thankless venture, but another to condemn him to discomfort which the giving up of your venture would automatically relieve.

We then returned to the garage where we had left the car and gave the servants the orders which we had composed.

Rowley was to leave for Salzburg to fetch our luggage at once. Traveling by train he would be back at Vigil at five the next day. Bell was to take a note to the grand duchess—addressed, of course, to the house at which he had set her down and containing a sheet of the notepaper which we had found in the flat—and when it was dark, to bring the car to its garage and then report to us that this had been done.

By the time we were back in the flat it was half past four, and within five minutes I was asleep in a loggia which was overlooking the river and might have been a pleasance of Morpheus himself.

IT was ten o'clock that evening before Bell came to report.

As he entered the room the bell of the telephone rang.

It was the grand duchess speaking.

"Listen," she said. "How soon will you have your things?"

"Tomorrow," said I, "in the course of the afternoon."

"Then will you both dine with me—tomorrow at nine o'clock? Or do you never dine?"

"If you please," said I, "we should like to break our rule."

"Good night," said the grand duchess and put her receiver back.

When I had told George Hanbury, I turned to Bell.

"Everything all right?" I said.

"Yes, sir," he said. "The car's under lock and key."

"Well, you turn in," said I. "You've earned your rest."

"Very good, sir," said Bell. He hesitated. "If I should hear any movements am I to let you know?"

George and I looked at him.

"Any movements?" said George, laying his paper down.

"Such as a car, sir," said Bell. "I mean, if Major Grieg wants to he could be here before dawn."

"But why should he want to?" said I. "Besides, if he did, for the moment we've covered our tracks."

Bell looked from me to George. Then he moistened his lips.

"Excuse me, sir," he said, "but I thought you must know. Major Grieg has the flat above this. I carried his letters upstairs five minutes ago."

AT ten minutes to nine the next evening George and I mounted the steps of a house in the Lessingstrasse, a short, quiet street, full of lime trees, and running down to the river, not far from the palace itself.

Before we had time to ring the bell the door was opened and we were presently ushered into a high-pitched salon, well and delicately furnished after the style of Louis XVI.

The grand duchess rose to greet us, looking more lovely than ever, so very white were her shoulders and so shapely her slim, bare arms.

At once she introduced us to the Countess Dresden of Salm, "who is really your hostess," she said, "for you will eat her dinner and this is her house; but she lets me call it my party because she has always spoiled me, ever since I was her bridesmaid six years ago."

The countess laughed.

"How many people in Vigil," she said, "would jump at the chance?"

She was young and very good looking and had a most charming smile, and I set her down at once as the wife of some high official, accustomed to entertaining and to playing a gracious part.

"There's one other guest," said the grand duchess, "and that is a man; but he very much wants to meet you and thank you for all you've done. He's the Lord President of the council and almost the only courtier we really trust. You see, I hide nothing from you, and I want you to know where we stand. His name is Sully—the Baron Sully, if you like."

Here the door was opened and the man of whom she was speaking was ushered into the room.

It was our sometime tutor.

I looked round dazedly.

Madame Dresden was openly laughing and the grand duchess was smiling at Hanbury, who was standing with his mouth open and a hand to his head.

Sully greeted the ladies. Then he laid his hands on our shoulders and held us fast.

"I am told," he said, "that your German does me credit; that you both speak fluently, Hanbury with a fine carelessness and Chandos with a rugged sincerity which knows no law."

"O, what a shame!" cried the grand duchess. "And I never put it like that."

But we were all laughing, for the description was as faithful as witty, as all of us knew.

Not until dinner was over was reference made to the matters which had led us to Riechtenburg.

Then the grand duchess looked at Sully, who sat on her right.

"How is the prince?" she said.

"He is like the master of a ship, your highness, in waters in which no ship can live. He carries on according to the best traditions, but the next big wave will be the end of him. Till then—well, he held a council this afternoon."

"And Johann?"

"Duke Johann gives rise to anxiety. As you know, he is colonel in chief of the Black Hussars. As such, he must do duty with them for one month in each year. Well, he has selected this month. Whilst we were talking yesterday the matter was being rushed through. It appeared in orders last night, and this morning he took up his command. He is on duty now—at the palace."

"At the palace?" cried the countess.

"At the palace," said Sully. "Today is the first of July. Today at noon the Black Hussars were due to relieve the Grays. They will be there until September, when they in their turn will be relieved."

The grand duchess set down her glass.

"He commands the Praetorian Guard."

"I hope not," said Sully. "But every soldier in and about the palace will normally do as he says."

The grand duchess drew in her breath.

"It's an act of war, baron."

Sully raised his eyebrows.

"Unhappily, your highness, that is a matter of opinion. We consider it such But one paper says, in view of H. R. H.'s disposition, Duke Johann's decision to command his regiment during its arduous term of duty as bodyguard is a particularly graceful act.'"

"He's very clever," said my lady musingly. "What can we do?"

"Not very much," said Sully. "Sohreb has been told to go sick and Kneller has been wired for to take his place."

"As lord in waiting?"

"Yes. But Kneller is a general upon the active list. He is, therefore, the duke's superior officer and could, for instance, put him under arrest."

I THINK we all started, for Sully was not the man to use such words lightly, and violence of any sort was foreign to his soul.

"Does the prince know?" said the countess.

Sully nodded.

"When I told H. R. H. he laughed. 'Wheresoever the carcass is,' he said. Then he sent for Duke Johann and thanked him heartily. 'I am much touched, Johann. On your last day of duty I shall be photographed with the field officers of the guard. Sully, you will remind me.' The duke did what he could to express his thanks. When he was gone the prince laughed till he coughed. Nothing will make him believe that his hour is at hand."

There was a little silence.

Then—

"Grieg has resigned his commission," continued Sully. "At least the Gazette says so, and I don't imagine he'll say the Gazette is wrong. I'd have liked to put him out of the country, but he wouldn't take that lying down."

"I'm disappointed," said the grand duchess. "Grieg ought to be broken—and to drag Johann down in his fall."

"That is a scandal," said Sully, "which I would cheerfully face. But a charge of treason is a very high explosive and, as such, we cannot use it, except to shatter the duke. And we've no evidence against him."

"Grieg?"

"Never," said Sully. "All the hope he has is in Prince Johann."

"And the others the same?"

"Undoubtedly," said Sully. "Besides, their bare word would be useless. And so would Grieg's. And I hardly think it likely that they have their orders in writing for what they have done."

"Not their orders," said George. We all looked at him. "But Grieg's not the man to risk being double crossed. I don't know about the others, but I'll bet he's got some writing which Duke Johann will have to redeem if he comes to the throne."

The grand duchess returned to Sully.

"Mr. Hanbury's right," she said. "Grieg would never trust Johann. What's more, scandal or no, Grieg ought to be under arrest."

I CONFESS I agreed with her. Grieg had received his sentence, and—a man may as well be hanged for a sheep as a lamb. What was still more to the point, if Johann came to the throne the sentence would be revoked.

Sully looked very grave.

"The inevitable court martial, your highness, would have been momentous. Counsel would have been engaged; Duke Paul would have had to appear. It was felt that it would be improper to subject his highness, Duke Paul, to such an ordeal."

"Ah," said the grand duchess, softly, and that was all.

Her little exclamation showed me the truth.

Court martial Grieg, and Duke Paul must be cross examined. That was a prospect his supporters dared not face.

The horrid irony of the business filled my mind. At every turn it was Duke Paul himself that put a spoke in his wheel. Great hearts were fighting his battle—with the man and all his works like a millstone about their neck.

"Still," said Sully, "I am hoping that Grieg is an empty gun—a gun that has been fired and cannot, lest it burst in the hand, be fired again. Meanwhile, I am very thankful that your highness is here. Since the news became known, there has been a marked rush to book seats for Wednesday night."

The grand duchess turned to me.

"It is the prince's birthday, and a gala performance will be given in the opera house, Tosca. Paul and I have got to be on parade."

"Such parades," said Sully, "are invaluable. I trust you will persuade his highness to appear with you tomorrow at the polo and on Tuesday at the fête of St. Anatole."

The grand duchess raised her eyebrows.

"I'll do what I can," she said.

Then she glanced at the countess and the five of us rose.

WHEN the door had closed behind the two women, Sully returned to the table and lighted a cigarette.

"I became your tutor," he said, "when Duke Paul's father had renounced his right to the throne. I felt very strongly that his renunciation should not be accepted, that every effort should be made to induce him to think again. But the prince was angry, very naturally very angry. A man, he said, that put his hand to the plow and then looked back was not fit for the kingdom of man. When I opposed him, he told me to take the same road—— Perhaps he was right. No one will ever know that. But, when he fell sick, he recalled me. As you know, I left you and came. 'Why did you oppose me?' he said. I told him because I had mistrusted the Duke Johann."

"You saw further," said George.

"In politics," said Sully, "there are two kinds of sight—near sight and long sight. Neither is satisfactory. The prince has one and I have the other, and heaven only knows which is the better. At the present moment I wish that I had his eyes, for I cannot see my way clearly, and he, as I have told you, has his fast shut."

George looked at me over the rim of his glass.

"Sister Anne, what do you see?"

"The palace guard," said I, "must be changed."

"That," said Sully, "is impossible."

"Then the prince must be moved."

"The physicians are against it," said Sully, "and the prince himself would refuse."

"Then," said I, "the prince must contrive to live until August the first."

"And I'll back the lady," said George.

"Duke Paul must be dummy, and the grand duchess play the hands. Out and about the place from morning to night. The theater, polo, shopping. But he must be in the picture."

Sully seemed to wince.

"He is very difficult," he said. "Grieg's attempt has sorely shaken his nerve."

"Naturally," said George quietly. And then, "You mean he keeps house?"

"Yes."

"The police?"

"The police are wolves in sheep's clothing, so far as he is concerned."

"I see," said George, frowning. "If he felt safe, would he go when and where he was told?"

"Not always," said Sully.

"Then he must have reason to think that when he is out with her highness he is safer than anywhere else."

Sully sat back in his chair.

"Bring that about," he said warmly, "and you add five years to my life."

"Easy enough," said George, and turned to me. "Duke Paul trusts Bell and Rowley, and we're not using the car. Put the three at her disposal—not his."

"With the greatest pleasure," said I. George returned to Sully.

The duchess had a fancy car,
With chauffeurs white as snow;
And everywhere the duchess went,
The duke was sure to go.

Sully rose to his feet, with shining eyes.

"King maker," he said.

Helping Them Over the Rough Spots

By Mrs. Gladys Hamlington Bevans

You Must Be Bedrock to Your Children—Your Word Must Be Your Bond.

ONE of the foundation stones in the bulwark of faith that mothers and fathers must be to their children is an utter dependability upon their words. This has a positive and a negative side.

Perform what you promise. Don't promise what you can't perform.

Make your word, in whatever connection you give it to them, something that they can bank on. You must be bedrock to them. Other people may fool them, break promises, deceive them—but not you, in matters large or small. And the small are as significant to them and much more frequent than the large—consequently they bulk as big eventually.

Of course, this is not a new thought. How many fundamental thoughts are? But, as one mother wrote me, "We know these things but we need to be told them again and again and again."

They Trust You.

It came into my mind again this morning. I had to open a badly infected dig made in a young palm by a rusty nail. The palm is very tough since it helps in climbing fences and trees, playing ball, etc., so I didn't think that the opening and squeezing and cleansing process would hurt. But I didn't dare promise it, because to date I've been pretty careful to try to gauge the degree of pain that was going to attend any small operation I had to perform—or that any one else did, for that matter.

So the most I wanted to say was, "Well, I don't see how it can hurt when I open it because your palm is so tough, and I don't think it can hurt at all, hardly, when I squeeze it. I'm almost sure it won't—but I can't promise." And it didn't.

This is an aspect of the importance of your children being able to depend on your word which deserves special attention. At one time and another in their lives they have experiences to go through that are attended by varying degrees of pain. Frequently painful injuries have to be attended to, hurts become infected, they have vaccinations or inoculations or more serious things to stand. Almost always they say, "Will it hurt, mother?" And when they do you must tell them the truth.

Two things are gained by this. One is that if it's not going to hurt and they can trust your word, what you say will reassure them. The other is that if it is going to hurt, they will often brace themselves for it. Or, if they are highly sensitive to pain and shrink from it, you will have time to teach them to bear it—not coddle them but educate them in self-control.

Naturally, your good sense has to enter into these things. Also your tact, and the younger your children are the more of this latter invaluable commodity you can use.

Don't Be Brutal.

If an experience is going to be very painful, for instance, it is better for them not to have a long time in which to dread it. Waiting for pain is a trying sport—for either grownups or children. And when you answer "Will it hurt, Mother?" you don't have to be so forthright about it that you're brutal. You can say, "It will hurt, but not for long," or "It will sting very badly, and then it will feel better."

And often you can appeal to their own ideal of being a good sport—but whatever you do, avoid calling them cowards in the process, as I've heard people do. Say instead, "You want to be brave, don't you? Well, the bravest people are often those who are most afraid. But they go ahead and do the thing that has to be done, in spite of the fact that they are afraid. I know you mind this, but make yourself do it."

I've seen highly sensitive children of nervous makeup respond to this sort of appeal, though often they will take some time to bring themselves to the point. But this is infinitely better than to do things by force, with some one holding the child screaming and crying and resisting in terror. Nothing is built up by this method, but in the other way the child is making himself do something—which is the greatest thing.

It frequently takes unlimited patience at each individual occasion for a mother to wait for him to learn to exercise his courage, and sometimes the whole development of this kind of bravery or self-control will cover a period from 3 years of age to 9 or 10.

I was with a little girl of the high strung type, sensitive to pain, who was to undergo an operation. She had been helped by her mother to bear things in the way we've been describing. The day before the operation she was told about it, and at first she was panic stricken. They talked to her and gave her time to accustom herself to the idea, and answered her questions, preparing her a little so she would not be shocked at the white gowns of the doctors, the ether cone, etc.

The next morning she got out of her bed, walked in and climbed up on the operating table, and began to take the ether with marvelous control. Then as she got the first whiffs she got pretty panicky again, and cried, and pushed the doctor's hand away. Then she said, "If you'll just wait a few minutes, doctor, I'll take it."

The doctor thought she was going to just postpone it indefinitely, and started to use force, but her mother said, "Please wait—give her time—she'll be all right in a minute." And in a few minutes she was, and went through with the thing. It was really something to see.

Diversion Helps.

Now, to get back to the part that tact plays. A little interesting conversation or a story or something that gives a light touch or diverts the mind helps a child a lot over a painful place. Or even a promise of something nice to do afterwards. With babies and children too little to have things explained, of course we often have the screaming and crying and resisting reaction to pain. With them the only thing to do is to have some one hold them firmly and get the whole business over with as quickly as possible. But even then managing helps.

I remember once I assisted with a baby who had been burned with hot fat and the blisters had to be punctured—an absolutely painless proceeding, but one which we knew the tiny boy would make a fuss over if he saw the needle doing the work. So the nurse held him while his mother kept his head turned away from his left hand by doing things and talking about the subjects he was most interested in. I drew his injured hand toward me, and deflated every blister without his feeling it. We were a triumphant trio.

By Mae Tinee.

"The Bellamy Trial."

This, from the book by F. Noyes Hart, in April SHOULD have been a part of all you film fans' picture seeing, it had SO much excuse for being! Suspense it carried, well maintained, Shrewd humor, too, the film contained. The courtroom scenes were smartly done, Their seriousness shot through with fun. Leatrice Joy as Sue was charming. Betty Bronson? Droll. Disarming. The prosecuting lawyer played By Charles MidDLEton A hit—made. (Emphasize the "dle" and the "a" if you expect that line to fit.) The picture pleased me very much. I'd like to see some more of such.

"Broadway Melody."

What of "Broadway Melody"? Well—QUITE satisfactory— Bessie Love as "Hank" was great. Miss A. Pape, though, didn't rate As we hoped—and thought she would— Others in the cast were good. Stage folks of the Great White Way What they do and sing and say Form this picture's subject matter. Film abounds in songs and patter. Many of backstage Broadway In this "Broadway Melo-(day)." Lavish costumes, "atmosphere," Fine photography are here. Now and then you find objection To some slants of the direction In the whole, though, you'll admit That "Broadway Melody" has "it."

"Speakeasy."

"A bottle of excitement, manned by a clever crew——" The truck film called "Speakeasy" Will sure appeal to you. We can't tell you the story Without spoiling your fun, But we ARE here to tell you The yarn is a good one. And also that the acting Is really quite swell. A pair of bright newcomers—(Lola Lane and Paul Page)— Plays leads exceeding well. Crooks, fighters, and reporters Are featured in the tale. In locale's New York City. Beer: If you have the kale You'd better see "Speakeasy" After you've asked your mamma, For "Speakeasy" is really Suspenseful melodrama. (I'll be glad when housecleaning's over—and so should you. This verse, which you will see gets worse and worse as it goes on, only proves what a floor scraping machine can do to one.)

"Coquette."

Don't tell me that you haven't yet Seen Mary Pickford in "Coquette!" For, "jus' adoh'ble" is she In her great premier altalkie. The picture's not just like the play But it is lovely, anyway. And Mary Pickford minus curls In a gorgeous bob that dips and swirls Does some acting that surprises. To undreamed of heights she rises. Her supporting cast is fine; Laughs there are through which tears shine; Sets, costumes, and scenery please; The director knew his P's And his Q's most of the time. There were moments (but that won't rhyme!) Moments there were, I mean, when he Sort of stretched sincerity— So the film though, maybe you Won't think of it as I do.

"My Man."

When you see Fannie Brice in "My Man," As I hope that you did or you can, You'll discover that she's the whole show (It's her habit to be that, you know). Miss Brices all over the place In Brice songs, monologues and Brice face And she's really a whole world of fun; Then RING circus rolled into one. (Emphasis on "ring.") Some tears you will shed o'er "My Man"; The story you're likely to pan, BUT—"You're bound to like it," seddi. And I stick to that statement tod'y.

"The Pagan."

"The Pagan" is a charming thing Of songs and love and laughter; It presents almost everything The average fan goes after. It has excitement and romance, South Sea locale most dreamy, Scenery to delight the eye! Synchronization's creamy. Novarro sings and HOW he sings! Miss Janis joins him sweetly. "The Pagan" is a charming thing! It captured me completely.

Famous Mystery Cases in Review

No. 4--The Slaying of Dr. Patrick H. Cronin of Chicago in a Bitter International Strife

4 Found Guilty, but Case Never Entirely Solved

By Philip Kinsley.

THE murder of Dr. Patrick Henry Cronin in a lonely cottage at 1872 Ashland avenue on the night of May 4, 1889, presents a mystery which has never been solved.

Four men were sent to the penitentiary on circumstantial evidence, one for three years only, although this was one of the most brutal crimes in history. Another of the supposed murderers was never found. The conspiracy was never fully uncovered.

Two men who did remarkable detective work in this case, Herman Schuettler and John M. Collins, later became chief of the Chicago police department. Big Dan Coughlin, detective of the East Chicago avenue station, was one of those convicted and sent to Joliet prison. He was given a new trial, acquitted, was caught in a jury bribing case, and fled to Honduras, where he is supposed to have died in 1911.

INTERNATIONAL ASPECTS

The background of this case brought it into international prominence as a part of the struggle which Irish-Americans were engaged in to free their mother country from the control of England. The Irish Republicans were divided into factions which fought bitterly. Dr. Cronin was at the head of one faction in Chicago. He is supposed to have had embezzlement evidence against the "Big Three" in the American movement. They, on the other hand, suspected him of being a British spy, another Maj Le Caron, who was then testifying before the Parnell commission.

It is not the purpose of this narrative to go into the dark trails of Irish politics at that time, but to present the mechanics of this murder, the detective work that followed, and the main evidential facts. It may be accepted as a premise that Dr. Cronin was killed as the result of a conspiracy on the part of political enemies. His friends, too, were willing to go a long way in retaliation. The police were involved, and there were jury tampering and perjury.

His Rise to Prominence.

Dr. Cronin was 43 years old at the time he was killed, a tall, striking figure with black hair and a luxuriant, wavy mustache. He was impulsive, kind, yet vindictive. He had never married.

He was born in Mallow, County Cork, and was brought to this country as a baby. He was taken to New York, Baltimore, Ontario, attended the Christian Brothers' school, and was graduated from the Academy of St. Catherine's in 1863. He made a specialty of chemistry. He taught school and worked in a drug store in Petroleum City, Pa., and in 1867 took Greeley's advice and came west. He landed in St. Louis in 1867, with strong letters of introduction to Archbishop Ryan. He went to work in a drug store and became tenor soloist at St. John's church.

In 1874 he went into the drug business, but kept up his studies and was graduated from the medical department of the University of Missouri and as master of arts at St. Louis university. He also took a degree in philosophy. He served as captain of militia during the strike of 1877 and in 1878 was appointed a commissioner to the Paris exposition. He studied in European hospitals, and on returning to St. Louis was made professor of materia medica at the university. He corresponded with Dr. D. A. K. Steele concerning a professorship in the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Chicago, and in 1882 came to live in Chicago. Appointed on the staff of the county hospital, he soon built a good practice. This was augmented by his membership in various secret societies which made him medical examiner. He became president of the Celto-American club, and plunged into the sea of Irish politics.

Accused of Treason.

Dr. Cronin made his home with Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Conklih in a flat in the Windsor Theater building, 468 North Clark street. His office was room 501 in the Chicago Opera House block. He had become a prominent man in town in seven years, and among the Irish had a following so strong that the division was Cronin and anti-Cronin. For four years he had been fighting the so-called Triangle in Clan-na-Gael affairs, the executive committee composed of Alexander Sullivan, Chicago lawyer; Michael Boland of Louisville, and D. C. Feeley of Rochester, N. Y. In return he had been charged with treason. Detective Dan Coughlin was on a committee appointed in 1885 to investigate him. In 1888 Dr. Cronin himself was placed on a committee to investigate affairs of the Big Three. Alexander Sullivan protested this, declaring that "the brand of perjury is so burned on the scoundrel's brow that all the waters of the earth will not remove it." In the trial the Triangle was cleared, but Dr. Cronin made his own notes of the testimony and had threatened to publish them in the Celto-American newspaper which he controlled. He was supposed to have had some of these papers in his pocket at the time of his death.

That Dr. Cronin feared assassination is shown in a remarkable pamphlet which he published shortly before his death. "Is It a Conspiracy?" was the title, and it contains an interview with a mythical reporter who had come to interview the doctor concerning the origin of a rumor that he had been shot and killed. In this interview Dr. Cronin mentions "one William Starkey, formerly of New Haven, Conn.," as one of the conspirators. William Starkey actually figured in the investigation after the real murder. In the pamphlet the following also appears:

"Reporter: It strikes me that your funeral would be a very largely attended one?

"Doctor: Yes, and the cause of death very extensively inquired into."

Dr. Cronin's friends were aware that his life was in danger; he usually carried a revolver with him. Once, a year before, he had been called to a room where he thought a man was feigning illness.

"My God, have you called me here to murder me?" he said, and rushed from the room.

THE PLOT HATCHES

The successful plot against his life was hatched Feb. 8, 1889—the state contended in this case—in Camp 20 of the Clan-na-Gael, known as the Columbia Literary society. John F. Beggs was the senior guardian of this camp. He was tried as being responsible for naming the committee sent out to kill Dr. Cronin. The jury found him not guilty. Coughlin was one of the members of the alleged committee.

Whatever the source of the plot, its workings will now be unfolded.

On Feb. 17 a man giving the name of J. B. Simonds bought $46.50 worth of furniture at A. H. Revell's furniture store. Included in the lot was a large, cheap trunk. He bought a bed, dresser, carpet and other furnishings, and said he would call the next day to tell where the delivery was to be made. He did so, giving the address of rooms 12 and 13 at 117 South Clark street. This building was directly opposite the office of Dr. Cronin and from room 12 the entrance to Dr. Cronin's place could be watched. On Feb. 18 Simonds had rented the place from Knight & Marshall, agents, telling them that his invalid sister was coming to live with him.

On March 20, when the rent collector called, the flat was empty and all the furniture had been removed. On that same day a man who gave the name of Frank Williams, appeared at the home of Jonas Carlson, his wife and son, John, in the rear of 1872 Ashland avenue, and rented a small cottage, facing the avenue, at $12 a month. He said his brother and invalid sister would live with him, and he had the furniture moved in that day. This furniture, it was shown subsequently, had been taken from the Clark street flat, and was that bought by Simonds.

Peculiar Tenants.

The Carlson cottage was situated in a particularly lonely neighborhood. The open prairie lay around it. Across the street was a cabbage patch. It was shielded by a double row of willows. One kerosene street lamp lit the corner at night. There were no other houses in the square block except that of Patrick O'Sullivan, an ice dealer, whose barns and outhouses were about 150 feet away. The cottage was a one-story and attic structure and had been vacant a long time. It had three rooms and basement, and was old and weather-beaten.

Mrs. Carlson soon found she had peculiar tenants. She saw little of them; only one man came out occasionally in the evening. They seemed to do little housekeeping. The invalid sister did not arrive. On April 20 Williams paid the rent for another month.

Some time in April Patrick O'Sullivan asked Justice John A. Mahoney to introduce him to his friend, Dr. Cronin, saying he wanted to contract for the medical care of his employés. They drove downtown and the contract was made.

At the rate of $8 a month Dr. Cronin was to attend any of O'Sullivan's men who were injured. The peculiar stipulation was made that the doctor was to respond to the call of any one who presented him with one of O'Sullivan's business cards. The ice man had just had some cards printed and he gave one to the doctor, who stuck it in the corner of his office mirror.

On the morning of May 4, Detective Dan Coughlin walked into the livery stable of Patrick Dinan, 360 North Clark street, and said:

"I want you to reserve a rig for a friend of mine who will call for it tonight. Say nothing to any one about it. I will be responsible."

KIDNAPED, KILLED

Between 7 and 8 o'clock that evening a man called for the rig Coughlin had ordered. He was given a white horse and a top buggy. He objected to the color of the horse; he wanted a darker one. He also wanted side curtains on. Dinan would not change the horse, and the man drove away in the direction of the Windsor Theater building. About 9:30 o'clock he returned, tossed the reins to a hostler, and hurried out. The horse was covered with lather and had been driven hard.

About 8 o'clock on this same evening Dr. Cronin sat with friends in his flat and was preparing to go to a meeting of the directors of the Celto-American society when the bell rang. Mrs. Conklin answered. A rough looking man brushed in and said he wanted to see the doctor. Dr. Cronin heard him, and came into the hall. The man presented the card of O'Sullivan, the ice man, and said one of his men had been injured badly. He indicated it was across the abdomen and said it was a matter of life and death. He said he had a buggy and horse waiting.

Mrs. Conklin looked out of the window and saw the famous white steed from the Dinan stable. Dr. Cronin gathered his bag of instruments, taking splints and cotton, and ran down the steps. He met Frank Scanlan Jr. on the sidewalk. Scanlan was calling to take him to the meeting. The doctor explained his call, said he would be back in an hour, and jumped into the buggy. The driver whipped the white horse, and they started north at a hard pace.

Pauline Hoertel, a washerwoman, was passing the Carlson cottage a little while after this and saw a white horse and buggy drive to the door and stop. A tall man carrying a black satchel got out and ran up the wooden steps. The other man struck the horse and galloped off. The tall man had hardly reached the door when it was opened for him from the inside. He stepped inside. She heard a cry, "O, God." There was a noise, shouting, the sound of blows, a fall. As it was interpreted for her, she said:

"I heard the far away cry of 'Jesus.'"

William Mertes, a milk dealer, was passing down Ashland avenue about the same time. He saw the horse and buggy stop, and Dr. Cronin go into the house; heard angry voices, and a crashing fall. There was a light in the front room, seen dimly through the shutters, one slat of which had been removed. He did not know at the time who the man was that had entered the house.

Found in Catch Basin.

It was not until May 22 that Dr. Cronin's body was found. It was nude, the neck broken, bent in a catch basin at Evanston avenue (now Broadway) and Foster avenue. Wounds in the head indicated he had been killed by stabbing with a sharp instrument, such as a chisel or an ice pick. There was a towel around his head and cotton batting around the wounds. A scapular was still around his neck. Identification by his friends was positive, and Dr. F. W. Lewis, his dentist, identified gold fillings he had recently placed for Dr. Cronin.

At 2 o'clock Sunday morning on May 5 police had seen a carpenter's wagon and bay horse going north from Clark and Diversey. There were two men in the seat and a large trunk in the back. At 7:30 o'clock that same morn-

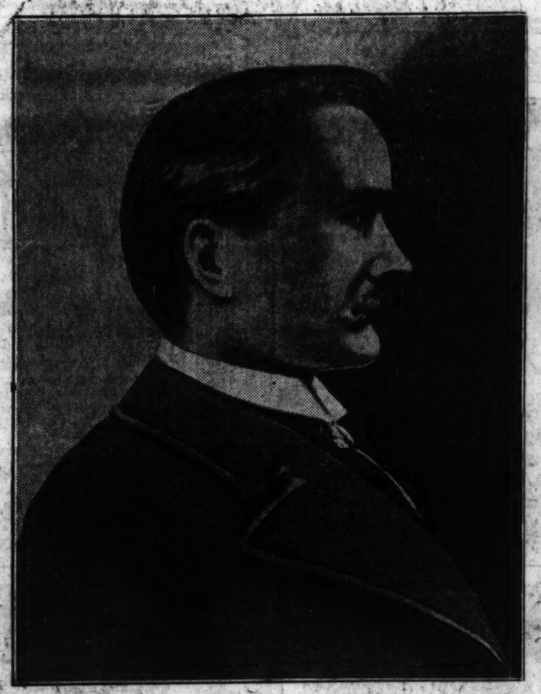
DR. PATRICK HENRY CRONIN, from a photograph taken just before his murder forty years ago yesterday. Lured from his home on a supposed call to save an injured man, he was taken to a cottage in a lonely neighborhood, and was never again seen alive. His body was found weeks afterward in a catch basin on the north side.

CONVICTED, THEN FREED



BIG DAN COUGHLIN, then a detective on the Chicago police force, was one of the four sent to Joliet for the slaying of Dr. Cronin. Later he was given a new trial and was acquitted. Still later he was enmeshed in a jury bribery case and fled to Honduras.

THE RULES

Today The Tribune presents the fourth of Ten Famous Mystery Cases, for the best solutions of which The Tribune will pay $10,000.00 in Cash Prizes.

Each of these stories presents a Famous Mystery Crime which actually occurred, but which never has been solved.

$1,000.00 in Cash Prizes will be awarded for the best solutions to each of these mysteries: First prize, $500.00; second prize, $200.00; third prize, $100.00; fourth prize, $50.00, and fifth to tenth prizes, $25.00 each.

You don't have to be a professional writer. Just read the story. Figure out who committed the crime and write a short letter telling who in your opinion did it and why you think so. Address your letter in answer to this story, "Mystery No. 4," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill.

Make your letter simple. It is WHAT you say that will count—not HOW you say it. Logic, brevity, neatness and originality of deduction will count.

The $10,000.00 in Cash Prizes will be paid exclusively to Tribune readers. Every one is eligible except employes of The Tribune and their families. Solutions must be in by midnight ten days after the date of The Tribune in which the story appears. The names of winners will be published as soon thereafter as possible.

You do not have to subscribe to The Tribune. The Tribune may be examined at its offices or at public libraries without charge.

The judges will be a committee appointed by The Chicago Tribune, and their decision in all matters will be final. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be given.

Famous Mystery Case No. 5, The Knabe Murder Case.

THE FIRST WINNERS

LEFT to right, R. S. Steel of Duquoin, Ill.; Chester Hiram Lowry of Stillwater, Okla., and Mrs. J. P. Crawford of Fort Sheridan, Ill. These three won the three first prizes for the best three solutions of the Amos J. Snell murder mystery. Mr. Lowry gets $500 in cash, Mr. Steel gets $200, and Mrs. Crawford is awarded $100.

This and That Thing About the Theater

And This Means About the Actors, Also.

By Frederick Donaghey.

LETTERS come to tell me that, in reporting "Harlem," I was not fair to what three of the letter-writers term "some remarkable acting." Nine or ten others indicate that they regard the performing in the piece as at least remarkable, although they use other adjectives. Most of them tell me that I do not know a good play if I am unable to regard "Harlem" as such. Indeed, most of my mail since Tuesday has had to do with the show in the Majestic.

And the show in the Majestic is just what I have called it—a frame-up. It is, at its best, everyday crook-drama of the sort that has had a large measure of vogue since "The Deep Purple," and, at its worst, the sort of thing Mr. Belasco was shameless enough to stage in "Lulu Belle." If the authors honestly designed it as a play dealing with the sociological fortunes of the Negro in a large Northern city, then their design has been frustrated by the direction and promotion. My direct reaction to the first act, and especially to the dancing therein, was unmistakable nausea. It may be said that a person of such delicate sensibilities is off his rightful beat as a reporter of plays; and it is easily possible that I am. To me, "Harlem" has no more to do with Negro life and character than has Carl Van Vechten's "Nigger Heaven"; and it is a certitude that nobody can justly accuse Van Vechten of not possessing sympathy for present-day life in Harlem.

As to the acting, it is not remarkable save to the extent that all acting is remarkable for one thing or for another. The Negro has a natural gift for the stage. When he is made to subjugate himself to intelligent direction, he comes through if in possession of an actual personal understanding of what the character or the scene means. But it were foolish to hold that "Harlem" is acted with greater effectiveness because it is cast with Negroes than if it were cast with well-trained, well-directed white performers. To say so is to revive the old nonsense that the ideal actor of Othello were, per se, a Negro, the ideal actor of Shylock a Jew, or the ideal actress of Madame Butterfly a Japanese. It were just as sensible to say that the ideal baritone for Rigoletto were a hunchback with epilepsy. And none of this means that a Negro cast could not possibly be better than a cast of whites in a play about Negroes, and does mean that a great many words are in the course of a year wasted about acting.

As to New Comics.

By which token, let's have a few more words about actors that may not be wasted. I had something to say, in the hurried writing of Monday's report on "Boom-Boom," about a performer in the cast, Harry Welsh, who was new to me. Few are the casts that do not contain at least one performer new to me; and few are the casts that contain a new performer who especially engages my attention. Mr. Welsh did so at the opening of "Boom-Boom." I had the idea, and still have it, that he is a clown of genuine talent. I am forever, when I go to the song-and-dance shows, looking for such. I was certain that I discerned one in Billy House when, earlier in the year, he came hither in "Luckee Girl," only to be told that he was a well-known, although therstofore in other avenues of the stage. I still regard him as a funny fellow. Mr. Welsh unquestionably is one in "Boom-Boom." That doesn't necessarily mean that he has comic talents beyond what he displays in the new nonsense in the Apollo; but I am of the belief that he has. A new Sam Bernard, a new William Collier, or a new David Warfield is at least as important as a new Hamlet and more important than a new Shylock.

Miscellany.

Mr. Ziegfeld has at length decided that "Show-Girl," based on J. P. McEvoy's series in Liberty, will be his next venture; and he is now at the task of casting it. Eddie Foy (junior) is to have what is regarded at this stage of preparation as the principal masculine rôle; the cabaret trio named Clayton, Jackson and Durante will be in it; and Miss Ruby Keeler [Mrs. Al Jolson] will not be in it; at least, it is said that Mr. Jolson has said that he doesn't care to have her in it. William Anthony McGuire is making the libretto; and the music is to be George Gershwin's. . . . It seems needless to explain that Eddie Foy (junior) is the son of the comic fellow who earned his first money selling THE TRIBUNE in the streets of Chicago, and afterward became the town's idol through his antics in the extravaganzas staged in the Chicago Opera House by the late David Henderson. Of the young man's talents as an actor, I know nothing; I have been told, however, that he "has something." One of his brothers, Bryan, is said to have come through in Hollywood as a writer for and director of movies, and that he has displayed to-date more talent than anybody else out there in directing sound-films. Doubtless, Mr. Ziegfeld knows what he is doing.

Yet, Mr. Ziegfeld, seemingly, didn't know what he was doing when, last

Raise Millions for Cleveland's Symphony Hall

$500 Campaign for Orchestral Home.

[Other news of affairs musical will be found on page 8 of this section.]

By Edward Moore.

IN connection with a letter from John J. Hattstaedt regarding the situation of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, which was published in this column a few weeks ago, the experience of Cleveland with its orchestra may have some bearing on the case.

Cleveland has had a symphony orchestra for a number of years. Playing each season to a reasonably corpulent and apparently unavoidable deficit, it began to seem desirable to a number of the city's residents to put the orchestra on a more stable foundation. Wherefore last fall John L. Severance announced that he would donate $1,000,000 for the building of a new symphony hall if the people of Cleveland would coöperate by raising $2,000,000 more.

Five hundred campaign workers were appointed, and the week of April 11 to 19 was selected as the time for them to put their backs into the drive. After the dust had settled, the following figures were made public as to what had been raised: orchestra hall, $1,000,000; hall endowment, $600,000; hall site [donated by Western Reserve university], $600,000; orchestra endowment, $2,363,070; five year endowment pledges, representing a capital investment of $1,400,000. The total adds up to $5,863,070.

There is plenty of opportunity to editorialize over this experience, but upon looking over the account it hardly seems necessary.

Somehow the figures tell a rather eloquent story of their own.

Evanston Festival Nears.

The next important musical event to look forward to is the Chicago North Shore festival, which in spite of its name will take place at Evanston. Five concerts will be given on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday afternoon and Saturday evening of the week beginning May 27.

Peter C. Lutkin, dean of the school of music of Northwestern university, will be the musical director of the festival for the twenty-first successive year. In other words, the music festivals and Mr. Lutkin have been synonymous throughout their extent. He sends out the cheering news that this season the festival chorus is better than it has ever been before; in fact this year he has been able to establish a reserve chorus secondary to the main body of 600.

The first night's program calls for a performance of Saint-Saëns' opera, "Samson and Delilah," to be given in concert form. Mr. Lutkin will conduct, the festival chorus and the A Cappella choir of Northwestern university will sing, the Chicago Symphony orchestra will play, and the soloists will be Cyrena Van Gordon, Charles Marshall, Richard Bonelli, and Herbert Gould.

Bloch's "America" Scheduled.

On Tuesday night the Chicago Symphony orchestra will be directed by Mr. Stock. A concert program will be played which features Bloch's "America" as the important composition. The soloists will be Efrem Zimbalist, the violinist, who will play Bruch's Fantasy, and Gina Pinnera, soprano, who will sing "Casa Diva" from "Norma" and "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio," from "La Forza del Destino."

Miss Pinnera will be making her first appearance in this part of the country, after having made herself enthusiastically well known in the east. They said there last fall that she was a combination of the finest coloratura with the noblest of dramatic sopranos and the most delicate of lieder artists, which would seem to be earnest praise.

Mr. Lutkin and Mr. Stock will divide baton duties on the third program. The first part will be Bach's B minor Mass, or at least its most important sections, with Anna Burmeister, Maria Morrissey, Tudor Davies and Mr. Gould as soloists. In the second part Mr. Stock will conduct Respighi's "The Birds," and Joseph Hofmann, the pianist, will play the solo part of the Rubinstein D minor Concerto.

Saturday afternoon, according to custom, will feature the children's chorus of 1,500 voices. Directed by John W. Beattie, they will sing a new cantata, "Dryad's Kisses," by W. Otto Meissner, with Barre Hill as baritone soloist. This will be preceded by a concert program directed by Mr. Stock, in which Alice Mock, the soprano, will sing.

The final program will introduce two new compositions. One is Arne Oldberg's Theme and Variations for piano, harp, and orchestra, in which Mr. Oldberg will be the piano soloist. Shortly thereafter Mr. Lutkin will present "All My Heart This Night Rejoices," an a cappella motet for antiphonal choruses in which the festival choruses and the A Cappella choir will participate. The rest of the program, of concert character, will be done by the orchestra, Mr. Bonelli, and another star of the Civic Opera company, Edith Mason.

Ravinia Studies Active.

Ravinia sends word that its studios are the points of intense activity with painters and technical staff preparing the scenery for two novelties of the summer, "La Rondine" and "La Campana Sommersa." It also grows informative regarding the works.

"La Rondine" was originally intended for production in Vienna. For that reason its introduction into other European countries and America was considerably delayed, for the score was the property of a Viennese publishing house and the war kept copies from issuing even to places where the performing rights had been sold. Its scene is Paris at the time of the Second Empire, and its story bears some resemblance to both "La Traviata" and "Sapho," though it is handled with considerably lighter touch than either. Its music is Puccini at his most charming.

Lucrezia Bori made the hit of her life in the part of Magda last winter at the Metropolitan, and will do the same part here. The next important woman's rôle will be sung by Florence Macbeth. The leading tenor part will be alternated by Edward Johnson and Mario Chamlee, and there is an important character part to be done by Armand Tokatyan.

"La Campana Sommersa" is known in English as "The Sunken Bell." About a quarter century ago Gerhart Hauptman wrote the play which has become the libretto of the opera, a fantastic, mystical work peopled not only with humans, but gnomes, elves, and creatures of supernatural spells in German folk lore. Claudio Guastalla made it into a libretto, and Ottorino Respighi wrote the music. It was brought out last season at the Metropolitan, and Elisabeth Rethberg and Giovanni Martinelli likewise made great hits in its principal parts, particularly Mr. Martinelli, who was given a higher rating as a dramatic singing-actor than he had ever enjoyed before.

Hailed by Mussolini.

As a matter of fact, the performances had repercussions extending across the ocean, for Premier Mussolini extended a special invitation to these two artists to come to Rome and appear in the work there. From all accounts the same sort of a success was made there and again later at Milan's La Scala. They, too, are billed for the Ravinia performances, and a number of the other artists who were in the original Metropolitan performances will be associated with him.

And, though this is not sent from Ravinia headquarters, when Respighi was in Chicago last winter he told some of his friends that he was making plans to come to Ravinia this summer and listen to the performances of his work there.

The dancer who calls himself Francesco without further identification will appear in a ballet named "Muimas," based upon an Egyptian romance, at the Goodman theater this afternoon. It will be followed by divertissements and another ballet from Germany. Among the other artists appearing will be Edwina Shonet, Bessye Harville, and Ganiva Kurri, and the advance notices promise that the last of these artists gives interpretations of Spanish dances that rival La Argentina.

THE ARMCHAIR PLAYGOER

By Fanny Butcher.

NEITHER New York nor Chicago offer much in the way of openings for armchair playgoers, unless the Passion Play should lead them to a most interesting literary work called "The Readers' Bible." It was the life work of Richard Greene Moulton, who taught until his death at the University of Chicago and whose classes in "general literature" were almost like Elks' conventions because they were so overflowing and everybody had such a grand time. Without changing a word of the text of the Bible, Dr. Moulton reprinted it in ordinary prose form and divided the books into their literary classifications. Strangely, the Bible, so long a book of morals, assumes with the mere trick of printing the verse as verse and the lyrics as lyrics and the flowing prose as what it is, a tremendous literary power which its dogmatic chaptering and versing disguised. It is a real experience to read "The Readers' Bible."

FLOYD DELL.

Most of the news of the week comes from abroad.

IN LONDON.

"Little Accident," the play which Floyd Dell made from his book, "An Unmarried Father", achieved a success as an entertainment which the critics did not agree it possessed as a work of art. But that was also true of its New York production, and it packed the house in a season when good plays died on the vine like the inhabitants of the London slums in a good cholera season.

IN GERMANY.

Three American plays have been tried out in the provinces with so casual a success that a Berlin correspondent feels that they may never achieve production there. "The Royal Family," but lately in Chicago, the hit of last year's dramas in New York and really one of the best plays about players ever written, did not take on, they say, in Germany. "The Road to Rome," by Robert E. Sherwood, which was a tremendous success in New York, Chicago, and points east and west, didn't seem to excite the critics particularly. And "The Silver Cord," by Sidney Howard, which was a really cerebral drama, they called "merely a rinsing of Ibsen."

This Thing and That About the Plays and Actors

By Frederick Donaghey.

Whaler, he adventured again with his Midnight Frolics in New-York; for it is said that he had dropped $75,000 before quitting, which he did a week ago. Maurice Chevalier, Miss Helen Morgan, the Misses Duncan, Eddie Cantor, and Paul Whiteman were some of the proud and costly names featured in the ads meant to lure the populace.

As to "Show-Boat," it was taken off Times Town last night after a run of more than sixteen months. That is not, in point of time, a record; but I think the figures of intake for the run are a record. It is to be taken to Boston: it is not known when it will reopen in Chicago, where, Mr. Ziegfeld insists, there is not an available theater with a stage sufficiently large for the equipment. There is, of course, the Majestic; but the Majestic is not among the theaters here with which Mr. Ziegfeld and his partners do business.

Miss Jane Cowl is in rehearsal of a new piece, "Jenny," by Edward Sheldon, once of Chicago, and Mrs. Cecil Barnes, still of Chicago. Mrs. Barnes (who takes her playbilling as Marjorie Ayer Barnes) made the dramatization of "The Age of Innocence" in which Miss Katharine Cornell has been performing for months and months. Guy Standing is to be with Miss Cowl in the new play.

Ray D'Arcy, who has been something or other in films, has been hired to sing, dance, and otherwise perform in a new piece called "Just Off the Boat." . . . And the author of "Just Off the Boat," Lyman Brown, says he is writing another piece, to be called "The Gay Criterions."

Arthur Byron, who now classifies as a veteran; James Dale, who was in Chicago in "Loyalties" and "The Age of Mrs. Cheyney"; and Miss Mildred Mitchell, from whom the Shubert Shubert say they expect a great deal, head the cast of "South to Siam," which is to be submitted this week in Wilmington (Del.). This is a play from the German: it was for a time named "Careers"; and it has to do with life among French officers in the Far East.

Will Mahoney, who has been doing well in the two-a-day since the failure of his venture as a star in "Take the Air!" has been hired for a new issue of the Earl Carroll Vanities. . . . And there are many persons, including a high percentage of play-reporters, who insist that Mr. Mahoney is one of the two or three funniest performers in all the world today. Unfortunately, I have not been present when he was functioning in proof of the contention.

Lynn Nicholson, who started so well with "The Barker," has again met disappointment in his efforts to follow up that success. His most recent play, "Before You're Twenty-One," was taken off last night in New York, where it was made known in mid-April.

Alexander Gray, liked here in last season's long run of "The Desert Song," is to be vis-à-vis with Miss Marilyn Miller in the talkie-film of "Sally." . . . Miss Miller and Jack Donahue have closed their season in "Rosalie."

And, in this matter of celebrities, comedies, and well-knowns who are going talkie, today's New-York Times tells of a song-and-dance actress "of less than stellar position" who has given up her rôle in a hit to take up a Hollywood contract that requires that she shall have $100,000 the first year, $250,000 the second, and $300,000 the third. . . . Her pay for the third year will—if she last that long—be equal to what Mr. Hoover will have received for his first term as President.

Miss Gladys Baxter, who was so good in the Chicago performances of "Music in May," has withdrawn from that operetta, which is in the New-York Casino. Her rôle of the Russian siren has been taken over by Miss Charlotte Woodruff.

Ed Wynn, who recently explained that his heart was set on appearing next season in a piece of his own making with characters out of Mother Goose, now explains that his associates are of the belief that this is not the time for that type of extravaganza, and that he will, accordingly, turn in with his manager, George White, and some trained writers of rimes and tunes to fabricate a piece more to what he is told is the fashion.

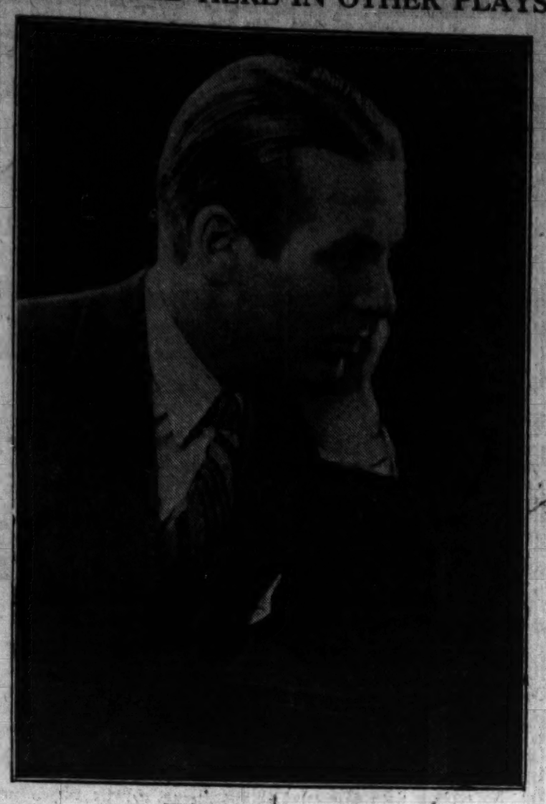
What is said to be Boston's record for receipts for a single week, the sum of $56,000, was drawn by Will Rogers and Miss Dorothy Stone in "Three Cheers!"

BEEN LIKED HERE IN OTHER PLAYS



WALLACE FORD

HE'S returning to Chicago tonight, in the Cort, as the principal performer in "The Nut-Farm," by John C. Brownell, who, it seems, has taken a shot at the eternal California battle between the Native Sons and the goofs who go there in search of the wealth they fail to find in the East. . . . Mr. Ford was here for the run of "Pigs," 1925-'26, and that of "Broadway," 1927; and he was popular in both plays.

• One New Play in New-York.

"The First Law," which is of Russian origin, will be the sole novelty of the week in the Manhattan theaters. It is described as the "first play to be brought here from the Soviet Republic," whatever that may mean. Miss Frances Carson, Reginald Goode, Wilfrid Seagram, and Leonid Snegoff will be in it.

Plays and Such of Ten Years Ago in Chicago Theaters

SUBJOINED are news of and comment on plays and shows printed in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of May 4, 1919—the date most nearly corresponding to today. The excerpts are verbatim, and not rewrites or summarizations.

So well has "The Royal Vagabond" turned out, according to a reliable bit of gossip, that Mr. Cohan is at present engaged in converting "Hawthorne of the U. S. A." into a musical comedy. This play, it may be remembered, served Douglas Fairbanks for a season in the days before the richer rewards of the screen had tempted him.

"The Royal Vagabond" turned out but fairly well, as a matter of fact. It was one of a number of pieces whose casts were cut into by the actors' strike of 1919; and it was measurably saved by the circumstance that George M. Cohan, who had touched up and enlivened the libretto in the process of staging it, jumped into act one of the rôles. . . . . If Mr. Cohan made a song-and-dance version of "Hawthorne of the U. S. A.," he did not add to his fame in so doing—meaning that the present commentator has no recollection of the piece. The original, written by the same James Bernard Fagan whose "And, So, to Bed" was recently on view in Chicago, was none too successful when, early in 1913, Fairbanks performed in it here.

Edward Locke's comedy, "The Dancer," which was tried out on the road recently with Martha Hedman in the leading rôle, is being held for next season. In the interim it is being vigorously rewritten by that well-known theatrical tinker, Max Marcin.

Nor was Mr. Locke, in the matter of fame, pushed along by "The Dancer" much farther than he had gone with "The Climax." Mr. Marcin had recognition as an awkward playwright, rather than a tinker, ten years ago. Miss Hedman, a beauty in her day, has for a long time been out of public view.

OPENINGS:

John W. Kellerd at the Auditorium in Shakespearean representations beginning Monday night with "The Merchant of Venice."

Cort—William Collier in "Nothing But Lies."

Cohan's Grand—"A Prince There Was."

Mr. Kellard worked quite hard with his "Shaksperean representations" (meaning that he appeared in plays by Shakspere), but didn't fare well,—although there is a record that he wangled "Hamlet" through fifty or more obscure performances in New-York. . . . "Nothing But Lies" wasn't quite a flop, thanks to Collier. . . . And "A' Prince There Was" was a fairish success, thanks to Cohan.

Twenty Years Ago

GOING back through the files to twenty years ago, or to the corresponding Sunday of 1909, the interests of theater-goers were catered to in THE TRIBUNE of May 2 by the paragraphs that follow.

"The Catspaw," described as an American play by American authors, will be given its first local presentation at the Studebaker tonight. It is the joint effort of Forrest Halsey and Franklyn Searight, writers who are novices at the play-building game. The piece was produced less than a month ago in Buffalo, and since then it has been seen in Philadelphia; and in both cities it has been received with favor. Emmett Corrigan, long a popular member of different local stock-companies, will appear in the most important rôle—that of Roger Benderhaven, an unscrupulous financial operator, but, nevertheless, a magnetic figure. Wilson Melrose will be the Jim Alden; and among the others in the cast will be Theodore Babcock, James Wilson, William Lamp, Frank Aiken, James Spottswood, Jack Ellis, George J. Elmore, Maude Turner Gordon, Ethel Clifton, and Aileen Flaven.

"The Catspaw" is recalled only as a flop. Of the players, Theodore Babcock, James Spottswood, and Mrs. Gordon are still active on the stage, and Emmett Corrigan is doing something or other out in Hollywood.

"The Bachelor" is the first original play by Clyde Fitch to be produced by the Shuberts. In it, Charles Cherry will make his local stellar début at the Whitney Opera-House on Monday, May 10. He will be seen as George Goodale, a character named in honor of the dramatic critic of the Detroit Free Press. Mr. Cherry will be supported by the original cast seen at the Maxine Elliott Theater, and includes Richard Sterling, Ralph Morgan, Charles Laite, Ruth Maycliffe, Christine Blessing, and Janet Beecher.

The Messrs. Shubert were not in luck with "The Bachelor." Mr. Cherry hasn't of late been in the neighborhood. Mr. Morgan is (or has been) something of a somebody, due to the belief of part of the public that he possesses charm. Miss Beecher, who seemed for a while to be about through, has been doing well this season as the star of a piece called "Courage."

"My Boy" will be the attraction at Powers' Theater beginning Sunday night, May 9. It is a comedy by Rupert Hughes. Tim Murphy will enact the rôle of an American father, supported in the cast by Miss Adelaide Monola.

Mr. Hughes hadn't at the time turned a successful trick in the game of writing plays; and "My Boy" did not change his luck. Miss Manola was Mrs. Hughes; and she was the daughter of Marion Manola, a famed soprano of operetta in the 'Eighties and early 'Nineties.

GOES ACROSS

MISS INA HAYWARD

She's in "Billie," in the Erlanger, in the rôle of the wealthy widow—a rôle which, in the original play of "Broadway Jones," was said to have been George M. Cohan's notion of a celebrated marrying-lady from San-Francisco. To Miss Hayward falls the song which was reported last Wednesday by Mr. Donaghey to be the best in Mr. Cohan's score—"Come to St.-Thomas's!"; and she goes right to the fondness of the audience with it.

As a "Made" Show "Carnival" Is Pretty Good

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Strip humanity ruthlessly to the basic fundamentals of character and I suspect you will find the world is populated largely by would-be keyhole peekers. Hence the age-long success of triangle and boudoir dramas. Hence the recent enthusiasm aroused by back stage plays, dressing room romances and chorus girl exposures. Hence the enthusiastic activities of defeated Peeping Toms who have become censors and vice crusaders.

The newest of the revealing dramas is one called "Carnival." This one has to do with those street shows that, according to the protesting authorities, infest the middle west and continue to sell the exhibits in which the little ladies shake and shiver in every muscle and fiber of their quivering anatomies.

In "Carnival" the audience is permitted to peek under the canvas of a traveling honky-tonk. One of the jellied Jezebels picks up, or is picked up, by one of the home town boys in a middle western village. Fascinated by his youthful worship of her, tired of the vicious routine of her show life, she quits the show and lives with him for days in what her pals describe as a great little hide-away.

Country Boy Falls Into Love Coma.

The boy, Bobbie, falls hopelessly into a sort of love coma. Romance grips him and he wants to marry the girl. But the more deeply Bobbie is enmeshed the more conscience stricken Helen, the girl, becomes. He's a sweet kid. She can't ruin his life. She won't listen to his proposal that he draw his $200 from the savings bank and elope with her.

All other arguments failing, she tries to disgust him by revealing herself at a stag smoker as one of the girls who specialize in dancing for men only. The exhibit only strengthens Bobbie's determination to save her. He risks a fight with Blackie, the beast, who is the proprietor of the show and Helen's keeper. He suffers a gunshot wound, but no change of heart.

Then Helen, beaten and still noble, after a talk with Bobbie's father, substitutes for a parachute jumper and refuses to open the parachute. Her atonement is complete and tragic and Bobbie is saved.

"Carnival" is obviously a made play, but better made than many. Still, I feel it comes at the end of our interest in this type of peep-show drama and is, therefore, of doubtful longevity so far as this public is concerned. It may go better on tour, and is pretty sure to make the talkies. The lights will soften it a lot and the camera greatly extend its horizons. There is a free display of shimmying in the stag party scene.

A brave young actress named Anne Forrest plays Helen. Injured and facially scarred in an automobile accident in New Haven two weeks ago, she assumed the lead again for the New York opening. A liberal supply of tape covered cuts on her right cheek and she was forced to shade her makeup to meet the ghostly whiteness of the covering. She gave a splendid performance under the circumstances. Norman Foster plays Bobbie. William B. Boyle, an old carnival man himself, wrote "Carnival."

Mantle Reviews Mantle Book.

I have received a book—in fact, I have received six copies of a book—entitled "American Playwrights of Today." The author is a young writer named Mantle—Burns Mantle—who has, I am led to infer, been actively employed in writing of the theater for a number of years.

The assumption that Mr. Mantle is a young writer springs from the fact that he seems still to be more or less enthusiastic about the theater and the men who labor to make it possible and no one who is not young could conceivably still be enthusiastic about the theater after what has been happening to it these last few months. It may be, however, that he is not young. Merely simple minded.

I note that Mr. Mantle admits in the introduction to this volume that he wrote it with a definite selling purpose in mind. "I was influenced to some extent," writes Mr. Mantle, "by the fact that the most definite record of the theater in America, insofar as the New York theater represents the theater in America, which is far enough, is contained in a series of volumes bearing the alluring and slightly boastful title 'The Best Plays' of each successive season beginning with the season of 1919-'20.

"Stand this volume of 'American Playwrights of Today,' at the end of those nine volumes of 'Best Plays' and you have not only a fairly complete history of the American theater for that particular period, but also a nucleus to which may be added future volumes for which your descendants will unquestionably bless you. And if the reader thinks this is written with any idea of calling his attention to the possibility of completing such a collection of theater histories he is perfectly correct in that surmise. It is."

Sales Talk Is None Too Subtle.

This is, as you will see, a none too subtle selling bid. I am not sure that it is in good taste. If Mr. Mantle had wanted to promote the sale of his book of playwright biographies why did he not employ some such straightforward statement as: "If you do not add this book to your collection of stage histories you're foolish." Then the reader would have known exactly what he meant.

Mr. Mantle includes in "American Playwrights of Today" brief biographies of some 150 of the 4,000,000 playwrights, professional and amateur, who have written plays or helped to write plays within the last nine years. His excuse for reducing the number to 150 is that if he had included all the playwrights he would have forced his publishers to deandle the pulp forests and taxed the capacity of the paper mills, and he is, he would have us believe, a nature lover. He does not believe in cutting down any trees excepting those on golf courses.

It can be said for this latest addition to the "American Writers'" series that it should prove of vast help to those playgoers who still are in doubt as to whether Augustus or A. E. Thomas wrote "Arizona" and who, returning from the theater program in hand, would like to clear their minds of a perplexity as to whether Eugene O'Neill or Owen Davis wrote "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model."

* *

Hopelessly Artificial Comedy.

"Marry the Man," which has been playing in the west as "Companionate Marriage," is one of those hopelessly artificial comedies that are also measurably weakened by being miscast.

Vivian Martin, a flowerlike ingénue, born of stodgily conventional parents, belies both her character and her parentage by pretending to be a liberal of liberals who insists upon a contract marriage. She signs her somewhat reluctant young man to a trial honeymoon, goes to live with him in a bungalow decorated with her atrocious paintings and fights the sentiment of the community and the opposition of her parents in the cause of a trumped-up freedom.

The trial bridegroom, coming to demand full and legal possession of his wife by contract, tricks her into agreeing to a regular marriage by the familiar artifice of pretending to be in love with another girl.

Lester Vail, the one convincing member of the cast, plays the husband. The others are weak and the direction is poor. Jean Archibald, who had some success a few seasons back with a comedy called "Call the Doctor," which David Belasco produced with Janet Beecher in the lead, is the author.

Lacking in Plot.

Herbert Ashton Jr. proves himself a loyal son, but not a particularly skillful dramatist in the writing of a new crook play called "The Come-On Man." He has written good parts for himself and for his father, Herbert Sr., but his plot does not amount to much.

The story tells of a professional crook who engages an attractive youth to lure jewel owning ladies into a certain house to be robbed. The come-on man suffers reformation and the crooks are outwitted. Mr. Ashton is also the author of "Brothers," in which Bert Lytell has successfully played through the better part of the season. He has had considerable success as a scenarist and is possessed of good screen technique.

A new colored revue with less to offer as entertainment than even the average colored revue, is called "Messin' Around." The impression is strong that the promoters of colored shows have completely combed Harlem of its existent talent.

Velveeta the delicious new cheese product

Here, in the form of cheese, is not only a most remarkable new dairy product but a most delightful food. We ask you to compare the smooth velvety texture of Velveeta and the newly created deliciousness of its flavor with any cheese product you have ever known. Velveeta will win your instant approval.

Velveeta is a food for young or old; it is as digestible as milk itself. For Velveeta represents the latest contribution of science to the art of cheese making. Through the research work of our own laboratories we are at last able to combine in Velveeta each of those health-promoting elements of rich whole milk. We have found a way to extract from the fresh whole milk additional Vitamins, Lactose (sugar of milk), Calcium and other milk minerals heretofore impossible under old methods, and these we include in making Velveeta.

The result is this marvelous new dairy product that looks like cheese, tastes like cheese, but because of this added food value really should be called a super-cheese.

You can use Velveeta the same as you would use cheese. It spreads like butter. It can be sliced when chilled. It melts, dissolves and blends so readily with other foods that for cooking purposes it is superior to any cheese made under the old methods.

You should try a package of Velveeta. You'll like it and the children will like it, and it's an excellent food for both. You'll find it at your dealer's.

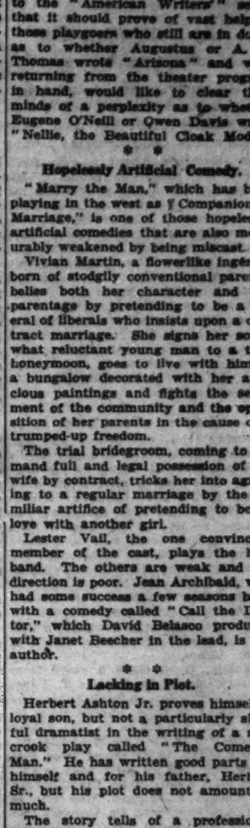
Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation



Pleasing Childish Appetite

"Philadelphia" Cream Cheese has the unusual distinction of possessing a particular appeal to the child's appetite, while at the same time being one of the most healthful foods the child could eat.

Not only is "Philadelphia" a universal favorite among children, but it is so rich in Calcium and Vitamin A—the food elements that promote sturdy growth, straight bones and strong teeth—that Child Specialists recommend it by name. "Philadelphia" Cream Cheese is a pure dairy product, made with unusual care, and children should be allowed to eat it freely and often. It is wrapped in the sanitary tinfoil package and is never sold in bulk. Its superior quality has made it the leader in its field for more than forty years. For sale everywhere.

No. 4—The Slaying of Dr. Patrick H. Cronin.

By Philip Kinsley.

ing an empty trunk, spattered with blood on the inside and a lock of dark hair clinging there, had been found in the bushes along Evanston avenue near Graceland, about a mile from where the body was found. This trunk was the one that Simonds had bought. The hair was that of Dr. Cronin. On Nov. 5 Dr. Cronin's clothes, his satchel and instruments were found in a manhole at Evanston and Buena avenues. His clothes had been cut from his body. His watch and purse were gone. There was a large polished box with a brass handle.

Dr. Cronin's murder had been accomplished, but the plot to have him appear as a suicide, through the planting of these clothes in some other part of the world, had failed for some unknown reason.

Evidences of Conspiracy.

During the eighteen days that elapsed between Dr. Cronin's disappearance and the finding of his body there were several manifestations of conspiracy. Dr. Cronin's friends thought he had been murdered, but strange reports of his having been seen began to crop up. Miss Anne Murphy and William Dwyer came forward with the positive statement that he had been seen by them on the night of May 4, after 9 o'clock, on a North Clark street car. Reports began to appear in the newspapers that he had been seen in New York and other places.

Finally, there came a story from Toronto, signed by Charles T. Long, son of a Toronto publisher, that he had talked with Dr. Cronin there on May 10. He went on to give a long interview with Dr. Cronin on Clan-na-Gael affairs. It developed later that Long, who had formerly been in Chicago, had fallen under the influence of William J. Starkey, who was in communication with Dr. Cronin's enemies. His stories were fabrications. Starkey was found in New York, but the Chicago police ordered his release.

When Dr. Cronin had failed to return home O'Sullivan, the ice man, was the first man sought. He expressed great surprise and said no one of his employes had been injured and he knew nothing of the man who had presented his card to Dr. Cronin. This did not satisfy Schuettler, who got from him later the tip that there was something mysterious at the cottage owned by the Carlsons. Schuettler and others went there the day after the body was found and saw at once that this was the scene of the crime.

Bloodstains led from the sidewalk to the wooden steps and into the front room, which was still spattered with blood on the walls and stained on the floor. An effort had been made to paint over the stains, but it was a careless job. The mark of a paint-stained hand was on the window shade, and on the floor were marks of a stockinged left foot. The rocking chair had been broken in the struggle. There were many fingerprints around, but such evidence was not used in those days in scientific manner. The key to the trunk was found, and the mark on the furniture showed that it had come from Revell's.

This led at once to the man Simonds, and to search for the man Williams, who had rented the cottage. The flat on Clark street was also found.

Detective Arrested.

O'Sullivan was pressed further when the Carlsons recalled that on the day they rented the cottage to Williams they had seen the man walk over to O'Sullivan, who was in the yard, and had heard him say: "Well, the cottage is rented." Later, when they became suspicious of their tenants, they asked O'Sullivan about them, and he had replied they were all right and he would guarantee the rent. On May 13, after Dr. Cronin had been missing nine days, a stranger called on the Carlsons and offered a third month's rent. They refused unless their tenants occupied the house. On may 15 a note signed "F. W." was received from Hammond, Ind. In this Williams said he had been called away on business, his sister was still ill, and asked the Carlsons to put the furniture in their cellar. He said he had painted the floor for his sister. The Carlsons looked at the cottage and were alarmed, but decided to do nothing until Williams called.

In the meantime the white horse clew was followed. Detective Dan Coughlin was supposed to be working on this. On the Monday morning after the disappearance Dinan, the livery stable keeper, met him at the station and asked him who the man was that he had rented the horse and buggy for, and told him he was about to report it to Capt. Schaack.

"Keep quiet about it," Coughlin told him. "Me and Cronin have not been good friends and if you go to talking you may get me into trouble."

But Dinan did not let it rest. He carried the story to Schaack, who accepted Coughlin's statement that he had rented it for a man named Smith who was out of town and that it was not the same horse. Dinan went to Chief of Police Hubbard. Coughlin was called in and cross examined and placed under arrest. Schaack was suspended from the force, but later reinstated, and he did good work in the Luetgert case. Coughlin's friend Smith was located, but proved that he knew nothing of the white horse and that he was a stranger from Hancock, Mich.

OUT OF THE PICTURE

The investigation was muddled further by the alleged confession of Frank J. Black, alias Woodruff, who was arrested on May 9 for horse stealing. He said he was in Sol Van Praag's gambling house at 382 South State street, had lost money, and was hired on May 4 by one William King to get a horse and wagon and take a trunk away from 525 North State street. He said they drove to the north end of Lincoln park and met two other men, one of whom he thought was Dr. Cronin. The body of a woman was taken from the trunk and thrown in a manhole, and the trunk was dumped off in another part of the lake shore. He said he got $25 for the job.

This started the police to searching manholes, but they stopped two blocks short of the right one. Woodruff's story was considered false, but he was indicted and demanded a separate trial. There was no evidence against him, and, as he was wanted in Kansas for horse stealing, the police let him go. He died in prison a few years later. He told fellow prisoners he had actually driven the wagon in which Dr. Cronin's body was taken away. This put out of the picture two men who knew something about the conspiracy—Starkey and Black.

From various stool pigeons in north side saloons and gambling houses the police found evidence that further implicated O'Sullivan and Coughlin. They had been talking about Dr. Cronin. They had called him a spy and said he ought to be put out of the way. William Niemann, a saloonkeeper in North Clark street, said that about 10 or 11 o'clock on the night of May 4 O'Sullivan, Coughlin, and a third man afterward declared to be John Kunze had been talking together, whispering as though in possession of some great secret.

Expert Sleuthing.

Detective John M. Collins did a good piece of work. He searched the gallery of his mind for men who might be implicated in a job like this. He thought of Martin Burke and Patrick Cooney, known as "The Fox." He learned that they had been drinking steadily after the murder of Dr. Cronin and had plenty of money, and then had disappeared from their usual haunts. He discovered a picture of Burke in a group and took it to the Carlsons. They at once identified him as Frank Williams. Cooney answered the description of Simonds. He was never found by the police. Descriptions of Burke were broadcast, and Chief McRae of the Winnipeg police arrested him as he was getting on a train with a ticket for Liverpool in his pocket. Chief Hubbard, Schuettler, and Collins went after him and he was brought back to Chicago after a long extradition fight.

Burke and Kunze, who was arrested, were stool pigeons of Dan Coughlin. Both had been in trouble, and Burke had been suspected in two murders. Coughlin held this information and made them his tools, according to the state theory. There may have been a mistake about Kunze. He was identified by a boy who said he had seen him washing his feet in the Clark street flat. Mertes, the milkman, said he was the man who drove Dr. Cronin to the Carlson cottage. Kunze, a German, declared all along that he was innocent. The jury hesitated in his case, and gave him only three years in prison.

The coroner's jury attempted to clear the mystery by holding Alexander Sullivan, the lawyer and enemy of Cronin, to the grand jury. He was arrested and spent a night in jail, where he slept soundly. His conscience was clear, he said. The grand jury never found enough evidence to indict him, and the bond against him was released. Sullivan was active in city politics. Coughlin was his friend, and it was said he had once aided Burke to get a city job. But all this was suspicion, not court evidence

FOUR FOUND GUILTY

There were no real confessions. No one ever told who killed Dr. Cronin. The trial was held in the fall of 1889 before Judge S. P. McConnell. Joel M. Longenecker, the state's attorney, was assisted by Luther Laflin Mills, W. J. Hines, and George C. Ingham. The defense by half a dozen lawyers was led by the brilliant William S. Forrest. The white horse was the strongest witness against Coughlin, although two knives taken from his pocket were identified as Dr. Cronin's. The identification by the Carlsons was the evidence that convicted Burke. The contract with the doctor and the incident of the business card were the worst things against O'Sullivan. Letters and testimony of fellow clansmen implicated Beggs in the appointment of a secret committee to take care of Dr. Cronin. Burke was also identified by H. Mortenson, an expressman, as the man who hired him to move furniture from the Clark street flat to the cottage.

During the early part of the trial the state uncovered an effort to get at the jury, and traced it to the defense, through Max Solomon, a bailiff. Six men were sent to jail for this. The defense was chiefly that of alibi witnesses. It took forty-five days to get a jury, so great was the prejudice and fear in the town. The medical evidence was interesting. Taking bloodstains from the floor of the Carlson cottage, bloodstains in the trunk, hair in the trunk, and hair from Dr. Cronin's head, also a thread of hair found on a cake of soap in the kitchen of the cottage, the experts deduced that a human being, and this human being Dr. Cronin, had been killed in the cottage, his body placed in the trunk and then dumped into the manhole.

The jury found Beggs not guilty, Kunze guilty of manslaughter, and Coughlin, O'Sullivan, and Burke guilty of murder. These three were sentenced to life imprisonment.

One Juror Holds Out.

The jurors debated the case for three days, returning their verdict on Dec. 16. There might have been a hanging verdict but for the resistance of one man, John Culver of Evanston. Long afterward he gave his diary to Joe Dillabough, a reporter who covered the case. This showed that he was moved more by religious conviction than anything else. The jurors held religious service every night. Culver in his diary called Dinan an untruthful witness. Also, Mrs. Conklin did not impress him. He wrote once:

"I am seeking the Lord's help that I may, in my heart, realize and know that 'he doeth all things well.' I have been afraid of Mills' eloquence—not his reasoning power—but his power to capture the thought or imagination, to picture things and to make even the untrue appear real and true. I have prayed much to the Lord to keep me that my mind may be clear and my judgment corrrect. God help me and keep me, for Jesus' sake, amen."

In 1893 the Supreme court granted Coughlin a new trial. Burke and O'Sullivan had died in prison. Two of the jurors, Bontecou and Clark, were declared disqualified by prejudice. The decision stated that the evidence failed to show that the Clan-na-Gael was an unlawful or criminal organization or that, as an organization, it had anything to do with the murder. Coughlin was brought to trial again before Judge Richard S. Tuthill, in 1893. The only new witness of importance was Mrs. Lizzie Foy, whose husband, Andrew, was identified with the Clan-na-Gael. Her story was attacked as that of a mad woman. In 1889, she said, Martin Burke, Cooney the Fox, and others called repeatedly at the Foy house, in Oak street near Market, where they always inquired for Dan Coughlin. Foy was present at some of the meetings.

She heard them talking about Dr. Cronin and his alleged treason. They decided to kill the doctor. Burke and Cooney were selected for the actual killing. The weapon chosen was the chisel of Andrew Foy. She thought Foy, instead of Kunze, had driven the doctor to the house. O'Sullivan, she said, watched outside. She named others of the conspirators and said the plan was to take the body out in the lake and sink it deep. This was part of Coughlin's job, and he was said to have gone to the cottage soon after the murder. On the evening of the murder Foy took his brickmason's chisel and wrapped it up, saying it would remove "another Le Caron." Monday morning he brought in a newspaper containing the story of Cronin's disappearance, and told one of the boys to take it to his mother.

This and other evidence against Coughlin failed to impress the second jury, which voted an acquittal.

Dan Coughlin Escapes.

Coughlin returned to Chicago, opened a saloon, and in 1899 was indicted for offering a bribe to a juror in a damage suit against the Illinois Central railroad. The juror took a diamond from Coughlin as security for the money, and went to Judge Tuthill with the story and the diamond. Coughlin fled south, was arrested in Mobile, and released on habeas corpus just before Chicago officers arrived. He went to South America and worked for many years in Puerto Cortez, Honduras, as a foreman for Capt. J. W. Grace, a contractor in charge of public improvements. He is supposed to have died there from tuberculosis.

Nothing more was done about the Cronin case. Dr. Cronin's funeral was magnificent, and his death was "extensively inquired into," as he had predicted.

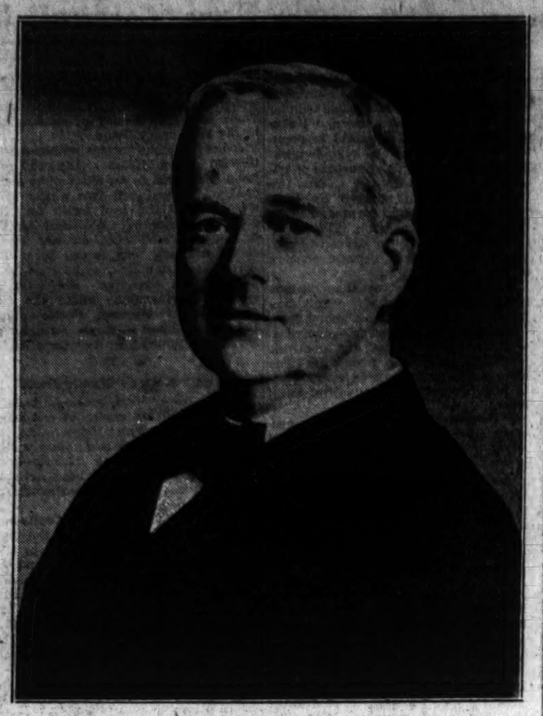
ONE OF "THE BIG THREE"



ALEXANDER SULLIVAN, Chicago attorney and a member of the so-called Triangle, the executive committee of the Clan-na-Gael. It was this faction of the Irish Republicans in America that Dr. Cronin fought bitterly. The Supreme court ruled that the evidence failed to show that the Clan-na-Gael, as an organization, had anything to do with the doctor's murder.

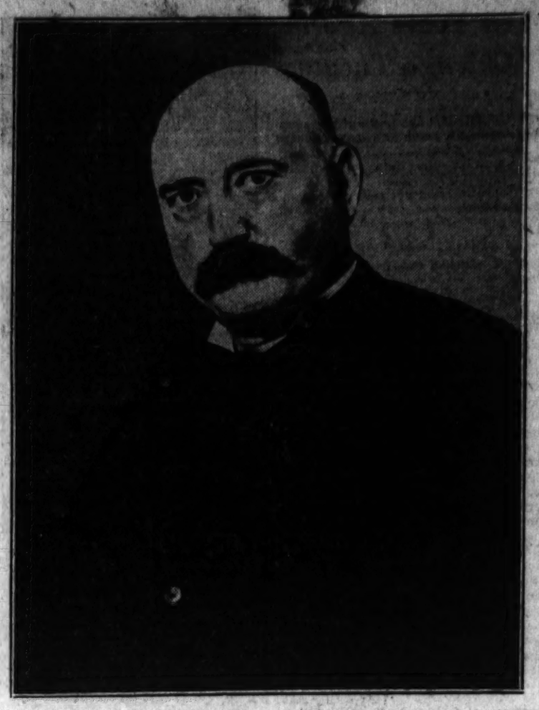
PROSECUTOR

LUTHER LAFLIN MILLS, one of the attorneys who assisted Joel M. Longenecker, the state's attorney in the Cronin murder case. They succeeded in convicting four of the defendants, but the fifth was acquitted.

HE USED HIS HEAD



JOHN M. COLLINS, who, with Herman F. Schuettler, did remarkable work on the Cronin case. Both were detectives at the time, and both later became chief of police. It was Collins who implicated Martin Burke and Patrick Cooney. Cooney was never found, but Burke was caught, tried, and convicted.

Water Color Show Is An Event of Events

By Eleanor Jewett.

THE International Water Color show this year at the Art institute is an Event with a capital "E." Rarely has such an excellent exhibition been placed on view. There is variety enough to meet all tastes and enough, also, to defy any effort at a categorical placing of the exhibit in one classification or another, an effort which generally possesses more than a little of the derogatory. The two classifications about which the most words are spun are the conventional and the modern. Both schools are illustrated in the current exhibition.

The first impression one gets from the exhibit is that of color, the second is of vitality, and the third is of action. No dead wood litters the walls. The exhibit has been pruned carefully and the results speak for themselves. The first rooms are devoted to examples of American work. We find a number of magnificent water colors by Frank W. Benson and three stunning and meticulously executed excerpts from contemporary America dropped from the fertile hands of Rutherford Boyd. His street scene where two girls hunger after the glittering treasures [modestly marked $1.99] in a shop window, is a gem. His soda water counter is an epic. The dressing of the dummies is a fantasy. The three are facets on the rough diamond of contemporary life.

There are probably few of us who do not know that priceless literary effort:

"I never saw a purple cow,
I never hope to see one—
But this I tell you here and now,
I'd rather see than be one."

* *

A German artist has not chosen to see eye to eye with public taste, and he gives us in the water color show a blue fringed cow, fringed because while the outskirts of its body are blue its middle is red. There is enough blue, however, to make the purple cow verse eminently apropos. In the same masterpiece, the man in charge of the beast lolls on the river bank, and there is something wrong with his proportions. He is at least two sizes too small for his age and type, and for his difficult enterprise of shepherding such a peculiarly colored animal. A cow like that is capable of almost any enormity.

Modern French Masters.

In the room with the cow, or in a room near it, hangs a group of small water colors by the French modern masters, Cezanne, Picasso, Gauguin and Simon. There can be no question of the merit of the Simon pictures. He is one of the great French painters of today, undoubtedly. His color and virility and certainty are beyond criticism. In these four very different paintings his three great qualities are strongly shown. He has knowledge and practice to back up his sense of color and arrangement, and from the simplest grouping of men or beasts, of trees and desert houses, he makes living pictures. His is one name that France may be sure will continue to make her famous so long as eyes can see. He will stand side by side with the other Frenchmen, Corot, Diaz, Troyon—the list is enormous—in the field of art.

A most amusing German is present in the water color exhibition. He is Georg Grosz. His humor is immensely clever, and just enough tinged with malice to give it an edge. His characters just miss being caricatures. Look at the three pictures. There is one capital scene in a café, another in the Luxembourg gardens, and a third "At the Corner." They are clever, well done, human and most amusing.

Two Beautiful Pictures.

Frederic Tellander has two beautiful water colors to his credit. They are landscapes and the one, "Down the Crawford Trail," possesses a haunting beauty. Robert Lee Eskridge has several debonair snap shots at Tahiti. Buk Ulreich disports his talent in fantastic ways, and a group of cubist abstractions are supplied by Kandinsky.

Davenport Griffen shows a clever arrangement, and Raymond Thayer is present with some nice work. Olive Rush is represented with a delicate and charmingly painted scene from Santa Fé. Miss Rush has a subtle manner that leaves a great deal of her canvas to the imagination of its audience. She delicately suggests a coat, or a leg, or a face, and the very absence of definite boundaries makes her impression the stronger. We follow with her. As a result she is one of those artists who today most closely resemble poets. A thread of music and rhyme binds her exquisite conceptions together and gives them life.

The most important prize in the exhibition was awarded to Joseph W. Jicha. His "Bahamian Coalman, Nassau," a finely painted water color, received the Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan medal and $600.

Photographic Salon.

The First International Photographic Salon to be held in Chicago opened last Thursday in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. A short visit to the exhibit, while yet the pictures were prostrate on their backs on the floor, yielded the impression that the collection is remarkably fine. Another visit will yield more than an impression. In fact, it will yield facts for a story for next Sunday's art column.

The indictment contained in the following letter is one that has been raised rather often and by a number of people, artists and laymen, against the Art institute, and to refute it it seems as well to bring it now to the front and let the Art institute give an answer. The implied accusation is contained in a letter sent me by George Hugher. He writes:

"Dear Miss Jewett: I have admired your articles very much. I have heard from many that the exhibitions at the Art institute are arranged for former students of the Art institute chiefly, that the entry cards are marked accordingly, or that they know every painting which is submitted—whether it is the work of one of their former pupils or not. If this is true, the title of 'Chicago Artists' exhibit,' for example, should be changed to 'exhibit by Chicagoans, former Art institute students,' in justice to the other painters in the city. We will probably notice the same thing in the international water color exhibition, or perhaps this will be made an exception to the annual practice."

Common Accusations.

I have heard it suggested, I have even heard it stated for fact, that the Art institute does show favoritism. I have heard it said that the prizes are given sometimes to Art institute graduates in preference to outside painters because those men won foreign scholarships and the giver of the foreign scholarship wanted actual proof that the young man had gained by his study abroad. A prize is tangible proof of success—sometimes.

It is true that in numerous Art institute shows prizes have been awarded to Art institute graduates and the fact that Art institute graduates have successfully passed the jury of admission has been stressed. Now, of course, the prestige of any art school must depend on the success of its graduates. In the case of the Chicago Art institute school, though, this should not be developed to such importance as to overshadow the museum activities. The public exhibitions should in justice be a quite separate body to that of the school.

It is not true that only Art institute pupils can hope for admittance to the Art institute exhibitions; nor do only Art institute students win prizes. But enough coincidences have occurred to make the indictment bitter. It would be a shame if the feeling ran higher. It would detract from the power of the Art institute. There should be some public institutions too big to stoop to petty and momentary triumphs. If in fair competition Art institute graduates cannot class as first, very well—raise the school standards—get a better type of student.

When a premium is put, and acknowledged, on the mere fact that one has studied at the Art institute, that fact loses significance. Art education becomes another sort of graft. Politics is played again. The whole business is sunk to a lower, meaner level. Fairness never brought mediocrity to any organization; pampering has.

If the Art institute will trouble to answer the suggestions in the foregoing paragraphs, I shall be delighted to print the answer. The complaint has been running under the surface now for at least five years. The festering of a sore like that is weakening to the artist body. Much better probe it, disinfect and start fresh.

Paintings by John Goossens.

John Goossens, who is a talented painter, is exhibiting with Emile Grumieaux, president of the Chicago Society of Artists, and François Serniclaes at the new Cambridge club, 53d street and the lake. John Goossens is showing the twelve paintings he has exhibited before and four new ones. His remarkable "Bacchus" hangs between two large landscapes by Emile Grumieaux. The exhibit is well worth while and it will continue to May 20.

Meanwhile Mr. Goossens has sent in a letter which is really a trumpet call to duty. The obligation it hints at should be the duty of every one of us interested in art. The letter was sent out to the members of the Illinois Academy of Fine Arts, fighting to preserve the state's appropriation of $10,000 yearly to buy paintings and sculpture for the state museum. It runs as follows. The answer is your undertaking.

"I have received word from Dr. Crook that the department of finance, of which Garrett De F. Kinney is director, has disapproved Dr. Crook's request for $10,000 a year for the purchase of paintings, sculpture, etc., which he included in his museum budget for the next two years.

"It would be most unfortunate if this should prove to be final. I therefore believe that it is quite important that we impress upon Mr. Kinney the mistake he is making. Will you, therefore, please, at your earliest convenience write Mr. Kinney as well as Homer J. Tice, chairman of the appropriations committee of the house of representatives, impressing upon these gentlemen why, in your judgment, the use of this money would be helpful to the art interests and art loving public generally. Impress upon them that the great multitude of people in Illinois who love beauty, and the artistic fraternity, would appreciate their support of this very fine undertaking.

"Perhaps you could get others vitally interested to write letters, also."

This is signed by J. F. Cornelius, president of the Illinois Academy of Fine Arts, an organization which has begun and is continuing a splendid work in Illinois and for Illinois. The idea of a Springfield art museum is fine. Their idea of taking pictures and sculpture to the Illinois small towns is better. Without money they are stopped. Every one who wishes may write, as the letter indicates, to Homer J. Tice at Springfield, and your letters may help to change the opinion held by the men who, for the moment, hold the purse strings.

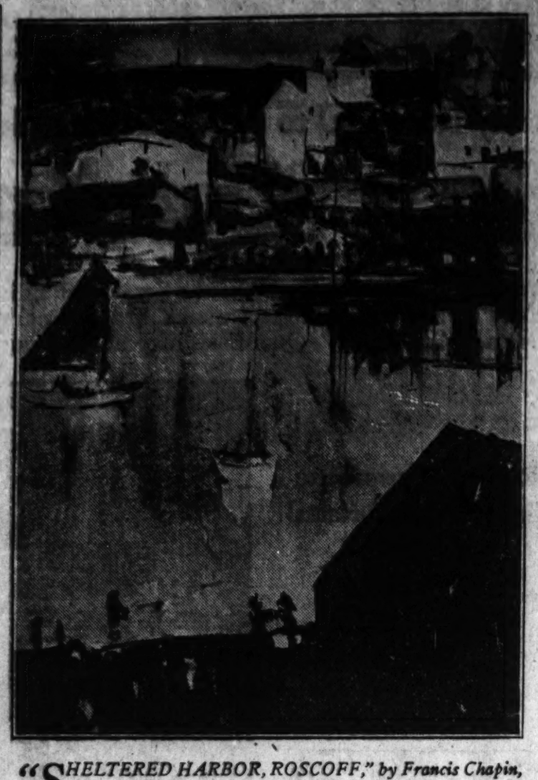
News of Exhibits.

At the Illinois Woman's Athletic club there is current a two man show of oil paintings by Minnie Harma Neebe and her husband, Louis Alexander Neebe, and some pen and ink drawings by Mr. Neebe. The exhibit will continue to May 24. Mr. Neebe suffered a stroke last year, and he is now painting with his left hand. The paintings are colorful and hold the interest.

The Chester H. Johnson galleries announce the opening tomorrow of their annual exhibition of important paintings. Among the painters represented will be Degas, Renoir, and Gauguin. About twenty-five pictures will be shown and the impressionists and later schools will be illustrated. The English portrait painters, for example, compose one important division. The exhibition will continue through the month.



"SHELTERED HARBOR, ROSCOFF," by Francis Chapin, awarded the William H. Tuthill prize of $100 in the Ninth International Exhibition of Water Colors, which opened last Thursday in the east wing galleries of the Art institute.

The exhibition is particularly brilliant. It will continue through June 2.

DANGEROUS!

Olga Baclanova is indeed a lady to beware of in "The Dangerous Woman," which is the Oriental's feature picture for the week. She is seen here with Neil Hamilton, who hasn't any business to be doing as he is.

The Voice of the Movie Fe

If you would like your letter printed in this column, please write it on ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY. Inclose a personal answer and stamped addressed envelope.

A Good Story Gone Wrong.

Dear Miss Mae Tinée: Isn't tragic? The things they do to stories when they put them on the screen. Take "The Dolly Sisters," for instance. An unusually good large story, as such things go, with some semblance of verisimilitude, some authentic atmosphere, love of real human beings as distinguished from some, a few types that may be met on or near a modern campus, and actually tag with an, "I can't tell a Dean So-and-So to the life! Can't just hear h—?"

And now look at the dear thing. Just another of those things with one more "collitch" movie. Can't even get away from the Princeton and Stanford initials. A mass of incongruities. The ambitious, pushing, yes priggish, unsophisticated girl has made something of herself through the influence of two fine women and the memory of a mother, transformed into the son of a millionaire, bent on putting something over on his father. A young millionaire who is shocked and pained to learn the girl he has fallen for smokes a cigarette. He would be. L. B. I. J. (Shall I elucidate?) L for him. Who would.

And Sue, as played by Jean Crawford (there's a girl for you), would be for that kind of a smart aleck, wise-cracking jackass, wouldn't she? Oh, yes, she would. N O T.

And what about that terrific storm? In California! Not in Nbel on the CLIMATE!

Yours for a little common sense even in the movies. K. T. T.

Editors' Note: You should see the replies to your letter in the mail, Mrs. W.

A Good Movie Test.

Dear Mae Tinée: I've a test that I apply to every picture I see. If I can forget that its actors are acting, if I'm tense with the emotion that vibrates from the characters, and if it's so well done that I forget all of it—then, to me, this picture has a touch of greatness.

Thus, I found in the film of "The Doctor's Secret," a finished, forceful drama, not spoiled by acting but rather intensified by it. It is one of the finest pictures I've seen.

Editor's note: Your test is a good one.

Screen Actors Enter Business; Exeunt: Actors

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.]—Hollywood has its traditions as well as the stage. One of these is the tradition, or prejudice, whichever way it may be viewed, that an actor is an actor and had better keep out of any other business.

There is a silent but powerful resentment against an actor going into business. He doesn't get work as an actor if he does.

Whatever the base of this feeling, it is noteworthy that many good actors who have gone into business have dropped out of their places on the silent screen until they decided to be just actors again.

Harry Carey was proud proprietor of a large ranch, on which he had a restaurant, Indian shops, and rodeo for attractions. His film rôles became scarce.

Hallam Cooley, popular leading man, went into the real estate business, with large signs among the hills and dales of Hollywood. He is just beginning to get breaks again in films since he gave up the "sign on the dotted line" stuff.

Ruth Roland was another real estate apostate. Her plan to make a comeback last year, after the game of making $3,000,000 had palled, went flat. Now her name still shines on the illuminated real estate subdivision sign, but not on the theater illuminations.

Rolls and Rôles.

Richard Tucker was a charming host at his restaurant on Wilshire boulevard for some months, but his film audiences missed him for a while. He had rolls in the restaurant, but no screen rôles. Now he's out of the hash and back in the ham business.

Lew Cody capitalized his film charm and sophistication with a barber shop. His troubles were bubbles and helped blow him off the screen, according to the jinx doctors of Hollywood.

Kathleen Clifford went into the flower business a couple of years ago and her film career got balmy. Any one entering her place of business can see her film career all laid out, with plenty of floral decorations, dead as a post.

Gen. Theodore Lodijensky, who, with his troupe of Cossacks, was in great demand for films two years ago, went into the restaurant business. His Double Eagle café was destroyed by a mysterious explosion and he was nearly killed, but the general was indifferent to the jinx and is at it again with a new restaurant, though casting directors are ordering his food and not his face now.

Olga Baclanova, Russian film star, was part backer of the Russian clubhouse. She gave up the bortsch, balalaikas, and baloney a couple of weeks ago, just in time to escape the jinx, according to the witch doctors who sit over their coffee at Henry's, run by another actor gone wrong.

Back to Pioneer Days.

The inside of the Warner brothers' studio looks like the old Hollywood of eight or ten years ago at the height of the cowboy picture rage, when every other male on the street was wearing sombrero, spurs, red, green or blue flannel shirt, and chaps.

Warners are filming "Song of the West," a talkie constructed from the stage presentation "Rainbow," with all kinds of cow hands, dance hall girls, gamblers, Indians in regalia, scouts in buckskin, and outlaw types.

The production is the latest in talkies, with John Boles and Marie Wells breaking into song at occasional intervals.

Back to the Mauve Decade.

"My Girl Is a Bowery Girl," "Dinah, de Moon Am Shinin'," "Keep Away from Emmeline," and other such are all going into the talkies now. There will be the chorus girls with the buxom lines of Frankie Bailey and Bonnie McGinn, Lillian Russell in her prime, with the hats that whooshed way forward over the pompadours, the gorged skirts, the tailored shirtwaists, the popular Turkish cozy corner in the parlor, striped campaign canes and all the rest of it dragged out of the trunks of memory and dusted off for a film which R-K-O will make. The story will be written by James Ashmore Creelman and will be all talkie. Its main mission is to depict the liveliness of the gay nineties.

HE'S MAD, AND SHE'S SAD

AT LEAST, one receives that impression from this picture. A ring seems to be the disturbing influence. You know, of course, that Jack Holt is the man portrayed here and that Dorothy Revier is the woman registering mental discomfort. They are featured in "The Donovan Affair," at the State-Lake.

Welcome Hero of S-51 Rescue to Literary Ranks

By Fanny Butcher.

NEW YORK, May 4.—[Special.]—A birthday party was held here by Dodd, Mead & Co. for "On the Bottom," the most thrilling record ever made of life as she is lived a few miles under water, the story of the rescue of the S-51. Commander Edward Ellsberg's story was exciting enough as the press recorded his miraculous feats, but as told by himself it will, so all predictions have it, be the spring's sensation. The Literary Guild has chosen it as its May selection.

Commander Ellsberg is the stocky, stony sort that seamen ought to be, the type that men obey, not from fear, but from respect. The only subject upon which he was argumentative was the late war. It was the huge naval guns bombarding Metz that shook the Hindenberg line, he admitted.

* *

Who Won the War?

"I knew some one would prove that the navy won the war," offered a bystander.

It wasn't Francis Smith, however, who said it, though he was there. He was the diver who for hours was pinned under the wreckage and who climbed out hand over hand on an air hose.

To welcome the author into the writing business were William McFee, Burton Rascoe, Martha Ostenso, Mateel Howe Farnam, Faith Baldwin, Tom Masson, Isabel Paterson, Irita Van Doren, and an assortment of not so literary notables.

Another birthday party followed the Capt. Ellsberg affair; it was given by the Crime club for Rufus King and his latest mystery story, "Murder by Clock," which has the distinction of being chosen by both the Crime club and the Detective Story club and recommended by the Book of the Month club, a distinction never before enjoyed by any one book.

Finds a New Sinclair Lewis.

Luncheon with Sinclair Lewis showed a brand new, made over Hal Lewis, looking years younger than he did the last time we saw him and being enthusiastic about things; and a grand, friendly, real person in his wife, Dorothy Thompson, who, just by being the sort she is, explained the new person who wrote "Dodsworth." The author of that seasoned, genuinely kindly book is a different man, really, from the author of "Elmer Gantry." Vincent Sheehan, who has all sorts of friends in Chicago, among some eight or ten great cities of the world, stopped in for a moment.

And last night, quite by accident, I ran into John Drinkwater at a performance of his amusing play, "Bird in Hand," thus proving that authors do sometimes attend their plays.

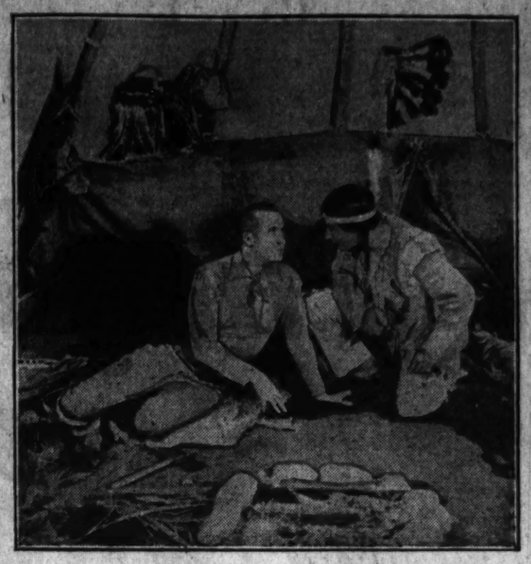
Stewart Likes Acting.

Yesterday Isabel Paterson and Ruth Raphael and Mary Humphreys, another literary editor from the west [from Detroit], and I had tea with Donald Ogden Stewart, whose "Father William" is just out. He is making such a hit as an actor in "Holiday" that he says he thinks he'll give up authing. He's really lots funnier than what he writes, and that, as you know, is a gift! We were very home-folksy—he used to live in Chicago, you know, when he was disguised with the world's largest pair of horn rimmed spectacles and a sailor collar and a gob's cap and was detailed to do a lot of dressy dancing with the feminine élite of Chicago.

After such a quiet two days in New York the literary editor is now dashing for what the travel folders call a restful week on the Atlantic. Au revoir.

HE'S NO INDIAN; BUT—



TIM McCOY can talk with any Indian living. This scene is from "Sioux Blood," which opens tomorrow at the Rialto theater. Col. McCoy, you know, thinks of leaving pictures and becoming governor of Wyoming.

Made Her Shiver.

I like the weird and unusual. Perhaps that is why I sat, spellbound, at the showing of "The Phantom of the Opera." Lon Chaney's ugliness as the Phantom, fairly fascinated me, and his underground palace appealed to my imagination.

The beauty of the settings furnished a contrasting background for the horror of the Phantom, which made his appearances more effective. I shall never forget the masque, in colors, with its brilliant costumes. The appearance of the Phantom in vivid red sent a thrill of dreadful expectancy through the audience. This picture made those who saw it feel the reactions they were expected to feel more completely than any other picture I have ever seen.

Lon Chaney's acting, of course, was what made the dread of the Phantom real. He is a true artist. He makes me hate him, and I love him for it.

"The Wedding March."

Throughout one long evening I sat entranced, feeling myself well repaid for having braved the worst snowstorm of the winter to bask in the sweet spring loveliness of one "apple-blossom time" in Austria. The splendid acting, the radiance of color flashing in the matchless Corpus Christi scene, the music of that great chorus of grand voices, make a truly wonderful picture.

The story, too real, perhaps, for fastidious eyes, ended miserably, with nobody happy; not the bride, certainly, stumbling in lameness down the church steps to the sublime strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, beside an unfeeling husband; not Prince Nicki, catching a glimpse of that girl's agonized face in the throng assembled there, nor, indeed, the persistent lover who won her through sheer brutality.

Despite of all this to depress and sadden, I greatly enjoyed "The Wedding March."

"Bridget, didn't I hear you quarreling with the milkman this morning?"

"Sure not! One of his girls is sick, an' I was inquiring afther her. But he's awfully impolite."

"How's that?"

"Says I, 'How's your milkmaid?' an' he looked that wild an' says, 'That's a thrade secret!'"

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Two Cantatas Take the Place of Opera at Metropolitan

By Joan King.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, May 4.—[Special.]—Notwithstanding the fact that Gotham has officially signed off for the musical season of 1928-'29, there are still many rhythmic doings hereabouts decidedly worthy of record. At the Metropolitan, several weeks ago abandoned by the lofty personages of opera, a "first performance" in New York and an American premiere were twin attractions on a recent program offered by the League of Composers.

The first mentioned work was the three century old opus of Claudio Monteverdi, "Il Combattimento di Tancredie Clorinda." As is well known, this piece is a setting of the dramatic episode from the twelfth canto of Tasso's "Jerusalem Delivered," dealing with the mortal combat between Tancred, the crusader, and the fair infidel, Clorinda, Tancred's inamorata. It is short, requiring but twenty minutes for performance, and perhaps has best been described as "a kind of drawing room opera or cantata in which pantomime is employed."

Prof. Josten Conducts.

At the Metropolitan Marie Milliette, the narrator, stood in a pulpitlike structure at the left of the stage. The battling crusader and his heathen beloved were voiceless, their phrases taken by vocalists at one side. The orchestra for the event was a chamber group selected from the Philharmonic-Symphony. Jeanne Palmer Soudelkin and Charles Kullman did the singing, Edith Burnett and Samuel Eliot Jr. were the mimes. Prof. Werner Josten of the Smith college department of music, who was responsible for the revival of the work last year at Northampton when he introduced it to America, conducted.

"Les Noces" by Stravinsky in its initial performance in this country in stage version was the second attraction of the evening. Nina Koshetz, soprano; Gabriel Leonoff, tenor; Sophie Braslau, contralto, and Moshe Rudinov, bartione, were the vocalists; Marc Blitzstein, Aaron Copland, Louis Gruenberg, and Frederick Jacobi, the pianists. There was a cast of ten dancers in addition.

Heard Under Stokowsky.

The music of "Les Noces" was not entirely unfamiliar to New York, as it was heard in concert version by the International Composers' guild under Leopold Stokowsky in 1926. First conceived in the same period as "Sacre du Printemps" [1912-13] and in 1917 radically changed, it received its initial performance in Paris in 1923 as a series of choreographic scenes with music. It is a cantata for chorus and four soloists accompanied by four pianos and a group of percussion players, something unique in musical art. In program notes upon the occasion Leopold Stokowski describes "Les Noces" as "an expression means of dancing, pantomime, singing and instrumental music of the primitive Russian peasant lore. Interwoven with the tissue of the music are threads of traditional folk songs. The rhythm is irregular, supple, asymmetric. The texture of the harmony is polyphonic. Rhythm is the foundation and inner life of the work, which is divided into rhythm for the eye and rhythm for the ear."

Stokowski, who had never before been present at a performance of opera in the Metropolitan, led.

Whether it was the presence of the redoubtable Philadelphia, the unusual program, or the fact that the end of musical events approaches, that provided the drawing card, the occasion was celebrated with a "full house" with seats at $10, and the presence of the town's elite. The occasion was that of benefit for the National Music league.

People's Chorus in Festival.

New York's unique "artistic and musical democracy," the People's chorus, celebrated its fourth spring festival Tuesday evening at Carnegie Hall. The event marked the thirteenth anniversary of this organization which has brought together into one great chorus, doctors, lawyers, bookkeepers, clerks, factory workers, and even the wives of millionaires, the only requirement, a desire to sing.

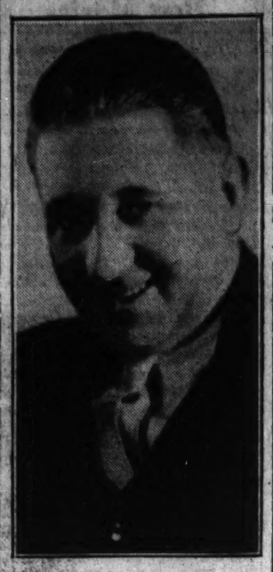
In 1914 Lorenzo Camalleri, conductor and founder, came to America with the intent of starting a chorus, in which anybody could sing, a non-commercial enterprise. He was offered the Y. W. C. A. auditorium for practice meetings and later the board of education granted the use of its High School of Commerce hall, where the rehearsals have since been held. After the war a number of patrons incorporated as a permanent organization and now the chorus has a budget plan and Camalleri receives a salary for his services.

SUCCESSOR

MISS MABEL HILL

She's in the ninth issue of George White's Scandals, current in the Grand Opera House; and her duties therein consist in doing such things as fell to the lot of Miss Ann Pennington when the show was in New York. It was Miss Hill's duty there to step forward late in the proceedings and imitate Miss Pennington.

TWO-A-DAY



WILL FYFFE

He's one of the new week's headliners in the Palace, where he has in other visits been of increasing popularity. The management insists, of course, on stating that Mr. Fyffe is "better than Harry Lauder," thereby giving something to the latter Scotsman, who doesn't need anything; whereas Mr. Fyffe is nothing like Mr. Lauder, who is, in turn, nothing like Mr. Fyffe.

Music Notes

The First National Choral club has recently been organized from employés of the First National bank and the First Trust and Savings bank. E V. Mann is the president and G. Franklin Richards, formerly organist and choirmaster of St. Simon's Episcopal church, the musical director.

Since its opening in March the Shawnee Country club of Wilmette has been giving a series of Sunday afternoon recitals. The program for today will be presented by André Skalski, pianist, assisted by Lillian Rehberg, cellist.

The Civic Music association of Chicago will give its annual festival in Orchestra hall this afternoon at 3:30. The children's chorus of 1,000 voices will sing two groups of folk songs, a group of songs by the Chicago composers, Helen Rend, Herbert Hyde, and William H. Rehm, and the cantata "Vogelweid the Minnesinger," under the direction of Felix Borowski. The Civic orchestra, conducted by Eric DeLamarter, will play the overture to "Mignon" by Thomas, Georg Schumann's "Dance of the Nymphs and Satyrs," and the waltz from "La Belle au Bois Dormant" by Tschaikowsky. The program also will include a demonstration of community singing under the direction of Frederick W. Carberry.

Herbert M. Johnson, manager of the Chicago Civic Opera company, left Chicago Thursday evening for New York to take ship for London. One of the most important of Mr. Johnson's missions this summer is to arrange the details of the musical education, housing, etc., of successful candidates for the Chicago Civic Opera European scholarships. Just before he left it was announced that twenty-five entries for the contest already had been received.

"This response of young artists who feel themselves qualified for operatic work has been particularly gratifying to the Civic Opera company in view of the severe restrictions drawn up by the committee in charge in order to limit the work only to artists who might have some chance of success in grand opera," said Mr. Johnson.

"One of the requirements was that the contestant be prepared with three complete operatic rôles. This is a task for which only a singer who has completed the fundamentals of musical education is equipped and the fact that twenty-five such students have been found would seem to indicate a more than ordinary interest in the contest."

Next Saturday evening at 8 o'clock the Chicago Musical college announces its annual competition at Orchestra hall for an orchestral appearance and prizes will be held. The judges of the evening will be Ernest Hutcheson, Pierre V. R. Key, Henri Verbrugghen, and Harold Butler. The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra will furnish the accompaniments of the evening. The following students are participating:

Steinway piano contest—Willie Goldsmith, Marie Kessler, and Sam Raphling.

Lyon & Healy piano contest—Marjorie Peters, Ruth Dresser, and Leonard Gay.

Violin prize contest—Max Cahn, Alex Pevaner, and Bennie Rotstain.

Vocal prize contest—Lorena Anderson, Nancy Berg, and William Pfeiffer.

The People's Symphony orchestra will conclude its series of fifteen concerts this afternoon at the Eighth Street theater with a program of compositions by its conductor, P. Marinus Paulsen. The numbers will include the overture "Cimbria," three songs for tenor and orchestra, sung by Elbert B. Wheeler, "Four Oriental Sketches," the symphonic poem, "Savonarola," and the cantata, "Love Triumphant." In the last named the soloists will be Elbert B. Wheeler, Martin Heyde, Misha Kushelevsky, Carlile Tucker, R. G. Brusch, Hazel Millott, and Ethel Reid, and there will be assistance by the People's Choral society.

Other music of this afternoon will be a recital by Esther Cadkin, soprano, at the Playhouse, another by Giulio Di Capua, tenor, assisted by Pauline Morgan, pianist, at the Studebaker, and a third by Marcus D'Albert, Negro pianist, assisted by William Henry Smith, pianist, at Kimball hall. On Thursday evening Rhea Bollman Quail, soprano, and Ruther Palmer Singletary, pianist, will appear in joint recital in the Young American Artists series at Curtiss hall.

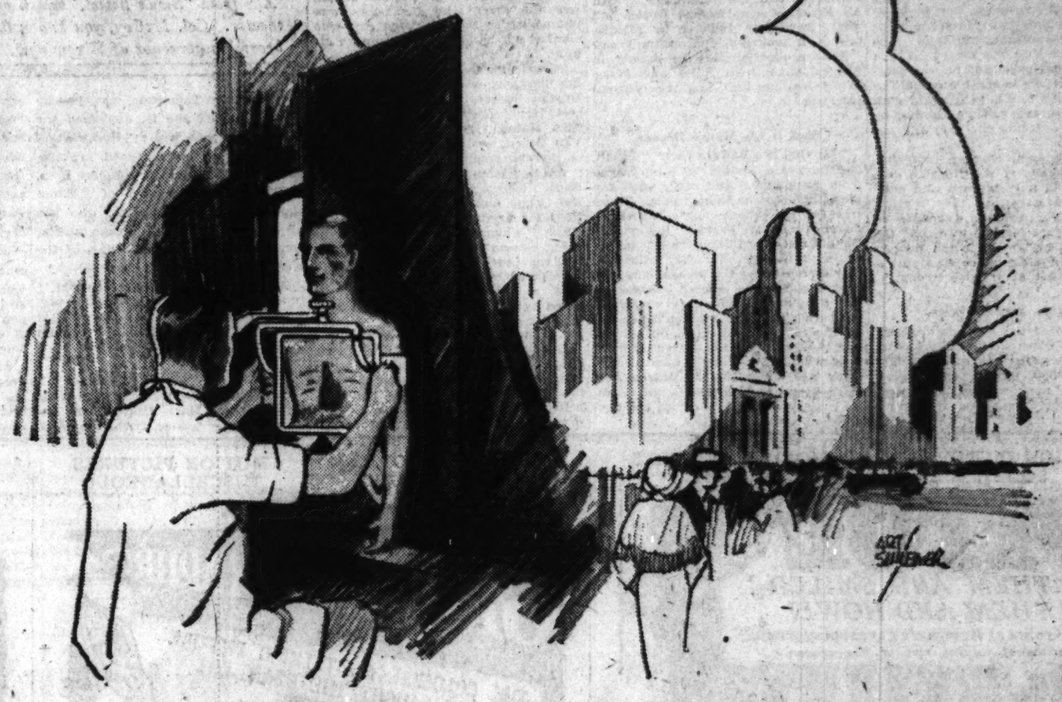
Put your health on a business basis



TAKING stock of one's physical condition at regular intervals is as important from a health standpoint as an inventory of merchandise is from a business standpoint. This applies to men and women in every walk of life and especially to those whose earning power is directly affected by ill health. Millions of dollars annually are lost to the salary and wage earners of this country through reduced efficiency and actual time off on account of ill health. This enormous loss represents an economic waste that must be met by every individual. . . . Putting one's physical welfare on a business-like basis is the solution to the problem. Medical examinations at regular intervals will give you a constant check on your physical condition.

Complete and fully protective examinations must include blood and other laboratory tests in order to disclose not only functional disorders but any evidence of a serious disease like cancer, tuberculosis, kidney and heart trouble or a social disease. . . . Authorities state that 300,000 lives are sacrificed every year and additional thousands of men, women and children condemned to hospitals and asylums because of social diseases. . . . This alarming situation could be relieved if regular examinations with laboratory tests were the rule. For a social disease can and often does exist without the knowledge of the individual. The earlier a social disease is diagnosed and treatments started, the more readily it can be cured. Puzzling ailments should be diagnosed as promptly as possible—especially if there is reason to suspect that they may be caused by a social disease—no matter of how long standing.

Heart Disease Increases

According to figures recently published by the Health Department, heart disease is causing more deaths now than any other disease . . . As a social disease is the second greatest cause of heart trouble the Institute has developed a special heart examination. The examining doctor is assisted by fluoroscopic (x-ray) views of the heart in action. In addition a 14x17 inch x-ray picture is taken as a permanent record of its size, and an Electrocardiograph print of the heart's action . . . An earlier diagnosis of beginning heart trouble is thus possible. The charge is small for this service. Over 11,000 people received this protection the past year.

Good health is the dominating factor in your earning power and success. Have your doctor take stock of your physical condition—NOW. The Public Health Institute offers an unusual medical service for the diagnosis and treatment of social diseases. . . . Organized by public spirited men not for profit the fees are within the reach of all. Treatments are available even to those without immediate funds.

The Public Health Institute has three separate clinics in Chicago. The Departments for Men are located at 159 North Dearborn Street—just North of Randolph and 129 East Thirty-first Street—Corner of Indiana Avenue.

The Department for Women and Children is located at 72 East Randolph Street (2nd floor) between Wabash and Michigan Avenues—All Clinic Hours, 10 A. M. to 8 P. M. Daily Except Sunday. Phone Central 9383.

Passavant Hospital Is an Attractive Haven

MRS. PRESS HODGKINS.

[Reproductions of portraits by Frank O. Salisbury through courtesy of Anderson Galleries.]

Mrs. Richard Hill Fleming is the former Betty Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall, in whose apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive hangs this new portrait. Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum was hostess to the weekly luncheon meeting of the opera box committee at her residence at 1508 State Parkway last week. Mrs. Leslie S. Gordon is one of the prominent young matrons of Winnetka. Mrs. Press Hodgkins, the former Louise Carr, has recently returned from her wedding trip and she and Mr. Hodgkins are domiciled at 1440 Lake Shore drive.

Summer Nears; Society Groups Round Out Year

Elect Officers and Plan Work for Fall.

By Mildred Jaklon.

DURING this first part of the merry month of May the various groups into which society has organized itself for charitable, cultural and civic activity are closing up their affairs like the businesslike bodies they are before their temporary dissolution for the summer. Annual meetings, drives for funds, elections of officers, and plans for the next season's operations are all accomplished by June 1, when quorums and committees are no longer available because of the depletion in membership caused by departures for summer holidays.

The Friends of Opera are to have their annual spring meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Casino, where there will be a musical program by Fanny Cole Sample and John Dwight Sample.

The spring affair of the "Friends" is always unusually festive. It offers, as it were, to the hard working ladies who sell opera subscriptions, encouragement for their past and prospective labors. The organization has more than usual cause for self-congratulation this year, it seems, for the rate at which boxes and seats in the new opera house have been disposed of has been astounding. The prospect of a complete sellout is considered imminent, I hear.

Arts Club Exhibits Rugs.

The Arts club, which, of course, doesn't cease its activities until some time in June or July, is having another "afternoon" tomorrow from 4 to 6 o'clock, when an exhibition of sixteenth century rugs, rare velvets, tapestries, Egyptian, Khmer, and gothic sculptures, Persian potteries and miniatures is to be opened. These are all loaned by Dikran G. Kelekian of Paris, Cairo, and New York City. The Arts club's annual meeting is to be on May 16. It is considered slightly stupid by the bulk of the membership, however, to attend the meeting. One signs a voting proxy and dispatches it and worries not that the affairs of the club will be intrusted to incapable hands because of his absence, for such, of course, never happens.

The Drama league's interesting play tournament at the Goodman theater is to be on this week, with matinees on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. Four one act plays are "tried out" each afternoon, and the four winners perform again for a final contest next Sunday evening. The Town and Gown Players of the Northwestern university, who won the Edith Rockefeller McCormick cup last year with "Undercurrent," written by a Chicagoan, Fay Ehlert, are to present "Nocturne" this year. The Playwrights' theater group will give "The High Heart," under the direction of Mrs. H. V. Burrows, and other amateur theatrical clubs (it's amazing how many of them there are) to enter are the Uptown Players, the Carjon Players, the Academy Players, the "Amathayers," the Student Strollers, the Rogers Park Players, and the Hamilton Park Players.

An Apology.

The writer apologizes for having erroneously stated in this column last Sunday that Freeman Hinckley of Boston, to whom Mrs. Ogden T. McClurg has announced her engagement, had been divorced. That was untrue and the statement is greatly regretted. The late Mrs. Hinckley, the former Margaret Pope, daughter of Col. A. A. Pope, died a year ago last November after a lengthy illness. Mr. Hinckley has a daughter, Miss Peggy Pope Hinckley, a graduate of Smith, and a son, Albert H. Hinckley, who is married to the former Miss Katherine Steedman of St. Louis. Mr. Hinckley Sr. is head of Wrenn Bros. of Boston.

Mrs. James W. Morrisson asks us to mention the memorial service to be held for Flora Sylvester Cheney in the new chapel of the University of Chicago tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

The Ravinia Opera club, which, unlike the organizations referred to earlier in this article, is existent in summer, rather than winter, holds its annual meeting on Wednesday.

The second of the two lectures being given by the Bryn Mawr College club for its scholarship fund is "The Story of Architecture in Chicago," to be given by Thomas E. Tallmadge at the residence of Harold F. McCormick on Wednesday also.

Society Women Put Color Into New Building

Mmes. Coleman, Johnson Deserve Much Praise.

By Mme. X.

IF ILLNESS could ever be made attractive, desirable and a haven from the too-muchness of this exceedingly active world it would be by those two remarkable, delightful and able women, Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman and Mrs. Francis J. Johnson. They have created a setting for suffering at the new Passavant hospital which robs bodily maladies of half their terrors.

If there is anything more forbidding and depressing than the customary sickroom at the customary hospital, I know it not. Those harsh, hard hygienic floors, the stark windows, the sanitary curves of the room corners, the bleak iron beds, the deadly sameness of the neutral colors, all unite to remind the patient that he or she is in the realms of germs, of ailing bodies and sick minds. And now come the Mesdames Coleman and Johnson to give quite a new hue to disease and disablement, to make at least one hospital—the Passavant—seem like a cheerful haven, a most desirable refuge, wherein a sojourn will be almost, if not quite, a pleasure.

Those charming, sunny rooms with their lovely coloring, their gay chintzes, their pretty and chic furnishings, will do much to mitigate gloom and dispel despair. The patients will want to wear their prettiest lingerie, to have their hair becomingly coiffed, their nails manicured and their faces massaged in order to keep up with the standard set by their lovely surroundings. The work accomplished there by Mrs. Johnson and her attractive young friend, Miss Elizabeth Hollin, is psychic. It might be termed a part of the science of psychiatry which emphasizes the idea of the influence of surroundings on mind and body.

French Provincial.

There are 213 beds in the hospital. Each floor has its special color. The walls throughout are washable. The materials are sunfast and tubfast. Paint in several shades of color is used everywhere, indicating the modernistic trend in decoration. Mrs. Johnson describes the furnishing of the bedrooms as being "in the French provincial style." If the French provinces have anything half so attractive prevailing in their domestic interiors, I don't wonder that their owners and occupants fought to the death fifteen years ago to protect and preserve them.

The operating rooms on the hospital's top floor are as dainty and attractive as if they were designed for exquisite pleasure instead of for exquisite pain. The walls and cases are tinted a delicate, but definite, pale green, the green of young tulip fronds now sprouting in the nearby countryside. Great glass screens lean over from above, protecting the patients from all but the scrutiny of the medical students whose benches near the lofty ceilings surround the hall on two sides. A fine north light and the most powerful electric lamps give the surgeons all the help that a shadowless illumination can.

I wish I could dwell on the handsome decorations of the receiving room, the offices for doctors and trustees, the delightful dining rooms for nurses and others connected with the institution (the nurses' quarters are in one end of the building, while the student medicos are in the other end in an equally admirable and perfect setting), but space is lacking. Suffice it to say that nothing has been overlooked that could in any way contribute to the welfare and good looks of the hospital. The same vigor, self-respect and efficiency that being well dressed imparts to the average mortal will infuse the Passavant hospital. If one is not only well dressed, but becoming! so, the result is even greater, and the hospital certainly is an ornamental, as well as a valuable institution.

Makes Illness Alluring.

I warn you that if many members of our "pretty world" become disabled, ill, and out of the running within the next few years it will be largely due to the allurements of the Passavant. I myself am wondering what disease, one that will be neither contagious, disfiguring, nor permanent, I can develop which will make me eligible for a sojourn in that attractive refuge for suffering humanity. To wake up in one of those enchanting rooms, to have a pretty white capped nurse come in and brush one's teeth, and bring in a dainty breakfast tray, to be followed by a call from a rosy cheeked white jacketed young interne who will talk only about oneself and one's ailments—well, doesn't all that rob illness of a lot of its disadvantages and make it quite attractive? It may be that Mesdames Coleman and Johnson are all unwittingly working for the undermining of the health of their fellow citizens. At any rate, the community owes them much for their work in this great new hospital, which is housed in one of the finest of the structures surrounding McKinlock campus, which will, in time, make the Chicago section of the Northwestern university one of the chief beauty spots of the near north side. We are really growing up to be a good looking city. Let us hope that that psychology of outward appearance of which I spoke and its influence on the inner man will become effective in this our great and remarkable city, and that our good looks may promote a spiritual decency not so very observable nowadays.

Among the well known Chicagoans whose generous donations have contributed to make the Passavant hospital possible are John F. Jelke, John F. Jelke Jr., the Isham, Farwell, and Porter families, William T. Murphy,

A City of Clubs.

If the dweller in that far reaching residence district which lies north and east of the river up and out along the lake, to and alongside Lincoln park, doesn't have plenty of opportunities for social intercourse with his or her kind it won't be for lack of handsome clubs. Just look at the list of them and of the really splendid new homes they have built for themselves in the last few years. I can't begin to give a complete account or roster of them, but here are a few names. The Racquet club on Dearborn avenue and Schiller street is one of the best looking, best equipped of its kind in the country. The Lake Shore Athletic club, whose fine home overlooks the lake at the outer drive and Delaware place is another. I've not seen it but hear that it is complete and good looking.

The Casino's chic new home has often been described in this pillar of polite piffle. The Fortnightly, newly decorated and embellished, has also often been the subject of panegyrics in this col. On the same street, aristocratic Bellevue place, the Romany club, cherished by a large body of artists, literati and musicians, is established for the time being in a sturdy looking old house. Its members are planning for it a more expressive and permanent home of its own. A little further south is the Illinois Women's Athletic club's stunning and beautiful building on the corner of Tower place and Pearson street, soaring above that precious bit of Chicago's illustrous past, the water works tower.

Down near the river, in the North Wrigley building, the Arts club has charming quarters that have frequently been the theme of your scribe. The latest north side club to join this impressive list is the Woman's Athletic club which recently opened its beautiful new home on North Michigan avenue and Ontario street to the great enjoyment of its members. The building is one of the handsomest on that highway dedicated to fine architecture. Its style is just the right combination of the new and the classic which our good designers are today evolving; what John Carpenter so wittily defines as the "jazz classic," or is it "classic jazz"?

Elegance and Good Taste.

From the sidewalk on Ontario street one enters a most attractive hall, one that makes that important first impression a most favorable one. Every detail is, to use old fashioned adjectives, one of elegance and good taste. In the basement is the vast swimming tank, one of the prime features of the club. It is most luxuriously set. On the eight floors above are offices, dining rooms [private and public], card rooms, assembly halls, fully equipped and luxurious beauty parlors, a spacious ballroom and a delightful solarium. There are also exquisite smaller rooms which members may take for the day, for resting and dressing, if they come to town for noonday and evening engagements. There are not sleeping apartments.

All of the various departments are decorated and furnished in the very best "art moderne" style, in which the classic so far predominates that even the most conservative and captious can find pleasure and satisfaction.

Altogether, it is safe to say that nothing more complete or more beautiful than this club's new home can be found anywhere in these luxurious United States today, which is the same as saying that nowhere else in the world is there anything more perfect.

American women are arranging a background for their life so attractive, so sumptuous, so completely up to date and efficient that one asks why in heaven's name do they want to gad about the rest of the world so much? In no other land will they find such a complete equipment for the material side of life as here. Are they, perhaps, seeking the immaterial, the spiritual? Then it is up to this, our western, civilization to supply it for them. Unfortunately this usually comes only through hardships and suffering. We have yet to meet the kind of experiences which are adapted to develop the soul.

Races in the Movies.

A sizable throng of its members gathered last Monday afternoon at the Casino to see an interesting showing of moving pictures depicting English race course events lent to the club by Francis J. Johnson, who recently returned to Chicago after a winter's absence. Great Britain is the home of sport, and horse racing is the king of them all, or, perhaps I should put it, "the sport of kings." There may be some people there who do not care for racing, but, if so, they're in the conspicuous minority. From the king down to the veriest street mick, race horses and race meets are an absorbing preoccupation.

Even in cinema presentations the onlooker thrills at the various spectacles presented of fields of sixty and more riders tearing down a track helter skelter, taking huge jumps, many of them whirling off their mounts, or tumbling in perilous fashion under their careening steeds. One of the chief drawbacks to movies of these events is that they invariably stop or change just at the moment that the onlooker is looking for either the recovery of the fallen horseman or to see him carried off the field on a litter.

An interesting couple there were Mrs. Ogden McClurg and her fiancé, Freeman Hinckley. The latter, a handsome, well set up man of middle age, with a close cut crop of thick gray hair, was the object of many a glance. He is a widower, his wife having died about two years ago, leaving him with two children. He is in active business in Boston, so Mrs. McClurg will take her two children there after her marriage, which will be some time before midsummer. She is leasing her handsome apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive for a term of years.

MISS ESTHER MAY JEWEL.

Mrs. Jed Lake Jewel of Pasadena, Cal., announces the engagement of her daughter, Esther May, to William Thatcher Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Elliott of Evanston. Miss Jewel is a senior at Northwestern university and a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. Mr. Elliott was graduated from Northwestern. The wedding will take place in

MISS OUIDA JACOBSEN.

[Drake Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Jacobsen of Oak Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Ouida, to Lyle M. Foster, son of J. A. Foster of Oak Park. The wedding will take place in June.

MRS. RICHARD ARTHUR MUELLER.

[Du Bois Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Athur Yost of 738 West 61st place announce the marriage of their daughter, Viola Gertrude, to Richard Arthur Mueller of 6134 North Parkside avenue.

Home Show Interests.

The X. family being for the nonce roosting in a hostelry near the north side water works, strolled into the very attractive "Own Your Home Show" which is installed on the tract of land lying east of this ancient "pump." How well they do this sort of thing, nowadays! The place is well worth a visit, just to show what garden design and little-home architecture can do nowadays. A pretty village square, that might well be a model for any country community, is surrounded on four sides with really charming examples of different styles of rustic architecture.

Inside are exhibits of various things used in modern building and housework. The place is a permanent affair and will be used after this for other exhibits of public interest, educational, sanitary, artistic. These home shows have hitherto been housed in the Coliseum. This is the twelfth annual event of this kind. The ground belongs to the people of the city and can therefore only be used for enterprises of value to them. This has been the aim of those getting up the present show.

Different days have been allotted to matters of moment to home owners. Today is "Religion in the Home" day; tomorrow is "Housework" day; Tuesday is "Repair" day; and so on.

A contest was held early in its present undertaking in which a prize was offered for the best paper by a man on what constituted the most desirable quality in a wife, and by a woman on the same subject in regard to a husband. Mrs. Jacob Baur shared the responsibilities of judging the winner with a doctor, a publisher and a newspaper woman. A thousand letters were received. The majority of the men declared for cheerfulness as a wife's best virtue, while the women asked for understanding in a husband. The winning woman had been married forty years, the man two. Make your own conclusions as to their reasons for demanding these especial qualities. Perhaps they had met these virtues in their experiences, and then again, perhaps, they had not.

Opera Box Holders.

I was interested in scanning the list of opera box holders published last Monday. Such a list in a metropolitan community can safely be taken to include all of its principal citizens. If this be so, then there are certain Chicago families who are not so prominent as they have been thought to be.

There are eleven separate members of the Chicago Medicis, the great clan McCormick, each of whom has a box. There are four Swifts and three Ryersons who are box owners. There are, however, several conspicuous local dynasties quite absent from the roster. It is evident that the old order changes and the destinies of our splendid Chicago Civic Opera company will evidently rest in the hands of a public minded group, many of whom may be classed as newcomers, though there is a sufficient element of old and foremost citizens to maintain a continuity of ideal and tradition and insure the opera's existence.

But I do admire the way the clan McCormick can always be counted on to be in the forefront of whatever makes for civic distinction and renown. Chicago needs all she can get in the line of esthetic support and recognition. Her two great universities, art gallery, museum, symphony orchestra, and other civic institutions are not complete without a firmly established grand opera. Those whose names are written on its list of active supporters will go down in history as loyal citizens and as builders of that greater Chicago whose vision is ever before those of us who love her.

An Important Meeting.

It is more and more becoming the custom to discuss matters of importance around a luncheon or dinner table. It is an interval of relaxation, such as comes in today's strenuous program only at such times when the body demands refreshment. The practical see even in these three unavoidable delays opportunities for carrying on propaganda and planting ideas.

Next Thursday one of these feasts of both bodily and mental nourishment will take place in the red lacquer room of the Palmer house, when the Central Council for Nursing Education will set forth its aims and needs to friends and supporters. Mrs. Pettit Watson is organizing this meeting at which Dr. Michael M. Davis, director of the Julius Rosenwald Medical service, will be the principal speaker. His subject will be "Public Responsibility in Nursing."

This council, a much needed enterprise, was founded by one of our most illustrious welfare workers, the late Miss Martha Wilson. She was especially active as president of the woman's board of the Children's Memorial hospital. Associated with her in organizing this nursing board were the late Mrs. Ira Couch Wood, the late Mrs. George W. Dixon, Mrs. Perkins B. Bass, Chauncey Blair Borland, Judge Henry Horner, and William D. Allen.

Assisting Mrs. Watson in getting up the luncheon are the Mesdames D. Mark Cummings, John W. Gary, James A. Patten, Ernest E. Irons, Frank S. Porter, Arthur H. Spiegel, Theodore Tieken and Harry F. Williams. Dr. Davis is a national authority on hospital and health centers.

An interesting visitor, Mrs. Rhodes Baker of Dallas, Tex., arrived in Chicago yesterday to be the guest of Mrs. Arthur Small. She is by birth a Kentuckian, having been a Miss Rembert of Louisville and a granddaughter of the famous Gov. Adair of that state. Her husband is one of the prominent lawyers of Texas, and is also a patron of the arts. One of his special interests there is one of the Little theaters which are doing such really excellent work in elevating the popular taste in dramatics.

Richard Miller, a painter of much renown in the east, where he makes Provincetown his summer headquarters, painted a charming picture of Mrs. Baker last year, standing in a flower garden. She is part of the garden and the garden is a part of her portrait. It is said to be a delightfully successful combination. She will be Mrs. Small's guest the rest of the week.

WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS

Hoovers Turn White House Into a Home

Entertain Their Friends Informally.

By Maxine Davis.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—With the spring society's fancy turns to light, informal fun. In Washington the ponderous formal function is laid away unmourned and official society turns attention out of doors. Garden parties, hunts, horse shows, the races, tennis parties are the methods of diversion used by all ages and groups in the capital.

The President and Mrs. Hoover have set an example in informal entertaining at their own functions. Small dinners for friends, little luncheons for casual visitors, are the characteristics of the White House régime.

White House Becomes a Home.

The Hoovers have turned the White House into a home, where their friends come and go as easily as ever they did in their S street home. Wednesday night, for instance, their old friends, the Vernon Kelloggs, Dr. and Mrs. James Rowland Angell of Yale university, and Mrs. Theodore Hoover were dinner guests, and the Angells remained overnight.

Guests at the executive mansion have been enchanted with the warmth that pervades it. They gather in the Red room and proceed to dinner, where they are served by just the number of servants necessary for convenience. Nowhere are elaborately uniformed aids or lackeys lending pomp to the occasion.

After dinner the gentlemen adjourn to Mr. Hoover's library for cigars and talk. The women go to the little rose sitting room on the second floor, a private apartment characterized by the Hoovers' own objects of art. The room is dominated by a handsome painting by Watts, by books, and the little things which color a home.

Informal Atmosphere.

Cigarets are passed to the women. They do not, however, usually accept them, inasmuch as Mrs. Hoover herself does not smoke.

On cool evenings she lights the fire herself, adjust the chairs for friendly chatter and attends to the windows without calling a footman. She often sits with her foot curled around her chair, so interested is she in the talk.

Table decorations at the White House are like the ones for which Mrs. Hoover was famous on S street. They are often of fruit, which she usually arranges herself. When dinner is over visitors are sometimes urged, in true California style, to "eat the decorations." Only by the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Hoover join their friends after they are assembled and leave first do they know they are not at a private home.

A Brilliant Function.

The one big function of last week was a brilliant reception given by the Japanese ambassador and Mme. Debuchi in celebration of the birthday of his majesty the emperor of Japan. Held in the Chinese room of the Mayflower hotel, nearly 1,000 guests appeared in the course of the afternoon. The diplomatic corps called in full force, and official and resident groups were present in proportionate numbers.

On the tea table were a Japanese flag, quaint fans and other typical decorative details, all executed in spun sugar.

Green flood lights played over the ever shifting groups of guests, playing strange tricks with gay spring frocks and women's complexions, but made the setting, with its lavish display of fruit blossoms and spring flowers and tall graceful vases of red roses and bridal wreath, rarely lovely, wholly enchanting.

In Western Dress.

Mme. Debuchi, an exquisite and dainty woman who sometimes wears the picturesque kimono of Japan in her own home at her less extensive parties, wore western dress here. Her frock was of dull yellow and green flowered chiffon, with a caped drapery caught on one shoulder by a cluster of gardenias. Although her hat was a cloche of brown horse hair and her slippers of brown suede, she somehow presented a picture redolent of cherry blossoms and old Japan.

Mrs. Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, came early and stayed late, encountering the Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft just as she was leaving. Most of the military and naval attachés were present, as were a goodly number of our own army and navy in full regalia.

It was one of the most colorful events of the spring.

Ladies Bury Hatchet.

The now historic Senate Ladies' Luncheon club met Tuesday, and tacitly buried a hatchet which last year tended to become dangerous. This was the controversial subject of whether members of the club should be allowed to entertain the entire organization on its sacrosanct Tuesdays.

Last year, after a succession of elaborate luncheons given by such hostesses as Mrs. Walter E. Edge of New Jersey and Mrs. Charles S. Deneen of Illinois, some of the less opulent members rebelled. The club was a democratic institution, they maintained. As an indication, the ladies of the senate picnic on cold lunches provided by appointed members every Tuesday in the senate office building. To have the wealthy ones give elaborate entertainments was embarrassing to those less able to return the courtesy.

Buried the Hatchet.

The issue threatened to become a major one. The club was split wide apart and excitement was rife. However some tactful souls succeeded in having the issue laid aside until this year. That it was decided to forget it is evidenced by the fact that last Tuesday one and all accepted the invitation extended by Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps, wife of the senator from Colorado. Their next meeting, therefore, will be at an al fresco luncheon at Single Oak, her beautiful Cathedral avenue estate.

It is possible that Mrs. Hoover may be present. She attended the first meeting of the Ladies of the Senate, though not the second.

Whether Mrs. Gann will attend, out of courtesy to Mrs. Phipps, is being discussed. Mrs. Gann has not been present at either of the meetings of the club since it elected Mrs. George Moses as its president instead of herself.

A Juvenile Horse Show.

Riding is the most popular sport in Washington. This city, with its hundred miles of bridle path, its easily accessible country, is ideal for this sport, and the spring brings on annual meetings of tremendous popularity.

A unique event will take place next Saturday, however, when juvenile equestriennes of the capital will have their own horse show. A riding school is sponsoring it and is aided by a committee of prominent men and women interested in the development of young riders.

Mrs. "Jimmy" Curtis, whose four children are expert riders, is chairman of the committee. Others assisting her are Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, Representative and Mrs. Robert L. Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Davis, Representative and Mrs. Richard Aldrich, and others of social and official importance.

Mrs. Curtis has arranged a buffet luncheon for the children, served on a special marquee set outside the ring.

The feature of the afternoon show will be a "family class," in which parents and children will ride together. Mrs. McCormick will ride with her children, as will the dashing Mrs. Curtis. In the morning spectators will be delighted by "a hunt class." The small entrants will wear pink hunting coats and velvet hats.

STRIKING AN INFORMAL NOTE FOR WASHINGTON

IN HARMONY with the unpretentiousness which the presidential family has introduced into Washington social affairs, this White House tea garden will play a part in capital entertainments during the approaching summer. Here Mrs. Hoover, when in the city, will preside as hostess over al fresco parties.

In the Feminine Realm

The Corean mother who is desirous of seeing her daughter happily married makes certain that the young woman is a good laundress.

It is proposed to require all women of Jugo-Slavia between the ages of 18 and 50 to render army service as clerks, chauffeurs, and mesesngers.

WEDDED

MRS. WILLIAM MEADE DAVIS.
[Bloom Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Ruby Pearson, daughter of Mrs. Helen Pearson of 6827 South Union avenue, to William Meade Davis took place on April 27 at the Normal Methodist Episcopal church and was followed by a reception at the residence of the bride's mother.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgrow" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, any one can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgrow" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail that it cannot penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.

Famous Gotham Hotel Remodels Its Ballroom

Plaza's Old Dance Floor Is Thing of the Past.

By Nancy Randolph.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, May 4.—[Special.]—About the only bit of news that can truly be called startling in town is that the Plaza is to do away with the old ballroom—or rather, to do it all over again, with additions, embellishments and such. It is, we vow, almost as important an event as the passing of the Waldorf, in mourning for which all New York is decidedly saddened this week.

It is somewhat amusing to note how all us New Yorkers fall into a mood. Lots of other famous hostelries pass and are passing without any to-do at all. Delmonico's went the way of all plaster and stone without a whisper of ceremony—and a new hotel bearing the name, on Park avenue this time, opens for inspection this week. But just as soon as it was announced that the Waldorf would close definitely this week the wailing and weeping began.

Notables who haven't been inside the Waldorf, save possibly on the occasion of a presidential dinner, or the charity ball, have been dashing down to the old hotel to see Oscar and moon through the dismal chain of ballrooms. All week there have been farewell parties. In fact, it has been quite the thing to take a suite at the Waldorf and in the high ceilinged, spacious rooms, to give a last party. And some of the parties have been jolly—and how!

Good News for the Young.

At any rate, the Waldorf closed on Wednesday for good, and is now being busily demolished. Therefore, the announcement that the Plaza is to have a new ballroom came as a bit of an anticlimax. All the younger girls are sighing happily, for the ballroom, with its balcony and boxes, was—and still is—just a trifle reminiscent of the gay days of the early century.

No less than half a million dollars will be spent on the new ballroom starting May 25, with the Spence school commencement ceremonies the last event to be held in the present one. The huge stage is to be abolished and only a platform, reached by three steps, will be set aside for concerts or small orchestras. In place of the balcony there will be boxes on the north and east, but only some four feet from the floor. The foyer is to be made larger and will be used as a supper room for smaller dances. The big dances will use the terraced restaurant for supper, since there will be a staircase leading from the ballroom.

It is, as a matter of fact, a good idea. All the big debutante affairs have found themselves cramped for room. The Ritz has offered most space, but many notables are frightfully fond of the Plaza, which, after all, is the very last of the old places to keep its air and dignity.

There's a Run on Reno.

People are beginning to dash to Reno again. Spring possibly may be responsible, but I should say it is the French authorities. Once upon a time a lady could leap to Paris and get her divorce in the midst of her friends and at the height of the season. Now it simply can't be done. As a result a Reno divorce is got in a hurry so that one can get back to town in time to sail for the continent.

Mrs. George T. Brokaw is still in Reno awaiting the final granting of her freedom. Claire and George are quite the best of friends, having decided, gloomily but quietly, that it was a case of "no go." When Claire receives the right to style herself Mrs. Booth Brokaw she will come back to town, and the knowing ones insist that she will be immediately importuned to change her name again by a handsome Britisher who has been amazingly attentive. However, Claire is likely to stop to consider. At any rate, she will certainly draw several breaths of freedom before trying the marital yoke again.

One does hear that George Brokaw has his eye on a possible successor to Claire. In this case it's a lady of much verve, who is also being importuned by other swains, and is most harassed over which party to bestow her hand upon.

Important Engagement.

Quite the most important engagement of the week was that of Alexandra Dalziel, daughter of Frederick Y. Dalziel, to Alexander Davenport Kinloch, only son of Brig. Gen. Sir David Kinloch, Bart., C. B., M. V., and Lady Kinloch of Gilmerton, Haddingtonshire, Scotland.

The news came from London, where the engagement was made known, and the wedding is to take place in September. Alex Dalziel, who went to Brearly school and is now cramming at Barnard, made her debut several seasons ago, but never took a great part in the social activities of town. Her mother, Emily Key Dalziel, left her fortune to Alex and her father. Mrs. Dalziel was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Hoffman, who once owned much of the land around what is now Chelsea square.

Young Kinloch, heir to the baronetcy, is 26, an old Etonian and a former member of the Grenadier guard. He is a member of the Turf club in London and the New club in Edinburgh.

Belmont Opens Soon.

Belmont opens on the 17th, and until then society will be forced to mark time. Perhaps it is just as well that the racing season started at Jamaica instead of Belmont, for the weather has been too ungodly for words. One simply could not view horses in such weather. They would be hidden from view most of the time in blinding rain and mist.

Jamaica, of course, is simply nonexistent, socially. The present meet is running its course unattended by the notables, who are waiting for opening day at Belmont to come out in all the glory of full toilettes or ruddy sports things, depending on the temperature.

Carnival Is Gay Affair.

Thursday night, of course, saw the Charity carnival at the Garden in all its glory. Like all such affairs, it started late and lingered later, but the Aztec gold pageant was quite worth waiting for. Every color of the rainbow was found in the costumes of the actors. Feathers of all hues were everywhere. Indian costumes of red and green and scarlet and even—perish the thought—a shade or two of pink.

Every one was there, from our inimitable mayor, Mr. Walker, who gave an address to open the carnival, accompanied by his fidus Achates, our worthy police commissioner, Grover Whalen, in full kit, to the honorary patrons of the carnival, the ambassadors from Mexico and Italy, Don Manuel C. Tellez and Senator Giacomo Di Martino.

Mr. Ziegfeld and his glorified ones entertained, as did the models from the noted dress shops and all the debutantes, past, present, and some girls who were frankly far from the ranks of society. But, then, the affair took in so many actors that society itself could not supply the demand. Among the notables present were Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Hutton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. F. McCann, Mr. and Mrs. Esmond O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. A. Coster Schermerhorn, Mrs. Archibald G. McIlwaine, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Aymar Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Copley Thaw, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O'Brien, Adrian Iselin III., Mrs Tiffany Saportas, and Mr. and Mrs. James Russell Lowell Jr.

ENGAGED

MISS THELMA JEAN COHEN.
[Bloom Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Cohen of 742 Buena avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Thelma Jean, to Seymour Kallick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris B. Kallick of 2062 North Damon avenue. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Grand Duke's Death Recalls Days of Pre-War Splendor

By May Birkhead.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, May 4.—With the passing of Grand Duke Michael a unique cosmopolitan figure disappears. He was one of Russian royalty who made history in occidental capitals and on the Riviera a generation ago. While a number of his fellow grand dukes were famous for their orgies and lavish displays of jewels and women, Grand Duke Michael, although no less picturesque, never had the reputation of a philanderer.

As far back as 1891 he fell in love in Cannes with Sophie Nicolaievna, Countess of Merenberg and daughter of Prince Nicholas of Nassau and granddaughter of the celebrated Russian poet Pushkin. As this lady had no royal rank, the Grand Duke Michael married her morganatically. This act caused him to be excluded from Russia by his cousin, the czar. Grand Duke Michael and his wife, who was much loved for her radiant kindness and multiple charm, divided their time largely between England and the Rivfera.

Noted for His Frankness.

The grand duke was notable for his huge bulk and physical strength, his hands being so large and his body so tall that he had to have special golf clubs with long shafts and thick grips. He was also famous for his irritability and outspokenness. Once when an American hostess had caviar served after soup the grand duke told her she should not aspire to give dinners for connoisseurs. Despite these social traits he had a commanding position in pre-war Cannes, where he numbered among his close American friends Anthony J. Drexel and the late Gordon Bennett. The extraordinary popularity of his wife, combined with his own imperial rank, made this couple the social arbiters of the stretch along the "La Croisette."

The grand duke's standing was in no way diminished by the fact that at Kenwood, Hampstead, the king and queen of England were his guests.

Leaves Three Children.

He leaves a son, Count Michael Torby, named after his mother, who on her marriage took the title of Countess Torby. He is also survived by two daughters, Lady Zia Wernher, wife of Col. Harold Wernher, whose father, Sir Julius Wernher, was associated with Cecil Rhodes in the development of South Africa.

The second daughter, Nadejda, marchioness of Milfordhaven, often visited America with her husband and the latter's brother, Lord Louis Mountbatten.

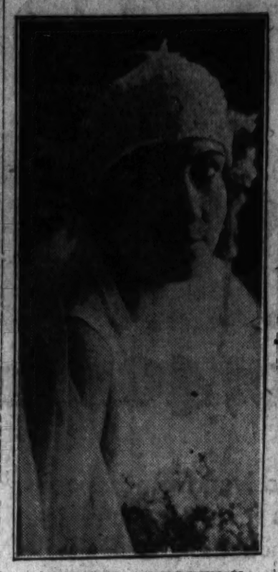
Spring Visitors.

There are many Chicagoans among the early spring visitors here. Mary Garden, celebrated opera star, just arrived and after a short stay here is going to her villa on the Riviera for a rest. A. W. Goodrich and his wife are spending a few weeks at the Hotel Meurice. Samuel Insull, after several weeks' visit here, is leaving for a short southern trip.

BRIDE



MRS. FELIX A. NORDEN II.

Mr. and Mrs. Marc Newman of 5107 Blackstone avenue, formerly of Winnetka, announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret Jane, to Felix A. Norden II., son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Norden of Chicago.

BRIDE-TO-BE

MISS DOROTHY LOW.
[Gibson Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Low, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Low of 6021 Kimbark avenue, to Reese Harper Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Price, will take place next Saturday evening at the Union League club and will be followed by a reception. Miss Low and Mr. Price are graduates of the University of Chicago, where she is a member of Chi Rho Sigma and he of Kappa Sigma.

Claudels and Party Go Down to White Sulphur

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 4.—Spending the week here were Madame Paul Claudel, wife of the French ambassador, who came to the Greenbrier from Washington with a party that included her daughter, Reine, Mlle. Jeanne Gretzianu, daughter of the Roumanian ambassador; Robert Lacour-Gayet, attaché of the French embassy, and Jules Henry, secretary to the ambassador. The party is to remain until the end of the week before returning to the capital.

Hunter S. Marston arrived from New York this week, with L. R. Walkfield of Minneapolis, and L. O. Evans of Butte, Mont. J. J. Bernet, president of the Erie railroad, arrived from Cleveland in his private car for a month's stay. His party included Mrs. Bernet, Miss Helen Bernet, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard R. Bernet, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gallagher, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Broderick, and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Callaghan. Later in the week they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Herman R. Neff of Cleveland.

Other arrivals of the week included Mr. and Mrs. Leslie M. Cheshire, Harold Ingraham, H. L. Derby, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kurrus, Gouverneur Carnahan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. O'Hara Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brainard.

Amory L. Haskells Give Dinner Party at Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Amory L. Haskell of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., gave a large dinner this week in the Homestead restaurant. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. Wright Brown, Mr. W. W. McKnight, Mr. and Mrs. Rawson L. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. James Haines, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney P. Henshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Thurmond Chatham, and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Jones.

Mrs. Arthur K. Evans was a dinner hostess at Malvern hall. Her guests included Mary Wheat, Jessie K. Graham, Baron and Baroness Marcus Rosenkranz, Mrs. Alexander Williams Biddle, and Dr. and Mrs. Guy Hinsdale.

Among those at the Homestead are Mr. and Mrs. James B. Forgan of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Tallmadge, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Albee, Senator J. G. Saxe, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ettlinger, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Yates, Mr. and Mrs. Noel McVicker, Mrs. Stephen H. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey L. Williams, and Hendrick Suydam.

Federation Charity Tag Day Set for May 13

4,000 to Join Annual Drive for Aged Poor

Volunteers Set Goal at $100,000.

By Roberta Nangle.

THE sixth annual tag day of the Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult Charities has been set for Monday, May 13. On that day each and every Chicagoan may contribute his bit to this worthy cause by purchasing a tag for whatever amount he chooses to give. Last year's tag day reaped $93,023.19 and this year it is hoped that $100,000 will be realized.

Approximately 4,000 volunteers are being assigned to various posts in the loop, outlying neighborhoods, and suburban districts. The fund gathered will be divided among thirty-nine of the city's institutions for the aged poor according to the amounts made by their own corps of workers. Despite the fact that the anticipated proceeds would yield an average of only $2,500 per year to each institution, or the small sum of $10 a day, hundreds of needy persons have benefited from these tag days in the past.

Many Institutions Benefit.

"This tag day is especially beneficial for the aged," says Mrs. Arthur H. Brumback, president of the federation. "The homeless young can hope at least for a brighter future. Frequently they are adopted by wealthy families who provide them with comfort and an education. But not so with the aged. They are never adopted. They have only a past to think about and the dreams of a hereafter."

Among the institutions to benefit from the receipts of the tag day, which, incidentally, is the day after Mother's day, are the Baptist Old People's home, Danish Old People's home, Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial Lodging house, Norwegian Old People's home, Church Home for Aged Persons, Bethany Home for the Swedish Methodist Church, Home for Aged Colored People, Phyllis Wheatley home, St. Joseph's Home for Aged and Crippled, Bohemian Old People's Home and Orphan Asylum.

Friendless Included.

Others are Scottish Rite Old People's home, Swedish Societies' Old People's home, Norwegian Lutheran Bethesda home, Swedish Home of Mercy, Immanuel Women's home, St. Joseph's Home for the Friendless, Norwegian-Danish Methodist Episcopal Deaconess Woman's home, Augustana Home for the Aged, Beulah Home and Maternity hospital of Chicago, Norwegian-Danish Young Women's Christian Home society, Augustana Central home, Bohemian Charitable association.

Also the Presbyterian home, Susanna Wesley home, Swedish Baptist Home of Rest for the Aged, Evangelical Orphans' and Old People's home, Protectorate of the Catholic Women's League, Resurrection Day Nursery and Girls' home, Chicago Home of the Friendless, Paulist Fathers' settlement, Holland home, Woman's Church Federation protectorate, Big Sisters, St. Elizabeth's hospital welfare department, House of the Good Shepherd, British Old People's home, Chicago Christian Industrial league, and Good Will Industrial shelter.

[Bachrach Photo.]

MRS. BESSIE BRAGG PIERSON has been re-elected president of the Illinois Women's Athletic club. Names of officers chosen at this and other recent club elections will be found in the "Newly Elected Officers" column following the club notes on this page.

Mrs. Arthur H. Brumback, president of the Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult Charities, is organizing her forces for the federation's annual tag day, to be held on May 13.

Mrs. Hayes McKinney has just closed a successful term as president of the Woman's club of Wilmette. At the last meeting of the season ground was broken for the club's new $100,000 home. Mrs. Harvey A. Bush is to succeed Mrs. McKinney.

DOWNTOWN CLUBS

This week's calendar of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs includes the following meetings: The board of directors of the First congressional district at headquarters tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock; the local board for the state convention, at the Stevens hotel at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon; the chorus of the Seventh congressional district at 1:30 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, and the legislative department at 10:30 o'clock on Friday morning, the last two meetings being scheduled for headquarters.

The legislative committee of the Illinois League of Women Voters will meet on Friday at 10:30 a. m. at the league headquarters, 203 North Wabash avenue, with Miss Bertha Bidwell presiding.

The Forum of the League of Women Voters will give a benefit card party on Friday at 2 o'clock in the new club house of the Chicago Woman's club, Mrs. A. R. Kinney of Berwyn is general chairman of arrangements and is assisted by Mrs. Joseph Holpuch on the north side, Mrs. Lynn B. Stiles on the south side, and Mrs. J. Van Wakeman on the west side.

For "auld lang syne" members of the old Chicago Political Equality league, that organization which so long and so successfully labored for the first suffrage amendment in Illinois, have been invited to a luncheon which will precede the card party at 12 o'clock at the Chicago Woman's club. Among the guests will be Mrs. James W. Morrison, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, Miss Helen M. Bennett, Mrs. Willa B. Laird, Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, Mrs. Florence Bennett Peterson, Mrs. George W. Hall, and Mrs. W. A. Roberts.

The Chicago College club will give a dinner on Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock for Rufus C. Dawes, who will talk on the Chicago Centennial exposition of 1933, of which he is president. On Saturday evening there will be a card party for members and guests, followed by a buffet supper.

The annual meeting of the Woman's University club will be held on Saturday at 10 o'clock in the clubrooms at 185 North Wabash avenue.

The Illinois Colony club will hold its eighteenth annual May breakfast tomorrow at 12 o'clock in the grand ball room of the Medinah Athletic club at 506 North Michigan avenue.

The Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's organizations will give its annual musical and luncheon on Wednesday in the Chicago Woman's new clubhouse. The affair will be held in celebration of National Music week. All clubs affiliated with the federation have been asked by the music committee, of which Mrs. John Young is president, to arrange special musical programs for their meetings during the week.

The Colonial Coverlet guild will hold a breakfast and a pageant, "A Hundred Years of Costumes" on Wednesday at 12:30 p. m., at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

The woman's auxiliary board of Wesley Memorial hospital will hold open house and a reception on national hospital day, Saturday, from two to five o'clock, at the hospital, 2449 South Dearborn street. A feature of the program will be the singing of the Wesley Nurses' chorus. The public is invited.

The Dorothy Kahn club for Crippled Children will hold its annual meeting tomorrow at 2 p. m., in the Medical and Dental Arts building, at 185 North Wabash avenue.

Hadassah will give a reception on Tuesday afternoon in the Gold room of the Congress hotel for Nahum Sokolow, a world Zionist executive.

St. Cyril's Woman's club will give a spring luncheon on Wednesday at 12:30 p. m., in Marshall Field's Wedgwood room.

The annual meeting of the Scholarship association for Jewish children will be held on Tuesday at a luncheon at 12:15 o'clock at the Standard club. Supt. William J. Bogan of the Chicago public schools will be the principal speaker.

The Chicago Press league will hold its closing meeting on Saturday at 12:30 p. m., at the Great Northern hotel.

The monthly twilight musical of the Illinois Women's Athletic club will be held this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock on the thirteenth floor of the club house. A dance and musical will be given on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the social committee, of which Mrs. William H. Seaverns is chairman. The regular weekly card parties will be held on Thursday evening and Friday afternoon.

The Tuberculosis Public Health Nurses' organization will give a card party on Saturday at 2 p. m. in Marshall Field's tearoom. Mrs. Mabel Wright is chairman.

The Oakley Woman's club will give its annual card party for the benefit of the Little Wanderer day nursery on Friday in the walnut room at Marshall Field's.

The junior auxiliary of the Nursery and Infant Home of the Daughters of Zion will give a card party and program next Sunday afternoon at the Canton Tea Garden at 404 South Wabash avenue. An open meeting will be held tomorrow evening at the nursery at 1441 Wicker Park avenue.

The Woman's Republican club will hold its annual luncheon and meeting on Saturday at 1 o'clock at the Auditorium hotel. Senator Adolph Marks will speak on the proposed new primary law.

The Roseland Woman's club will hold its annual president's reception for the retiring president, Mrs. Charles H. Brandt, on Saturday, at 1 p. m., in the Wedgwood room at Marshall Field's.

The Illinois League of Women Voters announces a memorial service for Flora Sylvester Cheney, to be held tomorrow evening in the University of Chicago chapel. Community singing will be led by the Sixth Ward league, and the speakers will include Mrs. George Mathes, Lorado Taft, Miss Mary McDowell, Henry P. Chandler, Michael Igoe, and Mrs. James W. Morrison. Dr. Charles Gilkey will read the invocation.

CLUB ETHICS . . . . By Maude Swalm Evans

THREE members of the Parko club were having lunch together in the city.

"How did you like the Parko club election?" the calm member asked the positive member.

"Not at all," answered the positive member. "We need a strong president to take hold of things now. The club's in a precarious condition and I don't feel that the new president is the one to carry it through. But the ones who are running the club were bound to have her, regardless, and they've got her. However, it's all right as far as I'm concerned. I'm through. I'm going to resign."

"You don't really mean that?" questioned the calm member.

"I most certainly do," responded the positive member.

"The Parko club is the first club to which I ever belonged," said the long time member, "and I'm very fond of it."

"It was my first club, too," admitted the positive member.

"I've made some of my dearest friends in it," continued the long time member.

"I have, too," agreed the positive member.

"It was through this little club that I got into the larger organizations to which I belong," added the long time member.

"That's true, in a way, in my case," confessed the positive member.

"When you girls get through with your experience party I'd like to get in a word," said the calm member.

"Help yourself to the floor," invited the long time member.

"If our club's in a bad way this is certainly the time of all times when the loyalty and help of every member is especially needed," insisted the calm member. "Our new president will be strong enough to carry anything through if our members stand behind her. She wasn't my candidate, but I'm going to give her a fighting chance."

"You girls are altogether too good at arguing," contended the positive member. "And the worst of it is, you're right, and I surely do hate to admit it. I'm beginning to think that I won't dare to resign in the face of so many reasons why I shouldn't."

Question.

"If a club is not satisfied by the action taken by its board, can it change such action?—Mrs. H. M."

Reply.

Yes, unless the by-laws place the matter at issue under the charge of the board.

SOUTH SIDE CLUBS

The Hyde Park branch of the Infant Welfare society will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for a spring musicale at the residence of Mrs. Henry Pope at 5555 Hyde Park boulevard.

Breakfast Planned for Birthday of Missionary Society

By the Rev. W. B. Norton.

General officers, secretaries and editors, forty-seven women from all parts of the United States, the able but unsalaried administrators of one of the greatest enterprises conducted by women alone, known as the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, will be the guests of the Methodist women of Rock River conference Wednesday at a 12 o'clock breakfast at the Palmer house. It is expected that there will be about one thousand women in attendance on this occasion which is also the recognition of the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the society. Mrs. Dr. F. I. Johnson of New York City, chairman of the anniversary committee and president of the General Federation of Women's Foreign Mission boards, and Mrs. O. N. Townsend of Zanesville, O., who together have promoted the raising of a fund of $1,250,000 for retired missionaries, will be the principal speakers.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Chicago area, Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Thomas Nicholson, Mrs. F. H. McConnell, Mrs. W. F. McDowell, wives of Methodist bishops and also general officers, will be introduced. Mrs. Thomas Dixon of Oak Park is the head of the local committee, assisted by the following: Mrs. A. H. Clement, Mrs. Glenn Craddock, Mrs. A. R. Lindsey, Mrs. H. R. Adams, Mrs. Harris Dante and Mrs. W. I. Cable.

The Rev. Orlando Ingvoldstad of the United Lutheran church of Grand Forks, N. D., will preach his first sermon this morning at the Wicker Park Lutheran church, Le Moyne and Hoyne streets. The Rev. Mr. Ingvoldstad has accepted the call to succeed the late Dr. Simon Peter Long as pastor of the church.

Beginning today a two weeks' mission is to be held at the Church of the Most Precious Blood, Western avenue and Congress street, the Rev. W. J. Kearney, pastor, under the direction of and with preaching by missionaries of the Oblate order, the Rev. Thomas J. Caffey, O. M. I., and the Rev. John J. Donnelly, O. M. I.

The 28th conference of the national federation of church clubs of the Episcopal church will meet at the Edgewater Beach hotel beginning Thursday evening and closing with the annual dinner Saturday evening. The purpose of the conference is the encouragement of the business man's interest in the church and religion generally.

Among the speakers at the conference will be: Capt. B. Frank Mountford, New York, executive secretary of the Church Army in America; Charles E. Field, Chicago; Leon C. Palmer, Philadelphia, Pa., general secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in America; Harold C. Barclow, Milwaukee, representing the national young people's association; Dr. William Maddox, president of Rockford college; Bishop Charles P. Anderson; Mrs. Spencer Williamson, president of the woman's auxiliary; Angus S. Hibbard, Chicago; Col. George W. Burleigh, New York, president of the federation, and the Rev. Alfred Newbery, rector of the Church of the Atonement.

The new Grace Episcopal church, 1450 Indiana avenue, adjoining St. Luke's hospital, will be formally opened and dedicated this morning by Bishop Charles P. Anderson. The new church, of Gothic architecture, has a unique feature in the form of a gallery to accommodate patients from the hospital in wheel chairs. This gallery is a memorial to Mr. and Mrs. William Gold Hibbard, who as early parishioners of Grace assisted in founding the hospital. Other new memorials are the William E. Johnson altar, the Clinton Locke reredos, and the Father Wright chapel. Many of the old memorials were recovered and are now adorning the walls of the chancel. The Rev. Robert Holmes is rector.

Congregational church circles in Chicago were interested the last week in the announcements in Kansas City, Mo., and Topeka, Kas., papers to the effect that one of Chicago's prominent ministers has been called to the pastorate of the Country Club Congregational church of Kansas City. The Rev. Walter Henry North, pastor of the Warren Avenue Congregational church, Warren and Albany avenues, read his resignation to his congregation last Sunday morning, requesting release from his duties to take effect September 1. Dr. North came from the First Congregational church of Billings, Mont., nine years ago to the Warren Avenue Congregational church and he has been especially active and successful in reaching the nonchurch going people in the district the church is serving.

The Rev. Alva V. King, just retiring as moderator of the Chicago Presbytery, pastor of the Roseland Presbyterian church, has accepted the call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church, Hastings, Neb., and will sever his relationship to the Chicago Presbytery by June 1. Because of his faithful and commendable administration during the last year as moderator, the Rev. Mr. King goes to represent Chicago as commissioner at the general assembly at St. Paul, Minn., May 23-June 1.

Saturday is national hospital day and the board of trustees and the woman auxiliary board of Wesley Memorial hospital, 2449 South Dearborn street, will hold open house and a reception from two to five o'clock to which the public is invited. The singing by the Wesley Nurse organization will be one of the special features of the program.

The Congregational conference of Illinois will hold its annual meeting beginning tomorrow and continuing until Wednesday evening at Downers Grove, Ill. Pastors and delegates from the membership of the churches will be in attendance. There will be short speeches, discussions, addresses, and sermons. Among the interesting features are a luncheon address by Mrs. Katherine Waugh McCulloch, a conference dinner with Dr. W. T. McElveen as toastmaster, "The Church and Education," by Dr. R. W. Gammon; "Widening Horizons," by Dr. W. P. Minton, secretary foreign board of the Christian church; "Some Things Miss Mayo Failed to Find in India," by Lillian Picken, and on Wednesday evening a young peoples' dinner at which the closing address will be by Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, Rogers Park Congregational church, on "The New Enthusiasm."

NEWS OF CHURCHES

THE REV. CECIL G. OSBORNE.

The Rev. Cecil G. Osborne has answered the call of the Lorimer Memorial Baptist church, 73d street and St. Lawrence avenue, and begins his new pastorate this morning, succeeding Dr. Charles B. Althoff, who retired Jan. 1 after a ministry of twenty-five years, fifteen of which were spent at Lorimer Memorial church.

The Rev. Mr. Osborne spent his early boyhood in Oklahoma and Texas and began his education at Baylor university, Waco, Tex., continuing, after two years, at Columbia university, New York City. During this time he was engaged in assisting Dr. Christian F. Reisner in special work connected with the erection of the new Broadway temple in New York City. He also was engaged on the east side of New York City in mission work at Mariners' temple.

In 1925 Mr. Osborne came to Chicago to enter the Northern Baptist Theological seminary, but later went to Louisville, Ky., to the Southern Baptist Theological seminary. In Louisville he was in charge of the naturalization preparatory work of the Louisville board of education and also supplied a student pastorate.

Lorimer Memorial church has recently cleared its indebtedness incurred in the building of a $70,000 new church edifice. George Horace Lorimer, son of the famous preacher for whom the church has been named, has been a liberal contributor to the building fund.

A Kobe luncheon in honor of Mrs. Moses Smith, nearly 95 years old, under the auspices of the promotion committee of the corporation, will be given on Thursday at the Stevens hotel at 1 o'clock. Mrs. Smith is the oldest active member of the corporation and her activity has been most noteworthy in that she has been one of the pioneers in woman's work, not only in the missionary cause but also in temperance and prohibition.

As a testimonial to her, Chicago and the midwest region have taken as their special enterprise the Emily White Smith chapel and auditoium which is to cost $80,000 and is part of the million dollar expansion program for Kobe college. Twelve of the most prominent leaders among the women of Chicago are patrons and sponsors for the luncheon at which it is hoped to have a thousand women in attendance.

Two hundred and fifty men, ministers and members of the official boards of thirty Christian churches in the metropolitan area of Chicago, at the La Salle hotel tomorrow morning will hold a meeting called by the pension fund commission of the Disciples of Christ. The Rev. F. E. Smith, secretary of the commission, and the Rev. Bert Wilson, one of the promotional secretaries, will have charge of the meeting, and the Rev. W. A. Shullenberger of the Central Christian church, Indianapolis, Ind., will be the principal speaker.

The Rev. Lee Ferry was ordained and installed as pastor of Austin Manor Presbyterian church, North Parkside and Wabansia avenues. This church is the outgrowth of the disbanding of the Onward Presbyterian church, Superior and Robey streets, which was thought necessary because of the removal of the greater part of the Onward group to the new location. The church has now 120 members and has oversubscribed its budget of $5,000.

The Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, North Albany avenue near Addison street, will hold a memorial service for artists of Chicago and vicinity this evening and give the memorial address. Reminiscences of famous artists will also be recounted by friends.

The work of the late Dr. Ernest A. Bell, pastor of the Night church, and the conducting of street meetings at the corner of Quincy and State streets, has been recently taken over by the church extension board of the Presbytery of Chicago and is under the supervision of the Rev. William O. Ruby of the evangelical department with the Rev. R. H. Begbie, considered one of the best street preachers, as the minister in charge.

The Rev. William Russell Collins, D. D., rector of Old St. Paul's, Bishop Fallows Memorial Reformed Episcopal church, Adams street at South Winchester avenue, will today celebrate the 40th anniversary of his ordination to the presbyterate, which took place in the Church of the Redeemer, Baltimore, Md., by the late Bishop James A. Latane, D. D. Dr. Collins will use the same text this morning as Bishop Latane used forty years ago.

This afternoon at 4 p. m. the school children of the Holy Name Cathedral parish school, the members of the Holy Name society, the Sanctuary society, the Married Ladies' sodality, the Propogation of the Faith Confraternity, the Holy Angels' sodality, the St. Aloysius sodality, and the St. Vincent de Paul society will assemble at the school and go in procession to the cathedral, where the May day ceremonies will be held. These will consist of the crowning of the statue of the Blessed Virgin by one of the eighth grade girls in Holy Name parish school, the Litany, sung by the Holy Name cathedral quartet, and a sermon on vacation by the Rev. Father Isadore of the Passionist Fathers of Norwood Park.

MINNESOTA

Minnesota's lovely lakes, laughing streams, majestic woodlands, scenic charm and bracing air all join in an invitation to you to come, to rest, to frolic to your heart's content. Come! Be happy—carefree—contented.

LAND OF Ten Thousand LAKES

Bring the Entire Family—Enjoy Yourselves

Live as you like to live. Rough it in some sequestered log cabin or rest in luxury at the most modern hotels. Enjoy your favorite sport—fish, bathe, canoe, ride or hike. Play golf, tennis, croquet.

Enjoy yourselves in your own way. Minnesota provides amusement for all. You will carry away memories of your most wonderful vacation—of lovely scenery—of a charming summer climate.

Reduced Railroad Rates

Plan now to come. The railroads offer reduced summer rates to Minnesota. Or motor up and you will find tourist camps with every convenience. Travel in luxury or be economical. You'll have a good time either way.

Minnesota's Farming Opportunities

Farmers do better in Minnesota, the leading butter state of the Union. Good creameries in every locality. Write for booklet of valuable agricultural information. Fine improved farms may be obtained at low prices and on easy terms.

Sunday Dinner—Late or Early
At Chicago's 46-Story

Morrison Hotel

A CORNER OF THE TERRACE GARDEN MORRISON HOTEL

The New Morrison, when completed, will be the world's largest and tallest hotel—46 stories high, with 3,400 rooms.

THE return of daylight-saving has revived the question whether to dine earlier or later. Sunday dinner in the Terrace Garden answers this question by offering both alternatives.

From 5:30 to 9 P. M.

This delicious meal is a favorite climax to a day of outdoor pleasure. Dancing and vaudeville continue until 9 p. m., enabling patrons, if they wish, to use every hour of daylight.

Every Table "Ringside"

The tables, rising in tiers, afford a perfect view of the stage and dance floor. This, like other ingenious features throughout the building, greatly enhances the pleasure and convenience of the guests.

1,944 Rooms, $2.50 Up

Every room is outside, with bath, running ice water, telephone, bed-head reading lamp, and Servidor. A housekeeper is assigned to each floor, and all the guests have the use of the hotel's garage.

Maine this year

There's no place like Maine for your summer vacation. Why not decide on Maine now—and have the satisfaction of picking out just the accommodations you wish? Maine offers every outdoor sport—camping, fishing, canoeing, motor-boating, swimming, golf, motoring on excellent roads. Every season has its charm in Maine. In blossom-time (May and June) days are long and travel is light; in mid-summer days are pleasantly warm and nights are cool; in autumn hillsides are a riot of flaming color.

Let us help you plan now. Send the coupon and ask for any information you desire on rates, routes and accommodations.

THE AROUND PACIFIC CRUISE

of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce

A wonderful opportunity is offered to one hundred business men and their families of middle western and eastern states to go on a cruise of adventure to the strange lands anchored in the Pacific Ocean. To: Japan, China, the Philippine Islands, French Indo-China, Siam, the Straits Settlements, Java, Australia, New Zealand, Fiji Islands, Samoan Islands, and Hawaii.

The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce will act as hosts on this comprehensive, expertly planned cruise, which combines a voyage of good-will with a happy, recreational vacation. The members of the cruise will be the type of people you will enjoy traveling with; they are being carefully selected; their interests are congenial to your own.

The itinerary is unusual and comprehensive and has been mapped out down to the minutest detail by experienced travel men of a world-wide travel organization. At every port shore excursions are provided for all members of the cruise and are included in the cruise price. The ship chosen is the palatial new liner the S. S. MALOLO (Flying Fish), the swiftest steamer on the Pacific, sailing from San Francisco on September 21st, returning on December 20th. Rates are as low as $1,500, depending upon accommodations chosen.

Descriptive literature, containing a map, illustrations, itinerary, deck plan of the MALOLO, costs, and complete information, will be sent you on request.

It is necessary to book early to secure membership in this cruise, as the number of persons accepted will be limited.

Through the West and Canada by special trains — without change of cars.

Land Cruises

You can see more on a Land Cruise than you can in the same time by any other means—and in comfort never before equalled in railroad travel.

Luxurious trains with gymnasiums, recreation halls, rooms with private baths, compartments, etc. The first cruise leaves the East June 22 for the Southwest, Grand Canyon, California, Canadian Rockies and Alaska.

Twelve other cruises during the summer visit the Southwest, National Parks, Canadian Rockies, Northwest, the Hawaiian Islands, etc. Rates from Chicago $500 & up.

The WEALTH that MORGAN left in the CARIBBEAN

OLD SIR HENRY took the golden treasure, but he left behind the sleepy little port towns, every stone of which has a story...a vast turquoise sea full of palm-fringed coral islands... color, romance, memories of great adventure. Richer far than mere doubloons and pieces of eight, for they promise whole days of rest and delicious dreaming to tired people.

The Great White Fleet has rediscovered these rich treasure lands just south of us. Built specifically for tropical cruising, these ships are fully equipped to help you get the most out of a voyage in the Caribbean.

"THE CHIMES OF NORMANDY" TO PEAL AT EVANSTON HIGH SCHOOL

Miss Virginia Dodge and Howard Emrich are shown here in a scene from "The Chimes of Normandy," which will be presented by the musical organizations of Evanston Township High school in Haven school auditorium May 17 and 18.

These four pretty misses will add to the local color when Evanston High presents its spring operetta. Rehearsals have been in progress more than a month. Left to right: Miss Margaret Nelson, Miss Beatrice Creamer, Miss Marion Kirkland, and Miss Phyllis Braun.

Another picturesque Normandy scene from the operetta shows Miss Virginia Dodge with Guy Robbins (left) and Willcox Gunn (right). More than 100 students are taking part in this, the culmination of the musical year at Evanston High.

RARE WINDOWS GIVE FAME TO ST. ITA'S CHURCH

Six Million Pieces of Glass in Them.

So marvelous are the windows of St. Ita's church, 5500 Broadway, that no matter how often they are studied by worshippers they are said, on each occasion, to reveal some new bit of detail and beauty. Into the windows—replicas of the famous windows in Chartres cathedral, France, and executed in Paris—have gone six million pieces of glass. At a distance they produce a jewel-like effect. In the medallions of the windows on the south side of the church are pictured some of the main facts in the history of the Old Testament. On the north side of the church are pictured the main facts of the New Testament.

THE REV. JOHN H. CROWE.

Called Finest in Country.

The window which attracts the most attention is that of the crucifixion, which is over the main altar in the sanctuary. It is eleven feet wide and twenty-two feet high and contains twenty-eight figures. It is of such character, both in composition and color, that critics have termed it unsurpassed in this country.

The window in the front of the church at the left is devoted to St. Ita, the medallions telling the story of her life. Opposite, at the right, is the window devoted to St. Patrick, its medallions telling of his life and work.

Panels in the sanctuary windows depict—at the left—the immaculate conception, the annunciation, the nativity, the presentation of the Child in the temple. At the right, the resurrection, the ascension, the descent of the Holy Ghost, the coronation of the Blessed Virgin in heaven. Overlooking the choir, in the rear of the church, is a beautiful rose window. The transept windows are devoted to the twelve apostles.

$750,000 Church Edifice.

It is also said that nowhere in the United States in a Catholic church can be found such delicate handling of carving—marble and wood—combined with beautiful execution of work, all of a decidedly Catholic character.

It was just two years ago on Easter Sunday that the $750,000 edifice was completed and ready for services. Its designer was Henry J. Schlacks, who also superintended its building. It is of French Gothic architecture of the flamboyant period, influenced by some features of the Chartres cathedral and the Church of Brou, both of France.

The church is two stories, upper and lower being exactly alike as to floor space. Both are served by the same entrances. The interior columns are of stone. The lighting is unique in that the lights, lying on the pillars, do not take away from the pillar effect.

The walls are wainscoated in oak, ten feet high. In this wainscoating are niches for the stations of the cross, each niche with a perforated, carved canopy, on which the lights are placed to light the stations.

Sanctuary of Marble.

The sanctuary is entirely of marble, while the altars are of Istrian stone, with jet black Belgian marble steps and predella. The sanctuary lamp is of wood, carved in the shape of a vine. The statues of Carrara marble are of the Blessed Virgin, the Sacred Heart, St. Joseph, St. Peter, St. Paul, and of St. Theresa ["The Little Flower"].

St. Ita's parish was established on June 25, 1900, by the Most Reverend Patrick A. Feehan, who appointed the Rev. John H. Crowe as pastor. The first mass in the new parish was offered on Sunday, July 1, 1900, in what was known as "Guild hall," Winthrop and Bryn Mawr avenues. Mass was said regularly on Sundays in this hall until the following Christmas day, when mass was said for the first time in the frame church erected at Catalpa and Magnolia avenues.

The new St. Ita's church was dedicated on June 9, 1901, by the Most Reverend Patrick A. Feehan, the celebrant.

SORORITY LEADER

MRS. FRED. O. TOOF.

At the annual meeting of the Chicago alumnae of Delta Zeta, national collegiate sorority, Mrs. Fred O. Toof, 1327 Fargo avenue, was elected president. She succeeds Mrs. L. A. Drew, 7339 North Damen avenue.

Other officers chosen include: Treasurer, Mrs. Hugo Huff; corresponding secretary, Miss Margaret Donica; recording secretary, Miss Eleanor Sweitzer; editor, Miss Helen Zepp.

Mrs. Toof has been national assistant secretary of social service and recently returned from a visit to the Delta Zeta community center in Vest, Ky.

The north side division of the group will meet next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Orrison H. Hayes, 1115 Maple avenue, Evanston.

Library to Be Memorial to Educator

As a memorial to the late Miss Jennie Foster, for 47 years a teacher in the Evanston schools, a large library will be placed in the Central school of Evanston, where she held her last classes. A bronze plate bearing testimony to her years of service and a special bookplate for the collection are also part of the plans being carried through by her friends and students in conjunction with the Parent-Teacher organization of the school.

The first of a series of ventures to gain funds for the collection was a vaudeville show given Thursday evening in the Nichols school. Various other benefits will be given and a subscription fund solicited. Mrs. Addie B. McCullough is chairman of the committee in charge; Mrs. Albert Easingwood is secretary and Horace Field, treasurer.

The board of education of district 76 has already placed $500 worth of books in the library and provided furniture for it.

Members of the advisory board of the library include: Dr. B. F. Andrews, president of the board, and Mrs. Andrews; Frederick W. Nichols, superintendent of schools, and David E. Walker, assistant superintendent.

The historical committee includes Mrs. William P. Maclear, Mr. and Mrs. William Clinton French, Miss Myra Barker, Miss Cornelia Benedict, Mr. and Mrs. John Pollack, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Reynolds, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Crain.

The ways and means committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Field, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Foster, Mrs. Ralph Nicol and Mrs. Frederick Schmidt. On the library committee are Ida Faye Wright, chief librarian of the Evanston public library, and Miss Helene Watson, one of her assistants.

Borrow Funds to Wage War on Mosquitoes

The north shore mosquito war has got off to a flying start with an early spring attack by the abatement district before the stingers could marshall their forces.

However, the success of the later stages of the campaign is uncertain because of a lack of money in the district treasury.

"With a good break on weather and water," said Arthur C. Stringer, 2315 Marcy avenue, Evanston, president of the north shore mosquito abatement district, "we can get results anyway. But we are tied up, as the county municipalities are, because of the delay in receipt of tax moneys and we must go ahead on borrowed money."

Twenty-five men are working over the principal breeding spots of the section, which extends from Howard street north to the county line, draining off ditches and digging new ones to run off stagnant water. In places where the water cannot be drained oil is spread to stop breeding.

"The oil is an emergency measure," Mr. Stringer said, "and we use it as little as possible with the aim of abolishing the breeding places permanently where it can be done."

The north shore district was formed in December, 1927, following enabling state legislation the preceding summer. The trustees, appointed by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, include Howard Phillips of Winnetka, F. L. Streed of Kenilworth, Paul A. Hoffman of Wilmette, Marvin F. Nevins of Glencoe, and Mr. Stringer.

Since three of the members are engineers, Phillips, Streed, and Hoffman, the district is saved engineering fees.

Last summer was the first season at the work and, although a good season for mosquitoes and a bad one for humans, some progress was made. A large part of the draining was done and the worst places were spotted.

NEW LAKE VIEW ORCHESTRA PLANS DEBUT CONCERT

Members of the newly formed Lake View Community Symphony orchestra, under the direction of A. M. Weller, are planning a formal debut concert to be held early in June. More than thirty musicians have joined the orchestra, which is rehearsing every Thursday at 3165 Lincoln avenue. Mr. Weller, who was formerly with the Berlin Symphony orchestra, declares that the organization will be the only real community orchestra in Chicago.

Among the new members of the group are: Ed Palm, C. A. Brunton, Howard Dobin, William Waldher, George Knoblock, Charles Broeker, William Ohrenstein, Steven Schmidt, Marvin Buehlman, Oscar Horn, E. S. Schroeder, Anthony Armour, W. S. Gildea, Ralph Schwab, A. H. Eitel, William Becker, Leroy Mahnke, Edward Jennings, John R. Sheehan, J. C. Connors, Herman Frank, and Harold Frantz.

Field House to Be Finished in July; Applications Start

Although the new field house now under construction in Indian Boundary park, Rockwell and Lunt avenues, will not be completed until July, numerous residents and organizations in the vicinity of the park have filed applications for the use of the building, F. C. Kellogg, president of the Ridge avenue park board, reports. None of the requests will be considered until it is known what fee it will be necessary to charge for electricity, heat and janitor service, he said. Among the latest applications are those from the Armstrong community council and the Woman's Neighborhood club of Rogers Park.

VICE PRESIDENT OF DE PAUL TO DELIVER SERMONS AT NOVENA

During the novena in honor of the Little Flower, which will be conducted at St. Andrew's church, 1710 Addison street, beginning next Thursday evening, the Rev. Thomas C. Powers, C. M., vice president of De Paul university and professor of English, will deliver a series of sermons. They will deal with topics suggested by the life of St. Therese and will take notice of books and reviews in which devotion to the saint is explained and criticized. The novena is conducted annually at St. Andrew's and in the last few years it has been necessary to hold double services to accommodate the crowds. Msgr. David L. McDonald is pastor.

THE REV. THOMAS C. POWERS.

AND NOW GALE PUPILS ARE ON SAFETY HILL

"From Dangerous Valley to Safety Hill" was the name of the play presented recently by pupils of the fourth and fifth grades at the Gale school, 1631 Jonquil terrace. Mrs. Mabel DeVault and Miss Sadie Hennessey directed the young players. Front, left to right: Ruth Sobel, Hortense Gollos, Miriam Bauer, Ruth Emin, Marjorie Aberman. Center: Jeanette Werner, Shirley Cochrane, Violet Lasker, Jane Burbatt, June Portner, Frances Sliming, Martha Kidd. Rear: Josephine McDaniel, Margie Schuber, Sheila Meyerson, and Jean Delaney.

LANE TECH ASKS EIGHTH GRADERS TO OPEN HOUSE

Open house night will be held Friday at the Lane Technical High school, 1225 Sedgwick street, Grant Beebe, principal, announced yesterday. Certain classes in every branch of study and laboratory work will be in session to enable visitors to see how the various departments function. In addition to the recitations and demonstrations, a program will be given in the gymnasium and study hall. William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, will be the principal speaker.

Invitations to attend the open house have been mailed to all elementary schools and civic organizations in the district. The graduating classes of the elementary schools have been especially urged to visit the school Friday evening.

HEARINGS FRIDAY ON 7 NORTH SIDE IMPROVEMENTS

Seven improvements for the north side will be taken up next Friday morning in the second big public hearing by the board of local improvements this spring.

Four paving jobs are included in the list. They are as follows:

Waveland avenue between Western and Campbell avenues.

Wayne avenue between Devon and Granville avenues.

Hermitage avenue between Schreiber and Devon avenues.

Jarvis avenue between Western and Campbell avenues.

Approval of two water supply pipe systems will be sought from property owners on Sherwin avenue between Paulina and Clark streets and on the same street between Western avenue and Rockwell street.

The seventh project is the laying of a sewer and a concrete pavement in the alley in the block bounded by Montrose, Campbell, and Pensacola avenues and the north branch of the river.

WELCOME SIGNS TO GO UP AGAIN IN ROGERS PARK

The Rogers Park-Clark Street Business association is considering reinstalling several welcome signs at the entrance to the Rogers Park-Clark street shopping district, Frank M. Schutz, president, announced at the latest meeting. William Doyle has been appointed to make an estimate on the cost of erecting the signs. Henry Feltes, chairman of streets and alleys, reported that the board of local improvements has promised to repair Clark street as soon as the weather permits.

PAY HIGH TAXES AND GET LITTLE, 48TH WARD CRY

Charge Thompson Slights Foes.

Declaring that property owners of the Central Uptown district pay the highest taxes of any community in the city, but receive almost nothing in return for their money, Edward H. Hicks, 4646 Kenmore avenue, business manager of the Central Uptown Business Men's association, has opened a drive to force the city departments immediately to give the district the improvements and service to which it is entitled.

"What has happened to the money we have paid out in taxes?" he inquired, at the same time praising the coöperation given to the business men and property owners by Ald. John A. Massen of the 48th ward, of which the Central Uptown district is a part.

"Ald. Massen has been fighting to get service for this part of the city, but his efforts have not been fruitful because he is not a partner of the administration forces in power at the city hall," he declared.

Surveys Alleys All Over City.

Foremost among the complaints made by Mr. Hicks was one in regard to the condition of the alleys. He recently completed a survey of alleys in the city's fifty wards, and discovered that those in the 48th and 49th wards are the dirtiest. The same condition exists in Ald E. I. Frankhauser's 49th ward as in the 48th because it is an anti-Thompson ward, he said.

"In some alleys in our district," he said, "there is a six weeks' accumulation of garbage and ashes. The odor is so foul that it is impossible for residents to remain in the back part of their homes or apartments. I also discovered that the workmen employed to keep the alleys clean, were not working more than two or three days each week."

"Our community has the cleanest class of people in the city and we are going to insist that we have a clean place in which to live," he continued. He further added that he found the Thompson wards of the north side, particularly the 45th, 46th and 50th, had the cleanest alleys.

The Central Uptown Business Men's association is composed of property owners and business men in the district between Montrose and Argyle avenues, the lake and Clark street. V. J. Curto, real estate operator, is president of the association. Other active members are: Loren Miller, merchant; Edwin L. Read, banker; A. G. Halas, real estate; H. R. Schiller, merchant; E. C. Hart, banker, and H. W. Croxton, real estate.

Assails Fixing of Tickets.

The condition of the alleys was not the only objection made by Mr. Hicks. He also condemned the practice of policemen "fixing" traffic violation tickets. He added, however, that Capt. Hugh McCarthy of the Town Hall station and Capt. J. P. Horan of the Summerdale station had also given the association all their assistance in cleaning up the district, ridding it of gambling houses and protecting the residents and visitors of the community.

The Broadway sewer was paid for three years ago, he said, but as yet it is not in use because there is not an outlet for the system. Consquently basements continued to be flooded following heavy rains.

As a personal objection to the treatment given to residents in the north side shopping district, Mr. Hicks pointed out that he was taxed $525 on his property this year as compared to $90 eight years ago. His home was built at 4646 Kenmore twenty-nine years ago at a cost of $2,500.

COHAN COMEDY TO BE PRESENTED BY DE PAUL DRAMATIC SOCIETY

Wig and Mask, the dramatic society of De Paul university, will present George M. Cohan's comedy, "A Prince There Was," Friday and Saturday evenings, May 17 and 18, at the Vic theater, Belmont and Sheffield avenues.

WOMEN'S CLUBS NAME OFFICERS FOR NEXT FALL

Most of Them Will Close Seasons in Few Weeks.

The annual business meetings of the many women's clubs on the north side will bring another year of activities to a close during the next few weeks. The election of new officers who will assume the leadership of the clubs with the start of the new program next fall is generally the last event in the year's work. Numerous organizations have already selected their new officials.

At the annual meeting of the Ravenswood Woman's club recently, Mrs. Reuben A. Joy was reelected president for another year. The other new officers include: First vice president, Mrs. Norman Breeze; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Darwin B. Pond; treasurer, Mrs. Clyde Baker; chairman of the fine arts department, Mrs. Robert Wessling, and chairman of home education, Mrs. William Walker. Holdover officers are: Second vice president, Mrs. Frank Cole; recording secretary, Mrs. William Rinn, and program chairman, Mrs. Donald Ward.

Neighborhood Club Elects.

Mrs. P. Q. Wray was elected president of the Women's Neighborhood club of Rogers Park at the latest meeting. Other new officers are: Vice presidents, Mrs. Albert Strohm and Mrs. Earl Adair; recording secretary, Mrs. E. L. Wickersham; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arthur Washo; and treasurer, Mrs. E. D. Culleson. Mrs. Lou Byron Reed will serve as choral director and Mrs. Ruby Powers as drama director.

Miss Dorothy Cameron has been selected as president of the junior membership of the Rogers Park Woman's club. New officers who will serve with Miss Cameron are; Vice president, Miss Frances Kelly; secretary, Miss Irene Peterson; treasurer, Mrs. Edith Anderson; and committee chairmen, Miss Florence Steiger, Miss Edith Strate, Miss Ione Hische, Miss Myra Heagle, Miss Dorothy Pain and Miss Lucille Schraeder.

The Brownson circle, which also meets at the Rogers Park Women's club, Ashland and Estes avenues, will be guided by Mrs. Bertrand Evans next fall. Other officers are: Vice presidents, Mrs. Prentice McKenzie and Mrs. D. V. Hayden; recording secretary, Mrs. Bessie White; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary Ryan; financial secretary, Mrs. James E. Murphy, and treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Stella.

Mrs. A. G. Hubbard Elected.

Mrs. A. G. Hubbard was reelected president of the Ravenswood Civic league at the latest meeting in the Wilson avenue department Y. M. C. A. Included among the other new officers are: first vice president, Mrs. O. E. Everts; second vice president, Mrs. James Turner; recording secretary, Mrs. Angela Kott; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. J. Kesten; treasurer, Mrs. R. H. Kropp, and directors, Mrs. Grover T. Sexton, Mrs. Laura Severance, Mrs. Robert Galitz, Mrs. W. Lee Huckins, Mrs. K. S. Clyde, Mrs. H. D. Angeirne and Mrs. W. Harrison Cade.

Two branches of the Woman's City clubs have elected their new officers. Mrs. Elizabeth Cary was reelected chairman of the 48th ward branch and Mrs. W. S. Warnock was again chosen to lead the 49th ward branch. Other officers of the 48th ward group: First vice president, Mrs. Paul K. Smith; second vice president, Mrs. Mary Holland; recording secretary, Mrs. Lyda Anda; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. C. Couch; treasurer, Mrs. A. J. Weiner, and ward secretary, Mrs. A. R. Weis.

Officers who will serve with Mrs. Warnock are: Vice president, Mrs. C. C. Grebe; recording secretary, Mrs. W. M. Buckroeder; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. K. Timmons; treasurer, Mrs. F. K. North, and directors, Mrs. E. L. Holeman and Mrs. Alonzo Penney.

ALUMNI PLAYERS OF LAKE VIEW BUSY REHEARSING

Rehearsals for the annual spring play given by the Lake View High School Alumni association were started last week, D. M. Henderson, coach of the players, announced. The association will present "A Full House" on May 24 in the auditorium of the school, Ashland avenue and Irving Park boulevard. Mr. Henderson also coached "The Whole Town's Talking," the play given by the graduates last fall.

Included in the cast are: Joseph Murphy, Miss Florence Morrison, Russell Flint, Miss Helen Swanson, Miss Ruth Swander, Eugene Claussen, Ned Metz, Miss Marguerite Wessig, Miss Henrietta Wagner, and Miss Elsie Townsley. Robert Lindahl is business manager of the play.

Rogers Park Club to Dance.

The annual spring dance of the Rogers Park Social club will be given this evening at Hotel La Salle.

Clubwomen Re-elect Leaders

Miss Elizabeth A. Clary, elected to serve her seventh year as chairman of the Forty-eighth ward branch of the Woman's City club.

Mrs. W. S. Warnock, re-elected chairman of the Forty-ninth ward branch of the Woman's City club.

[Mabel Sykes Photo.]

Mrs. Reuben A. Joy, re-elected president of the Ravenswood Woman's club.

Mrs. A. G. Hubbard will serve another year as president of the Ravenswood Civic league.

HOWARD SAVAGE IS NAMED HEAD OF PARK BOARD

Howard P. Savage, recently elected a commissioner of the North Shore park district, was made president of the board at the organization meeting. He succeeds James P. Ward, who has served as president during the last five years. Commissioner Ward will remain a member of the board for one more year.

Mr. Savage, former national commander of the American Legion, was elected to the board last month with his running mates, Hyman Kinzelberg and Frederick H. Chetlain. Patrick C. Winn, chairman of the campaign for the three new members, was appointed treasurer of the board, and Miss Mary R. Richartb was made secretay. Maurice T. Weinschenck was made attorney to replace Charles R. Obermeyer.

Harold Leopold Is Fifth Member.

Harold Leopold is the fifth member of the board, which has jurisdiction over the territory bounded by Devon avenue on the south, the Chicago and North Western railroad on the west, the city limits on the north, and the lake on the east.

The restriction preventing motorists from proceeding west on Devon avenue by crossing Sheridan road is to be eliminated, Mr. Chetlain said. A meeting of business men in the district has been called by Byron Barwig, a member of the Devon Business association, to make a formal demand for lifting of the ordinance. Five traffic routes north from Devon avenue and west of Sheridan are available, it was pointed out, and will greatly aid in relieving traffic congestion on the boulevard. The five streets are Ashland avenue, Clark street, Ridge boulevard, Western avenue, and McCormick road.

$21,000 Cash; $64,000 Bills.

A preliminary report on the audit made by Prof. John V. Tinen of the economics department of Northwestern university disclosed that the board has $21,000 with which to complete the year, and faces unpaid bills of more than $64,000. When Prof. Tinen's complete report is made, a plan to carry on the board's work in face of the deficiency will be outlined by the commissioners, they said.

GREAT PARADE TO BE FEATURE OF BOYS' WEEK

Annual Observance Set for May 19 to 25.

Churches, schools, parks and playgrounds on the north side as well as all over the city will play a part in the twelfth annual Boys' week, which will be held from Sunday, May 19, to Saturday, May 25. Beginning with special church services for boys on Sunday and finishing with athletic games and contests in the various parks on Saturday, the entire week will be given over to the education, health, interests and enthusiasms of Chicago boyhood.

Recent committee meetings have been held for the discussion and completion of plans and programs for boys' week. Edward L. Burchard of the City club and Supt. William J. Bogan of the Chicago public schools respectively are secretary and chairman of the executive committee in charge of the activities of Boys' week. The numerous organizations sponsoring the activities of that week include the Rotary club, Kiwanis club, City Club of Chicago, Boy Scouts, board of education, Optimist club, congress of boy workers, board of health and all the organizations of boys in the city.

Church Services for Boys.

Every boy in Chicago will be urged to attend church services somewhere in the city, preferably in company with his parents, on the Sunday which opens Boys' week. Dean Shailer Mathews, head of the Chicago Church federation; Rabbi Gerson Levi, and Rev. C. J. Quille compose the committee in charge of this day's program.

Monday, May 20, will be given over to the boy at home and with the radio, in recognition of influence of the home on the boy's life and the importance of the radio in the life of many homes. Special radio programs will be broadcast from Chicago stations.

The boy in industry will be the theme of Wednesday's programs. James P. Haynes of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Frank F. Chase of the Rotary club will be in charge of the programs for this day, devoted to establishing closer relations between employers and boys.

On Tuesday, the boy's spare time will occupy the attention of the Boy Workers' association and the Union Leagues Foundation for Boys, with Burridge Butler as chairman. Rightly used, the boy's spare time will mean success, according to Mr. Butler, and the programs in schools on this day will tend to encourage boys to make the best use of their extra hours.

Physical Tests Urged.

The boy's health will be taken up Thursday by the Kiwanis club. Physical examinations and health talks will be given in all schools. Dr. Thomas A. Carter will be in charge of the health programs.

A parade of 25,000 high school, junior high, seventh and eighth grade, and parochial school boys, held at Soldier field, will feature Friday's program. Included in this parade will be Boy Scouts, all boys' clubs, safety patrols, R. O. T. C., junior fire police, and organizations of boys from the board of education playgrounds and municipal playgrounds. Leading the parade will be a band of 2,400 pieces, which will be a combination of all the R. O. T. C. bands in high schools all over the city.

Friday morning at the stadium will be taken up with a track meet among elementary school boys and a demonstration of their R. O. T. C. units. The Friday activities come under the heading of the boy in school and citizenship, and will attempt to show all the organizations of boys which are beneficial to them. Mr. Bogan will be in charge of this day, with Maj. F. L. Beals managing the combined program to be given by the R. O. T. C. bands.

Athletic Contests Saturday.

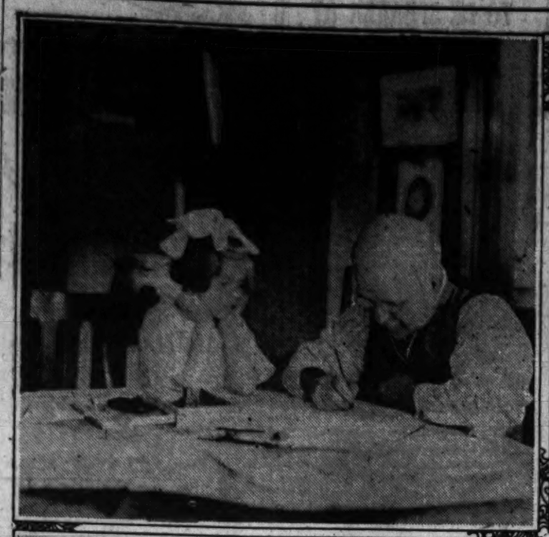
The gala day for the boys will come on Saturday with athletic contests in the parks and playgrounds. There will be wrestling matches and stunts, races and swimming contests, for which prizes will be awarded to the winners. Edward C. Delaporte, director of physical education, is chairman in charge of the park activities.

A congress of boy workers will be held in the evening of one day during boys' week with a dinner at the Palmer house under the auspices of the Boy Scouts.

George W. Dixon is president of the Chicago Boys' Week federation, Melvin A. Traylor is treasurer, Mr. Bogan is chairman of the executive committee, Mr. Burchard is executive secretary, and Michael Zimmer is secretary.

Vice presidents of the organization include: Mr. Bogan, Dr. Thomas J. Carter, J. F. Cornelius, Edward T. Dunphy, Guy Guernsey, Walter Head, Alex. C. Johnston, Dr. M. H. Mack, Louis E. Myers, Msgr. C. J. Quille, Howard L. Ryerson, J. E. Soll, D. W. Stewart, Medard W. Welch, and Leo Wormser.

HERE'S $5 FOR HELEN AND HER DADDY



The first prize of $5 in The Tribune's spring picture contest for amateur photographers of the north side was awarded this week for "Watching Daddy Work," showing Helen B. and W. J. McBride, 2310 Cleveland avenue, and submitted by Mr. McBride. A girl, 13 years old, won the second prize of $3 with a picture, made by herself, of her dog Torquin. She is Elinor M. Steele, 100 Linden Park place, Highland Park, and she entitled the picture, "Attention, Torquin." "Blossom Time," by E. Lucas, 4016 Sheridan road, won the third prize of $2.

ST. GEORGE BAND TO BE EQUIPPED ANEW BY PARTY

Mothers Arrange Benefit to Buy Uniforms.

A set of new instruments and uniforms for St. George's High school band is the goal set for themselves by mothers organized in the high school auxiliary in planning a large card party to be held in the school, 350 Sherman avenue, Evanston, next Friday.

At a meeting of the party committee, headed by Mrs. Thomas M. Roche, 1725 Jarvis avenue, plans for the afternoon were definitely formulated.

Two thousand tickets have been printed and distributed and the gymnasium will be used to take care of the crowd expected to attend.

Assisting Mrs. Roche on the committee are: Mrs. F. Z. Dougher, in charge of tickets; Mrs. W. R. Mooney, patronesses; and Mrs. Albert Grossman, door prizes.

Others on the committee include: Mrs. D. C. Spier, Mrs. Harry Warner, Miss Frances Hulme, Mrs. John Morrissey, and Mrs. M. J. Stanton.

A part of the money derived from the party will go toward defraying the expenses of sending the band to Urbana for the state contest April 27. St. George's had won second in the city private and parochial school finals.

At the next general meeting of the auxiliary on May 20 officers for next year will be elected. Last year's list were all renominated and include: President, Brother J. Elzer, head of the school; vice president, Mrs. Spier; treasurer, Mrs. Grossman; and secretary, Mrs. Dougher.

CASH PAID FOR STORIES OF BARGAINS FOUND IN NEIGHBORHOOD STORES

The Tribune will pay $2 for each story of a best bargain obtained in a neighborhood store, printed in the Metropolitan section. Address Bargains, Metropolitan section, The Tribune. Make them short and snappy, writing on only one side of the paper, and print your name and address plainly.

A REAL BARGAIN.

Chicago, April 28.—Three years ago I bought a piece of woolen material which was greasy and soiled for 50c. After washing it looked like new and was made into a spring coat for a fifteen year old girl. She wore it two years and it has again been washed and remade into a coat for a three year boy. The coat still looks as good as new. I think this was my best bargain.

WHO SAID IT? When, Where and Why

THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each snappy quotation printed and $5 for the best answer. Send your answers and quotations to the Who Said It editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

WHO SAID:

1. What's the constitution between friends?—J. P. H., Naperville, Ill.

2. Much may be made of a Scotchman if he caught young?—Warren A. Brownlee, 125 Highwood avenue, Highwood, Ill.

3. Sir, I have learned to beat a retreat?—Jacob Fries, 1621 North Park avenue, Chicago.

(Answers to the above quotations will be printed two weeks from today. Answers to last week's quotations will appear next Sunday.)

ANSWERS

Following are answers to quotations previously published:

Quotation—I say, Judge, I believe they're giving you the bird.

Answer—This was said by Lord Louis Mountbatten, second cousin of King George V. of England, to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, former federal judge, during a baseball game at the New York Polo grounds on Oct. 5, 1922. It was the second game of the world series between the New York Giants and the New York Yankees.

At the end of the tenth inning, with the score 3 to 3, Umpire Hildebrand called the game on account of darkness, although to the fans it still seemed light enough to continue play. Baseball authorities agreed, however, that Hildebrand acted wisely. But the crowd evidently believed it was a move to prolong the series. Commissioner Landis was in no way responsible for the umpire's act but the crowd surged around his box, yelling epithets and jeers.

At this point Lord Mountbatten, who with his bride, the former Edwina Ashley, English heiress, was in the Landis box, made his famous remark: "My word, Judge, I believe they are giving you the bird," meaning "razz." Lord and Lady Mountbatten had just arrived in New York for a tour of America.

The Giants won the next three games and the series, four games to none.—E. E. W., Joliet, Ill.

Quotation—We shall attack at daylight tomorrow; I would fight them if they were a million.

Answer—Said by Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, Confederate commander in the west, on April 5, 1862, the evening before the first day of the battle of Shiloh in which he was killed. He was anxious to attack the Union army under Gen. Grant before Gen. Buell, who was marching from Nashville with 20,000 men to reinforce Grant, could arrive. — Rosemary Levering, 319 North Cross street, Wheaton, Ill.

NOTE—Gen. Johnston, graduate of West Point, veteran of the Mexican war and a former United States colonel, was killed on April 6 while directing a charge on the Union line at a point known as the Hornet's Nest. After Johnston's death Grant rallied his forces and on the second day of the fight regained the Union camps which had been captured by the Confederates on the first day. The battle, though bitterly fought, was considered indecisive as to result.

Quotation—My stockings want to see my mother.

EDGEWATER CLUB OFFICERS RESIGN AFTER MERGER

New Election Called to Equalize Power.

Officers and directors of the Edgewater Athletic club, recently merged with the North Shore Athletic club, have resigned to permit the election of a more representative official body, Charles A. Dean, executive secretary, announced yesterday. A meeting will be held tomorrow evening at the club house, Sherwin avenue and the lake, to selected three nominating committees of five members each, and a board of election commissioners of three members. Nominations of candidates for all offices are to be made within the next 10 days.

John J. Ready Jr., president of the club, has retired from the office, and Frederick I. MacNish has been selected as temporary president until the election is held later in the month. Mr. Dean, executive secretary, has also resigned, and his duties are being handled by Robert E. Owens, one of the attorneys for the club.

Other officers resigning are: Vice president, Lyman Stanton; treasurer, E. L. Read; and directors, Dr. J. M. Nicholson, J. A. Maloney, William Pinckley, Frank L. Webb, Dr. W. E. Hammond, Edward Olson, and Mr. MacNish.

Among the original members of the North Shore Athletic club are: Joseph A. Roeder, Hugh O. La Bounty, S. Wesley Palmer, Leo G. Hanna, Harvey M. Johnson, Otto A. Boheim, Clarence J. Dolan, W. Russell Samuel, Roy G. Hird, C. E. Schrage, Frank L. Wilson, John Gorby, and Walter Ahlschlager.

THIS MODEL HAS MANY A THRILL FOR ITS MAKERS

Looks and Acts Like Man Carrying Plane.

BY MERRILL HAMBURG.
[Secretary Airplane Model League of America.]

Remember when, in 1927, Eddie Schlee and William Brock flew the Atlantic, Europe and Asia to reach Tokio in record breaking time?

If you're a member of the Airplane Model League of America, you're pretty sure to remember it. And you'll also remember, likely, that the airplane used was a Stinson-Detroiter—the same ship described as a scale model in this paper recently.

Today I'm going to tell you how to build a flying Stinson-Detroiter—not a flying scale model, for the ship is somewhat modified in order to gain endurance in the air. The model is one of the neatest commercial jobs developed this year, and when properly built will fly sixty seconds or more.

The Job Takes Time.

Building the model takes time, but no greater skill than the construction of a good endurance plane. Before starting, be sure you've examined the drawing closely—know exactly what you're planning to do.

You may get materials needed to build the model in the special league kit, which will be sent you for $1.50 in money order or check sent to the supply department, A. M. L. A., American Boy building, Second and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich. Or you may be able to get materials separately.

Here's what you'll need: Two balsa leading edges, 5-16x5-16x12 inches; two flat balsa strips for small parts, 1-16x 1½x13 inches; fifteen M-6 balsa ribs; balsa motor stick, 5-32x¼x13½ inches; flat balsa for wheels and wing support, ⅛x1½x6 inches; balsa propeller block, ½x1½x3 inches; two strips of bamboo, 1-16x¼x12 inches; one thrust bearing; one rear hook, one propeller shaft, one S hook, two wing clips, eight hooks and eyelets, and two special fuselage nose clips, all of .020 music wire; two brass washers; two sheets of Japanese tissue, 21x31 inches; 2 drams of ambroid; 4 drams of banana oil; a rubber motor, ½x1-30x52 inches.

Wing of Built Up Type.

The wing is of the built up type—your manual tells you how to make it, Page 6. Follow the dimensions given in the diagram. The wing section is known as the M-6 airfoil, the same as that used on the larger plane. With this article you are given an exact size pattern for this wing—you may cut your ribs on this model from 1-32 inch balsa, or use the ready cut ribs in the league kit.

Assemble the two halves of the wing separately. Glue the ribs to the leading edge as shown in the detail drawing, then attach the trailing edge. Your kit furnishes special pieces of balsa for the leading edge; you cut the trailing edge from flat balsa making it ⅛ inch wide. Form the wing tips by gluing ribs, with their lower surfaces trimmed to a straight edge, to the two end ribs at right angles [see diagram]. You'll find that the kit furnishes 15 ribs, 13 for cross ribs and two for the tips.

Put Halves Together.

Now put the two halves together. Remember that you must give the wing dihedral angle; to do this glue the two halves in a flat V, with the ends 1¾ inches higher than the center. The ends of the leading and trailing edge spars are the points of contact—and don't forget the thirteenth or center rib. You can hold the two halves in place while the ambroid is drying by putting a block 2½ inches high under the tip of one wing, allowing the other to lie flat on your work table. When the ambroid is set, cover the wing with paper as directed in the manual.

Attach the wing clips to the center of the wing, being sure that they are glued to wood, not paper. Fasten four small eyelets to two of the cross ribs as the drawing shows, so that you may hook the wing struts to them.

Now, the Fuselage.

Now start on the fuselage. You'll make it in two sections, as the detail drawing marked "attachment of motor stick" indicates. The longer ones are made of 1-16 inch balsa and the crosspieces of balsa 1-32x1-16 inch, split from your flat pieces; you can get the dimensions of the various sections directly from the drawing.

See why it's a good idea to make the nose and the motor stick all in one piece, with the motor unconnected to the main body? In the first place, it's easy to replace the motor or make minor repairs; in the second the winding of the motor puts no twisting strain on the body. You attach the motor stick, which is 5-32x¼x13½ inches, to the nose by ambroiding it to the top of the small square opening at the front, and to two diagonal braces at the rear frame. The nose and the body are hooked together by means of two clips of .020 music wire, shown in the drawing. Ambroid is used, of course, to attach rear hook, thrust bearing, clips and other metal parts to the model.

Rudder of Bamboo.

To the top of the fuselage, in the opening forward above the windows, you glue the wing support—its upper edge is flush with the top of the fuselage frame. Make it of balsa, ⅛x 5-16x5½ inches.

Cover the fuselage and the nose with paper. Leave open the section just under the wing, so as to facilitate its adjustment. You may cover the windows with isinglass or some such glassy, lightweight material, if you wish—banana oil is the adhesive used. You can obtain the "window panes" from the wrapping of a package of candy!

The rudder and fin frame are formed from bamboo, split very thin and bent to shape. The diagram shows a balsa right angle on the combination fin and rudder; this is merely to indicate where the rudder would be hinged on the large plane. The two could be made separate and hinged with music wire, but this isn't advisable on a flying model. Better make them of one piece and set the whole fin at a slight angle, as shown in the top left drawing.

Elevators of Balsa.

Because the tail group must be very light—else the model will be tail heavy—the stabilizer and elevators are made with balsa frame. Bending balsa is a delicate job, but you can do it nicely by following instructions in the manual. If you don't care to do this, substitute thin bamboo. You will probably need additional weight on the nose to make up for it, but this can be taken care of later.

Follow the manual, page 7, for instructions as to how to carve your propeller. This model takes a tractor prop, with the center section cut away from the trailing edge.

The landing gear is made from bamboo split 1-16x1-8 inches. Bend your pieces to the shapes shown in the drawing, then split it to 1-16 inch square strips. The wheels are all balsa, 1-8x3-8 inches. They turn on very small .020 music wire axles ambroided to the landing gear, and are kept on by tiny stream-lined balsa hubs ambroided to the axles.

Wing May be Removed.

The four wing struts, or "lift struts," are of very thin balsa ⅛ inch wide. You'll have to suit their length to your ship—length varies on every job. The two front struts hook, as shown in the drawing, between wing ribs and landing gear, and the two rear struts between wing ribs and the lower edge of the fuselage. Thus the wing may be removed at will, or may be moved backward or forward along the wing support for flying adjustment.

Now you've done all the work, unless you want to color wing and wheel fairings [the sections inside the tires] orange, and landing gear and fuselage black, with an orange strip around the top of the fuselage. You can do this coloring either by dyeing paper before covering the model, or by painting it with banana oil and lightweight dyes after it is completed. You'll add weight by coloring it, of course.

Test Ship Carefully.

Put the rubber motor on the motor stick—knot the two ends and you'll have a motor of four strands. Test the ship very carefully. Adjust the wing forward or backward until you find the best position for gliding. If the plane insists on stalling, no matter how far back you put the wing, you'll need to add a little weight to the nose. Some boys do this by increasing the weight of the wheels; one I know ambroided two tiny wire brads to the front end of the motor stick.

When you've found the right adjustment, get ready for a pretty flight. For there's nothing in model work more satisfying than a slow, trim commercial ship in flight. This Stinson Detroiter will take the ship off the ground; it will fly sixty to ninety seconds [a flight of more than thirty seconds indoors or sixty seconds outdoors will win you an honor certificate]; and it will make a three point landing that would make Col. Lindbergh jealous!

More than that, it will be eligible for a special competition to be held at the Second National A. M. L. A. contests which the American Boy Magazine, co-sponsor with THE TRIBUNE of the league, will conduct in Detroit June 20-22. Watch this paper for details of this competition. It's a contest with an international angle.

MAY 14 DEADLINE SET FOR ENTRIES IN PLANE MEET

No. Side Boys Rush Work in Tribune Tourney.

With entries in the Model Airplane tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE closing on May 14, north side aspirants for the forty-eight medals and two trophies to be awarded are busy these days preparing planes so that they may be certified in time by their neighborhood school and playground officials.

Not many days are left for making entries, and the awards—including two trips to the national championship meet and back—are so worthwhile that the feverish activity of those boys who feel in their bones that they have ships under way that will win honors can easily be accounted for. All expenses of the two trips to the national meet will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Boys to Carry on in Camp.

Outdoor events of the meet will be held May 19 at Washington park. Indoor events will be held May 26 at the 132d Infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets.

A number of north side boys, enrolled to attend Camp Roosevelt at Mercer, Wis., this summer, have become so interested in model plane making that they have formed an aviation club for the purpose of carrying on their activities in camp.

Members of the club are Collier Leech, Theadore Fuchs, Robert Martineau, Austin Rust, Hubbard Rossiter, Allan Larson, Richard Hanson, Herbert Leech, Hayes Moore, Warren Hugelot, William Hambrook, Howard Black, Frank Stone, Robert Martin, and Arthur Keary.

Lane Tech Holds Show.

At the Larrabee Y. M. C. A., 1508 North Larrabee street, an aviation show was recently held, sponsored by Lane Technical High school. W. W. Shults, the boys' work secretary at the "Y," reports that the boys hope to have a series of Tuesday night meetings devoted to talks on aviation, with films and exhibits on the subject. Two airplane clubs have been organized at Senn High school, some ninety of the students taking an active interest in the making of model planes.

Who will be the winners in THE TRIBUNE contests? This is the question uppermost in the minds of the young mechanics. It won't be long now until decisions will be made. The important thing at hand is to make entries before May 14.

ALL RESIDENTS ASKED TO GIVE TO HOWARD CHURCH

An all citizen appeal for funds to complete the budget for 1929 is being made by the finance committee of the Howard Community church, 1405 Howard street. In addition to the campaign by the committee, a sales force of 30 boys, organized by Robert E. Ferguson, president of the Howard District Business association, is soliciting contributions.

W. O. Willison, treasurer, is chairman of the finance committee, which includes H. G. Shallenberger, J. J. Miller, James G. Turner, Paul Macurda, Clarence Willison, E. A. Stavrum, H. H. MacDonald, A. H. Hogan, H. P. McDonald, Ralph McKee, George H. McGaw, R. J. Demeree, H. F. McDermott, and A. L. Busse.

The Rev. Caradoc J. Morgan is completing his third year as pastor of the church. The attendance is the highest at present since the organization of the congregation, he said. More than 2,000 north side residents attended the services last month, and the Sunday school enrollment is now more than 200. A drive for additional Sunday school pupils is now being held under the direction of Howard Blodhett, director of education.

Albany Park Style Show.

A style show will feature the Reciprocity night program to be given May 13 by the young women's auxiliary of the Albany Park Woman's club. Rehearsals will start next week for the play to be presented in June.

THE REV. D. A. LORD TO BE SPEAKER AT LUNCHEON OF CLUB

THE REV. D. A. LORD.
[Strauss Photo.]

The Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., author, orator, and dramatic critic of the University of St. Louis, will be the speaker of the day at the annual Glenoja club luncheon on May 16. Father Lord is the author of "The Pageant of Youth" and "The Pageant of Peace," both of which have been given at Loyola university in the last two years, and the author of the Passion plays presented by the Loyola Community theater the last two years.

At the invitation of Cecil De Mille, the Rev. Father Lord helped direct the picture "King of Kings." As a youth, Father Lord lived in Oak Park.

The luncheon will be held at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Northcenter Lions Head Appoints Two Committees

The appointment of two new committees of the Northcenter Lions' club was announced yesterday by Harrow C. Witter, president. The nominating committee which will draw up the slate for the coming election is composed of Ald. John J. Hoellen, John O'Shea, A. C. Wiklund, J. A. Helbach, S. M. Beaumont, J. I. Evans, Fred Wermich, H. F. Friedman, and David Lilliborg. Mr. Lilliborg again has been appointed to head the committee in charge of the annual fall festival. He will be assisted by Joe Wolken, William Wolken, J. C. Krauspe, C. W. Wermich, E. E. Rockabrand, G. L. Rempas, Mr. O'Shea, G. W. Blomgren, C. E. Schick, Fred Wermich, Mr. Witter, Ald. Hoellen, and Mr. Wiklund.

Albany Park Social Center to Hold Dance This Evening

The Albany Park community center will hold its annual informal dance, an Indian pow-wow, this evening in the Dutch room of the Bismarck hotel. Samuel Deutsch is president of the organization.

HERE ARE RULES FOR THE TRIBUNE PLANE TOURNEY

Entries Must Be Certified by School or Park.

All contestants must have their planes ready for examination by the judges 15 minutes before the starting time of the contest.

Each plane must have been built by its flyer and each plane certified by a board of education or park system or public school official. The certification must be presented with the entry blank. Only metal parts of the planes can be purchased complete.

No contestant shall launch his model before receiving the launch signal from the official starter.

Each contestant will be allowed three official flights; the greatest elapsed time made in any of the three flights to score.

Interfered flight. If a plane hits some object before it alights on the ground floor and continues in flight or remains suspended, its flyer may, if he chooses, take an additional official flight as a substitute for this interfered flight.

All planes shall be driven by rubber strand motors only.

Winner of first place will be the builder and flyer of the plane which remains in flight the longest time and of second place the second longest elapsed time, and so on to sixth place.

Each contestant must prepare his plane for flight himself—that is, rigging, repairing, and winding up the motors.

Contestants shall be divided into two classes: Class A, those who are 15 years old or over, but under 21 years of age, on May 19; class B, those who are 14 years old or younger, on May 19.

In each event each contestant will not be allowed more than three unofficial flights.

EVENT I.

Indoor Duration Contest.

A. R. O. G. Duration—Planes shall be released under their own power from the floor and must rise from their own power.

B. Any flight under 10 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight.

C. Planes entered in this event may have a wing span of 40 inches or less; a hollow double surfaced wing; a hollow completely enclosed fuselage of cabin type or cockpit model; a landing chassis with wheels, and be generally in appearance like a real airplane.

D. Judging of duration of flight will be from the moment the model leaves the floor or ground to the time it first touches the ground or floor or passes out of sight of the attending officials, or is permanently stopped in its flight. [See interfered flight.]

EVENT II.

A. Planes entered in this event may have a distance between the propeller bearing and motor hook at the other end of the motor stick of fifteen inches or less. [For pusher-pullers this will be the distance from bearing to bearing.]

B. Launching will be by hand by merely releasing, not throwing.

C. Judging of duration shall be from the moment the plane leaves the hand to the time it first touches the floor or is permanently stopped in its flight, as by hanging on some object. See section on interfered flight.]

D. Any flight under 15 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight. Only three unofficial flights, that is, under 15 seconds, will be allowed.

EVENT III.

Outdoor Duration Events.

A. R. O. G. duration planes shall be released under their own power from a platform on the ground and must rise under their own power.

B. Any flight under 10 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight.

C. Same as C, Event I.

D. Judging of duration of flight will be from the moment the model leaves the platform on the ground to the time it first touches the ground or passes out of the sight of the attending officials or is permanently stopped in its flight. [See interfered flights.]

EVENT IV.

A. Planes entered in this event may have a wing span of 40 inches or less.

B. Launching will be by hand, merely releasing the plane, not throwing.

C. Same as D, Event I.

D. Same as B, Event I.

POINT SYSTEM.

The Olympic system of scoring will prevail. Ten points for first place, five for second, four for third, three for fourth, two for fifth, and one point for sixth place.

AWARDS.

Forty-eight medals, two trophies, and two trips to the national championship meet and back will be awarded the winners. The medals will be awarded to the winners of first, second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth places in each event in both senior and junior [A and B] classes. A trophy will be awarded the organization whose representatives earn the greatest number of points in class A division and another will be awarded the high point team in class B. The class A and class B contestants who earn the greatest number of points will receive the trip to the national meet, where all expenses will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Anthony J. Kopecky, 1856 South Troy street, and Miss Dorothy Stevenson of the Belmont hotel, will lead the grand march at the annual senior ball of the University of Notre Dame, to be held next Friday night at the Palais Royale, South Bend, Ind. Mr. Kopecky is president of the senior class. He is also active in the university glee club. Included on the program for the senior ball weekend at South Bend are a tea dance on Saturday, a baseball game between Notre Dame and Northwestern university on Saturday, and a breakfast on Sunday morning.

FUND SWELLING FOR SENN BAND'S TRIP TO DENVER

Wins Illinois Title; Hopes for National Trophy.

Several thousand dollars, the proceeds of the benefit dance Monday night at the Aragon ballroom, have been added to a fund which is being raised to send the Nicholas Senn High school state championship band to the national high school band contest May 23, 24 and 25 in Denver, Colo., it was announced yesterday. The 120 piece band, directed by Capt. A. R. Gish, now holds the city public high school and state championships, and friends and supporters of the organization predict that the musicians will bring the national trophy back to Chicago with them from the Denver contest.

Only Representative of Illinois.

The Senn band will be the only representative of Illinois at the national meet, Capt. Gish said. Urbana High school's band, which took second place in the state contest, is eligible to compete for the highest honor, but it is not planning to make the trip, he said.

Senn took second place in the national contest last year at Joliet, Ill., losing only to Joliet High school. This is the third consecutive year Senn has won the state contest.

The benefit dance, which is a part of a plan to raise $10,000 for the expenses of the trip to Denver, was sponsored by the Band Parents association. Mrs. E. L. Read, chairman of the ways and means committee, is in charge of the campaign for funds.

EVANSTON FACES LOSS OF COAST GUARD STATION

Removal to Wilmette Is Under Consideration.

Associated with Evanston's history since its incorporation as a city, the coast guard station at Clark street and the lake will probably be removed to Wilmette after reports from a commission appointed by Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard, commandant of coast guards, to investigate the situation, have been filed, it was stated yesterday.

Louis K. Gillson, president of the Wilmette park board, which has offered the station a site in Wilmette harbor provided minor legal difficulties can be settled, feels sure that the station will be awarded there.

"We are more centrally located in the district the station patrols," he said, "and can offer them facilities they lack in Evanston, notably calm water in which to launch their boats."

Yachtsmen Favor Move.

Yachtsmen of Wilmette and other towns farther along the shore also have asked that the station be transferred to Wilmette where it can better serve their needs.

The station crew itself is anxious to move. The recent high water has undermined the foundations and only temporary protection has been secured.

"In Wilmette," said Capt. Otto C. Fricke, commander, who has been with the Evanston crew since 1916, "we would have more and better equipment. The regulation lifeboat, weighing nine tons and drawing four feet of water, cannot be used here and in heavy seas the smaller boats cannot be launched. If Evanston wants the station it should built a harbor for it."

Site Offered Before.

The Wilmette location was suggested once before by the sanitary district at a time when the site was under its jurisdiction, but the offer was canceled before the government investigation was under way.

Evanston has taken no official recognition of the fact that it stands in danger of losing the coast guard. A group of representative citizens met last Tuesday night to discuss the situation, but no steps have been taken.

Officials of the board of local improvements say they can make no move toward building a harbor before the council acts on the question. And money for such a venture is lacking. Last year $8,800 was spent on building a pier which probably kept the station from being swept away.

Party Chairman

MRS. THOMAS JONES.

Our Lady of Lourdes Women's club will hold a spring luncheon and card party Thursday at the Webster hotel, 2150 Lincoln park west. Mrs. Thomas Jones is chairman of the party, assisted by Mrs. Homer J. Bailey. Mrs. John Holland is president of the club and Mrs. Francis O'Shaughnessy is secretary.

TWO WINDOWS ARE DEDICATED AS MEMORIALS

Two new memorial windows were dedicated at the services last Sunday morning at the Rogers Park Congregational church, 1545 Morse avenue. One of the windows, "Christ Blessing Little Children," was purchased through individual subscriptions of women of the church in memory of Mrs. Nellie Hawley Nichols, wife of the Rev. John Nichols, pastor of the church for 12 years. Mrs. Nichols died in 1927. The window was presented to the congregation by Mrs. William M. Shewry, chairman of the window committee.

The other window, "Christ Knocking at the Door," was given to the church in memory of Thomas G. Gage, who died in 1921, by members of his family. The window was presented by Norman A. Rollins.

Both windows were made in the studios of F. Zettler at Munich, Germany. W. K. Smith, chairman of the church council, received the windows in the name of the church. Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, pastor, spoke on "Unceasing Memory."

PLANS PARTY

Miss Gretchen Kretschmer.

The students of Marywood School for Girls, Evanston, are to give their annual card party at the Stevens hotel next Saturday. Miss Gretchen Kretschmer is general chairman. She is assisted by Miss Virgina Spoerl, president of the senior class; Miss Helen Smith, president of the Athletic association.

ARCADIA TERRACE BODY ENLARGES ITS TERRITORY

By the unanimous vote of members of the Arcadia Terrace Improvement association the territory bounded by Balmoral, Bryn Mawr, Lincoln and Western avenues has been admitted as a part of the Arcadia Terrace district. Residents in the section petitioned the association to admit them to the district and were accepted at the latest meeting, James N. Kearns, president of the organization, said.

As a result of the action, 40 more members have been added to the roster of the association. The Arcadia Terrace district now includes the area bounded by Western avenue on the east, Balmoral avenue on the south, Lincoln avenue on the west and Peterson road on the north.

Other officers of the association are: Vice president, Theodore Kruse; recording secretary, George W. Schmidt; financial secretary, Frank Adrian; treasurer, John Overbeck, and attorney, Harry Moran. Plans are now being made by the association for the May party to be held in the field house of Green Briar park, now under construction.

GOLF TOURNEY BEING PLANNED BY NAVAL POST

Event Will Be Held May Twenty-fourth.

Naval post, No. 372, of the American Legion, announces its members are ready to tee off at the post's first handicap golf tournament to be held on Friday, May 24, at the Mid-City golf course, Western avenue and Grace street. The tournament will begin promptly at 12:30 p. m., and the committee is desirous that participants be at the course on time. However, it will be possible to tee off at any time during the afternoon. The committee has also arranged for a dinner. On the committee of arrangements are Comrades H. H. Klein, Ambrose J. Bond Jr., Jack Dillon, P. J. Mitchell, H. J. Fanning, and G. C. Higgins.

Cook county council of American Legion auxiliaries will again participate in Hospital day, May 11, at the Edward Hines Jr. hospital. For the last three years members of the organization have acted as hostesses at the refreshment booth and will preside again in that capacity this year. Miss Dagmar Romer, who is rehabilitation chairman of the council, is in charge of the arrangements and is coöperating with William Wilson, who is acting as chairman of the Cook county council of the Legion.

Bell post, No. 242, will hold its regular meeting on Thursday, at 8:00 p. m., in the Bell forum, 311 West Washington street. At this meeting awards will be presented to the winners who participated in the flag contest held in the continuation school. Prizes will also be given to the winners in the membership contest conducted by Bell post. It will be an open meeting and all post members are requested to bring their friends. The drum and bugle corps is giving its first annual dance on the night of May 24 in the grand ballroom of the Hotel La Salle.

The first district will hold its first annual dance and May party at Hotel Sherman Saturday night. Robert E. Casey, commander of the first district, anticipates that the event will be one of the Legion's biggest, for the twenty-two posts in the district have arranged a program of entertainment that will bring headliners from leading Chicago theaters, the Kiltie band and Bell post's drum and bugle corps. A May queen will be honored, and "a wonderful time" is promised to all who attend.

Civil Service post No. 678 has planned an extra program for its regular meeting to be held at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night at the K. C. club rooms, 165 West Madison street.

The American Legion office, 160 North La Salle street, is trying to locate the relatives of Clarence H. Williams, a veteran who died at the Soldiers' hospital at Elgin last Nov. 27. His wife, Mrs. Addie Williams, 5108 South State street, died last Aug. 14. There is now payable to the estate of the soldier proceeds of adjusted compensation, and in order to secure the appointment of an administrator, it is necessary to reach some member of the family, so that a proper petition can be prepared.

Information has been received that there is a sister living in Indiana, no address given. Any one being able to supply any information in this case is asked to call the American Legion. Telephone Central 2183.

Lorado Taft will be the speaker tomorrow noon at the meeting of Advertising Men's post, No. 38, at the Hotel Sherman. The famous sculptor will take for his topic "War Memorials." Following the talk Polly Walker of "Billie" fame will appear on the program.

PROMOTES BENEFIT

Mrs. Thomas Frank McGee, 6826 Wayne avenue, is president of the St. Mary's Notre Dame club, which will give a benefit card party at the Edgewater Beach hotel Saturday.

RARE WINDOWS GIVE FAME TO ST. ITA'S CHURCH

6 Million Pieces of Glass Used in Them.

brant of the solemn high mass of dedication being the Rev. Patrick P. Bufflin; deacon, the Rev. William J. Lynch; subdeacon, the Rev. James O'Shea; master of ceremonies, the Rev. Andrew Croke. The Rev. Thomas Pope Hodnett preached the dedicatory sermon.

In the summer of 1904 the basement of the church was improved and intended to be used as a hall. Instead a school was opened there Sept. 6, 1904, the Sisters of Mercy of St. Xavier's academy being placed in charge.

Of the original fifty-three families which comprised the membership of the parish, the following with their families still reside in it: M. W. Hanley, James McManus, Jere J. O'Donnell, Frank Weeger, Ellis McDonald, Henry Hanson and the families of John Breen, John Buckley and William F. Quinlan.

The church has developed with the growth of the neighborhood until its membership now comprises about 700 families.

Ground was broken for the present St. Ita's church on April 7, 1924, and in May construction work was begun. The cornerstone was laid by Bishop M. F. Hoban, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, on Sunday, Sept 14, 1924. The cornerstone was brought from the ruins of St. Ita's monastery, Killeedy, Limerick, Ireland. The Very Reverend Hugh P. Smyth, LL.D., of St. Mary's church, Evanston, preached on that occasion.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Last Sunday the winning pictures in THE TRIBUNE'S spring picture contest for amateur photographers of the north side were printed in the south side Metropolitan section, while the north side sections showed the prize winners of the south side.

In last Sunday's Metropolitan section it was stated that the Rev. Michael Klawitter was pastor of St. Gregory's parish. Francis J. Klawitter is president of the Gregory club, but the Rev. Michael Klasen is pastor of the parish.

Northwest Side Children to Get Saturday Art Class

Upon the urging of several organizations and residents in the Albany park district, the Art institute has consented to furnish a student teacher to conduct, Saturday morning art classes for children in Albany Park and other communities of the north and northwest sides. The class is now being organized and will meet every Saturday morning in the fieldhouse of Kiwanis park, Christiana and Carmen avenues. The plan was sponsored by Arthur Beck, who arranged with the Albany park board, for the use of the fieldhouse.

Plan Circus in Church.

Plans are being made by the Trinity Luther league of Trinity Lutheran church, Barry and Seminary avenues, for a circus to be given on May 14 and 15. Clowns, animals and other features that compose a circus will provide the entertainment under the "big top" in the church buildin.

LOYOLA PLAYERS GIVE 'THANK YOU' THIS EVENING

The Sock and Buskin club of Loyola university will present its annual spring production, "Thank You," this evening in the Goodman Memorial theater. Charles Costello is director of the players appearing in the three act comedy, written by Winchell Smith and Tom Cushing. The play is to be repeated Thursday evening at the Sacred Heart church, 18th and May streets, and again next Sunday at Saint Augustine parish hall, 50th and Bishop streets.

Proceeds of tonight's performance will be added to the fund for the benefit of the Maria Della Strada chapel. Included in the cast are: Miss Virginia Barker, Miss Theresa Stocker, Miss Margaret Gill, Miss Alice Burns, Richard Ford, Timothy Connelly, Frank Calkins, Paul Lietz, Frank Arado, J. Francis Walsh, John Lenihan, James Hammond, Martin Stadler, Jerome Koslowski, and Frank Walsh.

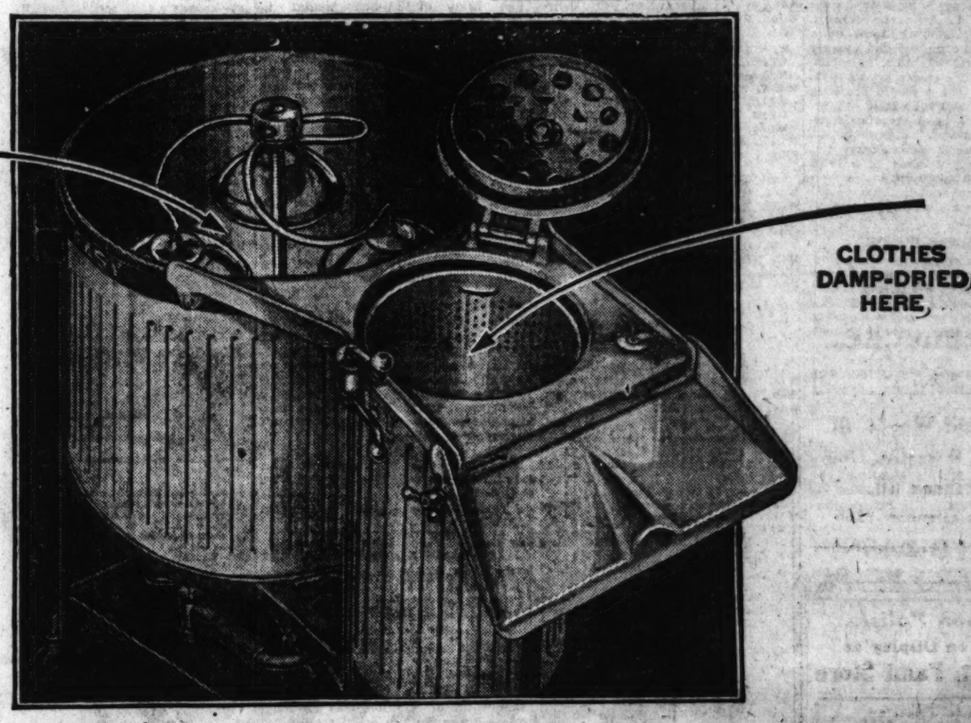
Why the EASY Damp-Dryer is replacing the wringer!



Women everywhere are instantly impressed by the safety and labor-saving features of the EASY Damp-Dryer. It damp-dries one batch of clothes at the same time another batch is being washed in the washing compartment.

Thousands are turning to this modern method of washing—to the no-wringer EASY, which is safer—faster—easier and gentler than the old-fashioned, obsolete wringer-type machine.

The EASY Damp-Dryer is an enclosed metal container which, instead of crushing the water out, whirls it out by centrifugal action.

Merely transfer the clothes from the washing compartment to the Damp-Dryer, drop the top into place and push a lever.

No more broken buttons

The clothes are damp-dried ready for sun-drying in less than two minutes. The whole tubful! And so thoroughly and evenly damp-dried, that in bad weather they can be line-dried indoors and ironed the same day.

Nor need they be handled further for rinsing. Leave them in the Damp-Dryer, pour in the rinse water, push the lever. The Damp-Dryer does the rest.

No broken buttons or fasteners. No torn, worn fabrics. No deep, hard-to-iron-out creases. This better process injures nothing yet damp-dries everything, even to blankets, pillows, sweaters, overalls and other bulky pieces which will not go through a wringer.

EASY washes 10 pounds of clothes at a time as compared with the 6-pound average capacity of other type washers.

The gas heater under the tub is an extra convenience that keeps the water hot. When through, the EASY pumps itself dry into the drain or sink.

No more torn clothes

There are still EASY Washers with wringers. EASY wringers have every known safeguard. But no wringer-type washer—even our own—can compare with the no-wringer EASY. A demonstration will prove it.

SOUSA FALLS AT LAST FOR THE LURE OF RADIO

Famous Band Goes on Air Tomorrow Night.

John Philip Sousa is going on the air. After holding out for seven years against broadcasting his world-famous band, he will make his radio debut in the family party tomorrow night from W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel.

Although Mr. Sousa has played to more people than any other director in the history of band music, appearing once before a single audience of 150,000 people at the International Exposition in Glasgow, America's grand old march king tomorrow night will probably have one of the biggest audiences which ever listened to one musical offering.

39 Stations in Chain.

Thirty-nine broadcasting stations will be linked together for Mr. Sousa's radio premiere and they will extend from coast to coast and from Canada to the gulf. Practically speaking, it will be possible for everybody in the United States to hear the concert. Because of Mr. Sousa's fame as a bandmaster and composer and because of the universal affection in which he is held by the people of America, it is expected that a record breaking radio audience will tune in.

"Until now I have steadfastly refused to broadcast," explained Mr. Sousa, "because I have always felt that part of my success as a band leader has been somthing in my personality. I have thought that people wanted to see me and my band as well as hear us.

Can't Ignore Demand.

"I cannot, however, ignore the demand to hear us on the air. I have received at least 10,000 letters asking me to broadcast. I have, therefore, finally concluded that the people want to hear us and that it would be foolish to fail to utilize this great, modern invention which makes it posible for millions instead of a few thousand to listen to a concert. I am happy in the decision and am looking forward with enthusiasm to what I believe will be another thrilling adventure."

Many of the country's favorite selections composed by the famous former leader of the Marine band will be played Monday evening, including his ever popular "Stars and Stripes Forever," "El Capitan," etc.

RADIO TO CARRY HOOVER'S VOICE MEMORIAL DAY

President Hoover's Memorial day message will be broadcast to the entire nation as he speaks at the Arlington amphitheater beside the tomb of the unknown soldier of the world war.

The entire proceedings of the solemn memorial service by the Grand Army of the Republic in the historic Virginia bowl will be heard through the combined networks of the N. B. C. from 3 to 5 p. m. Chicago time, on Memorial day, May 30.

With President Hoover as principal speaker the ceremonies will include the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address by Capt. John M. Kline, selections by the U. S. marine band, talks by Senator Porter H. Dale of Vermont, and Dr. Thomas E. Green of the Loyal Legion, presentation of colors, and the reading of Gen. Logan's order establishing Memorial day.

"There Is No Death," the song traditionally associated with Memorial services in towns and hamlets throughout the nation will be sung by Jeanett McCaffrey, accompanied by the marine band, Hosea B. Moulton, past commander of the G. A. R. will preside.

HIGH SCHOOLS PREPARING FOR ART EXHIBITION

For the first time in twelve years there will be an exhibit of the art work of Chicago high school and college students. The Art institute has been coöperating with the board of education, with the result that the exhibition will be held in the institute from May 24 to June 5. Those in charge of the exhibit hope to make it an annual affair.

Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of schools, and Miss Johanna Doniat, art instructor at Senn High school, are head of the committee sponsoring the exhibit.

North side art teachers who are planning to display the work of their pupils are: Miss Doniat, Miss Frances Beem, Miss Nell Devine, Miss Gertrude Hatch, and Miss Vivian McWhinnie of Senn; Miss Margaret McPherson, Miss Mable McCreedy, Miss Julia O'Brien, and Miss Elinor Ross of Roosevelt; Stacy Philbrick, Miss Caroline Pierce, and Miss Esther Roeth of Lake View, and Royal Jurgensen of Lane Technical.

Temple Shoiom Sisterhood Names Officers Tomorrow

At the annual meeting of the Temple Sholom Sisterhood, to be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the Belden-Stratford hotel, 2300 Lincoln Park west, officers will be elected and installed. Mrs. Isadore Kaplan will present a program of songs. Mrs. S. Weil, 945 Edgecomb place, is president of the organiaztion.

SAINT JOAN BROADCAST.

"Saint Joan," by George Bernard Shaw, was broadcast from London recently. The play was divided into two parts on account of its length and the broadcast of each part occupied approximately two hours on subsequent evenings.

RADIO AIDS CITY AND FARM LEARN EACH'S PROBLEMS

Is Great Help in Mutual Understanding.

WASHINGTON,—(AP)—Bringing the same information and entertainment to farm and city dweller alike, radio has won recognition as a powerful factor in spanning the gulf which divided the farmer and the townsman.

Broadcasting has been very effective in promoting better understanding and coöperation between the city and the country on questions of political and ecomonic interest, according to O. M. Kile, agricultural economist.

Poor Understanding.

"It has been a lamentable fact that the city has had a poor understanding of the country and the country a poor understanding of the city," Mr. Kile said. "This has led to many complications in a legislative way and otherwise which I think the radio has been quite instrumental in straightening out.

"One of the reasons for this is that agricultural speakers have tried to present their views in a broad way with the result that the city listeners cannot help hearing interesting facts about farm life and its problems. On the other hand, the viewpoints of the city are presented in an intimate way by the radio to the people of the country."

City Folks Like Programs.

The director of a radio station that specializes in farm broadcasts says that radio is so important to the farmer that "agriculture should have not only one clear channel but possibly a dozen clear channels to carry on the necessary work in that field."

Old folk songs and barn dance music broadcast by this station primarily for its rural audience have been very popular with city listeners, he says.

"I have thought that perhaps we ought to soft pedal these barn dances because we might be getting in wrong with the commission or the public, but the people want them and we can't abandon them," he said.

"City people enjoy them as well as farm listeners. On the first four Saturday nights of the year that we played the barn dances we received 500 telegrams each night. They came from the cities."

50TH WARD TOPS NORTH SIDE IN JANUARY BIRTHS

More babies were born in the 50th ward last January than in any other north side ward, according to figures compiled by officials of the health department last week. The rate in north side wards as a whole was as usual much lower than in other sections of the city.

The stork made 80 visits to the 50th ward, or 11.68 trips per 10,000 population. The 49th ward was next with 57 births for a rate of 8.10 per 10,000, and the 44th ward was third with 39 births, or 7.87 per 10,000. The 42d ward had both the least number of births and the lowest rate. Twenty-five babies were born there, the rate being 4.61 per 10,000.

The number of births in the other north side wards was as follows: 43d, 44; 45th, 40; 46th, 35; 47th, 40; 48th, 29.

NORTH CENTER LANDLORD BODY IS ORGANIZED

For the purpose of giving advice and assisting landowners in problems concerning leases, collections, taxes, assessments, and warrants, the North-center Landlords' association has been organized. The association will be made up of property owners in the north center district, who upon the payment of a small annual membership fee will receive advice and service free of charge.

The association will be managed by M. M. Ball and S. W. Hollander and offices have been established at 2016 Irving Park boulevard. Mr. Ball is a member of the Northcenter Lions' club and was formerly associated with the Lake View Landlords' association.

A membership drive will be the first effort, they said. By increasing the membership the principals and scope of the association will be furthered, they added.

. . . And what's more, besides, and in addition, your favorite columnist has written an Opera! R. H. L. is expected to be in good voice for the first radio performance of his opera. He and Gaston du Moulin, director of the W-G-N Symphony Orchestra, have swiped Mark Love's position as opera producer for W-G-N for the evening. And it's a grand Grand Opera. No fooling. Besides, R. H. L. will discard the mask of Wagner for that of Conrad. He has a rousing sea story ready for tonight. Curtain: 10:15.

Jean Goldkette

Way out in front in the race for supremacy in dance music is Jean Goldkette. Not satisfied with the most esoteric of arrangements; not satisfied with the largest of radio dance bands he employs his genius for selecting the best musicians to the fullest. Each of his men knows the "feel" of the New Music. Bill Herring, master of the trombone, paints that warm purple background for the melodies of Goldkette, reminding one of the backgrounds of Remhrandt. Paul Mertz is the pianist. Bright, cool, moonbeam-like chords cause conversation to hesitate before the loud speaker. Jean Goldkette: 10:05, 10:45, 11:35.

RADIO WILL AID IN OBSERVANCE OF MUSIC WEEK

Many American Works to Be Broadcast.

Native American music and classical works of all nations will receive fresh impetus in America when radio plays a leading rôle in this year's observance of National Music Week which begins today and runs until Saturday.

Nation-wide networks of the National broadcasting company will feature throughout the week special presentations emphasizing works of American composers, and displaying musical masterpieces in new settings for the further edification of potential music-lovers in the United States.

The week-long campaign of the National Music Week committee to gain new converts to the cause of great music will have the full support of radio's far-reaching networks, and the death will honor the occasion with elaborate features calculated to eclipse all previous ventures of a kindred nature.

First Concert Tonight.

Radio will sound the signal which officially opens National Music Week tonight when a whole constellation of operatic, concert and radio stars participate in a gala broadcast of the Atwater Kent concert.

To be heard in the Music Week inaugural through NBC associate stations including W-G-N, the Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel are Marie Kurenko, soprano; Nina Morgana, soprano; Louise Homer, contralto; Tuscha Seidel, violinist; Kathryn Meisle, contralto; Arthur Hackett, tenor; Reinald Werrenrath, baritone; Alan McQuhae, tenor; William Simmons, baritone; Agnes Davis and Hazel Arth, soprano prize-winners of national Atwater Kent auditions; a male quartet and a full symphony orchestra under the direction of Josef Pasternack.

On Monday night, Victor Herbert's Indian opera "Natoma" will be broadcast by the National Grand Opera company with an all-American cast, while on Tuesday the famous Flonzaley Quartet will be on the air playing Dvorak's "American String Quartet" or a similar work by some American composer. Nicholas Longworth is scheduled to speak in the same program.

American Princess to Sing.

A real American princess who is also a vocal artist will be heard Thursday night, when Princess Atalie and Chief White Horn feature music of the American Indian as the program of the National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau. Geoffrey O'Hara, modern composer and songwriter, will officiate as master of ceremonies.

Deems Taylor's musical setting for the famous ballad of Alfred Noyes, "The Highwayman," will be presented Saturday night, and Walter Damrosch will open his symphony concert with an American composer's work, "Virginia" by Robert Braine.

"Songs of Our American Colleges" and a 15-piece brass band will rival campus serenades of universities and colleges throughout the country on Saturday night, and the weekly Hymn Sing, Thursday, will feature exclusively religious songs by American hymn-composers.

London Hears Germany Is Using Radio Heating

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—News reaches London to the effect that heating by wireless is already an established fact in Germany, where experimental installations are operating successfully. The minor details of a system that is still apparently being kept in the dark state that strong waves two or three meters long are used to excite filaments enclosed in vacuum tubes, which thus become electric radiators.

Silver Anniversary Celebrated by Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Max Jentzsch, 2159 Palmer avenue, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary recently. Among the guests were their four daughters, Miss Margaret and Miss Erna Jentzsch, Mrs. Max Modes, Mrs. Otto Stock, and their five children. Mr. Jentzsch is 51 and his wife is 50 years old.

Cross Word Answer

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

Often we have wished that radio had been with us back on the Fourth of July, 1910, for the broadcasting of the famous Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson championship fight at Reno, Nev. Jeffries, you will recall, had retired from the ring undefeated heavyweight boxing champion of the world. Out from the scrambling mob of claimants there rose a dominating figure, Jack Johnson, the colored boxer of Chicago, who was heralded by some as the new champion. So, after six years of leisure, Jim Jeffries was called from his retirement. Imagine you are listening to the radio on that eventful holiday:

ANNOUNCER—Ladies and gentlemen, this is W-G-N, broadcasting from the fight arena at Reno, Nev. Well, it's come at last, the most important Fourth of July since 1776, and again we're broadcasting a championship prize fight from the state of Nevada, which Billy Muldoon this afternoon called the last free state in the Union.

Can you hear that mob? There are 15,000 souls crowded into this great unpainted and crude wooden arena, and baking under a scorching sun. Fifteen thousand men have trooped across the continent and streamed in from the Pacific coast in private cars and sidedoor Pullmans, through the stifling heat and a smother of dust, through the bleak, powder dry sagebrush hills into this smiling valley where Reno nestles. See, there, the mountains look cool, but O, how hot it is in this big saucer!

In a minute or two the most talked of fight in history will commence between the colored man and the white son of a California minister. The sentiment among the bettors, as you know, favors Jeffries at 10 to 6.

The mill was scheduled to start at 1:30, and it is now an hour late, due to the parade of the celebrities, the taking of three sets of motion pictures, and because the crowd was slow in coming through the narrow entrances. Billy Muldoon showed his theatrical instinct by introducing "Tex" Rickard, whose gameness and persistency brought this all about, and who in addition to being the promoter will also referee the fight. Billy called for three cheers for the man who has breasted a deluge of hysterical opposition and cleared obstacles that would defeat a man not possessed of a nerve of iron and a heart of gold. Then followed what may pass into history as the last roll call of the has-beens, the prize ring idols of other days. [GONG!]

There's the gong, and the seconds, and handlers and rubbers fling themselves from their corners. The fight of the century is on!

Jack and Jim are both advancing slowly to the center of the ring. The big colored boy is grinning widely, and we can see those two fine rows of ivories. Wonder if he'll be missing any when the day's done. Jeff's grinning too. They didn't shake hands. Here they go! Jeff made a bluff with his left for a lead, but Johnson side stepped him. They certainly are cautious! Johnson feints, looking for an opening. Jeff does the same. Won't be anything doing this round! Each of them is trying to see what the other one's got. Johnson led a short left, and he barely touched Jeff's mouth, and now they're clinching in a big friendly way like two bears. Break! Lots of jabs, now, but they don't mean anything. They're standing up there now, trying for short inside blows. Both men are guarding well. Clinch again! Come on, break it up, Tex! Huh! As they broke that time Jeff sent one at Jack's neck, and Jack stepped in, but he missed a short jab. Clinch again! Jack lands a left, but with no effect. [GONG!]

Well, there's the end of the first round! Pretty tame beginning for the battle of battles, this Armageddon the promoters and sports writers having been promising us. There wasn't anything done in that round to convince us that a fight is going on. Both men look in the cream of condition, and Jeff let loose a great big wink when he came to his corner. Now they're seated in their corners, and Jim Corbett is bending over Jeffries whispering in his ear. Wonder what he's telling him? Jeffries' seconds have a great big sunshade that they're holding over the big fellow to keep the sun off his back and head. Jack over there is laughing and grinning. [GONG!]

Round two! Come on, now, let's go! The colored boy's got rid of that grin in a hurry and he's come up to scratch looking mighty serious. Jeff crouches down on his haunches. Huuhhh! Hah! Hah! Hah! Jeff tried to sneak a left over, but Johnson blocked it and they're both grinning and laughing like a pair of kids. Upp! There's a sock! Jack slapped one on Jeff's jaw, a nice punch that he brought up from his waist, but it didn't seem to hurt. There! Jeff tries a pair of lefts, but Jack's got his guard in the right spot. Now they're trying little short arm jabs. Come on—come on! What a fight! What a fight! Jeff snapped a left to Johnson's stomach, but he got a left on the face in return. There's a little clinch, and now they're away again. Come on, Jeff, bore in! Jeff is crouching in the middle of the ring. Jack won't come in. They're shuffling up now, and—there! Jack missed an uppercut that time! Clinch! Come on; let's fight!

(Interlude—The voice of our announcer and the roars of the excited thousands fade for a time, but the fight goes on. Into the eighth round, into the ninth, into the tenth, with the giant colored man growing stronger and more confident with each passing moment. The undefeated champion is beginning to feel the sting of defeat for the first time. Is this the proud fighting machine that a few years ago mowed down the marvelous Bob Fitzsimmons and whipped Jim Corbett, this great thewed white man whose body is slowly crumbling before blow after blow? Is this Jim Jeffries, the invulnerable, going down to defeat? The crowd sits there watching, tense, anxious.

Into the eleventh, into the twelfth round. Jeffries is faltering; he cannot go much longer. Or can he win with that same sledge hammer punch that licked Fitzsimmons when all hope seemed lost? Does that hairy body still shield the same youthful vigor that sent challenger after challenger into the dust of defeat? Into the thirteenth round!) [GONG!]

Round thirteen! There comes Jeff driving in again. He's got his right arm up over his face and he is driving in on Johnson. He walked right into a clinch. Come on, Tex! Break 'em apart! Ooohh! Huuuhhh! when they broke that time, Johnson hurled a left at Jeff's body, drove in a right uppercut that made the Californian's head wobble. Now Johnson's tearing into him! Johnson drove another pair of lefts to Jeff's face and dazed the big boy with a nasty uppercut, a right-hander. It had lots of steam behind it. Jeff looks a little groggy. There he goes! Johnson put his right hand on Jeff's shoulder and sent home three smashing lefts and—Wow!—There's another one. Jack got him on the chin with another uppercut. Jeff's all in, now. He can't even move around! These rapid fire blows are leaving him dazed! He's standing there now, Jack is driving home punch after punch, waiting for the final opening! O, Jeff is game all right! He's taking them all, and he's still on his feet! Now they've gone into a clinch! Wow! Biff! What a load of punches Jeff is taking now. His eyes are almost closed! They're clinching again! It looks like it's almost over! Jeff can't go much further now. (GONG!)

No question about it, now. It's Johnson's fight sooner or later, unless Jeff manages to sneak in a lucky punch. The crowd, scenting the kill, is growing restless for the knockout. Jeff isn't the man we saw beat Bob Fitzsimmons years ago. He should never have come out of his retirement. The old punch is all gone, and it is only his wonderful gameness that is keeping him in the fight. He can't get through Jack Johnson's defense; the colored man is probably the most wonderful defensive fighter our boxing rings have ever seen. He's gone through thirteen gruelling rounds with Jeff and there's hardly a mark on him He's——(GONG!)

They're clinching now! Come on, break 'em up! Jack tapped the big fellow twice on the face with his left. Jeff has his head down like a mad bull and is trying to bore in, but Johnson's wonderful defense is right there! Break 'em up! Biff! Jeff tried to bore in again, and the big black man drove three straight lefts at his face. Ummphhh! There's another left to the face! Jeff can't do a thing! Every punch he plans is knocked off by Johnson, who continues to drive straight lefts to Jeff's bleeding face and those swollen eyes. They clinch again! Jeff hanging on! Will he last out the round? Break away! Look out! Oooohh! Jeff caught three more lefts on that bleeding cheek of his. Jack tosses those lefts out like baseballs. Jeffries is hanging on again. "They don't hurt!" he hollers at Johnson! Clinch again! Break! (GONG!)

It looks worse for Jeff every minute. He can't stand the pace much longer. He can't hit Johnson, and the colored fighter is hitting him almost at will. A question of time, that's all it is now! And Oh! how hot this sun is! Those seconds of Jeff's are working feverishly over him, but I'm afraid they can't do much for him anymore. It may come in the next round! Jack is puffing and blowing, but he's still comparatively fresh. Jeff's taken everything he's got to give and he's still on his feet, but the better condition of Johnson is going to tell in the end. Now—[GONG!]

Round fifteen! Yep, it's all over now. Jeff can't get after Jack fast enough to catch him. He's getting wobbly, and he can't see the big fellow any more! His face is all puffed and bleeding from the lashing he's received. Johnson's standing still, now, and waiting—waiting. Now Jeff comes in and—OH! OH! Jack sent another brace of lefts straight to Jeff's face, and the blood spurts out afresh! Jeff's getting groggy, but he's game! He's reeling into a clinch, and tries to land a left on the body! They're breaking away—oh! oh!—As they split, Jack, quick as a flash sent another crushing left and an awful right straight for Jeff's jaw. The Californian's head snapped back like his neck is broken. He's staggering to the ropes! HE CAN'T DEFEND HIMSELF. Johnson's tearing in like a tiger now, and ranging blows on the big boy and Jeff stares dazedly at the figure in front of him! It's almost over! It's coming! Jeff is reeling about along the ropes! Only the gameness of him is holding him up! Jack is watching him like a cat and driving in right—left—right-left—right. Jeff is down! Jeffries in on the mat. He's on the canvas for the first time in his life. He's hanging onto the ropes! He's dazed! Jim Jeffries is being counted out! Four—five—six—seven—eight—No, the big fellow is getting back on his feet!

That's Jeffries, the gamest fellow that ever entered a ring! But he can't go on! STOP IT TEX, STOP IT! Johnson's in again with another volley of blows. Jeff is trying to clinch, but Johnson steps back and comes in again with more left and rights. Jeff is swaying all over the ring. There it is! Two rights on the jaw! Jeff is on his knees! He's all in! Stop it, Tex, stop it! Five—six—seven—eight—nine—Jeff's on his feet again—but Johnson's there waiting for him. Left—right—left on the chin. Jeff is down again for the third time! He's sprawled over the ropes half outside the ring! Jeff! Jeff! Jeff! Three—four—five—six—seven. It's all over!

OUR LADY ORGAN CALLED FINEST IN ALL AMERICA

Church Draws 10,000 to Masses.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

Fame of the great organ at Our Lady of Sorrows' church, Jackson boulevard at Albany avenue, has not diminished during the quarter of a century since its maker, E. J. Bennett of Moline, Ill., heard it for the first time, pronounced it his masterpiece.

THE REV. JEROME MULHERIN.

Ten thousand persons attend the eleven masses held every Sunday at the church. Every Sunday since May, 1926, there has been a broadcast of solemn high mass. There are countless occasions when noted organists from far corners of the world visit Our Lady of Sorrows' church that they may touch the keys and bring forth a flood of wondrous music from what is called "the finest toned organ in America."

Increased interest on the part of critics has come recently due to an incident that has been brought to light concerning the visit to these shores 30 years ago of the famous English organ builder, Willis. As he was about to depart for home, Mr. Willis was asked pointedly which of all the organs he had heard in America he liked best. He replied that it was the one he had heard in Our Lady of Sorrows' church, Chicago. The answer did not please the questioners, who exacted a promise from the visitor not to repeat the statement. Knowledge of the verdict, however, finally made known, has added to the keenness of visitors of fine musical appreciation.

Dedicated by Clarence Eddy.

When the new church was dedicated in 1902, only one part of the organ—that in the east transept balcony—had been completed. Work on the great and solo organ in the west balcony was rapidly pushed so that on Easter Sunday of the same year the solemn dedication of the new and completed organ took place with Clarence Eddy, world famous organist, at the keys.

The Very Rev. Austin Morini, O. S. M., returning from Rome to attend the dedication, was rewarded by beholding the glorious temple rendered possible by his untiring pioneer labors—the edifice that had taken the place of the little old brick church on the prairie which he had built with self-sacrificing effort.

When in June, 1874, the parish was established, Father Morini had reasoned that since the city authorities had laid out Central park [now Garfield] and Douglas park, the section was bound to develop, although at that time no car line extended farther west than Western avenue, and he was pastor of what was called "the little church on the prairie."

Father Morini was closely allied to the progress and development of the Servite order in America. Born in Italy, he had entered the order when only 18 years old. For a time, in 1870, Father Morini and his associates were in charge of a congregation at Manitoba, Wis. Later, with the permission of the bishop and the assistance of Father Venturi, he set about the formation of the parish on Chicago's west side.

Opened Christmas Eve, 1875.

In 1875, on Christmas eve, the new church was thrown open to the faithful, and Father Morini was pastor until 1885. Going to Rome to attend the general chapter of the Servite order, Father Morini was chosen one of the general consultors, which office necessitated his remaining in the Eternal City. He continued in this office until his death.

The founder of Our Lady of Sorrows church is recalled as a man of heroic cast, distinguished for his learning, his ability as a lecturer, and for his intense religious zeal. He was an authority on Florentine history, and particularly of the period of Savonarola.

The first mass in the new parish was said in the house of Thomas McMahon, 2642 Madison street. The fol-

G. G. HEURLIN WINS SPECIAL EMBLEM FOR WORK IN AUSTIN 'Y'

G. G. Heurlin, who is engaged in the real estate business at 5745 West Chicago avenue, has been awarded a special emblem for service rendered to the Austin department of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. The emblem was sent to him through the national headquarters of the Y. M. C. A. for signing up fifty men to membership of the Austin Y. M. C. A. in the recent membership drive. Mr. Heurlin's record in the drive surpassed that of any other members. Mr. Heurlin was a charter member of the Austin branch of the organization and his two sons are charter members of the boys' department.

Woman's Club of Elmhurst Ends Season

Under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Avery, another year of achievement has been added to the history of the Elmhurst Woman's club. The club was founded in 1914 by a group of 50 women, and today has a membership of 350 and a waiting list of 13.

The civics department has a well established infant welfare station, open Thursday of each week from 9 a. m. to 12 m., in the library building. One thousand babies have been given attention in 52 weeks, besides a dental clinic held in the public schools, when 1,625 children were examined. In philanthropic interests material assistance has been given to a number of charities and to the maintenance of the ex-service men in Elgin.

The home and education department conducted once a month community study classes, under the direction of George Letts, superintendent of the York Community High school. The home committee held a cooking school demonstration in the community house on the afternoons of May 1, 2, and 3. The art committee held a spring poster contest in the public schools and prints were awarded the prize winners.

The Choral club, an affiliated group, has made four appearances in concert. The Garden club has aided in the celebration of the nationally observed Arbor day by encouraging the planting of more elm trees along the streets of Elmhurst.

At the annual election Mrs. Avery was reelected president, Mrs. Harry Kerley second vice president, and Mrs. Clarence East recording secretary. Mrs. Ervin Wilson became first vice president, Mrs. Roy De Shane corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Matthew Thronycroft Jr. treasurer.

To join either the senior or the junior society a student must have an E average and be a leader in some activity. The four standards of the society are scholarship, leadership, character and service. Frank L. Morse is principal of the school.

HARRISON BRANCH STUDENTS FORM THREE NEW CLUBS

The branch of Harrison High school located at Rockwell and 25th streets has three new clubs, the Harrison Civic, the Civic Circle and the All Around club.

The officers of the Harrison Civic club are: President, Sydney Jarol; vice president, Miss Olive Barnicle; secretary, Norman Goldberg, and treasurer, Miss Bessie Rootberg. There are 38 members.

The Civic Circle club is governed by the following officers: President, Miss Lorraine Ziervogel; vice president, Jean Jelon; secretary, Edmund Bulat, and treasurer, Joseph Mzaz. The membership numbers 32.

Officers of the All Around club are as follows: President, Miss Laura Magrini; vice president, Miss Helen Begner; secretary, Miss Suzabel Miner, and treasurer, Anton Turek. There are 34 members in this organization. The sponsor for the three clubs is Miss Mary Fitzpatrick.

FORESTERS PLAN CELEBRATION OF 46TH BIRTHDAY

Plans for celebrating the 46th anniversary of the Catholic Order of Foresters Friday, May 17, are being made under the direction of Thomas R. Heaney, state chief ranger and vice president of the Garfield State bank. The order was founded forty-six years ago by a group of men in the West Madison district and has since grown to be a national organization with branches in twenty-eight states.

The celebration will be held at the Hotel Sherman. The ladies' auxiliary of the Illinois chapter will assist in arranging the affair. Women on the committee are: Mrs. Michael Donohue and Mrs. Leo Georgen, representing the west town women; Mrs. Thomas McCarthy and J. T. Fuchs of the south town group; and Mrs. J. Tone Scanlon and Mrs. William Haefliger of north town.

Other assistants of Mr. Heaney are S. J. Brosseau, John F. Speiz, Joseph T. Hrody, and Peter M. Kelly.

Debate Fraternity Group Formed at Crane College

Seven members of the Crane Junior college debating team were inducted into Phi Ro Pi, national debating society, recently. By becoming members of the society the debaters gave Crane a charter unit in the association. For entrance into the organization, which had its beginning at the Grand Rapids Junior college, participation and victory in two intercollegiate debates is necessary. The Crane debaters who have become members are Irwin Kaplan, Jacob Stagman, J. Jerome Kaplan, Samuel D. Neidorf, Edward A. Izen, Sol Pearlman, and Martin Schneid.

ROSARY GIRLS DANCE IN CELEBRATION OF FEAST DAY

Girls of Rosary college, River Forest, presented a dancing festival Tuesday in celebration of the feast day of St. Catherine of Siena. The picture shows girls who took part in dances of foreign lands. Sigma Phi sorority will hold its first informal dance next Friday at Columbus Park refectory. Miss Marie M. Kanne, president of the group, is in charge of arrangements assisted by Miss Mary O'Melia, secretary; Miss Mary C. O'Shea, treasurer; Miss Lillian C. Hahn, Miss Sally Ann McGee, Miss Marie P. Nary, Miss Laurette B O'Regan, Miss Claryce E. Sanders, and Miss Helen M. Wand.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs Anent the Passing Throng.

BY FRED PASLEY.

THE firemen's dance at Leyden Community High school was well attended and the fiddling excellent, the grownups quadrilling, square dancing and waltzing till they were clean tuckered out, we glean. Our young people black bottomed.

* *

John Sardeson of the 8-A grade, Whittier school, Oak Park, has a letter from Mrs. Svenson of the British Solomon isles, stating how happy the people there were when they heard of President Hoover's election.

* *

Grandpa Johnson of Logan Square is wearing a broad smile, the reason being a boy, which arrived at the home of his youngest daughter, Evelyn [Mrs. Hendry].

CHARLEY ROTH of the board of underwriters reports that Donald Peterson, returning from Champaign, encountered Charley Gage—both being of our town—with his car stalled on the Dixie highway. Charley had removed all the bolts, nuts, wires and sparkplugs and put them back again without avail. "Don't tell anybody," whispered Donald after a brief examination, "but you're out of gas."

* *

Robert Teeter Jr., young Bob, son of our Berwyn leader, is now playing the chimes every Sunday morning in the tower of the old library building at the University of Illinois, where he is a student. Bob will make a name for himself in the musical world, say all who know him. His father is a gifted whistler.

* *

THE Quadrangle Lions, who invariably do the right thing at the right time, have assumed the initiative to provide raincoats for every safety patrol boy in the district by pledging $160. The district is bounded by Central Park, Armitage, Central avenues, and Addison street. The sum includes the patrols of all schools, parochial and public.

* *

FRED McKINNEY'S bike was stolen from in the rear of his home at 1133 North Keystone avenue and Fred is pretty much cut up as he had ridden it 8,000 miles, through the U. S., Canada and Mexico. It is a Pathfinder and had recently been equipped with new tires, mud guards, saddle, pedals, sprockets, etc. Let our police department demonstrate its efficiency by speedily recovering Fred's bike.

Howard Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Pierce of 5522 Iowa street, and his friend, Carl Oftedahl of 7.6 Menard street, are enjoying the delights of batching at Earl's summer cottage on the Fox river, near Cary, and we hear they are well armed with can openers.

Carl Glick of the well known Lawrence avenue music house is sporting a new Studebaker brougham and combining business with pleasure by demonstrating radio sets in the home. We are glad to welcome Carl's customers to the W-G-N family.

* *

EDWARD H. STULLKEN, principal of the Goethe elementary school, is in southern California, busily engaged studying juvenile delinquency in Hollywood.

* *

Mrs. George D. Anderson, who, with her husband, has been laboring as a missionary in East Africa for five years, is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. V. Swenson, 6500 North California avenue. She says the African women folks have no reducing or diet problems, as their husbands see to it they have plenty of work to keep them slender as well as retain that schoolgirl complexion.

George Nohren, the new superintendent of the Jefferson Park postoffice, was most agreeably surprised last Sunday when the neighbors visited his home for an impromptu party and brought their own refreshments. These included a big cake with the inscription, "Superintendent Jefferson Park Postoffice."

Busy on Festival

Miss Helene Andersen is supervising arrangements for the community song festival to be held next Sunday afternoon at Kelvyn park, Kostner and Wrightwood avenues, under the auspices of the northwest park district.

Maywood Boy Scouts Form Drum, Bugle Corps

The first Boy Scout drum and bugle corps in Maywood has been organized through the cooperation of the corps of the Chicago Board of Trade post of the American Legion. Members of the corps are being instructed by August Henning, member of the Board of Trade post, and by Scoutmaster Fred Eartsch. At a recent meeting Dr. Walter Lovejoy supervised a public demonstration of bandaging by scouts.

BOYS BUILD MODEL PLANES FOR TRIBUNE TOURNAMENT

Boys of Franklin park, 14th and 15th streets, Kolin and Tripp avenues, are busy building model airplanes to be entered in The Tribune tournament, entries for which will close May 14. Left to right: Joseph Bernik, Abe Kadnec, Charles Rakouska, Marvin Camras, Carl Coffill, and George Smith, playground director. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Celebrate Day of Saint with Dancing Fete

College day was observed at Rosary college, River Forest, last Tuesday. Each year on April 30, the feast day of St. Catherine of Siena, the students celebrate with special festivities. A physical education demonstration was presented Tuesday morning with a banquet in the evening. The day's observances began with a high mass at 8:30 o'clock.

Dances peculiar to various countries featured the demonstration. For England there was a "Catherine Peascod"; for Scotland a "Highland Fling"; for Sweden a "Frykadals Polka"; for France a "Pavlova Gavotte"; for Germany a "Hopping Dance"; for Hungary a "Chebogar"; for Russia a "Cerdetschni."

The girls participating included Miss Mary Lucia Hutchinson, Miss Martha Gene Halloran, Miss Margaret Madigan, Miss Mary Dana, Miss Dorothy Reiner, Miss Helen Corrigan, Miss Catherine Becker, Miss Miriam Corrigan, Miss Monica Esser, Miss Eileen Keefe and Miss Marie Fountain. The demonstration was under the direction of Miss Mary Jean Dowiatt.

The toastmaster at the banquet was the Rev. William P. McIntyde, O. P. Toasts were given by Miss Mary Agnes Gorman, Miss Ann Sweeney, Miss Mary Gallagher, Miss Elizabeth Lloyd, Miss Mary L. Thometz and Miss Olive Mazurek.

The faculty and students of the college were hostesses yesterday afternoon to teachers and girl students of Catholic high schools and academies in Chicago. The Grex guild, dramatic society of the college, presented Totheroh's Chinense farce, "The Stolen Prince." Members of the cast included Miss Margaret Esser, Miss Elizabeth Munn, Miss Marjorie Smoyer, Miss Margaret Crowley, Miss Margaret Dana, Miss Renis Mundstock, Miss Catherine Becker, Miss Martha Jane Dickinson, Miss Virginia Belle Gardiner and Miss Evelyn Schweitzer.

OAK PARK GIRLS WRITE STORIES FOR MOTHERS

The members of Story club of Oak Park and River Forest Township High school entertained their mothers at a meeting Thursday.

Seven of the girls presented their own writings. These girls and their contributions to the program were: Miss Laura Gage, "My Kingdom;" Miss Marjorie Schutt, "The Chimes of St. Cecil;" Miss Bernice Hein, "The Twenty-fourth Cream Puff;" Miss Elizabeth Snell read two poems; Miss Elsie Jane Simmons argued on the subject "Can Two Live as Cheaply as One?" Miss Carol Hemingway's contribution was two poems, and Miss Jane Thalman wrote on "In the Book Department."

The room was especially decorated and every mother was given a favor. The committees were as follows:

Invitations: Miss Elizabeth Snell, Miss Mary Louise Bowen, and Miss Elizabeth Sampson.

Program: Miss Ruth Brennan, Miss Betty Luff, Miss Mary Louise Albaugh, Miss Jean Seymour, Miss Marjorie Stolzenburg, Miss Marion Dodge, Miss Lorena Thompson, Miss Helen McKinley, Miss Barbara Harris, and Miss Cecile Loewy.

Refreshments and decorations: Miss Elanora Pfeffer, Miss Eleanor Reid, Miss Lenore Scharschug, Miss Virginia Meyers, Miss Mildred Baumrucker, Miss Avis Downey, and Miss Dorothy Badenoch.

The 1928-'29 officers are: President, Miss Ruth Rau; vice president, Miss Alice Rose Dedouch; secretary, Miss Elsie Jane Simmons; treasurer, Miss Jane Tahlman; quarter mistress, Miss Elanora Pfeffer; librarian, Miss Ruth Brennan, and sergeant-at-arms, Miss Carol Hemingway.

CALL HEARINGS ON THREE BIG SEWER LINES

Paving Projects Up Next Friday, Too.

A public hearing on fourteen west side improvements will be held by the board of local improvements in the city council chambers next Friday morning. Property owners who would be assessed to pay for these improvements were notified last Friday to appear.

Friday's session, which will be the second large hearing this spring, will dispose of virtually all west side projects the board desires to have approved at the present time, according to board officials.

The most important projects to be taken up at the hearing are three sewer systems; one for the near west side, and two for outlying sections of the northwest territory.

2,566,000 Monroe System.

The Monroe street sewer system, proposed to serve the district between Peoria and Leavitt street and Harrison and Madison streets, will be under consideration. Engineers of the board have estimated that this project will cost $2,566,000. It is planned to replace old sewers in certain streets and generally to enlarge the system in that district, according to C. D. Hill, engineer.

The Addison Heights sewer, for which plans were recently completed, will also be up for hearing. This system is planned to serve the newly annexed territory northwest now entirely without sewerage. More than 9,000 residents of this section are in need of sanitary sewerage, Mr. Hill said yesterday.

The third sewer system, the Devon avenue system, is planned to serve another newly annexed section at the north end of the 41st ward.

A fourth stretch of sewerage is desired in Sunnyside avenue between Long and Central avenues.

These Paving Jobs Proposed.

The board seeks to pave the following streets:

A system including a stretch on Major avenue between Newport and Belmont avenues; and sections of Melrose, Henderson and Roscoe streets between Central and Menard avenues.

Barry avenue between Narragansett avenue and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway tracks.

Linder avenue between Belmont avenue and Addison street.

Keystone avenue between Avondale avenue and Grace street.

Grace street between Richmond streets and Keeler avenue.

Peterson avenue between Menard and Nagle avenues.

Lawrence avenue between Austin and Narragansett avenues.

Approval will be sought the opening of Leland avenue between Austin and Narragansett avenues, and of an alley in the block bounded by Cornelia, Lavergne, Newport, and Laramie avenues.

Property owners on Central avenue between Gettysburg avenue and a point 167 feet north of this street will be asked to approve the laying of a water supply pipe in this block.

GLENBARD HIGH ANNOUNCES NINE ALL-A STUDENTS

The complete list of super-honor roll students at Glenbard High school, Glen Ellyn, was recently announced at the school. To gain a place on the super-honor roll a student must have a grade of A in all subjects. The honor roll students rank below those on the super-honor roll.

Nine students are on the super-honor roll, Miss Lucille Myers, Miss Rose Zvedelik, William Day, Miss Dorothy Lewis, Miss Helen Sjoblom, Miss Geraldine Benthey, David Clark, Douglas Eadie, Herbert Mueller, Miss Marion Wozencraft, and Miss Mabel Craig.

There are 68 girls and 27 boys on the honor roll.

Marshall Benefit Dance.

A dance was given last Friday night at the Douglas Park refectory under the auspices of the "M" club of Marshall High school for the benefit of the $150 semi-annual scholarship awarded by the club to the best athlete at the school.

SPRING FESTIVAL GIVEN BY STUDENTS OF PROVISO HIGH

The music department of Proviso Township High school presented its ninth annual spring festival concert last Friday evening in the school auditorium. More than 70 students took part in the various numbers on the program.

R. LEE OSBURN.

R. Lee Osburn, head of the music department and organizer of the National High school chorus which sang in Chicago last year, was in charge, assisted by Wallace Nelson, instructor in stringed instruments.

Groups participating in the concert were the junior orchestra and the regular orchestra, Girls' Glee club, freshman chorus, and the high school chorus. Soloists in the cantata, "The Village Blacksmith," included Miss Ruth Dennen, soprano; Richard Daniels, tenor; Hortense Peters, pianist, and Florence I. Otis, organist.

CALLS ELEVATED ROAD ONLY WAY TO SAFE DRIVING

Pedestrian and Motorist in Constant Conflict.

Satisfying the demands of motorists for speed and at the same time complying with the requests of pedestrians for safety is keeping west park officials in a constant turmoil, Capt. William Stocker of the west park police force said yesterday.

"It is impossible to solve the problem with the present traffic system," Capt. Stocker said. "The only way I know to protect pedestrians and maintain rapid traffic is by grade separation. This can be obtained by running the through traffic over an elevated roadway.

"Pleas of motorists for rapid movement cannot be heeded if stop and go signals are installed to guard pedestrians at the crossings.

More Lights for Safety.

"On the other hand, if crossings are to be made safe for pedestrians, more signal lights must be installed, with a consequent slowing up of motorists and traffic congestion. Since it is the belief of the west park commissioners that the pedestrian comes first, the lights must continue to be installed if funds are available to pay for them.

"On Washington boulevard of the 76 crossings between Canal street and Austin boulevard, signal lights have been installed at 26. There are 94 lights in use on all westpark crossings, and requests are constantly being made for more.

"I recently received a plea from William T. Born, principal of the Columbus school, for lights at Augusta boulevard and Leavitt street. Another came from the Checker Cab company for lights at Jackson boulevard and Loomis street, and a third from Mrs. F. E. Irrman for Jackson boulevard and Keeler avenue.

Scores of Protests Received.

"Lights installed last month at Washington boulevard and Karlov, Keeler, and Kildare avenues, at the request of local civic groups, schools, and churches, have already aroused scores of protests from motorists, and if those requested are installed more protests will follow.

"Attempts to have both signal lights for the protection of pedestrians and cross traffic, and rapid movement on the boulevards have failed.

"Motorists wanted synchronization of lights at successive corners, but this soon proved unsatisfactory. A progressive system is now being demanded, but that too will be of little avail, since motorists traveling at a different speed from that at which the lights are set will be delayed anyway. Furthermore, to install a progressive system would be extremely costly and cannot be guaranteed to work perfectly.

"If the lights were an absolute safeguard for the pedestrian and guarantee against accidents between automobiles, at least one thing would be accomplished by their installation, but, strange to say, that is not the case. Statistics compiled by the board for 1928 show there are proportionately more accidents at crossings protected by signal lights than at crossings where there are none."

URGE "L" LINES LINKING NORTH AND WEST SIDES

The Wicker Park chamber of commerce, 1558 Milwaukee avenue, will hold a general meeting for its members Wednesday, according to an announcement of the president, Dr. N. Ginsburg.

Several proposed improvements of interest to residents of the northwest side are now being considered by the chamber. One of these is the suggested extension of the elevated lines connecting the north side with the northwest side. Proponents of this plan advocate building a line from Halsted street and North avenue to Damen avenue on the Logan square branch. Another suggestion is to run tracks parallel to Damen avenue from the Ravenswood branch to the Lake street line.

The chamber has recently mailed about 150,000 copies of a circular outlining the benefits of Wicker Park to people all over the country. Meetings of the chamber are held every Wednesday in the Noel Bank building. The secretary of the organization is Robert B. Albrecht.

"The Real American Girl" Given by Wheaton Pupils

"The Real 'American Girl'" was staged recently by children of St. Michael's school, Wheaton. Taking part were the following: Bernadette Muench, Grace Perrin, Robert Host, Marie Dieter, Evelyn Schmitt, Lorena Martin, Violet Kuhn, Edith Sullivan, Gertrude Lederma, Elizabeth Poppelreiter, Betty Uhlrich, Ruth Fortman, Elizabeth Ruch, Eleanor Willis, Jeanette Dall, Mary Hoffman, and Ruth Kees. During the intermissions music was provided by the Oriole orchestra, consisting of the following: Edna Binder, Genevieve Stark, Leona Binger, Alfons Sawitoski, Arthur Karstens, and Paul Poppelreiter.

VOICE of the WEST SIDE

LIKES TO READ OF FRIENDS.

Chicago, May 3.—I have followed the Metropolitan section as long as it has been in existence and have derived great pleasure from it. No other Chicago newspaper offers to its readers the privilege of seeing their own and their neighbors' daily activities described in print, thus satisfying a desire which is possessed by most people. The school activities have been of much interest to me because of the fact that I have only recently left Schurz High, and because several of my friends have received mention. JACK BERNDT.

A picture of the swans in a lagoon at Lords park, Elgin, won the first prize of $5 in The Tribune's spring picture contest for amateur photographers of the west side this week for Mrs. Ada Miller, 314 East Chicago street, Elgin. The second prize of $3 was awarded to August Sollick, 418 Blanchan avenue, Congress Park, for a picture of Mrs. Sollick, made in La Grange. Mrs. E. C. Baer, 1418 North Menard avenue, won the third prize of $2 with "A Pause in Their Play," showing Gordon and Russell Baer.

WHO SAID IT? When, Where and Why

THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each snappy quotation printed and $5 for the best answer. Send your answers and quotations to the Who Said It editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

WHO SAID:

1. What's the constitution between friends?—J. P. H., Naperville, Ill.

2. Much may be made of a Scotchman if he be caught young?—Warren A. Brownlee, 125 Highwood avenue, Highwood, Ill.

3. Sir, I have learned to beat a retreat?—Jacob Fries, 1621 North Park avenue, Chicago.

(Answers to the above quotations will be printed two weeks from today. Answers to last week's quotations will appear next Sunday.)

ANSWERS

Following are answers to quotations previously published:

Quotation—I say, Judge, I believe they're giving you the bird.

Answer—This was said by Lord Louis Mountbatten, second cousin of King George V. of England, to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, former federal judge, during a baseball game at the New York Polo grounds on Oct. 5, 1922. It was the second game of the world series between the New York Giants and the New York Yankees.

At the end of the tenth inning, with the score 3 to 3, Umpire Hildebrand called the game on account of darkness, although to the fans it still seemed light enough to continue play. Baseball authorities agreed, however, that Hildebrand acted wisely. But the crowd evidently believed it was a move to prolong the series. Commissioner Landis was in no way responsible for the umpire's act but the crowd surged around his box, yelling epithets and jeers.

At this point Lord Mountbatten, who with his bride, the former Edwina Ashley, English heiress, was in the Landis box, made his famous remark: "My word, Judge, I believe they are giving you the bird," meaning "razz." Lord and Lady Mountbatten had just arrived in New York for a tour of America.

The Giants won the next three games and the series, four games to none.—E. E. W., Joliet, Ill.

Quotation—We shall attack at daylight tomorrow; I would fight them if they were a million.

Answer—Said by Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, Confederate commander in the west, on April 5, 1862, the evening before the first day of the battle of Shiloh in which he was killed. He was anxious to attack the Union army under Gen. Grant before Gen. Buell, who was marching from Nashville with 20,000 men to reinforce Grant, could arrive. — Rosemary Levering, 319 North Cross street, Wheaton, Ill.

Quotation—My stockings want to see my mother.

PHYSICIAN FINDS NEW 'WORK CURE' FOR CONSUMPTION

LEYSIN, Switzerland.—(AP)—The noted tuberculosis specialist, Dr. Rollier of Leysin, has successfully demonstrated manual labor as a means of combating tuberculosis, even in its chirurgical forms.

It was his solicitude for poor sufferers supported by their hard working families or charitable institutions which led Dr. Rollier to experiment with his "manual labor cure."

"The first experiments of the labor cure, strictly individual and medically controlled," said Dr. Rollier, "soon yielded the results we expected. As soon as the patient affected by a chirurgical form of tuebrculosis, emerging from the state of apathy into which he is sunk, pluckily takes to work, the necessary cooperation of brain and muscles restores to the worker his self respect and sense of usefulness. Moreover, even small earnings contribute to relieve his anxiety of being a burden to his family and bring new confidence and the hope that heals.

OUR LADY ORGAN CALLED FINEST IN ALL AMERICA

0,000 Attend Church's Masses Each Sunday.

ing Sunday the holy sacrifice was ed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. nes. The fathers rented the home e Spillanes, which was located on northeast corner of Jackson boule- and California avenue.

Bricks Given by Bishop.

n 1874 the building of a combined rch and house was started, the Rev. Bishop Foley donating the ks used in the building of the rch. The work of completing this rch was not accomplished without t troubles and privations. The t baptism in the church was that Helen Durkin. The first to be mar- in the church were Frank Mc- ll and Catherine Hartnett.

n 1888 Father Morini appointed her Venturi as his successor to . Father Venturi fulfilled his k for about a year, during which he constructed the parochial ol. On account of failing health was obliged to return to Italy and soon after reaching his native d. Father McCann succeeded him. Father Hugh Crevier succeeded r McCann and continued in office til 1901. In that year, Father Cre- r was appointed first provincial the American province, and Father M. Quigley succeeded him as pas- . In 1905 Father Sheehan suc- ded to the pastorate. In 1906 Father gley replaced Father Sheehan as tor. He held the office until 1908 en he was followed by Father gley.

Guard Cadets Organized.

It was Father McCann who founded organization which brought con- rable fame to the boys and young s of the parish—the St. Joseph's rd cadets. It took part in many blic events of the day and, at ncher's grove in 1889, it won the mpionship in a competitive drill. ong the members of this organiza- n was the present pastor—the Rev. ome Mulherin, O. S. M.

Father Mulherin, who is the only rish born and raised in the parish, s installed as pastor in 1927. His thplace was 1148 Jackson boulevard number), now in the 2600 block. ther Mulherin was baptized by ther Morini, founder of the parish. attended the parochial school in parish, served as altar boy in the church, made his first communion d was confirmed in the church, and g his first mass in Our Lady of rrows church.

Late in the '50s the little church, ce surrounded by prairie, was begin- ing to find itself in the midst of rapidly increasing population. The building became far too small to ac- commodate the faithful who crowded to it every Sunday.

New Edifice Started in 1890.

Ground was broken for the new edi- ce in 1890 and in September of that ar Archbishop Feehan, in the pres- ce of 5,000 people, laid the corner- one. TRAFFIC PASSES OUTSIDE; RIVER AREA SLUMBERS

Lack of Through Lanes Blamed for Inactivity

That part of the west side between Western avenue and the river can be changed from a "frozen area" to a lively business district only by the development of a system of through streets cutting this territory north and south and connecting it with the north and south sides, Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe told members of the West Town chamber of commerce recently.

Guy Cramer, executive secretary of the West Central association, said yesterday that he is heartily in favor of making north and south streets in the district available for through highway traffic. Property values would be increased if such streets as Halsted street and Western and Ashland avenues were widened and made into connecting arteries with the north and south sides, he added.

Property Values Static.

Property values in the district have remained unchanged for some time, Mr. Cramer said, and his group has been working for years to obtain the completion of these streets as widened thoroughfares.

Commissioner Wolfe went even further to say that the absence of north and south through streets has kept the district dormant for 50 years as far as property values are concerned. Almost all the west traffic arteries lead into the loop, he pointed out, and while this condition continues development will not come.

Prosperous business centers, he said, grow up all over the city on streets running perpendicular to arteries leading to the loop. As examples he cited 79th street, 63d street, Wilson avenue, Lawrence avenue and Crawford avenue at Madison street.

Similar to the near west side is the south side area between 18th and 47th streets and Halsted and State streets, he said. The absence of cross town streets there as on the near west side has kept the district from growing.

Urged by South Side Leader.

H. H. Haylett, managing vice president of the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce, declared yesterday that the establishment of cross town streets in this section would undoubtedly prove a boon to property there. Streets which would connect this section with the southwest side and with the west side north of the river are extremely desirable, he said, and by facilitating communication would certainly help the district to prosper.

"The cause of the lack of growth is the absence of highway transportation between outlying sections," Commissioner Wolfe told members of the West Town chamber, "and not between the various outlying sections and the loop.

"To solve the problem we must bring the 1,400,000 people on the south side in close contact with the 1,500,000 people on the west side.

"There is something extraordinary in the lack of development in the near west and south sides, particularly in the midst of such growth as Chicago has seen in recent years."

THE CHUCKLE COLUMN

High school students, send in your best laughs to the Chuckle Editor of The Tribune. Two dollars will be paid for each jingle, joke, or verse printed in the Metropolitan section. Address your contributions to the Chuckle Editor, Metropolitan section, The Tribune. Write on one side of the paper only and print your name and address plainly.

Modern mother—Jack, your teacher tells me that you have been a very naughty boy. Now go right over to the vibrator and give yourself a good shaking.

DON JONES,
804 North Taylor avenue, Oak Park.

History prof—State your opinion of civilization.

Young cynic—Think it's a great idea. Somebody ought to try it.

L. SIKORSKI,
2945 Milwaukee avenue.

Mother—Willie, the minister's wife told me that she saw you shooting craps. That is very wicked, my dear. They have as much right to live as you have.

MAY G. RUFF,
2941 Kilbourn avenue.

Bill—I say, old man, can you let me have five——

Will—No——

Bill—minutes of your time?

Will—trouble at all, old scout.

JESSIE J. HANKS,
2602 Orchard street.

Lady of the House—Do you want a meal badly enough to work for it?

Tramp—I'm just hungry, mum, not desperate.

JOHN KARNER,
1511 Melrose street.

Tim—Officer! Officer! Gee, come quick. A man has been beatin' the stuffins outa my dad for the last fifteen minutes.

Officer—Why didn't you call me sooner, son?

Tim—'Cause dad was gettin' the best of him just a few minutes ago.

JOHN STEFANSKI,
1705 West Cullerton street.

Senior—I have something on that girl.

Soph.—Yeah, what?

Senior—My frat pin.

DICK WALL,
7737 South Throop street.

Eloquent customs officer—You should be ashamed of yourself, trying to to smuggle in that European liquor. Have you no patriotism? Don't you want to see our home industries protected?

FLORENCE KOENTZ,
744 South Kedvale avenue.

First Neighbor—What do you think I made eighteen holes in yesterday?

Second Neighbor—About twice.

First Neighbor—Twice what?

Second Neighbor — Twice what you're going to tell me.

ROSEMARY McMAHON,
2955 Congress street.

Maryann [after Sunday school]—I wonder why they sing "Amen" and not "Awomen," Bobby.

Bobby—I guess it's because they sing "hims" and not "hers."

MARIE OSWALD,
4455 South Troy street.

Mistress—Clematis, I think I smell something burning. Did you turn off the electricity, as I told you, when you finished the ironing?

Clematis—Yes'm, ah did. Sho' ah did, jes like yo' tol me. Ah pulled de chain once and den ah pulled it again to make sure.

DOROTHY BORGESON,
7733 South Carpenter street.

Excited Wife—There's a burglar at the silver and another in the pantry eating my pies. Call for help!

Husband (at the window)—Police! Doctor!

VICTORIA SENDZIK,
4712 South Crawford avenue.

Angry Father—A car! Of course you can't have a car. You'd be absolutely helpless if you found yourself with a flat tire.

Modern Daughter—O, no, I wouldn't, daddy. I've given flat tires the air before.

FRANK DELFER,
10210 Yale avenue.

Teacher—What are you crying about, Willie?

Weeping Willie—I broke my tooth.

Teacher—How did you do that?

Willie—Shifting gears on a lollypop.

JAMES DANIELS,
2021 Shields avenue.

Any girl can be gay in a new coupe,
In a taxi they all can be jolly—
But the girl worth while is the girl who can smile
When you bring her home in a trolley.

CHARLOTTE MILLER,
6721 Justine street.

Judge—Why did you steal the pig?

Defendant—It was only a joke, your honor.

Judge—The plaintiff states that you took it three miles away.

Defendant—Yes, your honor.

Judge—That was carrying the joke too far—$10 and costs.

His family is just as dear to him

The driver who gives you De Luxe service goes home to his family at the end of the day's work even as you and I.

For he is a responsible business man with a financial interest in the car he operates.

He is courteous because courtesy in business pays.

He is obliging and helpful because that is the way to make customers and keep them.

He is careful of your safety and his own, because his family is just as dear to him as yours is to you.

He offers you a pleasant, clean, safe means of transportation—De Luxe service—and charges you no more than you would pay for ordinary service.

Your own private car—your own private driver could not offer you more.

A single ride in a De Luxe will convince you.

The telephone number is easy to remember.

LAWNDALE VETS READY FOR 10TH BIRTHDAY PARTY

Banquet and Reunion Set for Next Saturday.

Lawndale-Crawford post, No. 98, of the American Legion, reports everything all set for its tenth anniversary banquet and reunion to be held at the Graemere hotel, Washington boulevard and North Homan avenue, Saturday night. The purpose of the banquet, it is announced, is to give members an opportunity to get together for a solid evening of pleasure—a chance to get acquainted, particularly those members whose business does not permit them to attend meetings regularly. Supper will be served at 10 p. m. It will be strictly a legion affair for present, past, and prospective members. There will be a number of distinguished guests.

Austin post, No. 52, has issued an open letter "to a patient and generous public" in which the members declare their stand concerning legion participation in partisan politics and also express their thoughts concerning the political activity of ex-service men, especially so-called ex-service men's committees.

One paragraph of the letter reads: "There is but one need in our opinion, for the use of ex-service men's committees or groups. Only when ex-service men have a direct and incontestable interest in public affairs can such groups rightfully be used. Obviously, ex-service men can have little interest in city or county elections except in their rôle as citizens. In state and national affairs where they are directly concerned, however, as with legislation concerning military and naval matters, hospitalization, or national defense, ex-service men are able to express themselves through their responsible national organizations, such as the Grand Army of the Republic, the United Spanish-American War Veterans, the American Legion and others; hence we fell that the use of local committees is not justified."

Commander Tom McEvoy has appointed C. J. Boleyn, 120 South Humphrey avenue, Oak Park, as Poppy day chairman for Marine post, No. 273. Mr. Boleyn is anxious to hear from all the women who assisted Marine post in past years on Poppy day. The post will be host to its members and friends tomorrow evening, at the Garrick theater, when it presents its annual benefit performance. The regular meeting of the post will be held as usual on the third Monday of the month, at the Auditorium hotel. Capt. A. J. McKenna, war time flier, will be the guest speaker, talking on "Flying the Air Mail Today."

Chicago Elevated post, No. 134, recent winner of the American Legion certificate of meritorious service, continues to set a fast pace in the 1929 membership drive. The latest report given out by Commander George R. Apfel shows that 693 veterans have been enrolled in "L" post this year. This is almost a 200 per cent increase over 1928. This record will be celebrated on Tuesday night with an open house in room 1933 Edison building, at which the wives and friends of "L" post members will be guests. An illustrated talk on "Chicago's Achievements in 1928" will be a feature of the program, which also will include several acts by professional entertainers and dancing.

Cook county council of American Legion auxiliaries will again participate in Hospital day, May 11, at the Edward Hines Jr. hospital. For the last three years members of the organization have acted as hostesses at the refreshment booth and will preside again in that capacity this year. Miss Dagmar Romer, who is rehabilitation chairman of the council, is in charge of the arrangements and is cooperating with William Wilson, who is acting as chairman of the Cook county council of the Legion.

The first district will hold its first annual dance and May party at Hotel Sherman Saturday night. Robert E. Casey, commander of the first district, anticipates that the event will be one of the Legion's biggest, for the twenty-two posts in the district have arranged a program of entertainment that will bring headliners from leading Chicago theaters, the Kiltie band and Bell post's drum and bugle corps. A May queen will be honored, and "a wonderful time" is promised to all who attend.

Lorado Taft will be the speaker tomorrow noon at the meeting of Advertising Men's post, No. 38, at the Hotel Sherman. The famous sculptor will take for his topic "War Memorials." Following the talk Polly Walker of "Billie" fame will appear on the program.

The American Legion office, 160 North La Salle street, is trying to locate the relatives of Clarence H. Williams, a veteran who died at the Soldiers' hospital at Elgin last Nov. 27. His wife, Mrs. Addie Williams, 5108 South State street, died last Aug. 14. There is now payable to the estate of the soldier proceeds of adjusted compensation, and in order to secure the appointment of an administrator, it is necessary to reach some member of the family, so that a proper petition can be prepared.

Information has been received that there is a sister living in Indiana, no address given. Any one being able to supply any information in this case is asked to call the American Legion, Telephone Central 2183.

Bell post, No. 242, will hold its regular meeting on Thursday, at 8:00 p. m., in the Bell forum, 311 West Washington street. At this meeting awards will be presented to the winners who participated in the flag contest held in the continuation school. Prizes will also be given to the winners in the membership contest conducted by Bell post. It will be an open meeting and all post members are requested to bring their friends. The drum and bugle corps is giving its first annual dance on the night of May 24 in the grand ballroom of the Hotel La Salle.

HONEYMOONERS FOR 50 YEARS

In company with their three children, five grandchildren and one great-grandchild, Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Schneider celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary yesterday at their home in Arlington Heights. They were married in Germany May 4, 1879, and came to America on their honeymoon. Most of their married life has been spent in Chicago, for the last ten years in Arlington Heights. Mr. Schneider is 84 years old and Mrs. Schneider, 77. [Anderson, Elmhurst, Photo.]

MADISON-KEDZIE BUSINESS MEN ORGANIZE CLUB

Name Committee to Seek More Members.

A new community organization, the Madison-Kedzie club, was organized last Tuesday at a luncheon at the Graemere hotel and attended by business men of the Madison street and Kedzie avenue district. Following formation of the club, it was announced that election of officers will be held at a luncheon at the hotel next Tuesday.

The aim of the club, as stated in the newly adopted constitution, is "to promote the civic, economic, and social progress of the community within a radius of approximately one-half mile from the intersection of Madison street and Kedzie avenue."

Three Classes of Members.

Three classes of membership have been provided: First, individuals and organizations engaged in business; second, professional people and property owners, and third, unclassified. This last group includes representatives of other clubs, principals of schools, pastors of churches and others interested in the progress of the community.

Ira Krupnick was temporary chairman at the meeting last Tuesday.

Committee Seeks Members.

A committee to solicit memberships was appointed, the chairman being V. E. Fay and the other members, S. M. Russell, R. R. Weinberg, Maurice Silvey, J. Goodman, and M. J. Walters.

Those present at the luncheon last Tuesday included the following: Edward Adelman, J. Abrahamson, G. Clarey, Julius Goodman, Jack Kirsch, William M. Losby, George J. Rigsheimer, M. Rudikoff, S. M. Russell, Nathan Siegel, Maurice L. Silvey, Sol A. Silvey, Thaddeus Slesin, M. J. Walters, C. C. Wedding and Robert R. Weinberg.

The new officers of the club who were elected at the latest meting are: President, Mrs. F. A. Gleistein; first vice president, Mrs. D. E. Ayton; second vice president, Mrs. L. W. Oates; recording secretary, Mrs. J. F. Johnson; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. M. L. Schaus; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. R. Ingham; treasurer, Mrs. L. J. Elarege; artic, Mrs. Ella Taylor; flower secretary, Mrs. A. C. Dolson, and press, Mrs. W. H. Troy and Mrs. W. G. Bray. These officers will not take over the management of the organization until next fall. Last Tuesday members of the club inspected a pottery plant at Dundee, Ill.

Mothers to Give Luncheon for Trinity High Graduates

Preparations are being made by the Mothers' club for a luncheon to be tendered the graduates of Trinity High school of River Forest at the Palmer house on Monday, June 3. Mrs. Walter Herr, 5014 Washington boulevard, is chairman of the committee in charge. She is being assisted by Mrs. George Schindler, 232 South Lathrop avenue, River Forest, and Mrs. Thomas Larkin, 825 Lyman avenue, Oak Park.

The Mothers' club met in the school assembly hall on last Tuesday. Miss Helen Keane, a member of the senior class, gave a piano recital.

IRVING PARK P.-T. BODY TO HOLD RECEPTION FOR PAST PRESIDENTS

The Irving Park School Parent-Teacher association will meet Wednesday afternoon at the school, 3815 North Kedvale avenue, to hear committee reports and a review of the proceedings at the recent state convention at Mattoon, Ill., by Mrs. Cecil Emery, president. There will be a reception for past presidents and entertainment by the school orchestra under the direction of Miss Dolores Corrigan.

MRS. CECIL EMERY.

The association, which was the first to be organized in the community, was founded in 1913, with the assistance of Miss Mary E. McMahon, principal of the school at that time. The first president was Mrs. William O. Chapman. Others who have served as president are Mrs. Charles Tasker, Mrs. H. L. Howard, Mrs. H. B. Shinn, Mrs. H. S. Ashenhurst, Mrs. H. L. Ferguson, Mrs. Andrew Sundene, now a state vice president, and Mrs. Kurt Stoehr. Mrs. Emery, head of the organization at present, ahs another year to serve. The aim of the association since its beginning, according to Mrs. Emery, has been to know the child. The principal of the school is Miss Mary A. Riley.

OAK PARK DRAMA GROUP TO GIVE MYSTERY PLAY

The Drama club of Oak Park High school will present "The Thirteenth Chair," a three-act mystery play, written by Bayard Vieller, Thursday. This performance will take the place of the annual open meeting of the club. It will benefit the high school literary magazine, the Tabula.

Miss Althea Payne is coaching the play. The characters are as follows: Miss Barbara Kurtz, Robert Mahnke, Glenn Andrews, William McLellan, Tom Powers, Miss Charlotte Bortree, Miss Virginia Stone, Frank McLeod, Eugene Cirese, Joe Berthelet, Miss Eleanor Walker, Miss Allee Rose Dedouch, William Sandel, Miss Phyllis Krog, Harry Lemkey, James Zacharius, Gordon Galaty.

Children of the Prussing school, 4750 North Menard avenue, have organized a Bird and Book club. Officers of the organization are: President, Katherine Panko; vice president, Alvina Meyer; secretary, Dorothy Smith; treasurer, Anna Mayer.

ORDER INQUIRY INTO NORTHWEST REZONING MOVES

Aldermen O. K. Proposal on Carolina Street.

One ordinance rezoning west side property was approved by the city council committee on buildings and zoning Monday, and three others were referred to the west side subcommittee for further investigation.

The committee approved an ordinance to rezone Carolina street between Damen and Hoyne avenues from an apartment to a commercial classification. The measure was recommended by Ald. Max Adamowski [38th]. Ninety-eight per cent of the property owners in that block have signed a petition in favor of making the change, the alderman said.

Bowler Explains Proposal.

An ordinance to zone for commercial purposes the block bounded by Raven street, Newark avenue, and Northwest highway was referred to the subcommittee. The side of this triangular block on the highway is already zoned for commercial buildings, according to Ald. T. J. Bowler [41st] and property owners want the side street lots also zoned so stores can be built. He presented a petition in favor of the rezoning.

An ordinance to rezone Pensacola avenue from the alley west of Central avenue to Menard avenue from an apartment to a residence district caused a heated argument between property owners for and against, and was referred to the subcommittee for investigation.

One Property Owner Fights.

One property owner told the committee that the change to a more closely restricted volume would confiscate the value of his property. There are already seven two family houses in the block, he said, and no restriction should be placed on the section now. Other property owners who favored the change replied that while there are a few two flat houses in the district, most of the lots are occupied by bungalows, and it is desirable that the piece in question be also zoned to permit the construction of single family residences only.

A proposition to rezone the section bounded by Glenlake avenue, Knox avenue, Kilpatrick avenue, and the alley north of Peterson avenue from commercial to manufacturing classification was referred to the subcommittee without comment.

Glenbard High Seniors Present Annual Play

The annual senior play of the Glenbard Township High school was presented Thursday and Friday nights in the school auditorium. "The New Poor" was the title of the play and those taking part included: Joseph Milmoe Miss Charlotte Frost, Miss Marien Arnold, Miss Victoria Strawn, Miss Margaret Fischer, Miss Catherine Fogelsanger, Miss Martha Elliot, Richard Kelly, Sherman Webster, Richard Marquardt, Robert Rose, Miss Shirley Lesher, Austin Abell, and John Soma. Wilbur Osterling, Ardih Buell, and George Ball were the stage managers for the production.

Aurora Forms Historical Society; Plans Museum

A new organization, the Aurora Historical society, has been formed in Aurora for the purpose of keening alive historical associations of the community and establishing a local museum. At a meeting held recently Lutz White was selected as temporary chairman, and plans made for the drafting of a constitution. Election of officers will take place at a meeting to be held next Thursday. Residents of Aurora interested in the aims of the new organization have been invited to attend.

Oak Park Schools Exhibit Their Work for Parents

Following a custom of several years' standing, elementary schools in Oak Park are now having curriculum exhibits in which all phases of work done during the year may be studied by parents and other persons interested. The exhibits are held at one-half of the schools each year, the other half having similar program in alternate years. Exhibits are to be held at Holmes school on May 13 and at Whittier and Emerson schools on May 14. Last Friday an exhibit was held at Irving school and on April 26 one was given at Hatch school.

FIGHT INCREASE IN SCHOOL TAX; ATTACK BOARD

Business Group Raps Use of Pupils in Drive.

A resolution condemning methods used by the board of education to obtain a petition in favor of its bill for a tax increase pending before the state legislature and opposing the passage of the bill, was adopted recently by the Crawford Business Men's league, and sent yesterday to the mayor, the board and legislators of the 19th senatorial district, in which members of the league reside.

The bill calls for a tax increase in 1929 of 51 cents per $100 valuation over the present rate of 96 cents, or a total increase of $21,675,000 in 1929, and a slightly smaller increase over the present rate in 1930, 39 cents per $100, or a total of $16,575,000 in that year.

Circulated by Pupils.

School children were given cards recently containing a printed recommendation of the bill, and were instructed to obtain the signatures of their parents and return the cards to their teachers. It was charged that in some instances the children were intimidated by threats to the effect that the schools would be closed in September unless the parents' signatures were obtained.

"The purpose of the bill is to increase the taxation of the property owners of Chicago who are now inequitably taxed," the resolution said, "and a large majority of property owners of Chicago are not aware of the real purpose of this bill.

Demand Defeat of Bill.

"Whereas, the board of education has employed methods by which the school children were used in bringing about the signing of petitions for the passage of this bill, with intimidation of not reopening the schools next September, be it resolved that the Crawford Business Men's league has condemned the methods used by the board of education and protests against the bill and its passage."

The resolution was signed by Edward F. Toepper, secretary of the group, which includes most of the business men in the neighborhood of 26th street and Crawford avenue.

PORTAGE PARK VETS JOIN PLAN FOR GALA 4TH

10 Mile Marathon to Be Run from Loop.

Officials of the Portage Park Independence Day association have announced that the Portage Park post of the American Legion will cooperate with the association in making preparations for the observance of July 4 this year. Several members of the Legion have been appointed to places on the various committees in charge.

Prominent among the features scheduled for July 4th is a ten mile marathon, which will start in the loop at 11 o'clock and end in Portage park shortly after noon. Coroner Herman N. Bundesen is to start the runners. Hundreds of contestants are expected to take part.

School Children to Parade.

Details of the day's program are now being planned. There will be a parade at 10 o'clock in the morning, in which children of the public and parochial schools of the community will participate.

Contests of various kinds will be held for both adults and children and hundreds of prizes awarded. Arrangements have been made to entertain children from the various institutions in the neighborhood. A band will play during the day and at the night time proceedings, and several thousands of dollars' worth of fireworks are to bring the festivities to a close.

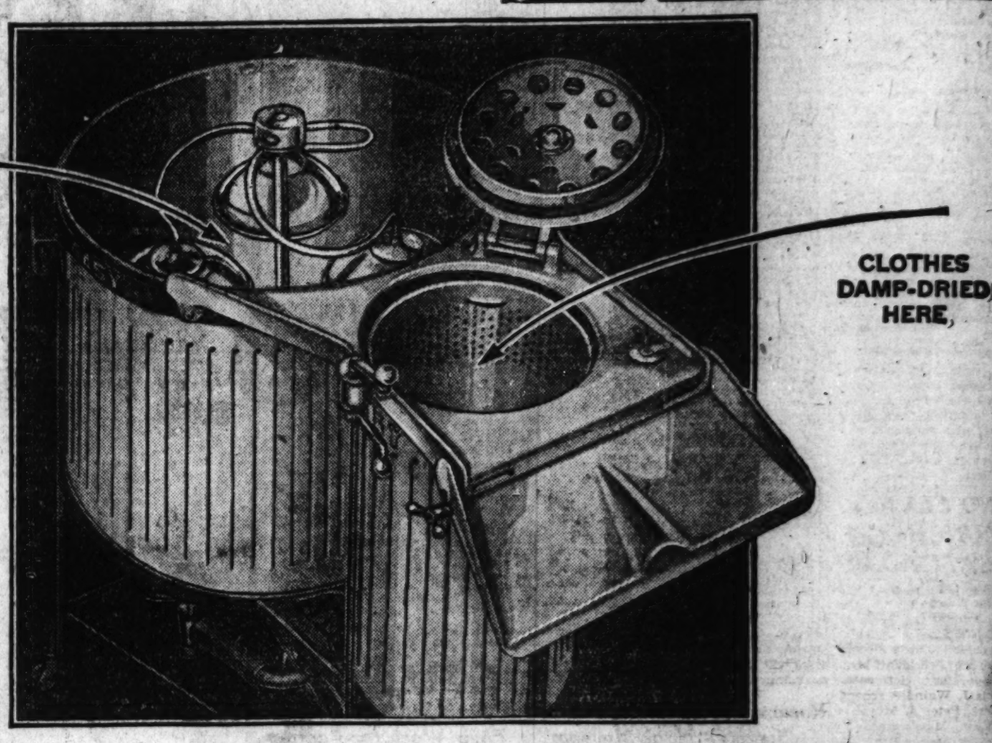
Why the EASY Damp-Dryer is replacing the wringer!



Women everywhere are instantly impressed by the safety and labor-saving features of the EASY Damp-Dryer. It damp-dries one batch of clothes at the same time another batch is being washed in the washing compartment.

Thousands are turning to this modern method of washing—to the no-wringer EASY, which is safer—faster—easier and gentler than the old-fashioned, obsolete wringer-type machine.

The EASY Damp-Dryer is an enclosed metal container which, instead of crushing the water out, whirls it out by centrifugal action.

Merely transfer the clothes from the washing compartment to the Damp-Dryer, drop the top into place and push a lever.

No more broken buttons

The clothes are damp-dried ready for sun-drying in less than two minutes. The whole tubfull! And so thoroughly and evenly damp-dried, that in bad weather they can be line-dried indoors and ironed the same day.

Nor need they be handled further for rinsing. Leave them in the Damp-Dryer, pour in the rinse water, push the lever. The Damp-Dryer does the rest.

No broken buttons or fasteners. No torn, worn fabrics. No deep, hard-to-iron-out creases. This better process injures nothing yet damp-dries everything, even to blankets, pillows, sweaters, overalls and other bulky pieces which will not go through a wringer.

EASY washes 10 pounds of clothes at a time as compared with the 6-pound average capacity of other type washers.

The gas heater under the tub is an extra convenience that keeps the water hot. When through, the EASY pumps itself dry into the drain or sink.

No more torn clothes

There are still EASY Washers with wringers. EASY wringers have every known safeguard. But no wringer-type washer—even our own—can compare with the no-wringer EASY. A demonstration will prove it.

MORE SHOPS JOIN GROUP OPERATING CUSTOMER BUSES

S. W. Commerce Body Is Outgrowing Quarters.

Several new members have been added to the list of merchants now making use of the community bus service inaugurated recently by the Southwest Chamber of Commerce, 3951 West 26th street. The bus operates from Kedzie avenue along 26th street to Ogden avenue, then along Ogden avenue to Harlem avenue and back. Tickets are issued by merchants sponsoring the service to customers wishing transportation.

The new members include Edward Warsick, G. Jahnke, Mrs. F. Miller, J. Binny, J. C. Burg, L. Kuba, Mrs. F. Hruby, F. Novak, L. Vlasak, Mrs. J. W. Fikejs, Mrs. J. B. Bertrand, Mrs. Josephine Bertrand, Mrs. Anna Bufka, Louis Panecek, and Mrs. Helen Stika.

Chamber to Meet in Park.

Future meetings of the chamber of commerce may be held either at Shedd's park or in the new administration building of Douglas park, according to an announcement issued yesterday by Joseph Klicka, president of the chamber. Members are now looking into the feasibility of both plans. The chamber's constantly growing membership will soon require a new meeting place. Among the prospective speakers now under consideration by the chamber for future meetings are H. H. Haylett, executive secretary of the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce, and John F. Voight.

The proposed widening of West 26th street from Western avenue to the city limits has brought forth an abundance of discussion, according to Mr. Klicka. The proposed improvement calls for the cutting away of the north side of the street 36 feet. Many of the property owners affected have endorsed the plan, while others condemn it because it would cut into their present locations.

Sees Evidences of Prosperity.

The chamber, reports Mr. Klicka, has noted a general trend toward prosperity in the community. Several merchants have improved their store windows, most of the vacant shops along 26th street near Crawford avenue have been rented, and an air of progress is manifest.

WEST END CLUB HOLDS LUNCHEON NEXT SATURDAY

The annual spring luncheon of the West End Catholic Woman's club will be held at the Palmer house next Saturday at 12:30 o'clock. A musical program is to be given. The Parent Teacher association of the Robert Burns school, 25th street and Central Park avenue, will hold its first fathers' meeting next Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the school auditorium.

The newly elected officers will be installed. They include: President, Mrs. Anna Jandus; first vice president, Mrs. May Fortelka; second vice president, Henry Sonnenschein; recording secretary, Mrs. Marjorie Jelinek; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Anna M. Weiss; treasurer, Mrs. Julia Hartmann.

Charles Bentley will talk on "Our Responsibilities as Fathers," and Frank J. Kozelka will speak in Bohemian on "Our Community Responsibilities." Peter Ritzma and Miss Anna Wise, principal of the school, also will make addresses. Raincoats and hats will be presented to the boys in the safety patrol and groups of the children will present a program.

CRAFT EXHIBITION OPENS TOMORROW IN WEST PARKS

The west park commissioners will hold their annual arts and crafts exhibit tomorrow, Tuesday, and Wednesday at the following parks: Shedd, 23d street and Lawndale avenue; Dvorak, Cullerton and Fisk streets; Holstein, 2200 North Oakley avenue; Pulaski, Blackhawk and Noble streets, and Union, Lake street and Ashland boulevard.

The exhibits are to be open from 1 to 10 p. m. each day. On display will be fancy needlework, beadwork, picture frames, cushions, lamp shades, and products of manual training such as boats, airplanes, log cabins and a miniature lake with craft sailing on it. During the course of the exhibit children will demonstrate their ability in modeling clay, soap, wax and sand.

Rosary College Juniors Give Party for Seniors

The junior class of Rosary college, River Forest, gave a luncheon for the seniors yesterday at the Palmer house. The president of the juniors, Miss Ann Sweeney, gave the toast to the guests, and Miss Olive Mazurek, president of the seniors, responded.

39TH WARD TOPS WEST SIDE IN JANUARY BABIES

More babies were born in the Thirty-ninth ward in January than any other west side ward, according to figures compiled by health department officials last week. This ward, which also took first place in the number of births for 1928, had 174 visits of the stork in January, and had a birth rate of 18.67 per 10,000 population.

The well known stork made 124 visits to the Forty-first ward during the same month for a rate of 13.98 per 10,000. Third place went to the Thirty-eighth ward, where 64 babies were born, or 12.53 per 10,000. The lowest ranking ward was the Thirty-third, with 28 births and a rate of 5.93.

Births in the other wards in the order of their respective rates were as follows: Twenty-fifth, 63; Twenty-ninth, 58; Twenty-sixth, 56; Thirty-fifth, 49; Fortieth, 75; Twenty-third, 54; Twenty-eighth, 46; Twenty-first, 53; Twenty-fourth, 49; Thirtieth, 57; Twenty-seventh, 44; Twenty-second, 39; Thirty-first, 41; Thirty-second, 41; Thirty-fourth, 44; Thirty-sixth, 38; Thirty-seventh, 51; Twentieth, 42.

Girl Reserves in Foreign Garb Appear at 'Y' Party

Chicago high school girl reserves from twelve different countries dressed in the costumes of the land from which they or their parents came made a part of the living exhibit of Y. W. C. Capes Given to School Drum and Bugle Corps

The Bridge School Community center sponsored an entertainment recently to provide capes for the Drum and Bugle corps of the school, New England avenue and Grace street. The school orchestra, under the direction of Julius Rosenblum, who also directs the drum and bugle corps, played several selections and Miss Marilynn Kelly, Miss Betty Stratton and Clifford Bohner gave solo numbers followed by movies and a lecture on the American Indian.

CLEANUP PLAYS GIVEN BY PUPILS OF JEFFERSON

Two programs were recently conducted at Jefferson school, 1016 South Laflin street, in observance of the clean-up campaign staged in all Chicago schools. In the first play, "To the Rescue," the following children took part: Tarquin Simonelli, Marie Totter, Oscar Pansini, Molly Caroma, Theresa Vinis, Josi Eppolito, Marie Muscato, Mary Paul, Joe Gallizi, Agnes Velonis, Frank Altiere, Carmelita Di Sylvester, William Karamedis and Roger Sonondres.

Children in the second program included Herman Cavy, Mary Noto, Vito Garafala, Theresa Fiore, Louisa Accettura, Louis Nuzzo, Theresa Villapiano, Mike Paul, Carmella Spino, Caroline Sheldon, Tena Pansini, Rosie Santucci, Margaret Aiello, Mary Armstead, Catherine Apa, Rosie Zerlanga, Louise Seno, Frank De Leon, Wilbert Mitchell and Ralph Vitala. During the course of the program several Mother Goose rhymes relevant to clean-up were given. Miss Mary R. McDonnell is principal of the school.

THIS MODEL HAS MANY A THRILL FOR ITS MAKERS

Looks and Acts Like Man Carrying Plane.

BY MERRILL HAMBURG.
(Secretary Airplane Model League of America.)

Remember when, in 1927, Eddie Schlee and William Brock flew the Atlantic, Europe and Asia to reach Tokio in record breaking time?

If you're a member of the Airplane Model League of America, you're pretty sure to remember it. And you'll also remember, likely, that the airplane used was a Stinson-Detroiter—the same ship described as a scale model in this paper recently.

Today I'm going to tell you how to build a flying Stinson-Detroiter—not a flying scale model, for the ship is somewhat modified in order to gain endurance in the air. The model is one of the neatest commercial jobs developed this year, and when properly built will fly sixty seconds or more.

The Job Takes Time.

Building the model takes time, but no greater skill than the construction of a good endurance plane. Before starting, be sure you've examined the drawing closely—know exactly what you're planning to do.

You may get materials needed to build the model in the special league kit, which will be sent you for $1.50 in money order or check sent to the supply department, A. M. L. A., American Boy building, Second and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich. Or you may be able to get materials separately.

Here's what you'll need: Two balsa leading edges, 5-16x5-16x12 inches; two flat balsa strips for small parts, 1-16x 1½x13 inches; fifteen M-6 balsa ribs; balsa motor stick, 5-32x¾x13½ inches; flat balsa for wheels and wing support, ⅛x1½x6 inches; balsa propeller block, ½x1½x8 inches; two strips of bamboo, 1-16x¾x12 inches; one thrust bearing; one rear hook, one propeller shaft, one S hook, two wing clips, eight hooks and eyelets, and two special fuselage nose clips, all of .020 music wire; two brass washers; two sheets of Japanese tissue, 21x31 inches; 2 drams of ambroid; 4 drams of banana oil; a rubber motor, ¼x1-10x52 inches.

Wing of Built Up Type.

The wing is of the built up type—your manual tells you how to make it, Page 6. Follow the dimensions given in the diagram. The wing section is known as the M-6 airfoil, the same as that used on the larger plane. With this article you are given an exact size pattern for this wing—you may cut your ribs on this model from 1-32 inch balsa, or use the ready cut ribs in the league kit.

Assemble the two halves of the wing separately. Glue the ribs to the leading edge as shown in the detail drawing, then attach the trailing edge. Your kit furnishes special pieces of balsa for the leading edge; you cut the trailing edge from flat balsa making it ⅛ inch wide. Form the wing tips by gluing ribs, with their lower surfaces trimmed to a straight edge, to the two end ribs at right angles [see diagram]. You'll find that the kit furnishes 15 ribs, 13 for cross ribs and two for the tips.

Put Halves Together.

Now put the two halves together. Remember that you must give the wing dihedral angle; to do this glue the two halves in a flat V, with the ends 1¼ inches higher than the center. The ends of the leading and trailing edge spars are the points of contact—and don't forget the thirteenth or center rib. You can hold the two halves in place while the ambroid is drying by putting a block 2½ inches high under the tip of one wing, allowing the other to lie flat on your work table. When the ambroid is set, cover the wing with paper as directed in the manual.

Attach the wing clips to the center of the wing, being sure that they are glued to wood, not paper. Fasten four small eyelets to two of the cross ribs as the drawing shows, so that you may hook the wing struts to them.

Now, the Fuselage.

Now start on the fuselage. You'll make it in two sections, as the detail drawing marked "attachment of motor stick" indicates. The longer ones are made of 1-16 inch balsa and the crosspieces of balsa 1-32x1-16 inch, split from your flat pieces; you can get the dimensions of the various sections directly from the drawing.

See why it's a good idea to make the nose and the motor stick all in one piece, with the motor unconnected to the main body? In the first place, it's easy to replace the motor or make minor repairs; in the second the winding of the motor puts no twisting strain on the body. You attach the motor stick, which is 5-32x¾x13½ inches, to the nose by ambroiding it to the top of the small square opening at the front, and to two diagonal braces at the rear frame. The nose and the body are hooked together by means of two clips of .020 music wire, shown in the drawing. Ambroid is used, of course, to attach rear hook, thrust bearing, clips and other metal parts to the model.

Rudder of Bamboo.

To the top of the fuselage, in the opening forward above the windows, you glue the wing support—its upper edge is flush with the top of the fuselage frame. Make it of balsa, ⅛x 2-16x5¾ inches.

Cover the fuselage and the nose with paper. Leave open the section just under the wing, so as to facilitate its adjustment. You may cover the windows with isinglass or some such glassy, lightweight material, if you wish—banana oil is the adhesive used.

You can obtain the "window panes" from the wrapping of a package of candy!

The rudder and fin frame are formed from bamboo, split very thin and bent to shape. The diagram shows a balsa right angle on the combination fin and rudder; this is merely to indicate where the rudder would be hinged on the large plane. The two could be made separate and hinged with music wire, but this isn't advisable on a flying model. Better make them of one piece and set the whole fin at a slight angle, as shown in the top left drawing.

Elevators of Balsa.

Because the tail group must be very light—else the model will be tail heavy—the stabilizer and elevators are made with balsa frame. Bending balsa is a delicate job, but you can do it nicely by following instructions in the manual. If you don't care to do this, substitute thin bamboo. You will probably need additional weight on the nose to make up for it, but this can be taken care of later.

Follow the manual, page 7, for instructions as to how to carve your propeller. This model takes a tractor prop, with the center section cut away from the trailing edge.

The landing gear is made from bamboo split 1-16x1-8 inches. Bend your pieces to the shapes shown in the drawing, then split it to 1-16 inch square strips. The wheels are all balsa, 1-8x3-8 inches. They turn on very small .020 music wire axles ambroided to the landing gear, and are kept on by tiny stream-lined balsa hubs ambroided to the axles.

Wing May be Removed.

The four wing struts, or "lift struts," are of very thin balsa ⅛ inch wide. You'll have to suit their length to your ship—length varies on every job. The two front struts hook, as shown in the drawing, between wing ribs and landing gear, and the two rear struts between wing ribs and the lower edge of the fuselage. Thus the wing may be removed at will, or may be moved backward or forward along the wing support for flying adjustment.

Now you've done all the work, unless you want to color wing and wheel fairings [the sections inside the tires] orange, and landing gear and fuselage black, with an orange strip around the top of the fuselage. You can do this coloring either by dyeing paper before covering the model, or by painting it with banana oil and lightweight dyes after it is completed. You'll add weight by coloring it, of course.

Test Ship Carefully.

Put the rubber motor on the motor stick—knot the two ends and you'll have a motor of four strands. Test the ship very carefully. Adjust the wing forward or backward until you find the best position for gliding. If the plane insists on stalling, no matter how far back you put the wing, you'll need to add a little weight to the nose. Some boys do this by increasing the weight of the wheels; one I know ambroided two tiny wire brads to the front end of the motor stick.

When you've found the right adjustment, get ready for a pretty flight. For there's nothing in model work more satisfying than a slow, trim commercial ship in flight. This Stinson Detroiter will take the ship off the ground; it will fly sixty to ninety seconds [a flight of more than thirty seconds indoors or sixty seconds outdoors will win you an honor certificate]; and it will make a three point landing that would make Col. Lindbergh jealous!

More than that, it will be eligible for a special competition to be held at the Second National A. M. L. A. contests which the American Boy Magazine, co-sponsor with THE TRIBUNE of the league, will conduct in Detroit June 20-22. Watch this paper for details of this competition. It's a contest with an international angle.

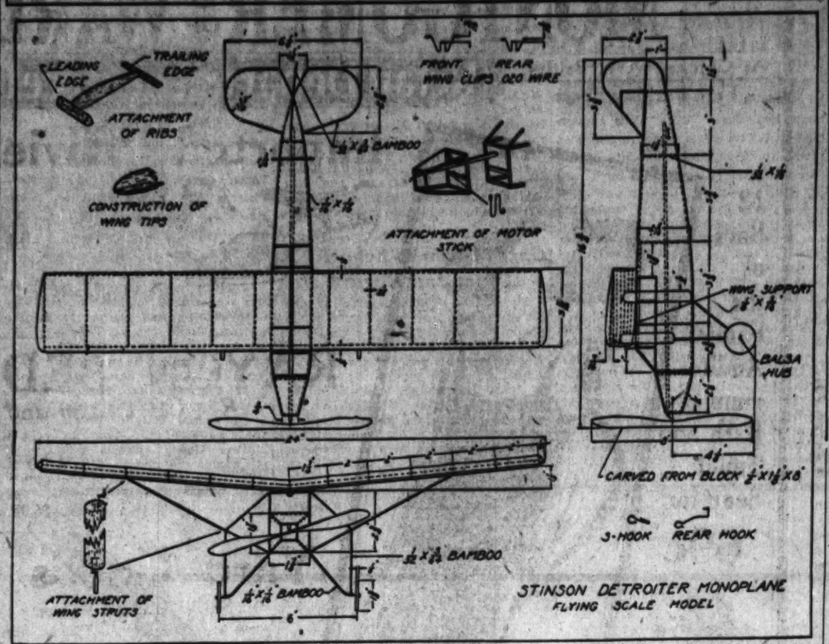
THE FLYING STINSON DETROITER



When you are familiar with every detail of these diagrams and the accompanying article, you'll be ready to start building for some pretty flights.

SALE OF LIGHTHOUSE BRINGS MEMORIES TO EX-KEEPER'S FAMILY

Mrs. Mamie Rickert, 5118 Oakdale avenue, had memories of childhood brought back recently when the house in which she was born, an old lighthouse dwelling which has stood on the north bank of the Chicago river since 1865, was moved to a site on the east side of Ogden slip, near Navy pier.

ANTHONY HAGEN.

Her father, Anthony Hagen, was the second lighthouse keeper, occupying the place for nearly twenty years. All her brothers and sisters were born in the old dwelling, according to Mrs. Rickert, and her memories of early years are closely connected with the place.

Mr. Hagen died a few years ago but his first assistant, Joe Hanson, is still living. An old picture of the lighthouse, now in Mrs. Rickert's possession, is believed to be the only one of its kind in Chicago.

Neighborhood Civic Club Holds Spring Luncheon

The annual spring luncheon of the Neighborhood Civic club of Oak Park was held at the Carleton hotel, Oak Park, last Friday. Officers of the club recenly elected are: President, Mrs. B. V. Hepler; vice president, Mrs. J. A. Milice; second vice president, Mrs. C. H. Harkens; recording secretary, Mrs. E. S. Wright; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. A. Glass; treasurer, Mrs. C. A. Cohan.

New Officers Installed by 23d Ward Group

The Central Improvement association of the 23rd ward held its anual reception and installation of officers on Saturday, April 26, inducting the following executives into office: President, F. W. Mrkvicka; vice president, J. A. Sokol; secretary, Dr. E. J. Lusk; treasurer, J. A. Stasenka.

READY TO START $100,000 CHURCH FOR ELMHURST

Redeemer Evangelical Lutheran church of Elmhurst is to build a new house of worship at the northwest corner of St. Charles road and Kenilworth avenue. The church building which is expected to cost well over $100,000, is scheduled for dedication the early part of next year. Building operations are to begin in the near future.

The plans call for a structure of stone and steel, 100 feet long and about 50 feet wide. The nave will have a seating capacity of about 300, the choir 40 and the mezzanine about 80. Provision will be made for church council rooms, choir practice rooms, church offices, etc. The basement floor is to contain an auditorium seating 400 persons, which will be suitable for entertainments, church dinners and similar gatherings. This floor will also contain Sunday school rooms, a nursery and a kitchen.

The congregation was organized about a year ago and services have been held since that time in Hawthorne school. The Rev. W. A. Setzer is pastor.

Marshall High Announces Story Contest Winners

MAY 14 IS LAST DATE TO ENTER PLANE TOURNEY

W. Side Boys Rush Work to Try for Medals.

With entries in the Model Airplane tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE closing on May 14, west side aspirants for the forty-eight medals and two trophies to be awarded are busy these days preparing planes so that they may be certified in time by their neighborhood school and playground officials.

Not many days are left for making entries, and the awards—including two trips to the national championship meet and back—are so worth while that the feverish activity of those boys who feel in their bones that they have ships under way that will win honors can easily be accounted for. All expenses of the two trips to the national meet will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Outdoor events of the meet will be held May 19 at Washington park. Indoor events will be held May 26 at the 132d infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets.

Who will be the winners in THE TRIBUNE contests? This is the question uppermost in the minds of the young mechanics. It won't be long now until decisions will be made. The important thing at hand is to make entries before May 14. An entry blank is in this section.

Rules for the tournament follow:

Rules of Tournament.

Rules for the tournament follow:

All contestants must have their planes ready for examination by the judges 15 minutes before the starting time of the contest.

Each plane must have been built by its flyer and each plane certified by a board of education or park system or public school official. The certification must be presented with the entry blank. Only metal parts of the planes can be purchased complete.

No contestant shall launch his model before receiving the launch signal from the official starter.

Each contestant will be allowed three official flights; the greatest elapsed time made in any of the three flights to score.

Interfered flight. If a plane hits some object before it alights on the ground floor and continues in flight or remains suspended, its flyer may, if he chooses, take an additional official flight as a substitute for this interfered flight.

All planes shall be driven by rubber strand motors only.

Winner of first place will be the builder and flyer of the plane which remains in flight the longest time and of second place the second longest elapsed time, and so on to sixth place.

Each contestant must prepare his plane for flight himself—that is, rigging, repairing, and winding up the motors.

Contestants shall be divided into two classes: Class A, those who are 15 years old or over, but under 21 years of age, on May 19; class B, those who are 14 years old or younger, on May 19.

In each event each contestant will not be allowed more than three unofficial flights.

EVENT I.

Indoor Duration Contest.

A. R. O. G. Duration—Planes shall be released under their own power from the floor and must rise from their own power.

B. Any flight under 10 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight.

C. Planes entered in this event may have a wing span of 40 inches or less; a hollow double surfaced wing; a hollow completely enclosed fuselage of a cabin type or cockpit model; a landing chassis with wheels, and be generally in appearance like a real airplane.

D. Judging of duration of flight will be from the moment the model leaves the floor or ground to the time it first touches the ground or floor or passes out of sight of the attending officials, or is permanently stopped in its flight. [See Interfered flight.]

EVENT II.

A. Planes entered in this event may have a distance between the propeller bearing and motor hook at the other end of the motor stick of fifteen inches or less. [For pusher-pullers this will be the distance from bearing to bearing.]

B. Launching will be by hand by merely releasing, not throwing.

C. Judging of duration shall be from the moment the plane leaves the hand to the time it first touches the floor or is permanently stopped in its flight, as by hanging on some object. [See section on interfered flight.]

D. Any flight under 15 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight. Only three unofficial flights, that is, under 15 seconds, will be allowed.

EVENT III.

Outdoor Duration Events.

A. R. O. G. duration planes shall be released under their own power from a platform on the ground and must rise under their own power.

B. Any flight under 10 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight.

C. Same as C, Event I.

D. Judging of duration of flight will be from the moment the model leaves the platform on the ground to the time it first touches the ground or passes out of the sight of the attendant officials or is permanently stopped in its flight. [See interfered flights.]

EVENT IV.

A. Planes entered in this event may have a wing span of 40 inches or less.

B. Launching will be by hand, merely releasing the plane, not throwing.

C. Same as D, Event I.

D. Same as B, Event I.

POINT SYSTEM.

The Olympic system of scoring will prevail. Ten points for first place, five for second, four for third, three for fourth, two for fifth, and one point for sixth place.

AWARDS.

Forty-eight medals, two trophies, and two trips to the national championship meet and back will be awarded the winners. The medals will be awarded to the winners of first, second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth places in each event in both senior and junior [A and B] classes. A trophy will be awarded the organization whose representatives earn the greatest number of points in class A division and another will be awarded the high point team in class B. The class A and class B contestants who earn the greatest number of points will receive the trip to the national meet, where all expenses will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

The products featured in this ad are the best possible to manufacture for the purpose which they are intended. The consumer may rest assured that these products are the result of modern research, coupled with a 1-3 of a century of experience in the paint and varnish business spent in an effort to bring forth products that are as nearly perfect as it is humanly possible to manufacture.

National Flat Paint
This is our Standard Flat Wall Paint, put up in 12 beautiful colors and white. It is of heavy body and excellent hiding power, brushes easily and flows out to an even, satin-like surface absolutely free from brush marks. Do not confuse this with the average cheap flat paint.
Per gallon, $1.95

National Floor Varnish
Is a product of pale color, good body and excellent brushing and flowing qualities, drying free from dust in from four to six hours and sufficiently hard to walk on over night. This is our very best grade of varnish and compares with the highest priced advertising brands. Per Gallon, $2.75

Pioneer
Ready Mixed Paint
Pioneer Mixed Paint is an article of heavy body, good hiding power and splendid brushing properties. While this is our popular priced paint it will be found far superior and better value than any similar product on the market. 23 colors.
Per Gallon, $1.95

National
White Enamel
A pure white enamel for general use on interior walls, woodwork, etc. It is heavy in body, works exceptionally free under the brush and does not sag when a heavy coat is applied, drying with a high lustre and marvelous whiteness.
Per Gallon $2.75 | Quarts 85c

National
Interior Gloss IVORY
Just the thing you have been looking for. Comes in all colors and ready for use. Brushing and flowing down to a mirror-like finish of marvelous wearing properties.
A quality product, per gallon..... $2.50

Great Lakes Dubl Dri Enamel
The most popular 4-hour enamel on the market today. Made in 18 most beautiful colors, the easiest to apply, does not show any brush marks and one coat covers any surface. Can be used on any surface with safety. Try this wonderful product and be convinced.
Quarts $1.25 | Pints 75c

Utility Household
Ready Mixed Paint
This paint is specially designed to be used on all interior surfaces where a serviceable popular-priced paint is desired. 9 colors. Per Gallon, $1.45

National
Porch & Floor Paint
Is made of the hardest gums in combination with China wood oil. Due to its fine lustre and durability, can be used on many surfaces such as wood, concrete or composition floor, both interior and exterior. 8 colors. Per gallon, $2.25

National Dubl Dri 4 Hour Varnish
As the name indicates it dries twice as fast as the average varnish, losing none of its lustre or wearing qualities in the process. The demand for quick drying varnish is rapidly coming to the front. Compare our price with other advertised brands. Per Gallon, $2.50

OPTIMIST CLUB OF OAK PARK INDUCTS HEADS

President Childs Picks Committees for Year.

Installation of new officers of the Optimist club of Oak Park took place at the weekly luncheon Tuesday at the Carleton hotel, Wisconsin and Pleasant avenues, Oak Park. Following the installation the personnel of the committees for the coming year was announced.

The newly elected officers of the club are: President, B. H. Childs, vice president, C. J. Long; secretary, Robert E. McAllister; treasurer, Fred Ebinger; and sergeant-at-arms, Henry Eickelberg. Members of the board of governors are F. A. Colborn, Fred Williams, Roland H. Popken and the officers.

Unusual Plan for Programs.

An unique plan is followed by the club in regard to the program committee. A new chairman is appointed for each month, so that no one man will have the onerous task of providing a speaker every week in the year for the meetings. Each new chairman works in coöperation with the general chairman of the committee. One of the benefits of this plan has been that a diversified list of speakers has been obtained, as each new chairman has put into effect his own ideas regarding after luncheon speakers.

The general chairman for this year is F. G. Rogers, and the other chairmen, each to serve one month, are R. Caren, V. Williams, Ed. Gotsch, Dr. B. W. Guthell, T. L. James, P. J. Nilsen, T. H. Stevens, F. L. Peterson, J. Watson, L. Horton, M. V. Stanford, and R. H. Maiwurm. At Tuesday's meeting each chairman drew three names from a hat, the members whose names he drew thereby becoming his assistants on the committee.

Other Chairmen Named.

The membership committee is made up of Hugh Gardner and W. B. Ross. C. W. Fisher is chairman of the attendance committee, the other members being Erwin Pray, George Boag, A. J. Flannigan, and P. G. Phelps.

Clarence E. Winchell, who was head of the boys' work committee last year, has been re-appointed to that position.

The members of the fellowship committee are R. Skillin, R. H. Popken, J. Rex, and P. Purnell.

The heads of other committees are: Special entertainment, Dean J. De Butts; music, P. H. Congdon; civic welfare, Marshall S. Dutton; golf, Frank A. Colborn; and speakers, Rev. O. A. Geiseman. The finance committee comprises members of the board of governors.

The club is affiliated with Optimist Clubs, Associated, a nation-wide civic organization, with several clubs in the Chicago territory. The past presidents are Lewis W. Foulke, Ralph W. Skillin, Dr. F. S. Tittle, and Frank A. Colborn. The club was organized in 1924.

OAK PARK OPTIMIST LEADERS INSTALLED

MILWAUKEE RAILWAY WOMEN'S CLUB TO GIVE DANCE FRIDAY

The Chicago chapters of the Milwaukee Road Women's club will give their third annual dancing party, known as the Gallatin gateway ball, in recognition of the railway's new entrance to Yellowstone park, in the grand ballroom of the Medina Athletic club, 505 North Michigan avenue, Friday evening.

MRS. O. W. DYNES.

MRS. W. W. K. SPARROW.

The organization is composed of employes and wives of employes grouped in fifty chapters located in the principal cities along the railroad, and has nearly 12,000 members. Because of the large membership in Chicago the organization is divided into two chapters known as the Union Station chapter and the Fullerton Avenue chapter.

An attendance of 3,000 is expected at the dance, which is sponsored by the two Chicago chapters to supply funds to assist in carrying on relief work in which the club is engaged.

Mrs. O. W. Dynes, 184 North Madison avenue, Hinsdale, wife of the general solicitor of the Milwaukee road, is president of the Union Station chapter, and Mrs. W. W. K. Sparrow, 1600 Hinman avenue, Evanston, wife of the vice president, is the chair officer of the Fullerton Avenue chapter. In charge of arrangements for the dancing party are Miss Mary Lawler, representing the Fullerton avenue group, and Miss Anna C. Olson, the union Station chapter.

BUREAU STARTED TO AID STUDENTS IN FINDING JOBS

Students at Austin High school, 5417 Fulton street, have an opportunity to procure employment during their spare hours by means of a school employment agency, of which Ralph Nelson is head.

RALPH NELSON.

A list of those students desiring employment is kept, and when notice of a prospective position comes in they are given first choice. If no one wishes to apply for the place, a notice is posted in the school, affording every one an opportunity to try for it.

Andrew L. Nichols is faculty adviser for the employment agency, and the Civic Industrial club of the school sponsors it. Miss Peg McLaren is girl president of the club, and Robert Mould is boy president.

CASH PAID FOR STORIES OF BARGAINS FOUND IN NEIGHBORHOOD STORES

SHE MADE $80.

Chicago, April 29. — I went to a neighborhood second-hand store, where all kinds of goods are sold, to look for a particular sort of dish which I was unable to obtain elsewhere. Being unsuccessful in my search I was about to leave the store when I saw hanging up among some dresses and coats what looked like a seal cape. The saleswoman referred to it as plush. I examined it carefully and knew better. It was badly worn in spots and the sales price was $5.00. Not wishing to display the eagerness I felt, I pretended to hesitate over the price, but eventually took it. I brought it with a short seal coat of my own to a local furrier of high reputation and he is making me a beautiful long coat out of it. He praised the seal in the cape highly and offered me $85 credit for it on a new coat if I preferred that to having my own made over. That was the only big bargain I ever got.

ELLEN MOONEY.

A SAVING ON GLOVES.

Chicago, April 28.—The best bargain I ever got in my neighborhood was a pair of perfect silk gloves worth $1.50 for 29c. The same kind I bought a few months ago downtown for $1.50. That sure was some bargain to me.

Yours truly, MRS. J. VLASATY.

PRIZE AWARDED BY ELMHURST IN TREE SELLING

The Washington school of Elmhurst won the award promised to the school selling the largest number of trees during "Elm Tree Week."

The "Washington elm" was planted with appropriate ceremonies. Mrs. John Golden, president of the Elmhurst Garden club, presented the tree. The school children gave a selected program of songs and readings.

The board of education planted twenty-two elms in the parkways of the Washington school, which is the newest of Elmhurst's graded schools.

A tree known as "Elmhurst Advance Elm," symbolic of a drive made by the Elmhurst college throughout the country, was the first of twenty-one trees planted on the campus the last week.

A program at which both faculty and students took part was given at the planting.

SOUSA FALLS AT LAST FOR THE LURE OF RADIO

Famous Band Goes on Air Tomorrow Night.

John Philip Sousa is going on the air. After holding out for seven years against broadcasting his world-famous band, he will make his radio debut in the family party tomorrow night from W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel.

Although Mr. Sousa has played to more people than any other director in the history of band music, appearing once before a single audinece of 153,000 people at the International Exposition in Glasgow, America's grand old march king tomorrow night will probably have one of the biggest audiences which ever listened to one musical offering.

39 Stations in Chain.

Thirty-nine broadcasting stations will be linked together for Mr. Sousa's radio premiere and they will extend from coast to coast and from Canada to the gulf. Practically speaking, it will be possible for everybody in the United States to hear the concert. Because of Mr. Sousa's fame as a bandmaster and composer and because of the universal affection in which he is held by the people of America, it is expected that a record breaking radio audience will tune in.

"Until now I have steadfastly refused to broadcast," explained Mr. Sousa, "because I have always felt that part of my success as a band leader has been somthing in my personality. I have thought that people wanted to see me and my band as well as hear us.

Can't Ignore Demand.

"I cannot, however, ignore the demand to hear us on the air. I have received at least 10,000 letters asking me to broadcast. I have, therefore, finally concluded that the people want to hear us and that it would be foolish to fail to utilize this great, modern invention which makes it posible for millions instead of a few thousand to listen to a concert. I am happy in the decision and am looking forward with enthusiasm to what I believe will be another thrilling adventure."

Many of the country's favorite selections composed by the famous former leader of the Marine band will be played Monday evening, including his ever popular "Stars and Stripes Forever," "El Capitan," etc.

RADIO TO CARRY HOOVER'S VOICE MEMORIAL DAY

President Hoover's Memorial day message will be broadcast to the entire nation as he speaks at the Arlington amphitheater beside the tomb of the unknown soldier of the world war.

The entire proceedings of the solemn memorial service by the Grand Army of the Republic in the historic Virginia bowl will be heard through the combined networks of the N. B. C. from 2 to 3 p. m. Chicago time, on Memorial day, May 30.

With President Hoover as principal speaker the ceremonies will include the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address by Capt. John M. Kline, selections by the U. S. marine band, talks by Senator Porter H. Dale of Vermont, and Dr. Thomas E. Green of the Loyal Legion, presentation of colors, and the reading of Gen. Logan's order establishing Memorial day.

"There Is No Death," the song traditionally associated with Memorial services in towns and hamlets throughout the nation will be sung by Jeanett McCaffrey, accompanied by the marine band, Hosea B. Moulton, past commander of the G. A. R. will preside.

DOUBLE QUARTET SINGS FOR ARCHE CLUB

A double quartet composed of members of the Arche club furnished the entertainment for many of the meetings of that organization. It has received many invitations to sing at the prominent women's groups in the south side. Left to right: Mrs. Richard Evans, Mrs. Charles Boothroyd, Mrs. A. S. Somers, Mrs. A. M. Roberts, Mrs. Lewis Thomas, Mrs. William L. Simonton, and Mrs. Sidney Castle (at piano).

Musical Comedy Given by Church Drama Group

The Victorians, a group of young folk of Our Lady of Sorrows parish, presented "Miss Cherryblossom," a musical comedy, last Thursday and Friday evenings at the parish auditorium, 330 South Albany avenue. Included in the cast were Miss Catherine O'Gallagher, John Haggerty, Edward Lynch, William Lynch, Miss Angeline Cellini, George Dom Ruse, Joseph McCorry, and William McCarthy. Miss Henrietta Murphy had charge of the singing, and Miss Gertrude Kane was in charge of the dancing and dialogue. The ten piece orchestra of St. Philip's school provided the music. The Rev. J. McLennan, O. S. M., is director of the Victorians.

RADIO AIDS CITY AND FARM LEARN EACH'S PROBLEMS

Is Great Help in Mutual Understanding.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Bringing the same information and entertainment to farm and city dweller alike, radio has won recognition as a powerful factor in spanning the gulf which divided the farmer and the townsman.

Broadcasting has been very effective in promoting better understanding and coöperation between the city and the country on questions of political and economic interest, according to O. M. Kile, agricultural economist.

"It has been a lamentable fact that the city has had a poor understanding of the country and the country a poor understanding of the city," Mr. Kile said. "This has led to many complications in a legislative way and otherwise which I think the radio has been quite instrumental in straightening out.

Poor Understanding.

"One of the reasons for this is that agricultural speakers have tried to present their views in a broad way with the result that the city listeners cannot help hearing interesting facts about farm life and its problems. On the other hand, the viewpoints of the city are presented in an intimate way by the radio to the people of the country."

The director of a radio station that specializes in farm broadcasts says that radio is so important to the farmer that "agriculture should have not only one clear channel but possibly a dozen clear channels to carry on the necessary work in that field."

City Folks Like Programs.

Old folk songs and barn dance music broadcast by this station primarily for its rural audience have been very popular with city listeners, he says.

"I have thought that perhaps we ought to soft pedal these barn dances because we might be getting in wrong with the commission or the public, but the people want them and we can't abandon them," he said.

"City people enjoy them as well as farm listeners. On the first four Saturday nights of the year that we played the barn dances we received 300 telegrams each night. They came from the cities."

The Bambino is swinging his vicious war club at the Sox this afternoon. Quin Ryan will be on a sharp lookout for trans-fence wallops as he reports the second White Sox-Yanks encounter scheduled for this season. You'll hear what the Sox can do with the team that walked off with the pennant for last year. Batter up at 3:00. Quin will give you the lineups and batteries at 2:55.

R. H. L.

. . . And what's more, besides, and in addition, your favorite columnist has written an Opera! R. H. L. is expected to be in good voice for the first radio performance of his opera. He and Gaston du Moulin, director of the W-G-N Symphony Orchestra, have swiped Mark Love's position as opera producer for W-G-N for the evening. And it's a grand Grand Opera. No fooling. Besides, R. H. L. will discard the mask of Wagner for that of Conrad. He has a rousing sea story ready for tonight. Curtain: 10:15.

Jean Goldkette

Way out in front in the race for supremacy in dance music is Jean Goldkette. Not satisfied with the most esoteric of arrangements; not satisfied with the largest of radio dance bands, he employs his genius for selecting the best musicians to the fullest. Each of his men knows the "feel" of the New Music. Bill Herring, master of the trombone, paints that warm purple background for the melodies of Goldkette, reminding one of the backgrounds of Rembrandt. Paul Mertz is the pianist. Bright, cool, moonbeam-like chords cause conversation to hesitate before the loud speaker. Jean Goldkette: 10:05, 10:45, 11:35.

London Hears Germany Is Using Radio Heating

LONDON.—News reaches London to the effect that heating by wireless is already an established fact in Germany, where experimental installations are operating successfully. The meager details of a system that is still apparently being kept in the dark state that strong waves two or three meters long are used to excite filaments enclosed in vacuum tubes, which thus become electric radiators.

RADIO WILL AID IN OBSERVANCE OF MUSIC WEEK

Many American Works to Be Broadcast.

Native American music and classical works of all nations will receive fresh impetus in America when radio plays a leading rôle in this year's observance of National Music Week, which begins today and runs until Saturday.

Nation-wide networks of the National Broadcasting company will feature throughout the week special presentations emphasizing works of American composers, and displaying musical masterpieces in new settings for the further edification of potential music-lovers in the United States.

The week-long campaign of the National Music Week committee to gain new converts to the cause of great music will have the full support of radio's far-reaching networks, and the chain will honor the occasion with elaborate features calculated to eclipse all previous ventures of a kindred nature.

First Concert Tonight.

Radio will sound the signal which officially opens National Music Week tonight when a whole constellation of operatic, concert and radio stars participate in a gala broadcast of the Atwater Kent concert.

To be heard in the Music Week inaugural through NBC associate stations including W-G-N, the Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel are Maria Kurenko, soprano; Nina Morgana, soprano; Louise Homer, contralto; Toscha Seidel, violinist; Kathryn Meisle, contralto; Arthur Hackett, tenor; Reinald Werrenrath, baritone; Allen McQuhae, tenor; William Simmons, baritone; Agnes Davis and Hazel Arth, soprano prize-winners of national Atwater Kent auditions; a male quartet and a full symphony orchestra under the direction of Josef Pasternack.

On Monday night, Victor Herbert's Indian opera "Natoma" will be broadcast by the National Grand Opera company with an all-American cast, while on Tuesday the famous Flonzaley Quartet will be on the air playing Dvorak's "American String Quartet" or a similar work by some American composer. Nicholas Longworth is scheduled to speak in the same program.

American Princess to Sing.

A real American princess who is also a vocal artist will be heard Thursday night, when Princess Atalie and Chief White Horn feature music of the American Indian as the program of the National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau. Geoffrey O'Hara, modern composer and songwriter, will officiate as master of ceremonies.

Deems Taylor's musical setting for the famous ballad of Alfred Noyes, "The Highwayman," will be presented Saturday night, and Walter Damrosch will open his symphony concert with an American composer's work, "Virginia" by Robert Braine.

"Songs of Our American Colleges" and a 19-piece brass band will rival campus serenades of universities and colleges throughout the country on Saturday night, and the weekly Hymn Sing, Thursday, will feature exclusively religious songs by American hymn-composers.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

Often we have wished that radio had been with us back on the Fourth of July, 1910, for the broadcasting of the famous Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson championship fight at Reno, Nev. Jeffries, you will recall, had retired from the ring undefeated heavyweight boxing champion of the world. Out from the scrambling mob of claimants there rose a dominating figure, Jack Johnson, the colored boxer of Chicago, who was heralded by some as the new champion. So, after six years of leisure, Jim Jeffries was called from his retirement. Imagine you are listening to the radio on that eventful holiday:

ANNOUNCER—Ladies and gentlemen, this is W-G-N, broadcasting from the fight arena at Reno, Nev. Well, it's come at last, the most important Fourth of July since 1776, and again we're broadcasting a championship prize fight from the state of Nevada, which Billy Muldoon this afternoon called the last free state in the Union.

In a minute or two the most talked of fight in history will commence between the colored man and the white son of a California minister. The sentiment among the bettors, as you know, favors Jeffries at 10 to 6.

There's the gong, and the seconds, and handlers and rubbers fling themselves from their corners. The fight of the century is on!

Jack and Jim are both advancing slowly to the center of the ring. The big colored boy is grinning widely, and we can see those two fine rows of ivories. Wonder if he'll be missing any when the day's done. Jeff's grinning too. They didn't shake hands. Here they go! Jeff made a bluff with his left for a lead, but Johnson side stepped him. They certainly are cautious! Johnson feints, looking for an opening. Jeff does the same. Won't be anything doing this round! Each of them is trying to see what the other one's got. Johnson led a short left, and he barely touched Jeff's mouth, and now they're clinching in a big friendly way like two bears. Break! Lots of jabs, now, but they don't mean anything. They're standing up there now, trying for short inside blows. Both men are guarding well. Clinch again! Come on, break it up, Tex! Huh! As they broke that time Jeff sent one at Jack's neck, and Jack stepped in, but he missed a short jab. Clinch again! Jack lands a left, but with no effect. [GONG!]

Well, there's the end of the first round! Pretty tame beginning for the battle of battles, this Armageddon the promoters and sports writers having been promising us.

Round two: Come on, now, let's go! The colored boy's got rid of that grin in a hurry and he's come up to scratch looking mighty serious. Jeff crouches down on his haunches. Huuhhh! Hah! Hah! Hah! Jeff tried to sneak a left over, but Johnson blocked it and they're both grinning and laughing like a pair of kids. Upp! There's a sock! Jack slapped one on Jeff's jaw, a nice punch that he brought up from his waist, but it didn't seem to hurt. There! Jeff tries a pair of lefts, but Jack's got his guard in the right spot. Now they're trying little short arm jabs. Come on—come on! What a fight! What a fight! Jeff snapped a left to Johnson's stomach, but he got a left on the face in return. There's a little clinch, and now they're away again. Come on, Jeff, bore in! Jeff is crouching in the middle of the ring. Jack won't come in. They're shuffling up now, and—there! Jack missed an uppercut that time! Clinch! Come on; let's fight!

Jeff is pushing Jack around the ring. Break! Oooop! Jack sends a left hard into Jeff's face. Wow! That didn't land! Jack tried to follow his left with an uppercut but missed. Clinch again! Now the crowd's getting sore! There's a lot of wrestling here, but not much real fighting! [Gong!]

(Interlude—The voice of our announcer and the roars of the excited thousands fade for a time, but the fight goes on. Into the eighth round, into the ninth, into the tenth, with the giant colored man growing stronger and more confident with each passing moment. The undefeated champion is beginning to feel the sting of defeat for the first time. Is this the proud fighting machine that a few years ago mowed down the marvelous Bob Fitzsimmons and whipped Jim Corbett, this great thewed white man whose body is slowly crumbling before blow after blow? Is this Jim Jeffries, the invulnerable, going down to defeat? The crowd sits there watching, tense, anxious.

Into the eleventh, into the twelfth round. Jeffries is faltering; he cannot go much longer. Or can he win with that same sledge hammer punch that licked Fitzsimmons when all hope seemed lost? Does that hairy body still shield the same youthful vigor that sent challenger after challenger into the dust of defeat? Into the thirteenth round!) [GONG!]

Round thirteen! There comes Jeff driving in again. He's got his right arm up over his face and he is driving in on Johnson. He walked right into a clinch. Come on, Tex! Break 'em apart! Ooohh! Huuuhhh! when they broke that time, Johnson hurled a left at Jeff's body, drove in a right uppercut that made the Californian's head wobble. Now Johnson's tearing into him! Johnson drove another pair of lefts to Jeff's face and dazed the big boy with a nasty uppercut, a right-hander. It had lots of steam behind it. Jeff looks a little groggy. There he goes! Johnson put his right hand on Jeff's shoulder and sent home three smashing lefts and—Wow!—There's another one. Jack got him on the chin with another uppercut. Jeff's all in, now. He can't even move around! These rapid fire blows are leaving him dazed! He's standing there now, Jack is driving home punch after punch, waiting for the final opening! O, Jeff is game all right! He's taking them all, and he's still on his feet! Now they've gone into a clinch! Wow! Biff! What a load of punches Jeff is taking now. His eyes are almost closed! They're clinching again! It looks like it's almost over! Jeff can't go much further now. (GONG!)

No question about it, now. It's Johnson's fight sooner or later, unless Jeff manages to sneak in a lucky punch. The crowd, scenting the kill, is growing restless for the knockout. Jeff isn't the man we saw beat Bob Fitzsimmons years ago.

Round fourteen! Wow! Look at that! Jeff walked straight into a left. They're clinching now! Come on, break 'em up! Jack tapped the big fellow twice on the face with his left. Jeff has his head down like a mad bull and is trying to bore in, but Johnson's wonderful defense is right there! Break 'em up! Biff! Jeff tried to bore in again, and the big black man drove three straight lefts at his face. Ummphhh! There's another left to the face! Jeff can't do a thing! Every punch he plans is knocked off by Johnson, who continues to drive straight lefts to Jeff's bleeding face and those swollen eyes. They clinch again! Jeff hanging on! Will he last out the round? Break away! Look out! Oooohh!

It looks worse for Jeff every minute. He can't stand the pace much longer. He can't hit Johnson, and the colored fighter is hitting him almost at will. A question of time, that's all it is now!

Round fifteen! Yep, it's all over now. Jeff can't get after Jack fast enough to catch him. He's getting wobbly, and he can't see the big fellow any more! His face is all puffed and bleeding from the lashing he's received. Johnson's standing still, now, and waiting—waiting. Now Jeff comes in and—OH! OH! Jack sent another brace of lefts straight to Jeff's face, and the blood spurts out afresh! Jeff's getting groggy, but he's game! He's reeling into a clinch, and tries to land a left on the body! They're breaking away—oh! oh!—As they split, Jack, quick as a flash sent another crushing left and an awful right straight for Jeff's jaw. The Californian's head snapped back like his neck is broken. He's staggering to the ropes! HE CAN'T DEFEND HIMSELF. Johnson's tearing in like a tiger now, and ranging blows on the big boy and Jeff stares dazedly at the figure in front of him! It's almost over! It's coming! Jeff is reeling about along the ropes! Only the gameness of him is holding him up! Jack is watching him like a cat and driving in right—left—right-left—right. Jeff is down! Jeffries in on the mat. He's on the canvas for the first time in his life. He's hanging onto the ropes! He's dazed! Jim Jeffries is being counted out! Four—five—six—seven—eight—No, the big fellow is getting back on his feet!

That's Jeffries, the gamest fellow that ever entered a ring! But he can't go on! STOP IT TEX, STOP IT! Johnson's in again with another volley of blows. Jeff is trying to clinch, but Johnson steps back and comes in again with more left and rights. Jeff is swaying all over the ring. There it is! Two rights on the jaw! Jeff is on his knees! He's all in! Stop it, Tex, stop it! Five—six—seven—eight—nine—Jeff's on his feet again—but Johnson's there waiting for him. Left—right—left on the chin. Jeff is down again for the third time! He's sprawled over the ropes half outside the ring! Jeff! Jeff! Jeff! Three—four—five—six—seven. It's all over!

OUR LADY ORGAN CALLED FINEST IN ALL AMERICA

Church Draws 10,000 to Masses.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

THE REV. JEROME MULHERIN.

Home of the great organ at Our Lady of Sorrows' church, Jackson boulevard at Albany avenue, has not diminished during the quarter of a century since its maker, J. J. Bennett of Hollis, Ill., heard it for the first time, pronounced it his masterpiece.

Ten thousand persons attend the eleven masses held every Sunday at the church. Every Sunday since May, 1926, there has been a broadcast of solemn high mass. There are countless occasions when noted organists from far corners of the world visit Our Lady of Sorrows' church that they may touch the keys and bring forth a flood of wondrous music from what is called "the finest toned organ in America."

Increased interest on the part of critics has come recently due to an incident that has been brought to light concerning the visit to these shores two years ago of the famous English organ builder, Willis. As he was about to depart for home, Mr. Willis was asked pointedly which of all the organs he had heard in America he liked best. He replied that it was the one he had heard in Our Lady of Sorrows' church, Chicago. The answer did not please the questioners, who exacted a promise from the visitor not to repeat the statement. Knowledge of the verdict, however, finally made known, has added to the keenness of visitors of fine musical appreciation.

Dedicated by Clarence Eddy.

When the new church was dedicated in 1902, only one part of the organ—that in the east transept balcony—had been completed. Work on the great and solo organ in the west balcony was rapidly pushed so that on Easter Sunday of the same year the solemn dedication of the new and completed organ took place with Clarence Eddy, world famous organist, at the keys.

The Very Rev. Austin Morini, O. S. M., returning from Rome to attend the dedication, was rewarded by beholding the glorious temple rendered possible by his untiring pioneer labors—the edifice that had taken the place of the little old brick church on the prairie which he had built with self-sacrificing effort.

When in June, 1874, the parish was established, Father Morini had reasoned that since the city authorities had laid out Central park [now Garfield] and Douglas park, the section was bound to develop, although at that time no car line extended farther west than Western avenue, and he was pastor of what was called "the little church on the prairie."

Father Morini was closely allied to the progress and development of the Servite order in America. Born in Italy, he had entered the order when only 18 years old. For a time, in 1870, Father Morini and his associates were in charge of a congregation at Kenosha, Wis. Later, with the permission of the bishop and the assistance of Father Venturi, he set about the formation of the parish on Chicago's west side.

Opened Christmas Eve, 1875.

In 1875, on Christmas eve, the new church was thrown open to the faithful, and Father Morini was pastor until 1885. Going to Rome to attend the general chapter of the Servite order, Father Morini was chosen one of the general consultors, which office necessitated his remaining in the Eternal City. He continued in this office until his death.

The founder of Our Lady of Sorrows church is recalled as a man of heroic cast, distinguished for his learning, his ability as a lecturer, and for his intense religious zeal. He was an authority on Florentine history, and particularly of the period of Savonarola.

The first mass in the new parish was said in the house of Thomas McMahon, 2642 Madison street. The following day the first child was baptized in the parish, Mary Ann Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kelly, 2644 Madison street.

G. G. HEURLIN WINS SPECIAL EMBLEM FOR WORK IN AUSTIN 'Y'

G. G. Heurlin, who is engaged in the real estate business at 5745 West Chicago avenue, has been awarded a special emblem for service rendered to the Austin department of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. The emblem was sent to him through the national headquarters of the Y. M. C. A. for signing up fifty men to membership in the Austin Y. M. C. A. in the recent membership drive. Mr. Heurlin's record in the drive surpassed that of any other members. Mr. Heurlin was a charter member of the Austin branch of the organization and his two sons are charter members of the boys' department.

Woman's Club of Elmhurst Ends Season

Under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Avery, another year of achievement has been added to the history of the Elmhurst Woman's club. The club was founded in 1914 by a group of 50 women, and today has a membership of 350 and a waiting list of 13.

The civics department has a well established infant welfare station, open Thursday of each week from 9 a. m. to 12 m., in the library building. One thousand babies have been given attention in 52 weeks, besides a dental clinic held in the public schools, when 1,625 children were examined. In philanthropic interests material assistance has been given to a number of charities and to the maintenance of the ex-service men in Elgin.

The home and education department conducted once a month community study classes, under the direction of George Letts, superintendent of the York Community High school. The home committee held a cooking school demonstration in the community house on the afternoons of May 1, 2, and 3. The art committee held a spring poster contest in the public schools and prints were awarded the prize winners.

The Choral club, an affiliated group, has made four appearances in concert. The Garden club has aided in the celebration of the nationally observed Arbor day by encouraging the planting of more elm trees along the streets of Elmhurst.

At the annual election Mrs. Avery was reelected president. Mrs. Harry Kerley second vice president, and Mrs. Clarence East recording secretary. Mrs Ervin Wilson became first vice president, Mrs. Roy De Shane corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Matthew Thronycroft Jr. treasurer.

The new members of the senior society are Miss Sally Batekevich, Miss Pearl Bereskin, Miss Ruth Chertkow, Miss Etta Gladstein, Ben Gould, Miss Frederica Gordon, Miss Rose Jirinec, Samuel Kaplan, Libuse Lukas, Miss Ida Magidson, Miss Sophie Miller, Miss Libby Nathan, Miss Laura Naig, Miss Ruth Rubin, Miss Anna Schmidt, Miss Esther Schwarz, Miss Bertha Sherbin, Miss Bertha Solomon, Miss Anne Suchanek and Miss Helen Zaborowski.

New members of the junior society are Miss Alga Adler, Bert Barnett, Miss Lulu Beasen, Miss Helen Begner, Miss Juanita Conklin, LaVerne Duffield, Miss Anna Gamberg, Earl Goldberger, Miss Fannie Goldstein, Miss Alma Jirka, Miss Esther Lefsky, Miss Ruth Lobel, Miss Ruth Markus, Miss Victoria Michalek, Miss Mildred Rolt, Miss Lucille Schultz, Miss Lucille Tolzien, Miss Minnie Thomas, Miss Lillian Yenger and Miss Minnie Goldman.

To join either the senior or the junior society a student must have an E average and be a leader in some activity. The four standards of the society are scholarship, leadership, character and service. Frank L. Morse is principal of the school.

HARRISON BRANCH STUDENTS FORM THREE NEW CLUBS

The branch of Harrison High school located at Rockwell and 25th streets has three new clubs, the Harrison Civic, the Civic Circle and the All Around club.

The officers of the Harrison Civic club are: President, Sydney Jarol; vice president, Miss Olive Barnicle; secretary, Norman Goldberg, and treasurer, Miss Bessie Rootberg. There are 38 members.

The Civic Circle club is governed by the following officers: President, Miss Lorraine Ziervogel; vice president, Jean Jelon; secretary, Edmund Bulat, and treasurer, Joseph Mzaz. The membership numbers 32.

Officers of the All Around club are as follows: President, Miss Laura Magrini; vice president, Miss Helen Begner; secretary, Miss Susabel Miner, and treasurer, Anton Turek. There are 34 members in this organization. The sponsor for the three clubs is Miss Mary Fitzpatrick.

FORESTERS PLAN CELEBRATION OF 46TH BIRTHDAY

Plans for celebrating the 46th anniversary of the Catholic Order of Foresters Friday, May 17, are being made under the direction of Thomas R. Heaney, state chief ranger and vice president of the Garfield State bank. The order was founded forty-six years ago by a group of men in the West Madison district and has since grown to be a national organization with branches in twenty-eight states.

The celebration will be held at the Hotel Sherman. The ladies' auxiliary of the Illinois chapter will assist in arranging the affair. Women on the committee are: Mrs. Michael Donohue and Mrs. Leo Georgen, representing the west town women; Mrs. Thomas McCarthy and J. T. Fuchs of the south town group; and Mrs. J. Tone Scanlon and Mrs. William Haefliger of north town.

Other assistants of Mr. Heaney are S. J. Brosseau, John F. Spels, Joseph T. Hrody, and Peter M. Kelly.

Debate Fraternity Group Formed at Crane College

Seven members of the Crane Junior college debating team were inducted into Phi Ro Pi, national debating society, recently. By becoming members of the society the debaters gave Crane a charter unit in the association. For entrance into the organization, which had its beginning at the Grand Rapids Junior college, participation and victory in two intercollegiate debates is necessary. The Crane debaters who have become members are Irwin Kaplan, Jacob Stagman, Samuel D. Neidorf, J. Jerome Kaplan, Edward A. Izen, Sol Pearlman, and Martin Schneid.

ROSARY GIRLS DANCE IN CELEBRATION OF FEAST DAY

Girls of Rosary college, River Forest, presented a dancing festival Tuesday in celebration of the feast day of St. Catherine of Siena. The picture shows girls who took part in dances of foreign lands. OUR TOWN

Paragraphs Anent the Passing Throng.

BY FRED PASLEY.

THE firemen's dance at Leyden Community High school was well attended and the fiddling excellent, the grownups quadrilling, square dancing and waltzing till they were clean tuckered out, we glean. Our young people black bottomed.

CHARLEY ROTH of the board of underwriters reports that Donald Peterson, returning from Champaign, encountered Charley Gage—both being of our town—with his car stalled on the Dixie highway. Charley had removed all the bolts, nuts, wires and sparkplugs and put them back again without avail. "Don't tell anybody," whispered Donald after a brief examination, "but you're out of gas."

THE Quadrangle Lions, who invariably do the right thing at the right time, have assumed the initiative to provide raincoats for every safety patrol boy in the district by pledging $160. The district is bounded by Central Park, Armitage; Central avenues, and Addison street. The sum includes the patrols of all schools, parochial and public.

CALL HEARINGS ON THREE BIG SEWER LINES

Paving Projects Up Next Friday, Too.

A public hearing on fourteen west side improvements will be held by the board of local improvements in the city council chambers next Friday morning. Property owners who would be assessed to pay for these improvements were notified last Friday to appear.

Friday's session, which will be the second large hearing this spring, will dispose of virtually all west side projects the board desires to have approved at the present time, according to board officials.

The most important projects to be taken up at the hearing are three sewer systems; one for the near west side, and two for outlying sections of the northwest territory.

2,566,000 Monroe System.

The Monroe street sewer system, proposed to serve the district between Peoria and Leavitt street and Harrison and Madison streets, will be under consideration. Engineers of the board have estimated that this project will cost $2,566,000. It is planned to replace old sewers in certain streets and generally to enlarge the system in that district, according to C. D. Hill, engineer.

The Addison Heights sewer, for which plans were recently completed, will also be up for hearing. This system is planned to serve the newly annexed territory northwest now entirely without sewerage. More than 9,000 residents of this section are in need of sanitary sewerage, Mr. Hill said yesterday.

The third sewer system, the Devon avenue system, is planned to serve another newly annexed section at the north end of the 41st ward.

A fourth stretch of sewerage is desired in Sunnyside avenue between Long and Central avenues.

These Paving Jobs Proposed.

The board seeks to pave the following streets:

A system including a stretch on Major avenue between Newport and Belmont avenues; and sections of Melrose, Henderson and Roscoe streets between Central and Menard avenues.

Barry avenue between Narragansett avenue and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway tracks.

Linder avenue between Belmont avenue and Addison street.

Keystone avenue between Avondale avenue and Grace street.

Grace street between Richmond streets and Kedzie avenue.

Peterson avenue between Menard and Nagle avenues.

Lawrence avenue between Austin and Narragansett avenues.

Approval will be sought the opening of Leland avenue between Austin and Narragansett avenues, and of an alley in the block bounded by Cornelia, Lavergne, Newport, and Laramie avenues.

Property owners on Central avenue between Gettysburg avenue and a point 167 feet north of this street will be asked to approve the laying of a water supply pipe in this block.

Celebrate Day of Saint with Dancing Fete

College day was observed at Rosary college, River Forest, last Tuesday. Each year on April 30, the feast day of St. Catherine of Siena, the students celebrate with special festivities. A physical education demonstration was presented Tuesday morning with a banquet in the evening. The day's observances began with a high mass at 8:30 o'clock.

Dances peculiar to various countries featured the demonstration. For England there was a "Catherine Peascod"; for Scotland a "Highland Fling"; for Sweden a "Pryksdals Polka"; for France a "Pavlova Gavotte"; for Germany a "Hopping Dance"; for Hungary a "Chebogar"; for Russia a "Cerdetschni."

The girls participating included Miss Mary Lucia Hutchinson, Miss Martha Jene Halloran, Miss Margaret Madigan, Miss Mary Dana, Miss Dorothy Steiner, Miss Helen Corrigan, Miss Catherine Becker, Miss Miriam Corrigan, Miss Monica Esser, Miss Eileen Keefe and Miss Marie Fountain. GLENBARD HIGH ANNOUNCES NINE ALL-A STUDENTS

The complete list of super-honor roll students at Glenbard High school, Glen Ellyn, was recently announced at the school. To gain a place on the super-honor roll a student must have a grade of A in all subjects. The honor roll students rank below those on the super-honor roll.

Nine students are on the super-honor roll, Miss Lucille Myers, Miss Rose Zvedelik, William Day, Miss Dorothy Lewis, Miss Helen Sjoblom, Miss Geraldine Benthey, David Clark, Douglas Eadie, Herbert Mueller, Miss Marion Wozencraft, and Miss Mabel Craig.

There are 63 girls and 27 boys on the honor roll.

Marshall Benefit Dance.

A dance was given last Friday night at the Douglas Park refectory under the auspices of the "M" club of Marshall High school for the benefit of the $150 semi-annual scholarship awarded by the club to the best athlete at the school.

SPRING FESTIVAL GIVEN BY STUDENTS OF PROVISO HIGH

The music department of Proviso Township High school presented its ninth annual spring festival concert last Friday evening in the school auditorium. More than 70 students took part in the various numbers on the program.

R. LEE OSBURN.

R. Lee Osburn, head of the music department and organizer of the National High school chorus which sang in Chicago last year, was in charge, assisted by Wallace Nelson, instructor in stringed instruments.

Groups participating in the concert were the junior orchestra and the regular orchestra, Girls' Glee club, freshman chorus, and the high school chorus. Soloists in the cantata, "The Village Blacksmith," included Miss Ruth Dennen, soprane; Richard Daniels, tenor; Hortense Peters, pianist, and Florence I. Otis, organist.

CALLS ELEVATED ROAD ONLY WAY TO SAFE DRIVING

Pedestrian and Motorist in Constant Conflict.

Satisfying the demands of motorists for speed and at the same time complying with the requests of pedestrians for safety is keeping west park officials in a constant turmoil, Capt. William Stocker of the west park police force said yesterday.

"It is impossible to solve the problem with the present traffic system," Capt. Stocker said. "The only way I know to protect pedestrians and maintain rapid traffic is by grade separation. This can be obtained by running the through traffic over an elevated roadway.

"Pleas of motorists for rapid movement cannot be heeded if stop and go signals are installed to guard pedestrians at the crossings.

More Lights for Safety.

"On the other hand, if crossings are to be made safe for pedestrians, more signal lights must be installed, with a consequent slowing up of motorists and traffic congestion. Since it is the belief of the west park commissioners that the pedestrian comes first, the lights must continue to be installed if funds are available to pay for them.

"On Washington boulevard of the 16 crossings between Canal street and Austin boulevard, signal lights have been installed at 26. There are 94 lights in use on all westpark crossings, and requests are constantly being made for more.

"I recently received a plea from William T. Born, principal of the Columbus school, for lights at Augusta boulevard and Leavitt street. Another came from the Checker Cab company for lights at Jackson boulevard and Loomis street, and a third from Mrs. F. E. Irrman for Jackson boulevard and Keeler avenue.

Scores of Protests Received.

"Lights installed last month at Washington boulevard and Kariov, Keeler, and Kildare avenues, at the request of local civic groups, schools, and churches, have already aroused scores of protests from motorists, and if those requested are installed more protests will follow.

"Attempts to have both signal lights for the protection of pedestrians and cross traffic, and rapid movement on the boulevards have failed.

"Motorists wanted synchronization of lights at successive corners, but this soon proved unsatisfactory. A progressive system is now being demanded, but that too will be of little avail, since motorists traveling at a different speed from that at which the lights are set will be delayed anyway. Furthermore, to install a progressive system would be extremely costly and cannot be guaranteed to work perfectly.

"If the lights were an absolute safeguard for the pedestrian and guarantee against accidents between automobiles, at least one thing would be accomplished by their installation, but, strange to say, that is not the case. Statistics compiled by the board for 1928 show there are proportionately more accidents at crossings protected by signal lights than at crossings where there are none."

READY TO START $100,000 CHURCH FOR ELMHURST

Redeemer Evangelical Lutheran church of Elmhurst is to build a new house of worship at the northwest corner of St. Charles road and Kenilworth avenue. The church building, which is expected to cost well over $100,000, is scheduled for dedication the early part of next year. Building operations are to begin in the near future.

The plans call for a structure of stone and steel, 100 feet long and about 50 feet wide. The nave will have a seating capacity of about 300, the choir 40 and the mezzanine about 30. Provision will be made for church council rooms, choir practice rooms, church offices, etc. The basement floor is to contain an auditorium seating 400 persons, which will be suitable for entertainments, church dinners and similar gatherings. This floor will also contain Sunday school rooms, a nursery and a kitchen.

The congregation was organized about a year ago and services have been held since that time in Hawthorne school. The Rev. W. A. Setzer is pastor.

The second prize of $3 was awarded to August Sollick, 418 Blanchan avenue, Congress Park, for a picture of Mrs. Sollick, made in La Grange. Mrs. E. C. Baer, 1418 North Menard avenue, won the third prize of $2 with "A Pause in Their Play," showing Gordon and Russell Baer.

WHO SAID IT? When, Where and Why

THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each snappy quotation printed and $5 for the best answer. Send your answers and quotations to the Who Said It editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

WHO SAID:

1. What's the constitution between friends?—J. P. H., Naperville, Ill.

2. Much may be made of a Scotchman if be caught young?—Warren A. Brownlee, 125 Highwood avenue, Highwood, Ill.

3. Sir, I have learned to beat a retreat?—Jacob Fries, 1621 North Park avenue, Chicago.

(Answers to the above quotations will be printed two weeks from today. Answers to last week's quotations will appear next Sunday.)

ANSWERS

Following are answers to quotations previously published:

Quotation—I say, Judge, I believe they're giving you the bird.

Answer—This was said by Lord Louis Mountbatten, second cousin of King George V. of England, to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, former federal judge, during a baseball game at the New York Polo grounds on Oct. 5, 1922. It was the second game of the world series between the New York Giants and the New York Yankees.

At the end of the tenth inning, with the score 3 to 3, Umpire Hildebrand called the game on account of darkness, although to the fans it still seemed light enough to continue play. Baseball authorities agreed, however, that Hildebrand acted wisely. But the crowd evidently believed it was a move to prolong the series. Commissioner Landis was in no way responsible for the umpire's act but the crowd surged around his box, yelling epithets and jeers.

At this point Lord Mountbatten, who with his bride, the former Edwina Ashley, English heiress, was in the Landis box, made his famous remark: "My word, Judge, I believe they are giving you the bird," meaning "razz." Lord and Lady Mountbatten had just arrived in New York for a tour of America.

The Giants won the next three games and the series, four games to none.—E. E. W., Joliet, Ill.

Quotation—We shall attack at daylight tomorrow; I would fight them if they were a million.

Answer—Said by Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, Confederate commander in the west, on April 5, 1862, the evening before the first day of the battle of Shiloh in which he was killed. He was anxious to attack the Union army under Gen. Grant before Gen. Buell, who was marching from Nashville with 20,000 men to reinforce Grant, could arrive. — Rosemary Levering, 319 North Cross street, Wheaton, Ill.

Quotation—My stockings want to see my mother.

(No answers received. There's a $5 prize for the best one.)

OUR LADY ORGAN CALLED FINEST IN ALL AMERICA

10,000 Attend Church's Masses Each Sunday.

ving Sunday the holy sacrifice was ered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. illiane. The fathers rented the home f the Spillanes, which was located on the northeast corner of Jackson boulevard and California avenue.

Bricks Given by Bishop.

In 1874 the building of a combined church and house was started, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Foley donating the bricks used in the building of the church. The work of completing this church was not accomplished without great troubles and privations. The first baptism in the church was that of Helen Durkin. The first to be married in the church were Frank McQuaid and Catherine Hartnett.

September, 1876, marked the opening of the parochial school. On September of the following year, the Very Rev. Dr. McMullen, V. G., blessed the new bell. This same bell is still in service.

In 1895 Father Morini appointed Father Venturi as his successor to office. Father Venturi fulfilled his duties for about a year, during which time he constructed the parochial school. On account of failing health he was obliged to return to Italy and died soon after reaching his native land. Father McCann succeeded him. Father Hugh Crevier succeeded Father McCann and continued in office until 1901. In that year, Father Crevier was appointed first provincial of the American province, and Father A. M. Quigley succeeded him as pastor. In 1905 Father Sheehan succeeded to the pastorate. In 1906 Father Burke replaced Father Sheehan as pastor. He held the office until 1908 when he was followed by Father Quigley.

Guard Cadets Organized.

It was Father McCann who founded an organization which brought considerable fame to the boys and young men of the parish—the St. Joseph's guard cadets. It took part in many Catholic events of the day and, at Thatcher's grove in 1889, it won the championship in a competitive drill. Among the members of this organization was the present pastor—the Rev. Jerome Mulherin, O. S. M.

Father Mulherin, who is the only priest born and raised in the parish, was installed as pastor in 1927. His birthplace was 1148 Jackson boulevard (old number, now in the 2600 block. Father Mulherin was baptized by Father Burke, founder of the parish. He attended the parochial school in the parish, served as altar boy in the old church, made his first communion and was confirmed in the church, and sang his first mass in Our Lady of Sorrows church.

Late in the '80s the little church, once surrounded by prairie, was beginning to find itself in the midst of a rapidly increasing population. The building became far too small to accommodate the faithful who crowded to it every Sunday.

New Edifice Started in 1890.

Ground was broken for the new edifice in 1890 and in September of that year Archbishop Feehan, in the presence of 8,000 people, laid the cornerstone. He was assisted by the most prominent clergy of the diocese and the procession which escorted the bishop to the church on that occasion was the largest of the kind ever held on the west side. Only a part of the nave was built to about midheight and roofed in as a temporary church. It was blessed by Father Leplae and opened on Sunday, Dec. 21, of the same year. The Rev. Father Moresini—Father Tom—sang the first high mass on Christmas day.

The old church building was then converted into a monastery by the community. The interior of the new church, though devoid of ornament, was dear to the people, for they saw in it the beginning of a magnificent plan. In 1892, the fathers agreed to build a house adjoining the school where the Sisters of Providence might have more room.

In 1895 the transepts, sanctuary and lower church were added to the edifice. The following year the chapel and facade were added. But the building progressed slowly. It was not until May, 1899, that the final task of completion was undertaken. The towers were finished in November, 1900. The magnificent interior, much admired by competent critics, was designed by W. J. Brinkman in pure renaissance after the style of Bramante. The balconies of the organ loft were made in exact reproductions of the balcony of the Sistine chapel at the Vatican. Jan. 5, 1902, marked the church's solemn dedication.

10,000 Attend Mass.

Ten thousand persons attend the masses on Sunday now at Our Lady of Sorrows church. Close by are the other parish buildings—the monastery of Servite fathers, the parochial school, St. Philip High school for boys, Providence High school for girls, the new $1,000,000 building for which will be dedicated May 12—the clubhouse and gymnasium, the parish and lodge hall.

Great changes, surely, since the "little church on the prairie" of 1874

Miss Lucille Myers is valedictorian and Miss Roberta Fenzel is salutatorian of this year's graduating class at Glenbard Township High school, Glen Ellyn.

Miss Myers' score was 1.2, her record for the first seven semesters showing 24 A's and 6 B's. Miss Fenzel was a close second with a score of 1.27, her scholastic record showing 24 A's and 9 B's.

Miss Myers is a member of the Glen Bard staff this year. Miss Fenzel is active in both literary and athletic interests.

TRAFFIC PASSES OUTSIDE; RIVER AREA SLUMBERS

Lack of Through Lanes Blamed for Inactivity

That part of the west side between Western avenue and the river can be changed from a "frozen area" to a lively business district only by the development of a system of through streets cutting this territory north and south and connecting it with the north and south sides, Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe told members of the West Town chamber of commerce recently.

Guy Cramer, executive secretary of the West Central association, said yesterday that he is heartily in favor of making north and south streets in the district available for through highway traffic. Property values would be increased if such streets as Halsted street and Western and Ashland avenues were widened and made into connecting arteries with the north and south sides, he added.

Property Values Static.

Property values in the district have remained unchanged for some time, Mr. Cramer said, and his group has been working for years to obtain the completion of these streets as widened thoroughfares.

Commissioner Wolfe went even further to say that the absence of north and south through streets has kept the district dormant for 50 years as far as property values are concerned. Almost all the west traffic arteries lead into the loop, he pointed out, and while this condition continues development will not come.

Prosperous business centers, he said, grow up all over the city on streets running perpendicular to arteries leading to the loop. As examples he cited 79th street, 63d street, Wilson avenue, Lawrence avenue and Crawford avenue at Madison street.

Similar to the near west side is the south side area between 18th and 47th streets and Halsted and State streets, Le said. The absence of cross town streets there as on the near west side has kept the district from growing.

Urged by South Side Leader.

H. H. Haylett, managing vice president of the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce, declared yesterday that the establishment of cross town streets in this section would undoubtedly prove a boon to property there. Streets which would connect this section with the southwest side and with the west side north of the river are extremely desirable, he said, and by facilitating communication would certainly help the district to prosper.

"The cause of the lack of growth is the absence of highway transportation between outlying sections," Commissioner Wolfe told members of the West Town chamber, "and not between the various outlying sections and the loop. Streets leading to the loop from these sections serve as nothing more or less than bleeding arteries carrying the prosperity out.

"To solve the problem we must bring the 1,400,000 people on the south side in close contact with the 1,500,000 people on the west side. By doing this, a large theater or department store on Madison street, for example, will be accessible to residents in the neighborhood of 47th street.

"There is something extraordinary in the lack of development in the near west and south sides, particularly in the midst of such growth as Chicago has seen in recent years."

POPULAR

MISS G. WEISE.

Miss G. Weise, 4228 W. Harrison street, is one of the candidates in the popular daughters contest, being conducted in conjunction with the frolic show and dance to be held by the Odd Fellows of Chicago at Ashland auditorium on May 11.

The voting in the contest closes at 11 p. m. on the night of the frolic, and the winning girl will be crowned queen of the frolic and presented with a diamond dinner ring. The affair is being staged for the benefit of the orphans' home of the Odd Fellows at Lincoln, Ill.

URGE "L" LINES LINKING NORTH AND WEST SIDES

The Wicker Park chamber of commerce, 1588 Milwaukee avenue, will hold a general meeting for its members Wednesday, according to an announcement of the president, Dr. N. Ginsburg.

Several proposed improvements of interest to residents of the northwest side are now being considered by the chamber. One of these is the suggested extension of the elevated lines connecting the north side with the northwest side. Proponents of this plan advocate building a line from Halsted street and North avenue to Damen avenue on the Logan Square branch. Another suggestion is to run tracks parallel to Damen avenue from the Ravenswood branch to the Lake street line.

The chamber has recently mailed about 150,000 copies of a circular outlining the benefits of Wicker Park to people all over the country. Meetings of the chamber are held every Wednesday in the Noel Bank building. The secretary of the organization is Robert B. Albrecht.

Opera Made of Fragments.

GOTHA, Germany.—(AP)—An opera assembled from fragments of Mozart by Ludwig Kusche of Munich was a success here.

Women Can Be In Style and Still Be Comfortable

A YEAR ago I came home from a dance at the Oak Park club, flung myself down into the nearest chair and kicked off my shoes with a sigh of relief. It had been a pleasant affair, but I had been in torture the whole evening. My feet ached. I felt nervous and cross.

To glance at the offending shoes, no one would suspect that they were the cause of my irritation. If ever a woman had been smartly shod, I was that woman. My shoes were chic in style. Their beautiful silver satin matched my new frock. With their dainty cut-out design, Louis heels and narrow strap, they were the last word in a formal shoe. Yet they had spoiled my whole evening.

The next night a well-known Oak Park physician and his wife were dinner guests at our home. We were old friends and I felt free to tell him my troubles. He was sympathetic, but perfectly familiar with the problem. "Women come to me almost every day with the same story," he said. "They want smart footwear and they want comfort. Yet they can have both if they would wear correctly fitted shoes.

"The trouble is due to the fact that our feet are as different as our faces," he explained. "Each person's feet have certain peculiarities. Unless these are recognized by the shoe fitter and the proper shape and size of shoe selected, she will be uncomfortable just as you were last night."

"Well, what's the answer?" I asked. "There's another big party at the club next week, but I don't want to go if I have to be in misery the entire evening."

"I'm going to give you some advice," said the doctor. "If you follow it, you'll be able to enjoy every minute of your next party. A year and a half ago there was opened a shop by an Oak Park man who specializes in the correct fitting of women's and children's shoes. He is different from almost all other shoemen in that he makes, right in his own store, the slight alterations that each particular customer may need. He has had twenty years' experience in fitting women and children, and his success, even with difficult cases, is such that foot specialists in Oak Park and Chicago send people to him. I have referred many women and children to this place with good results.

"You'll find his shoes are of the latest vogue, too. His experience assures style as well as comfort. The name of this shoe man is E. J. Fanning, and his shop is at 1027 Lake street, just east of the Hub's Oak Park store."

Gets Style and Comfort.

I thanked the doctor and the next afternoon I went to Fanning's store to see for myself. A sign in the window confirmed the doctor's statement. It read, "We make the task of fitting shoes a pleasure for the ladies who usually find it difficult to be fitted." I told Mr. Fanning that Dr. ——— had sent me, and he seemed to take it as a matter of course. "He sends many people here," he said, "and many of the ladies are fitted with Matrix shoes. You will find them chic in style as well as comfortable."

I asked to be fitted with a dress shoe. He spent considerable time with me. He made a slight alteration in the pair of lovely slippers I finally selected. I put them on and wore them at the big president's reception and dinner dance last year. I danced every dance and when I got home I wasn't a bit tired. Every woman who knows the blessing of comfortable shoes realizes my feelings. My foot worries have disappeared. Since then I have bought all my shoes at Fanning's, and have the children fitted there with excellent results. Do you wonder that I am enthusiastic?

LAWNDALE VETS READY FOR 10TH BIRTHDAY PARTY

Banquet and Reunion Set for Next Saturday.

Lawndale-Crawford post, No. 98, of the American Legion, reports everything all set for its tenth anniversary banquet and reunion to be held at the Graemere hotel, Washington boulevard and North Homan avenue, Saturday night. The purpose of the banquet, it is announced, is to give members an opportunity to get together for a solid evening of pleasure—a chance to get acquainted, particularly those members whose business does not permit them to attend meetings regularly. Supper will be served at 10 p. m. It will be strictly a legion affair for present, past, and prospective members. There will be a number of distinguished guests.

Austin post, No. 52, has issued an open letter "to a patient and generous public" in which the members declare their stand concerning legion participation in partisan politics and also express their thoughts concerning the political activity of ex-service men, especially so-called ex-service men's committees.

One paragraph of the letter reads: "There is but one need in our opinion, for the use of ex-service men's committees or groups. Only when ex-service men have a direct and inconvertable interest in public affairs can such groups rightfully be used. Obviously, ex-service men can have little interest in city or county elections except in their rôle as citizens. In state and national affairs where they are directly concerned, however, as with legislation concerning military and naval matters, hospitalization, or national defense, ex-service men are able to express themselves through their responsible national organizations, such as the Grand Army of the Republic, the United Spanish-American War Veterans, the American Legion and others; hence we fell that the use of local committees is not justified."

Commander Tom McEvoy has appointed C. J Boleyn, 129 South Humphrey avenue, Oak Park, as Poppy day chairman for Marine post, No. 273. Mr. Boleyn is anxious to hear from all the women who assisted Marine post in past years on Poppy day. The post will be host to its members and friends tomorrow evening, at the Garrick theater, when it presents its annual benefit performance. The regular meeting of the post will be held as usual on the third Monday of the month, at the Auditorium hotel. Capt. A. J. McKenna, war time flier, will be the guest speaker, talking on "Flying the Air Mail Today."

Chicago Elevated post, No. 184, recent winner of the American Legion certificate of meritorious service, continues to set a fast pace in the 1929 membership drive. The latest report given out by Commander George R. Apfel shows that 693 veterans have been enrolled in "L" post this year. This is almost a 300 per cent increase over 1928. This record will be celebrated on Tuesday night with an open house in room 1933 Edison building, at which the wives and friends of "L" post members will be guests. An illustrated talk on "Chicago's Achievements in 1928" will be a feature of the program, which also will include several acts by professional entertainers and dancing.

Cook county council of American Legion auxiliaries will again participate in Hospital day, May 11, at the Edward Hines Jr. hospital. For the last three years members of the organization have acted as hostesses at the refreshment booth and will preside again in that capacity this year. Miss Dagmar Romer, who is rehabilitation chairman of the council, is in charge of the arrangements and is cooperating with William Wilson, who is acting as chairman of the Cook county council of the Legion.

The first district will hold its first annual dance and May party at Hotel Sherman Saturday night. Robert E. Casey, commander of the first district, anticipates that the event will be one of the Legion's biggest, for the twenty-two posts in the district have arranged a program of entertainment that will bring headliners from leading Chicago theaters, the Kiltie band and Bell post's drum and bugle corps. A May queen will be honored, and "a wonderful time" is promised to all who attend.

Lorado Taft will be the speaker tomorrow noon at the meeting of Advertising Men's post, No. 38, at the Hotel Sherman. The famous sculptor will take for his topic "War Memorials." Following the talk Polly Walker of "Billie" fame will appear on the program.

Learn Health by Playing Doctor

A health clinic was staged recently by children of the fifth grade of Penn school, 1616 South Avers avenue. The picture shows Romana Micon performing the duties of a nurse and Robert Derrickson undergoing an examination by Walter Glassner, the doctor. During the course of the clinic all the children were interrogated concerning their knowledge of various health problems which had been studied in school. Mrs. N. Plachota is teacher of the class and George F. Cassell principal of the school.

MADISON-KEDZIE BUSINESS MEN ORGANIZE CLUB

A new community organization, the Madison-Kedzie club, was organized last Tuesday at a luncheon at the Graemere hotel and attended by business men of the Madison street and Kedzie avenue district. Following formation of the club, it was announced that election of officers will be held at a luncheon at the hotel next Tuesday.

The aim of the club, as stated, in the newly adopted constitution, is "to promote the civic, economic, and social progress of the community within a radius of approximately one-half mile from the intersection of Madison street and Kedzie avenue."

Three classes of membership have been provided: First, individuals and organizations engaged in business; second, professional people and property owners, and third, unclassified. This last group includes representatives of other clubs, principals of schools, pastors of churches and others interested in the progress of the community.

I. Krupnick was temporary chairman at the meeting last Tuesday.

A committee to solicit memberships was appointed, the chairman being V. E. Fay and the other members, S. M. Russell, R. R. Weinberg, Maurice Silvey, J. Goodman, and M. J. Walters.

Those present at the luncheon last Tuesday included the following: Edward Adelman, J. Abrahamson, G. Clarey, Julius Goodman, Jack Kirsch, William M. Losby, George J. Righeimer, M. Rudikoff, S. M. Russell, Nathan Siegel, Maurice L. Silvey, Sol A. Silvey, Thaddeus Slesin, M. J. Walters, C. C. Wedding and Robert R. Weinberg.

MORE SHOPS JOIN GROUP OPERATING CUSTOMER BUSES

S. W. Commerce Body Is Outgrowing Quarters.

Several new members have been added to the list of merchants now making use of the community bus service inaugurated recently by the Southwest Chamber of Commerce, 3951 West 26th street. The bus operates from Kedzie avenue along 26th street to Ogden avenue, then along Ogden avenue to Harlem avenue and back. Tickets are issued by merchants sponsoring the service to customers wishing transportation.

The new members include Edward Pernick, G. Jahnke, Mrs. F. Miller, Mrs. Hlany, J. C. Burg, L. Kuba, Mrs. J. Hruby, F. Novak, L. Vlasak, Mrs. J. W. Fikejs, Mrs. J. B. Bertrand, Mrs. Josephine Bertrand, Mrs. Anna Bufka, Louis Panecek, and Mrs. Helen Stika.

Chamber to Meet in Park.

Future meetings of the chamber of commerce may be held either at Douglas park or in the new administration building of Douglas park, according to an announcement issued yesterday by Joseph Klicka, president of the chamber. Members are now looking into the feasibility of both places. The chamber's constantly growing membership will soon require a new meeting place. Among the prospective speakers now under consideration by the chamber for future meetings are H. H. Haylett, executive secretary of the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce, and John F. Voight.

The proposed widening of West 26th street from Western avenue to the city limits has brought forth an abundance of discussion, according to Mr. Klicka. The proposed improvement calls for the cutting away of the north side of the street 36 feet. Many of the property owners affected have endorsed the plan, while others condemn it because it would cut into their present locations.

Sees Evidences of Prosperity.

The chamber, reports Mr. Klicka, has noted a general trend toward prosperity in the community. Several merchants have improved their store windows, most of the vacant shops along 26th street near Crawford avenue have been rented, and an air of progress is manifest.

ROBERT BURNS P.-T. TO OBSERVE FATHERS' NIGHT

The Parent-Teacher association of the Robert Burns school, 25th street and Central Park avenue, will hold its first fathers' meeting next Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the school auditorium.

The newly elected officers will be installed. They include: President, Mrs. Anna Jandus; first vice president, Mrs. May Fortelka; second vice president, Henry Sonnenschein; recording secretary, Mrs. Marjorie Jelinek; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Anna M. Weiss; treasurer, Mrs. Julia Hartmann.

Charles Bentley will talk on "Our Responsibilities as Fathers," and Frank J. Kozelka will speak in Bohemian on "Our Community Responsibilities." Peter Ritzma and Miss Anna Wise, principal of the school, also will make addresses. Raincoats and hats will be presented to the boys in the safety patrol and groups of the children will present a program.

Comedy to Be Presented by Harvard Drama Club

The Harvard Drama club of the Harvard Congregational church, Oak Park, will present the comedy, "Am I Intruding?" tomorrow and Tuesday nights under the anspices of the Harvard church school. The cast includes Miss Margaret Born, Miss Dorothy Shaeror, Miss Genevieve Shaeror, Miss Louise Wasshausen, Miss Ruth Wagner, Miss Ida Olson, Stanley Feltthouse, E. Reed Hemingway, Ross Houston, Ray Watkins, Frank MacLeod, and Frank Reynolds.

39TH WARD TOPS WEST SIDE IN JANUARY BABIES

More babies were born in the Thirty-ninth ward in January than any other west side ward, according to figures compiled by health department officials last week. This ward, which also took first place in the number of births for 1928, had 174 visits of the stork in January, and had a birth rate of 18.67 per 10,000 population.

The well known stork made 124 visits to the Forty-first ward during the same month for a rate of 13.98 per 10,000. Third place went to the Thirty-eighth ward, where 64 babies were born, or 12.53 per 10,000. The lowest ranking ward was the Thirty-third, with 28 births and a rate of 5.93.

Births in the other wards in the order of their respective rates were as follows: Twenty-fifth, 63; Twenty-ninth, 58; Twenty-sixth, 56; Thirty-fifth, 49; Fortieth, 75; Twenty-third, 54; Twenty-eighth, 46; Twenty-first, 53; Twenty-fourth, 49; Thirtieth, 57; Twenty-seventh, 44; Twenty-second, 39; Thirty-first, 41; Thirty-second, 41; Thirty-fourth, 44; Thirty-sixth, 38; Thirty-seventh, 51; Twentieth, 42.

WEST END CLUB HOLDS LUNCHEON NEXT SATURDAY

The annual spring luncheon of the West End Catholic Woman's club will be held at the Palmer house next Saturday at 12:30 o'clock. A musical program is to be given. Newly elected officers of the club are: President, Mrs. Herman R. Wilson; first vice president, Mrs. Francis J. Waindle; second vice president, Mrs. Peter J. Murphy; third vice president, Mrs. James V. Touhy; recording secretary, Mrs. Edward A. Clark; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Alexander M. Crawford; financial secretary, Mrs. William C. Leonard; treasurer, Mrs. Edward F. Daly; directors, Mrs. Frank Wink, Mrs. F. J. Heisler, Mrs. S. Walter Brundage, and Mrs. William L. Sullivan. The retiring president is Mrs. James E. Lennon, Mrs. William G. Hopkins is press chairman.

Capes Given to School Drum and Bugle Corps

The Bridge School Community center sponsored an entertainment recently to provide capes for the Drum and Bugle corps of the school, New England avenue and Grace street. The school orchestra, under the direction of Julius Rosenblum, who also directs the drum and bugle corps, played several selections and Miss Marilynn Kelly, Miss Betty Stratton and Clifford Bohner gave solo numbers followed by movies and a lecture on the American Indian.

Modern Gifts, of Course, for the Modern Mother

You'll find the Mother of modern days very much into things—taking part in club activities—off for an afternoon at the theatre—driving her own car—out for bridge—perhaps planning a few months of travel. For the Modern Mother lives WITH her children—and not just for them. And how much better she can understand their problems—sympathize with their ideas—enjoy their successes. So here's to the best of them all—The Modern Mother.

Give Mother a Bag Of Silk or Leather

$2.95

There is a certain swagger to these new medium sized bags that Mother will like. And this year, with accessories so important, you may be sure your gift will be most appreciated.

Two types in leather, one in shoe calf trimmed in snake grain, and the other of cross-grain Saffian with marcasite ornaments.

The Bags of silk moire come in both back strap and top handle style and are beautifully Beauvais embroidered. The frames are simulated shell.

Others $4.95 to $12.50

Madigan's—First Floor.

The later the hour— The larger the print

A small print of orange and yellow figures on a background of brown. Sizes 14 to 20.

For afternoon a medium sized print in floral design in rose, chartreuse and black. 14 to 20.

A formal evening dress combines in a striking manner red, black and green. Sizes 14 to 20.

$25

Vary your prints to suit the time of day if you are a close follower of the dictates of fashion.

For morning there are the small silk prints—for afternoon soft printed chiffons, and for evening wear filmy chiffons in gorgeous floral designs. To be doubly sure of smartness, they adopt capes, bows, low backs, uneven hems, and in some cases go sleeveless, all to curry the favor of Fashion.

Madigan's—Second Floor.

Scarfs of crepe chiffon are a fashion-wise gift for Mother. Floral and novelty patterns in dainty pastel shades. $2.95

Pearls for Mother are of three strand style, graduated, indestructible and with real stone clasps. Cornelian, Lapis and Jade. $3.95

Madigan's—First Floor.

Voile Frocks that have the appearance of printed chiffon are in styles that Mother will find most becoming. Dark grounds and grounds in shades to harmonize with the pattern. Special for Mother's Day Gifts, $1.95

Coat Sweaters of fine zephyr or worsted yarns is a handy gift with no end of uses. At the club, morning shopping and summer drives are occasions that often demand just such a sweater. $7.95

Gowns of heavy quality crepe de chine come in a wide assortment of tailored or lacy styles and are a special Mother's Day value. Pink, Peach, Lido and White in sizes 15, 16 and 17. $3.95

Negligees for the Modern Mother are of crepe de chine and prints in smart, practical styles. Bright colors or black with contrasting trimming. Small, medium and large sizes. $10.75

Madigan's—Second Floor.

Rayon Gowns

are a gift both dainty and practical that mother is sure to appreciate.

Fine soft lustrous or "dulesco" rayon. A wide selection of both tailored and trimmed styles. Appliqued in bright harmonizing shades with bindings in smart contrast. In pink or peach, sizes 15, 16 and 17.

$1.95

OPTIMIST CLUB OF OAK PARK INDUCTS HEADS

President Childs Picks Committees for Year.

Installation of new officers of the Optimist club of Oak Park took place at the weekly luncheon Tuesday at the Carleton hotel, Wisconsin and Pleasant avenues, Oak Park. Following the installation the personnel of the committees for the coming year was announced.

The newly elected officers of the club are: President, B. H. Childs, vice president, C. J. Long; secretary, Robert E. McAllister; treasurer, Fred Ebinger; and sergeant-at-arms, Henry Eickelberg. Members of the board of governors are F. A. Colborn, Fred Williams, Roland H. Popken and the officers.

Unusual Plan for Programs.

An unique plan is followed by the club in regard to the program committee. A new chairman is appointed for each month, so that no one man will have the onerous task of providing a speaker every week in the year for the meetings. Each new chairman works in coöperation with the general chairman of the committee. One of the benefits of this plan has been that a diversified list of speakers has been obtained, as each new chairman has put into effect his own ideas regarding after luncheon speakers.

The general chairman for this year is F. G. Rogers, and the other chairmen, each to serve one month, are R. Caron, V. Williams, Ed. Gotsch, Dr. F. W. Guthell, T. L. James, P. J. Nilsen, T. H. Stevens, F. L. Peterson, J. Wasson, L. Horton, M. V. Stanford, and R. H. Malwurm. At Tuesday's meeting each chairman drew three names from a hat, the members whose names he drew thereby becoming his assistants on the committee.

Other Chairmen Named.

The membership committee is made up of Hugh Gardner and W. B. Ross. C. W. Fisher is chairman of the attendance committee, the other members being Erwin Pray, George Boag, A. J. Flannigan, and P. G. Phelps.

Clarence E. Winchell, who was head of the boys' work committee last year, has been re-appointed to that position.

The members of the fellowship committee are R. Skillin, R. H. Popken, J. Rex, and P. Purnell.

The heads of other committees are: Special entertainment, Dean J. De Butts; music, P. H. Congdon; civic welfare, Marshall S. Dutton; golf, Frank A. Colborn; and speakers, Rev. O. A. Geiseman. The finance committee comprises members of the board of governors.

The club is affiliated with Optimist Clubs, Associated, a nation-wide civic organization, with several clubs in the Chicago territory. The past presidents are Lewis W. Foulke, Ralph W. Skillin, Dr. F. S. Tittle, and Frank A. Colborn. The club was organized in 1924.

New officers of the Optimist club of Oak Park were installed Tuesday at the weekly luncheon. Front, left to right: Henry Eickelberg, sergeant at arms; Fred Ebinger, treasurer; C. J. Long, vice president; B. H. Childs, president. Rear, left to right: Robert E. McAllister, secretary; Fred Williams and Frank A. Colborn, members of the board of governors. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Children in the second program included Herman Cavy, Mary Noto, Vito Garafala, Theresa Fiore, Louisa Accettura, Louis Nuzzo, Theresa Villapiano, Mike Paul, Carmella Spino, Caroline Sheldon, Tena Pansini, Rosie Santucci, Margaret Aiello, Mary Armstead, Catherine Apa, Rosie Zerlanga, Louise Seno, Frank De Leon, Wilbert Mitchell and Ralph Vitala. During the course of the program several Mother Goose rhymes relevant to clean-up were given. Miss Mary R. McDonnell is principal of the school.

Girl Reserves in Foreign Garb Appear at 'Y' Party

Chicago high school girl reserves from twelve different countries dressed in the costumes of the land from which they or their parents came made a part of the living exhibit of Y. W. C. A. work shown at the organization's May breakfast Wednesday at Harriet Hammond McCormick memorial before club women of the city. Among the hostesses were Mrs. Philip Post, chairman; Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Mrs. Harold Eldridge, Mrs. Bryan Reid, Mrs. N. W. Campbell, and Mrs. Edward Mills.

St. Giles Guild to Give Building Fund Benefit

The guild of the tabernacle of St. Giles church, Oak Park, will give a benefit party at the Elks' club, 938 Lake street, Oak Park, Tuesday evening. The committee in charge is headed by Mrs. William A. Purcell and Mrs. Lawrence P. Holden. Proceeds are to be turned over to the building fund of the church.

CRAFT EXHIBITION OPENS TOMORROW IN WEST PARKS

The west park commissioners will hold their annual arts and crafts exhibit tomorrow, Tuesday, and Wednesday at the following parks: Shedd, 33d street and Lawndale avenue; Dvorak, Cullerton and Fisk streets; Holstein, 2200 North Oakley avenue; Pulaski, Blackhawk and Noble streets, and Union, Lake street and Ashland boulevard.

The exhibits are to be open from 1 to 10 p. m. each day. On display will be fancy needlework, beadwork, picture frames, cushions, lamp shades, and products of manual training such as boats, airplanes, log cabins and a miniature lake with craft sailing on it. During the course of the exhibit children will demonstrate their ability in modeling clay, soap, wax and sand.

16 Students of York High Elected to Honor Society

Eleven seniors and five juniors have been elected to membership in the National Honor society, from York Community High school, Elmhurst. Membership is based on scholarship, service, leadership, and character. The seniors elected are: Miss Marjorie Schueman, Miss Carmen Wahl, Miss Howard Fischer, Miss Madge Stewart, Robert Black, Miss Aubrey Helms, Miss Alice Berens, Miss Amy Stewart, Miss Marjorie Saint, William Backoff, and Donald Pettet. The juniors elected are: Harold Ladwig, Miss Miriam Carlson, Miss Bernice Frederickson, Miss Vera Jessup and Miss Frances Friedman.

Marshall High Seniors to Hold Prom on June 14

The senior prom of the Marshal High school, 3250 West Adams street, will be held June 14 at the Stevens hotel. The mottto of the senior class was recently selected by the committee appointed for that purpose. It is "Achievements, Not Words," and it was submitted by Lewis C. Kaplan. The committee chosen to pick the class colors has also reported. Pastel green and orchid are the colors selected.

ORDER INQUIRY INTO NORTHWEST REZONING MOVES

Aldermen O. K. Proposal on Carolina Street.

One ordinance rezoning west side property was approved by the city council committee on buildings and zoning Monday, and three others were referred to the west side subcommittee for further investigation.

The committee approved an ordinance to rezone Carolina street between Damen and Hoyne avenues from a apartment to a commercial classification. The measure was recommended by Ald. Max Adamowski [30th]. Ninety-eight per cent of the property owners in that block have signed a petition in favor of making the change, the alderman said.

Bowler Explains Proposal.

An ordinance to zone for commercial purposes the block bounded by Raven street, Newark avenue, and Northwest highway was referred to the subcommittee. The side of this triangular block on the highway is already zoned for commercial buildings, according to Ald. T. J. Bowler [41st], and property owners want the side street lots also zoned so stores can be built. He presented a petition in favor of the rezoning.

An ordinance to rezone Pensacola avenue from the alley west of Central avenue to Menard avenue from an apartment to a residence district caused a heated argument between property owners for and against, and was referred to the subcommittee for investigation.

One Property Owner Fights.

One property owner told the committee that the change to a more closely restricted volume would confiscate the value of his property. "There are already seven two family houses in the block," he said, and no restriction should be placed on the section now. Other property owners who favored the change replied that while there are a few two flat houses in the district, most of the lots are occupied by bungalows, and it is desirable that the piece in question be also zoned to permit the construction of single family residences only.

A proposition to rezone the section bounded by Glenlake avenue, Knox avenue, Kilpatrick avenue, and the alley north of Peterson avenue from commercial to manufacturing classification was referred to the subcommittee without comment.

Glenbard High Seniors Present Annual Play

The annual senior play of the Glenbard Township High school was presented Thursday and Friday nights in the school auditorium. "The New Poor" was the title of the play and those taking part included: Joseph Milnor, Miss Charlotte Frost, Miss Marion Arnold, Miss Victoria Strawn, Miss Margaret Fischer, Miss Catherine Applanger, Miss Martha Elliot, Richard Kelly, Sherman Webster, Richard Marquardt, Robert Rose, Miss Shirley Lesher, Austin Abell, and John Sims. Wilbur Osterling, Ardin Buell, and George Ball were the stage managers for the production.

Dancing Classes Provided for Seniors at Marshall

Dancing classes are being held by the senior dancing committee of Marshall High school every other Thursday for the benefit of members of the senior class who are not adept at dancing. Seniors are given cards which admit them to the dances, and only those who have a G average may be excused from class to attend. Music is provided by the Marshall nine piece orchestra.

Oak Park Singer, Back from Europe, to Give a Recital

Miss Marion McAfee will give a recital in Pilgrim Congregational church auditorium, Oak Park, next Tuesday. She recently returned from Europe, where she took part in six performances in the Royal opera, Covent Garden, London, and appeared as soloist with the Philharmonic orchestra in Paris.

SHE MADE $30.

Chicago, April 29. — I went to a neighborhood second-hand store, where all kinds of goods are sold, to look for a particular sort of dish which I was unable to obtain elsewhere. Being unsuccessful in my search I was about to leave the store when I saw hanging up among some dresses and coats what looked like a seal cape. The salesman referred to it as plush. I examined it carefully and knew better. It was badly worn in spots and the sales price was $5.00. Not wishing to display the eagerness I felt, I pretended to hesitate over the price, but eventually took it. I brought it with a short seal coat of my own to a local furrier of high reputation and he is making me a beautiful long coat out of it. He praised the seal in the cape highly and offered me $35 credit for it on a new coat if I preferred that to having my own made over. That was the only big bargain I ever got.

A SAVING ON GLOVES.

Chicago, April 28.—The best bargain I ever got in my neighborhood was a pair of perfect silk gloves worth $1.50 for 29c. The same kind I bought a few months ago downtown for $1.50. That sure was some bargain to me. Yours truly, MRS. J. VLASATT.

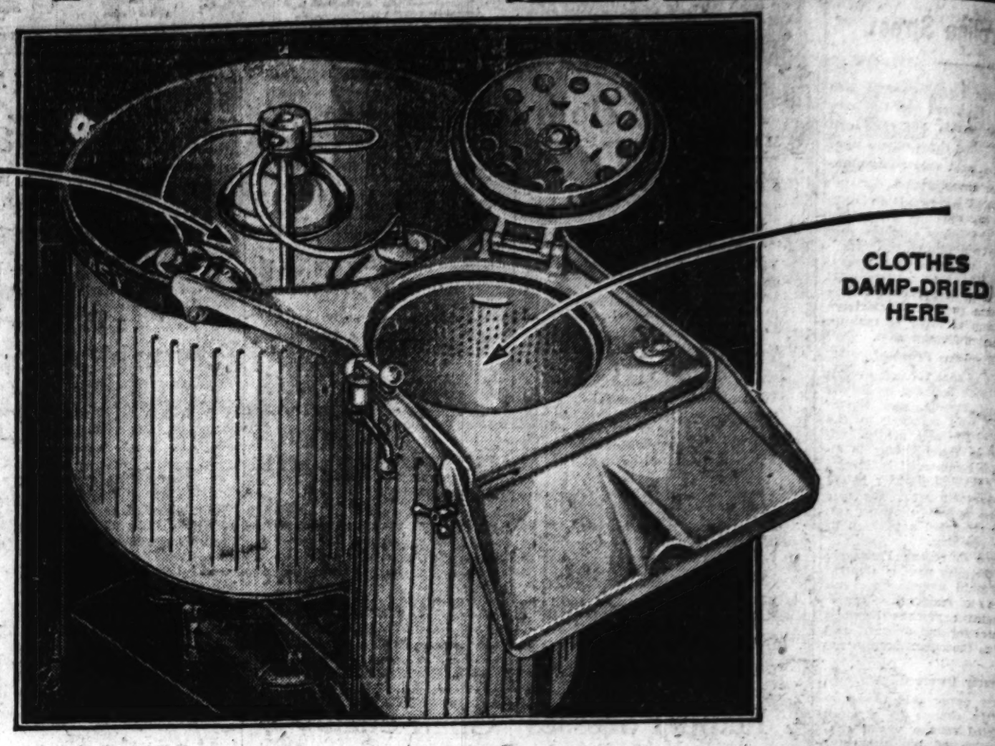
Why the EASY Damp-Dryer is replacing the wringer!



Women everywhere are instantly impressed by the safety and labor-saving features of the EASY Damp-Dryer. It damp-dries one batch of clothes at the same time another batch is being washed in the washing compartment.

Thousands are turning to this modern method of washing—to the no-wringer EASY, which is safer—faster—easier and gentler than the old-fashioned, obsolete wringer-type machine.

The EASY Damp-Dryer is an enclosed metal container which, instead of crushing the water out, whirls it out by centrifugal action.

Merely transfer the clothes from the washing compartment to the Damp-Dryer, drop the top into place and push a lever.

No more broken buttons

The clothes are damp-dried ready for sun-drying in less than two minutes. The whole tubful! And so thoroughly and evenly damp-dried, that in bad weather they can be line-dried indoors and ironed the same day.

Nor need they be handled further for rinsing. Leave them in the Damp-Dryer, pour in the rinse water, push the lever. The Damp-Dryer does the rest.

No broken buttons or fasteners. No torn, worn fabrics. No deep, hard-to-iron-out creases. This better process injures nothing yet damp-dries everything, even to blankets, pillows, sweaters, overalls and other bulky pieces which will not go through a wringer.

No more torn clothes

EASY washes 10 pounds of clothes at a time as compared with the 6-pound average capacity of other type washers.

The gas heater under the tub is an extra convenience that keeps the water hot. When through, the EASY pumps itself dry into the drain or sink.

There are still EASY Washers with wringers. EASY wringers have every known safeguard. But no wringer-type washer—even our own—can compare with the no-wringer EASY. A demonstration will prove it.

FIGHT INCREASE IN SCHOOL TAX; ATTACK BOARD

Business Group Raps Use of Pupils in Drive.

A resolution condemning methods used by the board of education to obtain a petition in favor of its bill for a tax increase pending before the state legislature and opposing the passage of the bill, was adopted recently by the Crawford Business Men's league, which met yesterday to the mayor, the city council and legislators of the 19th senatorial district, in which members of the league reside.

The bill calls for a tax increase in the rate of 31 cents per $100 valuation over the present rate of 96 cents, or a total increase of $21,675,000 in 1929, and a slightly smaller increase over the present rate in 1930, 39 cents per $100, or a total of $16,575,000 in that year.

Circulated by Pupils.

School children were given cards recently containing a printed recommendation of the bill, and were instructed to obtain the signatures of their parents and return the cards to their teachers. It was charged that in some instances the children were intimidated by threats to the effect that the schools would be closed in September unless the parents' signatures were obtained.

"The purpose of the bill is to increase the taxation of the property owners of Chicago who are now inequitably taxed," the resolution said, "and a large majority of property owners of Chicago are not aware of the real purpose of this bill.

Demand Defeat of Bill.

"Whereas, the board of education has employed methods by which the school children were used in bringing about the signing of petitions for the passage of this bill, with intimidation of not reopening the schools next September, be it resolved that the Crawford Business Men's league has condemned the methods used by the board of education and protests against the bill and its passage."

The resolution was signed by Edward F. Toepper, secretary of the group, which includes most of the business men in the neighborhood of 26th street and Crawford avenue.

BUREAU STARTED TO AID STUDENTS IN FINDING JOBS

Students at Austin High school, 5417 Fulton street, have an opportunity to procure employment during their spare hours by means of a school employment agency, of which Ralph Nelson is head.

RALPH NELSON.

A list of those students desiring employment is kept, and when notice of a prospective position comes in they are given first choice. If no one wishes to apply for the place, a notice is posted in the school, affording every one an opportunity to try for it.

Andrew L. Nichols is faculty adviser for the employment agency, and the Civic Industrial club of the school sponsors it. Miss Peg McLaren is girl president of the club, and Robert Mould is boy president.

PRIZE AWARDED BY ELMHURST IN TREE SELLING

The Washington school of Elmhurst won the award promised to the school selling the largest number of trees during "Elm Tree Week."

The "Washington elm" was planted with appropriate ceremonies. Mrs. John Golden, president of the Elmhurst Garden club, presented the tree. The school children gave a selected program of songs and readings.

The board of education planted twenty-two elms in the parkways of the Washington school, which is the newest of Elmhurst's graded schools.

A tree known as "Elmhurst Address Elm," symbolic of a drive made by the Elmhurst college throughout the country, was the first of twenty-one trees planted on the campus the last week.

A program at which both faculty and students took part was given at the planting.

THIS MODEL HAS MANY A THRILL FOR ITS MAKERS

Looks and Acts Like Man Carrying Plane.

BY MRRRILL HAMBURG.
(Secretary Airplane Model League of America.)

Remember when, in 1927, Eddie Schlee and William Brock flew the Atlantic, Europe and Asia to reach Tokio in record breaking time?

If you're a member of the Airplane Model League of America, you're pretty sure to remember it. And you'll also remember, likely, that the airplane used was a Stinson-Detroiter—the same ship described as a scale model in this paper recently.

Today I'm going to tell you how to build a flying Stinson-Detroiter—not a flying scale model, for the ship is somewhat modified in order to gain endurance in the air. The model is one of the neatest commercial jobs developed this year, and when properly built will fly sixty seconds or more.

The Job Takes Time.

Building the model takes time, but no greater skill than the construction of a good endurance plane. Before starting, be sure you've examined the drawing closely—know exactly what you're planning to do.

You may get materials needed to build the model in the special league kit, which will be sent you for $1.50 in money order or check sent to the supply department, A. M. L. A., American Boy building, Second and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich. Or you may be able to get materials separately.

Here's what you'll need: Two balsa leading edges, 5-16x5-16x12 inches; two flat balsa strips for small parts, 1-16x ½x13 inches; fifteen M-6 balsa ribs; balsa motor stick, 5-32x¼x13½ inches; flat balsa for wheels and wing support, ⅛x1½x6 inches; balsa propeller block, ½x1½x8 inches; two strips of bamboo, 1-16x¼x12 inches; one thrust bearing; one rear hook, one propeller shaft, one S hook, two wing clips, eight hooks and eyelets, and two special fuselage nose clips, all of .020 music wire; two brass washers; two sheets of Japanese tissue, 21x31 inches; 2 drams of ambroid; 4 drams of banana oil; a rubber motor, ¼x1-30x52 inches.

Wing of Built Up Type.

The wing is of the built up type—your manual tells you how to make it, Page 6. Follow the dimensions given in the diagram. The wing section is known as the M-6 airfoil, the same as that used on the larger plane. With this article you are given an exact size pattern for this wing—you may cut your ribs on this model from 1-32 inch balsa, or use the ready cut ribs in the league kit.

Assemble the two halves of the wing separately. Glue the ribs to the leading edge as shown in the detail drawing, then attach the trailing edge. Your kit furnishes special pieces of balsa for the leading edge; you cut the trailing edge from flat balsa making it ⅛ inch wide. Form the wing tips by gluing ribs, with their lower surfaces trimmed to a straight edge, to the two end ribs at right angles [see diagram]. You'll find that the kit furnishes 15 ribs, 13 for cross ribs and two for the tips.

Put Halves Together.

Now put the two halves together. Remember that you must give the wing dihedral angle; to do this glue the two halves in a flat V, with the ends 1¼ inches higher than the center. The ends of the leading and trailing edge spars are the points of contact—and don't forget the thirteenth or center rib. You can hold the two halves in place while the ambroid is drying by putting a block 2½ inches high under the tip of one wing, allowing the other to lie flat on your work table. When the ambroid is set, cover the wing with paper as directed in the manual.

Attach the wing clips to the center of the wing, being sure that they are glued to wood, not paper. Fasten four small eyelets to two of the cross ribs as the drawing shows, so that you may hook the wing struts to them.

Now, the Fuselage.

Now start on the fuselage. You'll make it in two sections, as the detail drawing marked "attachment of motor stick" indicates. The longer ones are made of 1-16 inch balsa and the crosspieces of balsa 1-32x1-16 inch, split from your flat pieces; you can get the dimensions of the various sections directly from the drawing.

See why it's a good idea to make the nose and the motor stick all in one piece, with the motor unconnected to the main body? In the first place, it's easy to replace the motor or make minor repairs; in the second the winding of the motor puts no twisting strain on the body. You attach the motor stick, which is 5-32x¼x13½ inches, to the nose by ambroiding it to the top of the small square opening at the front, and to two diagonal braces at the rear frame. The nose and the body are hooked together by means of two clips of .020 music wire, shown in the drawing. Ambroid is used, of course, to attach rear hook, thrust bearing, clips and other metal parts to the model.

Rudder of Bamboo.

To the top of the fuselage, in the opening forward above the windows, you glue the wing support—its upper edge is flush with the top of the fuselage frame. Make it of balsa, ⅛x8-16x5⅛ inches.

Cover the fuselage and the nose with paper. Leave open the section just under the wing, so as to facilitate its adjustment. You may cover the windows with isinglass or some such glassy, lightweight material, if you wish—banana oil is the adhesive used. You can obtain the "window panes" from the wrapping of a package of candy!

The rudder and fin frame are formed from bamboo, split very thin and bent to shape. The diagram shows a balsa right angle on the combination fin and rudder; this is merely to indicate where the rudder would be hinged on the large plane. The two could be made separate and hinged with music wire, but this isn't advisable on a flying model. Better make them of one piece and set the whole fin at a slight angle, as shown in the top left drawing.

Elevators of Balsa.

Because the tail group must be very light—else the model will be tail heavy—the stabilizer and elevators are made with balsa frame. Bending balsa is a delicate job, but you can do it nicely by following instructions in the manual. If you don't care to do this, substitute thin bamboo. You will probably need additional weight on the nose to make up for it, but this can be taken care of later.

Follow the manual, page 7, for instructions as to how to carve your propeller. This model takes a tractor prop, with the center section cut away from the trailing edge.

The landing gear is made from bamboo split 1-16x1-8 inches. Bend your pieces to the shapes shown in the drawing, then split it to 1-16 inch square strips. The wheels are all balsa, 1-8x3-8 inches. They turn on very small .020 music wire axles ambroided to the landing gear, and are kept on by tiny stream-lined balsa hubs ambroided to the axles.

Wing May be Removed.

The four wing struts, or "lift struts," are of very thin balsa ⅛ inch wide. You'll have to suit their length to your ship—length varies on every job. The two front struts hook, as shown in the drawing, between wing ribs and landing gear, and the two rear struts between wing ribs and the lower edge of the fuselage. Thus the wing may be removed at will, or may be moved backward or forward along the wing support for flying adjustment.

Now you've done all the work, unless you want to color wing and wheel fairings [the sections inside the tires] orange, and landing gear and fuselage black, with an orange strip around the top of the fuselage. You can do this coloring either by dyeing paper before covering the model, or by painting it with banana oil and lightweight dyes after it is completed. You'll add weight by coloring it, of course.

Test Ship Carefully.

Put the rubber motor on the motor stick—knot the two ends and you'll have a motor of four strands. Test the ship very carefully. Adjust the wing forward or backward until you find the best position for gliding. If the plane insists on stalling, no matter how far back you put the wing, you'll need to add a little weight to the nose. Some boys do this by increasing the weight of the wheels; one I know ambroided two tiny wire brads to the front end of the motor stick.

When you've found the right adjustment, get ready for a pretty flight. For there's nothing in model work more satisfying than a slow, trim commercial ship in flight. This Stinson Detroiter will take the ship off the ground; it will fly sixty to ninety seconds [a flight of more than thirty seconds indoors or sixty seconds outdoors will win you an honor certificate]; and it will make a three point landing that would make Col. Lindbergh jealous!

More than that, it will be eligible for a special competition to be held at the Second National A. M. L. A. contests which the American Boy Magazine, co-sponsor with THE TRIBUNE of the league, will conduct in Detroit June 20-22. Watch this paper for details of this competition. It's a contest with an international angle.

MAY 14 IS LAST DATE TO ENTER PLANE TOURNEY

W. Side Boys Rush Work to Try for Medals.

With entries in the Model Airplane tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE closing on May 14, west side aeronauts for the forty-eight medals and two trophies to be awarded are busy these days preparing planes so that they may be certified in time by their neighborhood school and playground chiefs.

Not many days are left for making entries, and the awards—including two trips to the national championship meet and back—are so worth while that the feverish activity of those boys who feel in their bones that they have a plane under way that will win honors can easily be accounted for. All expenses of the two trips to the national meet will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Outdoor events of the meet will be held May 19 at Washington park. Indoor events will be held May 26 at the 122d infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets.

Who will be the winners in THE TRIBUNE contests? This is the question uppermost in the minds of the young mechanics. It won't be long now until decisions will be made. The important thing at hand is to make entries before May 14. An entry blank is in this section.

Rules for the tournament follow:

Rules of Tournament.

Rules for the tournament follow:

All contestants must have their planes ready for examination by the judges 15 minutes before the starting time of the contest.

Each plane must have been built by its flyer and each plane certified by a board of education or park system or public school official. The certification must be presented with the entry blank. Only metal parts of the planes can be purchased complete.

No contestant shall launch his model before receiving the launch signal from the official starter.

Each contestant will be allowed three official flights; the greatest elapsed time made in any of the three flights to score.

Interfered flight. If a plane hits some object before it alights on the ground floor and continues in flight or remains suspended, its flyer may, if he chooses, take an additional official flight as a substitute for this interfered flight.

All planes shall be driven by rubber strand motors only.

Winner of first place will be the builder and flyer of the plane which remains in flight the longest time and of second place the second longest elapsed time, and so on to sixth place.

Each contestant must prepare his plane for flight himself—that is, rigging, repairing, and winding up the motors.

Contestants shall be divided into two classes: Class A, those who are 15 years old or over, but under 21 years of age, on May 19; class B, those who are 14 years old or younger, on May 19.

In each event each contestant will not be allowed more than three unofficial flights.

EVENT I.

Indoor Duration Contest.

A. R. O. G. Duration—Planes shall be released under their own power from the floor and must rise from their own power.

B. Any flight under 10 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight.

C. Planes entered in this event may have a wing span of 40 inches or less; a hollow double surfaced wing; a hollow completely enclosed fuselage of a cabin type or cockpit model; a landing chassis with wheels, and be generally in appearance like a real airplane.

D. Judging of duration of flight will be from the moment the model leaves the floor or ground to the time it first touches the ground or floor or passes out of sight of the attending officials, or is permanently stopped in its flight. [See interfered flight.]

EVENT II.

A. Planes entered in this event may have a distance between the propeller bearing and motor hook at the other end of the motor stick of fifteen inches or less. [For pusher-pullers this will be the distance from bearing to bearing.]

B. Launching will be by hand by merely releasing, not throwing.

C. Judging of duration shall be from the moment the plane leaves the hand to the time it first touches the floor or is permanently stopped in its flight, as by hanging on some object. [See section on interfered flight.]

D. Any flight under 15 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight. Only three unofficial flights, that is, under 15 seconds, will be allowed.

EVENT III.

Outdoor Duration Events.

A. R. O. G. duration planes shall be released under their own power from a platform on the ground and must rise under their own power.

B. Any flight under 10 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight.

C. Same as C, Event I.

D. Judging of duration of flight will be from the moment the model leaves the platform on the ground to the time it first touches the ground or passes out of the sight of the attendant officials or is permanently stopped in its flight. [See interfered flights.]

EVENT IV.

A. Planes entered in this event may have a wing span of 40 inches or less.

B. Launching will be by hand, merely releasing the plane, not throwing.

C. Same as D, Event I.

D. Same as B, Event I.

POINT SYSTEM.

The Olympic system of scoring will prevail. Ten points for first place, five for second, four for third, three for fourth, two for fifth, and one point for sixth place.

AWARDS.

Forty-eight medals, two trophies, and two trips to the national championship meet and back will be awarded the winners. The medals will be awarded to the winners of first, second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth places in each event in both senior and junior [A and B] classes. A trophy will be awarded the organization whose representatives earn the greatest number of points in class A division and another will be awarded the high point team in class B. The class A and class B contestants who earn the greatest number of points will receive the trip to the national meet, where all expenses will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

SOUSA FALLS AT LAST FOR THE LURE OF RADIO

Famous Band Goes on Air Tomorrow Night.

John Philip Sousa is going on the air. After holding out for seven years against broadcasting his world-famous band, he will make his radio debut in the family party tomorrow night from W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel.

Although Mr. Sousa has played to more people than any other director in the history of band music, appearing once before a single audinece of 153,000 people at the International Exposition in Glasgow, America's grand old march king tomorrow night will probably have one of the biggest audiences which ever listened to one musical offering.

39 Stations in Chain.

Thirty-nine broadcasting stations will be linked together for Mr. Sousa's radio premiere and they will extend from coast to coast and from Canada to the gulf. Practically speaking, it will be possible for everybody in the United States to hear the concert. Because of Mr. Sousa's fame as a bandmaster and composer and because of the universal affection in which he is held by the people of America, it is expected that a record breaking radio audience will tune in.

"Until now I have steadfastly refused to broadcast," explained Mr. Sousa, "because I have always felt that part of my success as a band leader has been somthing in my personality. I have thought that people wanted to see me and my band as well as hear us.

Can't Ignore Demand.

"I cannot, however, ignore the demand to hear us on the air. I have received at least 10,000 letters asking me to broadcast. I have, therefore, finally concluded that the people want to hear us and that it would be foolish to fail to utilize this great, modern invention which makes it posible for millions instead of a few thousand to listen to a concert. I am happy in the decision and am looking forward with enthusiasm to what I believe will be another thrilling adventure."

Many of the country's favorite selections composed by the famous former leader of the Marine band will be played Monday evening, including his ever popular "Stars and Stripes Forever," "El Capitan," etc.

RADIO TO CARRY HOOVER'S VOICE MEMORIAL DAY

President Hoover's Memorial day message will be broadcast to the entire nation as he speaks at the Arlington amphitheater beside the tomb of the unknown soldier of the world war.

The entire proceedings of the solemn memorial service by the Grand Army of the Republic in the historic Virginia bowl will be heard through the combined networks of the N. B. C. from 3 to 5 p. m. Chicago time, on Memorial day, May 30.

With President Hoover as principal speaker the ceremonies will include the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address by Capt. John M. Kline, selections by the U. S. marine band, talks by Senator Porter H. Dale of Vermont, and Dr. Thomas E. Green of the Loyal Legion, presentation of colors, and the reading of Gen. Logan's order establishing Memorial day.

"There Is No Death," the song traditionally associated with Memorial services in towns and hamlets throughout the nation will be sung by Jeanett McCaffrey, accompanied by the marine band, Hosea B. Moulton, past commander of the G. A. R. will preside.

Oak Park High Girls Are Guests of U. of C. Alumnae

The West Suburban Alumnae club of the University of Chicago gave a luncheon for girls of the Oak Park and River Forest township high school yesterday. Mrs. George Goodspeed of Ida Noyes hall and Miss Gertrude Dudley, head of the physical education department, gave short talks. The girls were taken on a tour of the university campus. Mrs. Ben H. Badenoch was in charge of the arrangements. Miss Anna B. La Venture of Oak Park High school handled the tickets.

York High School Selects June 14 for Commencement

Commencement day at York Community High school, Elmhurst, has been set for Friday, June 14. The Rev. Roy Ewing, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Oak Park, will deliver the commencement address. The Rev. J. C. Bockoven, pastor of the Congregational church of Villa Park, will conduct the baccalaureate service Sunday evening, June 9.

DOUBLE QUARTET SINGS FOR ARCHE CLUB

A double quartet composed of members of the Arche club furnished the entertainment for many of the meetings of that organization. It has received many invitations to sing at the prominent women's groups in the south side. Left to right: Mrs. Richard Evans, Mrs. Charles Boothroyd, Mrs. A. S. Somers, Mrs. A. M. Roberts, Mrs. Lewis Thomas, Mrs. William L. Simonton, and Mrs. Sidney Castle (at piano).

The cast will include John Licata, Carl Klomitz, Walter Covich, Steven Major, Nathan Friedman, captain of the patrol; John Tarsitano, lieutenant; Lawrence Bauer, Robert Schmidt, and John Stoikovich.

RADIO AIDS CITY AND FARM LEARN EACH'S PROBLEMS

Is Great Help in Mutual Understanding.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Bringing the same information and entertainment to farm and city dweller alike, radio has won recognition as a powerful factor in spanning the gulf which divided the farmer and the townsman.

Broadcasting has been very effective in promoting better understanding and coöperation between the city and the country on questions of political and ecomonic interest, according to O. M. Kile, agricultural economist.

"It has been a lamentable fact that the city has had a poor understanding of the country and the country a poor understanding of the city," Mr. Kile said. "This has led to many complications in a legislative way and otherwise which I think the radio has been quite instrumental in straightening out.

Poor Understanding.

"One of the reasons for this is that agricultural speakers have tried to present their views in a broad way with the result that the city listeners cannot help hearing interesting facts about farm life and its problems. On the other hand, the viewpoints of the city are presented in an intimate way by the radio to the people of the country."

The director of a radio station that specializes in farm broadcasts says that radio is so important to the farmer that "agriculture should have not only one clear channel but possibly a dozen clear channels to carry on the necessary work in that field."

City Folks Like Programs.

Old folk songs and barn dance music broadcast by this station primarily for its rural audience have been very popular with city listeners, he says.

"I have thought that perhaps we ought to soft pedal these barn dances because we might be getting in wrong with the commission or the public, but the people want them and we can't abandon them," he said.

"City people enjoy them as well as farm listeners. On the first four Saturday nights of the year that we played the barn dances we received 300 telegrams each night. They came from the cities."

London Hears Germany Is Using Radio Heating

LONDON.—News reaches London to the effect that heating by wireless is already an established fact in Germany, where experimental installations are operating successfully. The meager details of a system that is still apparently being kept in the dark state that strong waves two or three meters long are used to excite filaments enclosed in vacuum tubes, which thus become electric radiators.

. . . And what's more, besides, and in addition, your favorite columnist has written an Opera! R. H. L. is expected to be in good voice for the first radio performance of his opera. He and Gaston du Moulin, director of the W-G-N Symphony Orchestra, have swiped Mark Love's position as opera producer for W-G-N for the evening. And it's a grand Grand Opera. No fooling. Besides, R. H. L. will discard the mask of Wagner for that of Conrad. He has a rousing sea story ready for tonight. Curtain: 10:15.

Jean Goldkette

Way out in front in the race for supremacy in dance music is Jean Goldkette. Not satisfied with the most esoteric of arrangements; not satisfied with the largest of radio dance bands, he employs his genius for selecting the best musicians to the fullest. Each of his men knows the "feel" of the New Music. Bill Herring, master of the trombone, paints that warm purple background for the melodies of Goldkette, reminding one of the backgrounds of Rembrandt. Paul Mertz is the pianist. Bright, cool, moonbeam-like chords cause conversation to hesitate before the loud speaker. Jean Goldkette: 10:05, 10:45, 11:33.

RADIO WILL AID IN OBSERVANCE OF MUSIC WEEK

Many American Works to Be Broadcast.

Native American music and classical works of all nations will receive fresh hearings in America when radio plays a leading rôle in this year's observance of National Music Week which begins today and runs until Saturday. Nation-wide networks of the National Broadcasting company will feature throughout the week special presentations emphasizing works of American composers, and displaying musical masterpieces in new settings for the further edification of potential music-lovers in the United States.

The week-long campaign of the National Music Week committee to gain new converts to the cause of great music will have the full support of radio's far-reaching networks, and the latter will honor the occasion with elaborate features calculated to eclipse all previous ventures of a kindred nature.

First Concert Tonight.

Radio will sound the signal which officially opens National Music Week tonight when a whole constellation of operatic, concert and radio stars participate in a gala broadcast of the Atwater Kent concert.

To be heard in the Music Week inaugural through NBC associate stations including W-G-N, the Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel are Maria Kurenko, soprano; Nina Morgana, soprano; Louise Homer, contralto; Toscha Seidel, violinist; Kathryn Meisle, contralto; Arthur Hackett, tenor; Reinald Werrenrath, baritone; Allan McQuhae, tenor; William Simmons, baritone; Agnes Davis and Hazel Arth, soprano prize-winners of national Atwater Kent auditions; a male quartet and a full symphony orchestra under the direction of Josef Pasternack.

On Monday night, Victor Herbert's Indian opera "Natoma" will be broadcast by the National Grand Opera company with an all-American cast, while on Tuesday the famous Flonzaley Quartet will be on the air playing Dvorak's "American String Quartet" or a similar work by some American composer. Nicholas Longworth is scheduled to speak in the same program.

American Princess to Sing.

A real American princess who is also a vocal artist will be heard Thursday night, when Princess Atalie and Chief White Horn feature music of the American Indian as the program of the National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau. Geoffrey O'Hara, modern composer and songwriter, will officiate as master of ceremonies.

Deems Taylor's musical setting for the famous ballad of Alfred Noyes, "The Highwayman," will be presented Saturday night, and Walter Damrosch will open his symphony concert with an American composer's work, "Virginia" by Robert Braine.

"Songs of Our American Colleges" and a Dixie brass band will rival campus serenades of universities and colleges throughout the country on Saturday night, and the weekly Hymn Sing, Thursday, will feature exclusively religious songs by American hymn-composers.

SAINT JOAN BROADCAST.

"Saint Joan," by George Bernard Shaw, was broadcast from London recently. The play was divided into two parts on account of its length and the broadcast of each part occupied approximately two hours on subsequent evenings.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

Often we have wished that radio had been with us back on the Fourth of July, 1910, for the broadcasting of the famous Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson championship fight at Reno, Nev. Jeffries, you will recall, had retired from the ring undefeated heavyweight boxing champion of the world. Out from the scrambling mob of claimants there rose a dominating figure, Jack Johnson, the colored boxer of Chicago, who was heralded by some as the new champion. So, after six years of leisure, Jim Jeffries was called from his retirement. Imagine you are listening to the radio on that eventful holiday:

ANNOUNCER—Ladies and gentlemen, this is W-G-N, broadcasting from the fight arena at Reno, Nev. Well, it's come at last, the most important Fourth of July since 1776, and again we're broadcasting a championship prize fight from the state of Nevada, which Billy Muldoon this afternoon called the last free state in the Union.

Can you hear that mob? There are 15,000 souls crowded into this great unpainted and crude wooden arena, and baking under a scorching sun. Fifteen thousand men have trooped across the continent and streamed in from the Pacific coast in private cars and sidedoor Pullmans, through the stifling heat and a smother of dust, through the bleak, powder dry sagebrush hills into this smiling valley where Reno nestles. See, there, the mountains look cool, but O, how hot it is in this big saucer!

In a minute or two the most talked of fight in history will commence between the colored man and the white son of a California minister. The sentiment among the bettors, as you know, favors Jeffries at 10 to 6.

The mill was scheduled to start at 1:30, and it is now an hour late, due to the parade of the celebrities, the taking of three sets of motion pictures, and because the crowd was slow in coming through the narrow entrances. Billy Muldoon showed his theatrical instinct by introducing "Tex" Rickard, whose gameness and persistency brought this all about, and who in addition to being the promoter will also referee the fight. Billy called for three cheers for the man who has breasted a deluge of hysterical opposition and cleared obstacles that would defeat a man not possessed of a nerve of iron and a heart of gold. Then followed what may pass into history as the last roll call of the has-beens, the prize ring idols of other days. [GONG!]

There's the gong, and the seconds, and handlers and rubbers fling themselves from their corners. The fight of the century is on!

Jack and Jim are both advancing slowly to the center of the ring. The big colored boy is grinning widely, and we can see those two fine rows of ivories. Wonder if he'll be missing any when the day's done. Jeff's grinning too. They didn't shake hands. Here they go! Jeff made a bluff with his left for a lead, but Johnson side stepped him. They certainly are cautious! Johnson feints, looking for an opening. Jeff does the same. Won't be anything doing this round! Each of them is trying to see what the other one's got. Johnson led a short left, and he barely touched Jeff's mouth, and now they're clinching in a big friendly way like two bears. Break! Lots of jabs, now, but they don't mean anything. They're standing up there now, trying for short inside blows. Both men are guarding well. Clinch again! Come on, break it up, Tex! Huh! As they broke that time Jeff sent one at Jack's neck, and Jack stepped in, but he missed a short jab. Clinch again! Jack lands a left, but with no effect. [GONG!]

Well, there's the end of the first round! Pretty tame beginning for the battle of battles, this Armageddon the promoters and sports writers having been promising us. There wasn't anything done in that round to convince us that a fight is going on. Both men look in the cream of condition, and Jeff let loose a great big wink when he came to his corner. New they're seated in their corners, and Jim Corbett is bending over Jeffries whispering in his ear. Wonder what he's telling him? Jeffries' seconds have a great big sunshade that they're holding over the big fellow to keep the sun off his back and head. Jack over there is laughing and grinning. [GONG!]

Round two! Come on, now, let's go! The colored boy's got rid of that grin in a hurry and he's come up to scratch looking mighty serious. Jeff crouches down on his haunches. Huuhhh! Hah! Hah! Hah! Jeff tried to sneak a left over, but Johnson blocked it and they're both grinning and laughing like a pair of kids. Upp! There's a sock! Jack slapped one on Jeff's jaw, a nice punch that he brought up from his waist, but it didn't seem to hurt. There! Jeff tries a pair of lefts, but Jack's got his guard in the right spot. Now they're trying little short arm jabs. Come on—come on! What a fight! What a fight! Jeff snapped a left to Johnson's stomach, but he got a left on the face in return. There's a little clinch, and now they're away again. Come on, Jeff, bore in! Jeff is crouching in the middle of the ring. Jack won't come in. They're shuffling up now, and—there! Jack missed an uppercut that time! Clinch! Come on; let's fight!

(Interlude—The voice of our announcer and the roars of the excited thousands fade for a time, but the fight goes on. Into the eighth round, into the ninth, into the tenth, with the giant colored man growing stronger and more confident with each passing moment. The undefeated champion is beginning to feel the sting of defeat for the first time. Is this the proud fighting machine that a few years ago mowed down the marvelous Bob Fitzsimmons and whipped Jim Corbett, this great thewed white man whose body is slowly crumbling before blow after blow? Is this Jim Jeffries, the invulnerable, going down to defeat? The crowd sits there watching, tense, anxious.

Into the eleventh, into the twelfth round. Jeffries is faltering; he cannot go much longer. Or can he win with that same sledge hammer punch that licked Fitzsimmons when all hope seemed lost? Does that hairy body still shield the same youthful vigor that sent challenger after challenger into the dust of defeat? Into the thirteenth round!) [GONG!]

Round thirteen! There comes Jeff driving in again. He's got his right arm up over his face and he is driving in on Johnson. He walked right into a clinch. Come on, Tex! Break 'em apart! Ooohh! Huuuhhh! when they broke that time, Johnson hurled a left at Jeff's body, drove in a right uppercut that made the Californian's head wobble. Now Johnson's tearing into him! Johnson drove another pair of lefts to Jeff's face and dazed the big boy with a nasty uppercut, a right-hander. It had lots of steam behind it. Jeff looks a little groggy. There he goes! Johnson put his right hand on Jeff's shoulder and sent home three smashing lefts and—Wow!—There's another one. Jack got him on the chin with another uppercut. Jeff's all in, now. He can't even move around! These rapid fire blows are leaving him dazed! He's standing there now, Jack is driving home punch after punch, waiting for the final opening! O, Jeff is game all right! He's taking them all, and he's still on his feet! Now they've gone into a clinch! Wow! Biff! What a load of punches Jeff is taking now. His eyes are almost closed! They're clinching again! It looks like it's almost over! Jeff can't go much further now. (GONG!)

No question about it, now. It's Johnson's fight sooner or later, unless Jeff manages to sneak in a lucky punch. The crowd, scenting the kill, is growing restless for the knockout. Jeff isn't the man we saw beat Bob Fitzsimmons years ago. He should never have come out of his retirement. The old punch is all gone, and it is only his wonderful gameness that is keeping him in the fight. He can't get through Jack Johnson's defense; the colored man is probably the most wonderful defensive fighter our boxing rings have ever seen. He's gone through thirteen gruelling rounds with Jeff and there's hardly a mark on him He's——(GONG!)

Round fourteen! Wow! Look at that! Jeff walked straight into a left. They're clinching now! Come on, break 'em up! Jack tapped the big fellow twice on the face with his left. Jeff has his head down like a mad bull and is trying to bore in, but Johnson's wonderful defense is right there! Break 'em up! Biff! Jeff tried to bore in again, and the big black man drove three straight lefts at his face. Ummphhh! There's another left to the face! Jeff can't do a thing! Every punch he plans is knocked off by Johnson, who continues to drive straight lefts to Jeff's bleeding face and those swollen eyes. They clinch again! Jeff hanging on! Will he last out the round? Break away! Look out! Oooohh! Jeff caught three more lefts on that bleeding cheek of his. Jack tosses those lefts out like baseballs, Jeffries is hanging on again. "They don't hurt!" he hollers at Johnson! Clinch again! Break! (GONG!)

It looks worse for Jeff every minute. He can't stand the pace much longer. He can't hit Johnson, and the colored fighter is hitting him almost at will. A question of time, that's all it is now! And Oh! how hot this sun is! Those seconds of Jeff's are working feverishly over him, but I'm afraid they can't do much for him anymore. It may come in the next round! Jack is puffing and blowing, but he's still comparatively fresh. Jeff's taken everything he's got to give and he's still on his feet, but the better condition of Johnson is going to tell in the end. Now—[GONG!]

Round fifteen! Yep, it's all over now. Jeff can't get after Jack fast enough to catch him. He's getting wobbly, and he can't see the big fellow any more! His face is all puffed and bleeding from the lashing he's received. Johnson's standing still, now, and waiting—waiting. Now Jeff comes in and—OH! OH! Jack sent another brace of lefts straight to Jeff's face, and the blood spurts out afresh! Jeff's getting groggy, but he's game! He's reeling into a clinch, and tries to land a left on the body! They're breaking away—oh! oh!—As they split, Jack, quick as a flash sent another crushing left and an awful right straight for Jeff's jaw. The Californian's head snapped back like his neck is broken. He's staggering to the ropes! HE CAN'T DEFEND HIMSELF. Johnson's tearing in like a tiger now, and ranging blows on the big boy and Jeff stares dazedly at the figure in front of him! It's almost over! It's coming! Jeff is reeling about along the ropes! Only the gameness of him is holding him up! Jack is watching him like a cat and driving in right—left—right-left—right. Jeff is down! Jeffries in on the mat. He's on the canvas for the first time in his life. He's hanging onto the ropes! He's dazed! Jim Jeffries is being counted out! Four—five—six—seven—eight—No, the big fellow is getting back on his feet!

That's Jeffries, the gamest fellow that ever entered a ring! But he can't go on! STOP IT TEX, STOP IT! Johnson's in again with another volley of blows. Jeff is trying to clinch, but Johnson steps back and comes in again with more left and rights. Jeff is swaying all over the ring. There it is! Two rights on the jaw! Jeff is on his knees! He's all in! Stop it, Tex, stop it! Five—six—seven—eight—nine—Jeff's on his feet again—but Johnson's there waiting for him. Left—right—left on the chin. Jeff is down again for the third time! He's sprawled over the ropes half outside the ring! Jeff! Jeff! Jeff! Three—four—five—six—seven. It's all over!

Visit Beautiful Elmhurst
The City of Elms

WOULDN'T you like to live where tall elms arch the streets, and aristocratic homes rise amidst luxurious shrubbery? There is the atmosphere of quiet you have sought so long. The air you breathe in Elmhurst is clear and unclouded—invigorating. The avenues are free from the clamor and roar of the busy world nearby. When you step out of your car or off the train in Elmhurst, you are surrounded by the appealing delight of a city of homes.

Elmhurst is convenient to the motorist. Two prominent highways lead directly to it. Just drive out Lake Street or the St. Charles Road, which makes it very simple for those who must commute to and from the loop. Golfing is ideal for the residents of Elmhurst. There are over a dozen golf courses for the enthusiasts of this City of Elms.

A major consideration for the citizens of any district is the shopping feature. You will be pleased with three metropolitan shopping centers in Elmhurst. Probably there are other things you'd like to know about this charming place—and your questions will be gladly answered when you phone Elmhurst 2980.

Quick Transportation

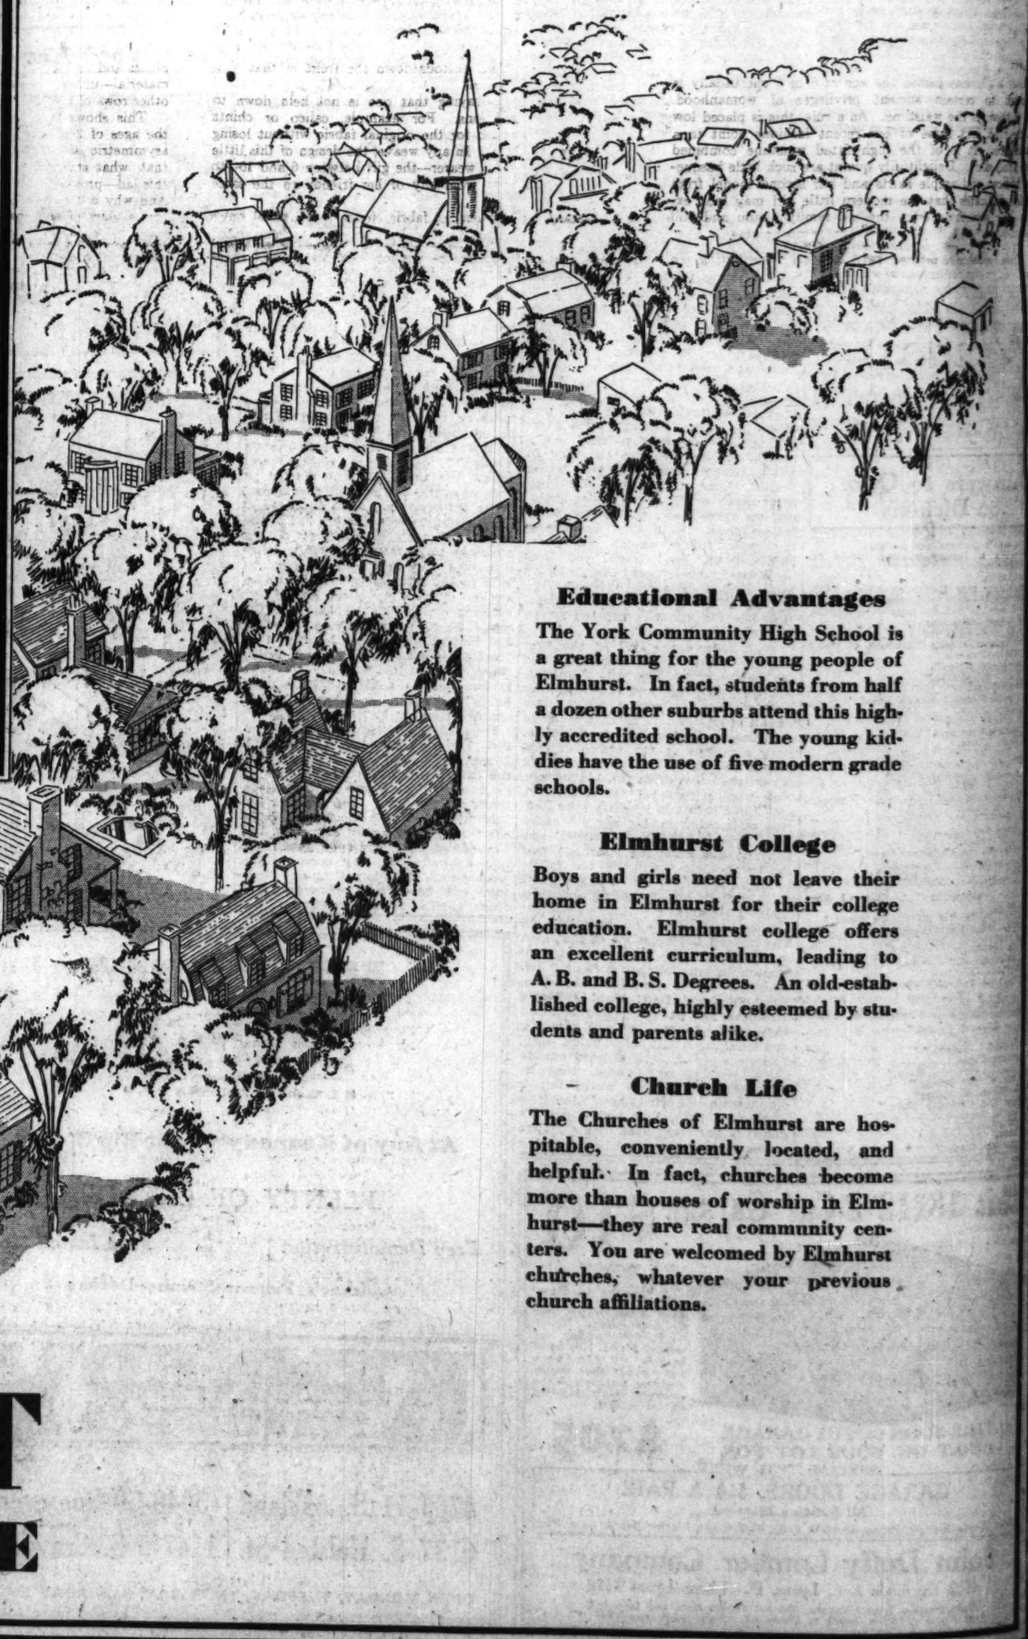
Whether you come by motor or rail, Elmhurst is quickly accessible. Step on the Chicago and North Western or the Aurora and Elgin—30 minutes and you're in Elmhurst. By motor, drive out Lake Street or the St. Charles Highway straight to Elmhurst.

A City of Real Homes

Real home-lovers have built in Elmhurst. As a consequence, some of the most beautiful estates in the vicinity of Chicago are to be found nestling among the trees in Elmhurst. It is the ideal retreat from the business world.

Metropolitan Shops

You like to be able to buy the newest things at reasonable prices at all times, don't you? That is the privilege Elmhurst residents have. The three shopping centers are second to none, and supply the city with everything.



Educational Advantages

The York Community High School is a great thing for the young people of Elmhurst. In fact, students from half a dozen other suburbs attend this highly accredited school. The young kiddies have the use of five modern grade schools.

Elmhurst College

Boys and girls need not leave their home in Elmhurst for their college education. Elmhurst college offers an excellent curriculum, leading to A. B. and B. S. Degrees. An old-established college, highly esteemed by students and parents alike.

Church Life

The Churches of Elmhurst are hospitable, conveniently located, and helpful. In fact, churches become more than houses of worship in Elmhurst—they are real community centers. You are welcomed by Elmhurst churches, whatever your previous church affiliations.

OVE TO BUILD HREE MAJOR ROSS STREETS

ope to Link West and South Sides.

steps in the development of th traffic routes linking to- and connecting the south side the west side were taken last

A resolution proposing that the state to share the expense of paving widening Crawford avenue be- 71st street and the drainage and of opening Marquette road Cicero and Crawford avenues adopted by the Southwest Federa- of Improvements Clubs by its rd of directors.

The other similar project which ad- ced a step during the week was the ed opening and widening of ing road between Halsted street Damen avenue. A hearing on project was scheduled for next day by the board of local improve- ts.

Development of Marquette road and Crawford avenue would establish a rect traffic route connecting the rt of the south side with the heart the west side, M. A. Seymour, sec- ary of the southwest federation, inted out. Furthermore, Marquette ute would lead to Argo by way the state road west of Cicero ave- ue, and Crawford avenue would be- me a through street from the Wis- sin boundary to Kankakee.

Asks Survey of A. of C.

The federation resolution will be for- arded to the Chicago Association of mmerce. The association has been quested by the city council to recom- end a list of streets believed to be of ch importance both as main thoroughfares within Chicago and also arteries lead- g into the city from state highways.

The state government has indicated at it will give state aid to the im- rovement of such streets, and the ederation directors believe that Craw- rd avenue and Marquette road ould be given first consideration.

Business men of the district, who ve long been active in the South Crawford Avenue Improvement asso- iation, have predicted that comple- ion of such a project would improve real estate values in a manner com- parable to the effect of the building f Wacker drive.

Among the men holding this belief are J. H. Metz, Frank A. Mulholland, John M. Edwards, John McCarthy, Henry Fuchen, Lawence R. Romano, Oliver Salinger, James Shallo and Thomas J. Sullivan.

Wolfe Cites Need of Thoroughfares.

The development of crosstown outes in outlying districts such as the Harding road, Marquette road and Crawford avenue projects are the only eans of bringing prosperity and an dvancement of real estate values to tain districts, Richard W. Wolfe, ommissioner of public works, asserted a recent speech.

Commissioner Wolfe said the near uth side, particularly the section etween 18th, 47th, Halsted, and State reets, is an example of a section hich has remained a "frozen area" ecause no east and west arteries exist. t will continue to lie dormant, he ontinued, until a means of communi- ation with the southwest and west des is established. Some route should e provided for carrying traffic across e stock yards, which he termed an nsurmountable barrier to transporta- on and hence to progress.

A subway or an elevated roadway cross the yards would solve the prob- m, the commissioner said.

Haylett Recognizes Need.

H. H. Haylett, managing vice presi- ent of the Greater South Side cham- er of commerce, said yesterday that e agrees with Commissioner Wolfe hat the way to encourage business nd increase property values on the outh side would be to establish a eans of connection with the south- est and west sides. At least two ast traffic arteries should cut the ear south side east and west, he said. e believes Pershing road should serve s one, and 22d street should be the ther.

Twenty-second street between the ue and Archer avenue is already ide, but must be still further im- roved if it is to be a traffic artery, ording to Mr. Haylett. The project or the entire street is not near reali- ation since the board of local improve- ents is doing nothing about it. Al- ough proceedings for widening be- ween Archer avenue and city limits ere entered in 1926, a survey was ever ordered by board engineers. C. D. Hill, engineer for the board, said esterday that no survey is contem- lated in the early future.

The lack of such highway arteries as been has undoubtedly been the ause of the dormancy of which Com- issioner Wolfe spoke, Mr. Haylett ntended.

Loop Routes Help Little, He Says.

Commissioner Wolfe declared that e fact that the near south side has ways been readily accessible to the op has not only done nothing to ward the district, but, instead, the reets leading to the loop have served only as "bleeding arteries," carrying ay prosperity.

Prosperous business centers grow up all parts of the city on streets run- ing perpendicular to arteries lead- g to the loop, and not on streets rrying traffic to the loop, the com- issioner said. As examples he gave th street, 63d street, Wilson avenue, wrence avenue, and Crawford ave- ue at Madison street.

"To solve the problem," Commis- oner Wolfe concluded, "we must ring the 1,400,000 residents of the uth side in close contact with the 00,000 residents of the west side. y doing this, a large theater or de- rtment store on Madison street or th street, for example, will be made ccessible to residents of the other ctions. And this access must be tablished without passing through e loop."

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs Anent the Passing Throng.

BY FRED PASLEY.

MISS VERA WITHALL celebrated her 18th birthday at her home, 6001 South Maplewood avenue, and her father, Albert, our well known junk dealer, presented her with a Ford. The feature of the party, we learn, was the christening of the car, named "Pal of My Dreams," with a bottle of champagne imported from Europe, which was tied with a red ribbon and broken on the bumper. If this had happened to any auto other than the aforementioned, we wouldn't believe it.

* *

Ed Froderman of the Drexel State bank has departed for Europe to spend six weeks and Michael Montague of 4936 Forrestville avenue has given him a letter to President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State—ye ed's favorite president — with whom Michael chummed as a boy. We predict Ed will have the time of his life and we hope he doesn't forget to ask Mr. Cosgrave if he remembers the reporter at the Drake hotel that waved the derby with the shamrock on it at him. That was us.

* *

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Herrod and family of 2250 West 111th place have returned from South America, where Mr. Herrod was manager of the International Products company. Needless to say, they are glad to be back in this village and the village reciprocates.

* *

THE ping-pong craze is sweeping Midlothian, the latest families to succumb being the Florenes and the Hutchinses. The housewives are overjoyed, as it is keeping the men folks in nights.

* *

Says Bill Borden: "Jack and Hannah Peacock are back at Oak Hills. We may have made this announcement before—we can't recall whether we have or not—but if we have, no harm can be done by repeating it, for we know that it is welcome news to south end golfers who have partaken of the delicious chicken and steak dinners Hannah prepares. Boy, how that woman can cook!"

* *

Leo Mayer of the Mayers of 614 East 63d street writes us about tea balls, stating that a certain coffee company is now publishing the picture of a beautiful young lady serving afternoon oolong, but doesn't tell who she is nor where she serves this refreshing libation. Well, Leo, she's probably one of those Morgan Park High school co-eds and our authority is Miss Lillian Condit, dean of girls, who admits that the outstanding feature of that institution is the beauty of her charges.

* *

A LOT of roses, but no more than he deserved, were tossed at Arvid E. Peterson, president of the Triangle State bank, at a Peterson dinner by the Eighth Ward Business Men's association. They told him what a real fellow and valuable citizen he is. And we trust they added he is a pretty good golfer. Arvid recalled that the Eighth ward in 1910 had a population of only 17,000 and that today it is 107,000—"as large as any city in Illinois outside Chicago."

Miss Arlene Foltz is not yet twenty, but in three years she has risen from the position of stock girl to that of buyer for Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. She has just returned from a buying trip to New York City. She lives at 15124 Marshfield avenue, Harvey.

OUR readers will be pleased to learn—we hope—that the village board of Summit is to have chairs to sit in. Trustee Joseph Alwood at the last meeting called attention to the rough wooden benches upon which members of the board were compelled to sit and asserted that such poor accommodations were a reflection upon the municipality. He moved that the village clerk be instructed to purchase twelve chairs for the village president, village clerk, village attorney, village engineer, the six trustees, and the press. The motion was seconded by Trustee Zellick and carried unanimously.

FOUNDER'S DAY TEA IS HELD BY PSI DELTA SIGMA

The Chicago chapters of Psi Delta Sigma, national sorority, celebrated founder's day last Sunday with a tea at the Palmer house. Miss Catherine McCauley, 6729 South Ada street, grand social chairman, was in charge of arrangements for the affair, and the feature of the afternoon's program was the installation of a new chapter on the south shore by Miss Frances Anderson, 8223 South Sangamon street, the Illinois state president of the sorority.

There are now sixteen Chicago chapters, including the new one, and seven chapters elsewhere in Illinois. The sorority was founded eight years ago as a high school sorority, and now includes business girls, college girls, and teachers.

Miss Mildred McCauley, 6729 South Ada street, is grand president of the organization; Miss Betty MacFarlane, 309 East Marquette road, is grand vice president; Miss Louise Petersen, 7230 Jeffery avenue, is grand corresponding secretary; Miss Rose Chulerstrom, 1424 Olive avenue, is grand recording secretary; Miss Frances McCourt, 5439 Ellis avenue, is grand marshal.

Approximately 200 girls attended the tea, in addition to the sorority-mother, Mrs. Frafik Haan, 6359 South Peoria street.

Beverly Hills Woman's Club Holds Annual Plant Sale

The Beverly Hills Woman's club held its annual plant sale yesterday afternoon at the Rock Island suburban station at 95th street. Many varieties of perennials, both old and new types, were found at one table in charge of Mrs. W. T. Church, and an accessory table in charge of Mrs. C. L. Sanford displayed baskets, tools, gloves, pottery for the garden, porch and house garden benches and bird baths.

WOOD NYMPHS PRESENT PAGEANT OF SPRINGTIME

These wood nymphs participated in a spring festival held yesterday at Hotel Shoreland. A procession of dancing children awakened the fountain on the grounds of the hotel, formally bringing in the vernal season. PROM LEADER

MISS LUCILLE HAZARD.

[Russell Photo.]

The senior prom of Mount Carmel High school, 6410 Dante avenue, will be held next Friday evening in the Drake. Miss Lucille Hazard, 6710 Paxton avenue, will lead the grand march with James E. Gallagher, president of the senior class. The other officers are: Vice President, James Poynton; secretary, William Gleasner; treasurer, Ralph Leo.

MRS. N. FRASER NAMED TO HEAD BRENAN P.-T. BODY

Mrs. N. Fraser was installed president at the recent meeting of the Brenan Parent-Teacher association to relieve Mrs. E. L. Helland, who has served in that capacity for two years. Tea was served by Mrs. J. S. Dempsey following the meeting to honor Mrs. Helland and a gift was presented to her by members of the board in appreciation of her services.

Other new officers include: Mrs. G. Carleton, first vice president; Mrs. Helland, second vice president; Mrs. F. W. Schacht, third vice president; Mrs. R. Main, secretary; Mrs. H. Tornquist, treasurer; Mrs. W. Boomker, northwest representative; Mrs. D. Klingens, southwest representative; Mrs. W. Fiddelke, northeast representative, and Mrs. A. Dahl, southeast representative.

The next meeting will be held Friday, May 17, although the child study circle will meet Wednesday to discuss "The Use of Money."

Argo-Summit Woman's Club.

The Argo-Summit Woman's club will meet at 2 o'clock next Wednesday in Argo Community High school. The conservation, garden, and radio departments will be in charge.

Musical Today to Swell Fund for Hospital

A musical is being given this afternoon at the South Side Swedish club, 7330 Ridgeland avenue, by a group of south side women who are members of the Chicago chapter of the Endowment Fund association of the National sanitarium. They have engaged for the program the Chicago Glee club, under the direction of William Nordin, and Mrs. Minnie Cedargreen Jernberg, violinist.

This musical is one of many activities of 600 south side women who are members of the Chicago chapter of the national association, which has as its purpose the maintenance of hospitals in Denver, Colo., for tuberculosis patients.

Officers of Organization.

The officers of the south side organization are: President, Mrs. N. A. Nelson, 443 West 61st street; vice president, Mrs. C. P. Wik, 5714 Peoria street; secretary, Mrs. V. Bovick, 7009 Lowe avenue; treasurer, Mrs. C. L. Anderson, 1539 Hyde Park boulevard; recording secretary, Mrs. W. R. Peterson, 8350 Maryland avenue.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the musical consists of Mrs. Sophia Pearson Kestner, Mrs. W. J. Thorson, Mrs. Charles Jenson, Miss H. G. Soderbeck, Mrs. Ames Langdon, Miss Harriet Anderson, and Miss O. M. Straud.

Campaigning for $50,000.

At present members of the Chicago chapter are engaged in a campaign to raise $50,000 to pay the cost of maintaining their particular hospital in Denver, which now contains more than 100 patients. Of this amount, the south side women have taken $15,000 as their quota, $5,000 of which has already been collected.

Mrs. F. A. Grow Elected by Englewood Baptist Women

Mrs. F. A. Grow, 5621 University avenue, was elected president of the Women's Union society of Englewood Baptist church at a recent meeting of the organization in the church auditorium, 413 Englewood avenue. Other officers elected were: Vice president, Mrs. Louis P. Jenson, 7303 Champlain avenue; second vice president, Mrs. O. O. Montague, 10430 South Hoyne avenue; secretary, Mrs. D. R. Kendall, 6340 Normal boulevard, and treasurer, Mrs. Walter Haddlesey, 241 Illinois street, Elmhurst, Ill.

DRAMATIST

MABEL RUTH JACKSON.

[Bayhuff-Richter Photo.]

Mabel Ruth (Mrs. A. O.) Jackson wrote and will direct "Who Is Sylvia?" which will be presented tomorrow by the Hamilton Park players in the Drama league at the Goodman theater. Mrs. Jackson will also play the only feminine role. The play is based on a newspaper column of advice to the lovelorn. It will be the first drama presented in the tournament.

Girl Reserves in Foreign Garb Appear at 'Y' Party

Chicago high school girl reserves from twelve different countries dressed in the costumes of the lands from which they or their parents came made a part of the living exhibit of the Y. W. C. A. work shown at the organization's May breakfast Wednesday at Harriet Hammond McCormick memorial before club women of the city. Among the hostesses were Mrs. Philip Post, chairman; Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Mrs. Harold Eldridge, Mrs. Bryan Reid, Mrs. N. W. Campbell, and Mrs. Edward Mills.

Blackfriars Present Play This Week-End

As the silver anniversary production of the organization, Blackfriars of the University of Chicago will give "Mr. Cinderella" for its current musical comedy next Friday and Saturday and May 17 and 18 in Mandel hall on the university campus.

"Mr. Cinderella" mirrors college life on the Midway, setting its scenes in front of Cobb hall, in a woman's dormitory and in the Beta fraternity house. The action centers around a movie star who comes to the university in disguise to get college atmosphere for a new picture.

No Girls in Cast.

Blackfriars consists entirely of men and no girls have been enlisted to help with the show except in selling tickets. Adolph Rubinson is one of the "feminine" leads and other leading parts are taken by Laurel Smith, Alvin Reiwitz, Robert Tankersley, Archie Winning, Norman Jorgenson, and John Jordan.

Donald MacDonald III., who produced the Service club show last autumn, is producing the Blackfriars musical comedy. Rehearsals have bene going on since April 1.

Authors of Book.

George Mills and William V. Morgenstern are authors of the book and among the contributors to the musical end of it are Karl Schmidt, John Wild, Jerome Solomon, Jack Fincus, Charles Marshall, Charles Ault, and Leonard Landwirch. Charles Warner is abbot of the order.

CIVIC COUNCIL IS ORGANIZED AT PARKER HIGH

In accordance with the city wide movement of forming community councils, twenty-five civic and school leaders met last week for luncheon in the home arts room of Parker Senior High school, formed a temporary organization, and made plans for the permanent organization of a community council.

The meeting was presided over by Butler Laughlin, president of Chicago Normal college. Mrs. M. M. Ranstead was chosen temporary chairman and Mrs. Herbert W. Eidman, temporary secretary. A large meeting and dinner at the Englewood Y. M. C. A. will be held soon, at which time the permanent organization will be perfected.

3,000 Start Rehearsals to Honor Schurz

Beginning last week and continuing until Sunday, May. 26, every Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday will find Armour Square park, at 33d street and Shields avenue, a scene of varied activity. For rehearsals are in progress for the Carl Schurz centennial demonstration, which will be held the afternoon of May 26 at Soldiers' field.

More than 980 German and Austrian organizations will take part in the demonstration honoring the eminent German-American statesman who was born in Germany just 100 years ago. Three thousand persons will take part and many thousands of others are expected to be in attendance.

The event will include fifteen historical societies, which will represent in pageantry the high spots in the development of the German people; twenty Maypole groups consisting of 24 dancers each; 200 girls who will give folk dances, dramatic and arcobatic dances; and four large choral groups, which will provide music for the occasion.

Choruses Include Hundreds.

The choruses will include the United German male chorus of 800 members, the United German singers, with 600 voices; the United German Ladies' choruses, totaling 600 singers; the High School German chorus of 500 voices, and the United Austrian choruses.

The Protective association of the German Sports society is also arranging part of the program. There will be a soccer game between members of the Chicago section and local Indiana section of the association, relay races between Chicago and Milwaukee members, six wrestling matches, spear throwing contests, and weight lifting contests. Drills and apparatus demonstrations will be given by members of the Illinois Turner Athletic association.

In memory of the services of Schurz in the civil war, the 131st infantry of the National Guard will stage a mock battle, and the R. O. T. C. will lead an ovation to Schurz, including a raising of both the American and German national flags.

Came to U. S. After Revolution.

Schurz was active in the German revolution of 1848, and after he came to America in 1852 he started a law practice in Milwaukee and became prominent politically. He was named minister to Spain by Lincoln, but returned to take part in the civil war. Became a major general, and fought in famous battles around Chattanooga and at Gettysburg. He served a term as United States senator from Missouri and was secretary of the interior under President Hayes, and later became editor-in-chief as well as part owner of the New York Evening Post and editorial writer for Harper's Weekly. He died in 1906.

Dr. J. Kobalter, who holds offices in several German organizations, is chairman of the committee on arrangements, and E. T. Egardner, director of Armour Square park, is directing the field work of the program.

Others on the executive committee are Otto Gill, Mrs. Z. K. Bock, Paul Schwartz, J. Emm, Dr. W. Tichmann, Capt. George Weideling, William Behrens, and Chris Paschen.

HYDE PARK BANK TO OBSERVE ITS TENTH BIRTHDAY

Better business for Hyde Park is forecast by Charles W. Hoff, president of the University State bank, 1354 East 55th street, on the occasion of the tenth birthday of the bank, which will be celebrated Wednesday with an open house for residents of the community.

The fact that Hyde Park merchants have made marked progress in supplying the needs of the home buyers is the basis for his belief that business in the neighborhood will be better the next year than it has been in the past.

Mr. Hoff is one of the directors of the Cook County Bankers' association and vice president of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association. The present officers of the bank are, in addition to Mr. Hoff, Jay W. Hays, vice president; John W. Algar, cashier; Anthony M. Frale, assistant cashier; and William A. Sutherland, assistant cashier.

Lindblom Students Sing Welcome to Vacation

A school sing characterized the final assembly held at Lindblom High school before the spring vacation. Two assemblies were held in order that all students might take part. Isadore Kasrel, a member of the senior class, was in charge of one at which Daniel Hager, music instructor, led the singing, and Miss Catherine Tahney, director of glee clubs at Lindblom, led the singing in the other assembly group, of which Miss Lillian Slye, also a senior student, was in charge.

ENGLEWOOD AND WOODLAWN JOIN IN TAX BATTLE

Valuations Declared Excessive.

Two other south side business organizations, the Englewood Business Men's association and the Woodlawn Property Owners' association, have joined the fight for a readjustment of the 1928 tax valuations placed on property in this section of the city. These valuations have already been termed full of inaccuracies and gross inequalities by the Greater South Side chamber of commerce, the Ridge Civic council, and the Stock Yards Business and Civic association.

A committee appointed by the Englewood association to make a searching investigation of the current reassessment of taxable property in the community and to determine the value of evidence, which, it is asserted, suggests that the new tax values placed on Englewood property are excessive in comparison with values placed on similar property in other parts of Chicago, made its first formal report at a public meeting of the organization held Friday night in the Englewood Business college hall, 741 Englewood avenue, to which all taxpayers were invited.

The committee, headed by William Jacobs, 6200 South Halsted street, prepared a map of the Englewood district showing the valuation of property considered fair by members of the committee. Mr. Jacobs exhibited the maps at the meeting with the suggestion that they be submitted to the state tax commission with the recommendation that the commission approve the revaluations of the committee.

The maps showed the revised figures on valuations in the territory covered by the committee approximating 30 per cent reductions in business property, generally, and a 40 per cent reduction in residential property. These reductions were made from the tentative values as shown on the maps prepared by the revaluation division of the board of assessors.

Working for Small Owners.

The district covered by the Englewood investigation committee included the section bounded by 55th and 67th streets, Wentworth avenue and Loomis street. Mr. Jacobs stressed the fact that his committee was working particularly for property reduction of the small property owners, for a large tax increase on outlying property is feared due to the high valuation.

Mr. Jacobs pointed out that property at 53d and Halsted streets was valued at $9,000 a front foot, which is only $1,000 less than property at Michigan avenue link bridge.

Complaint cards were distributed to those present, whereon they were given an opportunity to voice any objection they might have regarding the valuations that the committee is submitting as a result of its findings.

Others on Committee.

Aside from Mr. Jacobs on the Englewood tax investigation committee are; Frank D. Bellis, president of the Englewood Business Men's association; Terrence F. Moran, alderman of the 16th ward; James G. Coyle, alderman of the 17th ward; Walter W. Morris, alderman of the 18th ward; Leonard Fish, C. Fred Morritz, Ike Kaplan, Samuel Maling, William McDonnell, Isadore Berkson, Herman Eggers, Harry Londelius, Edward Beatty, Harry Englestein, Clarence Rosen, John Williams, Elmer Krauter, Robert Graham, Ernest Holtorff, and Robert Anderson. Mr. Williams is secretary of the committee.

Speakers at the Friday meeting in addition to Mr. Jacobs were John E. Conroy, president of the county board of assessors, and Joseph Hall, superintendent of the land value department of the board of assessors, both of whom have assisted the Englewood committee in making its investigation.

Meeting in Woodlawn.

Monday evening the members of the Woodlawn association met at the Midway Masonic temple, 61st street and Cottage Grove avenue, to launch an investigation to determine the extent of the inaccuracies in valuation.

The investigation is to be directed by F. C. Donecker, president of the association, and Fred L. Helman, secretary. The work of the association, according to Mr. Donecker, may later be joined with that of other south side organizations, but until the association is sure of its facts it will remain independent, Mr. Donecker said.

PARENT-TEACHER GROUP DEMANDS NEW YALE SCHOOL

The immediate need for a new school building was discussed at a meeting of the Yale Parent-Teacher association held last week at the schoolhouse, 7010 Yale avenue. William J. Palmer, commissioner of public service and Republican ward committeeman, attended the meeting and declared the Yale school should be condemned as unsafe and the children housed in portables until the new school is erected.

The building, which has been built for more than 40 years, is considered obsolete and unsafe by residents of the community, especially since a fire which occurred two weeks ago and caused nearly $10,000 damage.

Two representatives of the fire prevention bureau visited the school following the meeting and after an inspection, declared that the school was entirely safe but advised against use of the assembly hall.

The assembly hall is located on the third floor and is the only large room in the building suitable for holding assemblies. Parent-teacher meetings have been previously held there, as well as gymnasium classes.

Here are five Miss Graduates who will take part in the presentation of "The Making of Miss Graduate" by the Otterol players of Loretto academy, Englewood, next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in the school auditorium, 6535 Stewart avenue. Included in the cast are Miss Eileen McMinn, Miss Mary Donahue, Miss Eleanor Kolar, Miss Ruth Donahue, Miss Mary Hogan, Miss Josephine Halleran, Miss Lois Murphy, Miss Elizabeth O'Leary, Miss Genevieve Maher, and Miss Genevieve McKugo.

WOODLAWN-82D CORNER REZONED AFTER CONFLICT

4 Other Areas Changed to Other Classes.

Four ordinances rezoning south side property were recommended for passage by the city council committee on buildings and zoning Monday. A fifth ordinance for rezoning was referred to the south side subcommittee for further investigation.

Although a large number of property owners were present at the meeting, all but one ordinance were disposed of without objection. A proposition to rezone the northwest corner of Woodlawn avenue and 82nd street from an apartment to a commercial classification brought on a heated argument between Ald. William D. Meyering [8th] and Benjamin Stevenson of the Chatham chamber of commerce, but was finally approved by the committee despite Mr. Stevenson's objections.

Fears Detriment to Business.

There is already too much commercial property in that part of the south side, Mr. Stevenson said, and business conditions are bad as a result. To rezone this piece and add more business property is unfair to business men of the district, he declared.

Ald. Meyering replied that the remainder of that block on 82nd street, which is adjacent to the Illinois Central station, is zoned for commercial purposes, and there is no reason why this particular piece should not conform with the zoning of the other lots. Furthermore, the alderman continued, property owners in the immediate section are not objecting to the rezoning. The Chatham chamber of commerce claims jurisdication mainly on Cottage Grove avenue, he continued, and the zoning of this one lot will not hurt business there at all.

The committee approved the measure unanimously.

Southwest Areas Rezoned.

Other south side lots rezoned by the committee are on the following streets:

Throop street from 89th street to 90th street, from apartment to residence.

Yale avenue from 71st to 73rd street, from residence to two-flat.

Princeton avenue between 73rd street and alley north of 75th street from residence to two-flat.

An ordinance to rezone the south side of 83rd street between Vernon avenue and the alley west of this street from apartment to commercial was referred to the subcommittee.

GOLD RUSH OPERETTA TO BE PRESENTED AT FENGER HIGH

"Lotta," an operetta of the California gold rush of 1849, will be presented by students of Fenger High school May 23 and 24. The picture shows members of the cast. Solo roles have been assigned to Miss Dekker, Miss Kocher, Miss Enzbigiel, and Miss Ensminger. The others are emmbers of choruses. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

CHILDREN TOUR WEST BY SKATES AND PICTURES

F. W. Besserman, director of Cornell park, 51st and Wood streets, and Robert Wach, men's gymnasium director of the park, sponsored a skating marathon "to San Francisco" last week, for the school children in the neighborhood who were free all week because of the spring vacation.

The rout folowed included stops at St. Louis, Springfield, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, Santa Fe, Albuquerque and San Francisco. The cement sidewalk encircling Cornell park which measured one quarter of a mile, was considered to be a mile in the skating marathon, and the idea was to encircle the walk as many times as it is miles to San Francisco.

A time table and chart were kept by Mr. Wach in the hall of the fieldhouse. Whenever the boys or girls stopped to rest or found it was time to go home for lunch, they stopped in the fieldhouse to chart the distance and find out how far or near they were from the various stop-overs on their route. As soon as one of the cities on the trip was reached, they went to the library of the fieldhouse where the librarian had gathered material and pictures concerning the city which they were visiting. And after a bit of sightseeing they again put on their skates and started off for the next city.

Kenwood Club Gives Tea and Fashion Show

More than four hundred persons attended the fashion show and tea which was presented by the members of the Kenwood Social Service club Friday in the Crystal ballroom of the Hotel Shoreland, 55th street and South Shore drive. Mrs. Earl Shilton, 5811 Dorchester avenue, was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

CASH PAID FOR STORIES OF BARGAINS FOUND IN NEIGHBORHOOD STORES

The Tribune will pay $2 for each story of a best bargain found in a neighborhood store and printed in the Metropolitan Section. Address Bargains, Metropolitan Section, The Tribune. Make them short and snappy, writing on only one side of the paper, and printing your name and address plainly.

A RADIO BARGAIN.

Chicago, April 23.—The best bargain I ever got was when I bought a radio for only $5. The people at the store were thinking that it was too old a model, and also wouldn't play very good. All that was needed on the radio was a new transformer. Now I've got a wonderful radio for only $7.50. Sure was a good bargain!

DISHES FOR 69 CENTS.

Chicago, April 23.—The best bargain I got in my life from a south side store. It was a 50 piece dinner set for only 69 cents. That's what I call a real bargain and I can't get over it yet that I was so lucky to get it.

WHO SAID IT? When, Where and Why

THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each snappy quotation printed and $5 for the best answer. Send your answers and quotations to the Who Said It editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

WHO SAID:

1. What's the constitution between friends?—J. P. H., Naperville, Ill.

2. Much may be made of a Scotchman if he caught young?—Warren A. Brownlee, 125 Highwood avenue, Highwood, Ill.

3. Sir, I have learned to beat a retreat?—Jacob Fries, 1621 North Park avenue, Chicago.

(Answers to the above quotations will be printed two weeks from today. Answers to last week's quotations will appear next Sunday.)

ANSWERS

Following are answers to quotations previously published:

Quotation—I say, Judge, I believe they're giving you the bird.

Answer—This was said by Lord Louis Mountbatten, second cousin of King George V, of England, to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, former federal judge, during a baseball game at the New York Polo grounds on Oct. 5, 1922. It was the second game of the world series between the New York Giants and the New York Yankees.

At the end of the tenth inning, with the score 3 to 3, Umpire Hildebrand called the game on account of darkness, although to the fans it still seemed light enough to continue play. Baseball authorities agreed, however, that Hildebrand acted wisely. But the crowd evidently believed it was a move to prolong the series. Commissioner Landis was in no way responsible for the umpire's act but the crowd surged around his box, yelling epithets and jeers.

At this point Lord Mountbatten, who with his bride, the former Edwina Ashley, English heiress, was in the Landis box, made his famous remark: "My word, Judge, I believe they are giving you the bird," meaning "razz." Lord and Lady Mountbatten had just arrived in New York for a tour of America.

The Giants won the next three games and the series, four games to none.—E. E. W., Joliet, Ill.

Quotation—We shall attack at daylight tomorrow; I would fight them if they were a million.

Answer—Said by Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, Confederate commander in the west, on April 5, 1862, the evening before the first day of the battle of Shiloh in which he was killed. He was anxious to attack the Union army under Gen. Grant before Gen. Buell, who was marching from Nashville with 20,000 men to reinforce Grant, could arrive. — Rosemary Levering, 319 North Cross street, Wheaton, Ill.

Quotation—My stockings want to see my mother.

ENGLEWOOD HIGH PLAY REUNITES TALENT OF PAST

Alumni to Present Comedy Friday Evening.

Englewood High school's former dramatic stars once more will take the stage in "A Prince There Was," a three act comedy, which will be presented under the auspices of the Alumni association in the school auditorium, 62d street and Stewart avenue, Friday evening. Miss Margaret E. Froning, teacher of dramatics, is directing the play.

Leading Players Selected.

Harry Richardson, who was graduated last June, will play the masculine lead as the Prince of a Fellow, a rich young man, bored with life, who seeks relief from the boredom by going to live at a cheap boarding house in a poor neighborhood of the city. The feminine lead is played by Miss Helen Greig.

Other players are Miss Lillian Rockwood, Elmer Jordan, Miss Ethel Weisberg, Miss Rosemary Carroll, Charles Shapiro, Arthur Trask, Thomas Dillon, Theodore Heyman.

Stage Manager Back on Job.

Edward Jesse, who was stage manager for two years while he was at school and stage electrician for one year, and Harvey Steele, who was stage manager for two years, will take up those duties again for the performance next Friday.

Other members of the Alumni association who will take an active part in the management of the play are Miss Rose Duber, Nathan Caplow, Claude Koroff, Charles Shapiro, Miss Esther Lipsey, Gershon Ferson, and Sol Ashback.

HEARINGS FRIDAY TO DECIDE FATE OF PAVING JOBS

Ten South Side Projects to Be Considered.

South side property owners will be asked to approve seventeen improvements for that district by the board of local improvements next Friday morning at the second large public hearing held by the board this spring.

Ten paving jobs head the list of south side improvements to be taken up. They are on the following streets:

Sixty-fourth street between South Park way and the alley east of Drexel avenue.

Sixty-fifth street between South Park way and Cottage Grove avenue.

Eighty-fifth place between Ingleside avenue and the Illinois Central railway tracks.

Big Job Between 115th and 119th.

A system including stretches on Wallace street between 115th and 116th streets; and on Parnell, Normal, Eggleston, and Stewart avenues between 115th and 119th streets.

A system including a stretch on Morgan street between Blue Island road and 129th place, and on 129th place between Peoria street and the western city limits.

A system including La Crosse, Lamon, Laporte and Lavergne avenues 63d and 65th streets and on 64th street between Cicero and Lavergne avenues.

A system including blocks on Claremont avenue and Oakley avenues between 81st street and 81st place; on 81st street between Western avenue and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks, and on 81st place between 81st street and Western avenue.

Fairfield avenue between 73d and 74th streets.

Washtenaw avenue between the same streets.

Avenue J between 108th and 110th streets.

Propose to Open Mayfield.

The board seeks the approval of the opening of Mayfield avenue between Archer avenue and 55th street and of Pershing road between Lowe and Damen avenues. Property owners will be asked to agree to the widening of 56th street between Keeler and Crawford avenues.

Water supply pipes are proposed in 97th place and 97th street [two separate jobs], between State street and Michigan avenue; in 83d street between Kedzie and Spaulding avenues, and in Loomis street between 107th and 109th streets.

PLAY IS GIVEN BY CHILDREN OF ARMOUR SQUARE

A one-act children's play entitled "Mother Goose's Goslings" was presented recently at Armour Square park, 33d street and Shields avenue, as the opening number on the program of the annual spring gymnastic demonstration.

The play was directed by Mrs. Claire Wayne, girls' gym instructor, and the cast included Emily Bertucci, Arma Scott, Emily Pirelli, Marian Bertucci, Katherine Burton, Alda Marroni, Bernice Pfeiffer, Josephine Granato, Anna Bertucci, Corinne Rothenberger, Virginia Gustafson, Jennie Mirabelli, Josephine Terrino, and Janet Gustafson.

CORNED BEEF

Corned Beef is Corned Beef wherever meat is sold. But Oh, what a difference in Grogan's Corned Beef—in the quality—in the flavor—in the taste. Grogan's Corned Beef is cut from young Native Beef and is cured by ourselves in a way entirely different from the ordinary way used in other markets. It is our own special cure and there is no Corned Beef in Chicago like it. It is mild, sweet and tender, with a delicious flavor that is sure to please.

HIGH SCHOOLS OF SOUTH SIDE TO EXHIBIT ART

Prepare to Enter Display at Institute.

For the first time in twelve years there will be an exhibit of the art work of Chicago high school and college students. The Art institute is cooperating with the board of education in promoting an exhibition to be held in the institute from May 24 to June 4. Those in charge of the exhibit hope to make it an annual spring affair.

Early last winter, before plans for the display were definitely formed, teachers and students of art in the various south side high schools began planning and working for their exhibits, believing that the exhibit would be held, although at first it was only a vague dream. Although no prizes will be given, either collectively to schools or to individuals this year, every teacher and student wants visitors to be particularly attracted to the work of their school. If the exhibit this year is a success, more formal plans for a contest and prizes will be inaugurated for next year's exhibition.

B. F. Buck Heads Committee.

Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of schools, is general chairman of the committee sponsoring the exhibit. South side instructors who are members of his committee are Mrs. Nellie Osgood of Englewood High school, Miss Dorothy Gordon of Calumet, Miss Ada Enander of Tilden Technical High, Mrs. Edna Hotchkiss of Morgan Park High school, and Miss Florence Bigelow of Hyde Park High school.

South side teachers who will display the work of their students are Miss Mary Logeman, Miss Gordon, Mrs. John Sievers, Mrs. H. D. Burke, and Mrs. M. Keepers of Calumet High school; Miss Beatrice Cannon, Miss Agnes Dadliker, Mrs. Osgood, Miss Elsa Schmidt, Miss Elizabeth Troeger, and H. Bailer of Englewood; Miss Edna Marlin, Earl Musick, and Miss Helen Vizard of Fenger High.

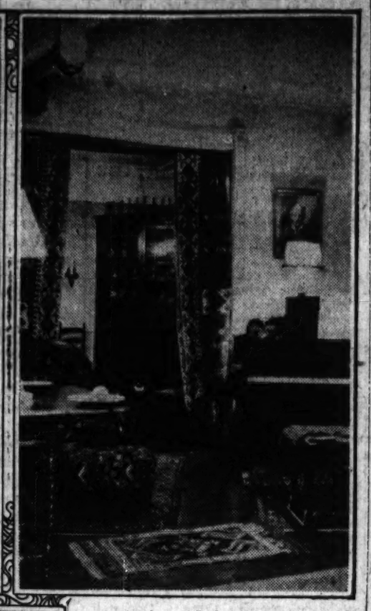
Others are: Miss Bigelow, Miss Katherine Dimock, Mrs. Gertrude C. Lewis, Miss Helen S. Gilbert, Miss Verna Curtis, and Miss Ella Ottaway of Hyde Park; Mrs. Daisy Williams of Phillips; Mrs. Anna D. Knehans, Miss Frances Manion, Miss Marguerite Norcott, and Miss Ruth Worst of Lindblom; Mrs. Hotchkiss and Miss Clarabel Sheehy of Morgan Park; Miss Evelyn Alexander of Parker High; Miss M. R. Bohmann, Miss Ada Emander, Miss P. M. Portersfield, and Harry T. Yates of Tilden.

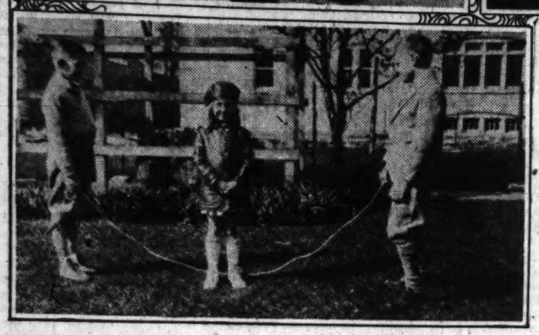
Normal College to Enter.

Material will be entered also by Miss Agnes D. Doyle, Robert C. French, Frank X. Henke, and Elmer A. Morrow of Chicago Normal college and Miss Buehla Chamberlain, Mrs. Winnie Hall and Mrs. Nellie Wall of Austin.

According to Mr. Buck, the purpose of the exhibit is to keep the people of Chicago in touch with the work of the pupils of the various schools along artistic lines. He says their youth and enthusiasm are making their art the most modernistic of all modern art and that such an exhibit as the one to be held may bring forth potential genius.

BUD AND CLARK GOING SOMEWHERE





That picture of Bud Slee and Clark Sells, 1418 West Garfield boulevard, intent on arriving at their destination, won the first prize of $5 in The Tribune's spring picture contest for amateur photographers of the south side this week for Mrs. Ida Kalkusch, 1418 West Garfield boulevard. The second prize of $3 was awarded to Miss Evelyn Jane Oxner, 4827 Lake Park avenue, for an unusual time-exposure picture of the living room of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Cabeen, 3849 Ellis avenue. "Teaching Little Sister to Jump Rope," showing Dorothy Jeanne Erickson, Rodney Erickson, and Milton Kullerstrand and made by Mrs. J. C. Erickson, 7024 South Peoria street, won the third prize of $2.

CHURCH YOUNG FOLK, COACHED BY PASTOR, TO PRESENT FARCE

Under the direction of the Rev. Richard D. Hughes, members of the Christian Endeavor society of the Emerald Avenue Presbyterian church will present "The Mummy and the Mumps," a three act farce, Wednesday and Thursday evenings in the church auditorium, Marquette road and Emerald avenue. The play is the fourth annual production given by the young people of the church.

THE REV. RICHARD D. HUGHES.

The cast is composed of Fred Austin, Ralph Williams, Lester Conaway, George De Ment, Elmer Brinkman, Mrs. Kathryn Williams Bassett, Miss Dorothy Williams, Mrs. Gussie Bowen De Ment, Miss Florence Manly, and Miss Marie Humolka.

CHICAGO LAWN WOMAN'S CLUB TO HOLD PARTY

The Chicago Lawn Woman's club will hold its spring luncheon Tuesday at Hotel Windermere East. The program will be given by Mrs. Fay Rickard, who will read "The Vanishing Prince"; Mrs. J. H. Matheson, who will sing, and the Chicago Lawn Woman's club chorus, which will give several selections.

Special guests at the luncheon will include Mrs. R. L. McClure, president of the third district of the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs; Mrs. Estelle Pershing, director of the club's chorus; Miss Etta Mortell, retiring president of the Junior auxiliary, and Miss Alice Walsh, new president of the auxiliary.

Mrs. O.R.Lampman Elected Head of City Club Branch

Mrs. O. R. Lampman, 6434 Normal avenue, was elected chairman of the 17th ward branch of the Woman's City club at the annual meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. Walter J. Sheehan, 6414 South Artesian avenue. Mrs. William E. Boynton is the retiring chairman. Mrs. W. H. Matthews, 434 West 62d street, was chosen vice chairman; Mrs. A. C. Pagel, 335 West Marquette road, was reëlected secretary; and Mrs. J. B. Crook, 6929 Normal avenue, was reëlected treasurer.

LOYOLA DRAMA CLUB TO APPEAR ON SOUTH SIDE

The Sock and Buskin club of Loyola university will present its annual spring production "Thank You," this evening in the Goodman Memorial theater. Charles Costello is director of the players appearing in the three act comedy written by Winchell Smith and Tom Cushing. The play is to be repeated Thursday evening at Sacred Heart church, 18th and May streets, and again next Sunday at St. Augustine Parish hall 50th and Bishop streets.

Proceeds of tonight's performance will be added to the fund for the benefit of the Maria Della Strada chapel. Included in the cast are: Miss Virginia Barker, Miss Theresa Stocker, Miss Margaret Gill, Miss Alice Burns, Richard Ford, Timothy Connelly, Frank Calkins, Paul Lietz, Frank Arado, J. Francis Walsh, John Lenihan, James Hammond, Martin Stadler, Jerome Koslowski, and Frank Walsh.

F. A. DIEFFENBACH ELECTED TO HEAD RIDGE PK. BOARD

Fred A. Dieffenbach, 2019 West 102d street, who has been a member of the Ridge Park board for more than four years, was elected president of the board at a meeting held last week at the new field house, 102d and Church streets. The other commissioners are Stephen Poyer, Robert C. Heidt, P. S. Perry, and John Geringer.

Hope Church Men's Club Elects A. E. Stephan Head

Newly elected officers of the Hope Men's club of Hope Lutheran church, 6400 South Washtenaw avenue, were installed at a meeting of the organization in the church auditorium. The new officers are: A. E. Stephen, president; L. A. Klotzbucher, vice president; W. A. Sells, secretary; John Utecht, treasurer; Edgar Krause, chairman of the social committee; William Hager, chairman of the membership committee; Charles Troike, publicity director, Paul Reichart, athletic director.

Parkside School P.-T. A. Sponsors Fathers' Night

Fathers' night at the Parkside school, East End avenue and 69th street, is being sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association of the school next Friday. Dr. Leo L. Scherger, professor of history at Armour institute, will talk on "Youth," and students of the school will take part in the program following.

THIS MODEL HAS MANY A THRILL FOR ITS MAKERS

Looks and Acts Like Man Carrying Plane.

BY MERRILL HAMBURG.
[Secretary Airplane Model League of America.]

Remember when, in 1827, Eddie Schlee and William Brock flew the Atlantic, Europe and Asia to reach Tokio in record breaking time?

If you're a member of the Airplane Model League of America, you're pretty sure to remember it. And you'll also remember, likely, that the airplane used was a Stinson-Detroiter—the same ship described as a scale model in this paper recently.

Today I'm going to tell you how to build a flying Stinson-Detroiter—not a flying scale model, for the ship is somewhat modified in order to gain endurance in the air. The model is one of the neatest commercial jobs developed this year, and when properly built will fly sixty seconds or more.

The Job Takes Time.

Building the model takes time, but no greater skill than the construction of a good endurance plane. Before starting, be sure you've examined the drawing closely—know exactly what you're planning to do.

You may get materials needed to build the model in the special league kit, which will be sent you for $1.50 in money order or check sent to the supply department, A. M. L. A., American Boy building, Second and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich. Or you may be able to get materials separately.

Here's what you'll need: Two balsa leading edges, 5-16x5-16x12 inches; two flat balsa strips for small parts, 1-16x1½x13 inches; fifteen M-6 balsa ribs; balsa motor stick, 5-32x¼x13½ inches; flat balsa for wheels and wing support, ¼x1¼x6 inches; balsa propeller block, ½x1¼x8 inches; two strips of bamboo, 1-16x¼x12 inches; one thrust bearing; one rear hook, one propeller shaft, one S hook, two wing clips, eight hooks and eyelets, and two special fuselage nose clips, all of .020 music wire; two brass washers; two sheets of Japanese tissue, 21x31 inches; 2 drams of ambroid; 4 drams of banana oil; a rubber motor, ¼x1-30x52 inches.

Wing of Built Up Type.

The wing is of the built up type—your manual tells you how to make it, Page 6. Follow the dimensions given in the diagram. The wing section is known as the M-6 airfoil, the same as that used on the larger plane. With this article you are given an exact size pattern for this wing—you may cut your ribs on this model from 1-32 inch balsa, or use the ready cut ribs in the league kit.

Assemble the two halves of the wing separately. Glue the ribs to the leading edge as shown in the detail drawing, then attach the trailing edge. Your kit furnishes special pieces of balsa for the leading edge; you cut the trailing edge from flat balsa making it ½ inch wide. Form the wing tips by gluing ribs, with their lower surfaces trimmed to a straight edge, to the two end ribs at right angles [see diagram]. You'll find that the kit furnishes 15 ribs, 13 for cross ribs and two for the tips.

Put Halves Together.

Now put the two halves together. Remember that you must give the wing dihedral angle; to do this glue the two halves in a flat V, with the ends 1¼ inches higher than the center. The ends of the leading and trailing edge spars are the points of contact—and don't forget the thirteenth or center rib. You can hold the two halves in place while the ambroid is drying by putting a block 2½ inches high under the tip of one wing, allowing the other to lie flat on your work table. When the ambroid is set, cover the wing with paper as directed in the manual.

Attach the wing clips to the center of the wing, being sure that they are glued to wood, not paper. Fasten four small eyelets to two of the cross ribs as the drawing shows, so that you may hook the wing struts to them.

Now, the Fuselage.

Now start on the fuselage. You'll make it in two sections, as the detail drawing marked "attachment of motor stick" indicates. The longer ones are made of 1-16 inch balsa and the crosspieces of balsa 1-32x1-16 inch, split from your flat pieces; you can get the dimensions of the various sections directly from the drawing.

See why it's a good idea to make the nose and the motor stick all in one piece, with the motor unconnected to the main body? In the first place, it's easy to replace the motor or make minor repairs; in the second the winding of the motor puts no twisting strain on the body. You attach the motor stick, which is 5-32x¼x13½ inches, to the nose by ambroiding it to the top of the small square opening at the front, and to two diagonal braces at the rear frame. The nose and the body are hooked together by means of two clips of .020 music wire, shown in the drawing. Ambroid is used, of course, to attach rear hook, thrust bearing, clips and other metal parts to the model.

Rudder of Bamboo.

To the top of the fuselage, in the opening forward above the windows, you glue the wing support—its upper edge is flush with the top of the fuselage frame. Make it of balsa, ¼x3-16x5⅛ inches.

Cover the fuselage and the nose with paper. Leave open the section just under the wing, so as to facilitate its adjustment. You may cover the windows with isinglass or some such glassy, lightweight material, if you wish—banana oil is the adhesive used. You can obtain the "window panes" from the wrapping of a package of candy!

The rudder and fin frame are formed from bamboo, split very thin and bent to shape. The diagram shows a balsa right angle on the combination fin and rudder; this is merely to indicate where the rudder would be hinged on the large plane. The two could be made separate and hinged with music wire, but this isn't advisable on a flying model. Better make them of one piece and set the whole fin at a slight angle, as shown in the top left drawing.

Elevators of Balsa.

Because the tail group must be very light—else the model will be tail heavy—the stabilizer and elevators are made with balsa frame. Bending balsa is a delicate job, but you can do it nicely by following instructions in the manual. If you don't care to do this, substitute thin bamboo. You will probably need additional weight on the nose to make up for it, but this can be taken care of later.

Follow the manual, page 7, for instructions as to how to carve your propeller. This model takes a tractor prop, with the center section cut away from the trailing edge.

The landing gear is made from bamboo split 1-16x1-8 inches. Bend your pieces to the shapes shown in the drawing, then split it to 1-16 inch square strips. The wheels are all balsa, 1-8x3-8 inches. They turn on very small .020 music wire axles ambroided to the landing gear, and are kept on by tiny stream-lined balsa hubs ambroided to the axles.

Wing May be Removed.

The four wing struts, or "lift struts," are of very thin balsa ⅛ inch wide. You'll have to suit their length to your ship—length varies on every job. The two front struts hook, as shown in the drawing, between wing ribs and landing gear, and the two rear struts between wing ribs and the lower edge of the fuselage. Thus the wing may be removed at will, or may be moved backward or forward along the wing support for flying adjustment.

Now you've done all the work, unless you want to color wing and wheel fairings [the sections inside the tires] orange, and landing gear and fuselage black, with an orange strip around the top of the fuselage. You can do this coloring either by dyeing paper before covering the model, or by painting it with banana oil and lightweight dyes after it is completed. You'll add weight by coloring it, of course.

Test Ship Carefully.

Put the rubber motor on the motor stick—knot the two ends and you'll have a motor of four strands. Test the ship very carefully. Adjust the wing forward or backward until you find the best position for gliding. If the plane insists on stalling, no matter how far back you put the wing, you'll need to add a little weight to the nose. Some boys do this by increasing the weight of the wheels; one I know ambroided two tiny wire brads to the front end of the motor stick.

When you've found the right adjustment, get ready for a pretty flight. For there's nothing in model work more satisfying than a slow, trim commercial ship in flight. This Stinson Detroiter will take the ship off the ground; it will fly sixty to ninety seconds [a flight of more than thirty seconds indoors or sixty seconds outdoors will win you an honor certificate]; and it will make a three point landing that would make Col. Lindbergh jealous!

More than that, it will be eligible for a special competition to be held at the Second National A. M. L. A. contests which the American Boy Magazine, co-sponsor with THE TRIBUNE of the league, will conduct in Detroit June 20-22. Watch this paper for details of this competition. It's a contest with an international angle.

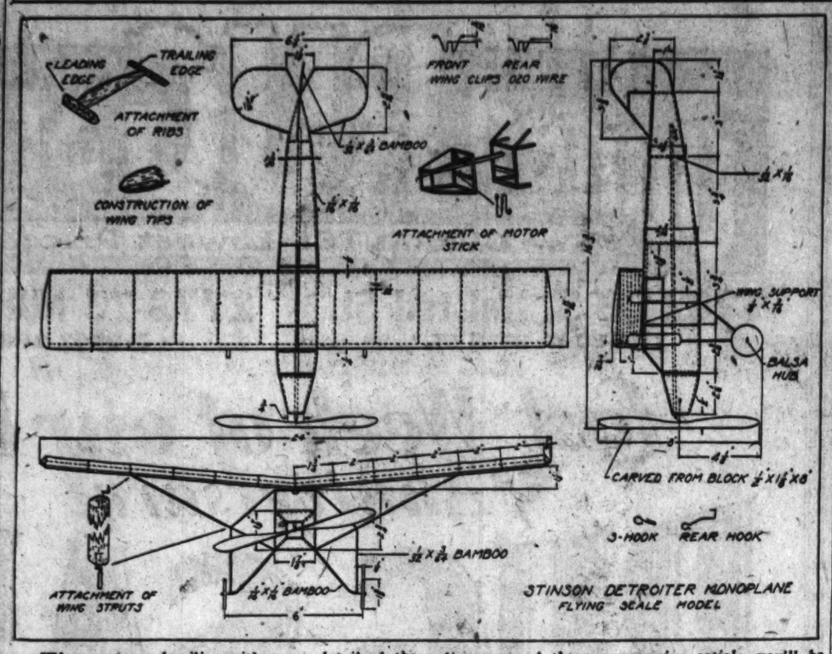
THE FLYING STINSON DETROITER



When you are familiar with every detail of these diagrams and the accompanying article, you'll be ready to start building for some pretty flights.

ARMOUR SQUARE RESIDENTS FORM CIVIC COUNCIL

An organization which will be called the Armour Square Community council, was formed recently when 200 residents of the district met at the Armour Square park field house, 33d street and Shields avenue. The purpose of the organization has been defined as to promote the social welfare of the community.

Mrs. John Lord was elected president; Mrs. Frank Ruppert, vice president; Edward Anderson, recording secretary, and Fred G. Stang, financial secretary.

Responding to the suggestion of Z. T. Egardner, director of Armour Square park, the council has adopted a program which includes an infant welfare station, a branch library, and a night school where those foreign born may learn English and citizenship.

A playground ball league has been organized at Armour Square, and consists of 20 industrial teams from the automobile industries and laundries of the community.

FENGER BOOSTS CLEANUP WEEK AT ASSEMBLY

Miss Claribel Brand, a member of the Fenger High school senior class, was in charge of the final assembly program at the school preceding the spring vacation. The program dealt with Cleanup week and the student mayor, Joseph Brack, spoke on how the process of cleaning up might be continued through the vacation.

A short play, "As We'd Like It," was given by a group of students, demonstrating the benefits of Cleanup week. Those making up the cast were Miss Lillian Carlberg, Miss Marian Goodman, Norman Wilhelmsen, Edward Gemler, Russel Coe, and Guilbert Heffron.

Music was provided by the Fenger social orchestra, directed by Francis Ryan and composed of the following additional students: William Guilbert, Trevor Rogers, Ellwood Johnson, Wilbur Radcliffe, Erwin Doranski, Edward Tampa, Harry Budka, and Robert Chevalier.

Wentworth School P.-T. to Meet Next Thursday

The Parent-Teacher association of the D. S. Wentworth school, 70th and Sangamon streets, will meet next Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the new assembly hall of the school. Delegates to the state convention at Mattoon will report, and a field representative of the Camp Fire girls will address the group. Plans will be made at this time for a teachers' luncheon.

PLANE BUILDERS SPEED WORK TO MEET DEADLINE

Entries Must Reach The Tribune by May 14.

With entries in the Model airplane tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE closing on May 14, south side aspirants for the forty-eight medals and two trophies to be awarded are busy these days preparing planes so that they may be certified in time by their neighborhood school and playground officials.

Not many days are left for making entries, and the awards—including two trips to the national championship meet and back—are so worthwhile that the feverish activity of those boys who feel in their bones that they have ships under way that will win honors can easily be accounted for. All expenses of the two trips to the national meet will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Outdoor events of the meet will be held May 19 at Washington park. Indoor events will be held May 26 at the 132d infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets.

Who will be the winners in THE TRIBUNE contests? This is the question uppermost in the minds of the young mechanics. It won't be long now until decisions will be made. The important thing at hand is to make entries before May 14. An entry blank is in this section.

Rules of Tournament.

Rules for the tournament follow:

All contestants must have their planes ready for examination by the judges 15 minutes before the starting time of the contest.

Each plane must have been built by its flyer and each plane certified by a board of education or park system or public school official. The certification must be presented with the entry blank. Only metal parts of the planes can be purchased complete.

No contestant shall launch his model before receiving the launch signal from the official starter.

Each contestant will be allowed three official flights; the greatest elapsed time made in any of the three flights to score.

Interfered flight. If a plane hits some object before it alights on the ground floor and continues in flight or remains suspended, its flyer may, if he chooses, take an additional official flight as a substitute for this interfered flight.

All planes shall be driven by rubber strand motors only.

Winner of first place will be the builder and flyer of the plane which remains in flight the longest time and of second place the second longest elapsed time, and so on to sixth place.

Each contestant must prepare his plane for flight himself—that is, rigging, repairing, and winding up the motors.

Contestants shall be divided into two classes: Class A, those who are 15 years old or over, but under 21 years of age, on May 19; class B, those who are 14 years old or younger, on May 19.

In each event each contestant will not be allowed more than three unofficial flights.

EVENT I.

Indoor Duration Contest.

A. R. O. G. Duration—Planes shall be released under their own power from the floor and must rise from their own power.

B. Any flight under 10 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight.

C. Planes entered in this event may have a wing span of 40 inches or less; a hollow double surfaced wing; a hollow completely enclosed fuselage of a cabin type or cockpit model; a landing chassis with wheels, and be generally in appearance like a real airplane.

D. Judging of duration of flight will be from the moment the model leaves the floor or ground to the time it first touches the ground or floor or passes out of sight of the attending officials, or is permanently stopped in its flight. [See interfered flight.]

EVENT II.

A. Planes entered in this event may have a distance between the propeller bearing and motor hook at the other end of the motor stick of fifteen inches or less. [For pusher-pullers this will be the distance from bearing to bearing.]

B. Launching will be by hand by merely releasing, not throwing.

C. Judging of duration shall be from the moment the plane leaves the hand to the time it first touches the floor or is permanently stopped in its flight, as by hanging on some object. [See section on interfered flight.]

D. Any flight under 15 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight. Only three unofficial flights, that is, under 15 seconds, will be allowed.

EVENT III.

Outdoor Duration Events.

A. R. O. G. duration planes shall be released under their own power from a platform on the ground and must rise under their own power.

B. Any flight under 10 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight.

C. Same as C, Event I.

D. Judging of duration of flight will be from the moment the model leaves the platform on the ground to the time it first touches the ground or passes out of the sight of the attendant officials or is permanently stopped in its flight. [See interfered flights.]

EVENT IV.

A. Planes entered in this event may have a wing span of 40 inches or less.

B. Launching will be by hand, merely releasing the plane, not throwing.

C. Same as D, Event I.

D. Same as B, Event I.

POINT SYSTEM.

The Olympic system of scoring will prevail. Ten points for first place, five for second, four for third, three for fourth, two for fifth, and one point for sixth place.

AWARDS.

Forty-eight medals, two trophies, and two trips to the national championship meet and back will be awarded the winners. The medals will be awarded to the winners of first, second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth places in each event in both senior and junior [A and B] classes. A trophy will be awarded the organization whose representatives earn the greatest number of points in class A division and another will be awarded the high point team in class B. The class A and class B contestants who earn the greatest number of points will receive the trip to the national meet, where all expenses will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Wash, Boil and Sterilize Your Clothes in One Operation!

The new Fountain-Way Washer, in design and principle of operation, is entirely different from any other washing machine. It operates entirely by heat! It has no moving parts—nothing to grease or oil—nothing to wear out or need attention—no rough machinery to whirl your clothes about and wear them out.
Now you can soak, wash, boil, and STERILIZE your white clothes in one operation, and thoroughly clean your colored clothes as no other machine possibly can. And you can wash your most delicate fabrics such as silks, woolens, lace curtains, without the slightest possibility of injury to any of them.
Now you can wash your clothes—scientifically—as they should be washed—in the new Fountain-Way Washer. Just phone or write, and we'll send a courteous representative to demonstrate right in your own home. No obligation, of course.

The Fountain-Way Junior

Here is a washer every woman will want. Even though you may own another kind of washing machine, you can use the Fountain-Way Junior for those occasional, but necessary, "in-between-time" washings of your finer things. And for children's clothes and baby's little things, it is simply unbeatable. In what other machine can you sterilize clothes as you can in the Fountain-Way and thus give the protection that children merit? The price is 19.75

FORT DEARBORN LEGION TO OPEN FETE THURSDAY

Spring Carnival Will Last Nearly 3 Weeks.

The annual spring festival and carnival of Fort Dearborn post, No. 268, of the American Legion, 6636 Cottage Grove avenue, will open Thursday and will continue until May 21. The festival will be held on 64th street, between Evans and Langley avenues, and the two weeks' program will include a Boy Scouts' day and a Crippled Children's day.

The post is also sponsoring a campaign to teach the correct display of the flag and is urging that business houses in the district adopt flags and flag poles of uniform size. Boy Scout troop No. 525 is distributing copies of "The Flag Code" to all business houses and homes in Woodlawn.

Grand Crossing post, No. 438, was host to twenty-three south side posts recently. A street parade was the feature of the occasion, and a meeting at Pusey's hall followed. After the business session came the entertainment and refreshments. The Rosehill post band led the parade. South Shore post provided the music for the program of entertainment in the hall. On the committee of arrangements were Comrades John J. Simpson, Leo J. Pappas and Edward T. Mead. Grand Crossing post is out to set a new record for membership and welcomes any ex-service man with an honorable discharge from the army, navy or marine corps.

South Shore post, No. 388, has ordered 18,000 poppies for Poppy day, and expects to realize a substantial revenue to remit to Legion headquarters of the district. All women of the South Shore district who are desirous of helping in the cause are requested to communicate with Arthur Gillis, chairman poppy committee, 1954 East 71st street; Hyde Park 4694.

Woodlawn post No. 175 will observe Hospital day, May 11, by turning out at Speedway hospital with its several uniformed units, which include the champion drill corps of the Legion, the band which placed second at the state convention last year, and the drum and bugle corps recently organized. The next meeting of the post will be held tomorrow night. Plans for Poppy and Memorial days will be discussed.

Cook county council of American Legion auxiliaries will again participate in Hospital day, May 11, at the Edward Hines Jr. hospital. For the last three years members of the organization have acted as hostesses at the refreshment booth and will preside again in that capacity this year. Miss Dagmar Romer, who is rehabilitation chairman of the council, is in charge of the arrangements and is cooperating with William Wilson, who is acting as chairman of the Cook county council of the Legion.

Bell post, No. 242, will hold its regular meeting on Thursday, at 8:00 p. m., in the Bell forum, 311 West Washington street. At this meeting awards will be presented to the winners who participated in the flag contest held in the continuation school. Prizes will also be given to the winners in the membership contest conducted by Bell post. It will be an open meeting and all post members are requested to bring their friends. The drum and bugle corps is giving its first annual dance on the night of May 24 in the grand ballroom of the Hotel La Salle.

The first district will hold its first annual dance and May party at Hotel Sherman Saturday night. Robert E. Casey, commander of the first district, anticipates that the event will be one of the Legion's biggest, for the twenty-two posts in the district have arranged a program of entertainment that will bring headliners from leading Chicago theaters, the Kiltie band and Bell post's drum and bugle corps. A May queen will be honored, and "a wonderful time" is promised to all who attend.

Civil Service post No. 678 has planned an extra program for its regular meeting to be held at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night at the K. C. club rooms, 165 West Madison street.

The American Legion office, 160 North La Salle street, is trying to locate the relatives of Clarence H. Williams, a veteran who died at the Soldiers' hospital at Elgin last Nov. 27. His wife, Mrs. Addie Williams, 5108 South State street, died last Aug. 14. There is now payable to the estate of the soldier proceeds of adjusted compensation, and in order to secure the appointment of an administrator, it is necessary to reach some member of the family, so that a proper petition can be prepared.

Information has been received that there is a sister living in Indiana, no address given. Any one being able to supply any information in this case is asked to call the American Legion. Telephone Central 2183.

Lorado Taft will be the speaker tomorrow noon at the meeting of Advertising Men's post, No. 38, at the Hotel Sherman. The famous sculptor will take for his topic "War Memorials." Following the talk Polly Walker of "Billie" fame will appear on the program.

FRIENDS GIVE PARTY FOR PAIR ON ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hoerder, 7855 Calumet avenue, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday, and in honor of the occasion, Mrs. Edward Roelle, 10100 Parnell avenue, gave a surprise party at the Ogden Park field house, 65th street and Racine avenue, for 150 guests. Dinner was served in the gymnasium of the field house, followed by a program in the auditorium. Among the guests were the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Hoerder, Mrs. George Pfeister, 78th and Halsted streets; Miss Anna Hoerder, and Miss Hannah Hoerder, both of the home address.

DANCING FETE TO BE GIVEN IN HAMILTON PARK

Annual Affair Takes Place Friday Night.

The annual spring dancing festival of Hamilton park will be given Friday night in the park field house, 72d street and Normal boulevard, under the combined auspices of Miss Florence Reid, girls' gymnasium instructor at Hamilton park; Mrs. Fred W. Waterman, president of the Hamilton Park Woman's club; and A. T. Campbell, director of the park.

Various types of dances, in costume, will be given in the field house auditorium by the dancing classes which have met every Saturday throughout the winter under the supervision of Miss Reid.

"Fairyland" Opens Program.

"In Fairyland" will be the dancing sketch to open the program. Miss Luella Boyd will be the queen, and other fairies will be Miss Violet Danielson, Miss Lorrine Curtin, Miss Helen Exner, Miss Margie Elmers, Miss Roberta Smead, Miss Veronica Doyle, Miss Rita Roper, Miss Helen Canham, Miss Gertrude Caswell, Miss Madelyn Hanson, Miss Marilyn Millbourne, Miss Patsy Doyle, Miss Geraldine Eller, Miss Diana Smead, Miss Dorothy O'Brien, Miss Mabel Canham, Miss Lois Elmers, Miss Lavern Stratton, Miss Vivian Dickerson, Miss Lorine Mathouser, and Miss Marideth Hawkinson. The part of the elf in this sketch will be taken by Franklin Bowes.

Virginia Crampton, Mary Grey Hufft, and Lois Dugan will then dance a trio entitled "Money of My Own" after which a military tap dance will be given by:

Miss Luella Boyd, Miss Ellene Driscol, Miss Myrtle Ogden, Miss Helen Spake, Miss Helen Murphy, Miss Madelynn Bittgen, Miss Olivia Madson, Miss Betty Dunlap, Miss Wanda Sperling, Miss Dorothy Dewey, Miss Vivian Bonome, Miss Genevieve Shults, Miss Margaret Ferguson, Miss Maxine Humphreys, Miss Dorothy Reynolds, and Miss Virginina Valentine.

Interpretative and Acrobatic Dances.

An interpretative dance, "Spider and the Flies," will be given by Miss Marie Gallo as the spider and Miss Dorothy Wilcen and Miss Luella Boyd as the flies. An acrobatic dance will be given by Miss Margaret Ferguson, Miss Vivian Bonome, Miss Virginia Valentine, Miss Maxine Humphreys, Miss Dorothy Reynolds, and Miss Myrtle Ogden. A solo dance called an acrobatic waltz will be given by Miss Dorothy Wilcen.

"Pullman Porters," a comic blackface dancing sketch, will be presented by Miss Lavern Stratton, Miss Gertrude Caswell, Miss Dorothy, O'Brien, Miss Veronica Doyle, Miss Patsy Doyle, Miss Rita Roper, Miss Lorraine Curtin, and Miss Vivian Dickerson.

The infant class will give a dance of "little fairies" in which the following will take part: Jean Gerin, Virginia Crampton, Maryjane Orr, Theone Huffman, Doris Bright, Zona Beck, Mary Jane Alheim, Edna Keebil, Mary Hufft, Martha Denig, and Katherine Dugan.

Toe Dance Final Number.

A waltz clog will be given by Miss Dorothy Reynolds, Miss Lois Elmers, Miss Diana Smead, Miss Helen Exner, Miss Helen Canham, Miss Margie Elmers, Miss Mabel Canham, Miss Roberta Smead, and Miss Violet Danielson.

A dance called "Dutch Kiddies" will be given by Doris Bright, Jean Gerin, Irene O'Farrell, Mary Jane Alheim, Zona Beck, Theone Huffman, Mary Jane Orr, Martha Denig, Virginia Crampton, Edna Keebil, and Mary Hufft.

Miss Hazel Storer, Miss Olivia Madson, and Miss Marie Gallo will give a Chinese trio dance, and a dance entitled "Soft Shoe" will be given by the following:

Miss Ellene Driscol, Miss Betty Dunlap, Miss Dorothy Reynolds, Miss Margaret Ferguson, Miss Helen Spake, Miss Wanda Sperling, Miss Madelyn Bittgen, Miss Hazel Storer, Miss Genevieve Shults, and Miss June MacLaren.

A military toe dance will close the program and the following will take part: Miss Noma Bear, Miss Maxine Riley, Miss Luella Boyd, Miss Marie Gallo, Miss Olivia Madson, Miss Margaret Ferguson, Miss Rose Mary Schieck, Miss June MacLaren, Miss Helen Spake, and Miss Genevieve Shults.

DANCERS IN PARK FETE

STREET PROTEST MEETING CALLED FOR 15TH WARD

Money to Be Sought for Repairs.

Residents of the 15th ward will have an opportunity to voice their protests against the condition of the streets in the community at a mass-meeting to be held within two weeks under the auspices of the Southwest District association, James J. Condon, president, announced yesterday.

The ward has been apportioned $85,000 from the 1929 wheel tax fund, an increase of $13,000 over last year's allotment, but this money, Mr. Condon pointed out, can only be used to repair streets which are less than 15 per cent deteriorated.

Can't Use Money.

Since the majority of the streets in the ward are more than 15 per cent in disrepair, Mr. Condon said the $85,000 would not aid in the fight for better highways. Money must be sought from some other source.

With this in mind, a committee from the association will meet with Michael Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, and Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, to discuss a more economical method of repairing streets than now used.

This discussion will take place before the massmeeting is held, so that the committee will be able to give the residents of the ward a report of this conference.

Demonstration Being Given.

Residents of the 15th ward this week are watching Hoyne street, between 111th and 112th streets, where a practical demonstration of the Wolfe plan of street repair was started Wednesday.

Under the commissioner's plan a wornout street is resurfaced with one and one-half inches of asphalt, with the old pavement used as a base.

Y. M. C. A. Music Festival.

The 111th Street Y. M. C. A. orchestra will defend its title next Tuesday against 200 other groups in the annual state Y. M. C. A. music festival, to be held in Bryn Mawr school, 7300 Jeffery avenue.

Ruggles P.-T. A. Meeting.

The Ruggles Parent-Teacher association will meet next Thursday at the school, 7831 Prairie avenue. Mrs. F. A. Francis, president-elect, will report on the state convention at Mattoon. Mrs. George Anderson is the retiring president.

COMIC OPERETTA TO BE PRESENTED BY TILDEN TECH

There will be stranded sailors, tropical isles, all sorts of dances and songs in "Singbad the Sailor," the comic operetta which will be presented by the choral club at Tilden Technical High school the evenings of May 22 and 23 in the Tilden auditorium.

Two boys have been chosen to sing alternately the leading rôle of Singbad. They are John Gregory and William Weaver, and the leading lady will be "Miss" Charles Kolar.

There will be Oriental, occidental, ancient, modern, Egyptian, "seven veils," tango, hornpipe and apache dances, and there will be sailors, gypsies, a theatrical troupe, and cannibals to do the dancing. Among the songs will be found grand opera arias, minstrels, quartets, duets, and choruses.

Woodlawn Kiwanis Club Addressed by Tom Lieb

Tom Lieb, Knute Rockne's first assistant and the man who is credited with making the "four horsemen" of Notre Dame famous, was the principal speaker at the annual boys' day meeting of the Woodlawn Kiwanis club Wednesday at the Wedgewood hotel, 64th street and Woodlawn avenue. Gregory V. Rose was installed as a member of the organization.

Wins Piano as Song Prize.

Charles P. Smith, 2049 East 82d street, recently won a studio piano in a national song writing contest sponsored by Raphael's cafe, Stony Island avenue and 79th street. The title of his song is "I'll Take Care of You."

BOYS TO PARADE 25,000 STRONG IN THEIR WEEK

City-Wide Track Meet and Park Events Planned.

Churches, schools, parks, and playgrounds on the south side as well as all over the city, will play a part in the twelfth annual Boys' week, which will be held from Sunday, May 19, to Saturday, May 25. Beginning with special church services for boys on Sunday and finishing with athletic games and contests in the various parks on Saturday, the entire week will be given over to the education, health, interests, and enthusiasms of Chicago boyhood.

Recent committee meetings have been held for discussion and completion of plans and programs for Boys' week. Edward L. Burchard of the Chicago City club and Superintendent William J. Bogan of the Chicago public schools, respectively, are executive secretary and chairman of the executive committee in charge of the activities for Boys' week.

The numerous organizations sponsoring the activities of that week include the Rotary club, Kiwanis club, City Club of Chicago, Boy Scouts, board of education, Optimistic club, Congress of Boy Workers, department of health, and all the organizations of boys in the city.

Church Committee Named.

Every boy in Chicago will be urged to attend church services somewhere, preferably in company with his parents, on the Sunday which opens Boys' week. Dean Shailer Mathews, head of the Chicago Church federation, Rabbi Gerson Levi, and Msgr. C. J. Quille compose the committee in charge of this day's program.

Monday, May 20, will be given over to the boy at home and with the radio. In recognition of the influence of the home over the boy's life and the importance of the radio in the life of many homes, special radio programs will be broadcast from Chicago stations.

The boy in industry will be the theme of Wednesday's programs. James P. Haynes of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Frank F. Winans of the Rotary club will be in charge of the programs for this day, which will attempt to establish closer relations between employers and boys.

On Tuesday, the boy's spare time will occupy the attention of the Boy Workers association and the Union League Foundation for Boys, with Burridge Butler as chairman. Rightly used, the boy's spare time will mean success, according to Mr. Butler, and the programs in schools on this day will tend to encourage boys to make the best use of their extra hours.

Thursday To Be Health Day.

The boy's health will be taken up Thursday by the Kiwanis club. Physical examinations and health talks will be given in all schools. Dr. Thomas A. Carter will be in charge of the health programs.

A parade of 25,000 high school boys, junior high, seventh and eighth grade and parochial schoolboys, held at Soldiers' field, will feature Friday's program. Included in this parade will be Boy Scouts, all boys' clubs, safety patrols, R. O. T. C., fire departments, junior fire police and organizations of boys from the board of education playgrounds and municipal playgrounds. Leading the parade will be a band of 2,400 pieces, which will be a combination of all the R. O. T. C. bands in high schools over the city.

Friday morning at the stadium will be taken up with a track meet among elementary schoolboys and a demonstration of their R. O. T. C. units. The Friday activities come under the heading of the boy in school and citizenship. Mr. Bogan will be in charge of this day, with Maj. F. W. Beals managing the combined program to be given by the R. O. T. C. band.

Athletic Carnival Saturday.

The gala day for the boys will come on Saturday, with athletic contests in the parks and playgrounds. There will be wrestling matches and stunts, races and swimming contests, for which prizes will be awarded to the winners. Edward C. Delaporte, director of physical education, is chairman in charge of the park activities.

A congress of boy workers will be held in the evening of one day during Boys' week with a dinner at the Palmer house under the auspices of the Boy Scouts.

George W. Dixon is president of the Chicago Boys' Week federation; Melvin A. Traylor is treasurer; Mr. Bogan is chairman of the executive committee; Mr. Burchard is executive secretary, and Michael Zimmer is secretary.

Vice presidents of the organization include: Mr. Bogan, D. Thomas, J. Carter, J. F. Cornelius, Edward I. Cahby, Ald. Guy Guernsey, Walter Read, Alex C. Johnson, Dr. M. H. Mack, Lewis E. Myers, Msgr. C. J. Quille, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., J. E. Ad, R. W. Stewart, Medard W. Welch and Leo Wormser.

19TH WARD TOPS CITY IN BIRTHS DURING JANUARY

More babies per capita were born in the Nineteenth ward in January than any other south side ward, according to figures compiled last week by officials of the health department. There were 110 new residents of that ward recorded during the first month this year, or 14.59 per 10,000 population.

The Fifteenth ward, which ranked first in the entire city in the number of births in 1928, was second last January with 118 visits of the stork, or 13.53 trips per 10,000. The Twelfth ward was third with 85 births and a rate of 12.77.

Last as usual was the First ward with only 26 births for a rate of 4.23; next to last was the Sixth ward with 28 babies for a rate of 4.82 per 10,000, and third from the bottom was the Second ward with 46 births or 5.76 per 10,000.

The number of births in other south side wards was as follows, according to their respective rates: Eighteenth, 85; Tenth, 69; Sixteenth, 56; Eighth, 89; Seventh, 102; Ninth, 86; Seventeenth, 48; Eleventh, 47; Third, 69; Fourteenth, 50; Thirteenth, 43; Fifth, 47; Fourth, 50.

MARQUETTE PARK SPEEDS UP DRIVE FOR RESTRICTION

Appeal Made to Ministers to Help Campaign.

Contracts will be ready by May 15 for the signatures of those property owners in the Marquette Park and Chicago Lawn districts who wish to have their property restricted against a possible invasion of undesirable residents, according to Chester Patrick, executive secretary of the newly organized Marquette Park Property Owners' Restriction association.

J. H. MAIER.

The entire area which the new association hopes to restrict includes all of the territory bounded by 55th and 75th streets and Irving and Central Park avenues. In view of the fact thta this large area is the only territory on the south side where no concerted effort has been made toward restriction, Mr. Patrick asserted that every effort will be made in the next few months to get more than 90 per cent of the property owners in the district to sign restriction contracts.

Appeal Made to Ministers.

A meeting of fifteen clergymen from churches in the territory was held last week in the office of the association at 2532 West 63d street. Mr. Patrick gave the ministers a detailed explanation of the restriction project and urged their support and coöperation. All of the clergymen, Mr. Patrick said, were in favor of the movement and promised that they would urge the members of their congregations who own property to sign the restriction contracts. Mr. Patrick declined to make public the names of the ministers.

Julius H. Maier, president of the West Lawn Real Estate association, and Percy A. Rattray were elected vice presidents of the association at a meeting of the executive committee last week, while William A. Canovan and George Tearney were appointed as legal advisers.

Thirty Directors Named.

Thirty new directors were also elected at this time. They are: M. D. Abney, Lothar Becker, James Bradley, Horatio E. Cain, Leo S. Charbonneau, A. J. Connors, Paul S. Daugherty, Cornelius Fisher, B. J. Glidewell, Dr. M. J. Hoffman, William Irvin, James Koovalles, A. H. Maack, Carl C. Marzano, Peter Monzures, A. C. Novak, Louis P. O'Connell, Jacob Plotkin, Edward Qualkinbush, William G. Scharf, George M. Tobey, John W. Utesch, John H. Walsh, J. A. Wessel, H. A. Walchin, M. R. Walchin, Peter J. O'Reilly, Albert Strachan, George Strachan, and William T. Fleming.

RENEW BATTLE TO OPEN UNION NORTH OF 63D

Englewood Seeks to End Congestion.

Seeking to relieve congested traffic conditions at 63d and Halsted streets, members of the Englewood Business Men's association have reopened the fight for passage by the city council of an ordinance for the opening of Union avenue from 60th to 63d streets.

According to F. B. Bellis, president of the organization, it is understood that 50 per cent of the improvement would be paid for by special assessment against property owners along or adjacent to the thoroughfare, while the other 50 per cent would be paid by the city.

Effect Would Extend South.

Mr. Bellis pointed out that the new street would, besides relieving traffic on Halsted street, also provide a new lane for residents of the territory south of Englewood, who would be able to enter Englewood by a better route than overcrowded Halsted street.

Believing that the contemplated improvement is for the best interests of the community and the south side, many of the prominent business men's groups are planning to help the Englewood Business Men's association to arouse sufficient agitation to convince the city council that the completion of the project is necessary.

The Greater South Side chamber of commerce, through its managing vice president, H. H. Haylett, was one of the first bodies to adopt a resolution in favor of the project.

Count on Council Alliance.

Mr. Bellis believes that in the new aldermanic alliance, which is composed of four south side aldermen who are in favor of the proposed improvement, the business men have a powerful advantage when the ordinance comes up in the council. The aldermen who compose the alliance are Terence F. Moran [16th], James G. Coyle [17th], Walter W. Morris [18th] and O. E. Northrup [19th].

Ald. Morris pointed out that the contemplated improvement is supported by every business men's group and civic organization in the community.

Sorority to Give Tea for Its New Pledges

Members of the Alpha chapter of the Betta Gamma Chi sorority will hold a tea this afternoon for their new pledges at the Hotel Shoreland, 55th street and South Shore drive. Miss Ruth Wright, 5522 Ellis avenue, is in charge of arrangements. The new pledges are Miss Queen Keltner, 7446 Bennett avenue; Miss Vera Gross, 7931 Crandon avenue; Miss Verna Grotevant, 6440 Ellis avenue; Miss Irene Boudreau, 6940 Clyde avenue; Miss Violet Fomes, 14614 Union avenue, Harvey; Miss Anne Couvey, 5456 Ridgewood court; and Miss Patricia Couvey, 5456 Ridgewood court.

Barton P.-T. A. to Give May Party on Thursday

Members of the Barton Parent-Teacher association are giving a May party next Thursday in the school auditorium, 79th and Lincoln streets. There will be games, community singing and prize contests. Mrs. Anne Wallentin, 7655 Hermitage avenue, is chairman of the committee making arrangements for the party.

LINDBLOM HIGH PAPER ADJUDGED BEST IN ILLINOIS

The Lindblom High School Weekly was chosen the best school newspaper at the annual convention of the Illinois High School Press association held recently at Galesburg.

Other prizes won by the school were: second for the best news story; second place for the year's best editorial; and third place for the best sports story written during the year. The news story which won the award was an article written by Miss Frances Parks, on a speech made by Coach Alonzo A. Stagg of the University of Chicago, April 11 at a school assembly.

The school was represented at the convention by Miss Helen M. Reuhl, editor in chief, and Chester E. Wojdygo, sports editor.

Others on the executive board of the paper are: Joseph A. Pask, assistant editor in chief; Miss Elaine Van Scoy, news editor; Miss Eleanor Saladin, editorial writer; Miss Joan Slowiak, social editor; William L. Simpson, art editor, and Len D. Hinchcliff, business manager. C. A. Hollister is the faculty advisor and B. Garbow is the business advisor.

ODEL YACHT ACERS START SPRING SEASON

n New Pond on Outer Drive in Hyde Park.

Once again spring has ushered in the popular sport of model yacht racing on the pond built especially for that purpose in Ogden park. From now on through the summer every fair Sunday afternoon will find both amateur and professional skippers exhibiting nautical skill in the adjustment and supervision of midget and miniature ships.

The science of sailing real yachts is necessary to the successful racing of these models which ply up and down the pond, one of the best bodies of water now available in the United States for the fascinating sport. Model sailing is neither child's play nor simply a schoolboy pastime. It is a sport which attracts both young and old and which demands adept workmanship, technical skill, experience and earnest application for these sailoring captains individually build the models which they sail.

Headquarters for Two Clubs.

The Model Yacht Racing Association of America now boasts fourteen member clubs, two of which have their headquarters at Ogden park. The Washington organization occupies the key position on the roster and it is here that the national meets are held each year. The other clubs in addition to the Ogden Park Yacht club and the Chicago Model Yacht club are located in New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Toledo, Cleveland, Detroit, and St. Augustine, Fla.

The Ogden Park Yacht club was organized in 1924 by George Baron of Homewood, Ill., formerly of London, England, and was the pioneer club of its kind in Chicago. Four years later the Chicago Model Yacht club came into existence, and both of these organizations sail their ships on the Ogden park pond. From today on they will hold their races on alternate Sundays.

Members of these clubs have attended the national model yacht meets in Washington, D. C., where they sail their miniature craft on the reflecting pool beside the Lincoln memorial. Commodore Baron still takes his yachts to the international meets in England, hoping to repeat his success of 1912, when he won first place in class A at the international meet.

Plan Pond on Outer Drive.

As a result of the enthusiasm of the members of these two model yacht clubs and the interest taken by the Chicago Yacht association, a larger model yacht pond is proposed to be built at the junction of the outer drive and Hyde Park boulevard upon completion of the drive. This pond will be built and its use sponsored by the Chicago Yacht association. It is hoped by members of the association that the annual meet will be held here rather than in Washington in 1930 and that during the Chicago World's Fair an international meet will be held here.

The Chicago clubs each have approximately 25 members, ranging in age from 25 to 80 years.

A race usually consists of one of several round trips of the pool course, as this permits running with and against the wind, which tests out the merits of the various competitor boats.

These land skippers carry curious little kits of tools so that they may make repairs as the need for such difficulties develops. Between races now and there an amateur sailmaker may be seen repairing a damaged sail and another captain replacing a broken bowsprit or a damaged rudder. Sometimes the boats collide during a race when a stiff breeze is blowing, and are damaged so seriously as to necessitate many hours of careful labor in home shops to make them seaworthy again.

SORORITY TO GIVE STYLE SHOW FOR THEIR MOTHERS

Tau Epsilon will hold its annual mother's day tea next Sunday afternoon at the Blackstone hotel. Included in the program will be an old fashioned style show given by members of the sorority who will show dresses, hats, and coats worn by their mothers two and three decades ago. There will also be vocal selections by Mrs. J. Gibbons and piano numbers by Mrs. Henry J. Kleesisch.

Mrs. Paul H. Hahn, 7520 Merrill avenue, is grand president of the sorority and Miss Helen Sayles is chairman in charge of the program for the tea.

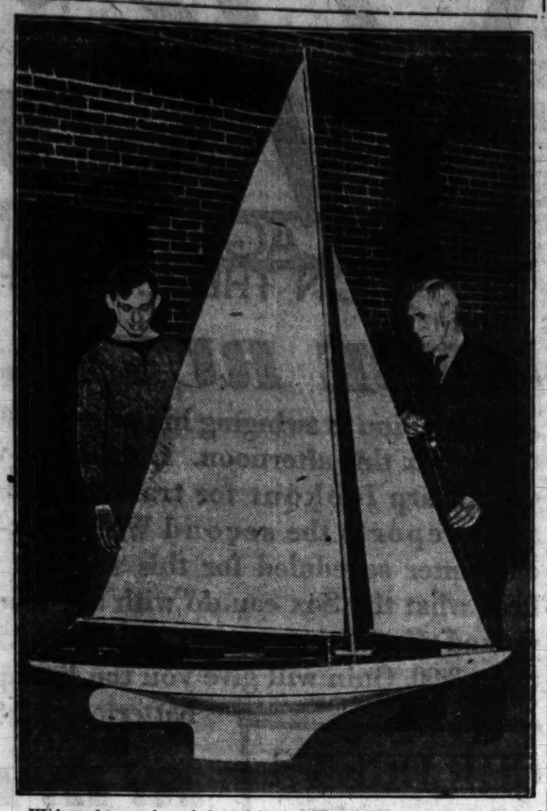
It Takes True Seaman to Sail Model



Wide and exact knowledge of boats and water and winds is required to be a successful builder and sailor of a model yacht, according to Orville Sonntag (left) and Thomas Malloy, among the dozens of enthusiasts who gather at Ogden park to try their crafts. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

BEG YOUR PARDON

Last Sunday the winning pictures in THE TRIBUNE spring picture contest for amateur photographers of the south side were printed in the north side Metropolitan section, while the south side sections showed the prize winners of the north side.

In a recent article concerning the Drama league contest for amateurs to be held this week THE TRIBUNE stated that Miss Alice Gerstenberg would direct the play "The High Heart," which has been entered in the contest by the Playwrights' theater. Although Miss Gerstenberg is an active member of this organization it is Mrs. Janet Burroughs who directs this play.

FATHERS' NIGHT TO BE OBSERVED AT CALUMET HIGH

Fathers' night at Calumet High school will be held Thursday evening at the high school building. It is being sponsored by the Rooters' club of the school, the "C" men and the Fathers' club. Chairmen of the committees in charge are Dan Cummings, C. R. C., president, and Tom McNamara, president of the "C" men.

O. E. Northrup, the newly elected alderman of the 19th ward, will be the speaker of the evening, and accompanying him on the program will be Kenneth Rouse, captain and center of the football team of the University of Chicago two years ago, Max Fenneman and John E. McNamara of the Fathers' club, and Howard Bechtolt of the school faculty.

Doors of the school will be opened at 7 o'clock and until 8 o'clock visitors will be shown about the building and the gymnasium, swimming pool, shops and class rooms will all be open for inspection. The reception committee of the Rooters' club, aided by a number of R. O. T. C. cadets, will act as guides.

Morgan Park Girls Adopt White for Commencement

The Botany club of Morgan Park High school was in charge of the assembly hour held at the school the Friday before school closed for the spring vacation. At the request of members of the club, Mrs. Rbert White spoke to the students on "The Legend of Flowers." While the majority of students attended the assembly program, a girls' senior class meeting was also in progress to discuss the type of dresses to be worn for commencement. The decision of the class was that all girls would wear long sleeved white dresses or ensembles. Miss Lillian Condet, dean of girls, was in charge of the meeting.

ORDER LAYING OF NEW SURFACE ON WINNECONNA

A definite decision to start paving of Winneconna parkway south was reached at a meeting of the East Auburn Park Improvement association held last Tuesday. Thus two of the twenty blocks in the district, for resurfacing of which the organization has busied itself three months, will be cared for. The work of resurfacing the parkway will begin within six weeks.

Committees of three members each were appointed by Dr. Frank Douglass, president of the association, to canvass the remaining streets in the district, including Normal, Eggleston, and Fielding avenues and 77th and 78th streets, to determine whether the residents are willing to put up the necessary cash to pay for the resurfacing. It is proposed to have all the work done by the city department of public works.

Estimates of the various types of resurfacing previously submitted to the association by the department of public works ranged from $5 to $1.85 a front foot. The latter, a penetrated macadam, will be used on all the streets paved.

St. Clara Sodality to Give Party to Benefit Rectory

St. Clara Ladies' sodality will give a benefit card party next Thursday afternoon at the parish hall, 64th street and Woodlawn avenue, for the new parish rectory. Mrs. Flora Rainey is chairman.

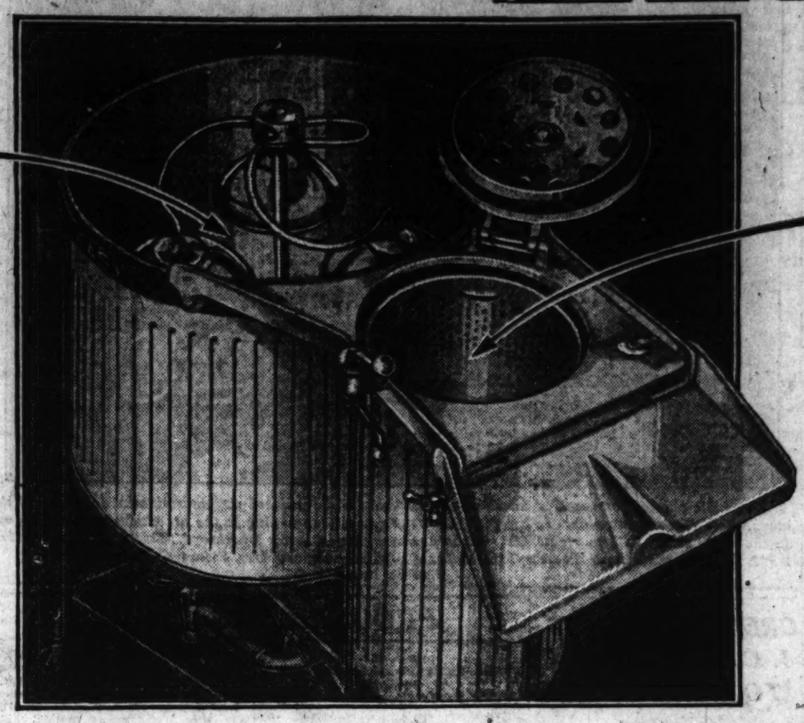
Why the EASY Damp-Dryer is replacing the wringer!



Women everywhere are instantly impressed by the safety and labor-saving features of the EASY Damp-Dryer. It damp-dries one batch of clothes at the same time another batch is being washed in the washing compartment.

Thousands are turning to this modern method of washing—to the no-wringer EASY, which is safer—faster—easier and gentler than the old-fashioned, obsolete wringer-type machine.

The EASY Damp-Dryer is an enclosed metal container which, instead of crushing the water out, whirls it out by centrifugal action.

Merely transfer the clothes from the washing compartment to the Damp-Dryer, drop the top into place and push a lever.

No more broken buttons

The clothes are damp-dried ready for sun-drying in less than two minutes. The whole tubful! And so thoroughly and evenly damp-dried, that in bad weather they can be line-dried indoors and ironed the same day.

Nor need they be handled further for rinsing. Leave them in the Damp-Dryer, pour in the rinse water, push the lever. The Damp-Dryer does the rest.

No broken buttons or fasteners. No torn, worn fabrics. No deep, hard-to-iron-out creases. This better process injures nothing yet damp-dries everything, even to blankets, pillows, sweaters, overalls and other bulky pieces which will not go through a wringer.

EASY washes 10 pounds of clothes at a time as compared with the 6-pound average capacity of other type washers.

The gas heater under the tub is an extra convenience that keeps the water hot. When through, the EASY pumps itself dry into the drain or sink.

No more torn clothes

There are still EASY Washers with wringers. EASY wringers have every known safeguard. But no wringer-type washer—even our own—can compare with the no-wringer EASY. A demonstration will prove it.

Have a washing done free

Phone the nearest EASY dealer listed below. He will bring an EASY to your home and show you a miracle in washing—any day you say. You can buy on easy terms and with a small down payment.

An EASY Washer may be purchased for as little as $109

SOUSA FALLS AT LAST FOR THE LURE OF RADIO

Famous Band Goes on Air Tomorrow Night.

John Philip Sousa is going on the air. After holding out for seven years against broadcasting his world-famous band, he will make his radio debut in the family party tomorrow night from W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel.

Although Mr. Sousa has played to more people than any other director in the history of band music, appearing once before a single audience of 153,000 people at the International Exposition in Glasgow, America's grand old march king tomorrow night will probably have one of the biggest audiences which ever listened to one musical offering.

39 Stations in Chain.

Thirty-nine broadcasting stations will be linked together for Mr. Sousa's radio premiere and they will extend from coast to coast and from Canada to the gulf. Practically speaking, it wil be possible for everybody in the United States to hear the concert. Because of Mr. Sousa's fame as a bandmaster and composer and because of the universal affection in which he is held by the people of America, it is expected that a record breaking radio audience will tune in.

"Until now I have steadfastly refused to broadcast," explained Mr. Sousa, "because I have always felt that part of my success as a band leader has been somthing in my personality. I have thought that people wanted to see me and my band as well as hear us.

Can't Ignore Demand.

"I cannot, however, ignore the demand to hear us on the air. I have received, at least 10,000 letters asking me to broadcast. I have, therefore, finally concluded that the people want to hear us and that it would be foolish to fail to utilize this great, modern invention which makes it posible for millions instead of a few thousand to listen to a concert. I am happy in the decision and am looking forward with enthusiasm to what I believe will be another thrilling adventure."

Many of the country's favorite selections composed by the famous former leader of the Marine band will be played Monday evening, including his ever popular "Stars and Stripes Forever," "El Capitan," etc.

RADIO TO CARRY HOOVER'S VOICE MEMORIAL DAY

President Hoover's Memorial day message will be broadcast to the entire nation as he speaks at the Arlington amphitheater beside the tomb of the unknown soldier of the world war.

The entire proceedings of the column memorial service by the Grand Army of the Republic in the historic Virginia bowl will be heard through the combined networks of the N. B. C. from 3 to 5 p. m. Chicago time, on Memorial day, May 30.

With President Hoover as principal speaker the ceremonies will include the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address by Capt. John M. Kline, selections by the U. S. marine band, talks by Senator Porter H. Dale of Vermont, and Dr. Thomas E. Green of the Loyal Legion, presentation of colors, and the reading of Gen. Logan's order establishing Memorial day.

"There Is No Death," the song traditionally associated with Memorial services in towns and hamlets throughout the nation will be sung by Jeanett McCaffrey, accompanied by the marine band, Hosea B. Moulton, past commander of the G. A. R. will preside.

HIGH SCHOOLS PREPARING FOR ART EXHIBITION

For the first time in twelve years there will be an exhibit of the art work of Chicago high school and college students. The Art institute has been cooperating with the board of education, with the result that the exhibition will be held in the institute from May 24 to June 5. Those in charge of the exhibit hope to make it an annual affair.

Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of schools, and Miss Johanna Doniat, art instructor at Senn High school, are head of the committee sponsoring the exhibit.

North side art teachers who are planning to display the work of their pupils are: Miss Doniat, Miss Frances Beem, Miss Nell Devine, Miss Gertrude Hatch, and Miss Vivian McWhinnie of Senn; Miss Margaret McPherson, Miss Mable McCreedy, Miss Julia O'Brien, and Miss Elinor Ross of Roosevelt; Stacy Philbrick, Miss Caroline Pierce, and Miss Esther Roeth of Lake View, and Royal Jurgensen of Lane Technical.

DOUBLE QUARTET SINGS FOR ARCHE CLUB

A double quartet composed of members of the Arche club furnished the entertainment for many of the meetings of that organization. It has received many invitations to sing at the prominent women's groups in the south side. Left to right: Mrs. Richard Evans, Mrs. Charles Boothroyd, Mrs. A. S. Somers, Mrs. A. M. Roberts, Mrs. Lewis Thomas, Mrs. William L. Simonton, and Mrs. Sidney Castle (at piano).

CREDIT CALUMET, I. C. AND U. OF C. TO S. A. DOUGLAS

Chamber Recalls Boost He Gave South Side.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

Best known in history because of his debates with Lincoln, Stephen A. Douglas' important part in the early history of the south side is not overlooked by the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce in realizing that it was "The Little Giant" who donated the first site for the University of Chicago, early placed his faith in south side real estate, was instrumental in the building of the Illinois Central railroad, and predicted that the Calumet area would become a great industrial center.

Appearing recently before the state legislature at Springfield, as one of the proponents of a harbor at Lake Calumet, H. H. Haylett, managing vice president of the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce, recalled the words of Mr. Douglas, spoken at a time when the barren section was facetiously called "the frog pond of Mr. Douglas":

"Young men, I have heard you from time to time characterize this property of mine in and about Calumet as a frog pond. I make this prophecy, that although I may not live to see the day, many of you will, when that which you call my frog pond will be one of the greatest manufacturing centers in the whole United States and will also be part of the great city of Chicago."

Monument Taxes Delinquent.

The passing of years and the rush of progress may have caused many south siders to lose sight of the prominent rôle played by Douglas in the section's early days. The monument erected to his memory at Thirty-fifth street and the lake was, in recent years, threatened with sale for taxes.

"It was Stephen A. Douglas," we are reminded in an issue of the publication of the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce, "who donated the site for the first University of Chicago in 1857, thirty-five years before the existing one was established.

"At the time Douglas made the preliminary contract he was serving his second term as United States senator from Illinois. When he deeded this land to the university, he did so with the restriction that the trustees would raise $100,000 for the building. They experienced much difficulty and afterward Douglas deeded the land outright free of stipulations.

University Closed After 30 Years.

"The corner stone of the university was laid July 4, 1865, with Douglas present. However, it was short-lived. There was a constant increase of debt, and Chicago's first university closed its doors and ended its existence in 1886, thirty years after the 'Little Giant' had made his first agreement to donate the site.

"It was in 1849 that the name of Stephen A. Douglas first appeared in the Chicago directory. He purchased a tract of about eighty acres fronting on Lake Michigan, lying south of the city limits of that date, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fifth streets, extending west to, or near Michigan avenue.

"In 1856 he built a home at 34 East 35th street, known as the Douglas homestead. Douglas called the spot 'Oakenwald.' Here it was that he formulated his plan for the famous debates with Lincoln. In 1907 the house was said to be too old for any use and was torn down.

"It was said that when he was general counsel for the Illinois Central railroad he acquired from that company large holdings in the Calumet region and it would now seem that he was the first man to foresee the great industrial development of the region which today is called the 'workshop of the world.'

"In those days this land was barren of building, barren of possibilities from the average lay viewpoint, a large measure of it being marshland and facetiously called by Illinois Central employés 'the frog pond of Mr. Douglas.'

"Stephen A. Douglas was the principal factor in making the early building of the Illinois Central railroad possible. It was while he served in the senate that he saw the possibilities of a great intersectional line of railroad from Chicago to Mobile. He believed it would help the north and south to become acquainted. He united representatives from both sections in an effort to secure from congress large land grants to encourage the building of such a line.

"The building of the Illinois Central railroad," says the article, in conclusion," was one of the chief agencies in the rapid development of the state and the city of Chicago, and it is to Douglas much credit is due for the legislation which made it possible for this road to be built."

RADIO AIDS CITY AND FARM LEARN EACH'S PROBLEMS

Is Great Help in Mutual Understanding.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Bringing the same information and entertainment to farm and city dweller alike, radio has won recognition as a powerful factor in spanning the gulf which divided the farmer and the townsman.

Broadcasting has been very effective in promoting better understanding and cooperation between the city and the country on questions of political and ecomonic interest, according to O. M. Kile, agricultural economist.

"It has been a lamentable fact that the city has had a poor understanding of the country and the country a poor understanding of the city," Mr. Kile said. "This has led to many complications in a legislative way and otherwise which I think the radio has been quite instrumental in straightening out.

Poor Understanding.

"One of the reasons for this is that agricultural speakers have tried to present their views in a broad way with the result that the city listeners cannot help hearing interesting facts about farm life and its problems. On the other hand, the viewpoints of the city are presented in an intimate way by the radio to the people of the country."

The director of a radio station that specializes in farm broadcasts says that radio is so important to the farmer that "agriculture should have not only one clear channel but possibly a dozen clear channels to carry on the necessary work in that field."

City Folks Like Programs.

Old folk songs and barn dance music broadcast by this station primarily for its rural audience have been very popular with city listeners, he says.

"I have thought that perhaps we ought to soft pedal these barn dances because we might be getting in wrong with the commission or the public, but the people want them and we can't abandon them," he said.

"City people enjoy them as well as farm listeners. On the first four Saturday nights of the year that we played the barn dances we received 300 telegrams each night. They came from the cities."

NORTH CENTER LANDLORD BODY IS ORGANIZED

For the purpose of giving advice and assisting landowners in problems concerning leases, collections, taxes, assessments, and warrants, the Northcenter Landlords' association has been organized. The association will be made up of property owners in the north center district, who upon the payment of a small annual membership fee will receive advice and service free of charge.

The association will be managed by M. M. Ball and S. W. Hollander and offices have been established at 2010 Irving Park boulevard. Mr. Ball is a member of the Northcenter Lions' club and was formerly associated with the Lake View Landlords' association.

A membership drive will be the first effort, they said. By increasing the membership the principals and scope of the association will be furthered, they added.

Arrange Farewell Dance for De La Salle Seniors

Members of the Mothers' club and the Alumni association of De La Salle institute, 3455 Wabash avenue, are sponsoring a senior farewell dance to be given Friday evening May 17 at the Lake Shore Athletic club. Thomas Reilly, president of the Alumni association, is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the affair.

St. Rita High Students to Give "To the Ladies"

Under the direction of the Rev. John L. Seary, the students of St. Rita High school will present "To the Ladies," a three act comedy, next Friday and Sunday evenings in the school gymnasium, 63d street and Oakley avenue. The Ladies' Aid society is sponsoring the play, and the proceeds from the sale of tickets for both performances will be given to charity.

R. H. L.

. . . And what's more, he sides, and in addition your favorite columnis has written an Opera. R. H. L. is expected to be in good voice for the first radio performance of his opera. He and Gaston du Moulin, director of the W-G-N Symphony Orchestra, have swiped Mark Love's position as opera producer for W-G-N for the evening. And it's a grand Grand Opera. No fooling. Besides, R. H. L. will discard the mask of Wagner for that of Conrad. He has a rousing sea story ready for tonight. Curtain: 10:15.

Jean Goldkette

Way out in front in the race for supremacy in dance music is Jean Goldkette. Not satisfied with the most esoteric of arrangements; not satisfied with the largest of radio dance bands, he employs his genius for selecting the best musicians to the fullest. Each of his men knows the "feel" of the New Music. Bill Herring, master of the trombone, paints the warm purple background for the melodies of Goldkette, reminding one of the backgrounds of Rembrandt. Paul Mertz is the pianist. Bright, cool, moonbeam-like chords cause conversation to hesitate before the loud speaker. Jean Goldkette: 10:05, 10:45, 11:35.

RADIO WILL AID IN OBSERVANCE OF MUSIC WEEK

Many American Works to Be Broadcast.

Native American music and classical works of all nations will receive fresh impetus in America when radio plays a leading rôle in this year's observance of National Music Week which begins today and runs until Saturday.

Nation-wide networks of the National Broadcasting company will feature throughout the week special presentations emphasizing works of American composers, and displaying musical masterpieces in new settings for the further edification of potential music-lovers in the United States.

The week-long campaign of the National Music Week committee to gain new converts to the cause of great music will have the full support of radio's far-reaching networks, and the chain will honor the occasion with elaborate features calculated to eclipse all previous ventures of a kindred nature.

First Concert Tonight.

Radio will sound the signal which officially opens National Music Week tonight when a whole constellation of operatic, concert and radio stars participate in a gala broadcast of the Atwater Kent concert.

To be heard in the Music Week inaugural through NBC associate stations including W-G-N, the Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel are Maria Kurenko, soprano; Nina Morgana, soprano; Louise Homer, contralto; Tascha Seidel, violinist; Kathryn Meisle, contralto; Arthur Hackett, tenor; Reinald Wesrenrath, baritone; Allen McQuhae, tenor; William Simmons, baritone; Agnes Davis and Hazel Arth, soprano prize-winners of national Atwater Kent auditions; a male quartet and a full symphony orchestra under the direction of Josef Pasternack.

On Monday night, Victor Herbert's Italian opera "Natoma" will be broadcast by the National Grand Opera company with an all-American cast, while on Tuesday the famous Flonzaley Quartet will be on the air playing Dvorak's "American String Quartet" or a similar work by some American composer. Nicholas Longworth is scheduled to speak in the same program.

American Princess to Sing.

A real American princess who is also a vocal artist will be heard Thursday night, when Princess Atalie and Chief White Horn feature music of the American Indian as the program of the National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau. Geoffrey O'Hara, modern composer and songwriter, will officiate as master of ceremonies.

Deems Taylor's musical setting for the famous ballad of Alfred Noyes, "The Highwayman," will be presented Saturday night, and Walter Damrosch will open his symphony concert with an American composer's work, "Virginia" by Robert Braine.

"Songs of Our American Colleges," and a 19-piece brass band will rival campus serenades of universities and colleges throughout the country on Saturday night, and the weekly Hymn Sing, Thursday, will feature exclusively religious songs by American hymn-composers.

London Hears Germany Is Using Radio Heating

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—News reaches London to the effect that heating by wireless is already an established fact in Germany, where experimental installations are operating successfully. The meager details of a system that is still apparently being kept in the dark state that strong waves two or three meters long are used to excite filaments enclosed in vacuum tubes, which thus become electric radiators.

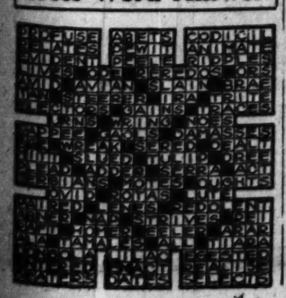
Cross Word Answer



Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

Often we have wished that radio had been with us back on the Fourth of July, 1910, for the broadcasting of the famous Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson championship fight at Reno, Nev. Jeffries, you will recall, had retired from the ring undefeated heavyweight boxing champion of the world. Out from the scrambling mob of claimants there rose a dominating figure Jack Johnson, the colored boxer of Chicago, who was heralded by some as the new champion. So, after six years of leisure, Jim Jeffries was called from his retirement. Imagine you are listening to the radio on that eventful holiday:

ANNOUNCER—Ladies and gentlemen, this is W-G-N, broadcasting from the fight arena at Reno, Nev. Well, it's come at last, the most important Fourth of July since 1776, and again we're broadcasting a championship prize fight from the state of Nevada, which Billy Muldoon this afternoon called the last free state in the Union.

Can you hear that mob? There are 15,000 souls crowded into this great unpainted and crude wooden arena, and baking under a scorching sun. Fifteen thousand men have trooped across the continent and streamed in from the Pacific coast in private cars and sidedoor Pullmans, through the stifling heat and a smother of dust, through the bleak, powder dry sagebrush hills into this smiling valley where Reno nestles. See, there, the mountains look cool, but O, how hot it is in this big saucer!

In a minute or two the most talked of fight in history will commence between the colored man and the white son of a California minister. The sentiment among the bettors, as you know, favors Jeffries at 10 to 6.

The mill was scheduled to start at 1:30, and it is now an hour late, due to the parade of the celebrities, the taking of three sets of motion pictures, and because the crowd was slow in coming through the narrow entrances. Billy Muldoon showed his theatrical instinct by introducing "Tex" Rickard, whose gameness and persistency brought this all about, and who in addition to being the promoter will also referee the fight. Billy called for three cheers for the man who has breasted a deluge of hysterical opposition and cleared obstacles that would defeat a man not possessed of a nerve of iron and a heart of gold. Then followed what may pass into history as the last roll call of the has-beens, the prize ring idols of other days. [GONG!]

There's the gong, and the seconds, and handlers and rubbers fling themselves from their corners. The fight of the century is on!

Jack and Jim are both advancing slowly to the center of the ring. The big colored boy is grinning widely, and we can see those two fine rows of ivories. Wonder if he'll be missing any when the day's done. Jeff's grinning too. They didn't shake hands. Here they go! Jeff made a bluff with his left for a lead, but Johnson side stepped him. They certainly are cautious! Johnson feints, looking for an opening. Jeff does the same. Won't be anything doing this round! Each of them is trying to see what the other one's got. Johnson led a short left, and he barely touched Jeff's mouth, and now they're clinching in a big friendly way like two bears. Break! Lots of jabs, now, but they don't mean anything. They're standing up there now, trying for short inside blows. Both men are guarding well. Clinch again! Come on, break it up, Tex! Huh! As they broke that time Jeff sent one at Jack's neck, and Jack stepped in, but he missed a short jab. Clinch again! Jack lands a left, but with no effect. [GONG!]

Well, there's the end of the first round! Pretty tame beginning for the battle of battles, this Armageddon the promoters and sports writers having been promising us. There wasn't anything done in that round to convince us that a fight is going on. Both men look in the cream of condition, and Jeff let loose a great big wink when he came to his corner. Now they're seated in their corners, and Jim Corbett is bending over Jeffries whispering in his ear. Wonder what he's telling him? Jeffries' seconds have a great big sunshade that they're holding over the big fellow to keep the sun off his back and head. Jack over there is laughing and grinning. [GONG!]

Round two! Come on, now, let's go! The colored boy's got rid of that grin in a hurry and he's come up to scratch looking mighty serious. Jeff crouches down on his haunches. Huuhhh! Hah! Hah! Hah! Jeff tried to sneak a left over, but Johnson blocked it and they're both grinning and laughing like a pair of kids. Upp! There's a sock! Jack slapped one on Jeff's jaw, a nice punch that he brought up from his waist, but it didn't seem to hurt. There! Jeff tries a pair of lefts, but Jack's got his guard in the right spot. Now they're trying little short arm jabs. Come on—come on! What a fight! What a fight! Jeff snapped a left to Johnson's stomach, but he got a left on the face in return. There's a little clinch, and now they're away again. Come on, Jeff, bore in! Jeff is crouching in the middle of the ring. Jack won't come in. They're shuffling up now, and—there! Jack missed an uppercut that time! Clinch! Come on; let's fight!

(Interlude—The voice of our announcer and the roars of the excited thousands fade for a time, but the fight goes on. Into the eighth round, into the ninth, into the tenth, with the giant colored man growing stronger and more confident with each passing moment. The undefeated champion is beginning to feel the sting of defeat for the first time. Is this the proud fighting machine that a few years ago mowed down the marvelous Bob Fitzsimmons and whipped Jim Corbett, this great thewed white man whose body is slowly crumbling before blow after blow? Is this Jim Jeffries, the invulnerable, going down to defeat? The crowd sits there watching, tense, anxious.

Into the eleventh, into the twelfth round. Jeffries is faltering; he cannot go much longer. Or can he win with that same sledge hammer punch that licked Fitzsimmons when all hope seemed lost? Does that hairy body still shield the same youthful vigor that sent challenger after challenger into the dust of defeat? Into the thirteenth round!) [GONG!]

Round thirteen! There comes Jeff driving in again. He's got his right arm up over his face and he is driving in on Johnson. He walked right into a clinch. Come on, Tex! Break 'em apart! Ooohh! Huuuhhh! when they broke that time, Johnson hurled a left at Jeff's body, drove in a right uppercut that made the Californian's head wobble. Now Johnson's tearing into him! Johnson drove another pair of lefts to Jeff's face and dazed the big boy with a nasty uppercut, a right-hander. It had lots of steam behind it. Jeff looks a little groggy. There he goes! Johnson put his right hand on Jeff's shoulder and sent home three smashing lefts and—Wow!—There's another one. Jack got him on the chin with another uppercut. Jeff's all in, now. He can't even move around! These rapid fire blows are leaving him dazed! He's standing there now, Jack is driving home punch after punch, waiting for the final opening! O, Jeff is game all right! He's taking them all and he's still on his feet! Now they've gone into a clinch! Wow! Biff! What a load of punches Jeff is taking now. His eyes are almost closed! They're clinching again! It looks like it's almost over! Jeff can't go much further now. (GONG!)

No question about it, now. It's Johnson's fight sooner or later, unless Jeff manages to sneak in a lucky punch. The crowd, scenting the kill, is growing restless for the knockout. Jeff isn't the man we saw beat Bob Fitzsimmons years ago. He should never have come out of his retirement. The old punch is all gone, and it is only his wonderful gameness that is keeping him in the fight. He can't get through Jack Johnson's defense; the colored man is probably the most wonderful defensive fighter our boxing rings have ever seen. He's gone through thirteen gruelling rounds with Jeff and there's hardly a mark on him He's——(GONG!)

Round fourteen! Wow! Look at that! Jeff walked straight into a left. They're clinching now! Come on, break 'em up! Jack tapped the big fellow twice on the face with his left. Jeff has his head down like a mad bull and is trying to bore in, but Johnson's wonderful defense is right there! Break 'em up! Biff! Jeff tried to bore in again, and the big black man drove three straight lefts at his face. Ummphhh! There's another left to the face! Jeff can't do a thing! Every punch he plans is knocked off by Johnson, who continues to drive straight lefts to Jeff's bleeding face and those swollen eyes. They clinch again! Jeff hanging on! Will he last out the round? Break away! Look out! Oooohh! Jeff caught three more lefts on that bleeding cheek of his. Jack tosses those lefts out like baseballs. Jeffries is hanging on again. "They don't hurt!" he hollers at Johnson! Clinch again! Break! (GONG!)

It looks worse for Jeff every minute. He can't stand the pace much longer. He can't hit Johnson, and the colored fighter is hitting him almost at will. A question of time, that's all it is now! And Oh! how hot this sun is! Those seconds of Jeff's are working feverishly over him, but I'm afraid they can't do much for him anymore. It may come in the next round! Jack is puffing and blowing, but he's still comparatively fresh. Jeff's taken everything he's got to give and he's still on his feet, but the better condition of Johnson is going to tell in the end. Now—[GONG!]

Round fifteen! Yep, it's all over now. Jeff can't get after Jack fast enough to catch him. He's getting wobbly, and he can't see the big fellow any more! His face is all puffed and bleeding from the lashing he's received. Johnson's standing still, now, and waiting—waiting. Now Jeff comes in and—OH! OH! Jack sent another brace of lefts straight to Jeff's face, and the blood spurts out afresh! Jeff's getting groggy, but he's game! He's reeling into a clinch, and tries to land a left on the body! They're breaking away—oh! oh!—As they split, Jack, quick as a flash sent another crushing left and an awful right straight for Jeff's jaw. The Californian's head snapped back like his neck is broken. He's staggering to the ropes! HE CAN'T DEFEND HIMSELF. Johnson's tearing in like a tiger now, and ranging blows on the big boy and Jeff stares dazedly at the figure in front of him! It's almost over! It's coming! Jeff is reeling about along the ropes! Only the gameness of him is holding him up! Jack is watching him like a cat and driving in right—left—right-left—right. Jeff is down! Jeffries in on the mat. He's on the canvas for the first time in his life. He's hanging onto the ropes! He's dazed! Jim Jeffries is being counted out! Four—five—six—seven—eight—No, the big fellow is getting back on his feet!

That's Jeffries, the gamest fellow that ever entered a ring! But he can't go on! STOP IT TEX, STOP IT! Johnson's in again with another volley of blows. Jeff is trying to clinch, but Johnson steps back and comes in again with more left and rights. Jeff is swaying all over the ring. There it is! Two rights on the jaw! Jeff is on his knees! He's all in! Stop it, Tex, stop it! Five—six—seven—eight—nine—Jeff's on his feet again—but Johnson's there waiting for him. Left—right—left on the chin. Jeff is down again for the third time! He's sprawled over the ropes half outside the ring! Jeff! Jeff! Jeff! Three—four—five—six—seven. It's all over!

QUEEN OF MAY SELECTED FOR CALUMET HIGH

She'll Be Crowned at Festival on May 22.

There will be a gala and colorful affair given in the auditorium of Calumet High school the night of May 22. For as a climax to the social and dramatic season of the school, the annual May festival will be held under the combined auspices of the Senior Girls' club and the Senior Girls' council.

Miss Isabelle Herda has been chosen the May queen for 1929, and she will be crowned by Miss Vivian Stromberg, the May queen of 1928. Attendants to the queen will be Miss Betty Congdon, Miss Mildred Hageman, Miss Mary Kast, Miss Helen McDonough, Miss Margaret Snyder, and Miss Lois Swigart.

Also attending the queen there will be a chorus of girls who will sing during her coronation accompanied by Miss Herma Steinberg. The chorus will include Miss Vivian Anderson, Miss Helen Bushor, Miss Alice Black, Miss Frances Covert, Miss Charlotta Goss, Miss Virginia Holmes, Miss Ruth Johnson, Miss Agnes Johnson, Miss Rosemary Johnson, Miss Dorothy Koehler, Miss Jeanette Moody, Miss Alice Ostendorf, Miss Ingred Ostrom, Miss Betty Robinson, Miss Jean Rowe, Miss Jean Stellman, Miss Beatrice Tallmadge, Miss Bernice Tallmadge, Miss Margaret Tierney, and Miss Lorraine Young.

Queen's Dancers Selected.

Miss Lucille Crowhurst, Miss Arbutus Fullen, and Miss Bernice Schneider will be the queen's dancing girls in the festival, and her soloist will be Miss Flora Waalkas. Miss Waalkas has been soloist for the Apollo club and for two Chautauqua organizations.

The program of the festival will be opened with a duel between summer, portrayed by Miss Mary Thoma, and winter, impersonated by Miss Jean Stellman. Miss Beulah Wright will be interpreter, and of course summer will be triumphant.

There will next be a dancing pageant, including Miss Ruth Oliver as Robin Hood, Miss Gladys Dahlin as Maid Marian, Leroy Mintz as Friar Tuck, Harry Bennett as the jester, B. Tallmadge as Jack o' the Green, and Miss Prudence Wagner as the Hobby Horse.

Gypsy strollers who will sing and dance will be Miss Catherine Mahas, Miss Edith Lawrence, Victor de Guide, William Froelich, Sidney Radis, and Eugene Shaffer.

Girls to Give Peasant Dance.

A peasants' May pole dance in costume accompanied by Miss Margery Coleman will be given by Miss Eleanor Bihl, Miss Mildred Freeze, Miss Helen Heatter, Miss Mary June Jones, Miss Mattie Metzger, Miss Muriel Minter, Miss Janet Pierce, Miss Mary Quirk, Miss Dorothy Rauch, Miss Dorothy Spears, Miss Mary Louise Stock, and Miss Dorothy Webb.

A play by Miss Constances Wilcox entitled "Pan Pipes" will be given by Miss Mildred Toepfer, John Hawthorne, Miss Florence Kaup, and William Wallace. This play has been coached by Miss Betty Congdon under the direction of Miss Cora Bain.

The second part of the May festival will be opened by a widow's chorus given by Marshall Anderson, Victor Brodt, William Burns and Melvin Nelson. A character dance will then be given by Miss Mary Ellen Burbach, followed by a sketch, "Death by Poison," in which Miss Elizabeth Ording, Edward Look, Frank Quirk and Miss Rose Mary Johnson will take part.

Romeo and Juliet to Appear.

Another sketch, "Romeo and Juliet," will be given by Paul Anderson as accompanist; Victor Mathis, as Juliet, and Hugh Hurlock as Romeo. "Lord Ullin's Daughter," still another sketch, will be played by Ralph Earlandson, Edward Hallsberg and Miss Gertrude Johnson, with Miss Marguerita Strid as the reader.

The girl minstrels of the school will give "Magnolia Blossoms" and the following will take part: Miss Marion Baumgartener, Miss Lorraine Bransfield, Miss Mary D. Cunningham, Miss Dorothy Ford, Miss Gladys Ganz, Miss Lavenya Haigh, Miss Frances Humphrey, Miss Agnes Johnson, Miss Mary June Jones, Miss Betty Merrill, Miss Verna Peterson, Miss Mary Quirk, Miss Marie Rybicki, Miss Sylvia Sklamberg, Miss Katherine Stienz, Miss Rosenell Stuenkel, Miss Beatrice Tallmadge, Miss Bernice Tallmadge, Miss Mary Thoma, Miss Lillian Wilson and Miss Beulah Wright.

"Baby Show" to Close Program.

The last event scheduled for the festival has been called a baby show and the following students of Calumet are slated to take part: Dan Cummings, Leslie Bell, Harry Bennett, Don Covert, Louis Barbour, George Borring, William Burns, Barney Creech, Arthur Denne, Melvin Ensminger, Howard Fay, George Froelich, William Froelich, Howard Gorman, Harold Graber, Walter Johnson, Richard Johnson, John Holmes.

MOVE TO BUILD THREE MAJOR CROSS STREETS

Hope to Link West and South Sides.

Two steps in the development of through traffic routes linking together far-apart sections of the south side and connecting the south side with the west side were taken last week.

A resolution proposing that the state agree to share the expense of paving and widening Crawford avenue between 71st street and the drainage canal and of opening Marquette road between Cicero and Crawford avenues was adopted by the Southwest Federation of Improvements Clubs by its board of directors.

The other similar project which advanced a step during the week was the proposed opening and widening of Pershing road between Halsted street and Damen avenue. A hearing on this project was scheduled for next Friday by the board of local improvements.

Development of Marquette road and of Crawford avenue would establish a direct traffic route connecting the heart of the south side with the heart of the west side, M. A. Seymour, secretary of the southwest federation, pointed out. Furthermore, Marquette avenue would lead to Argo by way of the state road west of Cicero avenue, and Crawford avenue would become a through street from the Wisconsin boundary to Kankakee.

Aids Survey of A. of C.

The federation resolution will be forwarded to the Chicago Association of Commerce. The association has been requested by the city council to recommend a list of streets believed to be of importance both as main thoroughfares within Chicago and also arteries leading into the city from state highways.

The state government has indicated that it will give state aid to the improvement of such streets, and the federation directors believe that Crawford avenue and Marquette road should be given first consideration.

Business men of the district, who long have been active in the South Crawford Avenue Improvement association, have predicted that completion of such a project would improve real estate values in a manner comparable to the effect of the building of Wacker drive.

Among the men holding this belief are J. H. Maire, Frank A. Mulholland, John R. Edwards, John McCarthy, Henry Paschen, Lawence R. Romano, Oliver Salinger, James Shallo and Thomas J. Sullivan.

Will Cites Need of Thoroughfares.

The development of crosstown streets in outlying districts such as the Pershing road, Marquette road and Crawford avenue projects are the only means of bringing prosperity and an enhancement of real estate values to certain districts, Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, asserted in a recent speech.

Commissioner Wolfe said the near south side, particularly the section between 18th, 47th, Halsted, and State streets, is an example of a section which has remained a "frozen area" because no east and west arteries exist. It will continue to lie dormant, he continued, until a means of communication with the southwest and west sides is established. Some route should be provided for carrying traffic across the stock yards, which he termed an insurmountable barrier to transportation and hence to progress.

A subway or an elevated roadway across the yards would solve the problem, the commissioner said.

Haylett Recognizes Need.

H. H. Haylett, managing vice president of the Greater South Side chamber of commerce, said yesterday that he agrees with Commissioner Wolfe that the way to encourage business and increase property values on the south side would be to establish a means of connection with the southwest and west sides. At least two good traffic arteries should cut the near south side east and west, he said. He believes Pershing road would serve as one, and 22d street should be the other.

Twenty-second street between the lake and Archer avenue is already widened, but must be still further improved if it is to be a traffic artery, according to Mr. Haylett. The project for the entire street is not near realization since the board of local improvements is doing nothing about it. Although proceedings for widening between Archer avenue and city limits were entered in 1926, a survey was never ordered by board engineers. C. D. Hill, engineer for the board, said yesterday that no survey is contemplated in the early future.

The lack of such highway arteries as these has undoubtedly been the cause of the dormancy of which Commissioner Wolfe spoke, Mr. Haylett continued.

Loop Routes Help Little, He Says.

Commissioner Wolfe declared that the fact that the near south side has always been readily accessible to the loop has not only done nothing to develop the district, but, instead, the streets leading to the loop have served only as "bleeding arteries," carrying out prosperity.

Prosperous business centers grow up in all parts of the city on streets running perpendicular to arteries leading to the loop, and not on streets carrying traffic to the loop, the commissioner said. As examples he gave 79th street, 63d street, Wilson avenue, Lawrence avenue, and Crawford avenue at Madison street.

"To solve the problem," Commissioner Wolfe concluded, "we must bring the 1,400,000 residents of the south side in close contact with the 1,500,000 residents of the west side, by doing this, a large theater or department store on Madison street or 47th street, for example, will be made accessible to residents of the other sections. And this access must be established without passing through the loop."

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs Anent the Passing Throng.

BY FRED PASLEY.

MISS VERA WITHALL celebrated her 18th birthday at her home, 6001 South Maplewood avenue, and her father, Albert, our well known junk dealer, presented her with a Ford. The feature of the party, we learn, was the christening of the car, named "Pal of My Dreams," with a bottle of champagne imported from Europe, which was tied with a red ribbon and broken on the bumper. If this had happened to any auto other than the aforementioned, we wouldn't believe it.

* *

Ed Froderman of the Drexel State bank has departed for Europe to spend six weeks and Michael Montague of 4936 Forrestville avenue has given him a letter to President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State—ye ed's favorite president — with whom Michael chummed as a boy. We predict Ed will have the time of his life and we hope he doesn't forget to ask Mr. Cosgrave if he remembers the reporter at the Drake hotel that waved the derby with the shamrock on it at him. That was us.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Herrod and family of 2250 West 111th place have returned from South America, where Mr. Herrod was manager of the International Products company. Needless to say, they are glad to be back in this village and the village reciprocates.

THE ping-pong craze is sweeping Midlothian, the latest families to succumb being the Florenes and the Hutchinsea. The housewives are overjoyed, as it is keeping the men folks in nights.

Says Bill Borden: "Jack and Hannah Peacock are back at Oak Hills. We may have made this announcement before—we can't recall whether we have or not—but if we have, no harm can be done by repeating it, for we know that it is welcome news to south end golfers who have partaken of the delicious chicken and steak dinners Hannah prepares. Boy, how that woman can cook!"

Leo Mayer of the Mayers of 614 East 63d street writes us about tea balls, stating that a certain coffee company is now publishing the picture of a beautiful young lady serving afternoon oolong, but doesn't tell who she is nor where she serves this refreshing libation. Well, Leo, she's probably one of those Morgan Park High school co-eds and our authority is Miss Lillian Condit, dean of girls, who admits that the outstanding feature of that institution is the beauty of her charges.

A LOT of roses, but no more than he deserved, were tossed at Arvid E. Peterson, president of the Triangle State bank, at a Peterson dinner by the Eighth Ward Business Men's association. They told him what a real fellow and valuable citizen he is. And we trust they added he is a pretty good golfer. Arvid recalled that the Eighth ward in 1910 had a population of only 17,000 and that today it is 107,000—"as large as any city in Illinois outside Chicago."

Miss Arlene Foltz is not yet twenty, but in three years she has risen from the position of stock girl to that of buyer for Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. She has just returned from a buying trip to New York City. She lives at 15124 Marshfield avenue, Harvey.

OUR readers will be pleased to learn—we hope—that the village board of Summit is to have chairs to sit in. Trustee Joseph Alwood at the last meeting called attention to the rough wooden benches upon which members of the board were compelled to sit and asserted that such poor accommodations were a reflection upon the municipality. He moved that the village clerk be instructed to purchase twelve chairs for the village president, village clerk, village attorney, village engineer, the six trustees, and the press. The motion was seconded by Trustee Zellick and carried unanimously.

FOUNDER'S DAY TEA IS HELD BY PSI DELTA SIGMA

The Chicago chapters of Psi Delta Sigma, national sorority, celebrated founder's day last Sunday with a tea at the Palmer house. Miss Catherine McCauley, 6729 South Ada street, grand social chairman, was in charge of arrangements for the affair, and the feature of the afternoon's program was the installation of a new chapter on the south shore by Miss Frances Anderson, 8223 South Sangamon street, the Illinois state president of the sorority.

There are now sixteen Chicago chapters, including the new one, and seven chapters elsewhere in Illinois. The sorority was founded eight years ago as a high school sorority, and now includes business girls, college girls, and teachers.

Miss Mildred McCauley, 6729 South Ada street, is grand president of the organization; Miss Betty MacFarlane, 309 East Marquette road, is grand vice president; Miss Louise Petersen, 7239 Jeffery avenue, is grand corresponding secretary; Miss Rose Chullerstrom, 1424 Olive avenue, is grand recording secretary; Miss Frances McCourt, 5439 Ellis avenue, is grand marshal.

Approximately 200 girls attended the tea, in addition to the sorority mother, Mrs. Frank Haan, 6359 South Peoria street.

Beverly Hills Woman's Club Holds Annual Plant Sale

The Beverly Hills Woman's club held its annual plant sale yesterday afternoon at the Rock Island suburban station at 95th street. Many varieties of perennials, both old and new types, were found at one table in charge of Mrs. W. T. Church, and an accessory table in charge of Mrs. C. L. Sanford displayed baskets, tools, gloves, pottery for the garden, porch and house garden benches and bird baths.

WOOD NYMPHS PRESENT PAGEANT OF SPRINGTIME

These wood nymphs participated in a spring festival held yesterday at Hotel Shoreland. A procession of dancing children awakened the fountain on the grounds of the hotel, formally bringing in the vernal season. PROM LEADER

MISS LUCILLE HAZARD. [Russell Photo.]

The senior prom of Mount Carmel High school, 6410 Dante avenue, will be held next Friday evening in the Drake. Miss Lucille Hazard, 6710 Paxton avenue, will lead the grand march with James E. Gallagher, presidetn of the senior class. The other officers are: Vice President, James Poynton; secretary, William Gleasner; treasurer, Ralph Leo.

MRS. N. FRASER NAMED TO HEAD BRENAN P.-T. BODY

Mrs. N. Fraser was installed president at the recent meeting of the Brenan Parent-Teacher association to relieve Mrs. E. L. Helland, who has served in that capacity for two years. Tea was served by Mrs. J. S. Dempsey following the meeting to honor Mrs. Helland and a gift was presented to her by members of the board in appreciation of her services.

Other new officers include: Mrs. G. Carleton, first vice president; Mrs. Helland, second vice president; Mrs. F. W. Schacht, third vice president; Mrs. R. Main, secretary; Mrs. H. Tornquist, treasurer; Mrs. W. Boomker, northwest representative; Mrs. D. Klingens, southwest representative; Mrs. W. Fiddelke, northeast representative, and Mrs. A. Dahl, southeast representative.

The next meeting will be held Friday, May 17, although the child study circle will meet Wednesday to discuss "The Use of Money."

Argo-Summit Woman's Club.

The Argo-Summit Woman's club will meet at 2 o'clock next Wednesday in Argo Community High school. The conservation, garden, and radio departments will be in charge.

Musical Today to Swell Fund for Hospital

A musical is being given this afternoon at the South Side Swedish club, 7330 Ridgeland avenue, by a group of south side women who are members of the Chicago chapter of the Endowment Fund association of the National sanitarium. They have engaged for the program the Chicago Glee club, under the direction of William Nordin, and Mrs. Minnie Cedargreen Jernberg, violinist.

This musical is one of many activities of 600 south side women who are members of the Chicago chapter of the national association, which has as its purpose the maintenance of hospitals in Denver, Colo., for tuberculosis patients.

Officers of Organization.

The officers of the south side organization are: President, Mrs. N. A. Nelson, 443 West 61st street; vice president, Mrs. C. P. Wik, 5714 Peoria street; secretary, Mrs. V. Bovick, 7009 Lowe avenue; treasurer, Mrs. C. L. Anderson, 1539 Hyde Park boulevard; recording secretary, Mrs. W. R. Peterson, 8350 Maryland avenue.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the musical consists of Mrs. Sophia Pearson Kestner, Mrs. W. J. Thorson, Mrs. Charles Jenson, Miss H. G. Soderbeck, Mrs. Ames Langdon, Miss Harriet Anderson, and Miss O. M. Straud.

Campaigning for $50,000.

At present members of the Chicago chapter are engaged in a campaign to raise $50,000 to pay the cost of maintaining their particular hospital in Denver, which now contains more than 100 patients. Of this amount, the south side women have taken $15,000 as their quota, $5,000 of which has already been collected.

Mrs. F. A. Grow Elected by Englewood Baptist Women

Mrs. F. A. Grow, 5621 University avenue, was elected president of the Women's Union society of Englewood Baptist church at a recent meeting of the organization in the church auditorium, 413 Englewood avenue. Other officers elected were: Vice president, Mrs. Louis P. Jenson, 7303 Champlain avenue; second vice president, Mrs. O. O. Montague, 10430 South Hoyne avenue; secretary, Mrs. D. R. Kendall, 6340 Normal boulevard, and treasurer, Mrs. Walter Haddlesey, 241 Illinois street, Elmhurst, Ill.

MABEL RUTH JACKSON. [Rayhuff-Richter Photo.]

Mabel Ruth (Mrs. A. O.) Jackson wrote and will direct "Who Is Sylvia?" which will be presented tomorrow by the Hamilton Park players in the Drama league at the Goodman theater. Mrs. Jackson will also play the only feminine role. The play is based on a newspaper column of advice to the lovelorn. It will be the first drama presented in the tournament.

Girl Reserves in Foreign Garb Appear at 'Y' Party

Chicago high school girl reserves from twelve different countries dressed in the costumes of the lands from which they or their parents came made a part of the living exhibit of the Y. W. C. A. work shown at the organization's May breakfast Wednesday at Harriet Hammond McCormick memorial before club women of the city. Among the hostesses were Mrs. Philip Post, chairman; Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Mrs. Harold Eldridge, Mrs. Bryan Reid, Mrs. N. W. Campbell, and Mrs. Edward Mills.

Blackfriars Present Play This Week-End

As the silver anniversary production of the organization, Blackfriars of the University of Chicago will give "Mr. Cinderella" for its current musical comedy next Friday and Saturday and May 17 and 18 in Mandel hall on the university campus.

"Mr. Cinderella" mirrors college life on the Midway, setting its scenes in front of Cobb hall, in a woman's dormitory and in the Beta fraternity house. The action centers around a movie star who comes to the university in disguise to get college atmosphere for a new picture.

No Girls in Cast.

Blackfriars consists entirely of men and no girls have been enlisted to help with the show except in selling tickets. Adolph Rubinson is one of the "feminine" leads and other leading parts are taken by Laurel Smith, Alvin Reiwitz, Robert Tankersley Archie Winning, Norman Jorgenson, and John Jordan.

Donald MacDonald III., who produced the Service club show last autumn, is producing the Blackfriars musical comedy. Rehearsals have bene going on since April 1.

Authors of Book.

George Mills and William V. Morgenstern are authors of the book and among the contributors to the musical end of it are Karl Schmidt, John Wild, Jerome Solomon, Jack Pincus, Charles Marshall, Charles Ault, and Leonard Landwirch. Charles Warner is abbot of the order.

CIVIC COUNCIL IS ORGANIZED AT PARKER HIGH

In accordance with the city wide movement of forming community councils, twenty-five civic and school leaders met last week for luncheon in the home arts room of Parker Senior High school, formed a temporary organization, and made plans for the permanent organization of a community council.

The meeting was presided over by Butler Laughlin, president of Chicago Normal college. Mrs. M. M. Ranstead was chosen temporary chairman and Mrs. Herbert W. Eldman, temporary secretary. A large meeting and dinner at the Englewood Y. M. C. A. will be held soon, at which time the permanent organization will be perfected.

3,000 Start Rehearsals to Honor Schurz

Beginning last week and continuing until Sunday, May 26, every Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday will find Armour Square park, at 33d street and Shields avenue, a scene of varied activity. For rehearsals are in progress for the Carl Schurz centennial demonstration, which will be held the afternoon of May 26 at Soldiers' field.

More than 960 German and Austrian organizations will take part in the demonstration honoring the eminent German-American statesman who was born in Germany just 100 years ago. Three thousand persons will take part and many thousands of others are expected to be in attendance.

The event will include fifteen historical societies, which will represent in pageantry the high spots in the development of the German people; twenty Maypole groups consisting of 24 dancers each; 200 girls who will give folk dances, dramatic and arcobatic dances; and four large choral groups, which will provide music for the occasion.

Choruses Include Hundreds.

The choruses will include the United German male chorus of 500 members, the United German singers, with 600 voices; the United German Ladies' choruses, totaling 600 singers; the High School German chorus of 500 voices, and the United Austrian choruses.

The Protective Association of the German Sports society is also arranging part of the program. There will be a soccer game between members of the Chicago section and local Indiana section of the association, relay races between Chicago and Milwaukee members, six wrestling matches, spear throwing contests, and weight lifting contests. Drills and apparatus demonstrations will be given by members of the Illinois Turner Athletic association.

In memory of the services of Schurz in the civil war, the 131st infantry of the National Guard will stage a mock battle, and the R. O. T. C. will lead an ovation to Schurz, including a raising of both the American and German national flags.

Came to U. S. After Revolution.

Schurz was active in the German revolution of 1848, and after he came to America in 1852 he started a law practice in Milwaukee and became prominent politically. He was named minister to Spain by Lincoln, but returned to take part in the civil war, became a major general, and fought in famous battles around Chattanooga and at Gettysburg. He served a term as United States senator from Missouri and was secretary of the interior under President Hayes, and later became editor-in-chief as well as part owner of the New York Evening Post and editorial writer for Harper's Weekly. He died in 1906.

Dr. J. Kobalter, who holds offices in several German organizations, is chairman of the committee on arrangements, and Z. T. Egardner, director of Armour Square park, is directing the field work of the program.

Others on the executive committee are Otto Gill, Mrs. Z. K. Bock, Paul Schwartz, J. Emm, Dr. W. Tichmann, Capt. George Weideling, William Behrens, and Chris Paschen.

HYDE PARK BANK TO OBSERVE ITS TENTH BIRTHDAY

Better business for Hyde Park is forecast by Charles W. Hoff, president of the University State bank, 1354 East 55th street, on the occasion of the tenth birthday of the bank, which will be celebrated Wednesday with an open house for residents of the community.

The fact that Hyde Park merchants have made marked progress in supplying the needs of the home buyers is the basis for his belief that business in the neighborhood will be better the next year than it has been in the past.

Mr. Hoff is one of the directors of the Cook County Bankers' association and vice president of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association. The present officers of the bank are, in addition to Mr. Hoff, Jay W. Hays, vile president; John W. Algar, cashier; Anthony M. Frale, assistant cashier; and William A. Sutherland, assistant cashier.

Lindblom Students Sing Welcome to Vacation

A school sing characterized the final assembly held at Lindblom High school before the spring vacation. Two assemblies were held in order that all students might take part. Isadore Kasrel, a member of the senior class, was in charge of one at which Daniel Hager, music instructor, led the singing, and Miss Catherine Tahney, director of glee clubs at Lindblom, led the singing in the other assembly group, of which Miss Lillian Slye, also a senior student, was in charge.

ENGLEWOOD AND WOODLAWN JOIN IN TAX BATTLE

Valuations Declared Excessive.

Two other south side business organizations, the Englewood Business Men's association and the Woodlawn Property Owners' association, have joined the fight for a readjustment of the 1928 tax valuations placed on property in this section of the city. These valuations have already been termed full of inaccuracies and gross inequalities by the Greater South Side chamber of commerce, the Ridge Civic council, and the Stock Yards Business and Civic association.

A committee appointed by the Englewood association to make a searching investigation of the current reassessment of taxable property in the community and to determine the value of evidence, which, it is asserted, suggests that the new tax values placed on Englewood property are excessive in comparison with values placed on similar property in other parts of Chicago, made its first formal report at a public meeting of the organization held Friday night in the Englewood Business college hall, 741 Englewood avenue, to which all taxpayers were invited.

The committee, headed by William Jacobs, 6200 South Halsted street, prepared a map of the Englewood district showing the valuation of property considered fair by members of the committee. Mr. Jacobs exhibited the maps at the meeting with the suggestion that they be submitted to the state tax commission with the recommendation that the commission approve the revaluations of the committee.

The maps showed the revised figures on valuations in the territory covered by the committee approximating 30 per cent reductions in business property, generally, and a 40 per cent reduction in residential property. These reductions were made from the tentative values as shown on the maps prepared by the revaluation division of the board of assessors.

Working for Small Owners.

The district covered by the Englewood investigation committee included the section bounded by 55th and 67th streets, Wentworth avenue and Loomis street. Mr. Jacobs stressed the fact that his committee was working particularly for property reduction of the small property owners, for a large tax increase on outlying property is feared due to the high valuation.

Mr. Jacobs pointed out that property at 63d and Halsted streets was valued at $9,000 a front foot, which is only $1,000 less than property at Michigan avenue link bridge.

Complaint cards were distributed to those present, whereon they were given an opportunity to voice any objection they might have regarding the valuations that the committee is submitting as a result of its findings.

Others on Committee.

Aside from Mr. Jacobs on the Englewood tax investigation committee are: Frank D. Bellis, president of the Englewood Business Men's association; Terrence F. Moran, alderman of the 16th ward; James G. Coyle, alderman of the 17th ward; Walter W. Morris, alderman of the 18th ward; Leonard Fish, C. Fred Morritz, Ike Kaplan, Samuel Maling, William McDonnell, Isadore Berkson, Herman Eggers, Harry Londelius, Edward Beatty, Harry Englestein, Clarence Rosen, John Williams, Elmer Krauter, Robert Graham, Ernest Holtorff, and Robert Anderson. Mr. Williams is secretary of the committee.

Speakers at the Friday meeting in addition to Mr. Jacobs were John E. Conroy, president of the county board of assessors, and Joseph Hall, superintendent of the land value department of the board of assessors, both of whom have assisted the Englewood committee in making its investigation.

Meeting in Woodlawn.

Monday evening the members of the Woodlawn association met at the Midway Masonic temple, 61st street and Cottage Grove avenue, to launch an investigation to determine the extent of the inaccuracies in valuation.

The investigation is to be directed by F. C. Donecker, president of the association, and Fred L. Helman, secretary. The work of the association, according to Mr. Donecker, may later be joined with that of other south side organizations, but until the association is sure of its facts it will remain independent, Mr. Donecker said.

PARENT-TEACHER GROUP DEMANDS NEW YALE SCHOOL

The immediate need for a new school building was discussed at a meeting of the Yale Parent-Teacher association held last week at the schoolhouse, 7010 Yale avenue. William J. Balmer, commissioner of public service and Republican ward committeeman, attended the meeting and declared the Yale school should be condemned as unsafe and the children housed in portables until the new school is erected.

The building, which has been built for more than 40 years, is considered obsolete and sunsafe by residents of the community, especially since a fire which occurred two weeks ago and caused nearly $10,000 damage.

Two representatives of the fire prevention bureau visited the school following the meeting and after an inspection, declared that the school was entirely safe but advised against use of the assembly hall.

The assembly hall is located on the third floor and is the only large room in the building suitable for holding assemblies. Parent-teacher meetings have been previously held there, as well as gymnasium classes.

MISS GRADUATES OF LORETTO ACADEMY

MISS GENEVIEVE MAHER. MISS ELIZABETH O'LEARY. MISS MARY HOGAN. MISS LOIS MURPHY. MISS EILEEN M'MINN.

Here are five Miss Graduates who will take part in the presentation of "The Making of Miss Graduate" by the Otterol players of Loretto academy, Englewood, next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in the school auditorium, 6535 Stewart avenue. Included in the cast are Miss Eileen McMinn, Miss Mary Donahue, Miss Eleanor Kolar, Miss Ruth Donahue, Miss Mary Hogan, Miss Josephine Halleran, Miss Lois Murphy, Miss Elizabeth O'Leary, Miss Genevieve Maher, and Miss Genevieve McKugo.

WOODLAWN-82D CORNER REZONED AFTER CONFLICT

4 Other Areas Changed to Other Classes.

Four ordinances rezoning south side property were recommended for passage by the city council committee on buildings and zoning Monday. A fifth ordinance for rezoning was referred to the south side subcommittee for further investigation.

Although a large number of property owners were present at the meeting, all but one ordinance were disposed of without objection. A proposition to rezone the northwest corner of Woodlawn avenue and 82nd street from an apartment to a commercial classification brought on a heated argument between Ald. William D. Meyering [8th] and Benjamin Stevenson of the Chatham chamber of commerce, but was finally approved by the committee despite Mr. Stevenson's objections.

Fears Detriment to Business.

There is already too much commercial property in that part of the south side, Mr. Stevenson said, and business conditions are bad as a result. To rezone this piece and add more business property is unfair to business men of the district, he declared.

Ald. Meyering replied that the remainder of that block on 82nd street, which is adjacent to the Illinois Central station, is zoned for commercial purposes, and there is no reason why this particular piece should not conform with the zoning of the other lots. Furthermore, the alderman continued, property owners in the immediate section are not objecting to the rezoning. The Chatham chamber of commerce claims jurisdication mainly on Cottage Grove avenue, he continued, and the zoning of this one lot will not hurt business there at all.

The committee approved the measure unanimously.

Southwest Areas Rezoned.

Other south side lots rezoned by the committee are on the following streets:

Throop street from 89th street to 90th street, from apartment to residence.

Yale avenue from 71st to 72nd street, from residence to two-flat.

Princeton avenue between 73rd street and alley north of 75th street from residence to two-flat.

An ordinance to rezone the south side of 83rd street between Vernon avenue and the alley west of this street from apartment to commercial was referred to the subcommittee.

GIRLS PREPARE 2 MONTHS FOR PUPPET SEASON

Preparations are under way at Davis Square park, 45th street and Marshfield avenue, for the second season of the Davis Square puppets. The curtain on the first puppet show will probably not rise until July, but those sponsoring the productions have already begun to tackle the vast work necessary to make them a success.

A club of approximately forty girls between 12 and 15 years old, known as the Leaders' club, will again take complete charge of the puppets this year as they did last season. Miss Pearle Jordan is adviser and director of the club.

The club meets for an hour every afternoon and will take up one by one the various crafts included in a puppet show. At present the girls are working on the puppet stage. It will be a small stage with miniature furnishings and curtains and will be set in the center of the large stage of the field house auditorium with the curtains draped around it.

Members of the club who took part in the construction of characters and properties are Miss Stella Bebro, Miss Celia Bebro, Miss Helen Bielski, Miss Angeline Chrobak, Miss Anne Circus, Miss Tillie Grebelis, Miss Sophia Grebelis, Miss Anne Goldekas, Miss Sophia Grebas, Miss Jose Grebas, Miss Bernice Shedis, Miss Helen Shimkus, Miss Jane Czekaj, Miss Valerie Worobiew, Miss Anne Viktoravius, Miss Anne Urban, Miss Helen Urban, Miss Helen Swistak, Miss Olga Siselskis, Miss Sophia Nacas, Miss Stephanie Jakauskas, Miss Mary Lukavicius, Miss Valerie Valckus, Miss Mary Dolmek, Miss Mary Gretas, Miss Patri Garth, Miss Laura Belickis, Miss Barbara Pertavich, Miss Helen Romanowski, Miss Ella Stellans Miss Frances Garfield, Miss Veronica Maalauskas, Miss Barbara Matimaityte, Miss Anne Stakauskas, Miss Anne Felon, Miss Rose Vaznus, Miss Sophia Knataus-kas, Miss Frances Wask, Miss Stella Barune, and Miss Helen Wunkowska

Alumni to Present Comedy Friday Evening.

Englewood High school's former dramatic stars once more will take the stage in "A Prince There Was," a three act comedy, which will be presented under the auspices of the Alumni association in the school auditorium, 62d street and Stewart avenue, Friday evening. Miss Margaret E. Froning, teachhr of dramatics, is directing the play.

Leading Players Selected.

Harry Richardson, who was graduated last June, will play the masculine lead as the Prince of a Fellow, a rich young man, bored with life, who seeks relief from the boredom by going to live at a cheap boarding house in a poor neighborhood of the city. The feminine lead is played by Miss Helen Greig.

Other players are Miss Lillian Rockwood, Elmer Jordan, Miss Ethel Weisberg, Miss Rosemary Carroll, Charles Shapiro, Arthur Trask, Thomas Dillon, Theodore Heyman.

Stage Manager Back on Job.

Edward Jesse, who was stage manager for two years while he was at school and stage electrician for one year, and Harvey Steele, who was stage manager for two years, will take up those duties again for the performance next Friday.

Other members of the Alumni association who will take an active part in the management of the play are Miss Rose Duber, Nathan Caplow, Claude Koroff, Charles Shapiro, Miss Esther Lipsey, Gershon Ferson, and Sol Ashback.

Dinner Tuesday to Open S. Side Builders Building

The South Side Builders building, 6407-9 South Park way, will be opened with a dinner for business men of the south side Tuesday evening. The building will be occupied by officers of construction companies. The building was erected by the Economy Builders company, whose officers are: President, Roy E. Tullgren; vice president, Frank P. Mach; secretary, Harry Haan; treasurer, J. E. Anderson.

WHO SAID IT? When, Where and Why

THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each snappy quotation printed and $5 for the best answer. Send your answers and quotations to the Who Said It editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

WHO SAID:

1. What's the constitution between friends?—J. P. H., Naperville, Ill.

2. Much may be made of a Scotchman if he caught young?—Warren A. Brownlee, 125 Highwood avenue, Highwood, Ill.

3. Sir, I have learned to beat a retreat?—Jacob Fries, 1621 North Park avenue, Chicago.

(Answers to the above quotations will be printed two weeks from today. Answers to last week's quotations will appear next Sunday.)

ANSWERS

Following are answers to quotations previously published:

Quotation—I say, Judge, I believe they're giving you the bird.

Answer—This was said by Lord Louis Mountbatten, second cousin of King George V. of England, to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, former federal judge, during a baseball game at the New York Polo grounds on Oct. 5, 1922. It was the second game of the world series between the New York Giants and the New York Yankees.

At the end of the tenth inning, with the score 3 to 3, Umpire Hildebrand called the game on account of darkness, although to the fans it still seemed light enough to continue play. Baseball authorities agreed, however, that Hildebrand acted wisely. But the crowd evidently believed it was a move to prolong the series. Commissioner Landis was in no way responsible for the umpire's act but the crowd surged around his box, yelling epithets and jeers.

At this point Lord Mountbatten, who with his bride, the former Edwina Ashley, English heiress, was in the Landis box, made his famous remark: "My word, Judge, I believe they are giving you the bird," meaning "razz." Lord and Lady Mountbatten had just arrived in New York for a tour of America.

The Giants won the next three games and the series, four games to none.—E. E. W., Joliet, Ill.

Quotation—We shall attack at daylight tomorrow; I would fight them if they were a million.

Answer—Said by Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, Confederate commander in the west, on April 5, 1862, the evening before the first day of the battle of Shiloh in which he was killed. He was anxious to attack the Union army under Gen. Grant before Gen. Buell, who was marching from Nashville with 20,000 men to reinforce Grant, could arrive. — Rosemary Levering, 319 North Cross street, Wheaton, Ill.

Quotation—My stockings went to see my mother.

(No answers received. There's a $5 prize for the best one.)

PLAY IS GIVEN BY CHILDREN OF ARMOUR SQUARE

A one-act children's play entitled "Mother Goose's Goslings" was presented recently at Armour Square park, 33d street and Shields avenue, as the opening number on the program of the annual spring gymnastic demonstration.

The play was directed by Mrs. Claire Wayne, girls' gym instructor, and the cast included Emily Bertucci, Arma Scott, Emily Pirelli, Marian Bertucci, Katherine Burton, Alda Marroni, Bernice Pfeiffer, Josephine Granato, Anna Bertucci, Corinne Rothenberger, Virginia Gustafson, Jennie Mirabelli, Josephine Terrino, and Janet Gustafson.

The remainder of the program was a demonstration of the work done in the gym classes directed by Mrs. Wayne and Harold Springer throughout the winter.

A RADIO BARGAIN.

Chicago, April 23.—The best bargain I ever got was when I bought a radio for only $5. The people at the store were thinking that it was too old a model, and also wouldn't play very good. All that was needed on the radio was a new transformer. Now I've got a wonderful radio for only $7.50. Sure was a good bargain!

HIGH SCHOOLS OF SOUTH SIDE TO EXHIBIT ART

Prepare to Enter Display at Institute.

For the first time in twelve years there will be an exhibit of the art work of Chicago high school and college students. The Art institute is cooperating with the board of education in promoting an exhibition to be held in the institute from May 24 to June 8. Those in charge of the exhibit hope to make it an annual spring affair.

Early last winter, before plans for the display were definitely formed, teachers and students of art in the various south side high schools began planning and working for their exhibit, believing that the exhibit would be held, although at first it was only a vague dream. Although no prizes will be given, either collectively to schools or to individuals this year, every teacher and student wants visitors to be particularly attracted to the work of their school. If the exhibit this year is a success, more formal plans for a contest and prizes will be inaugurated for next year's exhibition.

B. F. Buck Heads Committee.

Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of schools, is general chairman of the committee sponsoring the exhibit. South side instructors who are members of his committee are Mrs. Nelle Osgood of Englewood High school, Miss Dorothy Gordon of Calumet, Miss Ada Enander of Tilden Technical High, Mrs. Edna Hotchkiss of Morgan Park High school, and Miss Florence Bigelow of Hyde Park High school.

South side teachers who will display the work of their students are Miss Mary Logeman, Miss Gordon, Mrs. John Sievers, Mrs. H. D. Burke, and Mrs. M. Keepers of Calumet High school; Miss Beatrice Cannon, Miss Agnes Dadiker, Mrs. Osgood, Miss Ella Schmidt, Miss Elizabeth Troeger, and H. Baller of Englewood; Miss Edna Marlin, Earl Musick, and Miss Helen Vizard of Fenger High.

Others are: Miss Bigelow, Miss Katherine Dimock, Mrs. Gertrude C. Lewis, Miss Helen S. Gilbert, Miss Verne Curtis, and Miss Ella Ottaway of Hyde Park; Mrs. Daisy Williams of Phillips; Mrs. Anna D. Knehans, Miss Frances Manion, Miss Marguerite Norcott, and Miss Ruth Worst of Lindblom; Mrs. Hotchkiss and Miss Clarabel Sheehy of Morgan Park; Miss Evelyn Alexander of Parker High; Miss M. E. Bohmann, Miss Ada Emander, Miss P. M. Portersfield, and Harry T. Yates of Tilden.

Normal College to Enter.

Material will be entered also by Miss Agnes D. Doyle, Robert C. French, Frank X. Henke, and Elmer A. Morrow of Chicago Normal college and Miss Buehla Chamberlain, Mrs. Winona Hall, and Mrs. Nellie Wall of Bowen.

According to Mr. Buck, the purpose of the exhibit is to keep the people of Chicago in touch with the work of the pupils of the various schools along artistic lines. He says their youth and enthusiasm are making their art the most modernistic of all modern art and that such an exhibit as the one to be held may bring forth potential genius.

BUD AND CLARK GOING SOMEWHERE

That picture of Bud Slee and Clark Sells, 1418 West Garfield boulevard, intent on arriving at their destination, won the first prize of $5 in The Tribune's spring picture contest for amateur photographers of the south side this week for Mrs. Ida Kalkusch, 1418 West Garfield boulevard. The second prize of $3 was awarded to Miss Evelyn Jane Oxner, 4827 Lake Park avenue, for an unusual time-exposure picture of the living room of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Cabeen, 3849 Ellis avenue. "Teaching Little Sister to Jump Rope," showing Dorothy Jeanne Erickson, Rodney Erickson, and Milton Kullerstrand and made by Mrs. J. C. Erickson, 7024 South Peoria street, won the third prize of $2.

Hope Church Men's Club Elects A. E. Stephan Head

Newly elected officers of the Hope Men's club of Hope Lutheran church, 6400 South Washtenaw avenue, were installed at a meeting of the organization in the church auditorium. The new officers are: A. E. Stephen, president; L. A. Klotzbucher, vice president; W. A. Sells, secretary; John Utecht, treasurer; Edgar Krause, chairman of the social committee; William Hager, chairman of the membership committee; Charles Troike, publicity director, Paul Reichart, athletic director.

RENEW BATTLE TO OPEN UNION NORTH OF 63D

Englewood Group Sees Relief for Congestion.

Seeking to relieve congested traffic conditions at 63d and Halsted streets, members of the Englewood Business Men's association have reopened the fight for passage by the city council of an ordinance for the opening of Union avenue from 60th to 63d streets.

According to F. B. Bellis, president of the organization, it is understood that 50 per cent of the improvement would be paid for by special assessment against property owners along or adjacent to the thoroughfare, while the other 50 per cent would be paid by the city.

Effect Would Extend South.

Mr. Bellis pointed out that the new street would, besides relieving traffic on Halsted street, also provide a new lane for residents of the territory south of Englewood, who would be able to enter Englewood by a better route than overcrowded Halsted street.

Believing that the contemplated improvement is for the best interests of the community and the south side, many of the prominent business men's groups are planning to help the Englewood Business Men's association to arouse sufficient agitation to convince the city council that the completion of the project is necessary.

The Greater South Side chamber of commerce, through its managing vice president, H. H. Haylett, was one of the first bodies to adopt a resolution in favor of the project.

Count on Council Alliance.

Mr. Bellis believes that in the new aldermanic alliance, which is composed of four south side aldermen who are in favor of the proposed improvement, the business men have a powerful advantage when the ordinance comes up in the council. The aldermen who compose the alliance are Terence F. Moran [16th], James G. Coyle [17th], Walter W. Morris [18th] and O. E. Northrup [19th].

Ald. Morris pointed out that the contemplated improvement is supported by every business men's group and civic organization in the community.

CHURCH YOUNG FOLK, COACHED BY PASTOR, TO PRESENT FARCE

THE REV. RICHARD D. HUGHES.

Under the direction of the Rev. Richard D. Hughes, members of the Christian Endeavor society of the Emerald Avenue Presbyterian church will present "The Mummy and the Mumps," a three act farce, Wednesday and Thursday evenings in the church auditorium, Marquette road and Emerald avenue. The play is the fourth annual production given by the young people of the church.

The cast is composed of Fred Austin, Ralph Williams, Lester Conaway, George De Ment, Elmer Brinkman, Mrs. Kathryn Williams Bassett, Miss Dorothy Williams, Mrs. Gussie Bowen De Ment, Miss Florence Manly, and Miss Marie Humolka.

Parkside School P.-T. A. Sponsors Fathers' Night

Fathers' night at the Parkside school, East End avenue and 69th street, is being sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association of the school next Friday. Dr. Leo L. Scherger, professor of history at Armour institute, will talk on "Youth," and students of the school will take part in the program following.

LOYOLA DRAMA CLUB TO APPEAR ON SOUTH SIDE

The Sock and Buskin club of Loyola university will present its annual spring production "Thank You," this evening in the Goodman Memorial theater. Charles Costello is director of the players appearing in the three act comedy written by Winchell Smith and Tom Cushing. The play is to be repeated Thursday evening at Sacred Heart church, 18th and May streets, and again next Sunday at St. Augustine Parish hall 50th and Bishop streets.

Proceeds of tonight's performance will be added to the fund for the benefit of the Maria Della Strada chapel. Included in the cast are: Miss Virginia Barker, Miss Theresa Stocker, Miss Margaret Gill, Miss Alice Burns, Richard Ford, Timothy Connelly, Frank Calkins, Paul Lietz, Frank Arado, J. Francis Walsh, John Lenihan, James Hammond, Martin Stadler, Jerome Koslowski, and Frank Walsh.

CHICAGO LAWN WOMAN'S CLUB TO HOLD PARTY

The Chicago Lawn Woman's club will hold its spring luncheon Tuesday at Hotel Windermere East. The program will be given by Mrs. Fay Rickard, who will read "The Vanishing Prince"; Mrs. J. H. Matheson, who will sing, and the Chicago Lawn Woman's club chorus, which will give several selections.

Special guests at the luncheon will include Mrs. R. L. McClure, president of the third district of the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs; Mrs. Estelle Pershing, director of the club's chorus; Miss Etta Mortell, retiring president of the Junior auxiliary, and Miss Alice Walsh, new president of the auxiliary.

THIS MODEL HAS MANY A THRILL FOR ITS MAKERS

Looks and Acts Like Man Carrying Plane.

BY MERRILL HAMBURG.
[Secretary Airplane Model League of America.]

Remember when, in 1927, Eddie Schlee and William Brock flew the Atlantic, Europe and Asia to reach Tokio in record breaking time?

If you're a member of the Airplane Model League of America, you're pretty sure to remember it. And you'll also remember, likely, that the airplane used was a Stinson-Detroiter—the same ship described as a scale model in this paper recently.

Today I'm going to tell you how to build a flying Stinson-Detroiter—not a flying scale model, for the ship is somewhat modified in order to gain endurance in the air. The model is one of the neatest commercial jobs developed this year, and when properly built will fly sixty seconds or more.

The Job Takes Time.

Building the model takes time, but no greater skill than the construction of a good endurance plane. Before starting, be sure you've examined the drawing closely—know exactly what you're planning to do.

You may get materials needed to build the model in the special league kit, which will be sent you for $1.50 in money order or check sent to the supply department, A. M. L. A., American Boy building, Second and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich. Or you may be able to get materials separately.

Here's what you'll need: Two balsa leading edges, 5-16x5-16x12 inches; two flat balsa strips for small parts, 1-16x 1½x13 inches; fifteen M-6 balsa ribs; balsa motor stick, 5-32x¼x13½ inches; flat balsa for wheels and wing support, ⅛x1½x6 inches; balsa propeller block, ½x1½x8 inches; two strips, of bamboo, 1-16x¼x12 inches; one thrust bearing; one rear hook, one propeller shaft, one S hook, two wing clips, eight hooks and eyelets, and two special fuselage nose clips, all of .020 music wire; two brass washers; two sheets of Japanese tissue, 21x31 inches; 2 drams of ambroid; 4 drams of banana oil; a rubber motor, ⅛x1-30x52 inches.

Wing of Built Up Type.

The wing is of the built up type—your manual tells you how to make it, Page 6. Follow the dimensions given in the diagram. The wing section is known as the M-6 airfoil, the same as that used on the larger plane. With this article you are given an exact size pattern for this wing—you may cut your ribs on this model from 1-32 inch balsa, or use the ready cut ribs in the league kit.

Assemble the two halves of the wing separately. Glue the ribs to the leading edge as shown in the detail drawing, then attach the trailing edge. Your kit furnishes special pieces of balsa for the leading edge; you cut the trailing edge from flat balsa making it ⅛ inch wide. Form the wing tips by gluing ribs, with their lower surfaces trimmed to a straight edge, to the two end ribs at right angles [see diagram]. You'll find that the kit furnishes 15 ribs, 13 for cross ribs and two for the tips.

Put Halves Together.

Now put the two halves together. Remember that you must give the wing dihedral angle; to do this glue the two halves in a flat V, with the ends 1¼ inches higher than the center. The ends of the leading and trailing edge spars are the points of contact—and don't forget the thirteenth or center rib. You can hold the two halves in place while the ambroid is drying by putting a block 2½ inches high under the tip of one wing, allowing the other to lie flat on your work table. When the ambroid is set, cover the wing with paper as directed in the manual.

Attach the wing clips to the center of the wing, being sure that they are glued to wood, not paper. Fasten four small eyelets to two of the cross ribs as the drawing shows, so that you may hook the wing struts to them.

Now, the Fuselage.

Now start on the fuselage. You'll make it in two sections, as the detail drawing marked "attachment of motor stick" indicates. The longer ones are made of 1-16 inch balsa and the crosspieces of balsa 1-32x1-16 inch, split from your flat pieces; you can get the dimensions of the various sections directly from the drawing.

See why it's a good idea to make the nose and the motor stick all in one piece, with the motor unconnected to the main body? In the first place, it's easy to replace the motor or make minor repairs; in the second the winding of the motor puts no twisting strain on the body. You attach the motor stick, which is 5-32x¼x13½ inches, to the nose by ambroiding it to the top of the small square opening at the front, and to two diagonal braces at the rear frame. The nose and the body are hooked together by means of two clips of .020 music wire, shown in the drawing. Ambroid is used, of course, to attach rear hook, thrust bearing, clips and other metal parts to the model.

Rudder of Bamboo.

To the top of the fuselage, in the opening forward above the windows, you glue the wing support—its upper edge is flush with the top of the fuselage frame. Make it of balsa, ⅛x 3-16x5½ inches.

Cover the fuselage and the nose with paper. Leave open the section just under the wing, so as to facilitate its adjustment. You may cover the windows with isinglass or some such glassy, lightweight material, if you wish—banana oil is the adhesive used. You can obtain the "window panes" from the wrapping of a package of candy!

The rudder and fin frame are formed from bamboo, split very thin and bent to shape. The diagram shows a balsa right angle on the combination fin and rudder; this is merely to indicate where the rudder would be hinged on the large plane. The two could be made separate and hinged with music wire, but this isn't advisable on a flying model. Better make them of one piece and set the whole fin at a slight angle, as shown in the top left drawing.

Elevators of Balsa.

Because the tail group must be very light—else the model will be tail heavy—the stabilizer and elevators are made with balsa frame. Bending balsa is a delicate job, but you can do it nicely by following instructions in the manual. If you don't care to do this, substitute thin bamboo. You will probably need additional weight on the nose to make up for it, but this can be taken care of later.

Follow the manual, page 7, for instructions as to how to carve your propeller. This model takes a tractor prop, with the center section cut away from the trailing edge.

The landing gear is made from bamboo split 1-16x1-8 inches. Bend your pieces to the shapes shown in the drawing, then split it to 1-16 inch square strips. The wheels are all balsa, 1-8x3-8 inches. They turn on very small .020 music wire axles ambroided to the landing gear, and are kept on by tiny stream-lined balsa hubs ambroided to the axles.

Wing May be Removed.

The four wing struts, or "lift struts," are of very thin balsa ⅛ inch wide. You'll have to suit their length to your ship—length varies on every job. The two front struts hook, as shown in the drawing, between wing ribs and landing gear, and the two rear struts between wing ribs and the lower edge of the fuselage. Thus the wing may be removed at will, or may be moved backward or forward along the wing support for flying adjustment.

Now you've done all the work, unless you want to color wing and wheel fairings [the sections inside the tires] orange, and landing gear and fuselage black, with an orange strip around the top of the fuselage. You can do this coloring either by dyeing paper before covering the model, or by painting it with banana oil and lightweight dyes after it is completed. You'll add weight by coloring it, of course.

Test Ship Carefully.

Put the rubber motor on the motor stick—knot the two ends and you'll have a motor of four strands. Test the ship very carefully. Adjust the wing forward or backward until you find the best position for gliding. If the plane insists on stalling, no matter how far back you put the wing, you'll need to add a little weight to the nose. Some boys do this by increasing the weight of the wheels; one I know ambroided two tiny wire brads to the front end of the motor stick.

When you've found the right adjustment, get ready for a pretty flight. For there's nothing in model work more satisfying than a slow, trim commercial ship in flight. This Stinson Detroiter will take the ship off the ground; it will fly sixty to ninety seconds [a flight of more than thirty seconds indoors or sixty seconds outdoors will win you an honor certificate]; and it will make a three point landing that would make Col. Lindbergh jealous!

More than that, it will be eligible for a special competition to be held at the Second National A. M. L. A. contests which the American Boy Magazine, co-sponsor with THE TRIBUNE of the league, will conduct in Detroit June 20-22. Watch this paper for details of this competition. It's a contest with an international angle.

St. Rita High Students to Give "To the Ladies"

Under the direction of the Rev. John L. Seary, the students of St. Rita High school will present "To the Ladies," a three act comedy, next Friday and Sunday evenings in the school gymnasium, 63d street and Oakley avenue. The Ladies' Aid society is sponsoring the play, and the proceeds from the sale of tickets for both performances will be given to charity.

Wentworth School P.-T. to Meet Next Thursday

The Parent-Teacher association of the D. S. Wentworth school, 70th and Sangamon streets, will meet next Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the new assembly hall of the school. Delegates to the state convention at Mattoon will report, and a field representative of the Camp Fire girls will address the group. Plans will be made at this time for a teachers' luncheon.

Kenwood Club Gives Tea and Fashion Show

More than four hundred persons attended the fashion show and tea which was presented by the members of the Kenwood Social Service club Friday in the Crystal ballroom of the Hotel Shoreland, 55th street and South Shore drive. Mrs. Earl Shilton, 5811 Dorchester avenue, was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

JOIN AUXILIARY AND HELP SICK KIDDIES, IS PLEA

The annual meeting of St. Bernard's hospital auxiliary was held recently for reports and election of officers. The president, Mrs. Mary B. Finan, in her report made a plea for new members. The invitation is extended to every one who has been a patient in the hospital or is interested in working for suffering children.

The organization meets the third Wednesday of each month at the hospital and prepares dressings and bandages for the operating room.

The officers elected were: Mrs. Finan, president; Mrs. Leo Farney, first vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth Cody, second vice president; Mrs. V. J. Neale, third vice president; Mrs. C. S. Kelly, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. A. Parker, financial secretary, and Mrs. Kelly, treasurer.

Arrange Farewell Dance for De La Salle Seniors

Members of the Mothers' club and the Alumni association of De La Salle institute, 3455 Wabash avenue, are sponsoring a senior farewell dance to be given Friday evening May 17 at the Lake Shore Athletic club. Thomas Reilly, president of the Alumni association, is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the affair.

PLANE BUILDERS SPEED WORK TO MEET DEADLINE

Entries Must Reach The Tribune by May 14.

With entries in the Model airplane tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE closing on May 14, south side aspirants for the forty-eight medals and two trophies to be awarded are busy these days preparing planes so that they may be certified in time by their neighborhood school and playground officials.

Not many days are left for making entries, and the awards—including two trips to the national championship meet and back—are so worthwhile that the feverish activity of those boys who feel in their bones that they have ships under way that will win honors can easily be accounted for. All expenses of the two trips to the national meet will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Outdoor events of the meet will be held May 19 at Washington park. Indoor events will be held May 26 at the 132d infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets.

Who will be the winners in THE TRIBUNE contests? This is the question uppermost in the minds of the young mechanics. It won't be long now until decisions will be made. The important thing at hand is to make entries before May 14. An entry blank is in this section.

Rules of Tournament.

Rules for the tournament follow:

All contestants must have their planes ready for examination by the judges 15 minutes before the starting time of the contest.

Each plane must have been built by its flyer and each plane certified by a board of education or park system or public school official. The certification must be presented with the entry blank. Only metal parts of the planes can be purchased complete.

No contestant shall launch his model before receiving the launch signal from the official starter.

Each contestant will be allowed three official flights; the greatest elapsed time made in any of the three flights to score.

Interfered flight. If a plane hits some object before it alights on the ground floor and continues in flight or remains suspended, its flyer may, if he chooses, take an additional official flight as a substitute for this interfered flight.

All planes shall be driven by rubber strand motors only.

Winner of first place will be the builder and flyer of the plane which remains in flight the longest time and of second place the second longest elapsed time, and so on to sixth place.

Each contestant must prepare his plane for flight himself—that is, rigging, repairing, and winding up the motors.

Contestants shall be divided into two classes: Class A, those who are 15 years old or over, but under 21 years of age, on May 19; class B, those who are 14 years old or younger, on May 19.

In each event each contestant will not be allowed more than three unofficial flights.

EVENT I.

Indoor Duration Contest.

A. R. O. G. Duration—Planes shall be released under their own power from the floor and must rise from their own power.

B. Any flight under 10 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight.

C. Planes entered in this event may have a wing span of 40 inches or less; a hollow double surfaced wing; a hollow completely enclosed fuselage of a cabin type or cockpit model; a landing chassis with wheels, and be generally in appearance like a real airplane.

D. Judging of duration of flight will be from the moment the model leaves the floor or ground to the time it first touches the ground or floor or passes out of sight of the attending officials, or is permanently stopped in its flight. [See interfered flight.]

EVENT II.

A. Planes entered in this event may have a distance between the propeller bearing and motor hook at the other end of the motor stick of fifteen inches or less. [For pusher-pullers this will be the distance from bearing to bearing.]

B. Launching will be by hand by merely releasing, not throwing.

C. Judging of duration shall be from the moment the plane leaves the hand to the time it first touches the floor or is permanently stopped in its flight, as by hanging on some object. [See section on interfered flight.]

D. Any flight under 15 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight. Only three unofficial flights, that is, under 15 seconds, will be allowed.

EVENT III.

Outdoor Duration Events.

A. R. O. G. duration planes shall be released under their own power from a platform on the ground and must rise under their own power.

B. Any flight under 10 seconds' duration will not count as an official flight.

C. Same as C, Event I.

D. Judging of duration of flight will be from the moment the model leaves the platform on the ground to the time it first touches the ground or passes out of the sight of the attendant officials or is permanently stopped in its flight. [See interfered flights.]

EVENT IV.

A. Planes entered in this event may have a wing span of 40 inches or less.

B. Launching will be by hand, merely releasing the plane, not throwing.

C. Same as D, Event I.

D. Same as B, Event I.

POINT SYSTEM.

The Olympic system of scoring will prevail. Ten points for first place, five for second, four for third, three for fourth, two for fifth, and one point for sixth place.

AWARDS.

Forty-eight medals, two trophies, and two trips to the national championship meet and back will be awarded the winners. The medals will be awarded to the winners of first, second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth places in each event in both senior and junior [A and B] classes. A trophy will be awarded the organization whose representatives earn the greatest number of points in class A division and another will be awarded the high point team in class B. The class A and class B contestants who earn the greatest number of points will receive the trip to the national meet, where all expenses will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

COMIC OPERETTA TO BE PRESENTED BY TILDEN TECH

There will be stranded sailors, tropical isles, all sorts of dances and songs in "Singbad the Sailor," the comic operetta which will be presented by the choral club at Tilden Technical High school the evenings of May 22 and 23 in the Tilden auditorium.

Two boys have been chosen to sing alternately the leading rôle of Singbad. They are John Gregory and William Weaver, and the leading lady will be "Miss" Charles Kolar.

There will be Oriental, occidental, ancient, modern, Egyptian, "seven veils" tango, hornpipe and apache dances, and there will be sailors, gypsies, a theatrical troupe, and cannibals to do the dancing. Among the songs will be found grand opera arias, minstrels, quartets, duets, and choruses.

Woodlawn Kiwanis Club Addressed by Tom Lieb

Tom Lieb, Knute Rockne's first assistant and the man who is credited with making the "four horsemen" of Notre Dame famous, was the principal speaker at the annual boys' day meeting of the Woodlawn Kiwanis club Wednesday at the Wedgewood hotel, 64th street and Woodlawn avenue. Gregory V. Rose was installed as a member of the organization.

ARMOUR SQUARE RESIDENTS FORM CIVIC COUNCIL

An organization which will be called the Armour Square Community council, was formed recently when 200 residents of the district met at the Armour Square park field house, 33d street and Shields avenue. The purpose of the organization has been defined as to promote the social welfare of the community.

Mrs. John Lord was elected president; Mrs. Frank Ruppert, vice president; Edward Anderson, recording secretary, and Fred G. Sians, financial secretary.

Responding to the suggestion of T. Egardner, director of Armour Square park, the council has adopted a program which includes an infant welfare station, a branch library, and a night school where those foreign born may learn English and citizenship.

A playground ball league has been organized at Armour Square, and consists of 20 industrial teams from the automobile industries and laundries in the community.

FENGER BOOSTS CLEANUP WEEK AT ASSEMBLY

Miss Claribel Brand, a member of the Fenger High school senior class, was in charge of the final assembly program at the school preceding the spring vacation. The program dealt with Cleanup week and the visit of mayor, Joseph Brack, spoke on how the process of cleaning up might be continued through the vacation.

A short play, "As We'd Like It," was given by a group of students demonstrating the benefits of Cleanup week. Those making up the cast were Miss Lillian Carlberg, Miss Marie Goodman, Norman Wilhelmsen, Howard Gemler, Russel Coe, and Gilbert Heffron.

Music was provided by the Fenger social orchestra, directed by Francis Ryan and composed of the following additional students: William Gulbert, Trevor Rogers, Ellwood Johnson, Wilbur Radcliffe, Erwin Doranek, Howard Tampa, Harry Budka, and Robert Chevalier.

BOYS TO PARADE 25,000 STRONG IN THEIR WEEK

City-Wide Track Meet and Park Events Planned.

Churches, schools, parks, and playgrounds on the south side as well as all over the city, will play a part in the twelfth annual Boys' week, which will be held from Sunday, May 19, to Saturday, May 25. Beginning with special church services for boys on Sunday and finishing with athletic games and contests in the various parks on Saturday, the entire week will be given over to the education, health, interests, and enthusiasms of Chicago boyhood.

Recent committee meetings have been held for discussion and completion of plans and programs for Boys' week. Edward L. Burchard of the Chicago City club and Superintendent William J. Bogan of the Chicago public schools, respectively, are executive secretary and chairman of the executive committee in charge of the activities for Boys' week.

The numerous organizations sponsoring the activities of that week include the Rotary club, Kiwanis club, City Club of Chicago, Boy Scouts, board of education, Optimistic club, Congress of Boy Workers, department of health, and all the organizations of boys in the city.

Church Committee Named.

Every boy in Chicago will be urged to attend church services somewhere, preferably in company with his parents, on the Sunday which opens boys' week. Dean Shailer Mathews, head of the Chicago Church federation, Rabbi Gerson Levi, and Magr. C. J. Quille compose the committee in charge of this day's program.

Monday, May 20, will be given over to the boy at home and with the radio. In recognition of the influence of the home over the boy's life and the importance of the radio in the life of many homes, special radio programs will be broadcast from Chicago stations.

The boy in industry will be the theme of Wednesday's programs. James P. Haynes of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Frank F. Winans of the Rotary club will be in charge of the programs for this day, which will attempt to establish closer relations between employers and boys.

On Tuesday, the boy's spare time will occupy the attention of the Boy Workers association and the Union League Foundation for Boys, with Burridge Butler as chairman. Rightly used, the boy's spare time will mean success, according to Mr. Butler, and the programs in schools on this day will tend to encourage boys to make the best use of their extra hours.

Thursday To Be Health Day.

The boy's health will be taken up Thursday by the Kiwanis club. Physical examinations and health talks will be given in all schools. Dr. Thomas A. Carter will be in charge of the health programs.

A parade of 25,000 high school boys, junior high, seventh and eighth grade and parochial schoolboys, held at soldiers' field, will feature Friday's program. Included in this parade will be Boy Scouts, all boys' clubs, safety patrols, R. O. T. C., fire departments, junior fire police and organizations of boys from the board of education playgrounds and municipal playgrounds. Leading the parade will be a band of 2,400 pieces, which will be a combination of all the R. O. T. C. bands in high schools over the city.

Friday morning at the stadium will be taken up with a track meet among elementary schoolboys and a demonstration of their R. O. T. C. units. The Friday activities come under the heading of the boy in school and citizenship. Mr. Bogan will be in charge of this day, with Maj. F. W. Beals managing the combined program to be given by the R. O. T. C. band.

Athletic Carnival Saturday.

The gala day for the boys will come on Saturday, with athletic contests in the parks and playgrounds. There will be wrestling matches and stunts, races and swimming contests, for which prizes will be awarded to the winners. Edward C. Delaporte, director of physical education, is chairman in charge of the park activities.

George W. Dixon is president of the Chicago Boys' Week federation; Melvin A. Traylor is treasurer; Mr. Bogan is chairman of the executive committee. Mr. Burchard is executive secretary, and Michael Zimmer is secretary.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH GROUP STAGES THREE PLAYS

Under the direction of Mrs. Venita McBurney, the members of the Senior Epworth league of the St. James Methodist church presented "The Hole in the Shoe," "The Flattering Word," and "Poor Aubrey," three one act plays, Friday evening in the church auditorium, 46th street and Ellis avenue. Appearing in the casts are, left to right: Carl Wintrich, John T. Hill, Miss Marie Boas, E. Lester Stanton, Miss Kenney, Alvin Van Riper, Myron Eggert, Archie Stahl, Miss Ruth Eggert; seated, Miss Louise McDonald and Miss Lois Stanton.

THE CHUCKLE COLUMN

Senior—I have something on that girl.

Soph.—Yeah, what?

Senior—My frat pin.

DICK WALL,
7737 South Throop street.

Maryann [after Sunday school]—I wonder why they sing "Amen" and not "Awomen," Bobby.

Bobby—I guess it's because they sing "hims" and not "hers."

MARIE OSWALD,
4455 South Troy street.

When the donkey saw the zebra
He began to switch his tail.
"Well, I never!" was his comment,
"There's a mule that's been in jail."

MARIE WIERMANN,
6204 South Racine avenue.

English boy—King George tapped my father on the shoulder and made him a knight.

American boy—That's nothing. An Indian tapped my great-grandfather over the head with a tomahawk and made him an angel.

WALTER E. BURNEIKA,
6610 South Talman avenue.

Coach—What's a quarter back?

Hopeful frosh—A 25 cent refund.

VERN LUX,
7741 South Paulina avenue.

Librarian, in reading room—Are you reading Longfellow?

Downandout—Naw, only about five minutes.

BLANCHE CEROUSTOVSKY,
2441 South Clifton Park avenue.

Cop—D'ya know you were making forty per?

Autoist, whispering—Make it sixty; I'm trying to sell the car to this guy.

L. KOROSACKI,
3031 Sioburn street.

Old friend—What are you doing these days, Ole?

Ole—I bane a snake in a roundhouse.

Friend—What's that?

Ole—Vell, I bane a viper.

EDWARD DYKSTRA,
8006 Drexel avenue.

Maggie—Sandy, I dinna like it; ye're taking every corner on two wheels.

Sandy—Aye, but dinna disturb yourself, Maggie. It cuts my tire bill about half.

VINCENT MACKLIN,
1501 West 52d street.

Cop—Say, I almost broke my neck followin' you around them curves.

She—I hope this teaches you a lesson. You shouldn't chase after every girl you see.

EVELYN McMAHON,
7752 South Racine avenue.

Judge—Why did you steal the pig?

Defendant—It was only a joke, your honor.

Judge—The plaintiff states that you took it three miles away.

Defendant—Yes, your honor.

Judge—That was carrying the joke too far—$10 and costs.

THOMAS KENNEDY,
8109 South Hermitage aveuue.

Angry Father—A car! Of course you can't have a car. You'd be absolutely helpless if you found yourself with a flat tire.

Modern Daughter—O, no, I wouldn't, daddy. I've given flat tires the air before.

FRANK DELFER,
10210 Yale avenue.

Mistress—Clematis, I think I smell something burning. Did you turn off the electricity, as I told you, when you finished the ironing?

Clematis—Yes'm, ah did. Sho' ah did, jes like yo' tol me. Ah pulled de chain once and den ah pulled it again to make sure.

DOROTHY BORGESON,
7733 South Carpenter street.

BOWEN STUDENTS HOLD CLEANUP PARADE

As part of their annual cleanup campaign, members of the Go-Getters, one of the largest civic organizations at Bowen High school, 88th street and Manistee avenue, dressed in overalls and aprons and carrying brooms, hoes and rakes and pushing wheelbarrows paraded through the principal streets of the community last week. Rear, left to right: Miss Mary McCullough, Miss Elynor Tisdale, Miss Dorothy Dorsey, Miss Catherine Johnsen, Miss Dorothy De Swarte, and Miss Grace McCullough. Front: Miss Vernice Brown and Miss Esther Regnier.

MODEL YACHT RACERS START SPRING SEASON

Plan New Pond on Outer Drive in Hyde Park.

Once again spring has ushered in the popular sport of model yacht racing on the pond built especially for that purpose in Ogden park. From today on through the summer every sunny Sunday afternoon will find both amateur and professional skippers matching nautical skill in the adjustment and supervision of midget and crewless ships.

The science of sailing real yachts is necessary to the successful racing of these models which ply up and down the pond, one of the best bodies of water now available in the United States for the fascinating sport. Model sailing is neither child's play nor simply a schoolboy pastime. It is a sport which attracts both young and old and which demands adept craftsmanship, technical skill, experience and earnest application for these landfaring captains individually build the models which they sail.

Headquarters for Two Clubs.

The Model Yacht Racing Association of America now boasts fourteen member clubs, two of which have their headquarters at Ogden park. The Washington organization occupies the key position on the roster and it is there that the national meets are held each year. The other clubs in addition to the Ogden Park Yacht club and the Chicago Model Yacht club are located in New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Toledo, Cleveland, Detroit, and St. Augustine, Fla.

The Ogden Park Yacht club was organized in 1924 by George Baron of Homewood, Ill., formerly of London, England, and was the pioneer club of its kind in Chicago. Four years later the Chicago Model Yacht club came into existence, and both of these organizations sail their ships on the Ogden park pond. From today on they will hold their races on alternate Sundays.

Members of these clubs have attended the national model yacht meets at Washington, D. C., where they sail their miniature craft on the reflecting pool beside the Lincoln memorial. Commodore Baron still takes his yachts to the international meets in England, hoping to repeat his success of 1912, when he won first place in class A at the international meet.

Plan Pond on Outer Drive.

As a result of the enthusiasm of the members of these two model yacht clubs and the interest taken by the Chicago Yacht association, a larger model yacht pond is proposed to be built at the junction of the outer drive and Hyde Park boulevard upon completion of the drive. This pond will be built and its use sponsored by the Chicago Yacht association. It is hoped by members of the association that the annual meet will be held here rather than in Washington in 1930 and that during the Chicago World's Fair an international meet will be held here.

The Chicago clubs each have approximately 25 members, ranging in age from 25 to 80 years.

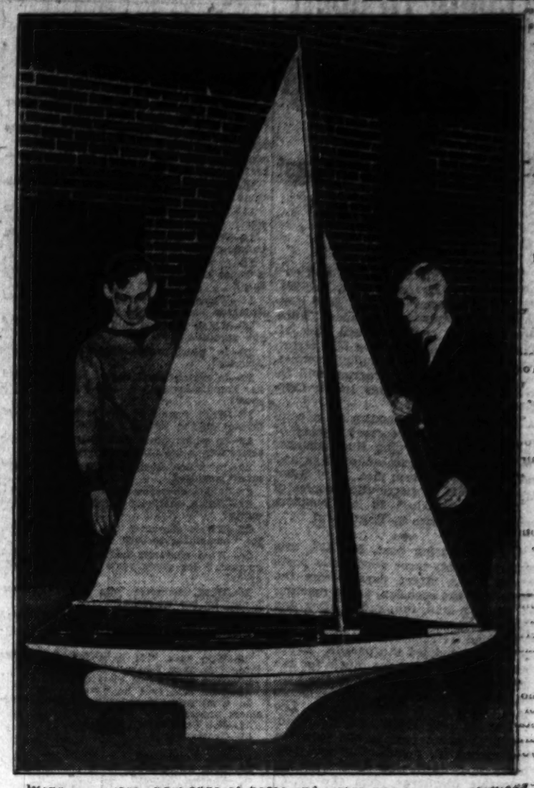
A race usually consists of one of several round trips of the pool course, as this permits running with and against the wind, which tests out all the merits of the various competing boats.

These land skippers carry curious little kits of tools so that they may make repairs as the need for such activities develops. Between races here and there an amateur sailmaker may be seen repairing a damaged sail and another captain replacing a broken bowsprit or a damaged rudder. Sometimes the boats collide during a race when a stiff breeze is blowing, and are damaged so seriously as to necessitate many hours of careful labor in home shops to make them pondworthy again.

Wins Piano as Song Prize.

Charles P. Smith, 2040 East 82d street, recently won a studio piano in a national song writing contest sponsored by Raphael's cafe, Stony Island avenue and 79th street. The title of his song is "I'll Take Care of You."

It Takes True Seaman to Sail Model



Wide and exact knowledge of boats and water and winds is required to be a successful builder and sailor of a model yacht, according to Orville Sonntag (left) and Thomas Malloy, among the dozens of enthusiasts who gather at Ogden park to try their crafts. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

SORORITY TO GIVE STYLE SHOW FOR THEIR MOTHERS

Tau Epsilon will hold its annual Mother's day tea next Sunday afternoon at the Blackstone hotel. Included on the program will be an old fashioned style show given by members of the sorority who will show dresses, hats, and coats worn by their mothers two and three decades ago.

There will also be vocal selections by Mrs. J. Gibbons and piano numbers by Mrs. Henry J. Kleesisch.

Mrs. Paul H. Hahn, 7520 Merrill avenue, is grand president of the sorority and Miss Helen Sayles is chairman in charge of the program for the tea.

FORT DEARBORN LEGION TO OPEN FETE THURSDAY

Spring Carnival Will Last Nearly 3 Weeks.

The annual spring festival and carnival of Fort Dearborn post, No. 268, of the American Legion, 6636 Cottage Grove avenue, will open Thursday and will continue until May 21. The festival will be held on 64th street, between Evans and Langley avenues, and the two weeks' program will include a Boy Scouts' day and a Crippled Children's day.

The post is also sponsoring a campaign to teach the correct display of the flag and is urging that business houses in the district adopt flags and flag poles of uniform size. Boy Scout troop No. 525 is distributing copies of "The Flag Code" to all business houses and homes in Woodlawn.

Grand Crossing post, No. 428, was host to twenty-three south side posts recently. A street parade was the feature of the occasion, and a meeting at Pusey's hall followed. After the business session came the entertainment and refreshments. The Roseland post band led the parade. South Shore post provided the music for the program of entertainment in the hall. On the committee of arrangements were Comrades John J. Simpson, Leo J. Pappas and Edward T. Mead. Grand Crossing post is out to set a new record for membership and welcomes any ex-service man with an honorable discharge from the army, navy or marine corps.

South Shore post, No. 388, has ordered 18,000 poppies for Poppy day, and expects to realize a substantial revenue to remit to Legion headquarters of the district. All women of the South Shore district who are desirous of helping in the cause are requested to communicate with Arthur Gillis, chairman poppy committee, 1954 East 71st street; Hyde Park 4694.

Woodlawn post No. 175 will observe Hospital day, May 11, by turning out at Speedway hospital with its several uniformed units, which include the champion drill corps of the Legion, the band which placed second at the state convention last year, and the drum and bugle corps recently organized. The next meeting of the post will be held tomorrow night. Plans for Poppy and Memorial days will be discussed.

Cook county council of American Legion auxiliaries will again participate in Hospital day, May 11, at the Edward Hines Jr. hospital. For the last three years members of the organization have acted as hostesses at the refreshment booth and will preside again in that capacity this year. Miss Dagmar Roner, who is rehabilitation chairman of the council, is in charge of the arrangements and is cooperating with William Wilson, who is acting as chairman of the Cook county council of the Legion.

Bell post, No. 242, will hold its regular meeting on Thursday, at 8:00 p. m., in the Bell forum, 311 West Washington street. At this meeting awards will be presented to the winners who participated in the flag contest held in the continuation school. Prizes will also be given to the winners in the membership contest conducted by Bell post. It will be an open meeting and all post members are requested to bring their friends. The drum and bugle corps is giving its first annual dance on the night of May 24 in the grand ballroom of the Hotel La Salle.

The first district will hold its first annual dance and May party at Hotel Sherman Saturday night. Robert E. Casey, commander of the first district, anticipates that the event will be one of the Legion's biggest, for the twenty-two posts in the district have arranged a program of entertainment that will bring headliners from leading Chicago theaters, the Kiltie band and Bell post's drum and bugle corps. A May queen will be honored, and "a wonderful time" is promised to all who attend.

Civil Service post No. 678 has planned an extra program for its regular meeting to be held at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night at the K. C. club rooms, 165 West Madison street.

The American Legion office, 160 North La Salle street, is trying to locate the relatives of Clarence H. Williams, a veteran who died at the Soldiers' hospital at Elgin last Nov. 27. His wife, Mrs. Addie Williams, 5198 South State street, died last Aug. 14. There is now payable to the estate of the soldier proceeds of adjusted compensation, and in order to secure the appointment of an administrator, it is necessary to reach some member of the family, so that a proper petition can be prepared.

Information has been received that there is a sister living in Indiana, no address given. Any one being able to supply any information in this case is asked to call the American Legion. Telephone Central 2183.

Lorado Taft will be the speaker tomorrow noon at the meeting of Advertising Men's post, No. 38, at the Hotel Sherman. The famous sculptor will take for his topic "War Memorials." Following the talk Polly Walker of "Billie" fame will appear on the program.

Faulkner School to Give Benefit Play Saturday

The annual play given by students of the Faulkner school, 1376 East 69th street, for the benefit of Fellowship house, will be given Saturday afternoon in the gymnasium of the school.

ORDER LAYING OF NEW SURFACE ON WINNECONNA

A definite decision to start paving of Winneconna parkway south was reached at a meeting of the East Auburn Park Improvement association held last Tuesday. Thus two of the twenty blocks in the district, for resurfacing of which the organization has busied itself three months, will be cared for. The work of resurfacing the parkway will begin within six weeks.

Committees of three members each were appointed by Dr. Frank Douglass, president of the association, to canvass the remaining streets in the district, including Normal, Eggleston, and Fielding avenues and 77th and 78th streets, to determine whether the residents are willing to put up the necessary cash to pay for the resurfacing. It is proposed to have all the work done by the city department of public works.

Estimates of the various types of resurfacing previously submitted to the association by the department of public works ranged from $5 to $1.85 a front foot. The latter, a penetrated macadam, will be used on all the streets paved.

LINDBLOM HIGH PAPER ADJUDGED BEST IN ILLINOIS

The Lindblom High School Weekly was chosen the best school newspaper at the annual convention of the Illinois High School Press association held recently at Galesburg.

Other prizes won by the school were: second for the best news story; second place for the year's best editorial; and third place for the best sports story written during the year. The news story which won the award was an article written by Miss Frances Parks, on a speech made by Coach Alonzo A. Stagg of the University of Chicago, April 11 at a school assembly.

The school was represented at the convention by Miss Helen M. Reuhl, editor in chief, and Chester E. Wojdygo, sports editor.

Others on the executive board of the paper are: Joseph A. Pask, assistant editor in chief; Miss Elaine Van Scoy, news editor; Miss Eleanor Saladin, editorial writer; Miss Joan Slowiak, social editor; William L. Simpson, art editor, and Len D. Hinchcliff, business manager. C. A. Hollister is the faculty advisor and B. Garbow is the business advisor.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Last Sunday the winning pictures in THE TRIBUNE spring picture contest for amateur photographers of the south side were printed in the north side Metropolitan section, while the south side sections showed the prize winners of the north side.

In a recent article concerning the Drama league contest for amateurs to be held this week THE TRIBUNE stated that Miss Alice Gerstenberg would direct the play "The High Heart," which has been entered in the contest by the Playwrights' theater. Although Miss Gerstenberg is an active member of this organization it is Mrs. Janet Burroughs who directs this play.

Barton P.-T. A. to Give May Party on Thursday

Members of the Barton Parent-Teacher association are giving a May party next Thursday in the school auditorium, 79th and Lincoln streets. There will be games, community singing and prize contests. Mrs. Anne Wallentin, 7655 Hermitage avenue, is chairman of the committee making arrangements for the party.

MINSTREL SHOW GIVEN BY WOMEN OF CLEARING CLUB

A sure-nuff minstrel show, with black faces, songs, wise cracks, and everything, was given Monday and Tuesday nights at the Clearing town hall, 5636 West 63d street, by members of the Clearing Women's club.

The production was directed by Mrs. Frank M. West, 6200 South Menard avenue, president of the club, and Mrs. Robert Windsor. End men were impersonated by Mrs. Wayne Cole, Mrs. Ira Jackson, Mrs. William Gilmore, and Mrs. Grayson Barney, and Mrs. Windsor was the interpolator.

The chorus included the following: Mrs. Thomas Lynn, Mrs. Campbell Smith, Mrs. Frank Hinesh, Mrs. Amelia Hinesh, Mrs. George Holmes, Mrs. William Hawk, Mrs. Ralph Henderson, Mrs. Walter Addie, Mrs. August Wangerow, Miss Frances Baird, Miss Helen Dykema, Mrs. Dick Adelan, Mrs. Thomas Riley, Mrs. Robert Neal, Mrs. Alfred Silton, Mrs. Harry West, Mrs. James Hamilton, and Mrs. Fred Russell. Mrs. Merton Morrow was the accompanist.

Morgan Park Girls Adopt White for Commencement

The Botany club of Morgan Park High school was in charge of the assembly hour held at the school the Friday before school closed for the spring vacation. At the request of members of the club, Mrs. Robert White spoke to the students on "The Legend of Flowers." While the majority of students attended the assembly program, a girls' senior class meeting was also in progress to discuss the type of dresses to be worn for commencement. The decision of the class was that all girls would wear long sleeved white dresses or ensembles. Miss Lillian Condet, dean of girls, was in charge of the meeting.

Mother's Day Program to Be Held by Hyde Park P.-T.

The Hyde Park High School Parent-Teacher association will close its club year with a Mother's day program at 2:45 o'clock next Thursday at the school, 62d street and Stony Island avenue. Annual reports will be given by the officers and the a cappella chorus will sing. Mrs. M. H. Lieber will talk on "Our Responsibilities to the Changing World."

FATHERS' NIGHT TO BE OBSERVED AT CALUMET HIGH

Fathers' night at Calumet High school will be held Thursday evening at the high school building. It is being sponsored by the Rooters' club of the school, the "C" men and the Fathers' club. Chairmen of the committees in charge are Dan Cummings, C. R. C., president, and Tom McNamara, president of the "C" men.

O. E. Northrup, the newly elected alderman of the 19th ward, will be the speaker of the evening, and accompanying him on the program will be Kenneth Rouse, captain and center of the football team of the University of Chicago two years ago. Max Fenneman and John E. McNamara of the Fathers' club, and Howard Bechtolt of the school faculty.

Doors of the school will be opened at 7 o'clock and until 8 o'clock visitors will be shown about the building and the gymnasium, swimming pool, shops and class rooms will all be open for inspection. The reception committee of the Rooters' club, aided by a number of R. O. T. C. cadets, will act as guides.

Y. M. C. A. Music Festival

The 111th Street Y. M. C. A. orchestra will defend its title next Thursday against 200 other groups in the annual state Y. M. C. A. music festival, which will be held in Bryn Mawr school, 7200 Jeffery avenue.

STREET PROTEST MEETING CALLED FOR 15TH WARD

Money Sought for Repair of Thoroughfares.

Residents of the 15th ward will have an opportunity to voice their protests against the condition of the streets in the community at a mass-meeting to be held within two weeks under the auspices of the Southwest district association, James J. Condon, president, announced yesterday.

The ward has been apportioned $85,000 from the 1929 wheel tax fund, an increase of $13,000 over last year's allotment, but this money, Mr. Condon pointed out, can only be used to repair streets which are less than 15 per cent deteriorated.

Can't Use Money.

Since the majority of the streets in the ward are more than 15 per cent in disrepair, Mr. Condon said the $85,000 would not aid in the fight for better highways. Money must be sought from some other source.

With this in mind, a committee from the association will meet with Michael Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, and Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, to discuss a more economical method of repairing streets than now used.

This discussion will take place before the massmeeting is held, so that the committee will be able to give the residents of the ward a report of this conference.

Demonstration Being Given.

Residents of the 15th ward this week are watching Hoyne street, between 111th and 112th streets, where a practical demonstration of the Wolfe plan of street repair was started Wednesday.

Under the commissioner's plan a worn out street is resurfaced with one and one-half inches of asphalt, with the old pavement used as a base.

19TH WARD TOPS CITY IN BIRTHS DURING JANUARY

More babies per capita were born in the Nineteenth ward in January than any other south side ward, according to figures compiled last week by officials of the health department. There were 110 new residents of that ward recorded during the first month this year, or 14.59 per 10,000 population.

The Fifteenth ward, which ranked first in the entire city in the number of births in 1928, was second last January with 118 visits of the stork, or 13.53 visits per 10,000. The Twelfth ward was third with 85 births and a rate of 12.77.

Last as usual was the First ward with only 28 births for a rate of 4.23; next to last was the Sixth ward with 31 babies for a rate of 4.32 per 10,000, and third from the bottom was the Second ward with 46 births or 5.76 per 10,000.

The number of births in other south side wards was as follows, according to their respective rates: Eighteenth, 8; Tenth, 69; Sixteenth, 56; Eighth, 8; Seventh, 102; Ninth, 66; Seventeenth, 48; Eleventh, 47; Third, 69; Fourteenth, 50; Thirteenth, 43; Fifth, 67; Fourth, 50.

Diplomas Given Members of Sawyer Dramatic Club

Members of the Sawyer Avenue Community Center Dramatic club, who attended every meeting of the organization, received diplomas last week at the closing session of the group. Those who received the honors were: Miss Bertha M. Lexon and Miss Mildred B. Lexon, 5004 Turner avenue; Miss Rose Fihe, 5155 South Keeler avenue; Miss Helen Patejid, 3047 West 51st street; Miss Helen A. Fischnar, 3051 West 51st street; Miss Alice M. Stevens, 5007 South Sawyer avenue; Miss Wanda M. Gagen, 5337 South Spaulding avenue; Miss Muriel Davis, 5417 South Spaulding avenue; Miss Victoria Kasper, 5124 Homan avenue, and Miss Irene Karns, 5238 South Troy street.

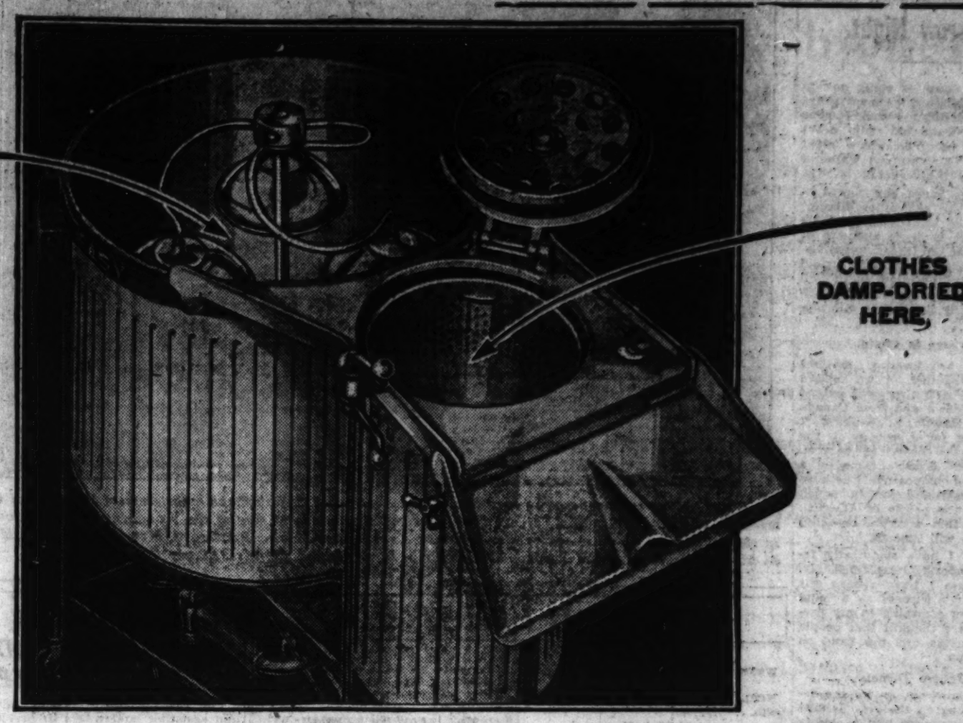
Why the EASY Damp-Dryer is replacing the wringer!



Women everywhere are instantly impressed by the safety and labor-saving features of the EASY Damp-Dryer. It damp-dries one batch of clothes at the same time another batch is being washed in the washing compartment.

Thousands are turning to this modern method of washing—to the no-wringer EASY, which is safer—faster—easier and gentler than the old-fashioned, obsolete wringer-type machine.

The EASY Damp-Dryer is an enclosed metal container which, instead of crushing the water out, whirls it out by centrifugal action.

Merely transfer the clothes from the washing compartment to the Damp-Dryer, drop the top into place and push a lever.

No more broken buttons

The clothes are damp-dried ready for sun-drying in less than two minutes. The whole tubful! And so thoroughly and evenly damp-dried, that in bad weather they can be line-dried indoors and ironed the same day.

Nor need they be handled further for rinsing. Leave them in the Damp-Dryer, pour in the rinse water, push the lever. The Damp-Dryer does the rest.

No broken buttons or fasteners. No torn, worn fabrics. No deep, hard-to-iron-out creases. This better process injures nothing yet damp-dries everything, even to blankets, pillows, sweaters, overalls and other bulky pieces which will not go through a wringer.

EASY washes 10 pounds of clothes at a time as compared with the 6-pound average capacity of other type washers.

The gas heater under the tub is an extra convenience that keeps the water hot. When through, the EASY pumps itself dry into the drain or sink.

No more torn clothes

There are still EASY Washers with wringers. EASY wringers have every known safeguard. But no wringer-type washer—even our own—can compare with the no-wringer EASY. A demonstration will prove it.

SOUSA FALLS AT LAST FOR THE LURE OF RADIO

Famous Band Goes on Air Tomorrow Night.

John Philip Sousa is going on the air. After holding out for seven years against broadcasting his world-famous band, he will make his radio debut in the family party tomorrow night from W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel.

Although Mr. Sousa has played to more people than any other director in the history of band music, appearing once before a single audience of 153,000 people at the International Exposition in Glasgow, America's grand old march king tomorrow night will probably have one of the biggest audiences which ever listened to one musical offering.

39 Stations in Chain.

Thirty-nine broadcasting stations will be linked together for Mr. Sousa's radio premiere and they will extend from coast to coast and from Canada to the gulf. Practically speaking, it will be possible for everybody in the United States to hear the concert. Because of Mr. Sousa's fame as a bandmaster and composer and because of the universal affection in which he is held by the people of America, it is expected that a record breaking radio audience will tune in.

"Until now I have steadfastly refused to broadcast," explained Mr. Sousa, "because I have always felt that part of my success as a band leader has been somthing in my personality. I have thought that people wanted to see me and my band as well as hear us.

Can't Ignore Demand.

"I cannot, however, ignore the demand to hear us on the air. I have received at least 10,000 letters asking me to broadcast. I have, therefore, finally concluded that the people want to hear us and that it would be foolish to fail to utilize this great, modern invention which makes it posible for millions instead of a few thousand to listen to a concert. I am happy in the decision and am looking forward with enthusiasm to what I believe will be another thrilling adventure."

Many of the country's favorite selections composed by the famous former leader of the Marine band will be played Monday evening, including his ever popular "Stars and Stripes Forever," "El Capitan," etc.

RADIO TO CARRY HOOVER'S VOICE MEMORIAL DAY

President Hoover's Memorial day message will be broadcast to the entire nation as he speaks at the Arlington amphitheater beside the tomb of the unknown soldier of the world war.

The entire proceedings of the solemn memorial service by the Grand Army of the Republic in the historic Virginia bowl will be heard through the combined networks of the N. B. C. from 3 to 5 p. m. Chicago time, on Memorial day, May 30.

With President Hoover as principal speaker the ceremonies will include the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address by Capt. John M. Kline, selections by the U. S. marine band, talks by Senator Porter H. Dale of Vermont, and Dr. Thomas E. Green of the Loyal Legion, presentation of colors, and the reading of Gen. Logan's order establishing Memorial day.

"There Is No Death," the song traditionally associated with Memorial services in towns and hamlets throughout the nation will be sung by Jeanett McCaffrey, accompanied by the marine band. Hosea B. Moulton, past commander of the G. A. R. will preside.

HIGH SCHOOLS PREPARING FOR ART EXHIBITION

For the first time in twelve years there will be an exhibit of the art work of Chicago high school and college students. The Art institute has been cooperating with the board of education, with the result that the exhibition will be held in the institute from May 24 to June 5. Those in charge of the exhibit hope to make it an annual affair.

Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of schools, and Miss Johanna Doniat, art instructor at Senn High school, are head of the committee sponsoring the exhibit.

North side art teachers who are planning to display the work of their pupils are: Miss Doniat, Miss Frances Beem, Miss Nell Devine, Miss Gertrude Hatch, and Miss Vivian McWhinnie of Senn; Miss Margaret McPherson, Miss Mable McCreedy, Miss Julia O'Brien, and Miss Elinor Roes of Roosevelt; Stacy Philbrick, Miss Caroline Pierce, and Miss Esther Roeth of Lake View, and Royal Jurgensen of Lane Technical.

Temple Sholom Sisterhood Names Officers Tomorrow

At the annual meeting of the Temple Sholom Sisterhood, to be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the Belden-Stratford hotel, 2300 Lincoln Park west, officers will be elected and installed. Mrs. Isadore Kaplan will present a program of songs. Mrs. S. Weil, 945 Edgecomb place, is president of the organiaztion.

NORTH CENTER LANDLORD BODY IS ORGANIZED

For the purpose of giving advice and assisting landowners in problems concerning leases, collections, taxes, assessments, and warrants, the North-center Landlords' association has been organized. The association will be made up of property owners in the north center district, who upon the payment of a small annual membership fee will receive advice and service free of charge.

The association will be managed by M. M. Ball and S. W. Hollander and offices have been established at 2010 Irving Park boulevard. Mr. Ball is a member of the Northcenter Lions' club and was formerly associated with the Lake View Landlords' association.

A membership drive will be the first effort, they said. By increasing the membership the principals and scope of the association will be furthered, they added.

RADIO AIDS CITY AND FARM LEARN EACH'S PROBLEMS

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Bringing the same information and entertainment to farm and city dweller alike, radio has won recognition as a powerful factor in spanning the gulf which divided the farmer and the townsman.

Broadcasting has been very effective in promoting better understanding and coöperation between the city and the country on questions of political and ecomonic interest, according to O. M. Kile, agricultural economist.

"It has been a lamentable fact that the city has had a poor understanding of the country and the country a poor understanding of the city," Mr. Kile said. "This has led to many complications in a legislative way and otherwise which I think the radio has been quite instrumental in straightening out.

"One of the reasons for this is that agricultural speakers have tried to present their views in a broad way with the result that the city listeners cannot help hearing interesting facts about farm life and its problems. On the other hand, the viewpoints of the city are presented in an intimate way by the radio to the people of the country."

The director of a radio station that specializes in farm broadcasts says that radio is so important to the farmer that "agriculture should have not only one clear channel but possibly a dozen clear channels to carry on the necessary work in that field."

H. L. will discard the mask of Wagner for that of Conrad. He has a rousing sea story ready for tonight. Curtain: 10:15.

Jean Goldkette

Way out in front in the race for supremacy in dance music is Jean Goldkette. Not satisfied with the most esoteric of arrangements; not satisfied with the largest of radio dance bands, he employs his genius for selecting the best musicians to the fullest. Each of his men knows the "feel" of the New Music. Bill Herring, master of the trombone, paints that warm purple background for the melodies of Goldkette, reminding one of the backgrounds of Rembrandt. Paul Mertz is the pianist. Bright, cool, moonbeam-like chords cause conversation to hesitate before the loud speaker. Jean Goldkette: 10:05, 10:45, 11:35.

RADIO WILL AID IN OBSERVANCE OF MUSIC WEEK

Many American Works to Be Broadcast.

Native American music and classical works of all nations will receive fresh impetus in America when radio plays a leading rôle in this year's observance of National Music Week which begins today and runs until Saturday. Nation-wide networks of the National Broadcasting company will feature throughout the week special presentations emphasizing works of American composers, and displaying musical masterpieces in new settings for the further edification of potential music-lovers in the United States.

The week-long campaign of the National Music Week committee to gain new converts to the cause of great music will have the full support of radio's far-reaching networks, and the radio will honor the occasion with elaborate features calculated to eclipse all previous ventures of a kindred nature.

First Concert Tonight.

Radio will sound the signal which officially opens National Music Week tonight when a whole constellation of operatic, concert and radio stars participate in a gala broadcast of the Atwater Kent concert.

To be heard in the Music Week inaugural through NBC associate stations including W-G-N, the Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, are Maria Kurenko, soprano; Nina Morgana, soprano; Louise Homer, contralto; Tascha Seidel, violinist; Kathryn Meisle, contralto; Arthur Hackett, tenor; Reinald Werrenrath, baritone; Allan McQuhae, tenor; William Simmons, baritone; Agnes Davis and Hazel Arth, soprano prize-winners of national Atwater Kent auditions; a male quartet and a full symphony orchestra under the direction of Josef Pasternack.

On Monday night, Victor Herbert's Indian opera "Natoma" will be broadcast by the National Grand Opera company with an all-American cast, while on Tuesday the famous Flonzaley Quartet will be on the air playing Dvorak's "American String Quartet" or a similar work by some American composer. Nicholas Longworth is scheduled to speak in the same program.

American Princess to Sing.

A real American princess who is also a vocal artist will be heard Thursday night, when Princess Atalie and Chief White Horn feature music of the American Indian as the program of the National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau. Geoffrey O'Hara, modern composer and songwriter, will officiate as master of ceremonies.

Deems Taylor's musical setting for the famous ballad of Alfred Noyes, "The Highwayman," will be presented Saturday night, and Walter Damrosch will open his symphony concert with an American composer's work, "Virginia" by Robert Braine.

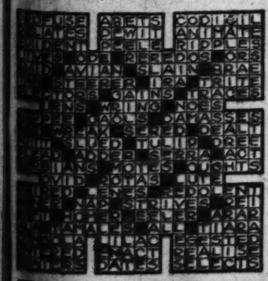
"Songs of Our American Colleges" and a 19-piece brass band will rival campus serenades of universities and colleges throughout the country on Saturday night, and the weekly Hymn Sing Thursday, will feature exclusively religious songs by American hymn-composers.

London Hears Germany Is Using Radio Heating

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON.—News reaches London to the effect that heating by wireless is already an established fact in Germany, where experimental installations are operating successfully. The longer details of a system that is still apparently being kept in the dark state that strong waves two or three meters long are used to excite filaments enclosed in vacuum tubes, which thus become electric radiators.

Cross Word Answer



Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

Often we have wished that radio had been with us back on the Fourth of July, 1910, for the broadcasting of the famous Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson championship fight at Reno, Nev. Jeffries, you will recall, had retired from the ring undefeated heavyweight boxing champion of the world. Out from the scrambling mob of claimants there rose a dominating figure, Jack Johnson, the colored boxer of Chicago, who was heralded by some as the new champion. So, after six years of leisure, Jim Jeffries was called from his retirement. Imagine you are listening to the radio on that eventful holiday:

ANNOUNCER—Ladies and gentlemen, this is W-G-N, broadcasting from the fight arena at Reno, Nev. Well, it's come at last, the most important Fourth of July since 1776, and again we're broadcasting a championship prize fight from the state of Nevada, which Billy Muldoon this afternoon called the last free state in the Union.

Can you hear that mob? There are 15,000 souls crowded into this great unpainted and crude wooden arena, and baking under a scorching sun. Fifteen thousand men have trooped across the continent and streamed in from the Pacific coast in private cars and sidedoor Pullmans, through the stifling heat and a smother of dust, through the bleak, powder dry sagebrush hills into this smiling valley where Reno nestles. See, there, the mountains look cool, but O, how hot it is in this big saucer!

In a minute or two the most talked of fight in history will commence between the colored man and the white son of a California minister. The sentiment among the bettors, as you know, favors Jeffries at 10 to 6.

The mill was scheduled to start at 1:30, and it is now an hour late, due to the parade of the celebrities, the taking of three sets of motion pictures, and because the crowd was slow in coming through the narrow entrances. Billy Muldoon showed his theatrical instinct by introducing "Tex" Rickard, whose gameness and persistency brought this all about, and who in addition to being the promoter will also referee the fight. Billy called for three cheers for the man who has breasted a deluge of hysterical opposition and cleared obstacles that would defeat a man not possessed of a nerve of iron and a heart of gold. Then followed what may pass into history as the last roll call of the has-beens, the prize ring idols of other days. [GONG!]

There's the gong, and the seconds, and handlers and rubbers fling themselves from their corners. The fight of the century is on!

Jack and Jim are both advancing slowly to the center of the ring. The big colored boy is grinning widely, and we can see those two fine rows of ivories. Wonder if he'll be missing any when the day's done. Jeff's grinning too. They didn't shake hands. Here they go! Jeff made a bluff with his left for a lead, but Johnson side stepped him. They certainly are cautious! Johnson feints, looking for an opening. Jeff does the same. Won't be anything doing this round! Each of them is trying to see what the other one's got. Johnson led a short left, and he barely touched Jeff's mouth, and now they're clinching in a big friendly way like two bears. Break! Lots of jabs, now, but they don't mean anything. They're standing up there now, trying for short inside blows. Both men are guarding well. Clinch again! Come on, break it up, Tex! Huh! As they broke that time Jeff sent one at Jack's neck, and Jack stepped in, but he missed a short jab. Clinch again! Jack lands a left, but with no effect. [GONG!]

Well, there's the end of the first round! Pretty tame beginning for the battle of battles, this Armageddon the promoters and sports writers having been promising us. There wasn't anything done in that round to convince us that a fight is going on. Both men look in the cream of condition, and Jeff let loose a great big wink when he came to his corner. Now they're seated in their corners, and Jim Corbett is bending over Jeffries whispering in his ear. Wonder what he's telling him? Jeffries' seconds have a great big sunshade that they're holding over the big fellow to keep the sun off his back and head. Jack over there is laughing and grinning. [GONG!]

Round two! Come on, now, let's go! The colored boy's got rid of that grin in a hurry and he's come up to scratch looking mighty serious, Jeff crouches down on his haunches. Huuuhhh! Hah! Hah! Hah! Jeff tried to sneak a left over, but Johnson blocked it and they're both grinning and laughing like a pair of kids. Upp! There's a sock! Jack slapped one on Jeff's jaw, a nice punch that he brought up from his waist, but it didn't seem to hurt. There! Jeff tries a pair of lefts, but Jack's got his guard in the right spot. Now they're trying little short arm jabs. Come on—come on! What a fight! What a fight! Jeff snapped a left to Johnson's stomach, but he got a left on the face in return. There's a little clinch, and now they're away again. Come on, Jeff, bore in! Jeff is crouching in the middle of the ring. Jack won't come in. They're shuffling up now, and—there! Jack missed an uppercut that time! Clinch! Come on; let's fight!

(Interlude—The voice of our announcer and the roars of the excited thousands fade for a time, but the fight goes on. Into the eighth round, into the ninth, into the tenth, with the giant colored man growing stronger and more confident with each passing moment. The undefeated champion is beginning to feel the sting of defeat for the first time. Is this the proud fighting machine that a few years ago mowed down the marvelous Bob Fitzsimmons and whipped Jim Corbett, this great thewed white man whose body is slowly crumbling before blow after blow? Is this Jim Jeffries, the invulnerable, going down to defeat? The crowd sits there watching, tense, anxious.

Into the eleventh, into the twelfth round. Jeffries is faltering; he cannot go much longer. Or can he win with that same sledge hammer punch that licked Fitzsimmons when all hope seemed lost? Does that hairy body still shield the same youthful vigor that sent challenger after challenger into the dust of defeat? Into the thirteenth round?) [GONG!]

Round thirteen! There comes Jeff driving in again. He's got his right arm up over his face and he is driving in on Johnson. He walked right into a clinch. Come on, Tex! Break 'em apart! Ooohh! Huuuhhh! when they broke that time, Johnson hurled a left at Jeff's body, drove in a right uppercut that made the Californian's head wobble. Now Johnson's tearing into him! Johnson drove another pair of lefts to Jeff's face and dazed the big boy with a nasty uppercut, a right-hander. It had lots of steam behind it. Jeff looks a little groggy. There he goes! Johnson put his right hand on Jeff's shoulder and sent home three smashing lefts and—Wow!—There's another one. Jack got him on the chin with another uppercut. Jeff's all in, now. He can't even move around! These rapid fire blows are leaving him dazed! He's standing there now, Jack is driving home punch after punch, waiting for the final opening! O, Jeff is game all right! He's taking them all, and he's still on his feet! Now they've gone into a clinch! Wow! Biff! What a load of punches Jeff is taking now. His eyes are almost closed! They're clinching again! It looks like it's almost over! Jeff can't go much further now. (GONG!)

No question about it, now. It's Johnson's fight sooner or later, unless Jeff manages to sneak in a lucky punch. The crowd, scenting the kill, is growing restless for the knockout. Jeff isn't the man we saw beat Bob Fitzsimmons years ago. He should never have come out of his retirement. The old punch is all gone, and it is only his wonderful gameness that is keeping him in the fight. He can't get through Jack Johnson's defense; the colored man is probably the most wonderful defensive fighter our boxing rings have ever seen. He's gone through thirteen gruelling rounds with Jeff and there's hardly a mark on him He's——(GONG!)

Round fourteen! Wow! Look at that! Jeff walked straight into a left. They're clinching now! Come on, break 'em up! Jack tapped the big fellow twice on the face with his left. Jeff has his head down like a mad bull and is trying to bore in, but Johnson's wonderful defense is right there! Break 'em up! Biff! Jeff tried to bore in again, and the big black man drove three straight lefts at his face. Ummphhh! There's another left to the face! Jeff can't do a thing! Every punch he plans is knocked off by Johnson, who continues to drive straight lefts to Jeff's bleeding face and those swollen eyes. They clinch again! Jeff hanging on! Will he last out the round? Break away! Look out! Oooohh! Jeff caught three more lefts on that bleeding cheek of his. Jack tosses those lefts out like baseballs. Jeffries is hanging on again. "They don't hurt!" he hollers at Johnson! Clinch again! Break! (GONG!)

It looks worse for Jeff every minute. He can't stand the pace much longer. He can't hit Johnson, and the colored fighter is hitting him almost at will. A question of time, that's all it is now! And Oh! how hot this sun is! Those seconds of Jeff's are working feverishly over him, but I'm afraid they can't do much for him anymore. It may come in the next round! Jack is puffing and blowing, but he's still comparatively fresh. Jeff's taken everything he's got to give and he's still on his feet, but the better condition of Johnson is going to tell in the end. Now—[GONG!]

to catch him. He's getting wobbly, and he can't see the big fellow any more! His face is all puffed and bleeding from the lashing he's received. Johnson's standing still, now, and waiting—waiting. Now Jeff comes in and—OH! OH! Jack sent another brace of lefts straight to Jeff's face, and the blood spurts out afresh! Jeff's getting groggy, but he's game! He's reeling into a clinch, and tries to land a left on the body! They're breaking away—oh! oh!—As they split, Jack, quick as a flash sent another crushing left and an awful right straight for Jeff's jaw. The Californian's head snapped back like his neck is broken. He's staggering to the ropes! HE CAN'T DEFEND HIMSELF. Johnson's tearing in like a tiger now, and ranging blows on the big boy and Jeff stares dazedly at the figure in front of him! It's almost over! It's coming! Jeff is reeling about along the ropes! Only the gameness of him is holding him up! Jack is watching him like a cat and driving in right—left—right-left—right. Jeff is down! Jeffries in on the mat. He's on the canvas for the first time in his life. He's hanging onto the ropes! He's dazed! Jim Jeffries is being counted out! Four—five—six—seven—eight—No, the big fellow is getting back on his feet!

That's Jeffries, the gamest fellow that ever entered a ring! But he can't go on! STOP IT TEX, STOP IT! Johnson's in again with another volley of blows. Jeff is trying to clinch, but Johnson steps back and comes in again with more left and rights. Jeff is swaying all over the ring. There it is! Two rights on the jaw! Jeff is on his knees! He's all in! Stop it, Tex, stop it! Five—six—seven—eight—nine—Jeff's on his feet again—but Johnson's there waiting for him. Left—right—left on the chin. Jeff is down again for the third time! He's sprawled over the ropes half outside the ring! Jeff! Jeff! Jeff! Three—four—five—six—seven. It's all over!

Check these features against higher priced Radios

IT IS a remarkable truth, that to gain a true picture of Steinite value, you must compare the Steinite against radios of much higher price. There are features of such outstanding importance in each Steinite model, that it is automatically placed in competition with receivers far beyond its price range. Cabinets of new style and beauty, performance that is nothing short of thrilling and a tone of amazing fullness and charm, combine to make Steinite the supreme sensation of radio. Now, at low cost, thousands may have a finer radio. Ask your nearest Steinite dealer for a demonstration—and make a thorough check of Steinite features against any other radio you may have considered. Your choice will be—Steinite! Steinite Radio Company, 506 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

CREDIT CALUMET, I. C., AND U. OF C. TO S. A. DOUGLAS

Chamber Calls Him First South Side Booster.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

Best known in history because of his debates with Lincoln, Stephen A. Douglas' important part in the early history of the south side is not overlooked by the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce in realizing that it was "The Little Giant" who donated the first site for the University of Chicago, early placed his faith in south side real estate, was instrumental in the building of the Illinois Central railroad, and predicted that the Calumet area would become a great industrial center.

Appearing recently before the state legislature at Springfield, as one of the proponents of a harbor at Lake Calumet, H. H. Haylett, managing vice president of the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce, recalled the words of Mr. Douglas, spoken at a time when the barren section was facetiously called "the frog pond of Mr. Douglas":

"Young men, I have heard you from time to time characterize this property of mine in and about Calumet as a frog pond. I make this prophecy, that although I may not live to see the day, many of you will; when that which you call my frog pond will be one of the greatest manufacturing centers in the whole United States and will also be part of the great city of Chicago."

Monument Taxes Delinquent.

The passing of years and the rush of progress may have caused many south siders to lose sight of the prominent rôle played by Douglas in the section's early days. The monument erected to his memory at Thirty-fifth street and the lake was, in recent years, threatened with sale for taxes.

"It was Stephen A. Douglas," we are reminded in an issue of the publication of the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce, "who donated the site for the first University of Chicago in 1857, thirty-five years before the existing one was established.

"At the time Douglas made the preliminary contract he was serving his second term as United States senator from Illinois. When he deeded this land to the university, he did so with the restriction that the trustees would raise $100,000 for the building. They experienced much difficulty and afterward Douglas deeded the land outright free of stipulations.

University Closed After 30 Years.

"The corner stone of the university was laid July 4, 1865, with Douglas present. However, it was short-lived. There was a constant increase of debt, and Chicago's first university closed its doors and ended its existence in 1886, thirty years after the 'Little Giant' had made his first agreement to donate the site.

"It was in 1849 that the name of Stephen A. Douglas first appeared in the Chicago directory. He purchased a tract of about eighty acres fronting on Lake Michigan, lying south of the city limits of that date, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fifth streets, extending west to, or near Michigan avenue.

"In 1856 he built a home at 34 East 35th street, known as the Douglas homestead. Douglas called the spot 'Oakenwald.' Here it was that he formulated his plan for the famous debates with Lincoln. In 1907 the house was said to be too old for any use and was torn down.

"Douglas had faith in the development of the south side, and time came when he owned outright thirty or forty pieces of real estate, to say nothing of thousands of acres on which he held contracts. No man of his time had larger views as to the future of Chicago."

First to Foresee Busy Calumet.

"It was said that when he was general counsel for the Illinois Central railroad he acquired from that company large holdings in the Calumet region and it would now seem that he was the first man to foresee the great industrial development of the region which today is called the 'workshop of the world.'

"In those days this land was barren of building, barren of possibilities from the average lay viewpoint, a large measure of it being marshland and facetiously called by Illinois Central employés 'the frog pond of Mr. Douglas.'

"Stephen A. Douglas was the principal factor in making the early building of the Illinois Central railroad possible. It was while he served in the senate that he saw the possibilities of a great intersectional line of railroad from Chicago to Mobile. He believed it would help the north and south to become acquainted. He united representatives from both sections in an effort to secure from congress large land grants to encourage the building of such a line."

"The building of the Illinois Central railroad," says the article, in conclusion," was one of the chief agencies in the rapid development of the state and the city of Chicago, and it is to Douglas much credit is due for the legislation which made it possible for this road to be built."

TO PRESENT OUR 1929
MASTERPIECE
SCARSDALE
LAUDERMILK'S
ANSWER TO HOW IS BUSINESS?
SCARSDALE
is a tremendous new superdevelopment which is bigger and better than our last year's sensation, Stonegate.
Scarsdale will be supported by a gigantic advertising campaign and a building program greater than any like development in the history of Chicago's growth.
Sales managers, salesmen and beginners, with or without experience, to work full or part time. Any one of good character who is seriously interested in a permanent connection will find in the opening of Scarsdale a real opportunity for large earnings. We already have a fine organization, one of the largest; our people are happy and are making money because they are offering the great Chicago public the kind of property they want. That is proven by the fact that our volume of business and the size of our organization have grown steadily and consistently.
MEN AND WOMEN
JOIN THE Laudermilk
Leaders!
The year 1929 will be our banner year—much bigger than 1928, our previous record-breaker. Words cannot fully describe the unusual and fine points of Scarsdale—our 1929 community development. It cannot be compared to any other development because never before has a piece of property like this been offered to the Chicago public. Yes! We appreciate the broadness of that statement AND CAN PROVE ITS TRUTH.
Realization
We do not expect our salesmen to be promoters, and we do not expect you to waste your time and money trying to exploit some IDEA, SCHEME OR PLAN that is only in the making, but on the contrary we supply you with the finished product.
Salesmen who are anxious for success are concerned in the STABILITY OF THE COMPANY, the MARKETABILITY OF THE PROPERTIES, and want to know what effort is being made to remove the PRESENT DAY SALES RESISTANCE. We can satisfy you above all expectations on these points.
Here you will find opportunities that are permanent. You will find a sales campaign that is carefully planned, an organization that is doing business and co-operation that produces immediate results for the experienced salesman and assures success for the beginner.
Call at our general office Monday, 10:30 a. m. to 9:00 p. m., and learn the amazing facts concerning the immediate possibilities of joining Chicago's largest organization operating Northwest.

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY for High Class Salesman.

The opportunities for advancement are greater than they are with most companies and because of this unusual opportunity the qualifications for the position are exacting. A man should measure up to the following specifications: age 25-35; university education and refinement, and having had sufficient sales experience to prove he possesses sales talent. Apply by letter only, giving full qualifications.

SALESWOMEN TO ASSIST EXECUTIVE.
STRAIGHT SALARY.

An executive in the publicity dept. of a large Chicago concern requires the services of a few intelligent, refined ladies, accustomed to meeting a high grade public; previous business experience in real estate, bonds, or books desirable but not essential. Apply in person to MISS TREE,
Room 415, 77 W. Washington-st.

THIS IS A POSITION FOR AN AMBITIOUS WOMAN OVER 30 YRS. OF AGE.

Must be willing to work and want a permanent position; large rate of commission quickly paid; liberal expense provision made.

I represent a financially responsible firm well advertised in Chicago papers. If you have sales experience, I can start you in the field at once; no travelling. I will also consider a few women who are not experienced, and teach them our method of salesmanship and give my personal help. This is an opportunity to connect with a live, well advertised firm selling the same line for more than a quarter of a century to thousands of satisfied customers. References exchanged. This is a sound conservative selling position with a good future. APPLY TODAY, 10 A. M. TO 2 P. M. MR. F. P. NEHER, Suite 1230 Morrison hotel, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Traveling Sales Position

for well educated, unincumbered woman over 30 and with the ability to rapidly develop into a field manager; something new in the field of education. Write us about yourself. Address H 308, Tribune.

"1500 LAKE SHORE DRIVE"

The Drive's most favored section—from the Drake to the Park—can never be one foot longer. Time will only enhance the desirability of residence here. Small wonder, then, that these spacious apartments were largely taken months ago.

3 ELEVEN ROOM APARTMENTS.

There were originally 23 apartments available in the A Tier of this fine structure. We now offer three apartments—4A, 6A, and 12A—on the 4th, 6th, and 12th floors.

WINDOWS SOUTH, EAST, WEST.

The East windows give on magnificent Lake Shore Drive and the lake, the South windows on quiet Burton Place. Each apartment has 3 master baths and one servant's bath. Nothing like these individual homes is available elsewhere in Chicago today.

A few other apartments available.

100% Co-operative.

Occupancy May 1st to October 1st.

DAVIS STREET FEE.
A survey conducted by the Evanston Real Estate Board shows an increase in Davis-front foot values from $600 per ft. in 1915 to $3,000 per ft. in 1929; furthermore, that the percentage of increase in values has paralleled almost exactly the percentage of increase in population. Do you believe Evanston is still growing? If so, let us show you a fee on Davis-st. On a 100-ft. block which can be handled for $40,000 cash.

TODAY! TODAY! TODAY! STUDEBAKER SACRIFICES 142 USED CARS

AT PRICES BELOW COST

Our big new car business has given us so many used cars on "trade-ins" that we need more room. Every car has been drastically reduced in price for this clearance.

CHEVROLET COACH—This Chev. was driven so little that today it is the last word for sparkling performance and beautiful appearance. Because of business reasons the former owner told us he wanted a bigger car and that's the only reason he traded in this coach. If you examine it carefully you'll be forced to admit that it's top notch in every respect. Has 4 whl. brakes and very full equipment. Only $425.

MARMON BROUGHAM—After looking this car over, you'll be astonished to know we priced it at only $185. Has bumpers, trunk, spare tire and other equipment. Finish is a handsome sky blue. See this Marmon today.

MOON COACH—Try to duplicate this Moon any place else at anywhere near our price. It simply can't be done. Every feature is in dandy condition and the equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, trunk, spare tire, bumpers, etc. Our special price is $245.

CHRYSLER SEDAN—This Chrysler was owned by the service supt. of an out-of town Chrysler dealer. This man was given a big position by us and of course he bought a new Studebaker. He kept this Chrysler in such wonderful shape that it certainly is a remarkable buy at our price of $445.

FORD SEDAN—Late model, 4 door that we just reduced to $225 for immediate sale. Has hundreds of dollars of extra equipment. It runs like clockwork and the appearance is exceptionally fine.

DIANA SEDAN—A stock broker who recently cleaned up on the market decided he wanted 2 new Studebakers, so he traded in this Diana even though he had given it so little use that it looks and runs like new today. The tires appear unused; the upholstery is luxurious and there is not a mark on the beautiful lacquered finish. The equipment included 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, stutter front, spare tire, bumpers, etc. It's a pick up at our price of $545.

WILLYS-KNIGHT SEDAN—This late model six is priced hundreds of dollars under its market price. Formerly owned by an invalid who only used it for pleasure driving on sunny days; it's equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, heater, spare tire, etc. Finished a handsome color; the motor is not broken in—this is a sensational value at $685.

ESSEX SEDAN—This is one of the very latest Essexes that is in such new condition that the tires are not even worn smooth. A test ride will convince you of the speed of 2,500 miles. By acting quickly you can get a practically new Essex at a tremndous saving. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, shutter front, bumpers, spare tire, etc. At $545 this cannot be duplicated any place else.

REO SEDAN—If you are in the market for a new car, we certainly advise you to see this Reo. It will become to you the very last word in car satisfaction at only a fraction of the new car cost. Any mechanic will tell you the motor is exceptionally good and a close examination will convince you the appearance is smart and attractive in every respect. Has spotlight, bumpers, spare tire, and other extras. Priced at only $545.

WILLYS-KNIGHT SEDAN—This late model 6-is priced hundreds of dollars under its real market price; formerly owned by an invalid who only used it for pleasure driving on sunny days; it's equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, heater, spare tire, etc. Finished a handsome color; the motor is not broken in—this is a sensation value at $685.

DODGE SEDAN—This is probably the best Dodge value in Chicago. It's a 1927 sedan in a beautiful hue with white stripings; the mileage is very low as this car was in storage for almost a year; equipped with snubbers, bumpers, spare tire and other extras. The motor is excellent; this car will not remain long at $545.

BUICK COUPE—A recent Master 6 country club coupe with rumble seat. It only used this car to drive to the golf links early in the a.m. said the retired Elmhurst business man who formerly owned this car; has lavish equipment; 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, driving light, bumpers, spare tire, etc. The blue finish on this Buick glistens like a new dollar, and the upholstery has not a worn spot. At our price of $820 it will sell quickly.

PEERLESS SEDAN—This car looks and runs better than many new cars selling for $1,500; it is a beauty; the finish, upholstery and tires appear in the original new condition; has many extra items of equipment. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. For today only, $675.

NASH SEDAN—A famous aviator owned this car and took care of it personally; he certainly kept it in topnotch condition for today it appears like a new Nash and the tires have little mileage, and the motor has wonderful power and pep; the appearance will satisfy the most exacting buyer; has 4 whl. brakes and a wealth of extra equipment, $795.

STUDEBAKER COACH—The famous Spec. 6 that never left the Chicago blvds.; check over every detail and you will agree it's practically 100%. Has expensive upholstery and the finish is bright and shiny; equipped with snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, heater, etc.; you will make a substantial saving at our price of $485.

OAKLAND SEDAN—Here is the chance of a lifetime. A well known lawyer, in a fit of rage at another Studebaker 7 pass. car, traded in this late model Oakland at only $545. The appearance will satisfy you in every respect and the engine was checked over and found to be in dandy condition. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc.

HUPMOBILE BROUGHAM—This late model straight 8 was given to us to sell by a family leaving for Europe; they instructed us to dispose of it at a reasonable figure and apply the amount on the purchase of a new Studebaker President, which they will take on their return; in order to sell this Hup at once we priced it at only a very low figure of $795, and at this price it is a remarkable value. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, new tires, new finish, bumpers, etc. Finish is a handsome green with tan paneling; the motor is certainly in A-1 condition.

PAIGE SEDAN—If you are in the market for a late model 7 pass. you cannot find a better buy than this Paige; it's the last word for beautiful appearance and spirited performance; the former owner sold it as he was only used to drive his children to boarding school and back each day; now this car is in A-1 condition throughout; attractive upholstery that looks new; tires have little mileage; equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Special for 3644.

HUDSON BROUGHAM—Recent model with 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, shutter front, spare tire, etc. The owner of this Hudson drove it exactly 7 miles and he decided what he wanted was a 6 cyl. car; he is sacrificing this Hup at $750 as he now has an opportunity to get a practilly brand new Hudson at only $750.

REO

REO 5 PASSENGER SEDAN. Just traded by one of our best customers who owns a car that is truly exceptional in all ways. It was given the finest of care, in our own service station, by Reo factory expert and the former owner to maintain it at its highest efficiency at all times; paint is good; equipped with practically new tires, hydraulic shock absorbers, stutter front, disc wheels, cowl plates, slip covers, heater, and many other things, for $165.

REO SEDAN 5 PASSENGER. This is a very recent car. Its condition is such that it requires only a little polishing to complete adjustments or paint, and it is probably the best conditioned car in our stock today. The paint is without a scratch, upholstery shows no signs of wear, and its equipment is complete and ready to drive any distance its new owner might desire. Tires are practically new, a big trunk on the rear is included, has one piece windshield, and many other modern features. Mechanically it is in splendid condition and we feel sure you will get quickly because of this special price, $495.

REO FLYING CLOUD SPORT COUPE. With rumble seat, new tires, new beautiful black and ivory combination finish. A car that is easily distinguished from all others in any way you look at it. Has been checked mechanically and fully guaranteed. Come in and try this wonderful car. $1,165.

REO SEDAN, 5 PASS. Delivered in 1927; used very little; tires in almost new condition; has many extra items of interior and refinished only to make it perfect. Fully equipped and ready to serve you. A special at $545.

HUPMOBILE

Gambill's Blue Ribbon Used Cars

Hupmobile 1928 Cabriolet. Famous 8 of the Century. Smart 3 pass. model with rumble seat. Just traded to us on a new sedan. It has been used so little that it cannot be told from new. Snappy finish in black, with cream striping and disc wheels. The original tires almost new. The upholstery is in brown morocco leather. Has Lorraine spot, shock absorbers, and other equipment. The powerful motor just broken in. Offered at a substantial saving.

Nash Victoria Coupe. This smart 4 pass. 1928 is absolutely like new in every respect. The beautiful mohair and black finish and luxurious brown mohair interior appears unused. Disc wheels with excellent tires, spare, Lorraine spot, snubbers, bumpers and large luggage compartment in rear. The Ajax 6 motor is perfect. Real bargain at $975. Terms.

Hupmobile 1928 Cabriolet 6 of the Century. This stylish 5 pass. model finished in attractive 2 tone green that has absolute new car appearance. The beautiful mohair interior appears new. Has disc wheels with original tires. Almost perfect. The smooth, powerful motor will give new car satisfaction. Your personal inspection recommended at our very low price, $1,125.

Buick Master 6 Coupe, 1927, the desirable 5 pass. Newly finished in black with white striping; the gray mohair interior just like new. Mechanically perfect. Excellent tires, spare, snubbers, bumpers, etc. A real bargain at $875. Terms.

Hudson 1928 Brougham. The beautiful blue and black finish is bright as new; excellent brown mohair interior. Splendid tires, spare, Lorraine spot, snubbers, bumpers, etc. The 6 cyl. motor is 100%. Now only $775.

Hupmobile 8 of the Century Sedan, 1928. If you want new car appearance and performance at a saving, don't fail to see this car. Beautifully finished in black with magnificent brown silk mohair interior. Custom seat covers. The original tires almost like new. Has 6 wire wheels, 2 mounted in fender wells, spotlight, trunk rack, snubbers, bumpers, etc. One demonstration will easily prove its wonderful mechanical condition. Offered at a substantial saving.

Hupmobile 6 Brougham, 1927. One of the handsomest models built. Beautifully refinished in tan and black, the brown mohair interior appears unused. Like new tires, spare, Lorraine spot, trunk rack, snubbers, bumpers, etc. Only a demonstration will reveal its wonderful mechanical condition. A marvelously equipped, appearing and performing car for only $875.

Buick De Luxe Sedan
$985

This beautiful '28 Master 6 buick sedan is one of the most looking cars in the city having special upholstery beautifully designed rear quarter panels. Has actually been driven only 11,678 miles and performs as quietly and smoothly than when it was new. Has original Fleetstone finish and the car has a sweet running motor, perfect balloon, Lorraine hydraulic shock absorbers. Worth several hundred dollars more than the average Buick because of its low mileage and splendid care.

Cadillac Sedan

If you are in the market for a car we certainly advise you to see this Cadillac first, because it will give you a car unlike anything in a design of the new car cost. It's a 1927 7 pass. and any mechanic will tell you the motor is exceptionally good. Upon examination you will see you the appearance is smart as attractive; in fact, it looks just like a Cadillac; equipped with 4 wheel brakes, snubbers, heater, rumble, trunk rack, etc.; originally priced at $3,295 but we marked it down to $1,595 for immediate disposal; easy time payment plan. PIERCE-ARROW, 2420 S. Mich.-av.

CADILLAC—SEDAN, MODEL "314." 5 pass.; that is undoubtedly one of the best car buys today. Was given very close attention by the original owner and is in splendid condition. 4 whl. brakes, bumpers, spare tire, shutters, etc. The finish is bright and shiny and the upholstery appears new. Motor has very little mileage. Motor has been carefully checked over and today it's in splendid condition, so much so that we are willing to sell it at a sacrifice. Studebaker Lot, 1835 Ridge-av., Evanston.

Another uneven break was recorded in hog prices on the week-end session, the top closing at $11.50 and the general average at $11.10, the latter standing lowest in about eight weeks and 50c under the close of last week.

Shipping demand was practically absent and with larger local packers in a bearish mood about 5,000 hogs were still in the pens at the close. The three larger houses handled about 2,800, including 1,400 bought here at $10.85@11.00.

Average Price Declines.

The largest hog receipts in five weeks, coupled with a narrowing of shipping demand, sent the general average price down 20c at $11.30 last week, the lowest since week ending March 2. The average was $1.45 above a year ago and exactly $1.00 above the five year average. Receipts at 144,900 compared with 128,440 the previous week and 140,830 a year ago.

Weights were heavier, the week's estimate average at 243 lbs, being only one pound above the previous week, but 11 lbs heavier than a year ago. A decline of 1@2½c in fresh pork loins curtailed local demand from small local packers and butchers. Outsiders bought 17 per cent of arrivals, against 20 per cent last week and 24 per cent two weeks ago.

Although the $15.00 quotations appeared in the cattle market last week, the market as a whole was slightly below the preceding week. Less than 900 steers were listed at $14.50 and above, against about 1,200 the previous week and about 1,600 two weeks ago.

The week's general average moved down 10c at $13.65, but stands above any corresponding week since 1920. Cattle receipts at leading centers are keeping among the smallest on record. The year to date total at 20 markets stands at 3,425,000, showing a decrease of 337,090 compared with a year ago and 569,000 compared with two years ago.

Lambs at Bottom.

Drastic price pounding brought last week's general average price of aged lambs down to $15.30, lowest of the year and $1.10 below the preceding week. Prices averaged $1.95 below a year ago and 95c under two years ago. Less than two months ago lambs were averaging $1.00@1.25 above the corresponding time in 1928.

Spring lambs showed the least weakness, despite the fact that these made up the increase in receipts, which are largest since early in January. California springers sold upwards to $17.75 and genuine natives as high as $25.00. Aged wool lambs stopped at $16.65 and shorn at $15.60.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 17,000 cattle, 42,000 hogs, and 16,000 sheep, against 16,511 cattle, 61,842 hogs, and 16,012 sheep a week ago, and 14,100 cattle, 31,468 hogs, and 13,683 sheep the corresponding day a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 45,000 cattle, 130,000 hogs, and 80,000 sheep, against 43,205 cattle, 115,037 hogs, and 78,624 sheep a year ago.

People in Chicago Selling Used Cars Have Found That

DAILY and SUNDAY
THE TRIBUNE
Can Do Their
Want Ad Job Alone

DURING 1928 Chicagoans with cars for sale—both dealers and people who wanted to sell their family cars—gave the Tribune 44% of all their Want Advertising, almost twice as much as they gave the second paper.

They used the Tribune as their salesman because the Tribune reaches thousands more families than any other Chicago newspaper! In metropolitan Chicago 174,000 more people get their Tribune every day than buy any other newspaper. On Sunday the Tribune's lead is 245,000!

Using a Tribune Want Ad saves you the bother of any other sales effort. The Tribune not only finds far more of your prospective buyers than any other single paper; it reaches almost all of your good prospects—three out of five of metropolitan Chicago's families daily and three out of four on Sunday!

Daily and Sunday the Tribune can sell your car alone! Use a Tribune Want Ad—Call at
